"There are some factors in the Philippine situation that are not published in the great daily papers of the United States. This is a young man's country and must continue so for generations yet. Soldiers, clerks, government employees by the thousands have exchanged the restraints and helpful surroundings of home for the myriad snares and moral relaxation of the tropics. The human shores here are strewn with wrecks of once fair lives that have missed the channel and gone down in the storm.

"Our Central Church in Manila is the only representative of English-speaking Methodism in the Archipelago, and for hundreds of these men we are the one haven in the tempest of sin and demoralization. God has blessed our work and many have been and are being saved, but if we are to enter the great open door before us we must have a church that will afford for these homeless men a hiding place and a spiritual workshop. Our little church is doing its utmost. We are paying all our current expenses, including salary, and are doing our best to swell our building fund to where we may soon begin work, but we can't do it all. Young men have young men's incomes and living is so expensive that there is little or no margin.

"Missionary work among the natives is a great and glorious privilege, but are not our own boys worth saving, too? Many a father and mother would be sleepless to-night if they knew what their boys are doing over here. We are doing something in our little temporary chapel, but if we are to reach any part of our great work we must have a church. Then we need a good pipe organ to help draw away from the snares of this homeless country. Perhaps some one will send us one. Who knows?

"For the sake of motherless boys and homeless men, in a land of temptation with little help except what we can give them, some one may feel moved to help a little. If you know of a young man who is here, send me his name and address and I will do all I can for him.

"Brethren, pray for us. And if God moves, help us by a contribution to our building fund. Inquiries, information and contributions may be sent to the writer, George A. Miller, pastor Central M. E. Church, Manila, P. I., who will receipt for all communications.

There is the same difference between diligence and neglect that there is between a gardn properly cultivated and the sluggard's field which fell under Solomon's view, when overgrown with nettles and thorns. The one is clothed with beauty, the other is unpleasant and disgusting to the sight. Negligence is the rust of the soul, that corrodes through all her best resolutions.—Owen Feltham.

Proper pruning of young orchard trees requires an intelligent brain and a skilful hand. It is the most difficult work which confronts the nursery man, and in scarcely less degree disturbs the orchardist. To promote growth pruning must be done while the trees are dormant, before the buds swell in the spring, and on almost every species it would require that such work in this latitude should be performed as early as the 10th of April. To delay this cutting until the middle of May or first of June would diminish the growth of the tree for that season fifty per cent. Such pruning as would be done by a wild deer would soon convert apple trees into proper plants for defensive hedges by dwarfing and multiplying the number of branches, for where a twig is bitten off, the tree at once sets itself at work to recover. A period of apparent rest intervenes; dormant buds near the end of the broken branch commence swelling and then bursting into growth; not in one limb only, but two, three or more twigs are compelled to make a feeble growth instead of one long and vigorous shoot. Whether the tree recovers from its stunted growth caused by untimely pruning is doubtful. Horsemen aver that a healthy colt is much more promising of future usefulness than one that has been dwarfed by lack of proper food and care. One idea is becoming more and more self-evident; that orchards to be a source of profit must have the most thorough and intelligent treatment from the time the trees are selected and planted until harvest.—Massachusetts Correspondence Rural New Yorker.

DAIRY NOTES.

Young heifers intended for dairying cows should not be neglected or stinted in feed. From the day they are weaned from their mother's milk, to the time they come in fresh, they should have plenty of feed, plenty of exercise and plenty of handling.

Do not allow the cows to be driven faster than a comfortable walk to or from the place where they are milked. The best cows are generally the most nervous—anything that is calculated to excite them should not be allowed around the dairy. Avoid a hasty, hot-tempered milkman as you would a contagious disease in the herd.

GATEWAY SERIES OF ENGLISH TEXTS.

SCOTT'S LADY OF THE LAKE. Edited by Raymond M. Alden, Ph. D. Cloth, 16mo., 250 pages. With portrait of Scott. Price, 40 cents.

TENNYSON'S THE PRINCESS. Edited by Katharine L. Bates, M. A. Cloth, 16mo., 249 pages. With portrait of Tennyson. Price, 40 cents.

SCOTT'S IVANHOE. Edited by Francis H. Stoddard, Ph. D. Cloth, 16mo., 551 pages. With portrait of Scott. Price, 50 cents.

American Book Company, New York, Cincinnati and Chicago.

These are the most recent additions to this attractive series, which is under the general editorship of Dr. Henry van Dyke. The texts are presented in a form which makes them clear, interesting, and helpful to those who are beginning the study of literature. A short life of each author is given, an introduction tells what the book is about, how it was written, where the author got the idea, and what it means. Simplicity, thoroughness, shortness, clearness, and the highest mechanical excellence mark these volumes.

The New England Magazine, for March contains a number of striking features. Among illustrated features of great interest are "Salem of To-day," by Mary H. Northend, being a sequel to the article, "Historic Salem." There is some excellent fiction and poetry. For sale at all news-stands; 25 cents per number. Annual subscription, $3.00. America Co., Publishers, 8 Dix Place, Boston.

In the April Delineator is given the opening paper of a series, called "The Rights of the Child," which, it is announced, will discuss the proper care of children in all its phases, from the earliest stages of infancy until constant attention is no longer required. The articles are contributed by Dr. Grace Peckham Murray, a physician of note. The first paper is entitled "The Coming of the Child," and is strikingly illustrated.

BOOK REVIEWS.

The Great White Tribe in Philipinia. By Paul T. Gilbert. Jennings & Pye, Publishers. $1.25 net.

This book is a record of the experiences of the author in the Philippines. Mr. Gilbert writes from close observation, giving careful pictures of the white and brown and red races, and showing the conditions he found among them. He tells of their religion, traditions, class prejudice, method of living and various other facts concerning the people of these far-away islands. The book shows that the author is a discriminating traveler, with a sympathetic comprehension of the Filipinos.

Leaves for Quiet Hours. By George Matheson. Jennings & Graham; Eaton & Mains, Publishers. Price, $1.25.

A pot pourri of small sermons upon texts which have been carefully selected, showing by their grouping and finish that they are the work of an artist. These sermons are spiritual and suggestive, presenting to us serious considerations of our Christian life, and showing how utterly we fail in accomplishment if we lean not upon the Everlasting Arms. The leaves are full of sound thinking and make a book well worth having, reading and lending to one's neighbor.

Starting Points. By John Horne. Jennings & Graham, Publishers. Price, 60c net.

This is a splendid collection of quotations from various authors, which fills a long-felt want. It comes as a boon to speakers or writers, hurried and busied with much employment, giving suggestive assistance for the article to be written or the speech to be delivered.

Incense. By Levi Gilbert. Jennings & Graham. Eaton & Mains, Publishers. Price 75c net.

A collection of poems upon religion, patriotism and human love, most of which are well written, with much grace, delicacy and beauty. These are instinct with religious feeling, human sympathy and glorious patriotism. It is a daintily bound book.

"The Changeless Christ," and other sermons by Rev. Robert Forbes, D. D. Published by Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati. Eaton & Mains, New York. Price 50 cents, net.

"Marketing Goods in Foreign Countries," the "Monthly Consular Reports." Published by the Washington Government Printing Office.

"Twenty-One Years in India," by J. J. Humphrey. 12mo. Cloth extra. 283 pages. 12 illustrations. Net price, $1.00. Postage, 10c. Cincinnati, Jennings & Graham.

Here is India! A panoramic view of that mysterious land, country, people, customs, history, religions, lights and shadows, splendors and degradations—all pass before us and rivet our attention to the close. Dr. Humphrey has done a fine piece of work, and whoever is interested in the land of India, whether pastor or layman, in the growth of Christianity there, in the remarkable history of the planting and development of Methodism there, will find in this iteresting work, so full of information, all that he will wish to know—and that too at first hand from one who spent in the midst of these various peoples twenty-one years of a vigorous life, and who can say, concerning the building of Methodism in that Oriental field, what Eneas said to Dido concerning the siege of Troy: "All of which I saw,, part of which I was."

"The Light of Faith," a defence in brief, of fundamental Christian truths, by Frank McGloin. B. Herder, Publisher. For sale by F. F. Hansell & Bro., Ltd., New Orleans, La. 8vo. 285 pages, full cloth, gilt stamping. Price, $1.00 net. Postage 10c extra.

HOW TO SLEEP.

A Book For Tired, Sleepless People. Contains fifty simple remedies for sleeplessness without use of drugs; also chapters on Sleeping Habits and Hours; Getting ready for Bed; Position in Bed; the Bedroom, Bed and Bedding; Care of the Bedroom; Sleep for Children; Bedtime Stories, Songs and Poems. "The only simple, practical, helpful book on Insomnia published. If not troubled with sleeplessness yourself, hand this card to someone who is, or better still, send the book as a Christmas gift." A dainty book for the bed-room or library table. Green cloth covers, poppy design in colors. Price 55 cents postpaid.

Doings of the Workmen.

ARKANSAS.

Hot Springs—W. R. R. Duncan, Pastor.—The rally at Haven Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church was a grand success. The Willing Workers' Ladies' Aid Circle did nobly under the care of the official board and the pastor. Total receipts, $261.50.

Locksburg—G. B. Donnelly, Pastor.—On March 4-5 our new presiding elder, Rev. D. B. Harston, visited our work and held his first quarterly conference. The elder took hold of business with the skill of a veteran and gave some interesting and wholesome advice to the surprise and delight of all who heard him. Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m. Rev. Harston preached a soul-stirring sermon and administered the sacrament to 64 persons. Also at night we were blessed with another glorious sermon delivered by the elder.

GEORGIA.

Temple.—The first quarterly conference of the Temple Station convened on Feb. 18-19 in Griffin Chapel M. E. Church, and was called to order by Rev. C. W. Adams, presiding elder, at 2 p. m. Rev. Adams preached an inspiring sermon Sunday at 11 a. m. Raised for elder, $6.45; pastor, $5; total, $11.45.

Waller Circuit—Geo. E. Belcher, Pastor.—Owing to the severe cold weather my first quarterly conference, which was to have been held Feb. 4-5, was held on March 4-5, with the Rev. J. E. Bryant, presiding elder, presiding. The quarterly was largely attended. Most all officers were present. Sunday was a high day. At 11:30 the elder preached an able sermon. A goodly number partook of the Lord's supper. Raised for the elder, $8; total raised during the day, $19.75.

Tallapoosa—J. H. Brandon, Pastor.—There has been quite a nice suite of furniture put into the parsonage by the sisters of the church, led by the talented Mrs. Mary Harper, wife of Prof. C. W. Harper. Mrs. Harper is also a teacher in the City Public School and a lover of her church. These sisters gave an entertainment, through which they realized a neat sum of money, which was invested as we have mentioned, in furniture for the parsonage. Committee, Mesdames Mary Harper, Lucy Brooks (ex-student of Reiman Seminary), Mary Proctor, Eliza Tollaver, Cora Finley, and Miss Emmer Lorus Walker. Several others contributed to the success of the affair. This is a hustling crowd along church lines.

Hoschocton—J. A. Arnold.—Our work at Wesley Chapel, under the administration of our new pastor, is progressing nicely. The parsonage was repaired recently by the members who are mindful of the comfort of its inmates. Not long since a large surprise party was taken to the parsonage and the many nice things contributed by generous friends were highly appreciated by the pastor and family. Rev. Sims preached an eloquent sermon Sunday, subject, "The Christian Race." Three persons joined the church. The Lord is with us in our work.

Fairburn—Jno. Swann.—Our first quarterly conference convened at Fairburn March 4-5, with our presiding elder, Rev. E. H. Oliver, in the chair. A majority of the leading officers were present. The reports, which were very good, were as follows: Pastor, $27.70; presiding elder, $15; moving and other expenses, $9.99; the poor and sick, $1.30; in bank to the credit of the Ladies' Aid Society, $4; total, $57.90. Sunday was a high day. The elder was at his best and preached one of his soul-stirring sermons. We are now preparing to raise at least $100 on Easter. Summerfield M. E. Church is fully alive. The Epworth League, with Jno. Swann, president; Miss Leola Toles, Mr. James Swann, Mrs. Martha Phenizee and Mrs. D. C. McWillie, vice-presidents; Mrs. D. C. McWillie, superintendent of Junior League, can expect nothing but success. Then, too, with such a pastor as Rev. Wm. McWillie, success is assured. There seems to be a better prospect for the church than there has been for a number of years. Our Sunday school is moving off nicely. With the good impression our pastor has made on the people we want him to stay at least six years or more. Of Mrs. McWillie too much cannot be said as a faithful helpmate. She has been using her own organ and is organist for the church, furnishing music on all occasions, which has caused an increase in our congregations. Long may these servants live to do work for the Master.

Atlanta—H. C. Henderson.—In regard to the Epworth Leagues of the district will say that the bad weather is about to pass over, and the time has come for us all to go right to work, and make this one of the most successful year's work that the district has ever done. And I trust that all the Leagues will catch right hold and go to work for success. The Leagues need to make it their special business to see that every young person in the church and community is a member of their chapters. The time has come for us, as Leaguers, to help the pastors in saving of souls for the Master's kingdom. The greatest mistake that parents make is this: they don't start with their children in time. They should begin training them from the cradle. The outlook for the district is bright. The Leagues are getting together, and going right to work. Fort Street League will head the district this year. The district cabinet meeting will convene at Gainesville, Ga., March 25-26. All district officers are requested to be present. Pray for our success in saving souls.

Oxford—T. M. Anderson.—The M. E. Church here has taken on new life. All the departments of church work are well organized, so that all have something to do. Mr. Hugh Walker is at the head of the League and Mr. Clifford Gaither is at the head of the Sunday school. Rev. Z. K. Gowen is pastor of the church and principal of the City School. He was the only teacher who made first-grade license in the recent examination. Rev. Gowen is a man of no mean ability, and stands well in the community. As an instructor, the people think that no one can equal him. He knows what to teach and how to teach.

LOUISIANA.

Hahnville—F. B. Cooper, Pastor.—The first quarterly conference was held in St. James M. E. Church with Rev. Dr. Marshall in the chair. All officers came forward with written reports. Paid the elder $7. At 7:30 p. m. the presiding elder preached one of his strong sermons, which left a great impression upon the people of this place. The Doctor was at his best. Love-feast was administered by the elder, and a shower of the Holy Spirit came over the whole congregation. The revival fire is in Hahnville. Six young men came forward for prayer. One subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN.

Woodlawn—M. Play.—This church is spiritually alive once more. We, the members, thank the elder and the Bishop for the return of our pastor, the Rev. John D. Wilson. The local preachers came together during the rainy season and started one of the old-time plantation revival meetings, and as a result of that meeting fifty souls have been added to the grand old church. Our present pastor is, we think, the man for the place.

Monroe.—The members and friends of St. James M. E. Church are delighted with their new presiding elder, Rev. J. O. Brown, and with the return of their same pastor, D. J. Taylor, as was evidenced by a grand reception given by the auxiliaries. Despite the unfavorable weather, Rev. Brown held the quarter. He disposed of the work with ease. Reports were very good. Pray for us. Victory will be ours. The King's Daughters of St. James met Monday, March 6, at 3 o'clock p. m., and selected the following officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. L. Mixson, M. D. Len, Mrs. P. Bell, were with satisfaction to all the choice of the election. Presidents, Mrs. L. Bowman and Miss Phillip; Mrs. M. Brooks, treasurer; Mrs. P. Bell, secretary.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

A New Seed Discovery for

FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

Your Life Current.

The power that gives you life and motion is the nerve force, or nerve fluid, located in the nerve cells of the brain, and sent out through the nerves to the various organs.

If you are tired, nervous, irritable, cannot sleep; have headache, feel stuffy, dull and melancholy, or have neuralgia, rheumatism, backache, periodical pains, indigestion, dyspepsia, stomach trouble, or the kidneys and liver are inactive, your life-current is weak.

Power-producing fuel is needed; something to increase nerve energy—strengthen the nerves.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is the fuel you need. It feeds the nerves, produces nerve force, and restores vitality.

"When I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Anti-Pain Pills I was confined to my bed. I had severe nervous spells, the result of two years illness with malaria. I gradually grew so weak that I was unable to sit up. The spells would commence with cold chills, and I would become weak and almost helpless. My circulation was poor. I had doctored right along but grew weaker and weaker. The Nervine seemed to strengthen me right away and my circulation was better. I have taken in all seven bottles of the Nervine, and I am entirely well."

ROSA E. WEAVER, Stuarts, Ia.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Brothers—Let us do our best on Easter day for the cause of missions. Our best on Children's Day for education. Our best all the year for the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. It is the best paper in all the world for our people to read. Our motto is "no compromise," we mean to do our best

Your brother,

JNO. W. THOMAS, P. E.

The district stewards will meet in St. Paul M. E. Church, Sweet Springs, Mo., April 8, at 9:30 a. m. This meeting should bring together all of the district stewards in the district. Let all come that possibly can and those who cannot be present send communications. This is an important occasion. W. H. SMITH, P. E.

To the Pastors and Members of the Opelika District, Mobile Conference: In obedience to the Church and by special request of Rev. Dr. Griffin G. Logan, D. D., there will be a great District Missionary Convention June 9-11, 1905, in West Point, Ga. It will be held in our church in LaNett, Ala., less than half a mile from the West Point depot. A program will be sent to each pastor in time to assign subjects to the delegates, and as each pastor may want to return to his charge on Saturday, the missionary rally will come off Friday night, June 9. All delegates must be on hand Thursday night. Aside from the program, two things are very necessary, and they are, a large delegation and the missionary rally Friday night. We want present at least one delegate from each Sunday school, every Sunday school superintendent and the missionary committees, or at least a part of them. Let each pastor head his delegation. As to the success of the Convention it must not be questioned, for it will be what we make it. Each pastor will be responsible for his charge and delegation. The roll of the charges and delegations will be called Friday night in the great missionary rally, and each charge will be expected to report in cash and vouchers the full apportionment for missions. Elect your delegates and put your committees to work at once, so as to have a round report ready. Other churches have done and are still doing; so why not we? I have implicit confidence in the pastors and members of the Opelika District and believe they will do their whole duty. May I depend upon you? Besides Dr. Logan we are to have with us one or more of the most eloquent preachers and speakers of our connection. Come and hear them. Rev. C. L. Dunn will arrange for reduced rates. F. L. TEAGUE.

To the Woman's Home Missionary Society, Little Rock Conference: Dear Sisters—We are nearing the end of the first quarter of our new year. Our last year's work, as reported in Denver, Col., last October, showed that we had collected and contributed to the general fund $248. This was excelled only by two colored Conferences, viz., Atlanta and Washington Conferences.

We must do as well or better this year. This can be done by every auxiliary beginning active work at once. Now, as spring is opening up, the earth is throwing off her winter garb, and all nature is bursting into new life; let us put new activity into our auxiliaries. Let us have our meetings monthly or semi-monthly, spend an hour in the study of God's Word, in prayer for the work, and in planning for the interest of the work in our own community. Let us send to the treasurer, Mrs. H. M. Nasmyth, Adeline Smith Home, Little Rock, Ark., 25 cents for each member, which is for the first quarter's dues. Let these be sent in before the 10th of April, that we may have a good report for the first quarter of our Conference year. We hope the sisters will see to these reports being sent in each quarter. Do not wait for some one to write to you for it. Send in your money and the treasurer will send you a receipt for it. Let us each do our part and help to support our work in this State. May God bless and prosper you.

MRS. ANNIE T. STRICKLAND,
Conference President.

SEDALIA DISTRICT.

FIRST ROUND.

Dear Brethren—The year just closed was a very successful one, and much was accomplished in the work of the church; but allow me to suggest a kind word to you. Let every pastor at once enter upon his work with renewed energy and be determined to do all in his power to achieve larger results during this conference year than last. Get the laity of the church to take the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTSAN ADVOCATE. And begin as early as possible to get in hand your benevolent collections.

Sure Relief for Women.

No. 12 Central Ave.
HOT SPRINGS, ARK., April 20, 1903.

Eighteen months ago I was so completely run down that my body ached from head to foot. My back seemed to break in two and I suffered intense pain in the lower abdomen. I could not afford to lay off and take a rest, and no medicine helped me any.

A friend told me how much Wine of Cardui built her up and advised me by all means to take it. The day I took the first dose the recovery of my health began. It was nearly three months before I was entirely cured, but at the end of that time I was in better health than I had been for seven years. I look on Wine of Cardui as the most blessed medicine that a woman could possibly take when she feels sick and tired of life.

Anna Nelson
ORATOR, WEDNESDAY CHAUTAUQUA CIRC.

WINE of CARDUI

Mrs. Nelson describes the condition of thousands of women. That condition comes by slow stages. Usually the important function of menstruation is at first slightly irregular. Then comes the painful periods. Bearing-down pains and ovarian inflammation follow. Finally the nervous system gives way and the whole system has become affected and the pains rack the body from head to foot.

Wine of Cardui is a menstrual regulator of established reputation. No woman who takes it suffers as Mrs. Nelson suffered. It gives speedy and complete relief from the torturing menstrual agonies which are making so many women invalids today. Do not let yourself come to the pitiable condition Mrs. Nelson describes.

Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today and begin treatment immediately.

They Live in Our Memory.

Washington, La.—Brother Batiste Augustus, a member of St. Mark M. E. Church, died in peace March 3, 1905, in the eighty-third year of his life. His last words were: "I am ready and willing to go." His wife, two sons, one daughter and many other relatives mourn his demise. Brother Augustus was a brother of the Rev. J. L. Augustus. Also Sister J. Stirling, a faithful member of our church, passed to her reward February 23, 1905. She leaves two children, brothers and many friends. S. GREEN, Pastor.

New River Depot, Va.—Sister Serena Saunders, the wife of Brother Charley Saunders, died Feb. 26, 1905, in the Christian faith, aged 55 years. She has been an earnest and faithful member of the M. E. Church for twelve years. Sister Saunders was a loving wife and an exceptional mother. She was loved by all who knew her. A husband and nine children survive her. The burial service was attended by the pastor, J. M. Watson. The funeral will be held soon.

Pelahatchie, Miss.—On the 5th of February, 1905, the funeral of Sister Estella Fortune was conducted by the pastor, S. Jossel. A large crowd attended. She died a faithful Christian. She leaves a mother, one child, and a host of relatives. Peace to her ashes.
S. JOSSEL, Pastor.

Money, Miss.—Ludeler Williams died December 25, 1904. She was a faithful member of Milewood Sunday school. Of such is the kingdom of heaven. Also Brother Ned Lowe died January 30, 1905. The deceased was a local preacher and class leader and he was ready to go. He had been a faithful member of the church for forty-two years. He leaves a wife and children.
G. H. HARVEY, Pastor.

Jeanerette, La.—Bro. Peter Landore, a member of St. Peter M. E. Church, died March 1, 1905, aged 80 years. He had been a faithful Christian and a member of the church for thirty-five years. He died in great peace. Sons, daughters and friends mourn their loss. His funeral was attended by Revs. G. J. Rogers, D. S. Sloan and H. C. Gair.

Natchitoches, La.—Sister Laura Garner, wife of Rev. D. Garner, our pastor at Chopin, and Old River, departed this life on Thursday, March 9, aged 42 years. Her remains were laid to rest in the cemetery of our little church at New Town, of which she was a member for many years. Sister Garner lived a consistent Christian and died in the faith. Besides a beloved husband, she leaves an aged mother, two sisters and eight children to mourn their loss. Servant of God well done! And thou art crowned at last. Rev. J. W. Coleman preached the funeral sermon.
W. J. M. PRICE.

Fairburn, Ga.—Sister Lula Booth, wife of Rev. J. B. Booth, a student of Gammon Theological Seminary, departed this life March 8 in triumphant faith and love. Sister Booth was hopeful to the end. She was a consistent member of the M. E. Church. Owing to the absence of the pastor, Bro. McWillie, the services were conducted by

HOW TO HOLD A HUSBAND.

The best known guide to married happiness is to hold the husband as you won the lover—by cheerfulness of disposition, patience and keeping your youthful looks. Of course a great many women are handicapped by those ills to which women are heir. The constantly recurring troubles which afflict her are apt to cause a sour disposition, nervousness and a beclouded mind.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, the specialist in woman's diseases, of Buffalo, N. Y., after a long experience in treating such diseases, found that certain roots and herbs made into a liquid extract, would help the majority of cases. This he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Thousands of women have testified to its merits, and it is put up in shape to be easily procured and is sold by all medicine dealers. This is a potent tonic for the womanly system. So much faith has Dr. Pierce in its merits that he offers $500 reward for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which he cannot cure. All he asks is a fair and reasonable trial of his means of cure

"I cannot express my thanks for the benefit I have received from Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Julius Wehrly, of Cambridge, Dorchester County, Md. "I took 'Favorite Prescription' and feel that a perfect cure has been effected. I feel like thanking you a thousand times for the good you have done me, and for the kind and fatherly letters which you wrote. I shall always speak a good word for your medicines whenever I can."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Rev. J. J. Harrison. The deceased leaves a husband, three children and a host of friends to think tenderly of her. Peace to her soul.
J. J. HARRISON.

New Orleans, La.—Little Napoleon V. Mouton departed this life March 14, 1905, aged 8 months. He was the infant son of Bro. H. D. Mouton, a local preacher of Thomson Chapel. The remains were laid to rest in Louisa Street cemetery. D. M. SEALS, Pastor.

Heidelberg, Miss.—Death invaded our community March 3 and summoned home one of the best members of Pleasant Valley M. E. Church in the person of Sister Huldah Newell, aged 29 years. She died as she had lived. The ceremony was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. Jordan.
S. L. HARRISON.

Alexandria, Tenn.—Sister Pollie Preston, the wife of Mr. F. L. Preston, and a member of the M. E. Church in Alexandria, Tenn., for thirty-three years, fell asleep in Jesus Feb. 15, 1905. She leaves a husband, one sister, one brother and a host of friends. Sister Preston was a true Christian and a strong member of the church. The funeral service was held at the church, conducted by the writer, J. A. Swift, pastor.

Attalla, Ala.—Sister Creola Cox died March 4, 1905, aged 21 years and 7 days. She joined Macedonia M. E. Church six years ago and was a faithful member until death. Sister Cox was superintendent of the Sunday school, president of the Epworth League, and was a faithful worker in every other department of the church. She leaves a mother and a host of friends. The funeral service was conducted by J. W. Wright, pastor.

Galveston, Tex.—Mrs. Stuart, wife of Wm. H. Stuart, who died in this city Feb. 22, aged 53 years, was an amiable Christian lady. She was converted in the city of Houston in the year 1869, and joined the Trinity M. E. Church in that city. She was twice married and leaves one son, Mr. Luke Freeman of Austin. In 1885 she was again married to Mr. Wm. H. Stuart, and removed to Galveston, Texas, where she resided until the day of her death. She united with Wesley Tabernacle M. E. Church, worked her way to the front, and was one of the leading ladies in said church. She was taken seriously sick in December, 1904, and her dear sister, Mrs. Rosa Lloyd of Austin, came to her bedside and continued there until death relieved that sainted sufferer. Miss Lucile Constant, her niece, came down from Austin on several ocasions during Mrs. Stuart's illness. Also her brother, Mr. Hamp Riley, and her son, attended the funeral. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Riley, was too ill to come. The funeral took place from Wesley Tabernacle church, under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Pilgrims. Rev. W. Hartley, the pastor, preached an able funeral sermon. This was one of the largest funeral corteges ever seen in the city. Drs. H. Leon Trapp and J. H. Hall assisted the pastor. Rev. Jackson read a very beautiful eulogy on the life of Mrs. Stuart.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

Much of the physical beauty of man or woman is dependent on the hair. Keep this "crowning glory" in best condition with "La Creole" Hair Restorer, the preparation used by famous Creole beauties. It makes the hair lie straight and smooth for a long time, cures dandruff, prevents falling hair and restores original color to gray hair.

Unexcelled for Purpose

Mrs. Melissa Dancy, of 281 Orleans street, Memphis, Tenn., is one of the most prominent women in the colored society of this city, in both a social and religious way; Mrs. Dancy has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for many years and takes pleasure in saying:

"Your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer is unexcelled for the purposes for which you recommend it, viz., to keep the hair in a soft and glossy condition and to prevent it from falling out."

MRS. MELISSA DANCY.

Mrs. Memdia Edward of Bastrop, La., is in New Orleans visiting her sister, Mrs. Martha Shepley, who is one of First Street Church's prominent members. Mrs. Edwards will also visit Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Jones, her nephew and niece, at Morgan City. The Rev. Jones is pastor of our church there.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cropan, Wednesday, March 15, an enjoyable time was spent in celebrating the birth anniversary of Mrs. Cropan. The friends brought many lovely presents. Speeches for the evening were delivered by Rev. Proxter and Mr. William Jabor.

Mrs. Merndia Edwards, of Bastrop, La., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Martha Sheply, one of the prominent members of First Street Church, this city. She will also visit her nephew and niece, Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Jones, our pastor at Morgan City. She reports our work in North Louisiana doing well.

At Mt. Zion M. E. Church, Sunday March 12, general speaking meeting was held at the early prayer meeting hour, at 9:30 a. m., the usual Sunday school which was well attended at 11 a. m. Rev. F. T. Chinn preached an excellent sermon to the Sunday school. At 7:30 the Lord's supper was administered to a large number. On Wednesday evening quarterly conference convened with Rev. Marshall presiding. All reports were favorable. The Epworth League was reorganized on Wednesday evening. The first literary exercises of the League were rendered on Thursday evening, and the program was very interesting. The collection for the week was $61.

At Wesley Chapel on Tuesday, March 21, Rev. Harrel of Pleasant Plain preached to a fine audience. Collection for class, $17.20; on indebtedness, $29.90. On Sunday, the 26th inst., the anniversary sermon of Court Patrons of Husbandry was preached by Rev. T. J. Johnson, who always knows how to serve the people on such occasions. The collection by the Society was $44.43. Total collection for the day, $96.22.

At Williams Chapel, on last Sunday, prayer meeting and Sunday-school services were held at the usual hour. At 11 a. m. the pastor preached; at 3 p. m. the stewardesses held their monthly meeting, Mrs. A. E. Brazely, president, in the chair. At 6 p. m., song service led by Mr. J. Jefferson and Miss S. A. E. Brazely. The service was well attended. The Knights of Pythias held their annual anniversary at 7:30 p. m. Sermon by the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves. Excellent singing by the choir. Miss S. A. E. Brazely was at the organ. One subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection for all purposes, $60.26.

FOR OVER SIXTY YEARS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

At Simpson Chapel the first quarterly love feast on last Wednesday night was indeed a demonstration of genuine interest and spiritual anxiety. A success spiritually, numerically and financially. We were graced with the presence of Presiding Elders Marshall and Turner, Revs. Chinn, Harold, Reeves and Chapman; also Rev. H. James of the A. M. E. Church. Sunday at 11 o'clock it was quite a pleasure and indeed an inspiration to listen to the gospel as expounded by Rev. Father Davage. Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock a large and appreciative congregation assembled to hear Dr. Marshall preach in his usual forceful and instructive style.

How to Wash Clothes in Six Minutes

Here's a Washing Machine that almost works itself.

The tub spins half way around, like a top.

There's a pivot in center of Tub bottom.

And there is a groove, around the pivot.

In this groove, or track, there are ball bearings, like in a Bicycle wheel.

These Bicycle Bearings are little steel balls the size of small marbles. They roll in the track when the tub spins around on top of them.

All the weight of the Tub, and of the Clothes rests on these rolling balls.

That's why the Tub spins as easily when full of Clothes and water, as when it is empty.

So that a whole tub full of Clothes can be washed almost as easily and as quickly, with this machine, as a single garment could be washed.

"How does it wash Clothes?" you ask.

See the two Springs under the Tub?

When you swing the Tub to the right (with handle at top) you stretch both these Springs, till the Tub goes half way around.

Then, the stretched Springs pull the Tub back from right with a bounce, and carry it almost half way around on the left side. Then the springs bounce it back to the right side again.

A little help is needed from you each time. But the Springs, and the Ball Bearings, do nearly all of the hard work.

Now, if you look inside the Tub you'll see slat paddles fastened to its bottom.

Fill the Tub half full of hot soapy water. Then spin it to the right. The slat paddles make the water turn around with the Tub till the Springs stop the Tub from turning further to the right and bounce it back suddenly to the left.

But the water keeps on running to the right, though the Tub, and the clothes in it, are now turning to the left.

Thus, the swift driving of this soapy water through the clothes, at each half turn, washes the dirt out of the threads without any rubbing.

Mind you, without rubbing,—which means without wearing, the clothes.

It's the rubbing on washboards, and on other Washing Machines, that wears out clothes quicker than hard use at hard labor.

That costs money for clothes, doesn't it?

And the everlasting rubbing is the hardest work in Washing, isn't it? Rubbing dirty clothes on a metal washboard with one's knuckles, over a tub of steaming hot water, is harder work, and more dangerous to health, than digging Coal dep down in a mine.

Well, the "1900 Washer" cuts out all the slavery of Washing, and half the expense.

It will wash a whole tub full of dirty clothes in Six Minutes. It will wash them cleaner in Six Minutes than they could be washed by hand in Twenty minutes. And it won't wear the clothes, nor break a button, nor fray even a thread of lace.

Because Running Water can't wear the clothes, nor break buttons, nor tear buttonholes.

And, it is the hot, soapy water swiftly running through the clothes that takes all the dirt out of them in Six little minutes.

A child can wash a tub full of dirty clothes in half the time you could do it yourself—with half the work.

Think what that half-time is worth to you every week for Ten years!

It is worth 50 cents a week to you. That is $26.00 a year, or $260.00 saved in 10 years.

And, a "1900 Washer" lasts 10 years.

Well—pay us the 50 cents a week our "1900 Washer" will save you, for a few months only.

Then you will own a "1900 Washer" that will last 10 years, without any cost to you. But don't pay us a cent till you have tested the "1900 Washer" for a full month, at our expense. We will ship it to you free, on a month's trial, and leave the test to you. And we will pay the freight both ways, out of our own pockets. That shows how sure we are that the "1900 Washer" will do all we promise.

If you don't find it does better washing, in half the time, than you can wash by hand, send it back to us. If you don't find it saves more than half the wear on clothes, send it back to us.

If you don't find it washes clothes as easily as you could rock a cradle, or run a sewing machine, send it back to us. If it won't wash dirty clothes in six minutes, send it back to us.

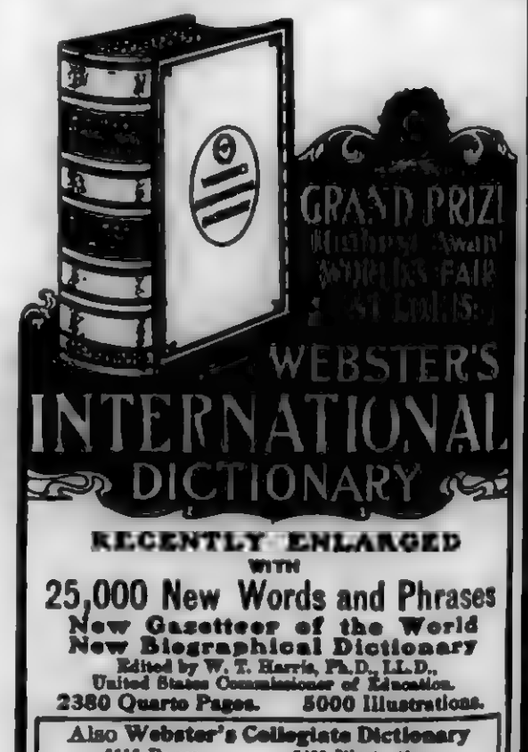
Remember, we will pay the freight both ways, out of our own pockets. You don't even say you'll buy it, till you have used it a full month, and know all about it. Isn't that a pretty straightforward offer, between strangers?

How could we profit by that offer unless our "1900 Washer" would do all we say it will?

Don't slave over the wash-tub any more.



Don't pay a washer-woman for eight hours a week when she can do the work far better with less Wear on the clothes, in four hours with a "1900 Washer."

The 4 hours a week less labor thus saved you 60 cents a week for Washerwoman's Wages.

Pay us 50 cents a week out of that 60 cents our Washer saves you, if you decide to keep it, after a month's trial. Then you own the Washer.

Write us to-day, if you want a month's free use of the quickest "Washer" in the world.

Those who have observed children of the first ar in the public schools have been impressed at the school session is too long. Children tire f a five and six-hour session and for this reason ssume all sorts of positions in sitting, becoming estless, and therefore can not do good work. he New York School Board has recently elimiated all "frills and fads." Sewing, physical aining, organized games, and drawing have all een abolished and the school hours shortened om five to three and a half hours.

Japan says if there is to be peace, not only must ussia give up her occupation of Manchuria, but ust concede to Japan territory or pay an indemty equal to $800,000,000. It seems that Japan ill be able to dictate the terms of peace absotely and shows no disposition to make peace ith Russia unless she is fully indemnified to the tent of the full cost of the war. In the meanme China is awakening to a knowledge of her rength and assuming new life and may become powerful ally of Japan.

Think of it: the average time for a divorce al in New York City is only thirteen and a half inutes, and for March alone there were eighty-e undefended cases. Fifty-one cases were ought by wives and thirty by husbands. Fifty-ur of these cases were childless couples. These gures tell their own story. A sad comment on the laxity of the divorce laws and the conion of our society.

IS IT BLOOD MONEY?

The country has been interested in a recent discussion occasioned by Mr. John D. Rockefeller offering to the Board of Missions of the Congregational Church, $100,000. It is alleged that this gift should not be accepted for the reason that Mr. Rockefeller is connected with the Standard Oil Company, a trust that is claimed to have robbed the people and that it is dishonest and unscrupulous in its methods. Its large dividends, it is said, have been dishonestly gained. Mr. Rockefeller being the head of the Standard Oil Company and its largest shareholder, it is claimed he betakes of the methods of the Standard Oil Company and thus his money should be refused. On the heels of this gift, Mr. Henry H. Rogers, vice-president of the Standard Oil Company, offered the Methodist Church of Achusnell, Conn., $1000, and this sum has not been accepted owing to the agitation called forth by the discussion of the acceptance of Mr. Rockefeller's gift. Dr. Washington Gladden and other prominent clergymen have led the fight against the acceptance of the gift. While the matter has not been settled, the Prudential Committee of the Board of Missions has adopted a report recommending the acceptance of the gift, and upon the grounds that "responsibility begins with the acceptance of the gift" and does not partake of the method by which the money was raised. That the Board of Missions is not a tribunal to set upon the conscience of the donor; that these "are not gifts, but debts paid to God and humanity and involving nothing whatever in the way it was accumulated." The committee further alleges that gifts have been received from time to time from various quarters by the christian church and funds have come from Mohammedans, Buddhists, and even savages.

It strikes us that this is rather straining at the gnat and swallowing the camel. No doubt the emphasis is placed upon the method of Mr. Rockefeller's acquisition of wealth by the scrutinizing investigation to which the Standard Oil Company is being at present subjected. This vast trust has always been unpopular and more so to-day than ever. If there are no conditions attached to the gift, and we understand there are none, then it occurs to us there is nothing in the way for the acceptance of same. Mr. Rockefeller does not seek to bribe. He does not seek the influence of the Board in the fight against the Standard Oil Company; although it must be said that his gift may create sympathy. He is a member of an evangelical church. He has a disposition to give and does give largely to worthy enterprises. His money has as many cents to the dollar and will go as far as any other man's dollar. Those who accept the gift are under no obligations whatever as to the manner of the distribution of the gift and are not in any way to return favors for the same. The money is to be used, and how?—that is the question. Shall it remain idle in Mr. Rockefeller's bank? Then that is a waste not to be commended. There is such a thing as a separation of the gift and the giver and yet in no way endorse the giver's life and policies.

HAS A PREACHER NO RIGHTS?

It is becoming quite frequent in the Methodist churches that the membership demands a certain type of minister. They petition and the right to petition is to be granted to all free people. It is very appropriate that the Discipline therefore provides that the Quarterly Conference may or may not recommend the return of its pastor. Thus we have at times some very pronounced expressions on the part of laymen in favor, and, at times against preachers, and if the congregation objects, then the pastor must go. But is there not another side to this question? As for the membership, do they go out of their legitimate way when they object to a preacher sent and seek to make it unpleasant for the preacher? Has not the pastor rights as well as the congregation? Whatever may be said to the contrary, the preacher is on a comparatively small salary and large demands are on his salary that the public knows little about. The preacher gives up very often many of the luxuuries of life to serve his congregation faithfully. He becomes a servant of the people. He and his family have interests and ideals that must be fostered as well as the membership has ideals to work out. A church was begun at some time by some preacher by his sacrifice and devotion to the cause of the right. It was the preacher that gathered the people in. The church was constructed through his toil and unceasing labor. It was the preacher who led the people to the altar. It was the preacher who inspired them to unite themselves with the church. Has this man no right that laymen ought to respect? We think he has. Even though it does not sometime suit the congregation, if it is the wish of the pastor to remain, then he should remain.

EVERY CITIZEN A POLITICIAN

Occasionally it is said by men who mean to be honest that they have nothing to do with politics, for the reason that there is so much corruption in politics and the handling of state affairs and securing offices. And good men are shy of being called politicians and persistently refrain from "mixing up in politics."

The patriotic citizen cannot surrender his rights to others, and leave the country in their hands and permit bad men to run the government. Repeated examples could be given of pitiable conditions in several states all because the government has been turned over to unscrupulous men who are in politics for what they can get out of it. Governor Folk of Missouri, than whom there is no more representative citizen before the American people, is furnishing the country with an example of the clean man in politics. Along this line Gov. Folk has made the following interesting statement:

"While bad men take an active interest in poli-

Effective Missionary Methods

By Rev. J. E. Bryant, A. B.

Christianity is through and through a missionary religion. In fact, Christianity is the only religion that fully recognizes the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. The missionary spirit if the New Testament struck its roots in the Old Testament, so that in this respect, also, Christ Jesus came in due time to fulnl. The The nussionary spirit is one of the essential features of the Gospel. All men of whatever color or caste, from whatever nation or clime, stand in need of salvation. God's gracious plan is that all men should be saved and come to a saving knowledge of the truth. This glorious Gospel must then be proclaimed to all nations. This great truth Christ embodied in His last command, then to His disciples, and further to all His succeeding disciples, to, "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you, and, lo, I am with you alway even unto the end of the world." But more than this, missionary activity is the vital law of the Christian church, and the outgoings of the missionary spirit have a healthful and strengthening effect upon the church itself; and the history of the past hundred years has plainly demonstrated this statement. It is said that the most intense and burning missionary spirit existed in the Apostolic age. In this period of first love, when the Christians arose early in the morning to give praise to God, and the breaking of bread as a token of their fidelity and Christian fellowship, the whole church was a missionary organization; and, although the number of missionaries was not large, yet their enthusiasm was all-controlling, and the co-operation of the congregations was most vigorous. The missionaries were said to follow the public roads, which God himself had laid out, and occupied the stations, which His hands had indicated. In this divine preparation lies one of the main reasons for the relative importance of the results of missionary activity. At the close of the 1st century, there were perhaps 200,000 Christians. At the close of the 3rd century, 6,000,000, or one-twentieth part of the entire population of the Roman Empire. The Christianization of the Roman and Greek worlds was not accomplished till after Christianity had become part of the State religion, and until the close of the 5th century. We must not forget that Christ's command is to make disciples of all nations. It is not only to tell them of Christ, but to make them disciples, true followers. Nor may we forget that the Christianization of the nations is not attainable without a certain measure of co-operation on the part of the national powers. The truth of this statement is confirmed by the history of modern missionary efforts, as in the case of Madagascar, and will be fully confirmed when the Emperors of the warring Japan and China shall have accepted wholly the Christian religion, which will be done when Christianity in these lands shall become sufficiently great to make it safe and politic.

The conversion of individuals comes first, and is therefore preparatory, but the Christianization of peoples, as such, follows properly and necessarily. In reference to Methodism, the Methodist church, from the beginning of its history, was of an intense missionary spirit. Our own great Methodist Episcopal Church Missionary Society came into existence, a God-sent organization, in 1819, and has since established stations in Liberia, Montevideo, Buenos Ayres, China, Germany, Scandinavia, India, Japan and Mexico. Even in our own glorious America, with schools and colleges, universities and church houses, there are many dark places that need and are receiving hearty support from this great Society. Poor districts and charges have been helped for many years and many of them still need help from this grand Society. The equal of such an organization is not to be found in any other orthodox church. Therefore, there ought to be some effective methods put forth to encourage and foster a greater missionary spirit among the ministry and laity. The entertainment of a stronger thirst for the salvation of souls at home and abroad, and that each person be so aroused that every cent apportioned to our several Conferences, districts and charges, and even more, be raised, that the purpose of God and the aim of our great church may be realized and accomplished.

Among the rules or methods to be emphasized, I may suggest the following:

1. Let every person in each charge or station be urged to give, beginning with the Presiding Elder and the pastor, who, as leaders, should be examples also in giving. Then let each member, probationer, and adherent, the wife as well as the husband, the children as well as the parents, give.

2. Educate all persons named above to give to all objects, all general objects as well as local objects. If educated to give freely for one worthy cause, our people will soon be educated to give freely for all worthy causes. Let any worthy cause be minimized and very soon all causes will be neglected. As God's agents, impress forcibly that "God loveth the cheerful giver," and that it is one of His sacred laws, and that He will bless our alms when rightly given, to the glory of His cause.

3. Our people must be educated to give frequently. By this I do not mean that every cent of their earnings is to be given to the church. But proportionate giving should be explained. Both the duty and the privilege should be shown. It should always be impressed that giving for the missionary cause, or any other causes of the church, is not a mere charitable act, but an indispensable duty resting on every individual, and that, to a great extent, we are our brother's keeper. We are responsible greatly for their physical, social, intellectual, moral and spiritual welfare, especially to our less fortunate brothers. "As we therefore have opportunity, let us do good unto all men" were the words of Saint Paul to the Christians at Galatia. These very words come to us more forcibly to-day, with nearly two thousand years of Christian experience, triumphs and victory, and with myriads more of opportunities. We can accomplish much good by wholesome examples, by a life of consecration and service, by holy living, and, last, but not least, by giving our means to help fallen humanity. Tell our people of the great commission. Study intelligently, and not at random, of the perishing millions in darkness, and yet panting for the light of the Gospel, and of the great responsibility resting on us for them to have the necessary Gospel truth.

4. Educate them in giving liberally. Preach at some time previous before a missionary collection is to be taken on such encouraging portions of God's word as "He that soweth sparingly shall reap sparingly, but he that soweth bountifully shall reap bountifully," "God loveth the cheerful giver," "God is not unrighteous to forget your work and labor of love which ye have showed in His name," "Who so hath this world's goods and seeth his brother in need, and shutteth his bowel of compassion, how dwelleth the love of God in him," "He that hath pity on the poor lendeth unto the Lord," as well as scores of other encouraging passages of the Bible. Our people must be educated not to give God the refuse nor the smallest. He requires and demands from us the best. Christianity must succeed and conquer all opposing forces. It has called into life and activity the best and holiest feelings of the human nature, and of such success must crown its every effort. Therefore, from God, our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift, we must keep back the blighted ear of corn, the crippled and spotted calf, as well as the refused and smallest piece of silver and gold. All of these treasures are his, and we are simply entrusted with them, in using them not only for ourselves but for the comforts and happiness of others.

5. The use of missionary cards, boxes and jugs are untold advantages. Instruct the receivers of these that they are not only to solicit aid from others, which is good, but they themselves must give. Have each person to report weekly, monthly or quarterly as occasion will allow. Keep correct names of persons and amount given. Keep the missionary spirit always aglow. Encourage the faithful workers, but never abuse the indifferent ones, always study new plans and the best methods to get them in line of work. This interest must be worked up, not only in the church, among the older ones, but the missionary fire must begin in the Sunday school among the little folks. Encouraging progress characterizes this important branch of missionary work.

In many places and instances we are suffering for lack of efficient preachers, superintendents and teachers. If in all of our churches, teachers' meetings for Bible study were held, and on missionary Sundays missionary topics were carefully and prayerfully discussed, the results would be evident. One can scarcely realize the many opportunities awaiting us on every hand for work among the young. Children are the to-morrow of Society. Truly they must be the church, not only of to-morrow, but of to-day, and, therefore, they must be disciplined and trained to meet the church's requirements and God's expectations. This age of ours offers remarkable facilities for personal development, lofty attainments in knowledge, large acquisitions of power, and a wide range of usefulness. The Christian religion has never been so generally triumphant and victorious. Christ has more disciples to-day, who are rallying around His cross, and never before was the Gospel of peace and gladness greeted by so many open doors of opportunity. What an opportunity alloted the young people to work out their destiny in this day of promise and possibility. To rightly meet these pressing demands, our young people in the Sunday schools and other Christian societies must receive early the right training and impression. Not only should a collection once a month be taken for missionary purposes, but proper missionary ideas and spirit should be imparted, missionary topics discussed, missionary songs sung, lectures and sermons on missions delivered, and missionary essays read. In many of our charges, all of our church benevolences are called "missions." No distinction is made. No intelligent purpose is given, and therefore many of our congregations have become indifferent, and the word "missions" has become monotonous. Knowledge must go before conviction, and conviction must precede action.

Again our churches need our own missionary literature. This should be in every home of a Methodist family. We need more of the missionary information that the literature published by this grand Society is able to give us. Let our people read the World-Wide Missions, and that each member or friend can get free yearly by giving yearly one dollar for missions. Let them read the "Gospel in all Lands." And, as one has widely said, preach, teach, sing, pray and talk missions. Make yourself a storage battery of missionary knowledge and enthusiasm. Generate a missionary spirit by education and contagion, and by personal influence. To do this we must glow with it ourselves and transmit the heat to others. It is said that some radiant forces act only at high temperature. When this shall have been fully realized and accomplished, three million dollars shall flow into the missionary treasure and thousands of voices shall answer gladly to the call of them who are in the regions of darkness, saying, "Send us!"

Is Northern Sentiment For or Against the Negro?

By Mrs C. T. Murray

(Reproduced from the Indianapolis Star.)

It was the people of the North to whom, as instruments in God's hands, the Negro had to look for his freedom, and to the same people must he yet look for help and sympathy and co-operation. If they fail him at this crucial period of his history both the Negro and the white man will suffer. Both friend and foe seem to demand perfection in the short period of their freedom. They are unreasonable. They require of the Negro in thirty-five years a state of moral rectitude which they themselves have not reached in a hundred times as long and with far more favorable opportunities. The meanest white man in a community seems to be regarded as better than any black man. It would be a sin against God and a crime against humanity to allow these millions of people who are now in our land to lack for good advice and good instructors while we are so well equipped to help. We need some more Sumners, Garrisons, Whittiers, Gurleys and Booker Washingtons to go through these Northern States and give courage to those who helped to purchase his freedom that they may continue their efforts in his behalf until he is able to stand alone.

If Theodore Roosevelt feels he can be of any service to this much misunderstood race, let us, one and all, bid him Godspeed on his tour through the South. He will find school houses, colleges, seminaries and universities dotting the valleys and crowning the hills all over the South. Many of them have risen phoenix-like out of the ashes of a terrible and devastating war. Before the smoke of battle had cleared away cultured women of our best Northern universities hurried to the rescue of the mighty throng of people whose liberty would have been a curse had not these servants of God willingly shared their knowledge with them. To-day they are at their posts teaching them the principles of life and how to build up their race. So much has freedom triumphed over slavery. And this building process will go on until the Southland is redeemed from the errors of the past and the manhood of the Negro vindicated before the country and the world. From these halls of learning are coming leaders of thought who are molding public sentiment. The Duboises, Crogmans, Washingtons and hundreds of others of their own race whom the world takes delight in honoring; they plead for justice and righteousness. They know that the capability of the Negro for acquiring knowledge and becoming a law-abiding citizen is no longer a doubtful problem, and for the good of the nation and all concerned must be attended to, and the sooner the better. It is impossible for any thoughtful person to travel through the South to-day and not note the change and the new civilization springing up out of much that has been uncomely and disjointed. What race has ever made such progress toward a solution of its own problems as this one From these colleges and universities where the head heart and hand are trained side by side, go students to share with the less fortunate of their brothers and sisters the knowledge they have acquired. Too often they do not meet with the encouragement they deserve, because of the deep-seated race prejudice that prevails in the communities where they go, which seems to be growing like a high wall about them.

Let us not be blind to the situation, but remember that the Negro is a man, and whatever pertains to man pertains to him physically, morally and mentally. Those only who associate with him can be capable, in the truest sense, of passing a fair judgment upon him. I plead for a better acquaintance with the intelligent, good Negroes in every region; then there will not be that spirit of hate, and our newspaper reports will not be written with the ink of American prejudice.

The hundreds of good homes in the Southern cities, owned by colored men, would be an ornament to any city. The best type of the Negro is there around the centers of learning. I have heard Negro women in their clubs discuss the "Negro problem" as intelligently as I have ever heard any body of white women discuss it. Many of these workers are products of these Christian schools and they take a lively interest in their upbuilding and maintenance. If you could see the struggles, witness the difficulties they necessarily encounter, your hearts would warm with sympathy and their burdens be made lighter. "We that are strong must bear the infirmities of the weak, not pleasing ourselves."

Our friends often ask: "Are they not now ready to stand alone?" I answer "No." To withdraw our aid now would be suicidal. It used to be "they can not learn;" now it is "they shall not;" but you can never stop the onward progress of education now. They have learned the benefit of it, and it will grow and increase until that race will, in its history, stand the peer of any other race.

The crisis is upon us. For the love of Christ and the love of humanity and the race that is ours to redeem, let us take on new courage and stand by the principles that unfettered them and made them free men and women.

"It is not what we give, but what we share for the gift, without the giver, is bare."

Jane Addams made the Hull House and all other similar institutions a possibility because she gave herself. We must enter into their lives to know their needs.

Let us rise above low, narrow, absurd, wicked discrimination against men on account of their race, their color or their nationality. Let us try to repair the wrongs of the past. Let us be just and let us be humane and see to it in the future that justice is given to these millions who are receiving daily insults and injuries that they might escape if only we would do our duty.

Education and Christianity will solve the problem; it is doing it, and I have statistics to bear me out in saying that not a colored graduate has ever committed the crime you spoke of in your editorial. Our graduates are serving their people in the capacity of doctor, lawyer, merchant, teacher and farmer. The whole Southland is saturated with this leaven that is fast honeycombing the dense ignorance and superstition that once made them helpless.

Let all our efforts and all our energies be blended in promoting harmony and good will and in hastening on the happy time when this country shall be in the spirit, as well as in the letter, what God evidently intended it should be, the asylum for the oppressed of all lands, the home of the free where every man of every race, with naught to molest or make him afraid, may enjoy the blessings of Almighty God.

The Aged Can Be Saved

By Rev. W, P. Thirkield, D. D.

It was during a revival at West Carrollton, on the old Germantown Circuit, Cincinnati Conference, when the entire community was stirred by the spirit of God. The preacher was inexperienced; the preaching was poor enough; the revival was manifestly the work of the Spirit. One night an aged man, beyond seventy years, bowed at the altar of prayer. He had been reared under Presbyterian influences . He persuaded himself that he was among the non-elect because of his long years of neglected opportunity. A second and a third night he bowed at the altar. His long vigil of intense thought and prayer had left their marks on his pale face. And now he had lost hope and felt there was no salvation for him. The pastor bowed by his side and quietly said, "Have you not up to the measure of your ability, accepted God's promise? Does not Christ save you now? Have you not a sense of His pardoning love? Has not peace come?"

After a brief season, a strange, unearthly light filled the old man's face. He arose from the altar, lifted up his head, and stretched out his arms, and with joy unspeakable shouted, "It has come. Peace has come!" The effect upon the great congregation was electric. Nearly all arose to their feet and joined in shouts of praise and thanksgiving.

The next Sunday morning he was in the class-meeting and told how he was driving in his wagon down the road on the previous day and found himself singing. "And I never sung," said he, "in all my life." And in our joy with the dear old man, so wondrously saved and rejoicing in a new love and life, we all joined in the song,

"The peace of Christ, it fills my heart,
A fountain ever springing;
All things are mine since I am His,
How can I keep from singing?"

In the joy and peace of the new life he lived, and his death, some months afterwards, was in the triumph of faith.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

A Blessed Opportunity

God gave me something very sweet to be mine own this day—
A precious opportunity, a word for Christ to say;
A soul that my desire might reach, a work to do for Him;
And now I thank Him for this grace, ere yet the light grows dim.

No service that he sends me can be so welcome, aye,
To guide a pilgrim's weary feet within the narrow way;
To share the Shepherd's quest, and so, by brake and fen,
To find for Him His wandering lambs, the erring sons of men.

I did not seek this blessed thing; it came a rare surprise,
Flooding my heart with dearest joy, as, lifting wistful eyes,
Heaven's light upon a dear one's face shone plain and clear on mine,
And there an unseen third, I felt, was waiting—One divine.

So in this twilight hour I kneel, and pour my grateful thought
In song and prayer to Jesus for the gifts this day hath brought;
Sure never service is so sweet, nor life hath so much zest,
As when He bids me speak for Him, and then He does the rest.

God's Schools

"It is a rough place where he is now," said a lady, speaking anxiously of her son, a young man whose business had taken him away from home to a mining town. "I should not feel so anxious about him if he were among different surroundings, but a place like that is a school for everything evil."

"Yes," admitted her friend, "but you must not forget, dear, that God keeps school there also."

It is something that we forget so often that we lose much of the comfort and confidence that might take the place of our fears and forebodings. No circumstances are so unpromising, no surroundings so rough and difficult, that through them God cannot teach wonderful lessons to the soul that he is training. In our restlessness over those we love, we rightly strive to environ them with the best and purest influences; but when this is impossible, when the case is beyond our control, we are too faithless of God's power in the midst of evil. We fancy that all is going wrong, and forget that he is not dependent upon helps of our choosing.

God's schools are everywhere. He will not forget those committed to his care; there is no seeming ill to ourselves or those dear to us that he may not use for education in that which is highest and noblest.

Even the temptations about us may be so met as to leave us all the stronger for having been compelled to face them.—The King's Own.

Cleanliness and Godliness

Cleanliness may be next to godliness when we are considering merely the surface of our bodies; but cleanliness conditions godliness when we get to the spiritual life. No unclean heart or mind can harbor God. There is not room enough for both. Impurity cannot be kept in a corner by itself; it taints the whole man; and God must have the whole man or none. There would be fatal discouragement here for us all, but for the fact that the most tainted heart and life is not beyond instant cleansing when that cleansing is honestly sought. Then the loving Father rejoices to show His power over uncleanness. His cleansing forgiveness never stops short of a result that is "whiter than snow." To-day that purity may be ours.—Ex.

Plant blessings and blessings will bloom,
Plant hate and hate will grow;
You can sow to-day, to-morrow shall bring
The bloom that shows what sort of a thing
Is the seed—the seed that you sow.

Getting Help From People

REV. J. R. MILLER, D. D.

We receive help in our Christian lives through many channels. But more, perhaps, than we are aware of, does God use other human hearts and lives as his agents in blessing and helping us. Every true Christian is sent among men to be an interpreter of Christ. No one can see Christ in his invisible glory, and, therefore, we who know him and love him, and in whom he dwells, are to be his interpreters. Every faithful follower of the Master is the bearer of blessings from the great fountain of infinite life and love. In every pure, true, worthy friend whom God gives to us, he sends to us a little measure of his own love and grace. One writes, in recognition of a new blessing God has sent:

"God never loved me in so sweet a way before;
'Tis he alone who can such blessings send;
And when his love would new expression find,
He brought thee to me, and said: 'Behold a friend!'"

It would add much to the sacredness of our friendships if we thought of them in that way—that in them God is mercifully sending us new gifts of his grace. If we always had this lofty conception of the ministry of friendship, it would make us ever reverent and thoughtful as we touch the lives of others, ever careful to be God's messenger indeed to everyone, and to wait at his feet for the gift which he would send by us to our friend.

The Christian thought of life in all its relations is that of service and helpfulness. We should always be a means of grace to others. No one should ever receive from us any influence that would cause hurt or marring, or that would make it harder to live right or easier to do wrong. On the other hand, everyone who touches us should get from us some good, some encouragement, some cheer, some incitement to righteousness, some fresh inspiration toward nobleness, some strengthening of the purpose to live nobly, some quickening of life. Very fitting for daily use is the prayer:

"May every soul that touches mine—
Be it the slightest contact—get therefrom some good,
Some little grace, one kindly thought,
One inspiration yet unfelt, one bit of courage
For the darkening sky, one gleam of faith
To brave the thickening ills of life,
One glimpse of brighter skies beyond the gathering mist,
To make this life worth while,
And heaven a surer heritage."

Wherever love is, love that is kindled at the heart of God, there is always the desire to serve. This may not be the ordinary conception. When we wish for friends, it is possible that we have in mind those who shall be friends to us, bringing into our lives profit, help, happiness, enjoyment, comfort. But Christian love is not an earth-born passion—it has its source in Jesus Christ; it is the love of God shed abroad in human hearts, and this love "seeketh not its own." The Christian conception is not that of having a friend, but of being a friend; not of being ministered unto, but of ministering.

If this divine affection be in us we shall desire to be a blessing to each one we meet, to impart to him some good. If this meaning of Christian love be realized, even imperfectly, it will make the followers of Christ mutually and reciprocally helpful to each other. There are many ways in which Christians should minister to one another's happiness and good.

There is help in fellowship. When two walk together one strengthens the other. One log will not burn alone, but when two or more are laid together one kindles the other and the flame grows hot. Christian life cannot reach its best in solitude. Jesus had a reason for sending out his disciples two and two. If one was discouraged the other would hearten him. If one was growing indifferent the other would quicken his love. Then the value of their work was more than doubled, for the strength and skill of one would supplement the weakness and inadequacy of the other. In prayer two are better than one, for faith inspires faith and fervency kindles fervency.

Example also has its value. We see one person living sweetly, beautifully, victoriously, and there arises in us a desire to live as he does. There is an influence of life upon life which is pervasive and resistless.

"Unshapen, hardened, thrown away,
A worthless piece of potter's clay.
Beside it grew a rose; it died,
Yet not in vain, for ere the end
Its fragrance with the clay did blend.
Thus into darkened lives we may Plant love, and hope's effulgent ray."

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: John 1: 12. Theme—The Greatest Privilege Ever Given to Man.

There are so many privileges that are unknown to some men. In fact, there are some to whom many earthly privileges have never been offered, and never will they be given to any but a precious, select few. Not every man can become an heir to a throne in this world, a member of some fraternities, or mutual societies. Initiation is not the only thing that prevents some men from becoming members of certain crafts or fellowship. Sin is the only thing that has separated man from God, disabled and taken from him the original power of an heir to the Most High.

Notice, man is a sinner—helpless in his might, lost in his new invention, hopelessly demoralized in the midst of his newly acquired wisdom, and totally ruined in his present possessions, and is in danger of eternal death. Observe, that man has been given the power to be, power to become, and power to remain a son of God, by faith in His name, by repentance toward God, and belief in His Son whom He gave to the world.

The manifestation of this power is seen in the new birth of the soul, in spiritual-mindedness and Christian activity. When this mighty work of restoration is done it is known, for the Spirit of God testifies to the fact and the man himself makes it known to all about him. He is now adopted into the family of the Living God, made an heir "to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven," and a partaker of the glory of Christ Jesus. Think of what great sinners we have been, of how weak and sinful we are now, and of how Jesus came into the world to give us the greatest privilege ever offered man, and let us this very moment accept the gracious benefits of the Gospel initiatory rites that give us the power to become sons of God.

YOUNG FRIENDS

"What Shall it Profit?"

If I lay waste and wither up with doubt
The blessed fields of heaven where once my faith
Possessed itself serenely safe from death;
If I deny the things past finding out;
Or if I orphan my own soul of One
That seemed a Father, and make void the place
Within me where He dwelt in power and grace,
What do I gain that am myself undone?

The Mother Heart

BY REV. S. D. GORDON.

Will you please remember that "grieve" is always a love word? There can be no grief except where there is love. You may annoy a neighbor, or vex a partner, or anger an acquaintance, but you cannot grieve except where there is love, and you cannot be grieved except wherein you love.

I have sometimes, more often than I could wish, seen a case like this. A young man of good family is sent away to college. He gets in with the wrong crowd. Gets to smoking and drinking and gambling, improper hours, bad companions, and all that. His real friends try to advise him, but without effect. By and by the college authorities remonstrate with him, and he tries to improve, but without much success after the first pull. And after a while, very reluctantly, he is suspended, and sent home in disgrace.

But down in that boy's home there is a woman—a mother, heart-broken—secretly bleeding her heart out through her eyes. She goes quietly, faithfully about her round of life, but her hair go. And if you talk with her, and she will talk with you, she will say: "O, yes, I know other gets thinner, and the gray streaks it plainer, her form bends over more, and the lines become more deeply bitten in her face, as the days come and mothers' boys go wrong some of them going wrong all the time but to think of my Jim—that I've nursed, and loved so, and done everything for—to think that my Jim——" and her voice chokes in her throat, and she refuses to be comforted. She grieves at her heart. Ah! that is the picture of God in that Genesis chapter. He saw that the world he had made and lavished all the wealth of his love upon had gone wrong, and it grieved him at his heart.

This world is God's prodigal son, and he is heartbroken over it. And what has he done about it? Ah, what has he done! Turn to Mark's twelfth chapter, and see there Jesus' own picture of his Father as he knew him. In the form of a parable he tells how his Father felt about things here. He sent man after man to try and win us back, but without effect, except that things got worse. Then Jesus represents God talking with himself. "What shall I do next, to win them back?—there is my son—my only boy—Jesus—I believe—yes, I believe I'll send him—then they'll see how badly I feel, and how much I love them; that'll touch them surely; I'll do it." You remember just how that sixth verse goes, "He had yet one, a beloved Son; he sent him last unto them, saying, they will reverence my Son." And you know how they treated God's Son, his love gift. And I want to remind you to-night that, speaking in our human way—the only way we can speak—God suffered more in seeing his Son suffer than though he might have suffered himself. Ask any mother here: Would you not gladly suffer pain in place of your child suffering if you could? And every mother-heart answers quickly, "Aye, ten times over, if the child could be spared pain." Where did you get that marvelous mother-heart and mother-love? Ah, that mother-heart is a bit of the God-heart transferred. That is what God is like. Let me repeat very reverently that God suffered more in giving his Son to suffer than though he had himself suffered. And that is the God of the Old Testament! Let me ask: Is he to blame? Has he not done his best?—From "Quiet Talks on Power."

Just Between Ourselves

Don't you see that everybody obeys or is in trouble for not obeying?

Then must I ask why should a boy obey those in authority over him? Yes—and I answer:

Because God commands it, and hence it is right.

Because it is better for the boy that those older than he shall direct his course, since they know more than he does.

Because he needs early to learn how to obey, as after a while when he becomes a man he will either obey or suffer a terrible failure in life.

Because if he doesn't know how to obey he will not know how to teach obedience to others, and the time will come when he will want others to obey him.

Because if everyone were to lack the obedient spirit there would be no family, no society, no business, no government for each of these requires authority or it goes to pieces.

Because he will be a happier boy for having obeyed.

A disobedient boy runs big chances of becoming a disobedient young man who is sent home in disgrace from school, and later is "fired" out of every employment.

Nothing so marks a boy for success in after life as the respectful, obedient spirit toward those in authority over him. Advancement, preferment, the prizes of life fall to boys that possess it, while no one wants about him the boys or the men who lack it.

You obedient boys stand aside while I talk to the others. Don't you willful fellows know that obedience is the first essential in a good ball-player, a good rower, a good athlete. He must obey, obey, obey—not only a coach who stands over him, but the laws of good morals, good health—in a word, the laws of God. And he does not grumble if it is to win a foot race or a ball game.

Then here's the cracker to my whip: Life is a great, hard—I was about to say cruel—game. It's a tussle with most from boyhood to old age. Do you think it needs no preparation, no coaching, no discipline, no self-sacrifice? When do you think all this is to begin? When you are twenty-one, thirty, forty? Why, it has already begun with every boy. Do you want to be a winner of the prizes of life—wealth, health, character? The choice of the world's successes twenty, twenty-five years from now will not be made then; they are being made now. And the teachable, the tractable, the obedient boys are the fellows that will be singled out for positions, and you disobedient fellows are going to be merely lookers-on.—American Boy.

What a Boy Should Know

A boy should intimately know the English Bible. He should know it as literature quite aside from its religious teaching. He should know it from having had it read to him from his earliest years, and from reading and studying it for himself. Under this same kindly home influence, and with the same tactful personal introduction, every boy should have an opportunity to know the world's great stories, such as Robinson Crusoe, Gulliver's Travels, The Swiss Family Robinson, and The Pilgrim's Progress. A mind well stored with poetry and a taste cultivated to the love of the best is a treasure to a boy. To give this seems so easy, if the home influence and interest begin early. It only requires a wide-awake boy to become possessed of these books. The public library is accessible to very many, whether they live in village or city. There are also very cheap editions of most of them which may be gotten. The difficulty, however, is not that boys do not have a chance to secure them, but that they are too often left like rare plants without any attention. No one suggests to them the real pleasure in an occupation which leads to such knowledge as best fits their growth. It is not strange then that in a very important sense the boy is left too often to grow wild. The common sense way is for each boy to keep his eyes wide open and take the chance that brings a suitable book within his reach. Always he may take up the Scripture and its records have for generations charmed not alone grown people but the children too.—Review of Reviews.

Beautiful Answers

A Persian pupil of Abbe Sicord gave the following extraordinary answers:

"What is gratitude?"

"Gratitude is the memory of the heart."

"What is hope?"

"Hope is the blossom of happiness."

"What is the difference between hope and desire?"

"Desire is a tree in leaf: hope is a tree in flower, and enjoyment is a tree in fruit."

"What is eternity?"

"A day without yesterday or to-morrow; a line that has no end."

"What is time?"

"A line that has two ends; a path which begins in the cradle and ends in the tomb."

"What is God?"

"The necessary Being, the Son of eternity, the Merchant of nature, the Eye of justice, the Watchmaker of the universe, the Soul of the world.—Exchange.

Woman's Home Missionary Society

The fifth anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Lexington Conference was held in Jackson Street Methodist Episcopal Church, March 10, 1905, at four o'clock p. m., Mrs. M. C. B. Mason presiding.

A very interesting program was rendered, as follows: Devotional service, conducted by Mrs. Mason; paper, by Mrs. Maggie Slaughter, Louisville, Ky.; solo, by Miss May Wolfolk, Louisville, Ky. The anniversary address was delivered by Mrs. C. D. C. Mebane, Versailles, Ky.

An invitation to the Woman's Home Missionary Society Annual Meeting, which meets in Cincinnati, May 10, 1905, was extended to all ministers and wives by Mrs. J. H. Stanley.

A collection of $6 was sent to the Conference treasurer, Mrs. M. A. Sissle, and credited to the Conference. Much interest and enthusiasm was manifested.

My song is love unknown;
My Savior's love to me;
Love to the loveless shown,
That they might lovely be.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson III—April 16, 1905. Title—"The Supper at Bethany." (John 12; 1-11.) Golden Text—"She hath done what she could." (Mark 14: 8.)

Jesus in the resurrection of Lazarus wrought one of His greatest miracles. It caused many to believe in Him. Others became jealous and told the Pharisees what He had done. The council was called and the works of Jesus discussed. They decided that if they let Him alone all men would believe in Him, and the Romans would come and destroy their nation. Caiaphas, the high priest, told them it was better that one should die for them than that their whole nation should perish. This he spoke by prophecy, not of himself, but of Jesus, who would not die for the Jewish nation only, but for all peoples. This he said to convince them that they would carry out the will of God by putting Jesus to death. From that time forward they advised much one with another how they might kill our Lord. Jesus walked no more openly among them. He went from Bethany to Ephraim, a village about twenty miles north-east of Jerusalem, and there remained in concealment for five or six weeks. Six days before the Passover He returned to Bethany, where they made for Him the feast of this lesson.

I. The Supper. (1-2.) 1. The time was six days before the Passover," or Saturday evening, April 1st, A. ., 30, at the close of the Jewish Sabbath. The Passover was one of the three great feasts of the Jews. It was held in the spring of the year, and in remembrance of the deliverance of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage. Note—This Egyptian bondage was a striking illustration of the bondage of sin. The death of the first-born of the Egyptians teaches how sin will destroy. The Paschal lamb was a type of Jesus, the Lamb of God. The blood of this lamb saving from the death angel, shows how the blood of Jesus may save from eternal death. 2. The place of this supper was Bethany, and in the house of Simon the leper. This village was located on the eastern side of Mount Olivet, nearly two miles east of Jerusalem, and on the road that leads to Jericho. It was at this time a place of wealth and influence. Some of the truest and most loving friends of Jesus dwelt there. The name signifies "house of dates." It is not certainly known who "Simon the leper" was. His association with Martha, Mary and Lazarus leads us to believe that he was in some way connected with that family. We cannot think he was their father. He may have been the husband of Martha, though this is improbable. He was likely no more to them than a "very dear friend." He was not at this time a leper. He was a real estate owner and furnished the house in which this supper was held. 3. We know not how many guests were present. Jesus and His disciples were there, Simon and Lazarus were in attendance, and Martha served. There were likely others present. Lazarus, Jesus had only a few weeks before raised from the dead. Simon he had, no doubt, recently cleansed from leprosy. They were under lasting obligations to Him. Here He probably reclined between them at supper. We may be dying with the leprosy of sin, or dead in transgressions, yet Jesus can heal us, or bring us to life again. Martha was born to serve. Her happiness consisted in acts of kindness to others. She had but little patience with those who had love without works.

II. The Anointing. (Ver. 3.) This Mary was no doubt the sister of Martha and Lazarus. She was an anxious listener, heard the words of Jesus gladly and received them in love. Her soul was overflowing with the gifts and grace of the Spirit. She did not worry about food, or raiment, or the conduct of others. It was her part to love Jesus. This ointment was a compound of the most valuable perfumes of antiquity. It was valued at about forty dollars of our money. This vase was called Alabaster because it was made of a white marble, of great beauty and polish, found in the mountains of Egypt, near the city of Alabast. Mary broke the neck of this cruse and poured the contents on our Lord's head and feet. She then wiped His feet with her hair. The house was soon filled with the fragrance of the ointment. We should love Jesus above all others, and have ways of our own to express our affection. The most valuable objects we have should not be too precious for our Lord.

III. The Murmuring Disciples. (4-6.) 1. The grumblers. Jesus Iscariot is the leader, but others joined him, and they likely gave poor Mary a sound scolding. To-day the class of grumblers is large, they live long and are migratory. They may be found in every land, city, church and home. But few things are done right except what they do. All that is said has a bad motive, except what they say. Everybody is ignorant, deceitful, and dishonest, except themselves. 2. The question: "Why this waste?" was prompted by selfishness. Yet it did look a little extravagant to pour forty dollars' worth of perfumery on our Lord's head and feet. So many say to-day, when they see our costly churches, our display in dress, and our luxuries in food and drink, why this waste. Nothing we give for Jesus, or do for Him, is wasted. 3. The suggestion: "This ointement might have been sold for three hundred pents and given to the poor." Judas did not say this because he cared for the poor, but because he was a thief. But few, if any, who look upon acts of kindness shown to our Lord as wasted, care for the poor. It was the love of money that made Judas a thief, the rich fool a miser, and Ananias a hypocrite. That love for money which makes one industrious, saving, independent and charitable, is to be commended.

IV. The Pleading Savior. (7-11.) 1. Question: "Why trouble ye the woman?" She wrought a good work on our Lord. She acted better than she knew. She did not know that she was anointing Jesus for His burial. The Savior gives us credit for every good deed, and often puts a better construction on our conduct than we ourselves do. 2. Declaration: "She hath done what she could.' She had nothing dearer than this vial of ointment, and when she gave it she bestowed the most valuable object of her life. Can it be said of us that we have given our most valuable possessions to the Lord, and that our best deeds, words and affections have been devoted to His cause. 3. Assertion: "Ye have the poor with you always." A very large per cent. in every age and in every land have been of this class. It is the privilege and duty of the better favored class to help them. We should work chiefly through organized societies. 4. Prophecy: "Wheresoever this Gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall also this, that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her." The Gospel is not theology, not a church creed, not religion itself, but it is God's spell, or God's story. Jesus is the center of the Gospel. The prophecies which teach the coming of Jesus, His birth, baptism, teaching, miracles, death, resurrection, ascension, intercession, return to earth, last judgment, rewards and punishments are parts of the Gospel. This Gospel is to be preached throughout the whole world, and this act of love done by Mary will be told of her.

Scripture References—Psa. 16: 5-11; 1 Cor. 10-31.

The Word—Whether this psalm belongs, as some think, to the later period of the exile or to David, it is a beautiful psalm of trust and confidence in God, expressing the delights and pleasure of religion. The "lines had fallen in pleasant places," the place in which he lived was a "godly heritage." His heart was "glad," his glory "rejoiced." In God's presence was "fullness of joy" and "pleasures for evermore." Even to the Old Testament saint there was nothing gloomy or sad about religion. He found joy and gladness in the service of God. His recreation was in new and diversified service for Jehovah. The verse from Corinthians is a summary of duties from the preceding verses which ought to be read in connection with this one, a principle which will guide rightly our pleasures and recreations to make eating, drinking, playing and vacation all glorify God and honor our piety. Tested by this standard, we can easily determine what is right or wrong in our amusements.

Our Homily: Recreation.—Nothing is more abused than the word "recreation." Recreation is re-creation. To call sports that kill and amusements that degrade and alienate from Christ, recreation, is a misnomer and a lie. Nothing is "recreation" that does not rest and re-create and quicken body and mind. These things which defile and fag mind and body are injurious and not recreative. Vacation should be helpful and bring one back to better work. Only that kind can glorify God. Vacation is not a release from Christian responsibility. Play, fun and frolic are designed to help and not to hinder. These things may be made to glorify God as well as praying and singing hymns. There is nothing in real recreation but what will be honorable and helpful to the saint. What are the conditions of glorifying God in our recreations?

That They Be Clean. There are taints upon some sports which render them dangerous and questionable. There are others which give life to the body and rest to the mind. John Wesley's mother wrote him when in school: "Would you judge the lawfulness or unlawfulness of any pleasure? Whatever weakens your reason, impairs the tenderness of your conscience, obscures your sense of God, or takes away your relish of spiritual things, is sin to you, however innocent it may be to others." Select those recreations that are clean and pure if you would glorify God.

That They Be In Good Company. Old dog Trav suffered for being in bad company. Many an innocent pleasure has been spoiled by its associations. Sports that are really helpful are sometimes joined to institutions which give them a bad odor. For instance, ball-playing, one of the most healthful plays, may be so surrounded by gambling and rowdyism that one cannot play it to glorify God. We must keep in an atmosphere of purity to honor ourselves or glorify God. Let us seek to save recreative sports from bad company.

They Must Be "Recreative" and Not Dissipating. Many a youth makes play the end of living. That is not recreation. Work must precede play. Toil and labor and study are the main ends of life. Only he has any right to play who has earned the time for recreation. Make recreation the "side issue" of life. Create the need for it and you may use it wisely. The church does not condemn any healthy recreation. What she puts her ban upon must have some danger in it or the protest would not be made. When recreation has ben earned, when rest and change are needed, when sport will let down the nerves and unkink the brain, then we can glorify God in our recreations.—Notes from the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topic.

New York Letter

By L. H. Smith

Fifty thousand dollars are to be raised by the ministers of Greater New York for the saving of souls. In accordance with the great evangelistic movement all over the civilized world, they have planned a comprehensive campaign for New York. The revival, to consist largely of open-air meetings, will begin June 18, and it is planned to erect twenty or more large tents in open lots and in the parks. Ballington Booth has already started a big revival in Greenpoint, L. I., where hundreds are professing Christ. He is Commander of the Volunteers of America, and the meetings are non-sectarian.

The New York Methodist Conference has accepted an invitation of the Rev. Dr. Wallace McMullen and the official board of the Madison Avenue Methodist Church, corner of Sixtieth street, to hold its next meeting in that church. The conference is an annual body, and its sessions will begin April 5, 1905.

Charles W. Anderson, of this city, appointed Internal Revenue Collector of the District of New York, by President Roosevelt, will in all probability take his office in June, as the appointment has been confirmed by the Senate. He will take the place vacated by Charles H. Treat, who is slated to succeed Mr. Ellis H. Roberts, Treasurer of the United States, at Washington. There was reported some local opposition to Mr. Anderson's appointment, but no serious objection has been made. He already holds the position of Deputy Racing Commissioner of the State of New York. He is a member of the Republican General Committee, President of the Colored Republican Club of the City of New York, and is the recognized colored Republican leader in the State. Mr. Anderson is one of the best orators in the State and immensely popular with the people.

It has been definitely decided that one of the model tenements to be built with the fund of $1,000,000 provided for that purpose by Mr. Henry Phipps, will be for Negro tenants, and the site has been selected. The committee which waited upon Mr. Phipps, Dr. Gould and their associates, succeeded in impressing them with the importance of making some appropriation in this line for the many Negro families living in New York. The site selected for the Negro tenement covers sixteen lots on Sixty-third and Sixty-fourth streets, eight lots on each street, being 150 feet east of West End avenue. There is already an immense population of colored people living in this section.

Under most favorable conditions St. Mark's M. E. Church, Rev. W. H. Brooks, D. D., pastor, held its twenty-eighth annual reunion on Tuesday evening, March 22, at the Grand Central Palace. The charm and good cheer which has ever characterized this church's entertainments, always the largest of the season, were felt and thoroughly enjoyed on this occasion. The concert which is a special feature, was under the direction of Mr. Dean, the church chorister. The New Amsterdam, the only large colored orchestra composed wholly of Negro musicians in the city, furnished the music for the evening. There were fully 1,300 people present, and their enjoyment was in a large measure due to the capable committee, headed by Mr. John Robinson.

After meeting with spirited opposition from some white women and several prominent colored women for several years, a colored branch of the Young Women's Christian Association has recently been established here. Some of the objectors have been won over, and the remainder are so far outnumbered by those in favor, that it appears the branch is in a fair way to live and flourish.

After a successful two years' course in the Normal class of St. Mark's Sunday school, three young graduates received their diplomas at the exercises held on Tuesday evening, March 7. This was the climax of attendance in a graded school and topped off with a special Normal course, the student coming away a capable and well-trained Sunday school teacher. The Rev. Dr. W. H. Brooks is the teacher of this class, and he has proved its efficiency and worth to a progressive and growing school. The Rev. Mr. Cullen, the assistant pastor, made the presentations to the three successful ones, Misses Letitia Williams, Lillian Taylor and William D. Moore. Miss Williams, the valedictorian of the small class, is an exceptionally bright and accomplished young woman, and is the niece of Miss Alice Wright, an old and well-known school teacher of this city. It is from this class that the school is supplied with teachers and the recent graduates have already received appointments from Superintendent W. E. Handy. St. Mark's Sunday school has more than 500 scholars and is constantly growing.

tics, in the large cities especially, many good men do not like to mix in politics. They make a mistake in this. In our country every citizen should be a politician in the sense that he takes an active interest in the selection of those who represent the people in an official capacity. Too many men do not realize the priceless privilege of American citizenship. They forget the blood and treasure that it has cost. Men have given up their lives in order that they might have this right, and any man who is a man would give up his life rather than lose it. Yet how carelessly many of us exercise the ballot; how indifferent many of us are whether we use it or not. Bad men are united; they always vote; good men are divided. Some of them vote and some do not. If good men would only join in patriotic endeavor the bad, being in the minority, would not be able to accomplish anything."

BRO PASTORS:

We get so many letters of the same tenor as the one copied below that we wonder if many are not neglecting one of the most vital duties of the pastorate. This brother was only waiting to have his pastor say "SOUTHWESTERN" and the money would have been forthcoming at once, and the pastor would have been 25 cents richer. It is no reflection to say that many of our subscribers are not letter writers or business men, and they prefer to have their pastors or some other leader transact the business for them.

If a house to house canvass is made none will be omitted.

MARYLAND SEEKS DISGRACE

Maryland is not satisfied with the separate car law but is desperately seeking a place among those states that have enacted suffrage qualifications, enactments that are a literal disgrace to any state. Maryland does not fear Negro domination—that cannot be claimed with only 52,167 Negro votes. Maryland wants disgrace and must have it. Already the suffrage amendments have passed both branches of the state legislature and now the proposition is to be submitted this fall to the people. The amendments, if carried, will establish an educational and property qualification for suffrage—but more, there will be the understanding clause, with this gate, to which the registrar will hold the key, one man, however learned, can be kept from voting while another man may vote, however ignorant. But Maryland wants to go the full length of the rope, not satisfied with eliminating 52,187 Negro votes, Maryland proposes to give the ballot to 18,307 white illiterate voters. So disgusting is the proposition to Governor Warfield, tho a life-long Democrat, he is bitterly opposed to the proposed amendments. All good citizens, regardless of party, should stand with the Governor in this instance. It is not the aim to elevate and dignify the ballot. The truth is, Maryland hopes to eliminate the Negro vote. But the methods are manifestly unfair and unjust. Now the Negroes in Maryland have but one duty—vote against the amendment with might and main and seek others to vote likewise. If Maryland should succeed in this attempt at disgrace, then other states will follow.

COUNTING THE MILE-POSTS

Did you ever hear our people in the South singing, "Counting the mile-posts one by one?" Well, if you have not, you have missed half of your life. There is a swing of melody that is true to nature and cannot be described. You ought to hear it.

"Farther on and how much farther,
Count the mile-posts one by one,
Jesus will forsake you never,
It is better farther on."

Wrapped up in these lines of ordinary construction is a deal of sound theology and an inspiration to any life in the service of the Master.

Nothing denotes so clearly the rapid progress of the South as does the development of its railroads. Well equipped trains are to be found on most of the roads which are operated over splendid roadbeds. Leaving New Orleans recently, I began counting the mile-posts along the Queen & Crescent Route, and as often as I have made the trip it never grows uninteresting to cross Lake Pontchartrain over the seven and seven-eighths miles trestle.

ATLANTA.—Perhaps nowhere in the country does the relations of the races permit of such interesting study as it does in Atlanta. It is largely a battlefield of ideas. There are two distinct currents represented by two races, each of which currents has two distinct elements. There are the whites to be represented in the first place by Clark Howell, Editor of the Constitution, who is a type of that better element of the white people of the South, progressive and modern in the interpretation of life and who seek to be fair. On the other hand, there is the element represented by John Temple Graves, that is bitter in its denunciation of the Negro and who think everything is too good for the Negro's advancement. These two classes are met in the arena of thought by a progressive and intelligent element of colored citizens represented by Bowen, DuBois, Gaines, Turner, I. G. Penn, W. F. Penn, Proctor, Barber, Moore, and many others. These men have genuine ability and positive manhood, and naturally enough assert from time to time, in a legitimate way, their objections to certain proposed discriminations and curtailment of rights and privileges. Be it said to the credit of Atlanta that these colored citizens receive a hearing. They may not always carry their point, but they are heard. Thus in the hotbed of Southern ideas and ideals choice men of the race are not sitting down morose and disheartened: they are in life's battle in earnest and are seeking a man's place—this and nothing more. No one can stay in Atlanta twenty-four hours without becoming impressed with the self assertiveness of these two distinct types of thought.

Natural enough, most of my time was spent in the Methodist colony of South Atlanta, Georgia, and was it strange that most of the persons whom I met had upon their lips an account of the beautiful death of Miss Marie Adel Scott, or as she was so affectionately called, "Del," who had so recently a triumphant translation. The glorious death of this young woman has made a profound impression upon the religious life of Atlanta. Her consciousness was as clear as crystal to the end. Her faith was strong and abiding. Her relaxation of this world was full and complete. Her insight into the other world bears no contradiction. So beautiful, so Christlike, so peaceful, so triumphant was her passage from this world to the other that she will ever live as an example to the Christian people of Atlanta and especially so to those who saw her as she passed away.

A short time at Gammon Theological Seminary convinced me that the institution had taken on new life. Eighty-six were enrolled, with the largest Junior class on record. Drs. Trever and Yates have gotten used to their harness and the work is going on. Gammon is alive.

THE NEW MT. PLEASANT CHURCH

Many readers will recall the announcement thro these columns of the church and parsonage being destroyed by fire at Gainesville, Fla., on the 18th day of November, 1903, at mid-day. The fire began in the parsonage, and the parsonage together with all the household goods of the pastor, Rev. Jos. M. Deas, the popular secretary of the Florida Conference, was destroyed. Also the beautiful Mount Pleasant church, erected in 1887 at a cost of $4,000, under the pastorate of the late Peter McCray, was burned. This church and parsonage was partly covered by insurance in the National Mutual Church Insurance Company of our church: this was promptly paid. It is upon this site the new church now rises from dust to its present form, this splendid and imposing edifice, with a beautiful frame parsonage on the left of the church. The plans are the most modern and approved, in every way: it has attached Sunday-school classroom, pastor's study, organ loft, and elevated floor: will be heated by hot air, and lighted by electricity: the material in no way resembles the old church. The structure is a model of modern architecture, the material is of high grade brick, and granite, from the state of Georgia, and roofing slate from the state of Maine: the work has been carried forward under the direction of skilled mechanics and is a beauty. Under the able leadership of the pastor, Rev. Jos. M. Deas, who is now filling his seventh year at this charge, the building committee and an ambitious and energetic membership assisted by a sympathetic and generous public, immediately after the fire set at once to rebuild. First, systematic plans for raising money were devised, a popular silver dollar day was fixed, the membership evidenced their intention to rebuild a house of worship the second Sunday after the fire, when they pledged a subscription of $1,800 to be paid during the course of erection. Special care was taken by the pastor in selecting suitable plans. This church is being built at a cost of $9,000. The membership raised and paid by pledge and organized effort last year $1,100, and they hope to be in the church by the month of June. The church is now enjoying a revival. Pastor Deas has had years of experience as a church builder and debt payer, and this makes the fifth church erected under his pastorate, in the Florida Conference. Conversions reported from his charge in 1903 was the largest of any evangelical church in the state. During that year he led the Conference. The number of conversions were 121 and 94 accessions. The Epworth League is flourishing and the young people are active. Rev. Deas was royally received by the members upon his return for the seventh year.

Personal and General.

Mrs. Cooper, the wife of Rev. T. B. Cooper, of Hahnville, paid us a pleasant visit last week.

Bishop Cyrus D. Foss becomes chairman of a law and order society of the city of Philadelphia.

Prof. H. W. McDonald, principal of the Literary Department of Gilbert Academy, was in the city last week.

Dr. J. C. Sherrill desires his correspondents to address him at Harper Cape Palmas, Liberia, West Coast of Africa.

Bishop Hamilton is the leader of a movement in San Francisco that has for its object the purification of the city government.

Bishop John H. Vincent will conduct a "Seven Days' Study in Church Life" in the Metropolitan Church of Toronto, from April 4th to 11th.

Bishop Luther B. Wilson and his family will soon be established in their home at 217 McCallie avenue, Chattanooga, Tenn.

The Lincoln Conference is taking steps toward establishing a college. Bishops Warren and Mallalieu are interested in the movement.

Rev. W. S. Durias, of Oak Grove, Ala., will preach the annual sermon for the Jabez Burthen Friends of Africa of Marion Institute, Marion, Ala., on May 21.

Revs. C. K. Brown and S. R. Gipson stopped awhile in Denver, Colo., enroute from the Lincoln Conference, and were for a time the guests of Bishop H. W. Warren.

Prof. R. M. Davis, A. B., delivered an address before the M. C. B. Mason Literary Society of Marion Academy on Friday evening, March 10th. Subject, "Arnold at Philadelphia."

Through the courtesy of Rev. J. D. Jenkins, secretary of the Savannah Annual Conference, we are in receipt of the official minutes of the twenty-ninth session of that body.

Rev. J. W. Tate is doing good work at Chattanooga, Tenn. He has just closed a gracious revival in which eighty precious souls were converted. The church work is in excellent condition.

Rev. and Mrs. Aaron Davis announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Annye Mai, to Mr. E. Lawrence Henington, which will take place Thursday evening, April 6th, at Mt. Zion M. E. Church, Crystal Springs, Miss.

Rev. C. K. Brown, B. D., of Guthrie, Okla., represented the SOUTHWESTERN at the Lincoln Conference and made a good showing for the cause. He also wrote a very interesting account of the meeting and took a creditable subscription for the Bishop Scott Launch Fund.

Bishop Mallalieu is hard at work with the Commission on Aggressive Evangelism. The fifteen days ending March 12 he preached eight times, took part in nine other services, conducted several altar services, was present at various committee meetings, and wrote about 200 letters, and is in splendid health.

We are pleased to announce that the Hon. G. G. Walker, a white resident of Centerville, has contributed towards our new church at that place, $100; Mr. Gilbert Paul and the presiding elder, Rev. W. R. Butler, $10 each; Mrs. V. L. Landry subscribed $25. The pastor, Rev. Charles C. Landry, is greatly encouraged.

Dr. A. Walter Brazier, the salutatorian of class '05, Flint Medical College, left the city Saturday of last week for Chicago, where he will take a post-graduate course in the Medical School of Northwestern University. We extend to Dr. Brazier our hearty congratulations on past achievements and wish him in his latest undertaking large success.

Rev. W. A. C. Hughes, pastor of Jackson Street M. E. Church, Lynchburg, Va., is closing a year of unusual progress. This is his second year on this charge, during which time he has succeeded in paying off a mortgage debt of many years standing. About $6,000 has been raised; nearly one hundred souls converted and more than that number added to the church. Rev. Hughes has received his salary in full and will carry to the Conference the largest benevolent collection this church has ever raised. The Lynchburg Daily Advance in commenting on this splendid year's work, says: "Rev. Hughes knows how to succeed. He has youth, training, and moral courage on his side and the hearty support of his people. The congregation will petition the Conference for his return.

The latest reports state that from January 1 to March 11 the number of deaths caused by the plague in India, was 318,178. In the Bombay presidency 28,721 deaths occurred, making a total of nearly 350,000 deaths. The viceroy of India is sending out a scientific expedition to investigate the cause of the disease in the hope that a remedy may be found.

President Roosevelt left Washington on his trip through the Southwest Monday morning, April 3rd. Brief stops were made at Louisville, St. Louis, Dallas and other places, and on April 6th Mr. Roosevelt will attend the reunion of Rough Riders in San Antonio, Tex. From April 8th to May 20th he will hunt in Oklahoma and the mountains of Colorado.

Flour, Butter and Eggs

Do not be deluded by the deceptive claim of economy for the cheap baking powders. Instead of saving, their use results in a wastefulness of the most serious kind.

First, there is the loss of an occasional baking. Flour, butter and eggs cost too much to risk spoiling them with an inferior baking powder. Royal's work is uniformly perfect, and materials are never wasted where it is used.

In the second place, the adulterants which are used to cheapen the cost of many baking powders have a harmful effect upon the health. No prudent person will risk an attack of indigestion to save a few cents on baking powder. Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure and wholesome, actually adding anti-dyspeptic qualities to the food.

Thus the use of the Royal is doubly economical.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Farm and Fireside

One of the best ways of keeping cows from becoming persistent strippers is to have all of the heifers milked the first year by the best and fastest milkers on the farm.

Did you ever think how valuable an acre of ground can be made by planting it thickly with trees, thus forming a grove in which to feed hogs? Plant it into trees that grow rapidly and form plenty of shade. The most valuable acres on some farms are handled in this manner. Catalpa and locust are very suitable, and when a few posts are needed they may be cut from; besides, the hogs can be fed away from the summer's sun.—Farm Journal.

An invention of great interest is now widely exploited by several factories in Vienna. They use up 20,000 quarts of skimmed milk daily to make substitutes for marble, ivory, celluloid, bernstein, hard rubber, etc. The milk, otherwise almost valueless, is prepared with formalin and other substances, which process causes it to form into a white, easily handled stone, which is unaffected by either fire or water. It is entirely elastic and can be easily cut. All sorts of articles for use and ornament are made from this milkstone.

The bearing canes of raspberries and blackberries should be removed immediately after fruiting. Cut out all small, weak canes, leaving only five or six in the hill.

If you have more lima beans than you need, gather the overstock before quite ripe, and dry and shell them for winter use. Half-ripe ones are more tender than quite ripe ones.—Notes from the Christian Standard.

Do not have any strong flavored food, such as garlic, cabbage, turnips, etc., stored close to the milk house. The milk is liable to absorb the odor.

The cow's udder should be thoroughly cleansed before milking, and if the hair on the udder is not easily kept clean, it should be clipped.

Milk should not be used, except to feed pigs, for fifteen days before calving, and from four to six or eight days after.

Watch the young cow's udder with her first calf, as it is more apt to cake or go wrong at this time than any other. Do not attempt to take all the milk out of it for the first four or five days. Let the calf have all he wants, and if enough is left in the udder to endanger caking, it should be taken out.—From the Southern Agriculturist.

HEALTH.

Hot water as a remedy. Headache almost always yields to the simultaneous application of hot water to the feet and back of the neck.

A towel folded, dipped into hot water, wrung out quickly and applied over the stomach, acts like magic in cases of colic.

A towel folded several times and dipped in hot water, quickly wrung out, and applied quickly over the seat of pain, will, in most cases, promptly relieve toothache and neuralgia.

A strip of flannel or towel, folded several times lengthwise and dipped in hot water, then slightly wrung out and applied about the neck of a child suffering with an acute attack of croup, will usually relieve the sufferer in the course of ten minutes if the flannel is kept hot.

Hot water, if taken freely a half hour before bedtime, is one of the best possible cathartics in severe cases of constipation, while it has a most soothing effect upon the stomach and bowels.

There is no domestic remedy that so promptly cuts short congestion of the lungs, sore throat or rheumatism as will hot water when applied promptly and thoroughly.—Journal of Health.

Literary Notes

Luther Burbank, the California magician, has developed a verbena with a strong arbutus fragrance. He has made possible a new fruit, the plumcot, a combination of the common wild American plum, the Japanese plum and the apricot. He has accomplished what Darwin hinted at, but accepted with reservations—the grafting of one tree upon another and at the same time the transformation of the tree without fertilization, the accomplishment of a complete cross by the graft. The details of these and other experiments, Mr. Burbank's aims, beliefs, and hopes in his work, will be the substance of William S. Harwood's article in the April Century, the second of two papers on "A Wonder-worker of Science."

The offer we are making on the Mayflower and bulb proposition is really great. Don't miss it, and hurry, for time is short. Persons who have already paid for this year, may send only 25 cents and get them.

"Africa's Appeal to Christendom" will be voiced in the April Century by Prince Momulu Massaquoi of Ghendimah (Gallinas), of the British Protectorate of Sierra Leone, a remarkable character. The parents of the young prince placed him under the tuition of a Mohammedan priest when he was eight years old. Two years later he came under Christian influence at a mission school, and after several years' residence at the mission was baptized and confirmed. At the age of sixteen he came to America and entered Central Tennessee College at Nashville. The death of his mother recalled him to his people before his college course was finished; but he revisited the United States to represent Africa at the Parliament of Religions and the African Ethnological Congress in connection with the Chicago Exposition.

To Dr. Emil Reich's slashing article "The Bankruptcy of Higher Criticism"—Canon Cheyne replies under a caption equally pointed—"Shal We Put the Clock Back in Biblical Criticism?" The Living Age reprints these two notable contributions to current discussion in its numbers for March 25 and April 8.

Doings of the Workmen.

ALABAMA.

East Lake, Willie Wood—Rev. W. H. Nelson, D. D., presiding elder, held his first quarter at Brownsville M. E. Church February 25-26 and on Sunday morning met the Sunday school and delivered an interesting lecture at 11 o'clock. He preached to a crowded house, also at 7:30 p. m. Our collection on Sunday was a grand success.

Mantau. — Rev. V. D. Oatman, pastor, writes: "I came here from Anniston. My people were without a parsonage—one started. I took hold of the work and in less than three months the parsonage was completed and new furniture purchased throughout. The noble membership felt that the pastor should have a horse to aid in doing faithfully his work and accordingly Mr. B. C. Howard, one of the enterprising officers went forward at once and purchased a horse and outfit for $150. The sixteen class leaders took up the debt and presented the same. A storm struck the parsonage and loaded the tables and kitchen with all kinds of groceries. Rev. W. H. Nelson held, March 18 and 19, our first quarterly conference. The doctor was at his best in both the work of the conference planning and in two great sermons on the Sabbath. The collection raised during the session of the conference was $26.50. I now have all the work in hand. During the conference many strong words were spoken for the SOUTHWESTERN and as a result we obtained four yearly subscribers and have a promise of many more. I purpose to put the paper in every home, if possible, during the year. I found Miss Eunice Trammell, the daughter of Rev. W. T. Trammell, in charge of the day school which she is carrying on with great satisfaction and benefit to all concerned. Her daily enrollment has been so large, that many have been turned away. Miss Trammell is doing much to push on the work of the church, in connection with other duties. The Epworth League has been organized with a junior department and the Sunday school greatly revived. The League is in the hands of Mr. F. W. Goodson, and the Junior in charge of Miss Mirtis Burden, who is also president of the district juniors. My people are with me in every interest and I am headed for success."

MISSISSIPPI.

W. H. SMITH, PASTOR, HICKORY, MISS.—I arrived at this place February 11 and immediately took charge of the work. Owing to the fact that the former pastor had been ill for five months the members were somewhat scattered, but the leaders responded to my call and now the outlook for this work is bright. The first quarterly conference was held by our presiding elder, Rev. J. M. Shumpert, on March 2. A large number of the members of the conference were present with good reports. At night a splendid audience gathered and the holy sacrament was delivered to more than 50 communicants. Paid the elder in full, $17.20; Pastor, $23.55; raised for benevolence, $6.00; 3 yearly cash subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN. This is the result of two weeks' work.

J. W. BYRD, PASTOR, Ackerman (Miss.) Ct.—Our first quarterly conference convened March 4-5 with Rev. T. W. Davis, D. D., presiding elder, in the chair. T. O. Lane was elected secretary. The conference was a success. Raised for pastor and presiding elder, $54.00. Perfect peace and harmony exists between people and pastor. The pastor's salary for 1905 is $635 and parsonage; presiding elder's, $75.

SUMMIT AND MAGNOLIA, MISS.—March 4-5 was a happy day with us on this charge. Our first quarterly conference was held at Magnolia with Rev G. W. Smith in the chair. He addressed the conference with words that will be forever remembered by those present. The people of Magnolia were proud of his coming and sorry of his leaving. The elder and the people were favorably impressed with each other. Rev. Smith was nicely entertained by Mr. and Mrs. McCoskey. The elder was at his best on Sunday and the church was crowded at each service. Paid the Rev. Smith in full, $12.95; pastor, $31.85; total, $44.80.

S. JOSSEL, PASTOR, Pelehatchie, Miss.—Our first quarterly conference was held on February 24 and we had a pleasant session. Elder J. C. Hibbler was present. Rev. S. Jossel, the pastor, who has returned to this work for the fifth year, was absent on account of sickness. The conference, though held in the middle of the week, paid the elder $21.00 and on the first Sunday in March paid pastor $27.05. We will do all that we can to increase the circulation of the SOUTHWESTERN. Pray that this may be the best year of our ministry.

H. FORD, PASTOR, Barlow, Miss.—Our quarterly conference was held with elder G. W. Smith in the chair. Eighteen officers were present with good reports. Paid the elder in full. Rev. Smith went about his business just as though he had been at it for some time. He preached two soul-stirring sermons and also presented the cause of the SOUTHWESTERN and the benevolence.

B. W ROBINSON, PASTOR, Paulding, Miss.—On account of the cold, sleet and snowy weather, I was late in arriving at this work, but succeeded in getting here on February 20, and found the good people eagerly looking for the new pastor. On the third Sunday I met the Leonia church; on the fourth Sunday I went to Magnolia and Oakbrier; on the first Sunday in March I reached the Grand and Spring Hill church. I find this work still alive along some lines. On Tuesday night, February 28, a storm rose among the good people of Leonia and came southwest until it struck the home of Bro. —— Heard, where the pastor and his wife were stopping. With songs of joy and comforts upon their head, their hands, shoulders and arms filled with good things of various kinds for the table. About 80 pounds were left, also a purse. This storm was lead by Bro. G. W. Lightsly, Viney Lightsly, Dan Jones and many others too numerous to mention.

J. H. BYNUM, PASTOR, New Albany, Mis.—On February 24 a storm struck the parsonage at New Albany lasting until Saturday morning. A dray driven by Mr. Eddie Brown stopped at the parsonage and our hearts were filled with gladness by its contents which were deposited on our table. Money was found among the many good things. Both Baptists and Methodists participated. All praise to the good people of New Albany. Their is no better people in upper Mississippi Conference. We extend our heart-felt thanks to them, and invoke God's blessings upon them.

S. A. COWAN, PASTOR, Meridian, Miss—The first quarterly conference of St. Paul was held by Dr. Shumpert February 25-26. It was our first beautiful Sabbath since the adjournment of our conference, and the people turned out in large numbers. The church was well filled at each service. Dr. Shumpert was at his best and preached two strong sermons. About 200 persons partook of the Lord's Supper. The collection during the day was $40.40. The outlook is bright for a prosperous year's work.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Have You Uric Acid, Rheumatism or Bladder Trouble?

Pain or dull ache in the back is unmistakable evidence of kidney trouble. It is Nature's timely warning to show you that the track of health is not clear.

If these danger signals are unheeded, more serious results are sure to follow; Bright's disease which is the worst form of kidney trouble may steal upon you.

The mild and the extraordinary effect of the world-famous kidney and bladder remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. A trial will convince anyone—and you may have a sample bottle free, by mail.

Swamp-Root Entirely Cured Me.

Among the many famous cures of Swamp-Root investigated by the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, the one we publish this week for the benefit of our readers, speaks in the highest terms of the wonderful curative properties of this great kidney remedy.

Gentlemen—I attribute my present good health to Swamp-Root. I suffered many years with kidney trouble and had an almost constant pain in my back. Your great remedy, Swamp-Root, cured my trouble, and I have since been perfectly well.

Yours truly,
B. H. Chalker, Ex-Chief of Police,
Ozark, Ala.

Lame back is only one symptom of kidney trouble—one of many. Other symptoms showing that you need Swamp-Root are obliged to pass water often during the day and to get up many times at night, inability to hold your urine, smarting or irritation in passing, brickdust or sediment in the urine, catarrh of the bladder, uric acid, constant headaches, dizziness, sleeplessness, poor digestion, nervousness, irregular heart-beating, rheumatism, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science

To Prove What SWAMP-ROOT, the Great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy, Will do for YOU, Every Reader of Christian Advocate May Have a Sample Bottle Absolutely Free by Mail.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. PAPOOSE POPCORN

FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

M. P. FRANKLIN, Acting President.

How Is Your Heart?

Is your pulse weak, too slow, too fast, or does it skip a beat?

Do you have shortness of breath, weak or hungry spells, fainting, smothering or choking spells, palpitation, fluttering, pains around the heart, in side and shoulder; or hurt when lying on left side?

If you have any of these symptoms your heart is weak or diseased, and cannot get better without assistance.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure strengthens weak hearts, and rarely ever fails to cure heart disease. Try it, and see how quickly you will find relief.

"About January 1st, 1902, I took down with weakness and dropsy, and gradually grew worse. I was told by my family physician that my case was hopeless. My neighbors and family had given me up to die. My limbs and body were swollen to one-third larger than normal size, and water had collected around my heart. For at least three months I had to sit propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I sent for five bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and by the time I had taken them all I was entirely cured. I feel better than I have for twenty years, and I am able to do any kind of work on my farm. My attending physician told me that if it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I would now be in my grave."

L. T. CURD, Wilmore, Ky.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

To the Pastors and Laymen of Vicksburg District: The missionary convention for the Vicksburg district convenes in Fayette May 4th. Dr. Logan will be with us, and we expect a great time. I will give a fine prize to the pastor who raises the largest easter collection. Get envelopes and mite boxes from missionary society. Come to the district convention prepared to make fine reports. Push your committees.

Fraternally,

R. P. THRELKELD, P. E.

On the first Sunday in May, 1905, a "Silver Dollar Rally" will be held at Watervalley, Miss., conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. D. Troupe. All pastors of the city and their congregations are invited. The pastors and people of Oxford and Grenada are expected.

CENTRAL MISSOURI CONFERENCE

The second annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society convened in business session in the lecture room of Union Memorial Church, March 10, at 10 o'clock a. m. The regular order, including reports from officers and delegates and appointing committees, was followed. In the afternoon the ladies formed a line and marched up-stairs in the auditorium, where they held their anniversary services in the presence of a large and appreciative audience. Our deaconess, Miss Joiner, of Union Memorial Church, gave an interesting address. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Anna Adams Henley, made an encouraging report of the work in the Central Missouri Conference and recommended the consideration of a deaconess home to be placed at Sedalia in conection with Geo. R. Smith College. Mrs. J. E. Chambers, member of the general committee for colored deaconess work, made an instructive address. Mrs. M. L. Curl, president of St. Louis conference Woman's Home Missionary Society, made a plea for the financial department.

A collection of $10 for contingent fund was taken. Dues for this year, $92.60; contingent fund and delegates' expenses to Denver, $45.69; total, $138.29. Saturday morning, March 11, officers were elected and the general business was transacted. At 1:30 p. m. the executive committee met in Rev. Gillum's study and transacted their business in an intelligent manner. Their third annual meeting will be held next March at Lexington, Mo., in connection with the annual conference.

President, Mrs. J. M. Harris, 1822 Woodland avenue, Kansas City, Mo.; Secretary, Mrs. J. M. Smalley, Bridgeton, Mo.; Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. H. A. Henley, 216 S. 9th St., Louisiana, Mo.

Dear Sisters of the Little Rock Conference: The fiscal year of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church closes July 15. The third quarter closes April 15. What are we doing in our charges to advance the work and to raise the amount of $225 assessed the Little Rock Conference? The apportionment to each district was $45. Our true friends who have stood and are still standing by the Homes for Colored Girls in the South, urge that we make earnest efforts to raise the amount asked. The new work begun must have money for completion. Our own Adeline Smith Home needs more room for better accommodation and must have money to push forward its work. Can we not show more love and appreciation for the kindness and help received from our good northern friends by giving more of our time and means to advance the work? We urge the assistance of each pastor and presiding elder; it is impossible to succeed without their co-operation. Let all the loyal sisters, especially the ministers' wives, become members and earnest workers in the Woman's Home Missionary Society. "Give! give! cheerfully give as God has given to you!" Let none hear you idly saying there is nothing I can do while the souls of men are dying and the Master calls for you.

MRS. G. N. JOHNSON, Con. Cor. Sec.

The pastors of the Nashville District Tennessee Conference will please remember that Sunday, April 30th, is the day set apart, by a vote of our last annual conference, for a rally in each pastorial charge for Walden University. Each of the 4 districts has been apportioned $250.00 and that of the Nashville District has been apportioned equally to the several pastorial charges. Now let each pastor lay well his plans; execute them; raise his full apportionment, and forward the same to President J. A. Kumler, D. D., Walden University, Nashville, Tenn., and secure from him a receipt for your annual report.

Very respectfull yours,

W. R. SMITH, P. E.

The pastors of the Huntsville District Texas Conference will please make a great effort for the mission cause on Easter. We desire every church to make full reports. As I am Missionary Secretary, any suggestion is that the best plan would be for us as pastors to get interested ourselves. The church needs the money. New fields are to be opened up. Our missionary preachers are suffering. Let us go to their assistance. Never was there a time when this cause needed your assistance more than now. This race of ours must be saved directly through the ministry of the Gospel and the missionary fields must be propagated according to the interest each pastor manifests. Let us pray, canvass and work for a great sweeping victory for the missionary cause on Easter Sunday. I am yours for the cause,

T. S. PRYOR, Mis. Sec.
Huntsville District.

To Pastors of Monroe District: You are hereby notified to meet in Monroe April 25 at 1 o'clock p. m., at St. James to plan for a missionary rally. Dr. G G. Logan will be present in the interest of the missionary cause.

J. O. BROWN, P. E.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society, Dallas District: Dear Sirters—The winter has passed, the spring is now here and with it new life to vegetation; so let it be with the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Dallas District. And whereas, the pastors in the annual conference at Ft. Worth gave the fifth Sunday in April to this Society, let us bestir curselves and make that day a memorable one. The pastors promised to help us. They will remember the Eliza Dee home and work and pray for its success. And, dear pastors, on your charge, where there is no auxiliary, please take a collection on that day for home missions and forward the same to the conference treasurer, Mrs. E. S. Spriggs, 741 Dawson street, San Antonio, Tex. Dear sisters, don't think of stopping because the home is opened. There is more urgent need now than ever before. Do not become discouraged, the Lord will bless your labor. Remember Mrs. Spriggs, who for eight years has plead and toiled for this Home and she is now, if possible, more anxious, more persevering than ever. Dear sisters for love of Christ and in his name do all you can. Pastors, forget not your promise. SUSIE H. BURGESS, District President.

Cleveland, April 21-23; Big Spring, 29-30; Tateville, May 6-7; Rockwood, 12-14; Dayton, 12-14; Coultersville, 20-21; Oaltewah, 27-28; Athens, 27-28; Sherman Heights, June 2-4; Churchville, 3-4; Soddy, 10-11; Jasper, 10-11; Wiley Mem., 15-18; Tannery Flat, 16-18; Hill City, 17-18; South Petersburg, 23-25. My Dear Fellow-Workers: Let us begin the work of the third quarter with greatly increased zeal and resolute determination to recover all the ground lost in the second quarter resulting from the very unfavorable conditon of the weather. We must by all possible means arouse our people and beget in them a larger spirit of Christian giving. We have done well in the past, but we must advance until we shall have done our best. Every dollar of our benevolent collections must be raised this year. Give large and special preparation for Easter Sunday. Make it a great missionary rally day. Look well to Children's Day. Let it be a gladsome service for all and raise a splendid collection for the cause of education. Secure from our book room the special programs for Easter and Children's Day and have them carried out with religious and financial success. Do not let the year close without a revival in your charge. Work, pray and live for it and God will send it. Do your best to obtain subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. Your brother,
J. B. L. WILLIAMS.

Dear Brethren: I hope by this time you have your work in fine condition for Easter, April 23. Strive to carry out the program in full. Easter and Children's Day are the occasions that you must make a good showing in the way of raising your apportionments for benevolence. Let us pray and work for one thousand conversions, three hundred subscribers for SOUTHWESTERN, and eight hundred dollars benevolent monies on Vicksburg district this year. Our district conference will convene in the city of Vicksburg July 26, at 9 o'clock. Program will appear later. The way to succeed in church work is to keep the people busy. Make things hum. Dr. G. G. Logan will hold a district Missionary Convention at Fayette, May 4. Brethren, be sure and attend this meeting. Come prepared to report your Easter collection. I remain your brother in Christ,

Field Notes

Sealy—W. W. Brown, Pastor.—At a late hour at night a storm arose somewhere in the town of Sealy, moved eastward and centered at the parsonage. Quite a large crowd was present. Rev. J. L. Morsely spoke in behalf of the citizens of Sealy and welcomed the pastor to the homes of the A. M. E., Baptist and M. E. Church members. Miss Willie E. Brown was very active.

Hemphill.—Our first quarterly conference was held with the presiding elder, L. S. Blakney, in the chair. The brethren were all present with very good reports. Paid the elder, $10; pastor, $27.50. We could not have service on Sunday, owing to inclement weather.

Queen of all hair tonics. This, the greatest and most meritorious remedy for the human hair, causes the hair to grow with rapidity and gives to it that rich glossy tone so much desired by all. No matter how short or harsh or curley your hair may be, Glossine will make it long and straight, soft and fine, and of so rich and pliable a texture that it can be dressed in any prevailing style desired. Glossine cannot fail. I stake my honor on its great merit and prove its worth by sending a full-size box free to all who write to me. Address MISS HELEN MARTIN,
No. 9 Governor St., Richmond, Va.

Literary Notes

Lippincott's Magazine for April opens with a novelette of attractiveness. "The Man Who Adopted Asia" is a thrilling adventure story of the Far East, from the pen of Will Levington Comfort, whose recent visit to the seat of war has been productive of some very interesting fiction. Rosa Bonheur's personality possesses such attraction that a reminiscent paper about her under the title, "The Greatest of Women Painters," must meet with much favor. Its author is Theodore Stanton, the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

And Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost—One Who Did It Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder diseases, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatsoever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

THE GREAT FRENCH SYSTEM.

FOR THE HAIR AND COMPLEXION is used in our Beautifying Parlors on hundreds of ladies and gentlemen, and we can prove beyond a doubt that MME. TURNER'S MEDICATED HAIR GROWER will cure any scalp trouble and stimulate the growth of hair, no matter what its condition may be. Price, $1.00. We give the kind of soap we want you to use.

We can also prove to your satisfaction that MME. TURNER'S MYSTIC FACE BLEACH will cure every, any, and all kinds of spots, marks or blemishes in 8 or 10 days, giving you a youthful, clear, sweet complexion, at least three shades fairer. Price, $1.00. Soap free. Send all orders to our Beautifying Parlors.

They Live in Our Memory.

Fordoche, La.—Sister A. Johnson, a good and faithful member, died in peace March 15, 1905, when the messenger of death came she said all is well; I am ready to go to rest." She leaves husband, mother, father, six children, two sisters, two brothers to mourn. Funeral conducted by Rev. E. V. Taylor, assisted by Rev. Miles of the A. M. E. Church.

Brinkley, Ark.—Bro. Willie Cairo, aged 29 years, departed this life Mar. 13, 1905, in full triumph of faith. Willie had strayed away from his teachings while in Helena, Ark., but when his mother got to him and began to pray, her son made his peace with God. Willie's father is one of our elders in the Little Rock Conference and he was on his work when he received the sad news. Willie leaves many friends to mourn his loss. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, A. T. S. Stephens, assisted by D. W. Feaster and Rev. W. H. Whiting.

Compti, La.—Mrs. Letha Pattison, age 45 years, went home. She leaves six sons, six daughters and two sisters to mourn her going. She was a member of the Baptist Church. Rev. E. H. Clark conducted the funeral.

Scooba, Miss.—On the 11th inst. Sister Roda Dappie, one of Blues Chapel's old members, went home. She leaves three sons and a host of friends to mourn. She was a member of Centerlight Chapter Eastern Star No. 192. A faithful servant of God is gone to her rest. P. R. Crump.

Yazoo City, Miss.—Feb. 26 Mr. Moses Bowman departed this life. He was the brother of Mrs. K. B. Jamison. March the 6th Sister Peggie Jordan departed this life in peace with God. She was a young member of St. Stephen M. E. Church. She asked that the Sunday School and Epworth League meet her in heaven. March 14 Mr. Willie Newman died. He professed faith in Christ before the end.
A. J. McNair, P. C.

Kilmicheal Circuit, Miss.—To Bro. Alx. Z. Dennis, of Mt. Zion M. E. Church, on Sunday March 12th, 1905, about 1:15 o'clock, death came. He was in the church taking collection and singing when death came. Bro. Dennis was a loving and obedient member, and a good steward, and a devout Christian, a good husband and father. His life was full of joy and gladness. Weep not dear wife, mother, children, and brothers and sisters, for your loss is his eternal gain. May the God of love and mercy watch over and protect his family. Bro. Dennis was 26 years of age. He leaves a wife and three children, was a member of the church eleven years. His funeral was conducted by G. W. Baker, P. C.

New Orleans, La.—Sister Cornelia Smith fell dead on Saturday morning, March 18, 1905, at her home and passed beyond all medical aid. She had been a member of Mallalieu M. E. Church for some years. Owing to the heavy rain on Sunday afternoon, it was a matter of impossibility to reach the church, hence the funeral was from her home on Second and Chestnut. She was from Nashville, Tenn. She was about 74 years of age. Rev. H. J. Wright attended her funeral assisted by her leader Adam Thomas. She leaves no family, or relatives, but willed her fine piece of property to the lady that lived with her.

THOMAS A. EDISON, the inventor, in mapping out the problems of the future, gives first place to the necessity of fighting the bacteria which give us our diseases. Next to the actual bacteria of disease, the mosquitos and flies are the most dangerous enemies of man. The mosquito with its bite injects into our veins malaria, yellow fever, and other fatal troubles. The fly, with spongy feet, collects the invisible germs of diseases, spreads them over our food and poisons us with typhoid, cholera and other plagues of the human race.

Dr. Pierce, the eminent physician of Buffalo, N. Y., says, "If each person will consider his system as an army of men which he controls as a general, and will see to its proper provisioning and that it has plenty of ammunition in the shape of good red blood, he will be able to overcome the enemy in these germs of disease." Every healthy man has five million red blood corpuscles to every square millimeter of blood. The best tonic for increasing the red blood corpuscles and building up healthy tissue is no doubt Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This medicine has been on the market for over a third of a century and numbers its cures by the thousand.

Many popular patent medicines or tonics are made up largely of alcohol and will shrink the corpuscles of the blood and make them weaker for resistance. What is needed is an alterative extract, like Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, made of roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol, that will assist the stomach in assimilating or taking from the food such elements as are required for the blood, also an alterative that will assist the activity of the liver and cause it to throw off the poisons in the blood. When we have accomplished this we have put the system in a fortified condition so strong that it can repel the germs of disease which we find everywhere—in the street-cars, the shops, the factories, the bedrooms, wherever many people congregate, or where sunlight and good air do not penetrate.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Neglected constipation means headache, heart-burn, sour stomach, foul taste in the mouth, biliousness, pimples, and palpita- of the heart. Constipation is promptly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One for mild cases, otherwise two.

Port Allen, Ga.—Miss Maggie Walker departed this life March 14th, 1905. She was not a member of any church, but asked for prayer before she died. After prayer she said thank God. Rev. C. Spears.

Washington, La.—Mr. Edmond Burrel, a native of Washington died Mar. the 5th, age fifty years. He leaves a wife, a son, three daughters, two brothers and many friends.

Little Brother Walker Eagleed died March the 7th, age three years. Rest in the arms of Jesus. S. Green.

Vanceville, La.—Bro. Geo. Brown, a member of Scott Chapel M. E. Church, departed this life March 10, 1905. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Irvin Henderson and Rev. Rogers, of the C. M. E. Church and the Rev. Langs, pastor of Mount Zion M. E. Church. The deceased leaves a wife and one child and many friends to mourn.
Irvin Henderson, P. C.

Maringouin, La.—The little babe of Mrs. Rebecca Matthews, age ten months, is with the angels. May God comfort the parents. The funeral was conducted by Rev. A. B. Venable.

Egypt, Miss.—Sister Zeddy Dabbe, a faithful member of Drake's M. E. Church died March 11. She leaves a mother, brothers and sisters and other relatives and friends who mourn the loss of her. Funeral by Rev. C. Clary.

Clinton, La.—Death visited the home of Sister Turner, a member of Beach Grove M. E. Church, and took her husband from her. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. H. Hunter, Rev. J. D. Banks and Rev. B. Carr.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

"La Creole" Hair Restorer contains the ingredients used by the most famous Creole beauties. It will restore gray hair to its original color, stop falling hair, cure dandruff, keep the hair clean, soft and glossy and will make curly or kinky hair lie straight and smooth for a long time.

MISS NANCY RICE.

Nothing Takes Its Place.

This is a photograph of Miss Nancy Rice, 185 Beale street, Memphis, Tenn., who has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for years, and who says:

"Nothing I have ever used will take the place of your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer, as it keeps my hair in a splendid condition."

Miss Rice is a woman of striking personal appearance, which is owing very largely to her fine hair, the result of using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT

Has Done Wonders.

This is a photograph of Mr. Louis Nemore, residing at No. 10 Turley St., Memphis, Tenn., one of the most highly respected colored men in the city. He is implicitly trusted by his employer for the last ten years—Dr. Heber Jones, one of our most prominent physicians, and now president of the Memphis Board of Health. Mr. Nemore says he takes pleasure in stating that our "La Creole" Hair Restorer has done wonders for his splendid head of hair. "It has kept my hair from falling out, and has kept my head and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. I recommend it very highly."

MR. LOUIS NEMORE.

W. R. Butler, Secretary.

The second anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Knox was celebrated on Wednesday, March 29th, at their residence, 207 Hagan ave. A delcious repast was enjoyed by the many friends present, among whom was the Rev. T. J. Johnson, of Wesley Chapel.

On last Sunday morning at Wesley Chapel, 219 persons partook of the Holy Sacrament. The stewards collected $55.89. Sunday morning the Sunday school's new banners were christened by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson. The school's collection was $5.14. Total collection for the day, $61.03.

Mr. A. L. Scott, a student at New Orleans University, called at the office this week. We were pleased to have him renew his subscription to the Southwestern.

Services at Mt. Zion were excellent all day Sunday. Forty came forward for prayer at 11 a. m., two accessions. At night the Anniversary Sermon of the Poter's House and Ladies' Union of Love and Charity was preached by the pastor. The revival spirit is aglow and many stood up to be prayed for. Easter will be befittingly observed. Church on the up-grade. Collection for the day $51.00.

By special order of the Preachers' Meeting, a union revival and consecration meeting was held at Mt. Zion last Wednesday and Thursday, conducted by Rev. C. W. Reeves, assisted by the city pastors. The meetings began at 12 m. sharp, and lasted for three hours, and the results can best be told when, up to Sunday night, 30 precious converts were added to the church, and every one present was quickened and strengthened. The Rev. McCary, Conference evangelist, was at his best and rendered excellent service. As a result of this union consecration meeting, all of the city churches are now entering into their yearly revivals and the indications point to a genuine awakening along religious lines.

The services at Thompson Chapel, Rev. D. M. Seals, pastor, were largely attended on Sunday April 2. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to 92 communicants. Collection, $20.60. Backsliders are returning and every thing bids fair for a good year's work.

At Williams Chapel, Sunday, April 2nd, general speaking meeting was held at 5 a. m., Sunday school at the usual hour. At 11 a. m. speaking meeting was continued. In the afternoon the Sons and Daughters rendered their monthly programme. This service was conducted by Brothers H. Parker and R. Davis, with the president, Mrs. I. Dauphine; in the chair. At 6 p. m., song service was well attended, led by Miss S. A. E. Brasely and Mr. J. Jefferson, following which the Holy Communion was administered by the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves, assisted by Brother Wm. Mathews. One person was received into full membership Two annual subscribers for the Southwestern. Collection, $31.46.

The pastor of Haven Chapel, Rev. J. McKee, and his officers are trying to impress upon the members the necessity of a better attendance upon the church services. A committee was appointed and the following members were notified to meet on March 31: J. D. Hayens, L. W. Carpenter, Alberta Brewer, Jake Upshaw, E. J. Gilbert, Lucy Johnson, Georgiana Upshaw, Deliah Brown, Adel Freeman, Harry Duferno. The same were excluded from the church for wilful neglect of the means of grace.

Romanta G. Seals, son of Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Seals, who has been ill with intermittent fever, is now recovering.

On the night of March 22, the Junior Epworth League of Haven Chapel, led by Miss Eddreana Watkins, Mrs. Violet Benville and Miss Emily S. Green, surprised their pastor, the Rev. J. McKee. The crowd was so large that the church was opened to receive them. The presentation speech was made by Miss Emily S. Green, and the pastor responded in a happy vein. Refreshments were served. The inmates of the parsonage were indeed pleased to receive so many pounds of fine groceries.

Simpson Chapel, Sunday April 2.—Sunday school at usual hour, 9:30 a. m., in which they are having record-breaking attendance. General speaking meeting at 11 a. m. All received a blessing and several unconverted ones came forward for prayer. Young people's song service was begun at 6:30 in the afternoon, with Mr. Chas. Moore as director. It was a brilliant success, and the old people as well as the young were delighted at the programme rendered. Mr. Moore deserves much credit for the able manner in which he managed the service. A large audience was present. Sunday night the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to 213 persons. Revival services have begun. Three backsliders returned. Thursday, April 13, at 7:30 p. m., Rev. W. F. Waters, under the auspices of the Epworth League, will preach a special sermon. All are cordially invited.

Revival services were begun at Mt. Zion M. E. Church on Tuesday evening, March 21. The pastor, Rev. F. T. Chinn, is putting forth every effort for the salvation of souls. Several unconverted souls went to the mercy seat, three were saved. Revival services will be continued until Easter. Seventy-five persons attended early morning prayer meeting Sunday morning. The Sabbath school is growing rapidly. Rev. Chinn preached a brief but beautiful sermon to the sinners Sunday evening, March 26. Collection for the day, $15.75.

RECEPTION TO DR. BRAZIER.

A grand reception was given by the pastor, Rev. T. B. Cooper, and members of St. James M. E. Church, Hahnville, La., on Saturday night, March 25, in honor of Dr. A. Walter Brazier. The church was beautifully decorated and a large and appreciative audience was present to extend congratulations to Dr. Brazier, who is an esteemed member of the church and an honored citizen of this parish, having the love and respect of all who know him. Welcome addresses were delivered by Prof. A. C. Morrell and ex-Judge N. Keyles. Rev. Cooper, master of ceremonies, in well-chosen words introduced Dr. Brazier, who spoke with force and eloquence on "The Possibilities and Responsibilities of our Race." The choir, under the direction of Prof. Morrell, rendered excellent music. Mrs. F. A. Cooper excelled herself in the beautiful solo, "Days May Dawn and Fade Away." With her sweet soprano voice she captivated her listeners. After the benediction was pronounced refreshments were served in abundance.

COTTON.

The advance in price some predicted has not yet materialized. While fluctuating considerably it remains at about 7½c for middling The final government report settles the question of a phenomenally big crop, lots of which will have to go over into the calculations of the coming crop.

Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson entertained Dr. A. W. Brazier, a recent graduate of Flint Medical College, Tuesday evening, March 28th, at their cosy new home on Iberville street.

EASTER PROGRAMS.

In addition to the various programs for Easter issued by the Book Concerns, the Missionary Society has put out one called "Light and Life," that is sold for $1.00 per hundred, postpaid, if cash accompanies the order. The one entitled "Morning Cometh," sold by the Book Concerns, costs $2.40 per hundred, postpaid. There is a limited supply of both at this office, from which cash orders will be filled as long as they last.

NEW ORLEANS, APRIL 13, 1905

Vol. 39 No. 15

Editorial

The condition in which one lives, and not the locality, makes one an object of missionary effort. The heathen is at your door. Help save him.

Aggressive evangelism in its best sense means personal effort for the salvation of others. On your effort the salvation of some soul largely depends. What are you doing about it?

Greater New York is to be even greater. It is estimated that the population has increased from 3,437,202 in 1900 to 3,902,097 at present. This one city contains more than half of the entire population of the State of New York.

Justice John M. Harlan, of the United States Supreme Court, has started a movement in support of the establishment in Washington city of a Presbyterian cathedral. The movement will not only prove a help to the denomination, but to Christendom in general. May the movement have abundant success.

Don't make money-getting the final standard of the success of your ministry. You are a fisher of men. Let soul-getting be the chief inspiration of all your labors. The building of the Christ life in temples of clay, the strengthening of character, the purifying of motive—that's the minister's paramount business.

Some people would organize a trust on "sunshine" and have the joy of the sun's rays all to themselves, or else make the world pay dearly for it—so selfish they are. There are persons possessed of the same spirit who never share the joy of their lives with others, and who begrudge the joy that others may have. This world would be so much happier if individuals would share their joy with others who are less fortunate. Not only would the "less fortunate," but all concerned, be happier. This was the principle in Christ's life; suppose you try it?

There is an element of personal will in every man's damnation. The fall of every man, with its accompanying legitimate miseries and besetments, can be attributed to his personal choice. Suppose men do sin, it is the Christians' business to help them again to righteousness. Go where the sinners are and where they have sinned, and offer to the fallen the redemptive and constructive Gospel of Christ Jesus—a Gospel that redeems man from the curse of a sinful life and constructs him anew after the divine pattern. They sinned of their own choice, you say; we can not, however, leave them to their fate without making an effort to save them—if we do we jeopardize our own peace of soul now and reward hereafter.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP GROWING

The recent election of Judge E. F. Dunne as Mayor of Chicago is very significant. He was the candidate of the Democratic party, but was particularly elected upon the platform of the municipal ownership of the street car system of Chicago. Mr. Harlan, Judge Dunne's opponent, running upon the Republican ticket, favored the municipal ownership of the street railways at some later date, but Judge Dunne conducted his canvass upon "immediate ownership" and was elected.

This brings a live issue into American politics. Just at the time when capital is extorting from the people the excessive prices for the necessities of life, the people are inclined to take to the idea of the municipal ownership of the common carriers. Chicago already owns its electric light and water plants, and whereas the city once paid $125.00 to a company per year for each arc light, under the present system of municipal ownership the same light costs the city only $54.00 The water works has not only paid for itself, but has accumulated a surplus of nearly $1,000,000. The franchise, which is always a very important element in the assets of a street railway, and the right of way for the water supply, belong to the city, and therefore to the people, and whenever the city can conduct its own enterprises for public convenience and largely reduce the cost thereof it should do so. If Chicago succeeds in a fair measure in handling its street car lines, then the movement may become general. Already the agitation has been started in New York City. The first speech in favor of municipal ownership being delivered by Judge Dunne, of Chicago, last Friday evening.

If the telegraph systems were owned by the National government and superintended as is the postal service, the public would get better and cheaper service. In like manner would railroad transportation be improved and cheapened under national ownership.

RUSSIA'S EMBARRASSMENT

The police fired upon some Russian workmen in the village of Smolensk recently, and several workmen were killed. Along the route of the funeral procession of one of the victims six thousand people assembled. Red flags were displayed everywhere. Socialists deposited a wreath on the coffin on which was inscribed: "Died an innocent victim in the struggle for victory," while a banner was floated with the inscription, "Death to the Czar, the Assassin."

The Czar is closely guarded and refuses to leave his castle. It is believed that he is unbalanced in mind, if not well-nigh insane. He has been so vacillating in his policies, so void of strength in his administration, so senseless of his opportunities to make good with his people, that it is believed that he cannot long endure the present strain. Russia is indeed in a pitiable predicament.

THE RACE HIS HEIR

Mr. Joshua Parker, who died recently at Dover, Delaware, placed before the race a worthy example. He was the wealthiest Negro in lower Delaware, being worth at least $10,000. His estate is willed to the Delaware State College for Colored Students, with the proviso that his heir is to have certain benefits during her lifetime. In giving his wealth for the upliftment of the race, Mr. Parker emphasizes the privilege our men and women of wealth have for helping in the development of the race. Many of our people, for lack of a little forethought, permit much hard-earned money to pass from the race. There is a sort of skepticism as to the making of wills among our people, and the preachers should seek to correct this tendency from the pulpit and in private conversation. Teach our people to remember their churches and schools in their wills, if the amount is small it will help in many ways.

Mr. Parker had a splendid career. He gave much of his time to politics, being a member of the Regular faction of the Republican party in Delaware. He was at one time deputy United States marshal at Washington. He saved his money. He lived economically, and leaves his earnings for the good of the Negro. Dr. W. C. Jason, president of the Delaware State College for Colored Students, and Mr. George Jones, of Dover, Delaware, are the executors named in Mr. Parker's will.

BY WHAT NAME SHALL WE BE CALLED?

Certainly not "Niggers." It seems even a pollution of cold type to put up such a word. It is used in contempt very largely and for humiliation as well. Some Negroes profane the race by a continual use of the word in reference to themselves and others. A Negro who persists in using this term ought to be excommunicated. Now the Southerner out of respect at times mixes his spelling and says "Nigro." Its a little too dignified for him to use the "e" in stead of "i." Some seek the resurrection of the slavery appellation, "darkey." That term was buried with slavery, and since Gabriel has not blown his trumpet and there has been no resurrection, let the dead sleep. The New York Age glories in the term "Afro-American," which gives rise to the question, "Who is an American?" The Negro is a full-fledged American by habitation on this continent, by toil and service, by death upon every American battle-field and by the Constitution. Who dares insult the memory of Crispus Attucks by calling him an "Afro-American?" He was an American; if not, then, who? How would it sound to say, Anglo-Saxon American? That would insult a patriot. Some in designating the race, say "Colored people"—and for an Americanism that might do—but the term is weak. What then shall be the name? Negro,

Fanny Crosby at Eighty-Five

When conditions are as they should be, long life is a good thing. The Scriptures uniformly so represent it. "That thy days may be long," is the well-known incentive to obedience embodied in the fifth commandment. "With long life will I satisfy him that hath set his love upon Me," says Jehovah in the 91st Psalm. "Length of days, and long life, and peace," are promised to those who keep God's statutes. "The hoary head is a crown of glory if it be found in the way of righteousness." And many such like words there be. They are amply confirmed by general experience and common desire. Where goodly measure of health is given, and a fair sufficiency of support, and there is retention of mental and physical faculties, together with friendship's solace and the blessing of continued usefulness, then indeed the benediction of Wordsworth comes to pass:

"An old age serene and bright,
And lovely as a Lapland night,
Shall lead thee to the grave."

Also there are special joys connected with this period of life that come to no other: There is an accumulation of wisdom and experience; there are stores of happy memories; there is a ripening saintliness and heavenly mindedness which is a close prelude to heaven itself, and far more than compensates, to him who looks at matters rightly, for the loss of certain grosser pleasures afforded in the earlier days.

"For age is opportunity no less
Than youth itself, though in another dress;
And as the evening twilight fades away,
The sky is filled with stars invisible by day."

These stars are plainly visible in dear Fanny Crosby's sky at 85, and we are well assured that she is proving to the utmost the promises: "Even to your old age I am He;" and, "They shall still bring forth fruit in old age."

Among the fruit that she is bearing in these advanced years, besides the hymns which she still occasionally writes, must be reckoned the beautiful example of sunny cheerfulness which she uniformly exhibits and the thankful spirit, long cherished, which has become a permanent habit, a second nature. In her "Life Story," which was written two years ago (A lady, a personal friend of Fanny Crosby, writes that she gives her permission to say that this book is not authentic—she does not sanction it, and has nothing to do with it.—Editor Herald), speaking of the physician through whose mistake in treating a slight inflammation of her eyes at the age of six weeks she was doomed to blindness for the rest of her earthly existence, she says: "If I could meet him now I would say, 'Thank you! Thank you!' over and over again, for making me blind!" She says, also: "If perfect earthly sight were offered me to-morrow, I would not accept it." She counts her blindness the blessing of her life. She has loyally received her condition from God, fully believing that He assigned her to physical darkness so that she might be better prepared to sing his praises unhindered by external distraction. Her life has been sweet and winsome all through. There is a charm about her, intimates declare, wholly apart from her features, and not to be transcribed or put in type. Her hands are seldom empty of their accustomed knitting. She chats as she works, and her face beams with animation as she listens. She is a merry companion, and it needs rather sharp wits to keep up with her in repartee. But the keynote of her life is love, and she is fertile in finding some excuse for those who have gone wrong.

She bears glad testimony to the joy and sunshine that have attended her days. Her health continues sound. Her spirits she reports as "every bit as light and gay as during my girlhood; my enjoyment of all the blessings of life is more full and intense than ever." "From the vantage-ground of eighty-five years, I look back upon fair and peaceful valleys, plains and hillsides, covered by flowers, interspersed with only now and then a thorn." She feels young and encounters no more fatigue, she avers, from her frequent journeys and efforts before audiences than she did thirty years ago. She finds her work growing sweeter and grander each day, and has set the mark of her life at one hundred and three, the age of her grandmother. With the vigorous constitution that she has inherited, together with her hopefulness and Christian trust, there would seem no good reason to doubt that she has many happy years yet ahead of her in this world before she is promoted to test the larger joys of the other.

Probably few books of Christian song at all likely to be anywhere in use in this country for prayer meeting or Sunday school purposes will be without some of her contributions. Our present Methodist Hymnal, compiled nearly thirty years ago, contains no specimen of her verses, and it may be that none of them will be found of sufficient dignity and solidity to claim a place for themselves in the new Hymnal soon to be issued; but we should hope that she might be represented there by at least one of her sweet compositions. Her fame has certainly grown much in thirty years. Indeed, she scarcely had written at all until forty years ago; at least, there were no hymns before that date. Her first book of poems, "The Blind Girl," was published in 1844; the second in 1851; the third in 1858. All had a good sale, but are now out of print. They contained some secular songs which became very popular, such as "Rosalie, the Prairie Flower," "Hazel Dell," "Music in the Air," "Proud World, Good Bye." She has also composed several cantatas, among them "The Flower Queen" and "The Pilgrim Fathers," the music for which was furnished by George F. Root and Lowell Mason. Only in one case has she herself written the music for her verses.

In 1865 she began to write hymns. The first of the thousands—over 8,000 are now to her credit—was written for Mr. Wm. B. Bradbury, and began,

"We are going, we are going,
To a home beyond the skies."

It proved to be the hymn selected to be sung when Mr. Bradbury died in 1868. After this she wrote mainly for Robert Lowry, W. H. Doane, and Biglow & Main, her present publishers. At one time she wrote so much that fully two-thirds of new books would be her compositions; and the publishers, thinking it would look better to have them seem to be by different authors, got her to write under a large variety of pseudonyms, such as Charles Bruce, Arthur Langton, Frank Gould, James Apple, Julia Sterling, etc. More than a hundred of these disguises were adopted, so that it is not easy to know the full depth of our indebtedness to this gifted writer. But, we presume, nearly or quite all that are of highest excellence have been specifically acknowledged or transferred to the right author.

So much of the vogue of a hymn or song depends upon the quality of the tune to which it gets married that it is quite conceivable that when diligent examination is made some of the best work of Miss Crosby, from a literary or poetic point of view, will be found in compositions not much known to the public. Some of those which have become most familiar and endeared by association are: "Rescue the Perishing," "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," "Blessed Assurance," "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour," "All the Way my Saviour Leads Me," "Some Day the Silver Cord Will Break," "Jesus, Keep Me Near the Cross," and "Saviour, More than Life to Me." There are special stories about some of these songs, the circumstances of their production, or the good they have done, that, if all were gathered together, would make quite a volume. "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" was written for Mr. Doane in fifteen minutes while he waited in haste to get a train. "Blessed Assurance" was written to accompany the tune previously prepared by Mrs. Knapp. "All the Way my Saviour Leads Me" was written in gratitude for a special answer to prayer. "Rescue the Perishing" was written after an evening spent at the Bowery Mission in New York, and has been widely used to help many. Her own favorites are, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Rescue the Perishing."

To a reporter who interviewed her, the other day, she said: "I do not recall a single hymn that I regret having written. I believe that I was inspired to write what I did, that I was controlled by a higher power, and that my best hymns performed their mission." She finds it needful to consider moods in her writing, as most people do to some extent, to wait for favorable times, and to stimulate the appropriate feeling by prayer and meditation. She says: "I never undertake a hymn without first asking the good Lord to be my inspiration in the work that I am about to do." She has formed the habit, also, of holding a small volume in her hand while composing or reciting. She finds something inspiring about the midnight hour, when everything is quiet, and often sits alone then with her thoughts, lying till late the next morning. She carries her compositions in her mind, working them over and perfecting them, until she can dictate them to her sister, Mrs. C. W. Ryder, who cares for her.

Her home is at 756 State street, Bridgeport, Conn., where she is in comfortable circumstances, and all her wants are supplied. Her publishers send her a monthly check, which they have promised shall never fail as long as she lives. She was much annoyed by a statement that somehow obtained currency awhile ago to the effect that she was in sore straits financially and needed charity. This is not true. Nor is it true that she was benefited by the profits from the "Life Story," published some two years ago. She is now herself engaged in writing a full autobiography, which she will issue in the course of the year, and from which she will, it is to be hoped, obtain some revenue.

When fifteen years of age she became an inmate of the Institute for the Blind in New York city, and some years later she became an instructor in it. She remained here in this capacity till 1858, when she was married to another teacher, also blind, Mr. Alexander Van Alstyne, with whom she had a happy married life, which was closed by his death, June 18, 1902. She has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church since 1851.

Many interesting and pathetic incidents have occurred in her life, of which she likes to talk. While she was at the Institute she came to know Grover Cleveland, he being secretary of it for three years. The acquaintance was renewed at a later time, and there has been considerable correspondence between them. She has met many of the most conspicuous figures in American history, enjoying the friendship of Presidents Tyler and Van Buren, of Henry Clay, William H. Seward, and Gen. Winfield Scott. Henry Clay lost a son in the Mexican War battle of Monterey, and Miss Crosby sent a few stanzas on the occasion to the father, which touched him very deeply and drew out his grateful acknowledgment. She is said to be the first woman to appear publicly before Congress at Washington. It was in 1844, when she and others from the Institute for the Blind demonstrated in various ways what education could do for them, as an argument for the governmental assistance which was sought. At his time she recited three of her poems, upon repeated requests from the congressmen.

She has made almost numberless addresses, and is still in demand as a speaker in religious meetings. For many years she went to Northfield to assist in the program of the Bible Institute. She has a clear voice, with a strong carrying power, and can be well heard by a large audience. She has a fund of humorous stories, as well as pathetic incidents, and raises both smiles and tears. When speaking she stands by a table or desk resting one arm upon it; in the other hand she holds a small book, and if at a loss for a word or a thought, raises it quickly to her lips.

She is very fond of children, and they are equally fond of her. Railroad men, also are her favorites. She has a personal acquaintance with 800 of them, and is an honorary member of their Nash Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington, D. C.

God directs the minds of his true disciples into channels of right thinking and working toward the uplifting of his people. Three brethren, namely, Maurice West, James Dorsey and Albert Mitchell, saw the necessity of establishing some place of worship that the little ones of Trinidad might be brought into the Fold. They went from house to house, secured the names of sixty-three children, opened a Sunday school on King street in 1893, thus sowing the seed for the future church, Nash Memorial. Rev. Alfred Young, our present presiding elder, was then pastor of Union Mission. These brethren mentioned secured his help and with the aid of Mr. Ephraim Nash, organized a mission in this vicinity.

The mission was organized in the fall of '93, with Rev. Young as pastor. Rev. W. H. Brooks was presiding elder. Mr. Nash had been instrumental in organizing several missions. This was the last mission established by him. He helped to maintain the work up to the time of his death in 1894. He had sincere love for the mission work and was happy in this and like causes. He was exposed to weather in bringing Christmas treats to the children of the mission, which exposure resulted in his final illness. The establishment of this church is in part to keep fresh his memory. The family of Mr. Nash have been a great help in bringing about the present result. Mr. Frank Nash, his son, has been especially instrumental, and like his father and is giving his time and money to the cause.

Rev. Young completed the conference year as pastor. He was succeeded by nine brethren, some serving a few months, and some a year or two. Among them we might mention Revs. Jackson, Jennings, Reed and T. P. Thomas. Rev. Thomas was my predecessor. During his pastorate he raised $130 toward building a church. I was sent here as pastor in 1902. Since that time we have bought a lot, which is a very desirable one, on the corner of Trinidad and Levis streets. We have erected a church on this lot; one that we are proud of; one that has been highly commended by some of the best critics, both white and colored, who claim that the edifice is one that commands admiration. We also have a parsonage nearly complete. The present indebtedness is about nine hundred dollars on church and parsonage.

REV. C. C. BROWN,
Pastor Nash Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church

The church was dedicated Sept. 18, 1904. Rev. N. M. Carroll preached at 11 a. m., "A Greater than Solomon is here." At 3 p. m. Dr. J. C. Nicholson preached the dedicatory sermon, "New Life—ye must be born again." The presiding elder, Rev. Alfred Young, dedicated the church.

NASH MEMORIAL METHODIST EPISCOOAL CHURCH

He was assisted by the following ministers: Revs. N. M. Carroll, D. D., M. W. Clair, Ph. D., C. G. Cummings, B. D., B. T. Perkins, B. F. Myers, S. H. Norwood. At 8 p. m. Rev. Young preached, using as his subject Solomon's Temple. The dedicatory services closed the first Sunday in October. The above named ministers, also Rev. Long of the C. M. E. Church, with their congregations, kindly visited us. Rev. Dennis, of Baltimore, Rev. M. J. Naylor and Dr. Gallagher, President of Lucy Webb Training School, were with us on the 25th of September.

The year has been a successful one. We have received twenty-eight in the church. Benevolences all raised by 1st of January. We have a membership of fifty-seven and twenty-four probationers. We are safe in saying that there is not another congregation in proportion that can do better work. C. C. BROWN, Pastor.

Believe me, whatever of dignity, whatever of strength, we have in us, will dignify, and will make strong the labors of our hand; whatever littleness degrades our spirits will lessen them, and drag them down. Whatever noble fire is in our hearts will burn also in our work; whatever purity is ours will chasten and exalt it; for as we are so our work is; and what we sow in our lives that beyond a doubt we shall reap, for good or for ill, in the strengthening or defacing of whatever gifts have fallen to our lot.—Lord Leighton.

One valuable way of practicing self-control is in checking grumbling, and an unnecessary display of vexation at petty inconveniences. A workman has fulfilled his task imperfectly, some order is wrongfully executed, someone keeps you waiting unreasonably; people are careless or forgetful, or do what they have in hand badly. Try not to be disturbed; be just, and show the persons to blame where they are wrong, even (if it be needful) make them do the thing over again properly; but refrain from diffuse or vehement expressions of displeasure. A naturally quick, impetuous person will find that to cultivate a calm external habit is a great help toward gaining the inward even spirit he needs.—H. L. Sidney Lear.

An Appeal For Special Cases

The General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1904 took the following action to guide the Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church in its administration:

"That no application for a donation from any church costing over $10,000 shall be entertained by the Board.

"That churches costing more than $10,000 shall be aided only as the result of a specific appeal for funds by the Board for definite cases, and the funds thus received shall be administered at the discretion of the Board.

"That the General Committee shall not adjust the askings from, and authorizations to the Conferences for the purpose of aiding any definite church, but all administration of the funds of the Board shall be exclusively under the Board's control."

Many cases for specific appeal have been presented to and considered by the Board. After the most thorough consideration of all these cases, the Board has determined to make specific appeal for aid to four churches located in College and University towns.

The Board also determined "That in all cases of specific appeal for donations to churches costing more than $10,000, the appeal shall be made to individuals only and not for church collections and such appeals must in every case be for special contributions distinctly additional to all regular annual donations."

After a careful study of the detailed statements of the financial needs and the appeals from Berkeley, California; Princeton, New Jersey; Oberlin, Ohio; and State College, Pennsylvania, the Board has determined to ask special contributions to aid these churches to the extent of $30,000. It ought to be understood that the churches named are located in places where the Colleges and Universities are under control other than Methodist, and where hundreds of Methodist students are in attendance who ought to be provided with suitable religious opportunities and privileges in their own church. It is hoped that men of means and intelligent comprehension of the importance of making such provision for Methodist students will see that money thus invested will be far reaching in its results.

The funds secured as the result of this appeal will be under the administration of the Board, and will be wisely and judiciously dispensed. Receipts and vouchers will be given to the contributors to this fund for contributions which should be made payable to the Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and all contributions will be credited to the church and the Conference with which the contributor is connected. Any contributor may designate which one of the churches named he desires to benefit or leave the designation to the Board, but all contributions must pass through the treasury of the Board of Church Extension.

On behalf of the Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Cyrus D. Foss, James M. King, Robert Forbes, Samuel A. Heilner, Alpha G. Kynett, Committee.

The undersigned join in this appeal: Charles H. Fowler, Charles C. McCabe, David H. Moore, John W. Hamilton.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

The Two Chords

FANNIE E. JACKSON.

We have two chords
  In life's refrain—
The joyous and glad,
  Then the minor strain.

The storm beats wild
  On the mountain height;
In the valley below
  The sun shines bright.

This life is ever
  A shifting scene,
Where shine and shade
  By turn intervene.

Joy and sorrow
  Are laid at our feet;
'Tis the lesson of life,
  The bitter—the sweet.

There's a joyous note,
  Then a funeral dirge;
They follow each other
  Like surge upon surge.

When the boatman pale
  Shall row us o'er
The river of death
  To the sunlit shore.

The discordant note
  No more we'll hear,
But rapturous songs
  Will greet the ear:

And earthly clouds
  Will be swept away,
While the sun shines forth
  In endless day.

The curtain will rise;
  We'll understand,
There's only one chord
  In the heavenly land.

My Cup Runneth Over

"My cup runneth over." "He had not only a fullness of abundance, but of redundance. Those that have this happiness must carry their cup upright, and see that it overflows into their poor brethren's emptier vessels. The showers that fall upon the highest mountains should glide into the lowest valleys." The fact that you are a Christian may without doubt assure you a safe entrance into heaven, but it may not mean that you are much of a blessing to your friends about you. God makes the life to overflow, that other men's lives may be touched with your power. For it is only the overflow of your life that proves a blessing to your friends and kindred. It is the overflow of the Nile that makes the valley of the Nile fruitful—J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D.

Harvest of Eternity

One of the best and most soulful men in our own times has said these words, "For as our thoughts are we shall be." Notice the future tense. Because we are created after the image of God we cannot escape the fact that words and looks are inseparably connected with thought. You must feel scornful before you can look scornful, and in this case our thoughts are forerunners to our feelings. It takes a great deal of a certain kind of thinking before a man can be the breaker of truth. A haughty spirit has a vast amount of thinking as its predecessor. Men do not usually think more highly of themselves than they ought to. Something new has come into a soul's life before it can be arrogant and proud. What you are to-day is in the largest measure the record of what you have thought. What you will be, as truly will be determined by the thoughts which you have let sway in your life. The seed for the harvest of the future is sown in your hearts by the thoughts you cherish. The harvest of eternity is a mighty serious matter with us all. Then "whatsoever is pure, whatsoever is lovely, whatsoever is of good report, think on these things."The Classmate.

One Word of God

It is marvelous how one sweet word of God will make whole songs for Christians. One word of God is like a piece of gold, and the Christian is the goldbeater, and can hammer that promise out for whole weeks. So then, poor Christian, thou needst not sit down in despair. Go to the Comforter, and ask Him to give thee consolation. Thou art a poor dry well. You have heard it said that when a pump is dry, you must pour water down it first of all and then you will get water; and so, Christian, when thou art dry, go to God, ask Him to shed abroad His joy in thy heart, and then thy joy shall be full.—C. H. Spurgeon.

He always wins who sides with God,
  To him no chance is lost
God's will is sweetest to him when
  It triumphs at his cost.

The Ministry of Freshness

A religion of commandments grows burdensome. A religion of ceremonials grows wearisome. A religion of personal love is ever buoyant with the spring and variety of personal character. Can you not see a special freshness and exuberance and simplicity of joy, a cordial welcoming of every new day as a new blessing in the life of the simplest and most childlike Chhristians, whose religion begins and ends in this: "I love Christ and He loves me; and I can please Him if I am pure and true and good; and so I will try to be with all my might and His." The great ministry of freshness to the stale lives of men is the Holy Spirit, whose work is to take of the things of Christ and show them to us.

Think how the lives of the apostles must have been changed in regard to their freshness, from the time that they knew Christ! Many and many an evening Peter and James and John must have rocked in their boat on the lake, watching the sun sink below the hills that lay behind Capernaum, and wondered whether it would always rise on days as monotonous as those that they were living. But from the time that they looked up from the nets that they were mending, at the sound of the strange, sweet, authoritative voice that called them, and left their nets and followed the Stranger, we are sure that such wonderment was gone. They began to find life all new. Life and death both became to them full of those deep, pregnant meanings that are always thrilling us as we read the New Testament. They began to live eternal life, as they loved to call it, by which they meant not merely life that is to last forever—which is sometimes all that we mean by it—but life that, in every moment of it, was fresh and deep and vtial with the Divine companionship of Christ. "This is life eternal, to know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ who Thou hast sent." The personal friendship had transfigured their dull routines and filled their mortal life with the fire of immortality. The divineness of Christianity is testified by nothing more than by its renewal, not once again and again, of the variety, the novelty, the Spring of life.—From "Christ the Life and Light," by Phillips Brooks.

Let Them Pass

Yes, let them pass, the ills of yesterday,—
The deed unlovely, and the speech unjust
The whispered hint-betrayal of our trust
That struck Faith's chalice from our lips away,
And trailed her graceful garments in the dust;
Our own default,—the good we might have done,
The battles lost that patience might have won,
The "word in season" that we did not say!
But let them pass, the things that grieved us sore.
Behind His back God casts the sins of men,
Repented of, remembering them no more.
And shall not we who have been born again,
And by His wondrous grace to Him brought nigh,
Hold fast the good, and let the evil die?

Postal Card Sermon

By REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: John 19:30.

Theme: "The Crowning Act of Redemption."

The crowning act of the redemption of man from sin, death, and hell, was the voluntary, vicarious death of Christ just after His triumphant, victorious shout: "It is finished." Love's redeeming work was done and the faithful worker made it known to all throughout the universe of God. The bloodiest battle of all ages was fought and the victory won by Him, who single and alone was able, and did tread the winepress of the wrath of God. The eternal entrance to life was opened wide, and the highway to glory was thrown up so that all who desire to enter heaven may do so without fear. The tempestuous voyage from the farther shore of the mysterious sea of His incarnation to the dark shadows and agonies of the cross was finished, and He, the Son of God, and the Son of man makes it known to all the intelligences in the realm of His Father in all the ages past, and to come.

The words of the text have a wide, deep, and sublime meaning. They mean, that as the life of Christ was unlike other men, so was His death. They mean that the indignities, shame, ignominy, He suffered and the warfare which He waged and fought alone for all mankind, were accomplished. They mean, that pardon is freely offered to all; to those who longed to and did feast their eyes in His streaming blood, and regaled their ears with His dying groans. They mean, that death is abolished, the gates of hell closed, the prisoners set free, and the door of heaven opened to all men.

The text declares, that Christ's earthly errand was finished, the will of His Father emphasized.

The text expresses an anticipation of eternal rest. Jesus' life on earth had been a hard one; but before Him was the joy of final triumph over every foe, the paradise of endless happiness, the glory which He had with His Father before the world was, and the ancient throne of glory and beauty upon which He sat, ere "the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy."

The text contains a shout of triumph. Jesus had triumphed in the design, in the execution, and in the results of His work; having destroyed the works of the devil, taken away the sin of the world, satisfied Divine Justice, abolished death, and made possible the great resurrection day.

The text assures us that the work of redemption is complete, that we can now obtain all the blessings of life, that all men have a right to victory over death which has no sting, over the grave which has no terror, and that the way to heaven is now wide open to all who by faith in Jesus desire to enter into eternal life.

YOUNG FRIENDS

The Daughter of Springtime

BY WARWICK JAMES PRICE.

When April's warm rain kisses old earth awake,
And the bluebirds hymn praises for grim Winter's death,
And the buds from their overcoats bourgeon and break,
Then the hillsides grow fragrant with Violet's breath.

Little daughter of Springtime, as timid as sweet,
Why hide yourself there in your snug bed of leaves?
Why challenge the tread of the world's careless feet?
Why shrink from the homage true beauty receives?

Is it modesty moves you to dwell so obscure?—
The chum of some pixy, the love of some elf.
Nay, the cause I can guess; it is this, I am sure:—
You fear to eclipse the proud Queen Rose herself!

—The Criterion.

A Boy's Sister

An elderly lady and two young girls, walking together on the street one day, met a boy known to one of the girls. Stopping to speak to him for a moment, she introduced him to her friends. When they had bidden him good afternoon and passed on the lady remarked:

"I think that boy must have a very nice mother and sister."

"He has. Mrs. Lee and Nellie are both lovely. But how did you know?" replied the girl, in a surprised tone. The lady smiled.

"I did not know it, but I guessed it from his manner. A boy who is snubbed at home does not act like that one when he is out. Only home kindness and courtesy and the training that love gives can make a boy such a frank, easy, well-bred gentleman," said she.

The girls looked at each other a moment, and the one voiced the thought of both.

"I'm going to be careful how I treat Ned after this. If people are going to judge he by him, I'll be on guard. And I know you are right about it. There is Will T——. When you speak to him he always shuffles his feet and puts his hands in his pockets, and hangs his head and stammers. His sister is always chasing him out of her way and scolding him, and her mother acts as if she were ashamed of him, and sends him off out of sight when there are callers. I honestly believe he would be as nice as Rob, too, if he had the same chance."

"Quite likely," said the other girl. "I know he is good-natured and bright, when he forgets to be awkward and embarrassed. I think I shall have to look out, too, and make sure that my little brother is a living demonstration of my amiable disposition," and though she laughed as she spoke, under the laugh was a tone of real earnestness.—The Classmate.

The Price of Manhood

Into a college community there came last commencement an old man of splendid presence and fine oratorical gifts. The boys, in their parlance, "went wild" over him. There was but one sentiment among them—"That's the man I want to be like."

"Boys," said an old professor, "that's a fine ambition. There isn't a nobler man in the state than Judge R——, God bless him! But before you make up your minds to be just like him, let us count up the cost."

Then the professor told his eager listeners something of the private history of their hero from boyhood up; of privations, of thwartings, of misunderstandings, of losses, of crosses, of disappointments—aye, and of failures, all of which had gone to make up their man.

"You may be sure," he said, "God saw that he needed every one of these strokes; he never wastes workmanship. Are you willing to pay his price for noble manhood?"—and the young hero-worshipers scattered, each hoping to receive his knighthood, even at such cost, but making no more noisy demonstrations about it.

It is for you to desire the best gifts; but remember that precious things are also costly. Hold yourself ready, then to pay the price of being strong, tender, successful ;of being what includes them all, useful.

The Child Evangelist

The Rev. Mark Guy Pearse tells a very interesting story of a little gilr whom he knew. Little Annie Gale was very much grieved because a man called at her father's house, and laughed at the notion of her being converted.

"She was always so good that she did not need religion to make her any better," he said. "If old Dan Hunter began to love Jesus, now, I should think that there was something in it."

The little girl went to her room with a broken heart. But though she was so little, she had learned the place where to go when brokenhearted. She knelt down, and said: "Oh, Jesus, they won't believe that thou dost love me, because I am so little. O Jesus, help me to get poor old Dan Hunter to love three, and then they will believe that thou dost love me, too." Then little Annie set out for old Dan Hunter's house.

Old Dan was the very crossest and most disagreeable man in the village. He worked all day long. He was notorious for his meanness. This morning he was at work bending at his saw, when a very pleasant little voice said:

"Good-morning, Dan!"

The voice was so pleasant that Dan looked around, and forgot to scowl.

"Please, Dan," said little Annie. "I want to speak to you, and I am sure you won't mind, will you?"

"Well, whatever do you want to say to me, little one?" He spoke gruffly—he always did; but it was a good deal for old Dan to speak at all, for he generally only grunted.

They sat down together on the trunk of a tree. The little girl looked up into his rugged, wrinkled face, and said:

"Well, Dan, you know Jesus does love me, and I do love him. But the gentleman at home says I am so little, and am so good, that he does not believe that I know anything about it. But he says that if you would begin to love Jesus, then he would believe in it. ow, Dan, you will, won't you? Because Jesus does love you, you know!" And little Annie took hold of Dan's great, rough hands. "He loves you very, very much, Dan. You know he died upon the cross for all of us."

Poor old Dan! Nobody had talked to him like that for years and years—never since his mother had gone to heaven. And down those wrinkled cheeks the tears began to course very big and very fast.

"Don't cry, Dan; because God loves us, though we have sinned, and he sent Jesus into the world to save us."

Dan's heart was broken. He could only say: "God be merciful to me—the worst of sinners."

As little Annie talked with him he came to see it all—how Jesus had died for him, and was able to give him a clean heart and a right spirit. Little Annie left him praising God, his heavenly Father, for such wonderful love, and went away to tell the gentleman at her home.

"Now, sir," said she, "you must believe that Jesus loves me, because old Dan Hunter has really begun to love him, and he has got converted."

"Nonsense!" laughed the gentleman. "Why, Annie, who ever told you that?"

"Well, you'll see."

And he did, and so did everybody in town. They saw the old, ill-tempered Dan turning into a man so kind and gentle that everybody in the village was a friend to him, and found a friend in him. All his sullenness was gone, and whoever passed his yard would be sure to hear a happy old man, as he worked with hammer and saw, cherily singing about the wondrous love of Jesus. What a glorious guiding pillar that little girl was!—Baptist Commonwealth.

Action on the Saloon

LEXINGTON CONFERENCE.

We indict the saloon as being the greatest criminal the world has ever known. It breaks more laws, degrades more men, debauches more women, corrupts more citizens, destroys more homes, makes more widows and orphans, and fills more almshouses, asylums, jails, and penitentiaries than all other evil agencies combined.

To prosecute, convict, and annihilate this hotbed of sin and destruction is the fundamental principle of the Anti-saloon League.

Upon the Churches of America rests the responsibility to drive the saloon from the land. Recognizing this truth, the Anti-saloon League seeks to federate in a united effort all Churches, temperance societies and citizens in a non-partisan omnipartisan organization to carry on the work; first, by agitation to arouse and build up public sentiment; second, to secure, through public officials, if possible, the enforcement of all laws for the suppression of intemperance.

We believe that the contest against the saloon will be furthered by a general revival of gospel temperance and a campaign of total-abstinence pledge signing and living.

We further believe that if the colored Churches are ever federated it must be done by colored field workers.

Be it resolved that the Lexington Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church here assembled, appoint, through her bishops, an agent of the American Anti-saloon League to travel among our churches at large and other churches and preach gospel temperance, and conduct a pledge-signing campaign among our people.

And inasmuch as the general superintendent of the National League has asked the Rev. J. W. White to accept the superintendency of the colored work, and inasmuch as he has consented to accept the same, that he be released from the regular work of the Conference and be appointed agent of the American Anti-saloon League.

Be it further resolved that as a Conference we pledge our moral and financial support by opening our church doors at such a time as can be arranged. (Signed) J. T. Leggett, D. E. Skelton, H. W. Simmons.

J. W. White elected representative of the Lexington Conference.

association. A few years ago they presented her with a badge, which she says there is not money enough in the whole world to take from her. She is not quite totally blind; she can distinguish day from night, and can see the lightning flash. She finds her way about very easily, as is the case with so many of the blind, and her judgment of people by their voices is astonishingly accurate.

She is a beautiful example of a very useful, humble, consecrated, broad-minded, whole-souled Christian, who seeks to know and to do the Father's will. "I believe everything happens for a purpose," she says, "and what may seem to some a misfortune is part of the great plan that has enabled me to bring happiness to many through my hymns. Not that I desire any credit, for if I have this gift, it would be wrong not to use it."

Her lines have gone out through all the earth, and her words to the ends of the world. In many, many speeches and languages her voice has been heard. She is, without doubt, to-day the greatest living writer of spiritual songs, and her verses are used in religious meetings probably by a larger number of people than those of any other poet living or dead. She might well rest from her labors, satisfied with this large achievement, but we are not surprised that she means to keep busy as long as strength is given her.—From Zion's Herald.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson IV—April 23, 1905. Title—"The Entry of Jesus into Jerusalem." (John 12; 12-26.) Golden Text—"Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord." (Matt 21: 9.)

On the following morning after the feast at Bethany, our Sabbath, April 2nd, A. D. 30, Jesus made this triumphal entry into Jerusalem.

I. Entering the City. (12-19.) 1. Securing the colt. Two disciples, likely Peter and John, were chosen. Jesus often made choice among His disciples. When any work was to be done by them He always selected the ones most suitable to perform that duty. He has many fields of labor, and from among His followers He selects those best suited for each field, and sends them to work therein. These disciples were instructed to enter Bethphage, and find a colt tied. They were to loose it and bring it to Jesus. The desire to make the entry into Jerusalem likely originated among the people. They wished to make Jesus their king. He submitted to their plans, and even helped to execute them. He commands like a true king, and His followers obey as loyal subjects. He never sends any one forth to labor for Him without first fitting them for that work. He is our Prophet to teach us, our Priest to intercede for us, and our King to rule over us. These disciples were warned. If any man ask, "Why do ye this? say 'the Lord hath need of him.'" Jesus in this is not an example for us. He knew all things, and could exercise kingly authority. Lord here means no more than master. It is well to have a reason for that which we do, and to give the same if necessary. The King of Heaven rode a borrowed colt, ate the Passover in a borrowed room, and was laid to rest in a borrowed sepulcher. These disciples went forth and found all things as Jesus had told them. He knew the colt would be found, the inquiry made, and the favor granted. If He knew all things then, He knows them now. But knowledge is not influence. Because Jesus knows what will be, that does not influence any one to bring it about. He also had all power. He had perfect control over the colt. It had never before been ridden, yet it offered no resistance. He governs the hearts of men. The owner made no objection when he knew the Master needed it. He had the power but not the disposition to refuse Jesus.

2. Mounting the King. They brought the colt and its mother to Jesus. It was not an object of beauty. Going was the most important part, the way of going was a secondary matter. The people cast their outer garments on the colt, and then placed Jesus thereon. This ride was not for comfort. Jesus was a King, and was on His way to take charge of His throne. The people had wrong ideas of this kingdom, but their devotions were no less sincere. Jesus will accept our earnest worship, though we have not the true idea of it. The people were determined to proclaim Him their King, and He suffered them to do so.

3. Journeying to Jerusalem. The way led over Mount Olivet, across the Kidron, into the holy city. The crowd was immense. They cast their garments and the boughs of trees in the way so the colt might pass over them. Some went before to open the way, others went with Jesus to protect Him, and others followed to see that no harm befell Him. The people cried "Hosanna," or "Save now, we beseech thee." Lift from our neck the Roman yoke, exalt us to great national dignity, and subject other nations to us. To come "in the name of the Lord" is to come as His ambassador, and in His strength. The "kingdom of their father David" had fallen down, but they believed Jesus to be the promised Messiah, and that He would set it up again and reign thereon forever. Luke says, "When He was come near, He beheld the city and wept over it." It was the city of the prophets, the temple and the priesthood. It was soon to be raised to its very foundation stones. How sad that a city so highly favored should be brought so low. Jesus may be touched with a feeling for our infirmities. May we see and improve our opportunities. When Jesus and this great crowd entered Jerusalem, "all the city was moved." He entered the temple and cleansed it. "The blind and the lame came to Him, and He healed them."

II. Teaching in the Temple. (20-26.) 1. Some Greeks desire to see Jesus. John alone records this incident. Two days have passed since the triumphal entry. Some think these Greeks were of the ten tribes that had been "scattered abroad," known as Jews of "the dispersion." Others believe them to have been "proselytes of righteousness," who accepted the whole Mosaic ritual. A third class are of opinion they were "proselytes of the gate," who followed a few Old Testament rules. This last view is likely correct. They were monotheists, who saw in the God of the Jews the Jehovah of the universe. Philip and Andrew bore Greek names, which indicate Grecian connection. They were of Bethsaida, which was less Jewish than heathen. These Greeks were probably from the same locality. They had, no doubt, heard of some of the wonderful works and words of our Lord, and had probably seen His triumphal entry into Jerusalem two days before this. Now they desired to be introduced to Him. The life of Philip is given to us in "broken doses." He seems to have been a prosy, matter-of-fact man. Andrew, who brought his brother Simon to Jesus, and who now introduced these Greeks, had more polish. Many think the mission of these Greeks was to prevent Jesus from submitting to death; to influence Him to forsake Palestine and the Jewish nation, where His works had been a comparative failure, and where the people were plotting to take His life; and to go into heathen lands, and work among the Gentiles, who would receive Him gladly. The address of Jesus indicates this supposition.

2. The Cost of Following Jesus. This discourse was spoken to these Greeks and to others. We have only an outline of it. (1) Jesus speaks of His own sufferings as an example for us. Time: "The hour is come for the Son of Man to be glorified." The time of the crucifixion was at hand. The Son of Man indicates that Jesus was real man, and as such would suffer. These Greeks desired that He should be glorified by going among the Gentiles and establishing an earthly kingdom, but Jesus had another and much better way to glorification. Men's ways and God's ways are often different. Necessary: "Except a grain of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth not; but if it die it bringeth forth much fruit." This is a kind of parable. The ground is the world, the human family, the heart of man. The grain of wheat is the Son of Man. The falling into the ground refers to the advent of Jesus, to His life on earth, to His death on the cross, and to His resting in the tomb. The bringing forth of much fruit points to His resurrection, to the descent of the Holy Spirit, and to the spread of the Gospel throughout the world.

(2) Jesus also tells what those who would become His disciples may expect. He gave both the dark and the bright side of Christian life. Denial: "He that loveth his life shall lose it." He that makes the demands of this life his chief work will miss heaven. He must deny himself of the demands of a depraved nature. Give up that which is wicked in itself, and also that in which there is the appearance of evil. Work: "If any man serve me, let him follow me." All may do the will of God. We serve Him by bringing our own heart and life in harmony with the Bible, and by working in the home, the church and the world, to get others to live according to the word of God. Reward: Those who thus work will be with Jesus and will be honored by the Father. We are with Jesus when in the company of His children, and when filled with His Spirit. We will be honored by the Father when taken to dwell with Him in the heavenly world.

Lesson Topic—April 23.

"The Power of Resurrection"

Scripture References—Rom. 6: 3-13; Phil. 3: 10.

(EASTER SERVICE.)

The Word. Our lesson from Romans is a part of that argument of Paul's on exemption from the necessity of sinning based on the power of a risen Christ. The argument is that as Christ had a death, burial, and resurrection, so has the Christian a death and burial to sin, and a resurrection to holiness. And of this great fact baptism is a symbol and sign. Those who would read into this passage an argument for the mode of baptism mistake the whole symbolism of the passage. If the "burial" is literal, so must be the "planting" and the "crucifixion" be. The passage is, however, a powerful argument for a spiritual death to sin, and a spiritual resurrection into life and holiness. The passage from Philippians is a similar teaching. Justified and in union with Christ, we may know the power which Christ's resurrection possesses.

Our Homily: Dead unto Sin: Alive unto God. There is one passage in our lesson of profound significance. We refer to the eleventh verse of the sixth of Romans. It is an impassioned appeal to the persons addressed to realize their condition of freedom from sin through the power of the risen Christ. It is an urgent appeal to die as Christ died for sin, and to live unto God as Christ lives with God. It makes an appropriate Easter meditation. Consider—

Being Dead unto Sin. Everyone recognizes that we may be dead unto some sins. No one considers that it is an exalted profession to claim that we are dead unto such sins as murder, theft, profanity, etc. Why should it be thought fanatical to claim the power of Christ to such an extent that we may be dead unto all sin. To be dead is to feel no desire, longing, or motion toward. Is it true that Christ can so save that the soul shall recoil from all sin? So many testify, and so the Word would seem to teach. The death of Christ on the cross is a type of death of the soul unto sin. It is a constant antagonism to evil. It is fixedness in righteousness.

Being alive unto God. Holiness is not only negative but positive. It is more than ceasing from sin; it is doing good. Not only is it death to sin, it is active service in righteousness. That is a spurious holiness that only claims noncompliance with sinful acts; real holiness is active and positive consecration to good works. It is going about, like Jesus, "doing good." The saint is not a walking corpse, but a real alive and positive saint. The emphasis needs to be put on this fact. The power of Christ's resurrection is manifest not so much in "dying unto sin" as in being "alive unto God." Modern holiness teaching is often brought into disrepute by over-emphasizing the "death" and not equally emphasizing the "being" alive unto God." The saint is not an emasculated creature with the fangs of the old nature drawn, he is a new creature positively holy in aggressive goodness.

The Privilege of Believers. This is the present "reckoning" of ourselves to be in this condition through the power of resurrection of Christ. This word "reckon" is a mathematical term. It does not mean simply guess or consider or suppose that you are in this state. The mariner on the sea takes his observations and then from well tested rules "reckons" his latitude or longitude. He arrives at a mathematical certainty. So the Christian may "reckon." Each soul is conscious of his attitude to God. He may carefully search his heart and know of his personal relation to God. This Easter Sabbath you may appropriate to yourself the virtue of the blood. You may in a real and practical way "reckon" yourself dead unto sin but alive unto God. The power to do this comes from the risen Christ.—From notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topic.

Delaware Conference

By Rev J. W. Fenderson

The forty-second session of the Delaware Conference convened at Dover, Del., March 29, Bishop Berry, presiding.

The secretary Rev. F. H. Butler, called the roll. One hundred and thirty-nine members answered, five having died during the year.

The following officers were elected: Secretary, F. H. Butler; statistical secretary, J. E. A. Johns; treasurer, J. R. Brown; J. W. Fenderson, conference reporter.

The Bishop addressed the meeting on the "ministers peculiar temptation." On this subject Rev. A. L. Martin read a paper upon which the preachers generally commented.

Rev. C. A. Tindley spoke on "prayer in the minister's life. This service was concluded by the administration of the Holy Communion. Dr. Robert E. Jones, editor of the Southwestern Christian Advocate, was also introduced, and gave direction in securing the paper and also asked the loyalty of the members in the support and maintainance of the official organ of the colored constituency of the Church.

Dr. C. C. Jacobs representing the Sunday School; Dr. Stephen J. Herbin, editor of Epworth Herald; Dr. Rhoads, of S. S. Union; Dr. J. P. Wragg, of American Bible Society, spoke in the interest of these causes; Dr. M. C. B. Mason, spoke in the interest of his work. Dr. J. O. Spencer, made a stirring address for an increased interest in collecting the Freedmen's Aid apportionment.

Dr. Homer Eaton, urged the conference to be loyal in its support to all the agencies of the Church.

At the Epworth League Anniversary Rev. W. J. Moore presided. The speakers were Rev. D. D. Turpeau, Dr. I. G. Penn, and Bishop Berry. C. A. Tindley preached the missionary sermon.

At the anniversary of the Freedman's Aid the speakers were Dr. M. C. B. Mason and J. O. Spear, Rev. D. H. Hargis, Prof. Frank rigg, Miss Elsie Mason, a student from the Academy, also Miss Bertha Chamberlain. The introduction of students in the programme was a new feature, but a very profitable one. Prof. Trigg is a wideawake man, always planning for the best methods of presenting the work.

W. C. West, W. T. Purnell and L. J. Walters were received into full membership.

Charles Y. Trigg was received on trial under the seminary rule. The following were also received on trial and elected to deacon's orders:

Jose Angolo, J. W. Gillis and M. W. Clark.

Rev. W. C. Dickerson's relation was changed from superannuated to the effective list.

On invitation of Dr. W. C. Jason, president of Dover State College, the members visited this school.

Dr. Jason welcomed the visitors, giving a brief history of the college. Concluding he introduced Bishop Berry, who spoke to the students. Other speakers were Rev. J. H. Nutter, Rev. C. H. Tindley and Dr. C. C. Jacobs.

The speakers of the anniversary of the Church Extension Board were:

Rev. J. H. Jenkins and Dr. I. L. Thomas. Dr. Thomas' address made a great impression on the conference.

On Sunday morning the Bishop preached from II Cor. 4: 17-18. Rev. C. H. Tindley preached in the afternoon.

The following collections for all purposes were raised: Cambridge District, $1835; Centerville District $2307; Philadelphia District $2819; Salisbury District $2842; Wilmington District $1743. Grand total $11,546, with an increase of $320. Following are the appointments:

Charles Y. Trigg left without appointment to attend one of our schools.

"One by one thy duties wait thee:
Let thy whole strength go to each,
Let no future dreams elate thee,
Learn thou first what these can teach."

This is self-reliance—to repose calmly on the thought which is deepest in our bosom, and be unmoved if the world will not accept it yet. To believe that what is truest in you is true for all: to abide by that, certain that, while you stand firm, the world will come round to you—that is independence. It is not difficult to get away into retirement, and there live upon your own convictions; nor is it difficult to mix with men, and follow their convictions. But to enter into the world, and there live firmly and fearlessly according to your own conscience—that is Christian greatness.—F. W. Robertson.

THE DELAWARE CONFERENCE

The Delaware Conference held its forty-second annual session in Dover, Delaware, March 29th to April 2nd. Bishop Joseph F. Berry presided. The Bishop went at once into the hearts of the brethren, and every man felt that in Bishop Berry he had an interested brother. If it could be alleged that the episcopacy is a third order of the ministry, Bishop Berry, by his unconventional, informal and brotherly manner, showed that he was one of the brethren appointed to preside over the deliberations of the Conference. The Bishop instituted two innovations. First, instead of the Lord's Supper being administered during the morning of the first day, this sacred rite was withheld until Wednesday afternoon, when the Bishop held what is called a "Quiet Half-Day." Only ministers of the Conference were privileged to come. It was a season of prayer, testimony and good-fellowship. A paper on the "Temptations of the Preacher" was read by Rev. A. L. Martin, and Rev. C. A. Tindley spoke on "The Minister and Prayer." This service was refreshing and uplifting, and enthusiastically commended by the brethren. The other innovation was the having of Secretary of the Cabinet, Rev. J. R. Waters, D. D., read the appointments.

In the election of officers, Rev. F. H. Butler was chosen as Secretary; Rev. J. E. A. Johns, Statistical Secretary; and Rev. J. R. Brown as Treasurer.

The terms of three Presiding Elders had expired, namely, Rev. L. Y. Cox, of the Cambridge District; Rev. A. R. Shockley, of the Philadelphia District, and Rev. J. R. Waters, D. D., of the Salisbury District. Those who succeeded these brethren in the order named were, Rev. J. R. Brown, Rev. H. A. Monroe, D. D., and Rev. P. O'Connell, Ph. D., D. D.

Rev. L. Y. Cox presented a splendid report of his work. A brief resume shows that during the six years nine churches were begun, five of which have been completed; one church purchased, four church lots bought, four lots for parsonages and eight new parsonages. The aggregate amount reported for old and new debts was $35,062. Total amount for benevolences, $9,841. Converts during the six years, 3,089, while there were 3,213 accessions.

Rev. J. R. Waters, D. D., closing a full term on the Salisbury District, now returns to the pastorate with a splendid record as a Presiding Elder. During the administration of Dr. Waters, seven churches have been added to the district, there being now 66 churches, with a valuation of $99,555.00, which is an increase in valuation of $37,304.00. Eight parsonages have been built, increasing the parsonage valuation $8,843.00. Gradually also has the ministerial support increased from $13,326.00 to $19,000.00. The present membership on this district is 5,748, this being an increase of 765 during the six years. This district contributes this year $2,700, of which $1,238 is for missions.

During the administration of Rev. A. R. Shockley, of the Philadelphia District, ten churches were bought, built and remodeled, and two parsonages added; $75,000.000 had been raised for church building and improvements, and while the indebtedness of the district had increased $19,000, the property valuation had increased $99,000. Brother Shockley retires from the district with the good wishes of his brethren, reporting 711 converts for this year.

Rev. N. W. Moore, of the Centerville District, and Rev. J. H. Nutter, of the Wilmington District, presented interesting and striking reports of the work done by them and their pastors. A large number of converts were reported by each district; benevolences increased, new churches built, and the work in splendid condition.

The Bishop ordained as Elders—Thos. W. Cooper, Thos. H. Kiah and William Turner; ordained as Deacons—H. E. Dixon, Littleton J. Waters, C. Y. Trigg, Ernest P. Smack, James H. Blackson and Jose Angula. Received on trial John W. Gillis, Jose Angula, Marion W. Clark and C. Y. Trigg. Admitted in full connection—William T. Purnell, Littleton J. Waters. Rev. W. P. Perry was recived in full connection as Elder, coming from the African Methodist Episcopal Church. There had died during the year, Rev. W. I. Bean, J. L. Dennis and J. E. Gunby. W. J. Wilson withdrew from the Conference under complaint. Rev. W. C. Dickerson, one of the oldest members of the Conference, had been on the superannuated list, was made effected.

Rev. J. H. Scott, D. D., presided at two of the sessions, by appointment of the Bishop.

The Conference proposes to send to the Epworth League Convention at Denver, a quartette from the Princess Ann Academy.

The third Sunday in May was set apart as Morgan College Day, when funds are to be raised for that most worthy institution.

Rev. C. A. Tindley preached the missionary sermon. It was strong, original, eloquent and forceful. Rev. Tindley is a remarkable preacher. He preached also Sabbath afternoon, at the Opera House, to an immense audience.

DUNCAN MEETS DEATH AND CONQUERS

On Monday last the glorious old warrior of a thousand battles, Rev. Stephen Duncan, fought the last and best fight. Tho he suffered much and long, he was hopeful and cheerful to the end. We visited and spoke with him on the Thursday preceding his death. On taking our leave he remarked, "I am only trusting God. I have tried as far as I know how to do right and best for Him all these years. He'll take care of me." Those who know Rev. Duncan realize how fitting this testimony of his is. Great has been his labor of love and many his sacrifices. But greater still is his reward.

At exactly 9:05 a. m. the black minute's end came. He answered the call of the vast unterrified like one who wraps his drapery about him and lies down to pleasant dreams. Grim death bandaged not his eyes, nor bade him creep past. No; he tasted the whole of it, bore its brunt, paid glad life's arrears of pain, darkness and cold, and passed into light to peace out of pain while for him the worst turned to the best.

The reciprocal devotion of this good man and his family was something beautiful. Through long and weary months of illness his wife and children watched and hoped and tenderly ministered to him. The attentions of his lovely daughter, Miss S. Anna, were remarkably kind.

The funeral functions were held in Williams Chapel, Rev. C. W. Reeves, pastor, and his body was interred in the Carrollton Cemetery. May the God of comfort and hope sustain and cheer the loved ones in this hour of great grief.

When the little Corsican flung the defiant challenge into the face of difficulty, "There shall be no Alps," it was not the rugged heights that he saw annihilated, but it was the difficulty that presented itself to his march to victory. Man counts no sacrifice too great when it comes to personal ambition in reaching the heights of fame, honor, position. We charge no man to fling away ambition but to handle it with the utmost care. Many there are who are so inordinately ambitious as to brook the eternal devil to get to the top. Ambition itself is no crime; but there are bounds which must not be broken, save one's purpose is selfless, sinless. Then, in Browning's language, one may "Aspire, break bounds!" But no one has a right to the top who gets there over broken oaths and through a sea of blood.

Over a human ladder has many a man gone to the top—climbing over his weaker brother, bruising his shoulders and paralyzing his arms, leaving him a pitiable wreck at the base of the heights to which he has ascended. But there will come a time when such a one, tho on the utmost summit, will find himself dizzy and trembling before the memory of how he reached such a place and prostrated in the dust.

As the Alpine height climbers ascend one pushes the other to a higher niche. This one in turn reaches down, lifts the one below him, and in this manner they go to the topmost position. Do we wish the best only that we may share it with others? Do we wish power only to make others more powerful? Do we wish the highest position only to prepare others for a like responsibility? In this Christ is our pattern. He was ambitious, honestly, intensely. So much so that He prayed, "Father, glorify Thy Son." But why? "That Thy Son may glorify Thee." His motive was absolutely selfless, sinless. Said He, "If I be lifted up I will draw all men unto me." This spirit should animate every seeker of the heights.

Personal and General.

Rev. J. W. Jackson, of Forrest City, Ark., is happy—a new babyy girl graces the home.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason passed thro the city this morning enroute to Baldwin, La., where he goes to visit Gilbert Academy.

Mrs. W. R. A. Palmer, wife of Dr. Palmer, of Charleston, S. C., owing to ill health left that city Monday for the mountains of New Jersey.

Under the leadership of Rev. Hampton James, Wesley Chapel of Baton Rouge is having a prosperous year. This church is now in the midst of a great revival.

Miss Ethel Cranston, daughter of Bishop Earl Cranston, and Dr. George Lane, Taneyhill, Jr., of Baltimore, Md., were married on March 25th, in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. A. Caroline Knight, a sister of Bishop Warren, has been preceptress of U. S. Grant University, Athens, Tenn., for twenty-five years, and has been a teacher for sixty-three years. She will close her work at Grant University this year.

The committee appointed by the Mobile Annual Conference to investigate conditions at the Marion Institute found affairs not as had been represented, but in good shape. The committee consisted of Revs. A. W. McKinney, F. L. Teague and W. L. Darius.

Bishop Walden was in the city Sunday and preached at 11 o'clock that morning to the students of New Orleans University. The Bishop is now at Baldwin, La., visiting Gilbert Academy in the interests of the Freedmen's Aid Association.

Rev. W. R. A. Palmer, of Charleston, S. C., writes that old Bethel and Centenary are engaged in a union revival in which, up to now, 456 persons have been converted, and that Bishop Mesom on the 9th preached the thirty-ninth anniversary sermon of Centenary M. E. Church.

Rev. W. Hartley Jackson, of Galveston, Tex., has just closed a successful rally. The church raised $585.24, and an old Church Extension note of $567.50 was paid. The church is quickened both spiritually and financially. Eighty-six persons have been added to the membership; conversions four. Rev. A. W. Carr, of Navasota, Tex., was the efficient helper.

Mrs. John F. Thomson and two children, of Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, who have been in the United States since September, 1903, sailed on the steamer Tennyson, leaving Nw York Wednesday, April 5Mrs. Thomson is returning to the mission field to which she and her husband, Dr. John F. Thomson, have given the largest part of their lives.

The Rev. Shirley D. Coffin, for the last three years a student of Boston University, in both the classical and theological departments, and during the conference year of 1904-1905 pastor at East Douglass, Mass., sailed from New York City Wednesday, April 5, enroute to East Africa, where he joins the staff of the Methodist Mission at Umtali. Mr. Coffin is a native of Nova Scotia, but has resided in Boston for the last ten years.

The Rev. George B. Nind, of the Methodist Mission in the Madeira Islands, arrived in New York City April 2. Mr. Nind comes to America to put through the press of the Methodist Book Concern a revised and enlarged edition of the Manual of Doctrine and Worship of the Methodist Episcopal Church which he compiled in the Portuguese language under the direction of Bishop J. C. Hartzell, about six years ago. This work contains hymns in the Portuguese, besides the articles of religion, general rules, ritual, and catechism.

From Rev. J. S. Todd, of Jacksonville, Fla., comes the following glorious news: "With the assistance of Rev. E. M. Collett and his son, of North Carolina, we conducted a two weeks' revival in the Cookman, during which time one hundred and seventeen students were converted. At the close of this meeting these brethren assisted us in the revival at our church. About one hundred and thirty-five souls were converted and reclaimed and one hundred joined Ebenezer. And the good work still goes on."

Through the parish superintendent Prof. H. W. McDonald had the public school teachers of the parish of St. Mary to organize into a Teachers' Association. Its primary object is to elevate the profession of teachers and promote the interest of colored teachers in the parish. The corps of instructors are Prof. and Mrs. Wm. Porter, Miss Effie McGann, Prof. E. S. Brown, Prof. B. Landry and Prof. H. W. McDonald. Prof. McDonald has been elected an instructor for the Summer Normal for colored teachers, to be held in Alexandria, La., beginning June 12th and continuing four weeks.

"The Philippine Mission of the Methodist Episcopal Church," by the Rev. Homer C. Stuntz, D. D., is the seventh of the Open Door Series of Mission Booklets to be published by the Missionary Society. It is a fifty-page brochure describing the geography and climate of the Philippine Islands, their history, the characteristics of the inhabitants, the religious conditions, and the work and needs of Protestant Missions, and especially of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in the Islands. Thirty half-tones appropriately and artistically illustrate the booklet; it contains a map of the islands, is bound in a cover illustrated in color, and is sold at 10 cents a copy.

Dr. G. G. Logan, Secretary of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, is here. He addressed the congregations of Mt. Zion, Union Chapel and Pleasant Plains Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. He was accorded a hearty welcome by Revs. F. T. Chinn, Valcour Chapman and William Harrell, being greeted by large crowds of eager listeners. His addresses were clear, cogent, and convincing. Dr. Logan is here to make preliminary arrangements for a great Missionary Convention to be held in New Orleans October 10-12 in honor of the Mississippi Mission Conference organized in this city forty years ago, out of which has grown six Annual Conferences, namely, Texas and West Texas, Little Rock, Mississippi, Upper Mississippi and Louisiana. Dr. Logan will speak at Thompson Chapel Thursday night and at Mallalieu Chapel Friday night. His speeches are attractive, informative and helpful. We desire all to hear him. Those failing to do so will miss much.

Before the Rev. E. F. Frease, presiding elder of the Gujarat District of the Bombay Conference, India, who represented his Conference in the General Conference a year ago, left for his field in October last, he received intimations that a recurrence of famine conditions in Gujarat was probable. After Mr. Frease reached India, writing under date of Dec. 23, he reported: "Much belated rains help the situation in this province, but they are scarcely heavy enough, and while they averted acute famine for the present, the prospect is still for a very hard year. The crops will scarcely be more than 15 per cent of the acreage, and, owing to the series of years in which the rains have either failed or been partial, the underground water level has descended about ten feet, making useless a large proportion of the wells, while the artificial tanks and reservoirs are already either quite or almost empty, although the rainy season is still fully six months ahead. There is already great distress, and it is sure to increase. We shall, however, not make any special appeal for help unless it proves to be imperative." Apparently during the last few weeks the conditions have grown rapidly worse. Mr. Frease has cabled to the Missionary Society for emergency relief and has asked also that an appeal be made to the Church at this time. Money should be sent to Dr. A. B. Leonard, 150 Fifth avenue, New York.

Mr. Samuel Evans, a Negro resident of Kenton, Ohio, received, on March 23, a patent on a sewerage disposal plant, which is pronounced by experts to be the finest yet invented. He has spent ten years on the invention.

Announcement is made that during the recent revival in London, under the auspices of Rev. R. A. Torrye and Prof. Chas. M. Alexander, upwards of 6,000 persons of all classes and creeds publicly testified to their conversion, while thousands of others made private acknowledgement.

Plans are being vigorously pushed for the erection of a Memorial Methodist Hospital at Mantoon, Ill. The object of the hospital is "the free treatment of all medical and surgical diseases of afflicted humanity," regardless of race or religion. Already several valuable donations have been received for endowment.

Rev. William H. Sheppard, D. D., the well-known African missionary of the Presbyterian Church, occupied the pulpits of three of the leading white Presbyterian churches of New Orleans on last Sunday. He received a warm welcome and every attention and consideration was shown him. Dr. Sheppard gave a thorough account of his work in Central Africa in a manner that greatly pleased his congregations. He says that Christianity is daily gaining ground in Africa and that many of the converted natives are now doing missionary work among the benighted heathens. Dr. Sheppard departed Tuesday for Texas, where he is to speak in the principal white churches. Rev. Sheppard, for his work of exploration in almost inaccessible districts of Africa, and the correct maps of the localities, was appointed a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of England.

A MATTER OF HEALTH

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

HAS NO SUBSTITUTE

Farm and Fireside

The best breed of dairy cows—the one that has the most intelligent care.

Good masters and common cows often succeed, but of reversed, expect failure.

Mark the early laying pullet and set her aside from the breeding hen. It is from these that the best hens develop, the ones that lay most eggs in a year.

The time for hatching chicks for the early market is now at hand, and we should lose no time getting the incubator in order. If you have never tried an incubator, you will need to study closely its workings, but they are in no way complicated, and require only common sense care in order to make them do the work. The most trouble will follow after the chicks are hatched, for it is then that we must not for an hour neglect them. A slight chill, even, may cause the chicks to get sick, or at least may check their growth, and at a time when we are hustling them for an early market, this is very serious. Use only good brooders and good, reliable lamps, that will maintain a uniform heat; feed regularly, not too much at a time, but often, so that the chicks will always appear hungry at feeding time. Keep the brooder thoroughly clean; do not crowd too many together, and the percentage of loss should be small. Grit should be given chicks with their first food, because nature has not provided any means of mastication for them, and it should always be scattered on the floor so that they can supply themselves at will. Rolled oats or oatmeal make the most economical, but after a few days a variety should be given them. Another very important thing to remember is that the chicks must be made to take exercise by scratching. This they must do, and will not remain healthy unless they do.—Home and Farm Journal.

Milking a young heifer before calving is not advised unless there is a special reason for it, such as a threatened attack of garget (inflammation of the udder). Milking before calving does no harm nor good to the cow, except in case where garget has supervened or is threatened. The udder in such cases should not be entirely emptied, but only enough to relieve undue distension. For several weeks before calving a cow should be put on rather short rations of a comparatively dry, non-nutrition character, and she should have one-half pound of Epsom salts about twice a week in one quart of water as a drink. This tends to keep down inflammation and is especially recommended in case of a cow that is a heavy milker and that has had several calves, as a precaution against milk fever.—The Atlanta Constitution.

Literary Notes

The April number of the New England Magazine is one of the best. Many of the younger generation of music lovers will be surprised to learn that the greatest musical festival in the world's history took place in Boston, in 1869, its object being to commemorate the return of peace to the nation. An account of the "National Peace Jubilee' is contributed by Sarah B. Lawrence, with accompanying rare photographs. Of unusual interest is the article called "The Love Story of Whittier's Life," by Mary Minerva Barrows, being personal reminiscences of the poet's sweetheart, Evelina Bray. For sale at all newsstands; 25 cents per number. America Company, publishers, Boston.

The April number of the Southern Workman contains an article illustrated with interesting photographs, the remarkable and graphic story of the experiences of Rev. W. H. Shep pard, the African missionary, in a cannibal camp in Central Africa in the Congo Free State, about which there is at present so much discussion. The influence of the graduates of Hampton Institute in the acquiring of land and homes by Negroes is the subject of another paper, whose illustrations show marked improvement in the type of house being built by educated Negroes of the South.

"Perhaps the most important point to be emphasized in the graduation frock is simplicity," says the May Delineator in a suggestive article, "and this embraces the material as well as the design by which it is made. The present modes are adapted to thin, soft materials, and these above all others are best suited to the graduation dress. White is preferred for these frocks, and the gloves, slippers and stockings are more effective if all white. For the young girl not out of her teens the less expensive goods are better. The soft, pliable woolen goods such as veiling, eolienne, henrietta, cashmere or crepe cloth are fashioned into attractive graduation frocks, while one of the newest and smartest materials for this purpose is white shantung. The surplice waist is a particularly pretty and becoming style for youthful wearers. Sleeves in elbow length are perhaps in highest favor for these dresses."

BOOK REVIEWS.

The Child as God's Child.—By Charles W. Rishnell. Publishers, New York: Eaton and Mains; Cincinnati: Jennings and Graham. Price 75c.

This book is a plea for the religious rights of the child, clearly showing the place the child occupies in the kingdom of God and claiming for it the position it should occupy in the church. The book shows much investigation and close observation. It is highly suggestive for all parents, pastors and teachers.

The author says, among other things, that if a child acquires a distorted concept of God, that is no reason why it should not be taught of God but there is all reason that it should be better taught.

The Changeless Christ.—By Rev. Robert Forbes, D. D. Publishers, Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati; Eaton & Mains, New York. Price 50 cents.

This is a book of sermons, the title of which is the subject of the initial sermon. It consists of eight sermons, each forceful and thought-provoking. Rev. Forbes writes with conviction and with commendable power. He is practical and philosophical. This book makes delightful reading for young Christians as well as old.

Doings of the Workmen.

VIRGINIA.

J. M. WATSON, PASTOR, Radford, Va.—Our second quarterly conference was held February 11-12 by W. E. Mitchell, our presiding elder. The reports indicated the work to be alive and the interests of the charge looked after, while the New River church looked after the house rent, the members of Mt. Olive prepared the parsonage in which the pastor is now living. It has three rooms and will be very comfortable when all arranged and completed. Radford has a few earnest workers who in the midst of many oppositions have gone forth to meet the demands of the church. And at the last roll call they will be found among the faithful number. Paid the elder in full. Sister Missouri Edwards of East Radford fell from a chair on February 18 and broke her arm.

MISSISSIPPI.

J. C. HOUSTON, PASTOR, Pass Christian, Miss.—We had a big storm recently. A storm without angry clouds, but not without rain, which came in copious showers and left our table flooded with good things. Such showers will water our early planting and guarantee rapid growth and a fruitful harvest. We pray heavenly benediction upon the members of the storm and invite their return.

A. M. TROTTER, PASTOR, Handsboro, —Handsboro was the center of a mighty storm February 25. When all in the parsonage were asleep, a terrific outburst of song aroused us. The door opened and ladies and gentlemen rushed in. Another song was sung and the pastor offered prayer, then they all retired but the baskets which were left were filled with fried oysters, fresh bread and the richest of pound cake. Many sorts of eatables, such as a whole fresh hogshead, canned goods, sugar and rice, showed us that these good people would care for the inner man while we cared for their souls.

R. H. PATTON, PASTOR, Bridgeville, —I arrived here on the night of February 16th and met at the parsonage a number of members who were awaiting the arrival of the pastor and wife. We were heartily received. Supper was ready and we partook of and enjoyed the same. The next morning to our surprise we found that a storm had passed through the parsonage and left many good things for our comfort. We can survive such storms Come again.

GRIFFIN (Miss.) DISTRICT. — Our church work is fine. Epworth League largely attended with more interest manifested than ever before. Dr. Wilkins with his corps of young ladies is making the wheel go. Last Tuesday night, there was one hundred and fifty in the league. Our first quarterly conference convened February 2-6 with Rev. P. H. Travis, presiding elder, in the chair. Prayer by Dr. M. M. Alston, ex-presiding elder of the Griffin district. Rev. J. H. Davis, pastor of Griffin Circuit, was also present. Both of these brothers gave a strong talk in interest of work on the Griffin district. The business of the conference was dispatched as rapidly as any one could have desired. Almost every officer answered roll call and presented reports. On Sunday night Rev. Travis as usual preached an able sermon that aroused all present. Paid elder in full;

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

pastor, five dollars. The best quarter all around we have had at this point in several years. The sleet and snow has had us in doors quite awhile, but the sun is shining now and the future looks bright. We are planing for our revival to begin just after Easter and ask the prayers of all that we may add a hundred souls to the church here. The pastor and family have been sick since conference but are now restored to health.

MISSOURI.

KANSAS CITY.—The Burns M. E. Church continues to prosper under the wise and judicious leadership of the Rev. J. M. Harris. Recently the church was able to cancel two debts of long standing against the trustees—one of $1,300, and another of $525, making a total of $1,825. The Burns people are happy. During the three years pastorate of Bro. Haris $2,325.74 have been paid on church indebtedness. A ten thousand dollar church bought, and 127 members added, and the good work goes on. Bro. Harris is yet in his twenties.

NORTH CAROLINA.

THOMAS WALKER, Forshee.—I have the pleasure of recommending the SOTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE as the best and most valuable paper I have ever taken. I pray that the welcome visitor may enter every home in America, and if every pastor, every local preacher and every class leader do their duty the old SOUTHWESTERN will make a successful run. Every one who is filled with the holy ghost wants to do something to elevate the cause of Christ. Rev. F. L. Bost is our pastor. He is an energetic worker and a profound thinker. He is moving things to the front.

TENNESSE.

INEZ WILSON, REPORTER, Lewisburg, —The work at Galilee M. E. Church is alive. The Sister's Board met February 28. The first work we have before us is to repair the pulpit. We have organized the young people's missionary society, with Mrs. Lillie Almon as chairman, Miss Inez Wilson, secretary, Mr. Peter Legett, treasurer. Have enrolled 14 members and hope to grow stronger. On February 23 an excellent programme was rendered. Rev. A. Phillips, presiding elder, was with us recently. The Epworth League is doing good work. The president, Mrs. L. A. Jennings, is true to her post. We ask your prayers for our success.

G. G. GORDAN, PASTOR, Lebanon (Tenn.) Circuit.—Our first quarterly meeting was held by Rev. T. B. Blackman. Raised during the quarter $40.-00. Brother Blackman preached one of his soul-stirring sermons. The church and Sunday school is alive.

Murfreesboro.—Our second quarterly conference has just closed at this place. The presiding elder preached two excellent sermons. Collection for the day, $27; paid the pastor, $107.52; benevolences, $29.50.

TEXAS.

Morales, Edna Circuit—R. F. Chase. —Rev. W. M. Mooney, our former pastor, who served us four successive years, will never be forgotten on this circuit, yet we must acknowledge that Rev. B. I. Adam is a man well suited to this work. Rev. O. C. Lacy comes to fill the place of the old Trojan, Elder Mack Henson. Paid up to Dec. 12, 1904, for the pastor, $87.04; missions, $9.05; delegate's expenses, $3; pastor's traveling expenses, $4.75; visiting pastor, $4; light and fuel, $1.80; on presiding elder's suit, $4; total amount for Morales, $113.64; for the circuit, $272.06; presiding elder, $58.44; grand total, $444.14; total for missions, $30. Paid Rev. W. M. Mooney during his four years' stay here, $1,150.56.

Calvert—J. W. Stone, Pastor.—Our class rally on March 5 was a decided success. Classes reported as follows: Class No. 1, R. Perkins, leader, $3.40; 2, J. W. Walton, $4; 3, D. Fostor, $5.15; 4, Pheby Porter, $1.25; 5, S. N. Nash, $3; 6, R. Carter, $1.75; 7, S. Westbrooks, $2.50; 8, James Fason, $3.55; 9, A. W. Young, $3; 10, E. Foster, $7.63; 11, G. Wilson, $6.07; 15, Wm. Creeks, $2.26; total, $43.56.

Jefferson—D. C. Hailey.—The district stewards' meeting of the Marshall district met in St. Paul M. E. Church March 2, with Rev. B. M. Taylor, presiding elder, in the chair. The meeting was a great one. Several charges were represented, among them being Marshall, Ebenezer, Mallalieu, Queen City, Lasater, Lodi, Woodlawn and Texarkana. Rev. G. Gillespie and his good people did all they could to make our stay pleasant. Quite a number of ministers were present. Ministers present: Revs. L. L. Neal, of Queen City; C. G. Curtis, of Lasater; E. H. Holden, of Mallalieu, and R. Hillary, of Woodlawn. The next meeting will be held at Lodi in Lewis Chapel.

Galveston—W. Hartley Jackson, Pastor.—While all was quiet in the parsonage and the family were preparing to retire the night of Feb. 27, a tramping of many feet was heard and the sweet voices of many singers. We threw wide the door and beheld there a host indeed, led by Prof. R. L. Hoffman, Deputy United States Marshal. Prof. J. A. Thompson played, after which the pastor led in prayer. Prof. Hoffman made the presentation speech and the pastor responded. Mesdames E. L. Reedy and Alice F. Marshall served refreshments. There were enough choice groceries in this storm to last the pastor and family three months. The friends are always welcome.

Galveston—J. N. Gooding.—The first quarterly conference of Wesley Tabernacle was held March 3-5. Rev. Edward Lee, presiding elder, was on hand. Rev. W. Hartley Jackson, our energetic pastor, had everything in good shape His report showed that four had been happily converted; 68 had joined the church; $16 raised for benevolences, and the church well organized for business. Success is written on the banner. Rev. Jackson is indeed an ideal Methodist preacher and has won his way into the hearts of this people. All reports were good. Sunday morning Elder Lee preached a good sermon—the best that I have ever heard that old hero preach. It touched every heart in the congregation. One hundred and nine communed at the Lord's table. Rev. Jackson is pushing the cause of the SOUTHWESTERN. Also, a big rally is on hand for March 26-27, to raise $567 on Church Extension debt.

Cameron—W. H. Purnell, Pastor.—Our first quarterly conference was held March 13-14 by Rev. J. H. Swann, presiding elder. On the night of the 13th he held a business session of the Conference and preached on the night of the 14th. The little church was filled to the utmost. All of his claims were raised. This is a new field and we are going to push it to the front by the grace of God.

D. B. FREEMAN, SALEM, VA.—Rev. J. R. Davis, pastor, the class and prayer meetings are spiritual. Sunday school is in good condition. The Epworth League is doing good work. The ladies aid society is working nicely. A. W. C. A. is doing a grand work among the unsaved. The Y. M. C. A. has been organized by Mrs. J. R. Davis, with Mr. M. R. Stuart president, W. H. Hayden secretary. The organization is destined to do good work among young men of Salem. The God of Jacob is our strength, and in him we trust. Every department of the church is looking up. Our three year's work has been successful in this charge and the good work still goes on. Our pastor, Rev. J. R. Davis, D. D., is well thought of by all classes. He is the president of the Interdenominational Preachers' Conference here.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

A New Seed Discovery for

FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

Conference Notices

FORT SMITH DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Bentonville, May 13-14; Fayetteville, 20-21; Van Buren, 27-28; Ft. Smith (Mal.), June 3-4; Ft. Smith (Eb.), 3-4; Morrilton Cir., 10-11; Blacksville Cir, 12-13; Conway Cir., 17-18; Little Farm, 19-20; Springfield Cir., 24-25; Marche Cir., July 1-2; Little Maumelle, 8-9; Rowland Cir., 15-16; Danville Cir., 22-23. Dear Brethren: Let us spare no pains in raising every dollar of our benevolence. Start now to raising our Representative Fee for Epworth League Convention to be held at Ft. Smith, Aug. 15 to 20. Raise your apportionment to Epworth League Farm in your Leagues and Sunday Schools aside from your Representative Fee. The apportionment is to be raised from the active work of each Sunday school and Epworth League. Then collect 10c per capita from both the school and league; 25c from every officer and 50c from each district officer. At the convention each pastor is assessed $1.00 and the presiding elder $2.00. Pastors must lay plans to raise every dollar of this amount. Prosecute your plans till you know you have in hand your apportionment with your Representative Fee, at least a week before you start to convention. Any brother who fails to raise his amount will have to make himself responsible for same. Brethren let us awake to a sense of our responsibility. Let us take hold of the situation in a business like manner. We must also join Dr. Logan in his Missionary Convention movement. Supply your Sunday School with the literature he mentioned. Remember the SOUTHWESTERN. Pastors remember that you must collect your League money, League or no League, Sunday School or no Sunday School; the cause is not responsible for your not having these organizations. Mrs. A. T. Strickland, our State president, stands ready to assist you. The programme will be published later. May the Lord bless us with a glorious revival throughout our district this year and a splendid financial report. Let us pray for it, work for it, then look for it. I am yours in Christ,

M. N. Langston, P. E.

SOUTH NEW ORLEANS DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

New Iberia, May 13-14; New Iberia Mission, 15; Olevir, 16; Paltoutville, 17; St. Peter, 19-21; Jeanerette, 20-21; Hubertville, 21; Godman, 25-28; Baldman, 27-28; Union, June 2; Crawford, 3-4; Franklin, 9-11; Centerville, 10-11; Berwick, 12-13; Morgan City, 14-15; Schriever, 16-18; Thibodaux, 17-18; Beattieville, 19; Napoleonville, 23-25 Woodlawn, June 24-25; Virion, 26-27; Houma, July 1-2; Pattersonville, 3; First Church, 7-9; Wesley Chapel, 6-9; Win Church, 11; Wesley Chapel Mission, 12.

Dear Pastors: I hope you will continue to push the revival spirit. Don't let it die out as soon as Easter is over. Keep the church spiritually alive and your financial interest will run high. Brethren, don't wait until the last month in the year to raise your benevolent claims, but start at once and long before the conference meets you will have it all collected. We desire to make this last year the best in the history of our administration on this district and I feel that every pastor is with me laboring to that end. Forward your Easter money at once to Dr. G. G. Logan, Holly Springs, Miss., and he will send you voucher. Let us push the SOUTHWESTERN for it is our advocate. It speaks for us when we cannot speak for ourselves. Our District Conference will be held at Franklin August 23-27, 1905. We are planning for a glorious session. The good people of Franklin will not leave a stone unturned to make it pleasant for us during our stay. Yours in the Master's cause,

W. R. Butler, P. E.

Neuralgia
And Other Pain.

All pain in any disease is nerve pain, the result of a turbulent condition of the nerves.

The stabbing, lacerating, darting, burning, agonizing pain that comes from the prominent nerve branches, or sensory nerves, is neuralgia, and is the "big brother" of all the other pains.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills rarely ever fail to relieve these pains by soothing these larger nerves, and restoring their tranquility.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills leave no bad after-effects, and are a reliable remedy for every kind of pain, such as headache, backache, stomachache, sciatica, rheumatism and neuralgia.

They also relieve Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Car-Sickness, and Distress after eating.

"For many years I have been a constant sufferer from neuralgia and headache, and have never been able to obtain any relief from various headache powders and capsules, until I tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They always cure my headache in five minutes time." FRED R. SWINGLEY, Cashier 1st Nat. Bank, Atkinson, Neb.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

Dear Brethren: The District Conference convenes in Cheneyville Aug. 23. Come prepared to report all of your benevolent apportionment. Keep the revival spirit among your people.

J. J. OBEE, P. E.

Dear Pastors and Co-Workers of Holly Springs District:—Let us make Easter the greatest day of the year for our benevolences. The long and severe winter has passed the result of which will require double activity in all departments of church work. If possible raise your apportionment for Rust University by commencement; the building is under construction. Reorganize Sunday Schools and Epworth Leagues chapters in the places where they have been in winter quarters. We stand second in total amount raised for the benevolence last year. Through your faithful efforts we may exceed the past year's work. Have a revival in every church. Save some one. Don't cease work for the SOUTHWESTERN. We must roll up 250 or 300 subscribers this year. The loyal members are in the district, and if the canvass is made in earnest we shall have this number or more. The Epworth League convention convenes with the First District Conference, and the Sunday School Convention with the fall conference by mutual agreement. July 26th is the date of our Summer Conference at Calvin Chapel, Holly Springs Circuit. Let's have a full representation from every charge. The Lord bless you continually.

N. H. Williams, P. E

To the Brethren of the Mississippi Conference:—The conference which met at Natchez, Miss., Jan. 18-22, by a unanimous vote, set apart the Fourth Sunday in May as "Natches day," for the purpose of rallying to raise funds for the debt on our church at this place. We urge every brother to do his best, and report immediately after the Fourth Sunday, as our note is due now and must be met, not later than the First of June.

Many of the brethren made personal subscriptions: This we faithfully look for. Some have paid and we urge every subscriber to remit not later than May 30th. Any amount received shall be faithfully applied and acknowledged through the columns of the SOUTHWESTERN. Dear Brethren, do what you can; we need your help.

W. P. C. Morrison, pastor.
J. R. Ross, R. S.

Rev. P. W. Clark, the Alexandria District Missionary Secretary, will present the Missionary Stereoptican views and deliver a special lecture on Africa at the charges in the District in the interest of the Missionary cause. Any brother on the District who needs his assistance will please write him. He will be pleased to visit your circuit or charge. Any favor shown him will be highly appreciated and his services will also help you to raise your benevolent apportionment. Yours truly

Joshua J. Obee.

Dear Brethren of the Marshall District:—Strive to make the Easter services a success. Many of us will find it a little hard to get our people to do very much after Easter has passed for benevolences. The District Conference will convene in Wiley Chapel, Central building of Wiley University, Marshall, Texas, August 29th to Sept. 3rd.

O. I. Jones, P. E.

Dear Brethren of the Shreveport District:—The church is calling for us. Let us answer the call. The evil one is standing at his post, and we must stand at ours if we would gain the victory. Raise all of your missionary money on Easter and bring it to Shreveport, Tuesday, April 25th. Dr. Logan, field agent of the Missionary Society, will be with us. Our preachers' meeting will also convene on that day. Let each one bring two subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. Yours,

H. Daniel, P. E.

The Church Extension Board, Savannah Annual Conference, will please meet at Warren Chapel M. E. Church, Macon, Ga., April 19th, 1905 at 9 o'clock a. m. A full attendance is desired W. H. BROWN, Pres.

C. R. O. Rowland, Sec.

To the Members of the Mississippi Conference Brotherhood:—I take this method to inform you that Rev. Wilson Collier, a member of the brotherhood, died March 26, and each member of the Brotherhood is due one dollar ($1.00) which must be paid within sixty days according to article 5th of our constitution. This is imperative.

Yours,

S. H. Cannon, Treas.

Moss Point, Miss.

Dear Brethren of the Navasota District:—At our last annual conference, Rev. S. M. Bolden was appointed missionary district secretary. Rev. Bolden has given careful and earnest study to the work of missions, and is very anxious that our district this year shall do more for the missionary cause than it has ever done before. He expects to visit all of our charges in the interest of missions and I hope every brother will give him a cordial reception and a good congregation. Rev. J. A. Tillory is district secretary for Conference Claimants Cause. He, also, will visit you in the interest of that cause and we hope for him full recognition. Rev. Tillory is well prepared to help you in the interest of the cause he represents. Brethren, see that not only a part of your benevolences is raised, but the entire assessment. J. E. Bryant, P. E.

The missionary meeting of Shubuta District will convene at Stonewall, Miss., May 18-19, at 10 a. m., and we expect all brethren of the Shubuta District who can possibly get here to be present. Each pastor is expected to pay 50 cents and also collect and bring with him 50 cents from each Sunday School or congregation. C. W Jones will preach the missionary sermon. Now, brethren, let us do all we can to bring our district up to the front ranks. We want this district to raise $100 for missions this conference year. Whereas the grand old church has appointed Rev. G. G. Logan, field secretary of the Southern Division, we want to do all we can to assist him. We invite him to be with us in our missionary meeting, and hope he can make it convenient to do so. Of course we expect our presiding elder, Rev. J. B. Brooks, to be present. Let each pastor bring in one new subscriber to our church paper. Now, brethren, let us do all we can to make this meeting a success. No one is expected to pay board; we will take care of all.

Subjects for discussion: J. Jorden, "Africa and its Needs"; C. Washington, "The Duty of a Missionary"; C. W. Jones and J. Stewart, "The American Indians"; L. L. Shumpert and J. E. Webb, "How Missionary Money is Spent"; R. Howze and S. McDavis, "The Open Door Emergency Movement"; R. L. Carpenter and G. W. Arnold, "The Missionary Society of the M. E. Church"; N. Trotter and B. W. Robinson, "The Woman's Home Missionary Society."

C. W. Brown, president.
R. Howze, Secretary.

To the Ministers of the Upper Mississippi Annual Conference—My Dear Brethren:—As the weather was so inclement on the days set apart by the late session of the Annual Conference, on which to raise a collection for our Revel's Memorial M. E. Church, at Greenville, Miss., the pastor and trustees have decided on Sunday, April 30th, and will make an effort toward raising $400.00 with the help of every charge in the bounds of our conference. Please stand by the promise made. Send collections to Rev. J. M. Marsh, pastor, Greenville, Miss. Always your brother,

J. W. Winbush, P. E.

Dear Brethren of the Sedalia District:—Let me advise you once more in the commencement of our year's work. By this time we have all started on our journey in the Master's vineyard. First of all let us take notice and meet the quarterly conference at the time appointed and be ready for business. Second, let every officer of the conference have a written report and every item filled out to the letter. Third, no member should expect to be heard on his report unless he or she complies with the discipline. And fourth, dear pastors, will you be so kind as to urge upon every member of the quarterly conference who are to make reports to follow the discipline and not to meet these meetings with frivolous excuses but let us be prompt and stand up like brave men and women and be courageous in the work of the Lord.

Yours brotherly,
W. H. Smith, P. E.

VIRGINIA.

Dublin—A. W. Randolph, Pastor.—I desire to thank the class leaders of this church for their contribution from the contest that was held March 5. Class No. 1, Brother Jake Johnson, $8.41; Class No. 2, Brother J. R. Fleming, $9.30; Class No. 3, Brother Thomas Page, $7.55; Class No. 4, Brother Jeff Cornor, $9.28; total, $34.54.

Pulaski—F. D. Johnson, Pastor.—Our second quarterly conference convened at Needmore M. E. Church March 11-12, with Rev. W. E. Mitchell, presiding elder, in the chair. He presided with energy and tact, as usual. The majority of officers were present with written reports. This has been for me a very trying quarter. The last of December my mother-in-law was taken with a long and severe illness. Then following this came my wife's illness. But, thank the Lord, my mother recovered sufficiently to return to her home in Princeton. My wife is again walking about in her room. The good people of Needmore spared no effort in caring for us. The elder was well pleased with our work. We made class first last year, and that is our mark this year. Anything short of class first would embarrass me in the forthcoming Conference, which will be held in Needmore this June, and we are trying to have our church reseated and remodeled. Despite all sickness and severe winter weather, Pulaski circuit still moves on nicely. I married two couples last quarter, baptized five, bought a set of chairs for the parsonage at a cost of $6, raised for benevolences $8; paid pastor $70.50 and presiding elder $12. Sunday was a great day with us. The elder preached to the delight of all at 11 a. m. At 3 p. m. Rev. A. I. Weems preached a soul-stirring sermon, and at 7:30 the writer filled the stand. The services were well attended.

OHIO.

Springfield—R. Henry Hill.—We, the congregation of Wiley M. E. Church, feel that we have just cause to be proud and thankful to Almighty God for what has been accomplished for us this Conference year through His servant, Rev. T. L. Ferguson, in the erection of a new church. By his wise supervision and his untiring efforts this has been a busy year with us. With sixty or more additions to the roll our church is in better condition now than ever in its history. We have been successful financially, taking everything into consideration, having raised nearly $5,000, all told. And we feel that we owe it largely to the wise supervision of Rev. Ferguson, and we pray he may be returned to us.

TENNESSEE.

Mason—A.. J. Proctor.—The second quarterly conference of Alexander charge convened with Presiding Elder J. A. W. Moore on time. All were glad to meet him, for he, like ourselves, came out of a four or five weeks' sleet and snow; yet the Lord has brought us together once more. On Saturday at 2 p. m. the quarter convened. All members were present with good reports. The elder was greatly delighted to see that every interest of the church was looked after and peace prevailed. On Sunday Rev. Moore preached an edifying sermon to an attentive congregation. All present enjoyed the same, and at night we had another source of joy. Seven strong young men came forward for prayer. We were able to pay the elder in full for the quarter. Three subscribers for the Southwestern. The spiritual standing is good. One joined the church during the session. We are looking forward for a great revival in this place. Everything points to that end.

A HAPPY MOTHER

Weatherford, Texas.
May 14, 1902.

Before my baby was born I was in great misery. I was just able to be about but just as soon as I began to take Wine of Cardui, which had been recommended to me, I felt much better. In fact I feel that if it had not been for this medicine I would not have been strong enough to live through childbirth. But that was made comparatively easy by taking your medicine for four months before baby came. Wine of Cardui restored my health as I took it two months afterward. I cannot speak too highly of Wine of Cardui and I am glad to endorse it

Mrs. C. C. Wood

Treasurer, Young Matron's Club.

Wine of Cardui is a powerful tonic which acts on the generative organs of women, regulating menstruation and giving tone and strength to the organs which inflammation and weakness have affected. It cures nineteen out of every twenty cases of bearing-down pains or ovarian trouble.

Wine of Cardui cures barrenness and aids the mother in conserving her strength for the ordeal of childbirth. After that event the Wine prevents dangerous flooding and helps mothers to quick recovery. Wine of Cardui is the one medicine a mother should use before and after childbirth.

All druggists sell $1.00 bottles Wine of Cardui.

WINE of CARDUI

TEXAS.

Cora Watson, Reporter, Pilot Point,—Our first quarterly conference was held Saturday and Sunday, February 25-26, with our worthy presiding elder, Rev. L. H. Richardson, in the chair. The entire board of officers were present with written reports. Every department of the church is well organized and at work. We raised for all purposes during the quarter, $35.15; paid our elder in full, $12.50. Sunday at 11 o'clock the elder preached a powerful sermon. At three, our pastor Rev. George Waters, preached to the delight of all. We are proud of him.

Littig.—John . Banks.—A historical program was rendered at the Epworth League meeting held Thursday night, March 2. This meeting was under the direction of the third vice-president. The lives of great men were discussed with ease and familiarity. The music was superb. The manner in which the whole program was handled shows that the League is earnestly seeking higher ground. All departments of the Epworth League are alive and active.

Maud Smith, Reporter, Waco, Tex.—On February 25-26 the first quarterly conference was held for Andrew and Majors Chapel. All officers were on hand with good reports. Pastor's report showed two received on profession and one by letter. The Sunday school superintendent's report shows that the school is still alive. The Epworth League has taken on new life. We had a glorious time on Sunday. Paid the elder $10.85; pastor, $14.25. Thirty-five partook of the Lord's supper. We anticipate a good year's work on this charge in every department of the church as we have a fine preacher with whom all are well pleased.

Wm. Bartley, Pastor, Hempstead, Texas.—Our first quarterly conference convened at Bethlehem M. E. Church March 4-5 with Rev. J. E. Bryant, presiding elder, in the chair. All officers of the conference made encouraging reports, which showed quite an increase on all lines. 18 conversions, 26 accessions. Elder Bryant preached a very able sermon to a large and appreciative audience. Collection, $34.45. Paid the elder in full, $25.00. This charge has a large membership of faithful members.

MISSISSIPPI.

W. P. C. Morrison, Pastor, Natchez.—Washington's Birthday was celebrated by the Union School of Natchez, Miss. An excellent programme was rendered by the students. Prof G. W. Broomfield is rendering excellent service for the uplift of his people. He has fourteen well-trained professional teachers under his supervision, who are no less faithful to their work. The recitations and original papers on this occasion would form a neat an dreadable volume, touching nearly every phase of the life of the great statesman. Such occasions doubtless will inspire the young people of the race and instill in them the virtues of the man whose birth they celebrate. Our need to-day is more men like George Washington in public office and more men like George Washington Broomheld in the public schools. Then the elevation of the people will be obvious and the result potential.

Armstrong, Mo.—Little Elma Washington, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. F. C. B. Washington, departed this life Feb. 27, aged 6 months and 24 days. The funeral service was conducted by the Revs. G. W. Harvey and I. Watts.

Aberdeen, Miss.—Sister Alabama Manning, a member of the Baptist Church, died March 14. She was a consistent Christian and died as such Funeral service was conducted by Rev B. H. S. Ferguson.

Clinton, La.—Jesse Border died Mar. 1, 1905, at the age of 80 years—a glorious old age if the years of it had been spent in the Lord's service. Unfortunately 'twas not so. Children and grandchildren mourn his death. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. Tutson.

Deerford, La.—Brother Alnol Branch was called home February 19. He was a steward of Deerford M. E. Church and a splendid Christian man. He sang "Jesus My All to Heaven is Gone." He leaves a wife, two children and friends to mourn his loss. The funeral was conducted by Rev. C. Burns, assisted by Rev. J. Mitchell of the Baptist church.

Stockbridge, Ga.—Sister Janie, wife of brother J. H. Maddox, went home in full triumph of the faith Feb. 14, 1905. She had been a faithful and consistent member of Bentley Hill M. E. Church for more than twenty years. Her funeral was attended by the pastor Rev. J. W. Queen, assisted by Rev. Wm. Scott of the same church. Sister Maddox was laid to rest by the Odd Fellows fraternity, of which her husband was a member. She leaves a husband, twelve children, a mother, a large circle of relatives and a host of friends to mourn her going.

Shreveport, La.—Ollie May, adopted girl of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Willis, is no more. She breathed her last on March 15. The funeral was conducted by Rev. B. M. Hubbard, assisted by Rev. J. H. Martin, of St. Matthew's A. M. E. Church. The bereaved ones are commended to God.

Mansfield, La.—Mrs. Effie Nelson died at Houston, Texas, January 4th and was buried at Mansfield, La., Jan. 5, 1905. She was a loyal and faithful member of Wesley M. E. Church, was very carefully trained in the Sunday school and was converted during the pastorate of Rev. J. A. Tircuit. She graduated from Wiley University, class of 1897, and six years after married Mr. Samuel Nelson. Mrs. Nelson was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Simpkins, both faithful members of Wesley M. E. Church. Funeral was conducted by Rev. Cornelius Johnson, assisted by Rev. J. O. Brown.

Temple, Ga.—Sister Mary Berry went home March 6th, 1905, age 26 years. She was a faithful member of the M. E. Church at Griffin, Ga. She lived a consistent Christian. She leaves a husband, two children and relatives and friends to mourn her loss. The funeral was attended by Rev. C H. Blake.

Tunica, Miss.—Sister Louisa Hamilton went home March 20, 1905. She lived a consistent Christian at the Methodist Episcopal Church for 70 years and she was ready to go home. She leaves six daughters and six sons and many friends to mourn her loss. The funeral was attended by Rev. D. D. Shelley.

Slidell, La.—Arthel Dunlap was born July 23, 1886, and on Feb. 20, 1905, the death angel visited the home of Mrs. Dunlap and took her from the cares of this world to be with Jesus. She lived a true and honest Christian. She was happily converted at New Orleans University and since has lived a faithful Christian, doing good to all she came in contact with. She said, before passing away, "tell all my school-mates and friends to meet me in heaven. Good-bye, I am going." The funeral service was conducted by Rev. H. A. Sorrell, the pastor, assisted by Rev. T. W. Williams. Arthel leaves a mother and a host of friends to mourn her passing. Mrs. Marcelee L. Lee.

Weathersby, Miss.—Bro. Fate Hubbard, a member of Weathersby Circuit, departed this life February 25, 1905, in full triumph of faith. He was a steward of the church. He leaves a wife, two children and friends.

A. Johnson, pastor.

Belle Rose, La.—On the 2nd day of March, sister Mary Narcissi went home She was 65 years of age, had lingered sick for five years and was one of the old founders of St. James M. E. Church. She leaves a daughter, grandchildren, a sister and three brothers and many friends to mourn her loss. Her funeral was conducted by her pastor, assisted by Rev. T. A. Brown of St. Peter M. E. Church, at Donaldsonville. Her remains were laid to rest in St. Peter's cemetery.

O. Harrison, pastor.

Shreveport, La.—On the 13th day of March, sister Marceline Lewis, a young woman who stood well in the community, departed this life in full triumph of Christian faith. She was accidentyl burned in January from which she did not recover. She was happily converted several weeks before the end came. She bore her affliction patiently. The bereaved are commended to our heavenly Father.

B. M. Hubbard, pastor.

Winkler, Tex.—Sister Louisa Talley, a faithful member of Hilory's Chapel, departed this life February 16, 1905. She was a Christian for twelve years and died praising God.

Well done, servant of God;
Thy glorious warfare is past;
The battle is fought, the victory is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

The funeral service was conducted in Oak Grove church by G. W. Carter, presiding elder.

Shreveport, La.—Mr. Walter Watts, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Watts, passed to the Beyond, March 7. We commend the grieved ones to our Father's care. B. M. Hubbard, pastor.

LILIES OF HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

In a recent interview with Mrs. Lily Langtry, she very wisely said:

"The fact that I believe in the superior force of mind over matter does not blind me to the truth that the foundation of every successful life is good health; that the keystone to physical beauty is perfect physical health

"A sick woman cannot be a beautiful woman, nor can she be anything but what we English call a poor-spirited woman

"To a great extent a woman's beauty is measured by her vitality—by her health.

"Work, Sunshine, Exercise, Water and Soap, Plain, Nourishing Food, Lots of Fresh Air, and a Happy, Contented Spirit—there, as you say, 'honest and true,' is my working rule for youth, youthful spirits and youthful looks."

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman or the mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make-up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such for instance as "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps for paper-bound volume, or thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, and addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Chas. Roykin, of Acme, La., Concordia Parish, speaking of his wife's experience, says:

"I write you thanking you for the benefit of your wonderful 'Favorite Prescription,' and also the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I find that your remedies have done more good than all the others that I have used. I thought my wife would die at times; now am able to say that through you and your medicine we have a fine boy two months old. Weight, 18 lbs.

It is a wonder to the people to see my wife going about with a baby. She is able to do her own housework, can walk six miles with baby without stopping and feels as though she could stand all day; so healthy, she can eat anything.

Before using your medicine my wife's weight was 122 lbs., and now she is weighing 175 lbs. She only used 12 bottles of your medicine

My mother-in-law, also my sister, have been cured entirely of uterine trouble by your Favorite Prescription.'"

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

Much of the physical beauty of man or woman is dependent on the hair. Keep this "crowning glory" in best condition with "La Creole" Hair Restorer, the preparation used by famous Creole beauties. It makes the hair lie straight and smooth for a long time, cures dandruff, prevents falling hair and restores original color to gray hair.

Unexcelled for Purpose

Mrs. Melissa Dancy, of 281 Orleans street, Memphis, Tenn., is one of the most prominent women in the colored society of this city, in both a social and religious way; Mrs. Dancy has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for many years and takes pleasure in saying:

"Your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer is unexcelled for the purposes for which you recommend it, viz., to keep the hair in a soft and glossy condition and to prevent it from falling out."

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of urine difficulties. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind., will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.

Locksburg, Ark.—Sister Dicy Wilson passed into the Beyond in the triumph of a living faith February 25, 1905, at her home. Sister Dicy was 88 years of age, was converted when quite a child, joined the M. E. Church and lived an acceptable member for 76 years. Her funeral was conducted by Rev. G. B. Donnelly, from Psalms 34: 7: "The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear Him." G. B. Donnelly, pastor.

Crescent City Notes

At Simpson Chapel many souls are being happily converted and many more are on the way. Services Sunday at 11 were indeed revivifying and impressive. Sunday evening we were graced with the presence of Bishop J. M. Walden, and also Dr. F. Knight. The young people's devotional service was in progress as the Bishop entered. He seemed much pleased and interested and spoke very encouragingly to them. A large and appreciative congregation assembled to hear the Bishop preach. They were amply repaid. For his convincing, impressive and eloquent manner could but inspire every one who heard him.

Col. R. C. Metoyer, though busy practicing law, does not forget the SOUTHWESTERN. He is now bringing in each week yearly subscribers to the paper. Bro. Metoyer is a loyal and useful member of Union Chapel.

At Wesley Chapel, Rev. T. J. Johnson, pastor, Sunday, the debt paying rally was a great success. Several of our neighboring churches assisted. We have succeeded in raising $468.51.

Dear Presidents and Treasurers of the Louisiana Conference Woman's Home Missionary Society: Rally your members to pay their dues, $1.10 per year. The $1.00 is for membership fee and the 10 cents for contingent fund. Let each auxiliary send in their assessment as soon as they raise it. Celebrate the Silver Anniversary Offering. Select a good speaker for the occasion; have good singing. Collection.

D. M. WALKER.

The first Sunday in April at Mallalieu was a memorable day. Five o'clock a. m. prayer service; Sunday School at 9:30. The Sunday School Missionary Society at 10:30 a. m. excelled last year's record in programme and collection. Prof. W. R. Jordan is in charge of the Sunday School. Bro. J. T. Jordan has charge of the Missionary Society. At 11 o'clock our general speaking meeting was alive spiritually. At night the tide was high and the Lord's Supper was administered to a goodly number. Collection for stewards, $21.00. The stewardess concluded their rally. The following leaders raised: Sister Fanny Jordan, $7.85, representing the Red; Sister Rebecca Sims, the white, $8.05; and Sister Martha Mix, the blue, $5.85; total $21.85. The pastor presented Mrs. Sims with a beautiful hymn book. Mrs. Jordan one-half dozen teaspoons, and Mrs. Mix, a purse, as a token of their work and worth. Total for the day $41.85. The last program rendered by the spiritual department of the Epworth League excelled all others. The old and young united. This department is presided over by Bro. Andy Sims and of course the pastor is in every thing. The work goes on. We are in a series of meetings that will continue each night for a week or more and will appreciate any assistance. On last Friday night, the pastor, Rev. H. J. Wright was agreeably surprised by some of his steward sisters and others with ice cream and cake, and a large assortment of groceries.

I CURED MY RUPTURE

I Will Show You How to Cure Yours

FREE

I was helpless and bedridden for years from a double rupture. No truss could hold. Doctors said I would die if not operated on. I fooled them all and cured myself by a simple discovery. I will send the cure free by mail if you write for it. It cured me and has since cured thousands. It will cure you. Write to-day. Capt. W. A. Collings, Box 743, Watertown, N. Y.

Mr. Wilfred McDonald, of Franklin, is home again after an absence of two years. A reception was given in his honor March 22 at the home of his mother, Mrs. Susan McDonald.

Sunday, April 3rd, Father Davage preached at 11 a. m. an excellent sermon at Pleasant Plains Church and at night the pastor, Rev. Wm. Harrell, preached to a large audience. On Monday night a merry crowd was led by Sister Kate Hunter and Sister M. Towels and many pounds of groceries were presented the pastor and wife. They were gladly received. Sister Mary Jackson and Sister Mary Nickerson were the leaders of this affair.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Daisy Jessie Lloyd to Mr. Edward Michell, Wednesday, April 19, 1905, at 7:30 p. m., at Williams Chapel, corner of Cherokee and Pearl streets. Miss Lloyd is a member of Williams Chapel and a faithful member of the Sunday school and League.

Prayer meeting at Williams Chapel, Sunday morning, was well attended. Sunday school at the usual hour. The attendance was large and an interesting discussion was held by the school. At 11 a. m. the pastor preached on "Conversion." At 3 p. m. leaders' speaking meeting was led by Bro. L. Brazely. A spiritual time was enjoyed. Rev. Reeves preached at 3 p. m. for Rev. D. Young. At 6 p. m. the song service was largely attended. At night the pastor preached to a good audience. One joined the church. The infant of Mr. and Mrs. W. Francois was christened at the home of Mrs. L. Jinks. We are preparing for our spring revival. Collection, $17.49.

FOR OVER SIXTY YEARS.

Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. Literary Notes

The up-to-date farmer will find the April Cosmopolitan especially suited to his needs, for two of the articles have deep concern with his life and interests. Prof. L. H. Bailey, Director of the College of Agriculture, Cornell University, contributes a most instructive and practical paper on the Rotation of Crops, and Alfred Henry Lewis describes the workings of the Harvester Trust and the injury it is working the agricultural element of our population.

Field Notes

LOUISIANA.

E. B. RICHARDS, PASTOR, BALDWIN,—Our work has started off nicely. Recently the members, led by Brother Louis Johnson, showered a great surprise on the pastor. They brought many articles that were very much needed. Another surprise was given by friends, along with other things, they made us an acceptable gift of money. Brother F. D. Bowers who was here visiting his family, preached for our people. The sermon was greatly enjoyed by all. Brother Wiggans also delivered a wonderful sermon. Twenty persons came forward for prayer.

WITHIN THE VEIL

BY MRS. GRACE E. CUMMINGS

Just across the mystic border
  Separating quick and dead,
In the beautiful green pastures,
  By the Heavenly Shepherd led—
Are the dear ones that have vanished
  From our longing sight and love;
In the "home of many mansions"
  They are safely housed above.

There no blight of crushing sorrow
  Clouds the brow or dims the eye;
Yesterday, to-day, to-morrow,
  Bodes no pain, draws forth no sigh.
They are safe—forever sheltered
  From the fury of the blast—
Stiled for aye Life's howling tempest—
  All its storms are over-past.

Oh! we would not call them hither,
  From the sunlight of His face,
From hosannas of the angels,
  Hymning of redeeming grace;
For, though years may pass in longing,
  Ere shall cease this mortal strife,
Faith may hear Death's Conqueror whisper—
  "I'm the Resurrection Life!"

THE GLORY OF THE RESURRECTION

If Christ is not risen from the dead we are of all men most miserable. Of all men most miserable for the reason that the whole fabric of Christianity rests upon the resurrection of Jesus. Other men may have their hopes otherwise centered, but if the resurrection of Jesus Christ is not a fact then the entire Christian system is a myth.

The resurrection magnifies and glorifies the entire career of the Master. It lends cheerfulness to dark Gethsemane and dispells the gloom of Calvary. It is the one convincing argument for the divinity of Christ. If the crucifixion had been the climax of the life of Christ, then His life would have closed in gloom and disappointment and His brilliant earthly career would have been discounted, but with the resurrection all His life is magnified and heightened. His resurrection answers the taunt of his enemies who said "He saved others, himself He cannot save." His resurrection substantiates His claim to the high priesthood and opens the hearts of the people for His coming. Not only does the resurrection dispel the gloom of the eventful life that was shadowed by the crucifixion, but the effulgence of the resurrection lights up all the paths through which the followers of Jesus may be called to go. It gives certainty to their hope and firmness to their tread that, and as He conquered death so shall they. This resurrection, therefore, nerved the fathers of the early Church for the martyr's death and has given courage and inspiration to each succeeding generation for the trials and difficulties in establishing the Christian faith. It is the resurrection that strengthens men for the arduous and hazardous task of missionary life in foreign fields. For the question of immortality is settled and the glorification of the Christian proclaimed in the resurrection, for if a man die he shall live again.

"Christ leads them through no darker room

Gethsemane with its darkness and bloody tears and the crucifixion with is gloom are the sublime pathos of the gospel record, but the door of hope swings wide on the resurrection morn and the angels of good cheer administer to a pessimistic world, so that the Christians of all people are the most happy and buoyant.

RABBONI

He that believeth in Christ, tho He were dead in trespasses and in sin, yet shall he live again, for Christ is the resurrection of souls dead in trespasses and in sin and is the life and life-giving power unto every one that believes." Christ is the perpetual resurrection, the resurrection of the life of sin to the glorified life of righteousness and of holy doing. And so the world is gradually, but effectively laying aside all ideals and principles contrary to the life and spirit of Jesus and is being resurrected by Him who said, "If I be lifted up will draw all men unto me," into the new life in Christ Jesus. There is a shaking of the heathen religions of to-day as never before; there is an awakening of Christian principles and an aggressive work on the part of the Christian Church, which is at once inspiring and encouraging. Not only is the resurrection an historical fact, having its permanent place in Christian theology, but it is a fact that has vital and effective relation to modern life.

Place the cause of Missions squarely before the people Easter Sunday. Tell them of our Bishops and workers in Africa, China, Europe, India, Japan, and South America. Every person who gives as much as one dollar for missions will receive the World Wide Mission one year free. Make your Easter collection a big one. Try a few people for large contributions to our work in Africa. Twenty-five dollars will keep a native boy or girl a whole year in school.

The joy of Easter to you will depend on your attitude toward Christ. What is your relation to the great Giver of Life?

At the recent Jefferson Birthday Dinner in New York many distinguished speakers were programmed and the orators were limited to speeches of twenty minutes. Judge Alton B. Parker was on the program and made the request for at least thirty-five minutes, for it is said that his speech would fill the page of a newspaper and require two hours to deliver. Senator Carmack and Senator Newlands were on the program, and they and Judge Parker were limited to twenty minutes. The New York Tribune, commenting upon the time limit for the orators, says: "A man who has anything interesting and edifying to say ought to be able to deliver his message to the public in twenty minutes. There are few orators and statesmen who are worth listening to for more than a half hour." If this time limit were applied to preachers it would play havoc with many of the long sermons. There are some men who take up an hour and an hour and a half for every sermon and the good that they accomplish during the first part of the sermon is destroyed by the impatience of the audience during the latter part. It is a good deal better to preach a short, interesting sermon and leave the people wanting more, than to send them away glad that they have the chance to go.

Easter

This is the grandest festival day earth has ever seen, since it is the anniversary of the most important fact that ever transpired in human history. The resurrection of Jesus Christ was the dawn of a new era and the revelation of a truth underlying human nature which was revolutionary of all previous thinking and hopes.

One awful fact confronts every person who comes into this world. No power of genius or wealth or physical force can change it to any appreciable extent. However it may be deferred, the day of death is as certain as that one lives. Whatever the present enjoyment and position of influence, these shall not avail to work an escape from death. The certainty of mortality casts a gloom over many lives and makes every one subject to bondage.

If death is the end of all and life means no more than this earthly existence, it might well be questioned if life is worth the living.

The resurrection of Jesus Christ is the first event which gives a clue definitely to the full meaning of life and shows the true value of earthly living. "He brought life and immortality to light."

In nothing is His divinity so clearly manifested as in this resurrection from the dead. By it He is set forth as Son of God with power. The efficacy of the atonement for sins of men is confirmed, by this rising from death to the manifestation of the powers of endless life.

Easter is the gladdest day of all days. Well was it that the blessed Lord chose this season of the year for the inauguration of this new hope of the world. Now it is that the earth puts forth the signs of new life and all things rejoice together over the victory of life in the conflict with decay and death.

Every Christian should read carefully the account given in the Gospels of the events connected with the death and resurrection of Jesus. And then should take time to think of what that event means to himself. We are all too apt to take these mighty truths of the Christian revelation as familiar facts and to give them little or no influence in shaping our practical affairs. If Jesus did die and rise again and we really believe it, that belief should change thoroughly our whole course in life.

St. Paul believed with all his soul that Christ was alive from the dead, and that faith transformed the persecutor into the prince of apostles.

Let Easter be for each of us the day of rising from all the evil of the former life into a transformed and transfigured life of walking closely with the Master, and showing here and now the power of His love and of our faith in Him.

Because Christ died and rose again we have sure hope that He can and will raise us up at the last day if we trust in Him. It was for this that He came to earth. He came to deliver those "who through fear of death were all their life time subject to bondage." He does now deliver us from the power of sin and shall by His divine power raise us up and present us in new bodies before the presence of His Father and the holy angels.

What blessed prospect this opens before us! Death is not the end. It is the new beginning of a broader and deeper life in a better sphere. It is the gateway to the Paradise-life in the realm which Christ has gone to prepare for us.

If He is getting the home ready for us, we should be equally diligent and faithful and get the Bride, the Church, ready for His coming.

Let each new Easter find us as individuals and as a people nearer to the ideal which the Lord has set for us to attain unto, as we are nearer in time to the day when he shall return to receive us unto Himself.

"Now let the heavens be joyful;
Let earth her song begin;
Let the round world keep triumph,
And all that is therein.
Invisible and visible,
Their notes let all things blend,
For Christ the Lord hath risen,
Our joy that hath no end."

The Liberia Annual Conference

By F. M. Allen

The seventy-second session of the Liberia Annual Conference, which closed at Sinoe, February 20, marks an epoch in the history of the Methodist Episcopal church in Liberia. This session was both interesting and inspiring, and unique in that it was the first time two Bishops have been present. The Conference recognized that the presence of two bishops had a two-fold significance: indicating the interest which the church has in Africa, and what may be expected from this field in the future because of better supervision.

On the morning of the 15th after the devotions and before the organization preliminaries, a silver Communion Set, consisting of one pitcher, two plates and two gold-lined goblets, was presented to Bishop Scott for the church by Mr. J. J. W. Johns and wife who were present for the purpose. Rev. J. A. Simpson, the pastor, introduced them. The set cost $150.00 and was made by one of the leading manufacturers of the world. At Bishop Scott's request Bishop Hartzell responded.

A motto was displayed above the pulpit bearing these words: "500 converts for this Conference year." From the enthusiasm which was manifested early in the sessions it was thought, that this estimate was too small, but it was decided to let the figures remain and get as many converts as possible.

Bishop Scott's opening address showed that he had fully taken in the situation. The two most prominent features of his remarks were aggressive evangelism and self-support. He spoke of some of the difficulties which confront the work but they could be overcome if every worker will do his very best. He urged the necessity of fostering a spirit of manliness and independence in the churches that ought to be self-supporting. His address was full of common sense and helpful suggestions.

The Liberia Annual Conference, Presided over by Bishop I. B. Scott, at Greenville, Africa. February 15-20, 1905

Several times, at Bishop Scott's request, Bishop Hartzell presided. His sentiments of welcome and commendation for Bishop Scott were cordial and unstinted. Bishop Hartzell commended Bishop Scott's record as preacher, distinguished educator and editor. He also explained that Liberia was not exchanging one bishop for another, but whereas before it had one, now it has two, and that the same was true of the other two conferences in Africa.

Full reports came in from the presiding elders, pastors and workers, many of them containing incidents of peculiar interest. These reports show that during the year there have been 450 converts on the four districts and the number of full members added during the year make fully five hundred increase for the year.

The people of Sinoe were certainly lavish in their welcome of Bishop Scott, welcoming him to their country, their homes and their hearts. Large preparations were made for the entertainment of the Conference and Rev. J. A. Simpson, our energetic pastor at Sinoe, helped not a little in preparing the way for a successful conference session.

The people of Sinoe are to be congratulated upon getting the Conference and for the royal way it was entertained.

The following items will indicate some of the business transacted:

Rev. John H. Reed was announced transferred from Little Rock Conference and appointed a teacher in College of West Africa.

Stephen A. Lawrence, Dounce W. Herman and Nathaniel D. Mirriam were received on trial. They are of the Congo, Kroo and the Grebo tribes respectively.

Joseph H. Davis was received into full connection. Joseph H. Davis, Willis Gatlin and Richeulin V. Richards were ordained deacons; Charles A. Minor was ordained an elder.

Abraham L. Buchwalter was transferred to the East Central Africa Mission Conference. Charles A. White who came from the A. M. E. Church an elder had his orders recognized. P. E. Walker was granted a superannuate relation.

Monday night, February 20, after the appointments were read, Conference adjourned to meet next year at Edina, Grand Bassa.

The Resurrection of Jesus Christ

By Rev. R. E. Gillum, D. D.

This is the pivotal fact around which all Christian truth must cluster.

The first promise made the race after the fall implied the resurrection: "I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise its heel." This, under the light of later development, must be interpreted to mean that the second Adam would counteract the result of the sin of the first Adam, and as this sin brought death in a three-fold sense, Christ, the second Adam, must bring life and immortality.

"Since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead." "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

The incarnation brought the Son near to man, and was of incalculable benefit to the race. It afforded the only perfect example; it revealed the Father in a way He could not have been revealed otherwise. The ministry of Christ is yet shedding its benign influence on the human family.

All of the bloody sacrifices of the Old Testament pointed to the necessity of an atonement through the innocent blood of some victim. And while fully appreciating all of the benefits of the incarnation, inasmuch as it furnished the connecting link between God and man, its prime object was to do more than bring God nearer to man; it was more than to give man the advantage of a perfect example; yes, He came to reveal the Father, but His mission was infinitely more than all of these combined.

"He came unto His own and His own received Him not, but as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believed on His name."

The Savior's mission on earth was to make possible this most desirable and highest privilege —that we might be the spiritual sons of God. That this purpose of God and necessity of man might be realized, the Scriptures declare the death of Christ an essential. The prophets predicted that he would suffer and die for man's redemption; see Isa. 53, 7-9 and 63, 1-7. "Now is my soul troubled, and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour. But for this cause came I unto this hour. Father, glorify Thy name." "Even as the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many." Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life that I may take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself." It would not be within keeping with the purpose of this article to discuss the different theories of atonement, but we simply assume what we conceive to be the plain teaching of the Scriptures on the subject. I think all will agree that the Bible sets forth the death of Christ as in some way being necessary to human redemption. His death was not a physical necessity. He had committed no sin. The law had no claim against Him. His enemies had no power only as He permitted them to kill Him. He could have brought all of the powers of heaven and earth to His rescue at any moment He so desired. He might have abandoned His undertaking at any stage of it without injustice to any one. Where was the necessity which required Him to suffer and die? "God," whose justice and holiness could not be outlawed in the exercise of mercy, "so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son to die, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." This view of Christ's voluntary sufferings and death and God's gift to the world presents a matchless exhibition of love.

But is His incarnation, His earthly ministry and His death all that may be desired, all that may be expected, all that we need? If the expiration on the cross had ended all, we should, as Paul puts it, have been most miserable.

But death is not the last act in the wonderful drama of human redemption, it is only the last step in the condescending humiliation of the Son of God, which renders a glorious ascension possible. Let us gather round the cross. Pilate will not allow the body to be removed until the Centurion certifies that the sentence of death has been executed, and though he sees that Jesus is dead already, he thrusts a spear into His side and inflicts a wound sufficient of itself to cause death.

Then Joseph is permitted to bury the body, but it is in the custody of a band of soldiers, with the solemnity of the king's seal on the door of the sepulchre, lest it be tampered with.

The third morning after this burial the grave was found empty, and the only explanation ever offered to account for the absence of Christ from the tomb was that His disciples came while the soldiers slept and stole Him away.

Is it possible that those cowardly disciples, who deserted Him during His trial, the bravest of whom denied Him with an oath, would go unarmed to overpower a regiment of Roman soldiers to get the dead body of a man whose death had blasted all of their hopes and blighted all of their expectations?

Of what service could the dead body be to the disciples?

The third morning after the execution it was reported that Jesus was seen alive. Those who knew Him best and were most competent to identify Him, declared they had seen Him and that the prints of the nails in His hands and feet bore unmistakable testimony to the reality of the body. All of the disciples and the women who were acquainted with Him bore irrefutable testimony to the resurrected body of Christ.

A short time after the execution, Peter, that cowardly disciple who denied his Lord on the night of the trial, stood up in a public assembly, composed of those who were responsible for the crucifixion of the Savior, and charged them with shedding the innocent blood of the Son of God. And so effectual was his argument, that three thousand of them cried out: "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" and joined the disciple band.

Paul, in his unanswerable argument for the resurrection, in the 15th chapter of I Corinthians, declares that Christ was seen by an assemblage of over five hundred at one time, the greater part of whom might have been called to the witness-stand at the time of his writing, who could testify to the verity of the resurrection. There is no historical or scientific fact which is better attested than the resurrection of Christ.

There is scarcely any other fact upon which there is such unanimity of opinion.

Why should it be thought incredible that God should raise the dead? Is there any more mystery in almighty power's raising the dead body to life than there is in creating the material and forming it into a body, and then breathing into it

He is Risen

By H. R. Baldwin.

He is risen! ye powers of darkness;
Risen, your unconquered foe;
Vain were all attempts to bind him,
All attempts to overthrow.
He hath burst the bands asunder,
Triumphed over Death and Hell.
Fought and conquered in the struggle—
Jesus hath done all things well.

He is risen! ye sinners hear it—
He who died your souls to save,
Now to you he freely offers
Victory over sin and grave.
Lived he—to declare his mission,
And to leave example high;
Died he—to secure your pardon;
Rose he—you to justify.

He is risen! ye saints adore him,
Gone be all your doubts and fears,
Let your gloom give way before him,
Quit your mourning, dry your tears;
Death has lost its terror for you,
Christ the risen has power to save;
He has borne its terrors for you—
Where's thy victory, O grave?

He is risen all heaven rejoices,
Angels join the glad acclaim,
While they with their harps and voices
Praise ascribe to his great name.
He is risen! The Lord of Glory;
Loud hosannas fill the skies,
Each to each tell out the story;
Angels' hallelujahs rise.

He is risen! O happy nation,
Filling thine appointed place,
From thy highly favored station,
Send the news to every race.
Let not now his marching orders
Fall on listless ears and hearts—
"Preach my Gospel through thy borders, Stretching out to distant parts."

He for this made wide those borders,
And for this let out thy cords;
Gave to thee world-wide possession,
And the heathen for thy wards.
He for this transferred the kingdom
From the Jew who failed to love,
To his Israel—nation sought for,
Bringing forth the fruits thereof.

Hark, O Isles! O band of nations;
Hark! O Anglo-Saxon race,
In thy latter-day enjoyments
Of thy heavenly Father's grace.
He is risen! Be this thy watchword,
Promise, too, of greater things;
He that scattered thee shall bring thee
Back from all thy wanderings.

Thou art risen! O mighty Saviour,
Thou art, too, gone up on high,
Hear us, grant us now thy favor,
This alone can satisfy.
Pour upon us now thy Spirit;
Give us Pentecostal fire,
That shall all our weakness banish,
That shall our dull hearts inspire.

If Jesus Christ is Risen

"He is risen!" "Christ is risen, indeed!"

This is the Easter greeting. Shining eyes look into other eyes that brighten at the word. The coldest cynic feels an unwonted warmth as he hears the Easter bells and the Easter songs. The hardened sinner is less satisfied with himself when he thinks of the day's great meaning. The unbeliever is more inclined to doubt his doubts, in the presence of this confident and jubilant salutation. At Easter the whole world seems willing to hear and to believe the truth which the day proclaims.

"Christ is risen!" "He is risen, indeed!"

Surely; but if Christ is risen, what then? What does it all mean?

It means that the world's chief prayer is heard. From the day of the first death men have desired with unspeakable longing to see death conquered. It has been so black and dreadful a foe. It has been so relentless, so unfeeling, so irresistible. And after death, silence, darkness. The eyes once closed open not again. The lips once voiceless speak no more. No other burden is a thousandth part as heavy as the sorrow death brings to the living, and the dread it brings to the dying. So the world has prayed for a victory over death; such a resurrection as would prove that death is not unconquerable. Christ risen is complete and sufficient answer to that prayer.

It means that the sweetest and best things in life are real, and not mocking shadows. Love is glorified by the Easter truth, for Easter proves that love is immortal, just as the human heart had always felt it should be. Hope is made reasonable since Christ arose, for his return from death is pledge that our highest, purest hopes have not deceived us. Faith is no longer blind credulity since Christ has said, "Believe also in me," and has verified his claims by breaking the bonds of death. Faith, hope, love, these three, meet at the empty tomb, and its guarding angels bid them henceforth dwell with new power in the hearts of men, since "He is not here, but is risen as he said."

It means that every child of earth belongs to Christ. The world's only hope is in his cross of utter self-sacrifice, and in the broken seal of Joseph's tomb. Apart from the Christ, crucified and risen, there is no help for men. He began the New Kingdom, whose life was to be love, and whose law, service. To begin this kingdom he humbled himself, not for an ideal, or a dream, but for us; the Eternal Son destroying death's power over our lives by dying for our sakes. How dare we be self-seeking, self-serving, self-exalting in the presence of that amazing sacrifice! In its light every selfish life is seen to be in league with death and the grave. Every life that refuses to love like Christ, to serve like him, and to forgive like him, crucifies afresh the Lord of glory, and shuts itself out from the power of his resurrection.

So Easter has its light and shade, its joy and pain. Christ's claim of love is on everyone, because he died for all, and rose again. We belong to him. To deny him, by the lips or in the life, is to put ourselves beyond the borders of his kingdom; to go alone into outer darkness. But there is no need of that. The risen Christ is assurance of death's overthrow. He proves to us that life is more than meat. Life's dearest treasures of hope and faith and love take on new meaning and new power.

"Christ is risen!" "He is risen indeed!"—Epworth Herald.

The Resurrection Day

The meaning of Easter grows more precious as the years pass. The glory of Christianity is the empty tomb. The resurrected Christ is a living presence among men as well as an historical reality. The bonds of earth's woes are rended by the power of the living Christ, as was the great stone before the door of the sepulchre. And the "light that plays around the tomb is the aurora of every believing heart." Although the foundations of our Christian faith are being thoroughly scrutinized and tested, the hearts of the great multitude continue to long after that which faith can secure. The ultimate conclusion of investigation stops with Paul's declaration to the Church at Corinth, "For if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain and your faith is vain."

If Christ be not risen, then the teaching of the Bible is an idle fancy. If Christ be not risen, then there never has been any atonement made for the sins of the world, and the great mass of believers from the first century to the present day have been the victims of the greatest fraud ever conceived and practiced. If Christ be not risen, then we have no positive and satisfactory evidence that He is divine. If Christ be not risen, then we have no living, loving, sin-subduing, omnipresent Savior, such as man needs and desires. If Christ be not risen, the pall of death, which has for nineteen centuries rested and still rests upon the grave of Christ, rests upon the graves of all our loved ones and precious treasures we have placed in the tomb, with the hope of one day meeting them. If Christ be not risen, then are not only our preaching and our faith vain, and our aspirations for purity and happiness vain, but all our hopes of eternal life for ourselves, our loved ones and humanity at large are without foundation, and we are of all men the most miserable, for we have been the most deceived. But, blessed be God, "Christ is not dead, but is risen!" This truth has been an inspiration to lives of fidelity ever since it was first uttered.

The gloom that filled the minds of the sorrowing disciples gave way to inextinguishable day, and no adversity of earth could thereafter shake their confidence in the power of their risen Master. It is the Christ-power which transforms the life. And with the life made new, and hid with Christ in God, the brightness of the resurrection becomes the heavenly possession and continues throughout the earthly journey. The radiance of the life which triumphed over the tomb is for all; and the presence of the Master is known wherever His disciples reflect the heavenly life.—Central Christian Advocate.

YOUNG FRIENDS

Easter

One starry night a mother mild
Was bending o'er a little child.
Within a lowly manger bed
Lay pillowed the dear baby head;
While herald angels
Sang His birth
To wond'ring mortals on the earth.

But now, ah me! that mother dear
Is bending low beside a bier.
The Babe who came on Christmas Day,
To tread awhile the earthly way,
Lies silent in the Tomb's cold bed,
And bowed with grief that mother's head.

But hark! Again the angels sing,
Again glad news to earth they bring.
O, sorrowing mother, dry your tears,
Dismiss your gloom, dispel your fears;
Rejoice! The Lord
Stands at your side;
He lives again, the Crucified.

O, blessed day when Christ was born,
Thrice blessed Resurrection Morn.
Let all the little children sing
Sweet carols to the risen King.
The bitterness of Night has passed—
Triumph and joy have come at last.

Christ Is Risen

BY IZORA CHANDLER.

It was Good Friday evening. Winthrop and his mother were out upon the little veranda which jutted in at one corner of the queer old-fashioned house. This little veranda seemed just the place for an invalid. The bright sunlit mornings warmed it; and only the gentle south wind could reach it. The house stood upon a summit of the stately Palisades of the Hudson river and had been closed for years. Now it had been leased and opened as a private hotel.

A young man—a writer of books—chanced to be seated upon another little veranda exactly above the one occupied by Winthrop and his mother.

The young man was not interested in any religion. His mind was full of things of the great world and of the fame he had determined to win. He came here to stay for a few weeks and finish his latest story about the old Knickerbockers. Now that dinner was over he was leaning back in his comfortable chair, with his feet on the balustrade, looking out into the twilight and thinking, thinking about the book.

Voices drifted up to him. He recognized them as the voices of the gentle lady and the jolly, rosy-cheeked boy. They were so pleasant that they did not disturb him in the least. He continued his thoughts of the book while the voices came up fitfully. After a little one or two words arrested his attention. He did not mean to listen, but, somehow, he could not help it.

"So this is the day, mummer?"

"Yes, dear."

"And by this time they have come to take Him down from the cross?"

"By this time they are taking Him down, dear."

"And—and Mary stands there and sees it all? Jesus was her boy, just as—as I am your boy, mummer?"

"Just the same. Mary loved Him, as I love you, dear. And He loved His mother so well that, while He was upon the cross—suffering that frightful torture—He—do you remember that part of the story, dear?"

"O, yes. He told John to take care of her. And he told Mary to expect just the same things from John as if He had lived to do them for her."

"That's what we are told. You know that He came to show us all how to live. His life was me, Winthrop; for I am giving my life so to myself now—trying to get well from this illness."

"But you are making me know and think of all sorts of beautiful things, mummer, dear."

The young man from his little balcony knew that the boy had arisen and come close to his mother. The voices grew softer. He forgot them in a time long past, when loving arms were about him and a voice, long silent, had told to him the same sweet, sad story of the Christ. It was lonely up in his little balcony. He put his hand up to wipe something away from his eyes. He wondered if his own mother would be pleased, could she see into his careless, prayerless life.

Late the next day, while tramping through the forest, he caught sight of a boy stretched flat upon the ground, reaching far down from a rock that hung over a narrow ravine. It was the rosy-cheeked, sunny boy of the invalid lady. His heart stood still for an instant, then aroused him to speed silently, swiftly to the spot.

Winthrop had succeeded in clutching the plant for which he was reaching. Then he tried to work himself backward, to get a place to push against with his hands so that he could rise. But, to his dismay, he found that he had reached so far that he could not get back. Forward meant death. To add to his terror, some people below had caught sight of him and were screaming at the top of their voices. He became dizzy and could not see. Everything turned black to spent in serving others. This thought troubles his gaze. Bright flashes shot across the blackness, like falling stars. He felt himself going down—down—and became unconscious.

At that moment strong hands seized his ankles. He was dragged back in no gentle manner. When he opened his eyes a stern face was bending above him, and he heard a stern voice exclaim:

"What do you men, youngster, by giving me such a shock? I've a mind to cane you!"

"I—I—" Winthrop staggered to his feet. As he did so he caught sight of the plant in his hand. Then a smile swept across his face, which made it so sweet and satisfied that the young man became angrier than ever.

"You deserve a good thrashing for this fool act! Do you know that you came near losing your life, boy? If your father were here I'd tell him his duty. A boy like you taking a chance like that! I was never more shocked in my life!"

"I—didn't mean to shock you. It—it's this way: You see, to-morrow is Easter morning. And my mamma so loves Easter morning! She—she says it's the beautifullest morning in all the world—'long with that morning when Christ was born. And she's ill and can't go to church, nor have any Easter. And papa was hindered by the floods and couldn't get here to-day. So, you see, I have to make Easter beautiful for her. And I've gathered such loads of lovely wild flowers this afternoon! They are all piled—standing up, as if they were growing—on a little table in the shed. Mary and John are going to bring it 'round and lift it on the veranda to-night, after she has gone to bed. Then she'll see it the first thing in the morning, when she looks out—as she always does—with me and papa, and says, with her eyes and her mouth all sweet and smiling, 'Christ is risen!'

"I found some pretty mayflowers, all streaked with pink, and dogtooth violets, that aren't violets at all—just bunches of yellow petals, hanging at the end of a long stem. And the roots of all of them are crowded into the softest, glossiest moss you ever saw. And—and I wanted just this very Jack-in-the-pulpit to stand in the middle, 'cause it's the tallest one there is. I thought that the funny name would bring the church to mummer. She can't go to church now, and she loves the Easter services so! But—but I'm—O, I thank you ever so much for pulling me back. It must have been pretty hard—'cause I'm getting to be very heavy, now. And—I'm awful sorry that I frightened you. Though papa won't thrash me if you do tell him."

"Who is your papa?"

"He is Dr. ——. And he's president of the —— University."

The young man turned away. This bright, lovable little son of so great a man was in love with the Easter time! He could not speak. All that night he did not sleep. In the early evening a carriage arrived. Another voice came up from the little veranda. The young man knew that the father of the boy had come. Later there was the sound of a quiet moving about. He looked over to see the two servants placing a flower-laden table upon the little veranda. With the first streak of morning he was dressed and walking in and out among the shrubs on the great lawn. When the sky brightened and the glorious Easter sun arose he looked toward the house to see the gentle wife leaning upon her husband, with the other arm about her boy. They were all looking out over the Easter flowers. He knew that they were saying:

"Christ is risen!"

And Christ arose in the heart of the young man that very morning—all through the love between a little boy and his mother!—Christian Advocate.

Easter Flowers

With gentle home-work doing all for love,
Making some life the better for our own;
Smoothing some pain for other feet to tread,
Cheering some heart that has to work alone.

So shall we live the nearer to our Lord,
So shall we labor through these holy hours;
Till Easter suns shall hail the golden day,
And joyful hands shall wreathe the Easter flowers.

The Resurrection of Jesus Christ

the breath of life? It matters not what theory of creation we accept, the mystery remains the same. The universe is shrouded in mystery, shall we disbelieve all that transcends our understanding?

The empty grave, the inability of those who had the custody of the dead body of Christ to account for its absence from the tomb, the testimony of those who knew Him best that they had seen Him alive and associated with Him for forty days before His ascension, and that testimony sealed with their life's blood, and the accumulative evidence of twenty centuries, puts the resurrection of Christ beyond the possibility of doubt.

Peoples of every clime proclaim the power of a risen Christ.

"Break off your tears, ye saints, and tell
How high your great Deliverer reigns:
Sing how he spoiled the host of hell,
And led the monster, Death, in chains.
Say, "live for ever, wondrous King,
Born to redeem and strong to save;"
Then ask the monster, "Where's thy sting?"
And "Where's thy victory, boasting grave?"

"He led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men."

Easter

Out my window bud and leaf
Tell the story—how beneath
Brown earth's mold, and in each stem,
Power is working, changing them
From dry things to living green,
From the unseen to the seen.
He is risen! Lord, to-day
On my knees I humbly say:
"Thank Thee for Thy risen power,
Praise Thee for the glorious hour
When our own dry, loveless lives
Shall have power to upward rise,
Resurrected, freed from sin.
Final Easter! God's own spring.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson V—April 30, 1905. Title—"Jesus Washing the Disciples' Feet." (John 13: 1-14.) Golden Text—"By love serve one another." (Gal. 5: 13.)

Judas sold Jesus to the chief priests and scribes for thirty pieces of silver, or about fifteen dollars in our money. This was the customary price for a slave. This, the most treacherous of all acts, was done two or three days before the events of this lesson. 1. Time: Many think Jesus ate the Passover the same day and hour it was eaten by all the Jews. Others believe He ate it in the evening before and expired on the cross the same hour the Paschal lamb was slain in the temple precincts. The weight of evidence favors the last opinion. 2. Place: The Passover was eaten in a "large upper room." According to St. Luke, Jesus spoke first to His disciples about observing this feast. The directions given Peter and John show clearly the fore-knowledge of our Lord. The name of the man bearing the pitcher of water is not given. Nicodemus, Joseph of Arimathea, and John and Mark have been designated by the church. He had wealth, and was a true friend to our Lord. 3. Preparation: In arranging for the Passover, all leaven was removed, mats spread, tables arranged, cloths placed on them, and couches set in order about them. The Paschal lamb was secured, slain in the temple precincts, the blood and some of the fat offered as a sacrifice, the flesh roasted and taken to the place of the feast. The unleavened bread, wine and bitter herbs were secured. 4. Eating: It was customary for a dozen or more to eat the Passover together. Each one was supposed to eat a piece of the flesh as large as a fig. While they ate, it was customary for some one, usually the youngest at the table, to ask about its origin. Then some aged person would relate the history of the bondage and oppression of their fathers in Egypt, the institution of this feast, the death of the firstborn of the Egyptians, and the deliverance of the Israelites by Moses. But on this occasion the conversation turned into other channels. We have (a) The desire of Jesus, Luke 22: 15; (b) The lesson on humility, John 13: 4-7; (c) The traitor pointed out, Mark 14: 18-21; (d) The source of offense named, Mark 14: 27-31; (e) The Lord's supper instituted, Matt. 26: 26-29; (f) The valedictory address, John 14: 1 to 16: 31; (g) And the High Priestly prayer, John 17: 1-26. Jesus in this lesson teaches humility by precept and by example.

I. By Precept. (Luke 22: 24-30.) 1. The strife. There was contention among the apostles. We know not what caused it. Was it the desire to have Jesus name the one who should be the greatest in His kingdom? (Godet.) Was it caused by an effort to secure the most honorable seats at the table? (Whedon.) Was it the desire to fill the highest offices in the new kingdom? (Henry.) The answer of Jesus favors the last opinion.

2. The World's Idea of Greatness. The exercise of lordship here not only means the observance of good and wholesome laws, but also the enforcement of rigid rules, like those of a master over his slave. Those who enforced these laws were called Benefactors. This title was sometimes given in flattery, by admiring friends who sought favors; but at other times it was assumed by ruling bigots who desired self-praise. The apostles knew it was an empty title, and those who wore it were not true friends of the people. Those who bring the true teachings of the Gospel are the world's real benefactors. It is better to do good than to be great. The way of goodness is the way of greatness.

3. The Church's Idea of Greatness. The apostles were not to be as the Gentiles. It is likely this strife was between Peter and the two sons of Zebedee. The man of rock no doubt felt himself to be the greatest of the twelve, and was therefore exempt from duty. This conversation was addressed chiefly to Peter. He probably thought the kingdom of God would soon be set up, he would become the second man in it, and the others would serve him. In his judgment the one who sat at meat was much greater than the one who served. But Jesus, the greatest of all, was among them as a servant.

II. By Example. (John 13: 1-14.) 1. The work done. (1-11.) This act occurred during the meal. While they were eating, Jesus arose from the table laid aside His outer robes, girded Himself with a towel, poured water into a basin, and began to wash the disciples' feet. Jesus was the greatest person in the world, yet He did here the work of the lowest servant. Labor is honorable. We may serve Jesus by humble acts of kindness in His name. Peter was surprised that Jesus should do such an humble work. He said to Him, "Dost Thou wash my feet?" Jesus told him he did not understand what He was doing. Peter then became more bold and said: "Thou shalt never wash my feet." Jesus replied: "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with Me." Peter then surrendered, and cried: "Not my feet only, but also my hands and my head." Jesus told him those who had been purged from sin were clean, and their feet only needed washing. That all of the apostles were clean except the one who should betray Him. Note—Jesus draws near to us in His word, His Gospel, His Spirit, and His children. We may, through lack of knowledge, object to His ways of helping us. He may remove the objection by showing us the hidden meaning of His work. When we see His motive we should cry out like the Psalmist: "Purge me with hyssop, that I may be clean, wash me that I may be whiter than snow."

2. The Explanation of the Work Done. (12-14.) When Jesus finished washing their feet, He readjusted His robes, took His seat again at the table, and asked if they understood what He had done. No one answered. He told them He was their Master and Lord, yet He had washed their feet, and in this had given them an example that they should wash one another's feet. The servant is not greater than his Lord, neither is he that is sent greater than he that sent him. If a superior has washed the feet of an inferior, then equals should wash one another's feet. Did Jesus here mean to establish an ordinance that should be observed in His church through all coming time? Some thus understand Him, and to this day wash one another's feet as a religious rite. I do not, for the following reasons, so believe: (1.) There was nothing in the Jewish church on which to base this act, it has no precendent; (2.) The spirit of the disciples prompted it, there was a great lack of humility on their part; (3.) The apostles did not understand it as an ordinance to be continued in the church, we have no account of them ever observing it after this time; (4.) It is designed to teach humility, but we may express in many ways our absence of pride without washing one another's feet; (5.) It is an expression of service, and teaches that we should labor for the Master; (6.) It shows equality and co-operation. None should be too great to do the works of the humblest. We can make one another better by living close to Jesus.

Scripture References—John 17. 18-21; Acts 13. 1-3.

The Word—In our first selection we have the prayer of the Master for his disciples. His prayer is for unity among his disciples and for success to his kingdom. Christ was sent from God, and all true ministers and missionaries are sent from Him. Not the disciples alone, but all those who were to believe through their labors, are embraced in this prayer. The prayer of Jesus takes in the whole world who are yet to believe in him through the missionary zeal of the church. The account we have from the Act is of the first missionary enterprise of the early church. The "laying on of hands" was not an ordination to an office, but a solemn assignment to missionary work. They were set apart and then followed by the prayers of the church. So we do to-day. But do we remember in our prayers as we ought the missions and missionariesof the church?

Our Homily: The Relation of Our Prayers to Our Giving.—The whole missionary question has been too intimately related to giving rather than to praying. We must give. The work is suffering from a niggardly and parsimonious giving. But our giving ought to be accompanied by our prayers. We need more praying as well as more giving. And we will have larger giving only as we get more prayer from interested hearts. Let us remember that—

Prayer Inspires the Gift. Nearly all missionaries have given themselves in answer to the prayer of their own heart. Judson, Livingstone, Paton, the haystack heroes, and many of our men in the field, were called to the work when in prayer. Prayer in the Epworth League will lead some of our consecrated youth to go themselves and thus answer their prayers. So, too, prayer will inspire the giving of money. In emergencies our mission boards have received great gifts after great prayer has been offered to God. The givers to missions are always pray-ers.

Prayer Will Multiply the Gifts. From the day when the lad brought his loaves and fishes to Jesus and he blessed them, until now, the Master has been multiplying the gifts of the church. Our Woman's Foreign Missionary Society began with "two cents a day and a prayer." They are now giving many cents a day. He who begins with giving dimes with prayers will to-morrow be giving dollars and prayers. As one has said, "Missions have progressed so slowly abroad because piety and prayers have been so shallow at home." Pray more and you will give more.

Prayer Will Perpetuate the Gift. The need of modern missions is not spasmodic giving, but a steady stream of unceasing benevolence. A man may give largely for missions because he is stirred by a passionate appeal. But he will perpetuate his gift only when he follows his dollars with his desires, his property with his prayers. Prayer will not only increase the giving of the church, but it will make it permanent and steady. The enterprises of the mission field are too vast to rest on the vacillating contributions of a careless constituency. We must put prayer and thought into these problems.

Prayer Enriches the Giver and Honors Our Christ. God has promised great things. But they are all conditioned. Prayer is an important condition of the missionary promises. Only as we pray and follow our gifts by prayers can we hope to succeed in evangelizing the world. Our Epworth Leaguers must get to praying for missions to-day if they are to be the supporters of missions to-morrow. The secret of success in missions lies not in the wealth of the church, but in a consecrated wealth, and a giving inspired, continued, and followed by praying.—From Notes on Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

The New Orleans Missionary Convention

By Rev G. G. Logan, D. D., Field Secretary of the Missionary Society

At the January meeting of the Open Door Emergency Commission of the Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, the plan of the Field Secretary of the South to hold a Missionary Convention for the Mississippi, Upper Mississippi, Texas, West Texas, Louisiana and Little Rock Conferences combined, was approved and endorsed.

REASONS WHY.

In all of the conferences in which conventions have thus far been held, the good results are seen in increased missionary zeal, intelligence, enthusiasm and collections.

In 1865 the Mississippi Mission Conference was organized in New Orleans by Bishop Thompson. In that company of colored ministers who constituted the charter members of the Mississippi Mission Conference not one could read or write. When the Bishop asked whom they should have as secretary there was silence. At length one of the ministers said that there was not a minister among them that could read or write, but he hoped that when he (the Bishop) returned the following year, it would not be so. One of the brethren was elected secretary any way, but one of the white brethren present did the writing for him.

From this Mississippi Mission Conference organized forty years ago in New Orleans have grown the Mississippi, Upper Mississippi, Texas, West Texas, Louisiana and Little Rock Conferences. Within these Conferences, there are today 35 presiding elders, 700 pastors, and 90,000 lay members.

They contributed to missions this last conference year more than $10,000. Within their bounds are the following well-known institutions of learning: Meridian Academy, Meridian, Miss; Sam Houston College, Austin, Tex.; Wiley University, Marshall, Tex.; New Orleans University, New Orleans, La.; Philander Smith College, Little Rock, Ark.; Rust University, Holly Springs, Miss. The following are some of the well known men whom these conferences have given to the church: Bishop I. B. Scott, Drs. M. C. B. Mason, J. W. E. Bowen, A. E. P. Albert, Ernest Lyons, J. C. Sherrill, A. P. Camphor, J. M. Shumpert, M. W. Dogan, W. W. Lucas, R. S. Lovinggood, J. M. Cox and W. F. Waters. In view of the foregoing facts, it seems right and proper that the six conferences should unite in a great convention to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the organization of the Mississippi Mission Conference out of which they have grown.

TIME AND PLACE.

The convention will be held in New Orleans, La., October 10-12, 1905. The organization of the convention will take place on Tuesday evening, October 10, the following two days, October 11-12, will be given to the convention work proper, closing on the night of October 12.

DELEGATES.

The convention will be a regular delegated body. The delegates will comprise the Bishops of the M. E. Church, the members of the Open Door Emergency Commission, Secretaries and Field Secretaries of the Missionary Society, other General Conference officers, college presidents, all presiding elders, pastors, Sunday school superintendents and league presidents of the conferences named above. In addition to the above, each district in the other fourteen Colored Conferences will be invited to name the presiding elder, two pastors, two Sunday school superintendents and two league presidents as delegates. All others are cordially invited, and the same arrangements and rates secured for the regular delegates will be rendered to all visitors.

PROGRAM.

The program will be in the hands of a competent committee. Effort will be made to select the most appropriate subjects and secure some of the very best convention speakers. Every detail of the program will be submitted to the Open Door Emergency Commission for suggestions and approval before final adoption and publication. The same will be true with reference to all other matters in connection with the convention. It must be distinctly understood that these meetings are being held under the direction of the Open Door Emergency Commission of the Missionary Society of the M. E. Church. It is the hope of the Commission that this convention will be in magnitude, character and results similar to the Cleveland, Buffalo and Philadelphia conventions. To this end we pray the support and hearty co-operation of every colored man and woman in the M. E. Church.

ENTERTAINMENT.

We are not able to announce just now the plan of entertainment, but in a very short time a local committee will be appointed that will try to secure the very best terms possible. The same will be announced soon.

EXPENSE OF THE CONVENTION.

The convention will be self-supporting. The speakers, as well as other delegates and visitors, will be expected to defray their own traveling expenses. We are not allowed to call upon the Missionary Society for one cent to meet the expense of the convention. To do so would simply be taking money from our hard-worked home missionaries and the heathen upon foreign shores. The great conventions held by our white secretaries have been self-supporting, despite the fact that they have cost hundreds and even thousands of dollars. Every cent has been paid by the Conferences interested, the local church and the attending delegates.

TRANSPORTATION.

While it is too early to announce what terms will be given us by the railroads, leading into New Orleans, yet we feel sure that we will be able to secure most liberal rates.

MISSIONARY EXHIBIT.

The Open Door Emergency Commission has promised to furnish the convention with one of the finest and most elaborate exhibits it is possible to collect. This will include maps, charts, books, pamphlets and curios from our Mission fields in all parts of the world.

SOME ENDORSEMENTS OF THE MEETING.

The very mention of the plan has met with universal approval. And we can safely predict a large attendance of delegates and visitors. The Open Door Emergency Commission endorses it. The Lexington Conference at its recent session passed strong resolutions favoring the convention and requested each district to send delegates. Bishop Spellmeyer writes, "I very gladly commend the convention and urge the presiding elders and others to stand by you and make the convention a success." Bishop Mc-Dowell writes, "I am delighted that you are to hold a convention for the six conferences named and urge the brothers in the Little Rock Conference to co-operate with you in every way to make it a great success." Bishop Wilson writes, "I am interested in noting that you propose to hold a convention in New Orleans in October next. I shall be glad to co-operate with you in every way possible and trust the convention will be a very great success."

From our college presidents: Dr. J. M. Cox, "Count on me for any assistance I can render." Dr. M. W. Dogan, "I stand ready to co-operate with you in any way you may indicate." Dr. F. H. Knight, "We shall be glad to do all in our power to co-operate with you in the work of the missionary convention. Dr. W. W. Foster, "Certainly I will do all that I can for the missionary convention to be held in October." Dr. W. W. Lucas, "I shall be glad to do anything that I can for the missionary convention to be held in October, in New Orleans." From presiding elders, Upper Mississippi Conference: Rev. J. W. Winbush, Greenville District, "I am thoroughly in sympathy with this great movement, and am glad to have the honor of giving my hearty endorsement, and pledging my co-operation in the work of the convention;" Rev. F. H. Henry, Aberdeen District, "I highly endorse such a movement, believing it will result in more intelligent giving, and an enthusiasm such as can come from no other source;" Rev. S. H. Nevils, Greenwood District, "I have no objections to the convention in the city of New Orleans. Hope you will have a good time. I cannot promise to be there. You have my endorsements for anything that points towards missions;" Rev. B. F. Woolfolk, Clarksdale District, "The convention meets my hearty approval. The celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the Mississippi Mission Conference, in the form of a great missionary convention, is very timely;" Rev. W. C. Clay, Tupelo District, "The convention has my approval, and you shall have my hearty co-operation in making it a success." Louisiana Conference: Rev. W. R. Butler, South New Orleans District, "I am in for a great missionary convention;" Rev. J. F. Marshall, North New Orleans District, "I endorse the convention fully and will give you all the aid that I can toward making it a great success. It will indeed be the greatest event for our Southern Methodism for this year;" Rev. J. J. Obee, Alexandria District, "I pledge you the support of myself and district in making the convention a success;" Rev. J. W. Turner, Baton Rouge District, "Shall render all aid in my power for success of convention;" Rev. H. Daniel, Shreveport District, "The convention meets my approval; I pledge you not only to be present myself, but also to secure a full attendance from my district." Rev. J. O. Brown, Monroe District, "This is a convention age. Business men are not slow in consenting thereto, and are reaping a rich harvest from their concerted action. I heartily endorse the convention and pledge my support." Mississippi Conference: Rev. J. C. Hibbler, Jackson District, "I think it will be a very befitting thing to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the organization of the Mississippi Mission Conference in such a manner as indicated. I am willing to join in this great movement," Rev. J. M. Shumpert, Meridian District, "I am glad to hear of the proposed missionary convention. I will certainly do all that I can to make the meeting a success;" Rev. R. N. Jones, Gulfport District, "I think the convention in the right place and at the right time. It shall have my attention and strength;" Rev. R. P. Threlkeld, Vicksburg District, "I endorse the proposed convention." West Texas Conference: Rev. L. H. Richardson, Dallas District, "Will be glad to join in and make the convention a success." Rev. J. H. Weakley, San Antonio District, "I endorse the convention and approve the time and place. The time is now that we must heed the Master's call;" Rev. D. C. Lacy, Austin District, "I think the convention the very thing, and approve the time and place;" Rev. J. H. Swann, Waco District, "The convention has my hearty endorsement; I shall be present." Texas Conference: Rev. J. E. Bryant, Navasota District, "I shall do all in my power for the convention. I think it will be a grand meeting;" Rev. L. S. Blakney, Palestine District, "I am in favor of the missionary convention. It shall have my hearty support;" Rev. Freeman Parker, Paris District, "The convention has my endorsement. Count on me;" Rev. B. M. Taylor, Marshall District, "I shall try to attend, and shall use my influence to make it a success." Little Rock Conference: Rev. H. B. Harston, Clow District, "Such a meeting as contemplated will do untold good. It has my hearty endorsement. I shall be there;" Rev. S. McDonald, Pine Bluff District, "I pledge myself and the district to the support and for the success of the convention. It will do great good; all should rally to it."

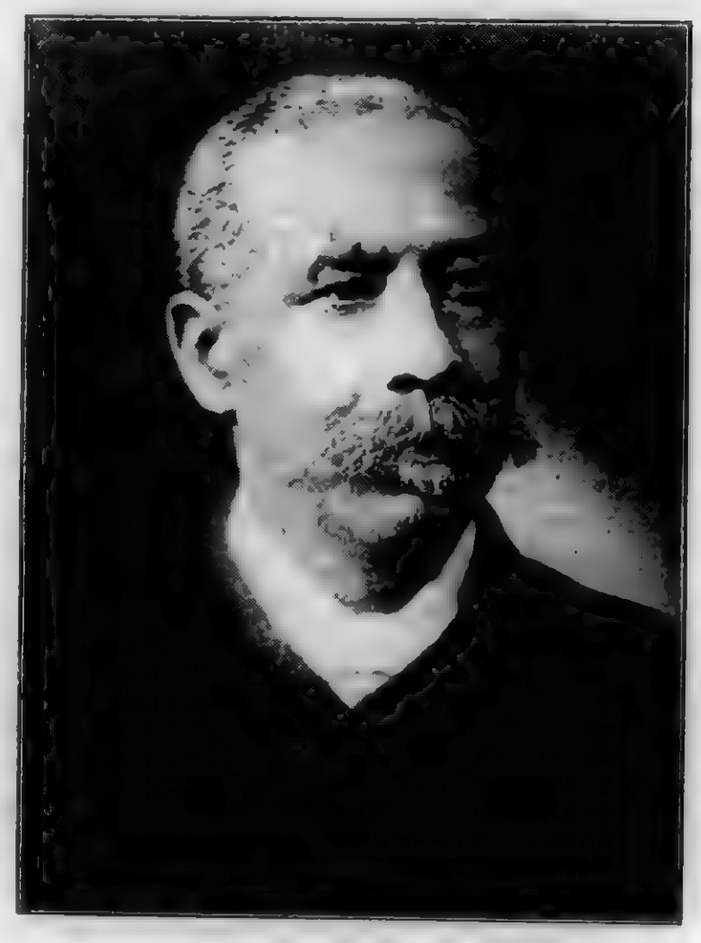
THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION



The Eleventh International (Sixteenth National) Sunday School Convention, representing the United States and Territories, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Philippines, the British North America Provinces, Territories and possessions, Mexico and Cuba, will, D. V., be held in the city of Toronto, Canada, June 23-27, 1905. The American Section of the International Sunday School Lesson Committee will meet in the city of Toronto, Wednesday morning, June 21, at 10 o'clock, at the Queen's Hotel. The Executive Committee of the International Sunday School Convention will meet on Thursday morning, June 22, at 10 o'clock, at the King Edward Hotel, where the Committee will be entertained. The International Institute of Sunday School Workers, which include the Field Workers and the Primary and Junior Organizations, will meet on June 20, and continue in session until noon, June 23. The places for meeting will be announced on the program. The Committee on Education will meet Friday morning, June 23, at 9 o'clock, at the King Edward Hotel. The Editorial Association will hold its annual meeting in the Board Room of the Methodist Publishing House, Toronto, June 20-23. Among the speakers are Bishop J. H. Vincent, Bishop W. F. McDowell, Bishop C. C. McCabe, Secretary Leslie M. Shaw, Rev. Levi Gilbert, Dr. John T. McFarland, and ex-Gov. John L. Bates. The last session of the Convention will be a great missionary meeting, held in the Convention church and Massey Hall, Tuesday evening, June 27. Among the speakers will be Bishop Charles C. McCabe, Mr. Robert E. Speer, and Rev. Chauncey Murch, Luxor, Egypt, and others. Where there is a State Interdenominational Sunday School organization of colored people, such organization is entitled to one-fifth of the entire number of delegates allotted to that state.

The article on "Easter" which appears on page 2 was written by Rev. W. J. Yates, D. D., Professor of Systematic Theology in Gammon Theological Seminary, South Atlanta, Ga. By oversight his name does not appear with the article.

A PRINCE IN ISRAEL FALLEN

In the death of Rev. Stephen Duncan, Louisiana Methodism loses a remarkable man. He was recognized in the Conference as a man of wise judgment and a safe leader, and held the respect of the people throughout the state, laymen as well as ministers. He was a man of absolute christian integrity, never flinching from what he conceived to be his duty. He was fair and just to all, kind and sympathetic with the young men, proving himself to be their friend, and at the same time careful as to the rights and privileges of the older men.

Altho a man of limited education, the cause of education never had a stronger friend and his voice was constantly heard in appeal for a prepared ministry as well as for the education of our young people, and in recognition of his devotion to the cause of education and particularly to the interest and development of New Orleans University; he was made a trustee of the University and was president of the Trustee Board for a number of years, which post of honor he held at the time of his death.

REV. STEPHEN DUNCAN
Born July 22, 1849 Died April 10, 1905

As a preacher he had great power. His description was of very high order and he stood firmly and squarely for righteousness. He was fearless in his denunciation of sin, never losing an opportunity to lift his voice against the evils of the people. During the closing years of his life he delivered a gospel lecture, under the subject of "After the Ball," in which lecture he, without compromise, scored the sins of the people. Not only did he preach righteousness, but his life was above reproach and no one ever accused Stephen Duncan of intentionally doing any man a wrong or of willful sinning.

He was abundant in labors and he never refused an opportunity for service when it was possible for him to serve. He was faithful to the utmost to the appointments of the Church. It was in his round as a presiding elder that he passed through a very trying experience at Balltown during the riot some years ago. It is thought that the nervous shock which he sustained during this experience is the indirect cause of his death. For he was a man of careful habits and had a remarkably preserved physical form, and altho of advanced aged it would appear that he should have lived longer.

It was at Los Angeles, during the session of the recent General Conference, that he was stricken and temporarily recovered. He returned to his work in June of last year and was able to visit only a few appointments when he was confined to his room. During these months of illness he was patient, cheerful and hopeful to the last.

Rev. Duncan was born in July 22, 1849, on Cote Blanche Island in St. Mary's parish, Louisiana, of a slave mother, Octavia Merdolph, his father being a Jew by the name of Levi Newells. He took the name of a sugar planter, Stephen Duncan, but was reared by John Huger's family. At the age of 15 he and his mother went to meet the "Yankees" on the spot where Gilbert Academy now stands, and he remained with the Union Army from the 4th of March 1863 to 1865. He was converted in 1859 and baptized by Preacher Craven. He back-slid during his army life, but was reclaimed under Rev. M. Dale in 1867, and was re-baptized. But he said: "I did not understand God's work as I now do, or I would not have been baptized over." He joined the Louisiana Conference in 1875, in the month of January, and was ordained a deacon by Bishop Foster in Union Chapel, this city, and appointed to Cote Blanche Island. In 1887 was ordained elder by Bishop Wiley. He was appointed by Bishop Haven to Glencoe, Cote Blanche and Weck's Islands where he served two years. He was then appointed by Bishop Harris to Clinton Street Church, New Orleans, which is now Williams Chapel, where he served three years, and was then appointed presiding elder of the Shreveport District, serving four years. At the expiration of this time he was appointed by Bishop Mallalieu in 1885 to Union Chapel, this city, and after two years' pastorate at this place was appointed presiding elder of the South New Orleans District. Closing six years on this district he was appointed pastor of First Street Church, this city, serving at this appointment one year he was appointed presiding elder of the Alexandria District in 1905. At the time of his death he sustained a supernumerary relation to the Conference, by his request, and was a member of every board of the Conference. He leaves a widow and several children to mourn their loss.

The funeral services were conducted at Williams Chapel, the church wherein he began his city pastorate twenty-seven years ago.

The services, which were directed by the pastor, the Rev. C. W. Reeves, with the Rev. J. F. Marshall, D. D., acting as master of ceremonies, included eulogistic addresses by the Rev. F. H. Knight, D. D.; Revs. Valcour Chapman, C. D. Shallowhorne and W. R. Butler. Other ministers participating in the ritualistic an dother services were: Revs. B. M. Hubbard, D. D., J. O. Richards, T. J. Johnson, F. T. Chinn, J. A. Tircuit, Henry Taylor, J. J. Obee, W. S. Chinn, W. F. Waters, and H. J. Wright. The pall-bearers were the Revs. A. E. P. Albert, D. D., T. B. Cooper, Jno. McKee, D. M. Seals, Wm. Harrell and B. M. Hubbard, D. D. The presiding elders were honorary pall-bearers.

All our city pastors and several from distant parts of the state, together with several ministers from sister denominations, were in attendance.

The congregation was one of the largest and most representative of our people ever assembled in this city, to pay tribute of love and respect to the memory of a great and good man. They had come from the extreme ends of the state and from every portion of this city, crowding the church to its utmost capacity and blocking the approaches for a block on the outside.

During the moving of the funeral cortege Wesley Chapel and several of our city churches solemnly tolled their bells.

The music furnished by the church choir and others from sister church choirs, was appropriate and solemnly impressive. Miss Ellen Guessnon presided at the organ. Misses Stella Brazeley and Ella Boyd sang appropriate solos.

Personal and General.

A District Missionary Convention will be held in Brookhaven, Miss., opening May 2nd.

Rev. G. A. Payne, of Clinton, spent a few days in the city last week with his family.

Rev. Eugene Baptiste, of Thibodaux, is in the city visiting his wife, who has been in the hospital for some time.

Secretary I. G. Penn and Dr. M. W. Dogan will make the alumni addresses during the forthcoming commencement of Rust University.

Dr. W. P. Thirkield, secretary of our Freedmen's Aid Society, recently received gifts, in one week, for special work, amounting to $11,000.

Mrs. Rachel S. Gilliam, the mother of Rev. E. L. Gilliam, pastor of Eleventh Street Church, Columbus, Ohio, died recently at the home of her son.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Lexington Conference will be held in Mt. Zion Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, May 10-15.

Rev. J. A. Landry, of Pleasant Hill, informs us of the presence in his home of a newcomer, a fine baby girl, who came to them Thursday morning, April 6th.

The great Simplon tunnel through the Alps, the largest in the world, was opened April 3rd, and the first trains passed through. Religious exercises were held.

Mrs. D. M. Johnson, of Marshall, Texas, will deliver the annual address before the dressmaking department of King Home, Wiley University, during commencement week.

We announce with regret that Haven Chapel, our church at Meridian, Miss., Rev. N. W. Ross, pastor, was struck by lightning on Monday night, April 11th, and burned to ashes.

Rev. E. M. Jones, D. D., Field Agent of the Sunday School Union, will spend Easter Sabbath with Rev. H. B. Hart, at Corinth, Miss. Brother Hart says he will raise $300 on that day.

Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne and Rev. B. M. Hubbard, our pastors at Shreveport, came to the city last week and were among those who performed the last sad rites in honor of Rev. Stephen Duncan.

We acknowledge the invitation to the commencement exercises of Gammon Theological Seminary, South Atlanta, Ga. The exercises will be held April 27th in Chrisman Hall of Clark University.

Mrs. Mary Church Terrell spoke before the National Council of Women of the United States in its triennial session held in Washington, on the subject of "Citizenship From a Woman's Point of View."

Rev. Dr. J. P. Wragg, agent of the American Bible Society, represented the interest of that society recently before the New York and New York East Conferences and the New York Presbytery, of the Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Brooks returns to the pastorate of St. Mark Church, New York, for the ninth year and is most enthusiastically received. Dr. Brooks is regarded as one of the most successful pastors among all our many ministers.

Dr. C. C. Jacobs spent a few days recently in Cincinnati, Ohio, and lectured in Mt. Zion Church, Rev. H. W. Tate, pastor, and Park Street Church, Rev. D. E. Skelton, pastor. The Doctor is having splendid success in his work.

Rev. B. T. Perkins, pastor of Mt. Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington, D. C., raised during the year for all purposes $4,324.52. After paying all claims the stewards have on hand $158.79. Brother Perkins has had a most successful year of it.

Rev. D. G. Franklin, presiding elder of the Guthrie District of the Lincoln Conference, with the hearty co-operation of his brethren doubled the benevolent collections on his district last year. Rev. A. J. McAllister, of the Muskogee District, was likewise successful.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Simon announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Sara, to Rev. C. G. Taylor, on Thursday evening, April 27th, at their home, South Atlanta, Ga. Rev. and Mrs. Taylor will be at home to their friends after May 2nd, at Collins, Miss.

Rev. I. C. Rucker, of Hicks, Miss., who has been ill for three months, is now recovering. As Brother Rucker was unable to attend the recent session of his conference and was left without appointment, he would be glad to visit and preach for the brethren during the year.

By special invitation, during its session at Dover, the Delaware Conference visited the State College, of which Dr. W. C. Jason is president. Bishop Berry, Revs. J. H. Nutter and C. A. Tindley and Dr. C. C. Jacobs made addresses. The visit was an inspiration to the Conference as well as to the students.

Dr. Freeman D. Bovard, Editor of the California Christian Advocate, has been appointed manager of the San Francisco Depository of the Western Methodist Book Concern. It is announced that the house has bought a frontage of seventy-five feet at the corner of City Hall Avenue and McAllister street for $57,000, and will erect a building there.

Secretary L. J. Jordan, of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Baptist Church, is greatly encouraged. He thinks he will be able to pay the missionaries every cent due them by the Board, and do much to aid the ott Carey Baptist Academy at Queenstown, South Africa, and bring to the National Convention at Chicago, the best report he has ever made.

Prof. Charles Stewart addressed the graduating class of East Maine Street High School of Xenia, Ohio, recently, taking as his subject "The Building of a Race." Mr. Stewart also delivered an address before the students of Wilberforce University on "Memory," and in the evening was tendered an enthusiastic reception in the parlors of Arnett Hall of Wilberforce University.

Rev. S. H. Brown, D. D., of the John Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, Baltimore, is in the midst of a very successful pastorate. His people admire him for his preaching and administrative ability. At the close of this conference year he was presented with a fine suit, box of shirts, fountain pen, umbrella, and other articles in testimony of the esteem in which he was held. Dr. Brown and his people on a recent Sabbath gave the SOUTHWESTERN forty-two subscriptions.

Rev. M. J. Naylor, A. B., is carrying very successfully the heavy pastorate of Asbury Church, Baltimore, and in addition is acting president of the State Industrial School, located at Laurel, Md. Rev. Naylor is a scholarly and polished gentleman of high standing with his brethren and it is no surprise that he is very much admired by his local church constituency. Rev. Naylor made a most excellent report at the recent session of his Conference.

Rev. C. A. Tindley, pastor of Bainbridge Street Church, Philadelphia, is not only popular with his people, but is held in highest esteem by the people throughout the city of brotherly love. A recent reception tendered him had upon its program representatives of the various denominations who bore testimony to Rev. Tindley's catholicity of spirit and his successful career as a preacher of the gospel. During his pastorate the Bainbridge Street Church has been remodeled at a cost of $18,000.

Rabbi A. J. Messing, of Montgomery, Alabama, is to preach the commencement sermon at the Tuskegee Institute, Sunday, May 21st. Dr. C. T. Walker, Augusta, Georgia, is to deliver the annual commencement address, Thursday, May 25th. The Academic and Industrial Exhibits planned for this year promise to be more comprehensive and satisfactory than of any previous year. The friends of the school are cordially invited to be present at all the exercises during commencement week, May 21st to 25th.

Bishop John M. Walden, D. D., LL. D., reached this city a few days ago, and preached to a great multitude of people last Sabbath evening at the First Methodist Episcopal Church of this city, Rev. J. A. Tircuit, pastor. The Bishop's sermon was simple but logical, forceful and convincing, and made a profound and lasting impression upon the large and appreciative congregation. The pastor and congregation of the First Church esteem it both a pleasure and an honor to have had a visit and a sermon from so eminent a servant of God and the Church as Bishop Walden.

Now for the League Convention. All efforts are being made to guarantee the Epworth Leaguers and their friends who will visit Denver during the forthcoming Epworth League Convention, a most pleasant time. Secretary Penn assures us that the program is one of the best in the history of the League movement and ample accommodations will be made for the comfort of all. Bishop Moore says, "Denver is exceeded in beauty only by the New Jerusalem." It is beyond a doubt one of the most beautiful cities in the world. And a visit to Denver at the time of the Epworth League Convention would be an inspiration to any one.

In recognition of genuine worth and faithfulness in service the Washington (D. C.) School Board was led to make certain promotions on account of the death of its secretary. The chief clerk of the Board was appointed to the vacant secretaryship, and the next clerk in line, altho a Negro, was appointed to the position of chief clerk, with a very comfortable salary and has a number of white clerks under him and will be brought in relation with hundreds of teachers. So efficient has this young man been in his service and so carefully has he handled all the business entrusted to his care that his promotion to the secretaryship at some day is confidently expected.

At the special meeting of the Board of Trustees of Allegheny College on April 11th, it was decided to accept Mr. Carnegie's offer of twenty-five thousand dollars and meet the condition he imposed of raising twenty-five thousand more. Seventeen thousand dollars of this amount has already been pledged, and it is expected that the remainder of the amount will be raised soon. The money is to be used in building an annex to the young ladies' dormitory which shall provide a gymnasium and additional dormitory facilities for the young ladies; and also to erect a building for the preparatory school. It is in the plan of the trustees to make considerable changes in two of the old buildings, and materially enlarge the quarters of the biological laboratory. These improvements are all made necessary by the marked increase of students at the college during the last three years. Four years ago the entering class was sixty; this year it is one hundred and nineteen. The present year has been the most prosperous one in the history of the college.

Home Made

Have your cake, muffins, and tea biscuit home-made. They will be fresher, cleaner, more tasty and wholesome.

Royal Baking Powder helps the housewife to produce at home, quickly and economically, fine and tasty cake, the raised hot-biscuit, puddings, the frosted layer-cake, crisp cookies, crullers, crusts and muffins, with which the ready-made food found at the bake-shop or grocery does not compare.

WHERE EASTER LILIES COME FROM

Few people who see the multitude of lilies that will be used on Sunday in the adornment of churches will realize what has been the labor of bringing these lovely flowers from the places where they were grown, or even what care has been necessary to force them into bloom for this time of year. America uses for all kinds of decoration, but especially for Easter, ten times as many lilies or flowers as any other country. A florist has been heard to say that this is not an "imported fad," but an original one. The lilies that are peculiarly Easter lilies are in bloom in their native soil in Bermuda at this time of year, and yet there, in the land of flowers, an American woman was astonished a few years ago to find that no flowers were placed upon the altars of the churches on Easter, although the worshipers could look out through open doors and windows to whole fields white with lilies, and to hedgerows showing a wealth of blossoms.

Many of the lilies used here have in former years come from Bermuda, having been sent as buds packed well in moss. When put in warm water, these buds will quickly open, and thus quantities of lilies are obtained with little trouble. Flowers raised in this country are grown from the bulbs.—Exchange.

It is unnecessary to feed grain to horses in winter if they are not at work. Hay contains more mineral matter, starch and protein than an idle horse will require, and grain is of no advantage. It is proper, however, to give horses a variety.

Lime, of itself, is not a fertilizer. It unlocks other elements combined in the soil, enabling the plants to absorb more of them; but, when that is done, the soil is poorer by the amount of plant food unlocked, and the need of fertilizer is greater than ever. This is "book-farming," true enough, but it is the sort that is well to know.

Every little while some one comes out and makes a big fuss over a new breed which beats anything else hatched from an egg. The farmer should pay no attention to them, preferring first to stick to the good old favorites who have won their place by merit; and second, to let the fanciers settle the merits of the new breed among themselves.—Notes from Michigan Advocate.

A thoroughly satisfactory treatment for checking rot in potatoes is yet to be found. What has proved best in my experience is, first, keeping the storage cellar at a temperature as near 35 to 38 degrees as possible; second, sorting the potatoes after they have completed their sweat, in case any indication of wet rot is shown, to prevent the rot spreading from the decaying tubers to the sound ones. Dry rot is very rarely, if at all, transmitted from one potato to another. If the potatoes are left in pits in the field to sweat prior to putting them in the cellar, they will usually show rot that may be in them when they are taken from the pit. Potatoes which are nearly clean of dirt usually show more rapid spread of the wet rot than do potatoes which are covered with a considerable coating of dry soil. Possibly the reason for this may be the fact that the dry soil is not a good medium for passage of the rot from one potato to another.—American Agriculturist.

FERTILIZERS.

Use garbage, wood ashes, soot, and soapy water from the laundry to help along the vegetable garden. Mix garbage with wood ashes and earth in a covered pit and leave to ripen into a fertilizer. Use wood ashes or soot for insects on cucumbers, egg plants, radishes, squash and tomatoes. Use soapy water for tomatoes and cucumbers; the salt water from the ice-cream freezer to kill weeds, or put on asparagus beds.

BOOK REVIEWS

The Life of Florence Nightingale, by Sarah A. Fooley. Publishers, MacMillan Company, New York.

The name of the author would naturally suggest an accurately and completely written autobiography and such this is found to be. This is an exhaustive and exceedingly interesting history of the life of Florence Nightingale, that woman whose unselfish deeds will cause her name to be remembered forever. Author has given us a history that interests by its intimate portrayal of the life of this lovely woman. Already admiring and reverencing Florence Nightingale as one must, this book serves but to deepen the feeling and makes one grateful that the world has known such a glorious woman.

The House That Jack Built, by Wesley Johnston. Publishers, Eaton & Mains, New York; Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati. Price 75c.

This is a cleverly written little story and holds much that is delightful and refreshing. The chief interest centers about a boy who had been baptized "Jack," instead of John. Mr. Johnston makes Jack a very interesting youngster, introducing him to the reader as a baby and then taking us along with him until Jack arrives at his majority and after. The story is full of incident and action, and there is a tender love interest in it too which adds to the delight of the book.

MISSOURI.

Kansas City, Wm. H. Wheeler, pastor.—The pastor of Asbury M. E. Church with his family was indeed agreeably surprised Tuesday Eve, Feb. 21, by a goodly number of enthusiastic members, both old and young storming the parsonage with a variety of eatables and some money. As this is the coldest winter for years it can easily surmised that the pastor and family were highly pleased. The party came early and stayed late and a good time was enjoyed.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

And Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost—One Who Did it Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder diseases, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatsoever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

Doings of the Workmen.

The Executive Board of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the North Carolina Conference met in mid-year session in Greensboro, Jan. 13, 1905. It proved to be a most helpful meeting. The Conference organizer, Mrs. M. E. Morris, reported some effectual work done in the field since Conference. The president, Mrs. A. E. Morehead, and the corresponding secretary also reported some work organized; in all, about five new auxiliaries formed since Conference. Two of the district presidents were present and reported—Mrs. J. D. Cavis of the Greensboro district, and Mrs. Freeze of the Winston district. The different departments of the work were carefully looked into and a general discussion as to the best possible methods and plans for the present year's work. Mrs. R Smith was made president of the Western district. In view of the fact that our work is steadily growing, not in membership only, but in zeal and interest as well, it was found necessary that we have more time at these annual meetings in which to transact our business and therefore be better prepared to meet the growing demands of such an organization. The brethren of the Conferenc have been very kind and thoughtful in sharing their time with us. But their work is growing, too, and the time allotted for their work is full. So it was decided to have our annual meeting separate from the Conference. The time of meeting is August 30-31, 1905. We are planning, working and praying that we may have success, and that every phase of the work may be helped. May we have your prayers?

MRS. C. L. BULLOCK, Cor. Sec.

ARKANSAS.

Warren, R. B. Henry.—My first quarterly conference was held with Rev. S. McDonald, P. E., in the chair, Mar. 4-5. Most all the officers came with good reports. The presiding elder seemed to be well pleased with the outlook here, for a grand success this year. When I arrived in Warren I found the church uncomplete, also an indebtedness of ten dollars. We have made arrangements to pay that debt, also one good brother has given 1000 feet of lumber to ceil the church. We hope to finish before long

Marrell, Rev. W. M. Hanna, P. C.—My first quarter was held March 11-12, with Presiding Elder S. McDonald. I had planned for the finishing of the church at this place. On Monday morning we all gathered at the church with our saws, hammers, squares, led by the elder. We have ceiled the church at a cost of about $53.00. At Edna we have a church lot on which we will build a church before conference. I was gladly received by my people. The weather has been bad but we are in the warm days of spring now and this means work. We will raise every dollar of our benevolence from this charge

Fayetteville, Rev. W. H. Morris.—Fayetteville is situated in the mountains of Northwest Arkansas, and is subject to frequent storms. We had two; one of these occurred on a very cold night during the snowy weather of last February. And on March 14th, when the weather was as pleasant as we could desire, we were much surprised by another. Somehow the Methodist parsonage seems to be the center of its fury, and while excellent music was being discoursed, it poured out an abundant supply of nice eatables on the parsonage table, and pastor and wife were made to feel happy because of such frequent occurrences.

Batesville, Rev. W. H. Simpson.—This is our first year here as pastor The members and friends received us gladly. Our clubs are at work. We are preparing to build a new tower and beautify our church. Friday night a storm struck the parsonage. Quite a number of young people came with the storm and brought quite a number of fine groceries for the table. Rev. W. S. Sherrill, P. E., came and held our first quarter February 12-13 and preached two fine sermons which were received joyfully.

FLORIDA.

Cotton Plant and York, A. R. Rutlege, pastor.—Our first quarterly conference was held March 18, at 11 a. m., by S. A. Huger, presiding elder, with much ability and love. The officers were present with good reports. Every interest of the church was carefully looked after by the elder. Sunday was a high day in Wesley Chapel. The elder preached at 11 a. m. an able sermon to a large congregation. Our hearts were made to feel glad as he held up Jesus as a loving Savior. At 8 p. m. the writer preached. Surely the Lord was in this place. Two joined the church on probation. Paid the elder in full. Total collection for the day, $18.00; paid elder $10.00; paid the pastor $8.00.

LOUISIANA.

Hubertville, Rev. J. E. Rolax, P. C.—Tuesday night, March 14, just after class and prayer meeting, as we were about to retire, a crowd came singing . The song was led by Mrs. Amcalure Wilson. The presentation speech was made by Rev. Willist Carr. Response by the pastor. Concluded with prayer. They retired leaving 62½ pounds of choice groceries.

Clinton, B. Carr, Pastor.—On my return to this work I was gladly received by the members and friends. The welcome accorded me was most cordial indeed. Our presiding elder, Rev. J. W. Turner was not with us, being detained by wash outs, etc., but the work of the quarterly conference was transacted. Raised for all purposes this quarter $15. The members and friends were indeed glad to see their ex-pastor, Rev. J. D. Banks, who gave us valuable assistance. Mrs. Estella Knox, a teacher in the Beach Grove public school, was also present This work is without a parsonage, but the trustees and willing workers say that they will build one this year. The minister's salary has been placed at $400 this year.

Bastrop, Rev. E. L. Powell.—On Mar. 10, at 10:50 p. m., a welcome party was given by the members and young friends of Mt. Olive M. E. Church to the new pastor. Many pounds of groceries were brought to the parsonage and a purse laid on the table. The party was led by Mr. Eugene Pene and Bro. Jenkins S. Scott and others.

Covington, Rev B. R. Jackson, P. C.—A great crowd of friends raided the parsonage at the midnight hour March 4. A band of ladies and gentlemen with 300 pounds of choice groceries just suitable for the kitchen, led by Mrs. Virginia Wilson and Mary Howard, accompanied by many other friends. Refreshments were brought and an enjoyable time was had. The pastor invited them to call again. Such good things are always appreciated.

Vanceville, Rev. Irvin Henderson.—I take this method of thanking T. Smith and others for their kindness shown me and my family while I was attending the Louisiana Annual Conference, for several dollars in cash and many other good things not mentioned. I shall ever pray God's choicest blessing upon them.

Clinton, G. A. Paynes, St. Peter M. E. Church.—First quarterly conference held February 19 with Rev. J. W. Turner in chair. We had a very good conference. Paid Presiding Elder $8.00 and we also paid $14.10. We are glad that the Bishop sent us the very man we were looking for for our Presiding Elder.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

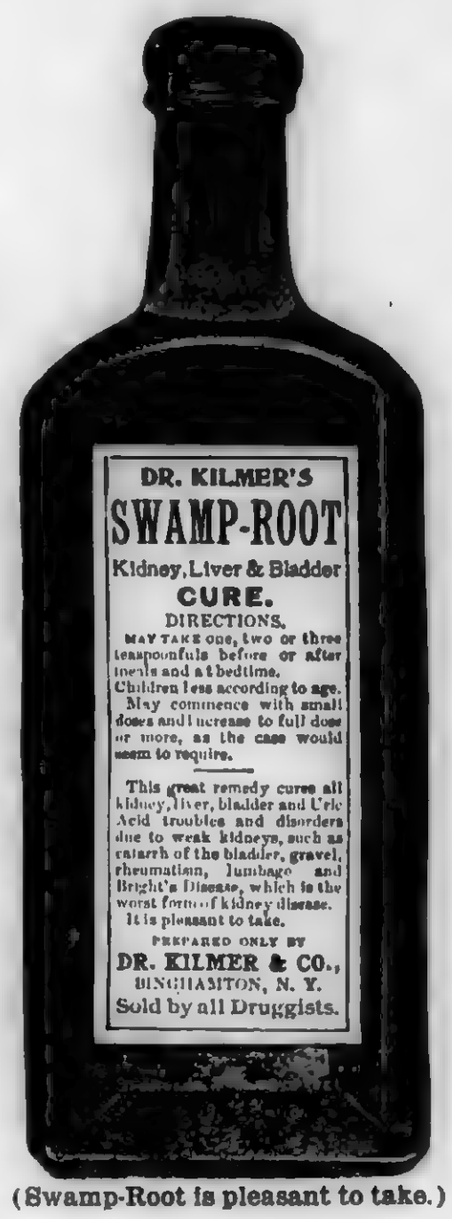
Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

To Prove What the Great Kidney Remedy, Swamp-Root, Will Do for YOU, Every Reader of Southwestern Christian Advocate May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Absolutely Free by Mail.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

Didn't Know I Had Kidney Trouble.



I had tried so many remedies without their having benefited me that I was about discouraged, but in a few days after taking your wonderful Swamp-Root I began to feel better.

I was out of health and run down generally; had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not know that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but somehow felt they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root, as above stated. There is such a pleasant taste to Swamp-Root, and it goes right to the spot and drives disease out of the system. It has cured me, making me stronger and better in every way, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. Gratefully yours.

MRS. A. L. WALKER, 21 McDaniel St., Atlanta, Ga.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue much suffering and fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; make your head ache and back ache, cause indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, make you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world-famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

(Swamp-Root is pleasant to take.)

How To Find Out

If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place it in a glassorbottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

EDITORIAL NOTICE.—So successful is Swamp-Root in promptly curing even the most distressing cases, that to Prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle.

In writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., besure to say that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

A New Seed Discovery for

FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 38 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

Tired Nervous

When you feel languid, tired, nervous and irritable, your vitality is low—your supply of nerve energy exhausted, and your system running down for lack of power,

The organs of the body are working poorly, or not at all, and you are not getting the nourishment needed. This soon impoverishes the blood and instead of throwing off the impurities, distributes it all through the body. This brings disease and misery.

Feed the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nervine, a nerve food, a nerve medicine, that nourishes and strengthens the nerves, and see how quickly you will get strong and vigorous.

"My wife suffered with nervousness previous to a recent attack of typhoid fever, but after her recovery from the fever, she was much worse, and could hardly control herself being exceedingly nervous when the least excited. She was very restless at night, and never had a good night's rest. She also suffered much from nervous headache. Dr. Miles' Nervine was recommended by a friend. After the first three doses she had a good night's rest, and at the end of the first week's treatment she was wonderfully improved. Continued use of Nervine has completed her entire cure."

OTTO KOLB,

Logan, field secretary Missionary Society and Dr. W. W. Lucas, Principal Meridian Academy, are cordially invited to attend this session and represent their work. The program will appear later. Dear brethren, you have done well under the circumstances this quarter. But let us make our second quarter surpass the first. Don't forget Easter. Let each pastor make it the banner day for benevolence. Also Children's Day. Push your revivals and let each quarterly conference be a revival and a rally. Do not forget that we are praying for one thousand conversions and accessions this year, one thousand dollars for benevolence and five hundred new yearly cash subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. Let each brother impress upon their local preachers, exhorters, S. S. superintendents, class-leaders and presidents of the Epworth Leagues the necessity of attending the District Conference

Yours for the work,

R. N. JONES, P. E.

Let us do our best this year. Let us collect building funds and start the work.

ROBT. SMITH.

To the Preachers and Laymen of the Mississippi Conference:—

As presiding elder of the Vicksburg District, it is my duty and pleasure to remind you of the day and date that our Mississippi Methodism promised to pay their subscription to our church at Natchez. On the fourth Sunday in May we expect every pastor to take a good collection for us, and send in his subscription on Monday morning. Already one note has become due and we have not the money to meet it. If our presiding elders, pastors and laymen will all join in and make this day for Natchez a great one our church will be safe. But, brethren, should you fail us, it will be a calamity to our cause in this place. On the 29th of May, let us send Brother Morrison one thousand dollars. The time is on us and something must be done. Send your money to Rev. W. P. C. Morrison, 323 North Pine street, Natchez, Miss.

R. P. THRELKELD, P. E.

WEST NASHVILLE DISTRICT.

THIRD ROUND.

The Second District Conference will convene at Lawrenceburg July 25-29. Members of the District Conference are requested to come prepared to remain until Sunday. It is expected that each pastor will come fully prepared to report on all benevolence and that no pastor absent himself from this conference. Let each delegate and pastor bring 25 cents to defray the expenses of programmes. Remember the resolution of the last District Conference that we have a district rally to make up the deficiency of presiding elder's assessment. This is expected to be one of the grandest District Conferences ever held in this district. The pastor and people are making great preparation. Several distinguished preachers are expected to be present, also Drs. Logan, Key, Hammond and Dr. Kumler, president Walden University. Brothers, push your work. Let us bring the district to the front on all lines. Success largely depends upon you, so do your best. You will be known by your work.

A. PHILLIPS, P. E.

To the Pastors and Sunday School Superintendents, Navasota District, Texas Conference:

Dear Brethren and Sisters:—We wish to call your special attention to Easter Day, to the missionary interest and the work of the Navasota District in general. We need not emphasize the importance of Easter as a great missionary day to the church, for it has been well said to be the greatest of all our Christian festivities. That being true, pastors and Sunday school superintendents and the officials of the church will see to it that this our greatest missionary day be observed with appropriate and becoming services in each church and Sunday school in the Navasota District. The great missionary society of the church is pleading as never before that the collections be increased over that of previous years. I am sure that when we stop to think with due appreciation for what the great society of the church is doing in our mission fields, home and foreign, there will be a liberal and hearty response to this blessed cause of the church. Then, too, we come into possession of missionary information and intelligence regarding the great church and its work in the world. Let us see to it, brethren, that our Sunday schools are organized into missionary societies throughout the District. In connection with the Sunday school, have missionary exercises at least once a month, and take a collection for missions. Insist that each pupil of the school take a part and contribute to the cause of missions. Please carry out, if possible, the Sunday school missionary program for the month of May. "Work among the Negroes in the South," which I am sure will be helpful indeed. Dr. Griffin G. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society, is doing untold good for the cause he so ably represents. His letters are greatly encouraging and full of information. Read them again brethren and see what the twenty colored conferences are doing and what they ought to do still. The Navasota District has steadily increased her collections these three or four years with only two places that fell off in missions last year—Sealey and San Filpe and Bellville Circuits. I appeal to the pastors, Sunday school superintendents and the officials of the district to rise in their strength and rally the forces as never before. Answering the call of Bishop Scott, Dr. Sherrill and others, pleading for Africa. Yours for God and Missions, S. M. BOLDEN, Missionary Sec. Navasota Dist.

The Preachers' Meeting of Monroe District will convene at St. James Church, Shreveport, April 25th, 1905. Dr. G. G. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society, will be the principal speaker.

B. M. HUBBARD,
C. D. SHALLOWHORNE.

To the Mite-Box Secretaries of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of Lexington Conference:—

As our annual meeting will convene the 10th of May, on Walnut Hills, please send me your reports by the last of this month. Will furnish blanks if called for. Yours in His name,

ANNABELLE SMITH,
Mite-box Sec'y., Lexington Conference.
Cincinnati, O.

Dear Brethren of the West Tennessee District:—Dr. G. G. Logan, Missionary Secretary, will hold conventions at Martin, Mason, Memphis and Centenary in May. A program will be sent to each one so that you can make preparation, and it is expected that you attend at least one of these conventions. Let us show to Dr. Logan by the large delegations at each convention that we appreciate his labors among us. We want each convention to be a spiritual as well as a financial success. Let each pastor, local preacher, exhorter, S. S. superintendent, Epworth League president, Junior League superintendent, class leaders, stewards, presidents of ladies' aid societies, trustees and the various benevolent committees work until the close of each convention to announce the coming of Dr. Logan. Bros. Richman, Williams and Proctor are making every effort to entertain you while you are attending these meetings. Let us stand together, brothers, and success is assured. Yours for the church, J. A. W. MOORE, P. E.

To the Ministers and Sunday School Workers of the Atlanta Conference:

Dear Brothers—Since the Lord is blessing me with much improved health, I will gladly come to your work to help you in whatever way I can to push forward the cause. I am planing to hold Bible Schools wherever I can to the best advantage on every district in the conference. Let us not forget the Sunday School Union and Tract Cause. We hope to double this collection this year. Yours in the Lord,

S. C. UPSHAW,
Sunday School and Tract Agent.

To the Pastors and Members of the Ohio District, Greeting:

We come to you through the authority of the church to do the work of a minister and a brother, and, therefore, shall expect your counsel and cooperation. Separately, we can do nothing; together, we can bring much to pass for the advancement of Christ and our Methodism. There are many interests that we must study and push in this district; debts to be paid, new churches to be organized and well defined financial plans, so as to reach the last member and friend of the church, and above everything else, let pastor and member be one with us in earnest prayer and study for a glorious revival in the church. We shall expect the pastor, with the co-operation of the Sunday school superintendent and any others that they desire, to plan at once for the Easter service and see that we get a collection at some service during that day for the cause of missions, and forward same to the treasurer. Give special attention to our church letter plan so that wherever members may move, they may have their church letters. Give any and all help that you can to our work in Detroit and Toledo. You are to be congratulated upon the success achieved last year, and we trust that you may be able to do even more this year for the Master and the people with whom we labor. Notice of the quarterly meetings and the benevolences will be given later. We again pray the blessings of our Heavenly Father upon you and yours. Your Fellow-laborer,

E. A. WHITE.

Field Notes

Wilson, Wesley M. E. Church, Miss M. A. Gair.—On March 4th, 1905, our first quarterly conference was held with Rev. J. V. Turner, presiding elder, in the chair. Bro. H. S. Weatherspoon was selected secretary. A goodly number of the officers responded at roll call. The reports showed improvement. The pastor's report was an inspiration. He had organized with seven members and eight probationers and appointed Bro. Guss Paxton leader. The presiding officer spoke some very appropriate and encouraging words. Conference passed a motion and considered the advisability of planting the M. E. Church in Wilson this year. The members and friends and also sinners are eager to get the Methodist Church built there. Miss M. A. Gair was elected delegate to the Missionary Convention called by the presiding elder and pastor to meet at Mt. Zion, N. C., May 11th, 1905. On Sunday at 12 m. Bro. Jackson preached a good sermon, also the elder was at his best. At 7 p. m. the pastor swept all things before him. The stewards deserve special commendation for heroic services rendered. Seven sinners came up for prayer and five subscribed for the paper. The collection stood at $87.70. Paid presiding elder in full, $15.00; paid pastor, $17.70; moving expenses, $55. Pray for our success on behalf of the conference.

LOUISIANA.

Centerville—D. J. Butler—On March 13 Mrs. Landry, the wife of the pastor, Rev. Chas. C. Landry, paid her new home a visit and all of the members were very glad to see her. About 9:30 o'clock, while the pastor, H. Richardson, Sr., and D. J. Butler were holding a little meeting, in behalf of the church our meeting was broken up by the arrival of a number of members and friends of the church. They proceeded to the porch, laden with pounds to make the heart of Rev. and Mrs. Landry glad. There was a glorious time until 11:30. There were 103 pounds and a few dollars in money. The pastor asked them to call again. A grand reception was given the presiding elder Butler, March 25th.

TENNESSEE.

Rockwood, Trinity Chapel M. E. Church, Miss Velma Page.—Rev. W. R. Marbury, pastor, made his arrival here Oct. 22, 1904, bringing as it were sunshine and rays of light. The spiritual fire was soon kindled and that fire is burning as bright to-day in Trinity Chapel as it was the first day. Attendance increasing. Class meetings, prayer meetings, are all better attended. More money is being raised, up to this quarter than for some two or three years. Notwithstanding Rev. W. R. Marbury has confronted some difficult problems, that were antagonistic to the growth and spiritual welfare of the church, yet with his judgment, kindness and his ability to lead he has overcome these problems. Rev. Marbury's great thought is "Right and Growth will Triumph." Reception was enjoyed March 3rd in honor of the presiding elder, J. B. L. Williams, D. D., of East Tennessee Conference, Chattanooga District. This was a grand affair. All denominations were represented. The A. M. E. Church and First Baptist Church and A. M. E. Church were represented by their pastors. There was a fine reception committee. Our second quarterly conference was held March 4-5. Rev. J. B. L. Williams D. D., presiding. Reports indicated that all was in excellent condition. The elder preached two soul-stirring sermons on Sunday, one at 11 o'clock: theme, "God's Love," one at 3 o'clock: theme, "Soul Winning." Rev. I. L. Johnson of Chattanooga, Tenn., preached at night to a crowded house. Rev. J. L. Johnson is an ex-pastor of our church here. He has many friends here. He was requested by his friends to preach this special sermon. Theme, "The Lost Sheep." We paid our elder in full $22.00; raised for all purposes, $140.67, from Oct. 22nd, 1904, to March 5th, 1905.

Murfreesboro, S. Knight, P. C.—Our second quarterly conference was a success. It was held March 18-19. Rev. W. R. Smith, P. E., showed himself an executive man on this occasion. Most of the officers were on hand with good reports. The presiding elder preached Sunday with much power. 78 partook of the Lord's Supper. Collection Saturday and Sunday was $23.50. Seven came to the altar for prayer. The SOUTHWESTERN was not forgotten. You may look for five yearly subscriptions soon. The presiding elder worked hard and we paid him all we owed him to date.

They Live in Our Memory.

Hemphill, Tex.—The little son of Brother Henry Howard departed this life on March 4, 1905. Sleep on in Jesus until he bids you 'wake. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. Parham.

Washington, La.—Bro. Baptiste Augustus, father of Rev. J. L. Augustus, passed to the Beyond March 2 in full faith of our Lord Jesus. He was 83 years old, and died as a Christian dies. He had been lingering for some months. Since my appointment here, I have visited him, prayed and conversed with him personally. Before leaving, he said in part: "My way is clear, and not a shadow rests between God and me. You must all pray to meet me in heaven." He leaves children and great-grandchildren to mourn for him.

S. GREEN, Pastor.

Campbellsville, Miss.—Sister Matilda Buchanan, the loving wife of Brother Silas Buchanan, one of the oldest local preachers of this charge, died February 23 in full triumph of faith. She joined the M. E. Church in 1870, under the pastorate of Rev. H. Creighton and lived a consistent Christian true to every trust. The funeral service was attended by Rev. H. Creighton. Sister Buchanan leaves a husband, two sons, one daughter, several grand-children and many friends to mourn her loss.

A. A. CHEEK.

THE REV. NELSON COLLIER.

Meridian, Miss.—In the prime of a useful ministerial career, when the golden fruits were yielding a successful harvest, Rev. Nelson Collier was called from the scenes of earth's greatest activities to death's long sleep. He was a brave and faithful soldier of the meek and lowly Jesus, and by his untiring energy and his unfailing courtesy and unbounding respect for the rights of the humblest of his flock he had risen to the highest place in their affections. He was born Aug. 1854, and died March 26, 1905. He joined the Mississippi Conference of the M. E. Church at Vicksburg, Miss., January 19, 1899, and was appointed to Morton Circuit by Bishop Merrill. Here he remained one year. His next appointment was Bay St. Louis where he labored two years, and his ministry was a success. From Bay St. Louis he went to Hickory in 1902 and for three years served this appointment with success. In Sept. of 1904 Rev. Collier was attacked with malarial fever. This was followed by rheumatism, and then dropsy. His suffering was severe, but he endured his afflictions patiently to the end. His funeral service was largely attended by his old congregation. Rev. S. A. Cowan, assisted by Rev. W. H. Smith, conducted the funeral services.

A FRIEND.

REV. MOSES C. COOK.

Orangeburg, S. C.—Another strong preacher has laid aside his gospel trumpet to join that "immortal caravan" that is evermore passing beyond death's river. Rev. Moses C. Cook, for eighteen years, a member of the South Carolina Conference, departed this life March 18, 1905. Bro. Cook was pastor of the Rowesville Charge and was doing the best work of his life. He had just begun his second year on this charge, and was preaching the gospel as never before. On nearly every occasion his churches were crowded with anxious hearers. He won all hearts and was regarded by his people as a Moses indeed. His illness was brief. After consoling his grief-stricken wife, and the many friends who gathered around, he died in full triumph of the Christian faith. He was buried at St. Luke Church near St. George. "Servant of God, well done!"

G. W. COOPER.

REV. A. B. MORRISSY.

Orangeburg, S. C.—Rev. A. B. Morrissy of the South Carolina Conference, departed this life February 8, 1905. Bro. Morrissy was sick for about eight months, during which time he suffered much. He partially recovered, but the severity of his continued illness wrecked his mind. He was sent to the asylum, where he died shortly afterward. Before he died, his reason returned, and he left the scene of his earthly toils, fully conscious of the hope which he had in Christ. A faithful and loving wife attended him to the last. She did everything possible to restore him to health, but in spite of all earthly skill, death took him away. His remains were laid to rest in the family burial place, near Hopewell Church, in Marlboro county, where "he shall sleep, but not forever."

G. W. COOPER.

Brinkley, Ark.—Mr. Willie R. Cain, son of Rev. and Mrs. S. M. Cain, departed March 13, 1905. He was born in Vaiden, Miss., Carol county, July 5, 1875. Age 29 years, 8 months and 8 days. The deceased was an ex-student of Rust University. After, when his family came to this city, he joined the Wesley Chapel M. E. Church. Later on he moved to Helena, Arkansas, where he lived the remainder of his life. Our brother died in full triumph of faith, leaving a father, mother, and a host of friends to mourn. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, assisted by Revs. W. D. Feasture, of the Presbyterian Church, W. H. Whitting and D. T. Wilson of the Baptist Church.

A FRIEND.

Murfreesboro, Tenn.—Death came to Henry Eules, Jan. 5, 1905. Funeral was attended by the pastor.

From his earthly duties set free, Nathan Turner went home January 11, 1905. He was our District Steward.

Sister Belle McGregor went home January 21. She was the wife of A. McGregor.

Bro. Syke Lytle departed this life February 5, 1905.

Sister Catherine Moore went home March 3, 1905. She was the wife of Henry Moore.

The infant son of Thomas Carney is now a shining angel in the Home beyond.

C. E. ALEXANDER, Pastor.

Durant, Miss.—Sister Minerva Gordon, one of the oldest and most faithful members of Wesley M. E. Church of Durant, died triumphantly in the faith March 2nd, 1905. Her funeral was attended by Dr. W. Davis. All the church and a loving sister mourns her loss.

W. H. WHITLOCK.

Smithville, Miss.—Bro. Wm. Vance departed this life March 21, 1905, age 25 years. He was a good Christian young man. Rev. W. M. Bell, of Clarksdale, Miss., and the writer conducted the funeral.

N. B. BLACKMAN, Pastor.

THE GUARDIAN OF OUR BODY.

The foremost biologist of our day, M. Metschnikoff, has shown the world of science that there are leucocytes in our blood that act as scavengers or policemen. These policemen which are called phagocytes look out for the noxious or poisonous elements in our blood. Various offending elements are picked out of the blood and tissues by these policemen and destroyed. Therefore our lives are protected by these blood-cell-policemen, the phagocytes, and we enjoy immunity from disease so long as our blood contains plenty of phagocytes and red blood corpuscles.

"A new broom sweeps clean"—and in order to put our own house in order we must get rid of all the poisons in the blood with a new broom such as an alterative extract made from roots and herbs—without the use of alcohol, as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a specific for making rich red blood—for eradicating the poisons from the blood. In some way the policemen in the blood are increased in number and strength—so that we are put in the best possible shape to resist disease—to cure neuralgia, colds, catarrh, and incipient consumption.

"The more study and time is given to the subject the more we find that the blood is the center of life"—says Dr. R. V. Pierce, the noted specialist of Buffalo, "the health and comfort of the average person depends entirely on this blood supply—for the heart must have pure blood or it will not pump and keep the body supplied regularly like the beautiful automatic engine it is. The nerves must be fed on pure blood—or we suffer the pain of neuralgia, which is the cry of the starved nerves for food. Headaches, cold in the head, catarrh—and many other things are due to stagnation of the blood."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a mild laxative. No other medicine equals them for gentleness and thoroughness.

Petty-Flemister — At Fort Street Church, Atlanta, Ga., March 28th. Rev. E. D. Petty and Miss Rosa Lee Flemister. Rev. Petty is pastor of Fort Street M. E. Church, and he is one of the most promising young men in our work in the South. Miss Rosa is the daughter of Rev. G. Y. Flemister who is an honored member of the Atlanta Conference. Rev. G. W. Arnold, the presiding elder, officiated.

Sterling-Holbert.—At Forest, Miss., in the home of R. B. Sterling, Mr. Sandy Sterling and Miss Jenny Holbert, by Rev. N. Toole.

Tillis-Gammage.—At Forest, Miss., in Green M. E. Church, Mr. Wilson Tillis and Mrs. Birdee Gammage, by the Rev. N. Toole.

Weeden-Butler.—At Centerville M. E. Church on the evening of March 15 at 2 p. m., Prof. Wm. Weeden and Miss Helen T. Butler, by Rev. C. Landry. A large number of friends witnessed the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. D. J. Butler. Both bride and groom are former students of Gilbert College. Refreshments were bountifully served.

Dozier-Lawson.—At Vanceville, La., in the home of the bride, March 22, Mr. John T. Dozier and Miss Rosa Lee Lawson, by Rev. W. H. Long. Both are members of Vanceville charge. We wish for them a life of sunshine.

Frank-Wilson.—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jordan, Mr. Joseph Frank and Mrs Emma Wilson of New Orleans, by Rev. H. J. Wright. Sister Wilson is one of the leading ladies of Mallalieu M. E. Church. The best wishes of the church and friends desire the blessings of the Lord upon them.

Hamlin-Cook.—On Wednesday evening at 8 p. m., at Mallalieu M. E. Church, Mr. Alphonse Hamlin and Miss Julia Rozelia Cook. The grandmothers of the bride and groom also the mother of the bride are members of Mallalieu M. E. Church. New Orleans.

Fields-Foster.—At Slidell, La., Mr. Toney Fields and Miss Pearl O. Foster, by Rev. H. A. Sorrell. Both the bride and groom are highly respected young people. The parents of the bride are members of our church.

Crescent City Notes

The pastor of Pleasant Plains Church is pushing the work with gratifying results and is doing a greater work this year than in the history of his ministry. On Monday night, April 3rd, a party of ladies and gentlemen led by Mrs. R. Hunter, M. J. Nickerson, Mary Powels and others, pleasantly surprised the pastor, Rev. Wm. Harrell, and his wife by "pounding" them generously. The same was greatly appreciated.

At Simpson Chapel revival services continue, and many souls are being brought to Christ. Revs. Cooper, Lindsay and Harris were with us on last week and preached very acceptably. Also Rev. H. Daniels, presiding elder of the Shreveport District, preached an inspiring sermon at 11 a. m. Sunday. A new pipe organ now graces the church. We anticipate great things for Easter. Crucifixion sermon will be preached Friday at 11 a. m.; Resurrection sermon Sunday at 4 a. m., by the pastor, Rev. Taylor; Sunday at 3 p. m. the Sunday-school programme will be rendered; and on Sunday night the young converts will receive baptism at the altar.

The services held Sunday, April 9th, at Haven Chapel, Rev. John McKee pastor, were indeed good. The revival spirit prevails. At 7:30 p. m. quite a number of persons were received into the church and the Holy Sacrament was administered to a large number. Collection for the day, $23.07. The revival meeting continues with good results. On last Sunday one person was received into full membership.

Mrs. D. M. Walker announces that the convention of the Woman's Home Missionary Society will convene in Union Chapel, this city, April 26-27. Delegates should be sent if not the proxy. A request is made for a silver offering in honor of the silver birthday of the society.

The revival spirit is at a high degree at First Street M. E. Church, and the pastor, Rev. J. A. Tircuit, reports several conversions already, with a bright prospect for more. The sacrament of baptism will be administered next Sunday night to several candidates. Rev. Thomas McCary, conference evangelist, has been assisting the pastor in this glorious revival.

St. Matthew is in the midst of a glorious revival. Precious souls are being added and the church in general quickened. Excellent services all day Sunday. Presiding Elder Daniels preached at 3 p. m., to the enjoyment of all present, and the pastor at night to a packed house. Easter will be a high day. Collection good.

Rev. C. W. Reeves on Sunday preached an informal sermon from the incident of the reception of Christ by the two sisters on the making of a choice. The entire sermon was set in simple, beautiful words, laden with grace and edged with fire.

Rev. C. D. Crockett is doing good work for the church at LaHarpe Street Church. When he was appointed to this charge it consisted of a vacant lot and a bed of ashes. He has built a nice church 30x50 feet and a three-room parsonage at a cost of $1,350, $400 of which has already been paid.

At Wesley Chapel Palm Sunday was observed from early prayer meeting up to the close of the evening service. At the prayer meeting one soul was happily converted. Sermon preached by the pastor. Collection for the day, $50.69.

A surprise was tendered the Rev. A. B. Harris, pastor of Ross Chapel, Camp Parapet, by the young men, headed by Mr. Willie Small, Andrew Brown, Johnny Small, Alex Small, Paul Small and Henry Williams, Jr. Many pounds of assorted groceries were left. The pastor also received a fine silver chain, a fine eight-day parlor clock, a small purse and a large case of coffee. Bro. John Cook, from Kenner, came a day behind the surprise and left some groceries and $1 from the Kenner people. Methodists and Baptists love Rev. Harris.

The revival service at Williams Chapel is progressing nicely. Seven have been added to the church during the week. Sunday services as usual. At 5 p. m. the prayer meeting was well attended. At 11 a. m. the pastor preached. At 3 p. m. P. J. Becnel preached. At 7:30 the pastor preached to a large audience. Two joined the church. Two annual subscribers for the paper. C. C. Wilson, G. J. Messiah and P. Bailey had charge of the collection. They raised $21.05, for which we thank them. Collection for all purposes was $31.88.

C. W. Reeves, Pastor.

NOTICE.

The Preachers' Meeting of the South New Orleans District will meet at Beattieville April 27. Each pastor is expected to be present.

R. C. Worsham, President.
W. H. Jones, Secretary.

Rev. W. F. Waters preached at Scott Chinn M. E. Chapel on Sunday night, April 16. We are always happy to have him with us in our midst. Bro. Waters spoke of the launch and many subscribed for the launch fund.

C. D. Crockett.

COTTON.

The price is about ¼c lower than last quotation and, with the million bales surplus, no great rise can be expected until it is assured that the next crop will be considerably reduced.

Great interest is naturally felt regarding the acreage and condition of the crop now being planted. We wish all our correspondents would make a foot notes in their letters, giving in a few words such information as they have on the subject. As our people produce the bulk of the crop they can give valuable information.

The revival services are yet in session at Mt. Zion M. E. Church, with an increasing number of converts. On Sunday, April 9, speaking meeting was held at 6 a. m. A large number attended. The Sabbath school, being unable to attend the rally at First Street M. E. Church, sent a delegate and their collection. At 11 a. m. Rev. Davage preached to the Sabbath school. At 3 o'clock Rev. Chinn, with a large congregation, went down to Wesley Chapel. The Lord's Supper was administered at 7:30 p. m. to 177 persons Collection for the day, $53.05.

Wednesday evening, April 12, at Pleasant Plains M. E. Church, Rev. T. J. Johnson, of Wesley Chapel, preached an able sermon, and Brother F. Gatyn made an eloquent appeal to the sinners. On Friday night Rev. R. Phillips delivered an interesting sermon.

The first of The Century's articles on "Great Inventions Described by Their Inventors" begins in the May number with Mr. Charles Brush's account of "The Arc Light." This story of one of the most wonderful factors of modern life, told by the inventor, should prove of permanent interest and value.

NEW ORLEANS, APRIL 27, 1905

Vol. 39 No. 17

Editorial

Much hinges on the coming naval conflict in the Far East and may the Gods of War be with Togo.

It is reported that the school children of Omaha object to the presence of a Japanese, whereupon The Times-Democrat of this city says its "an unreasonable prejudice in the case of the small Japanese." We don't have to turn the head to see "unreasonable prejudice" at full blast in this city.

Louisiana wants more Italian labor and it would appear that the desire could be gratified since 9,675 Italians landed at Ellis Island, New York, last Friday. Already for this month 62,791 immigrants have landed, as against 42,447 for the entire month of April last year.

As a legitimate outcome of the mob spirit that is fostered and all but protected in some parts of the country, twenty Negroes lynched another Negro near Askew, Ark., recently. These lynchers are murderers but they have joined a mighty host in the American life who seem to be immuned to arrest for mob violence.

A bill prohibiting the tipping of hotel servants, waiters and Pullman porters has passed the Wisconsin legislature and has gone to the governor for his signature. 'Tis true that this class of employees is poorly paid, the employers figuring on the tips in fixing the wages, but the tipping system is one of the greatest grafting systems in American life.

Much giving misses the mark of true philanthropy which should seek to place the gift where it will do the most good. Wealth is lavished upon institutions already heavily endowed, while worthy schools, though small, are perishing for support. Dr. D. K. Pearson, of Chicago, has decided to make this year gifts to the amount of $250,000 to the small colleges in the rural districts of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and West Virginia. In announcing his plan to give Dr. Pearson says: "I am not giving to any rich college—I am going to pick out the very poorest and most worthy."

Mr. Archibald H. Grimke, of Washington, D. C., writing to the New York Age is of the opinion that if the American church were to do its duty to-day, to live up for a single year to the principles of Jesus, to the Golden Rule and His Sermon on the Mount, there would be at the end of that time no more race question, no more Negro problem to vex the country in general and the Afro-American people in particular. The Church of Christ, were it actuated by the spirit of the Master, could bring peace on earth, could make the white man's lion and the black man's lamb lie down together in all parts of the country, and the child Jesus would lead them to human fellowship, to Christian brotherhood in this Republic

PROTECTING THE MINISTRY

No system can be inaugurated that will be entirely free from objections. That men get into the ministry who are not worthy of its sacred honors and who do not safe-guard its sacred and holy privileges, ns not to be wondered at. Some systems of church government protect, more clearly than others, the dignity and honor of the holy ministry. It can be said, we think without injury to any, none are too careful. One of the embarrassments that we have to face in our work is that in honoring credentials unworthy men who are in disfavor in their own denominations are received into our communion. Be as careful as we may we do not always ascertain the correct status of the case and so we have been made to blush with shame on the account of some who have been brought into our fellowship. By this statement it must not be inferred that all men who come to the Methodist Episcopal church from other branches have failed to measure up to the requirement. For some of the strong and stalwart defenders of Christ within our communion have been born outside our pale. But it cannot be denied unworthy men have gotten in because all the facts in the case are not known. And their reception is alike an injustice to our church as well as the church from which they come. Seeking to remedy this evil and to protect the high privilege of full membership in the itinerant rank in the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Washington Conference passed at its last session a set of resolutions, not however, until a very interesting debate had ensued. The resolutions introduced by Rev. Dr. M. W. Clair, pàstor of Asbury Methodist Episcopa lChurch, Washington, D. C., and signed by several other brethren were adopted with an almost unanimous vote, there being only one vote against them. This indicates a growing sentiment against preachers who are in the "traveling crew"—traveling from one denomination to another. There ought to be some clearly defined interdenominational plan to protect the Church from this class of preachers.

The resolutions adopted by the Washington Conference are full of interest and we give them in full:

Whereas, in our Church, being trained at our altars, and in Methodist homes are young men true and loyal to the Church, and zealous to work in the Master's cause, and

Whereas, we urge our young people to attend the schools and seminaries operated and controlled by the Methodist Episcopal Church as far as practicable, and many of these are looking forward to the ministry in the Church of their choice, and

Whereas, one raised up and trained in the faith and polity so heroically defended by the Fathers, which the better fits them for the work of our itineracy, and

Whereas, in many instances those who come craving admission into our ranks from other fields have been failures, a fact which prompts them to come to us, and would be of no advantage to the Church materially or morally.

The COLOR LINE IN AUSTRALIA

It appears that America is not the only country where the color line is drawn. Some time ago we pointed out the situation in South America where the natives are unjustly discriminated against, and where they are deprived of their inalienable rights, which are theirs by priority of of occupation as well as nativity to the soil. Now we wish to call attention to the situation in Australia where there is sentiment against the black and yellow races as well. The white Australian has declared in a sense, in favor of what is known in this country as "a white man's country." The Australian government has passed a law prohibiting the employment of any black or yellow labor in the mail service and prohibiting any contract for carriage of mails unless the contractor agrees that only white labor shall be employed. The steamship company holding the contract for the carriage of mails, agrees to the employment of white labor only by making a charge of $150,000 in excess of the regular annual subsidy of $600,000 which is appropriated for the mail service. Australia agrees to the excess and thus pays for its prejudice against the black and yellow races $150,000 annually. This item has no interest save in that it calls attention to the fact of a deep seated, unwarranted, illegitimate and un-Christ-like prejudice.

Competency in service is the only just standard for the appointment of government officials. Private corporations may or may not employ certain classes as they prefer, but it is not within the bounds of a government to discriminate against a certain class of its citizens who constitute as property holders its taxpayers, and who stand ready to defend the Nation's honor with their life's blood.

The Negro Young People's Christian and Educational Congress will meet in Washington, D. C. August 8-12, 1906.

Japanese Immigration*

*(The question of the restriction of Japanese immigration is being agitated on the Pacific coast. Recently the Methodist Episcopal Preachers' meeting of San Francisco appointed a committee consisting of Rev. George B. Smyth, D. D., Field Secretary, Rev. W. S. Matthaws, D. D., Presiding Elder, and Rev. H. B. Johnson, Superintendent of the Pacific Japanese Mission, to investigate and report. The committee presented the report, given below in full, which was unanimously adopted).

Your Committee appointed to investigate the charges made against the Japanese in the United States, and the Japanese Government, by one of the leading papers of San Francisco in its campaign to secure the prohibition of the immigration of Japanese into this country, would respectfully report:

Grave Charges Refuted.—The contention of the long series of articles and editorials hitherto published is that the Japanese in this country form an undesirable element of our population, and that the Japanese in their own country are inspired by sentiments of bitter hatred against Americans. To prove the first, it is said that the Japanese work for starvation wages, are responsible for the increase of crime in California, that they intend at all costs to preserve their old standards of living, and are utterly hostile to our institutions and laws. There is not one of these charges which can be substantiated. There is no more law abiding class of immigrants on the Pacific Coast than the Japanese.

Crime and Wages.—In their neatness and cleanliness, in their adaptability and desire to learn the best that we have to teach, in their freedom from crime and their desire to faithfully obey both in letter and spirit our laws, they are models whom we may well hold up for the imitation of many of the European immigrants who are flocking to this Coast. The prevalence of crime throughout the State, and the condition of San Francisco with its vile brothels, its open gambling, its infamous race tracks, and its more than 3,000 saloons these and many other things of which everybody knows, are not due to the presence of the Japanese among us.

The Japanese do not work for starvation wages, as every man who employs them knows. They sell their labor at the highest price. They do not, as a rule, underbid American labor. Where they compete with white labor at all they do so in competition with Italians and Russians and other European immigrants who have no more right here than the Japanese, and whose labor is not one whit more valuable. "The American Workman" is a phrase which covers in the articles referred to a multitude of aliens, good, bad and indifferent in character. The charge that Japanese exert an "unclean" influence on American women and children in our schools is baseless and absurd.

Archibald Impeached.—As to the second charge, that the Japanese are inspired by sentiments of hatred against the Americans, a returned correspondent, named James F. J. Archibald, is quoted as saying that all Americans have been dismissed from their positions as instructors in the schools, universities and military colleges in Japan, and that the Japanese Government has enacted laws which are in every sense of the word exclusion acts directed against American and German subjects, which legislation prohibits any foreigner from holding land, from entering into any business, from practicing any profession, and from teaching in any school or university. These statements are absolutely false. There are scores of Americans, many of them Californians, now teaching in Japanese Government schools. Many foreign physicians with Government licences are practicing medicine. In the matter of leasing and selling land, the Japanese Government is becoming steadily more liberal. For purposes of residence, travel, trade and religious work, the country is thrown wide open.

Japan and the Japanese Friendly.—To those who would learn how the Japanese feel toward Americans, we would recommend a reading of the extracts from Japanese papers in the March number of Review of Reviews. To those who know the facts, this is not necessary. The Perry Monument at the entrance to the Bay of Tokyo, the Grant Monument at Nagasaki, and the recent great meeting in Tokyo to commemorate the signing of the first treaty with America, are the everlasting answer to the unjust critics of every nationality and every description who represent Japan as ungrateful or hostile to the American people. Were the Japanese people what the recent statements of the newspaper referred to would make them, we should not now be witnesses of the honor and righteousness manifested in all their diplomatic and other relations, and in their conduct of the present war, which have surprised the eWtsern world.

We regard the charge against the Japanese Government of systematically planning to deluge us with cheap labor as most unjust. On the contrary, it has exercised, and does exercise, a commendable supervision over the coming of its subjects to the Pacific Coast ports. Only graduates of the Government Academies are permitted to leave Japan for Pacific Coast ports, and ev they are obliged to certify that they do not co as laborers. The peasant laborers who are arr ing on the Coast come by way of Honolulu, an most of them were in the islands before Hawa became an American possession.

Agitation Ill-Timed.—For the reasons abov mentioned and because of the influence of th agitation in stirring up race prejudice on th coast and in Japan, and because of its deterren effect upon the highest American interests in th Orient, we do most emphatically protest agains the publication referred to, and particularly a the moment when the Japanese people are en gaged in a life and death struggle with a grea world power. We believe this agitation ill-timed unwise and unjust.

Favor Restriction but not Discrimination.—The question of undesirable immigration, from whatever land, is one that deserves careful consideration by the American people. We are strongly in favor of such restriction of immigration from Japan and every other country as will secure adequate protection for American labor. The danger at the Golden Gate is no greater than that which presses upon us at Castle Garden. America cannot afford to even appear to discriminate against a nation with which for over fift years we have been on such friendly terms, and which, in the Providence of God, we have had so honorable a share in encouraging to take its stand in the great sisterhood of civilized nations.

An Economic and Moral Question.—Finally, we hold the course of the publications which have fomented this agitation, and the hurried and inconsiderate action of the State Legislature in harmony therewith, to be unworthy, un-American, and un-Christian. Americans, of all people in the world, should stand by a nation, whatsoever its color, which is struggling for a chance to live, and is fighting for the preservation an extension in the Orient of the civilization fo which America stands. Let us act as Christians. We cannot believe that the American people will accept the dictum that the only morality to guide us in the decision of such a question as this is that of the savage at bay or the brute in trouble. We cannot for a moment accept the doctrine that in the struggle for existence ethical considerations have no place. Every economic question is fundamentally a moral question. Nothing can be economically right which is ethically wrong. Let us not forget our own history. Let us not be false to American traditions and American honor. Let us be faithful forever to the highest ideals and the noblest life.

The Age Question

At this season it is not amiss to republish the action of the Board of Control concerning the age of workers in the League. It was as follows:

"It is now more than fifteen years since the Epworth League was born. Many of our most useful and honored members have literally grown old in the service. Without realizing themselves, the advancement of years, they have become gray in hair, even if green and fresh in heart and spirit. These brethren and sisters, loved and respected by all, little appreciate, perhaps, that the little boys and girls of 1889, when the League came into being are now the young men and women who most need the benefits which come from active participation in the chapter work. Our older friends, many of whom have not missed a League meeting during these years, and who take an active interest, have overlooked the important fact that the difference in age acts as a barrier to perfect freedom on the part of the younger people. For this reason we feel that the older people should exercise the most delicate tact and the most Christlike spirit, making every effort to put themselves in the background in accepting office and presuming to dictate the management of the chapter. In many instances, indeed, would it not be well for some of us older ones to retire from active membership in the League, except so far as outside encouragement and loyalty to League ideals go? At any rate we feel that the attention of our older members should be called to the importance of this subject.

"While this is largely a matter of locality, yet it is a question in the mind of your committee whether or not a person above thirty years of age should hold office or be conspicuously active in many of our chapters. Should there be, in any community, a large number of Epworthians who have passed the age suggested, or who naturally associate with older persons, would it not be wise to form a class for Senior Epworthians, leaving the League itself to the members between the class and its graduates from the Junior League?

"This class, perhaps, would not attempt all the activities of the chapter, but could act in the line of some department, or departments of special interest in the locality in question, or could do such specified work as may be mutually agreeable to the class or chapter. At stated intervals this class could report to the chapter and thus keep in touch with the League itself.

"Our desire is not to drive from the League any person, young or old, but rather to arrange matters so that disparity in ages and ability may not embarrass any chapter, or preclude the active participation therein of the younger people, and yet all will retain membership in and be identified with the Epworth League.'"

That some chapters have practically ceased to include the young people among their members and that with many others this is measurably so is unfortunately true. It is a sound principle that in League work the tendency in selecting leaders should always be towards those of younger age. Each year adds an aggregate of seven years to the age of members of a cabinet. Younger members must be frequently introduced or it will pass out of touch with the younger element, the incorporation of which is the first care of a chapter. But let not the question of age be pressed to the material damage of a chapter. Let there be no strife between the older and younger members. Anything resembling factional or party lines should be frowned down. Each member should view this matter in a loving and unselfish spirit. A general personal consultation among the members should confirm the confidence of each in the ideal spirit of all the rest and should result in a selection representing the best available combination as to age and efficiency. Let the older ones exercise magnanimity and the younger ones confidence, but especially ought the older members to be magnanimous.

A New Picture of Death

By Rev. Camden M. Cobern, D. D.

"'Sleep soft, beloved!' we sometimes say,
Who have no time to charm away
Sad dreams that through the eyelids creep;
But never doleful dream again
Shall break the happy slumber when He giveth His beloved sleep."

—Mrs. Browning.

"The year's at the spring, and day's at the morn;
Morning's at seven; the hillside's dew-pearled;
The lark's on the wing, the snail's on the thorn;
God's in His heaven; all's well with the world."

—Browning.

The new words for death and the future life in the New Testament are very different from those in the Old Testament. Each word seems an etching, giving in faint outline the new hope of the New Gospel.

For example, take that new word, "sleep." I say new word; for, although—like the word "Father" for God—it had occasionally been used before, the meaning of the word had never reached the heart of mankind till Jesus whispered it. Jesus said of the little girl, "she is not dead but sleepeth;" thus making in plain and explicit words the difference between the old idea and the new idea of death.

There is not the least thought here of death as an eternal sleep. Only the heathen could ever have had such a notion. But the idea is again and again emphasized in the strongest way, that to awake from death is just as natural and easy as to awake from sleep, and that one comes from this sleep refreshed and vigorous and ready for the new day of immortality. It is sleep that

"Knits up the ravelled sleeve of care
Balm of hurt minds * * *
Chief nourisher in life's feast."

Sleep is the best possible thing for the tired and sick body. If you look steadily into this new word for death, which Jesus himself originated and filled with meaning, you can see a tired man enter his house, throwing himself upon his couch, after a vexatious and weary day. His forehead is drawn with care, his eyes are heavy, he looks old and haggard and feels weak and spiritless, discouraged and disappointed, as he lies down upon his bed, shuts his eyes and enters the land of shadows.

But what a change in the companion picture! The sun is rising now, the hilltops are glorious. All the fresh new morning is filled with the rapturous melody of singing birds and the man stirs on his bed and lifts himself and there is a new light in his eye, there is a new hope in his heart, a new strength has come to him, and he springs with joyful feet into the work of the new day.

It is sleep that has done this for him. Jesus says that this is what death does for us. It comes as sleep to tired men and tired women. The old idea of death is gone; there is no death any more, says Jesus. "I have abolished death."

Do you see him talking to the disciples about Lazarus? He is on his death bed, as we call it, and Jesus knows it, and yet says, "This sickness is not unto death; he is merely falling asleep." He said that in order to draw out the response, which is as true to-day as it was then, "If he sleep he shall do well." That is what Jesus wanted to teach them. There is no such thing as death. The man is sleeping simply, and everyone knows that sleep is a good thing. "If he sleep he shall do well." How often did Jesus have to repeat this easy lesson!

A little girl is dying. The father and mother bend over her weeping and the doctor's hand is on her pulse. Presently he says, "She is gone." They fold her hands and cry, "Dead! Dead! Dead!"

But who is this entering the room? It is Jesus. He looks with sympathetic eyes upon the sorrowing ones and says, "She is not dead. Listen to my new gospel; your daughter is not dead, she is sleeping." (Mark v: 39.)

They could not believe it till he proved it to them—some of us find it hard to believe even yet—and when they laughed him to scorn, for they knew that she was dead, he leaned over and whispered: Talitha cumi—"Wake up, rise up, little one"—and she awoke and went to her mother, and Jesus said, "Give her something to eat." Poor child, perhaps she had not been able to eat for weeks, but now she had had her sleep and sprang up from it refreshed and strong and full of buoyant young life. That is death, says Jesus. Death, the enemy, has now become sleep, the best friend of man.

There is no need of any night there, because after this blessed sleep we are never tired. (Rev. xxii: 5.) Blessed are the dead, for they never get tired! It is no labor any more to work, "they rest from their labors;" but their works follow them—"continue with them," as the original text says. (Rev. xiv: 13.) The best work of life must come after we are rested by sleep. It is sleep that makes a man able to do his best work, and Jesus said death was only a restful sleep.

The Old Testament prophets never reached that idea. Their loftiest thought was that of an awful struggle and possible conquest over a terrible enemy; but Jesus did not simply conquer the foe, He annihilated it, swallowed it up in victory, transformed the foe in a friend.—From Bible Etchings of Immortality.

The Minister at Funerals

For many years a great deal of discussion has been engaged in concerning a minister's services at funerals. Very many ministers have been very indiscreet in their remarks, and, naturally enough, they have given serious offense. From an editorial in the St. Louis Christian Advocate, I take these words: "A very peculiar case of offense, taken at a funeral sermon, occurred in Decatur, Illinois, where the sons of the deceased called on the officiating priest and demanded an apology for the sermon he had preached at the funeral of their father, intimating that he had cast slurs on the character of the dead man, and thus had misrepresented him before his friends in the congregation. Every clergyman will appreciate the embarrassment of a minister called on to officiate at the funeral services of one whose life has not, perhaps, been what it should. He stands in the presence of people who know the character of the dead man better than himself. If he tells the truth he is certain to give grave offense; if he evades or ignores the truth he is liable to almost equal obloquy, for at such times there is a disposition, on the part of the friends of the departed, to forget his bad qualities and exalt his better traits into unnatural prominence." Many people have advocated the abolition of formal funeral services, or at least, that no remarks should be made by the officiating minister; but I do not acquiesce in that view. From early manhood to this day I have maintained that a minister at funerals should say but very little about the dead ones, however good they may have been, and that in cases where the deceased ones were more or less immoral, nothing should be said in regard to them. If there be a sermon, or some remarks, the application should be made to living persons. It is the time to say consoling words to the relatives who are present. If the family take offense because nothing is said in favor of the dead one, who was ungodly, then the minister may well endure it, for he has simply done his duty. Use good sense on such occasions, if you have any.

C. H. WETHERBE.

As when a father in a garden stoops down to kiss a child, the shadows of his body falls upon it, so many of the dark misfortunes of our life are not God going away from us, but our heavenly Father stooping down to give us the kiss of His infinite and everlasting love.—Selected.

To be hopeful in our ignorance, patient under our burdens, at peace in the war of elements, faithful to our little work without the help of the vast plan, cheerful in our sorrows when their meaning is hidden from us, obedient to laws which we do not understand, of good heart when silence and solitude and loneliness are our portion—this is to wait on the Lord; to wait until we understand the plan, the sorrow, the pain, the burden, the loneliness, the deep shadow of death. —Selected.

She spoke of those who had walked with her long ago in her garden, and for whose sake, now that they had all gone into the world of light, every flower was doubly dear. Would it be a true proof of loyalty to them if she lived gloomily or despondently because they were away? She spoke of the duty of being ready to welcome happiness as well as to endure pain, and of the strength that endurance wins by being grateful for small daily joys, like the evening light, and the smell of roses, and the singing of birds. She spoke of the faith that rests on the Unseen Wisdom and Love like a child on its mother's breast, and the melting away of doubts in the warmth of an effort to do some good in the world.—Henry van Dyke.

"Alms given in secret; that is the charity which brings a blessing. What sweet enjoyment to be able to shed a little happiness around us! What an easy and agreeable task is that of trying to render others happy."

"We must look at everything from the standpoint of financial security," said a commercial man the other day. We pity the man who imagines himself under that necessity. It is only to harden and make cold and insensible the heart. Shun a business or calling that makes you see things only in the light of financial security and interest. Risk some things, lose some things, and break others of purpose. It is good for the heart.—The Epworth Era.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Trophies to Lay at His Feet

BY REV. JOSEPH WHEELER.

When we enter the mansion of rest above,
And our blessed Saviour meet,
Will we have any trophies, won in this world,
To lay at his glorified feet?

Will there be any souls of lost ones saved,
Through our service long and sweet;
Saved by our hands, at our Lord's commands,
To lay at his nail-printed feet?

Will there be any act of kindness done,
To some one in heaven we'll greet;
That the King will acknowledge as done unto Him,
When we bow at last at his feet?

Let us work and pray, and do to-day
What we can in his service sweet;
When life is done, and the crown is won,
We'll have trophies to lay at his feet.

Bolivar, W. Va.

Rest in the Lord

"The wicked are like the troubled sea which cannot rest." Tossed and beaten by storms of passion, restless as the heaving tides, God's peace is unknown to them. They have no inward rest, and they have no resting place where their souls can find refuge. Like Noah's dove, they "flit between rough seas and stormy skies." To mortals thus laboring and heavy laden Christ sends the gracious invitation, "Come unto Me, * * * and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of Me, * * * and ye shall find rest unto your souls."

The restless cannot rest wherever they are; and the faint and weary fail to rest, because they have no resting place. Christ gives an inward rest, a rest to the soul, and He also affords a resting place where heart and flesh may find repose.

Rest in the Lord. Rest in His love, which satisfies the deepest yearnings of the human heart; rest in His care, which watches over the lowliest, and notes the sparrow's fall rest in His providence, which never fails, and which is over all His works; rest in His promises, which are exceeding great and precious, and which cover the needs of his trusting children in every state and condition in life. O weary, wayworn, burdened, tempted, despondent, troubled soul, there is rest for you. Go to Him who giveth rest. "Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for Him." "Return unto thy rest, O my soul, for the Lord hath dealt bountifully with thee." And beyond the blessedness of this present rest of faith and hope and love, "there remaineth a rest for the people of God." Blessed are they who shall gain that Sabbath and share in its sweet repose.—Armory.

The Easter Gospel

The Easter Gospel announces the perfecting of everything that deserves to be perfected. As Christ rose again, so Christ's people are never to die. .... True love and holy friendship, and all relationships which had on them the Father's benediction, shall and must abide. And therefore they who were one in Christ here, and now are parted for a little while, shall meet again, and be one in Christ for ever. Holy Christian love is one of those forces which no power above or below can dissolve. And if we know that we shall meet the Lord hereafter, so we know that we shall meet again those whom we believe to be with Him now. And there also shall every true and right desire and longing of the heart be more than satisfied; and chiefly those which in this world God thought it best to deny. And all the powers which some envious fate or unpropitious destiny kept in abeyance here, shall there find the development to which they are sure, sooner or later, to come. All that deserves to be perfected shall be perfect for the sake of Him who was made perfect through suffering.—Morgan Dix, D. D.

Consider the Lilies

They have a lesson for us to-day. Christ is risen and pointing to the lilies he shows us a beautiful similitude of the great mystery. All the winter they have been dead and hidden in the cold earth, but the time has come for them to manifest their glory. "No sooner does the warm sun of the springtime shine on their graves than they rise into sudden life and beauty and every seed takes its own peculiar body. Even so is the resurrection of the dead."—Selected.

Date of Easter

The time for celebrating Easter is the same for all Protestants and Catholics, and was adopted in opposition to the Jews. The Records of the Nicæan Council of A. D. 325 show that this opposition was most acute. The very call for the council breathed hostility against the Jews and those Christians who celebrated Easter on the day on which the Jews kept Passover. The Christians were called Quartodecimanians, because they celebrated Easter on the 14th day of Nisan, the first month of the Jewish year. But the opposition to the Quartodecimanians of Asia was more zealous than intelligent; for the artificial day chosen for Easter fell occasionally, as in 1825, on the 14th day of the Jewish Nisan, and the Christian fathers, while bitterly opposed to the Jews, adopted, without any hesitation, the Jewish mode of reckoning time by lunations. To make the matter worse, these lunations do not tally with the facts of astronomy. The result is that Easter calculations are so extraordinarily difficult as to lead to occasional mistakes, like that of 1818, when Easter was kept on the wrong day. Easter is calculated on the basis of an ecclesiastical full moon, not the real moon, which is to appear after an ecclesiastical—not the real—equinox of spring. The calculation involves also an artificial solar circle, and other quaint computations, usually found at the beginning of church almanacs. When the right day for Easter is finally found, it determines a long series of ecclesiastical days, beginning one year with February 10, and ending with Trinity Sunday, on June 8.—Onward.

The Topmost Manhood and Womanhood

You can make up your mind that the topmost manhood and womanhood is not goody-goody. It is no fragile thing that a little rude shock shivers into a thousand fragments. The topmost manhood and womanhood is a something that can stand the everyday strain. It is not soiled as it moves through the ranks of crowded men and women. It is downright good. Men and women are at their best when the spiritual has its sway in them. All that is material in themselves or in their work or in their recreations should be only a kind of mirror through which they give forth some form of the spiritual. This spiritual in us enables us to see farther, to hear more truly, to live more abundantly, and enjoy most. "Man is completest, at his best estate, when his feet are planted on the actualities of life, and his brain is alive and appreciates intellectual truths, and his heart is sensible of the presence of the divine."—Ex.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: Matt. 28: 6. Theme: The Empty Tomb

The graveyard is not the place where men resort who are in search of life. But, there is a tomb in an eastern garden to which all eyes are turned this glorious Easter morn, and although nearly two thousand years have passed away, and are securely buried in the never returning past, the eyes of all Christendom are still, as ever they were, turned toward that empty tomb in diligent search of life from Him, who rose from the dead. This Easter morning, we do not stand alone, surrounded by forlorn, fearful hope, for the angels are with us, and to us they are saying: "Fear not ye," etc.

The empty tomb proclaims the resurrection of Jesus. The angels said that He rose from the dead. The friends and enemies of Jesus said that they saw Him alive after He rose from the dead.

The empty tomb declares the great humiliation of Jesus. The empty tomb tells of the infinite love of God. The empty tomb emphasizes the faithfulness of God in the fulfilment of his promises. The empty tomb is a striking evidence of the divine sovereignty of Jesus, who voluntarily laid down His life, and triumphantly raised Himself again from the dead.

The empty tomb is indubitable proof of the resurrection of Jesus. In the tomb He was laid in the presence of friends and foes. In the tomb He slept the common sleep of death. From the tomb He awakened Himself out of the sleep, and left it forever empty. He is risen as He said, and in His right hand are flowers of immortality; asters of love, nasturtiums of joy, lilies of peace, daisies of gentleness, buttercups of goodness, pansies of faith, violets of meekness, and hyacinths of temperance, which He freely and most graciously distributes to all men.

"Why seek ye the living among the dead? Why come ye here with spices to embalm Him who is the Resurrection and the Life? He has left the tomb never more to return to it. Come, look, see, the tomb is empty; the place where they laid Him is vacant; "He is risen."

Greenville, S. C.

It is small things that, just because of their smallness, distress and overset us. I mean the weight of daily care, which in their small detail of personal expenditure, and in the careful routine of a household, and in the rearing of children, and in the society of friends, and in the outside duty, and in private affairs, singly and separately, is sufficiently burdensome; but altogether, and on one set of shoulders, is sometimes felt to be more than the strength can bear. Those anxious lives, tempted to be fretful, and hasty, and self-important, and fused with their incessant activities, settle down into round and sunny centers of regular, and peaceful, and fruitful activities. Where there is prayer, there is peace; and God, who makes every duty possible, knows, helps, and cares.—Anthony W. Thorold.

YOUNG FRIENDS

Ruskin's Advice to a Student

John Ruskin once gave the following advice to n Edinburgh student in a letter, dated August , 1854:

"I am sure I never said anything to dissuade ou from trying to excel, or to do great things. I nly wanted you to be sure your efforts were ade with a substantial basis, so that just at the oment of push your footing might not give way eneath you; and also I wanted you to feel that ng and steady effort, made in a contented way, es more than violent effort made from some rong motive or under some enthusiastic im- lse. And I repeat—for of this I am perfectly re—that the best things are only to be done in is way. It is very difficult thoroughly to under- and the difference between indolence and re- rve of strength, between apathy and serenity, tween palsy and patience. But there is all the fference in the world, and nearly as many men e ruined by inconsiderate exertion as by idle- ss itself. To do as much as you can healthily d happily do each day, in a well-determined irection with a view to far-off results, and with resent enjoyment of one's work, is the only roper, the only essentially profitable way."—entral Advocate.

This Will Surprise You

Step up, all you American public-school chil- en who know everything! What country of urope do you say has the most railroads in pro- ortion to its inhabitants? "England," did you y—you, Tom Browne, with the great head for eography? Wrong! "Germany," you say, Jim ones, you with the fine marks for remembering gures? No, sir! Germany has more railroads an any other country in Europe, but not in pro- ortion to its inhabitants. What do we hear? rance, Russia, Switzerland. All wrong. Sweden the country. It has almost twenty-four miles f road for every 10,000 inhabitants. Germany as only nine and one-half.

Now tell us what country comes next after weden. Nobody dares to guess, eh? Well, it's st as well. You wouldn't guess if you guessed a eek, for you would most likely never even think f the country in question, because you hardly ver hear of it except as a joke. It is the fat, ttle, rich, exclusive Grand Duchy of Luxemburg. nd after Luxemburg comes little Denmark. And en comes Switzerland. The big fellows follow ar behind.

Do you know what country has the most rail- ad tracks in proportion to its area? Now, lease don't say Russia, because you would be ay off the track. Russia is second from the ot. Norway sits at the foot of the class. The ountry that leads is Belgium. Luxemburg omes next.

Young Smith, there, who always jumps at con- lusions, we just ask you what country has the ast miles of railroad in Europe, not in propor- on to area or population, but just the least total ngth of railroad track? Just as we thought! oung Smith jumps at the conclusion that it's urkey. That's because Smith has heard so uch about the "sick man of Europe." Smith, mith, you must look before you leap. Turkey is good nine away from the foot, and that is far- her than young Smith will be if he keeps on uessing at things.

Greece is the country that has the least rail- oads, except Servia, and we can hardly count hat, for Servia is only just beginning to do bus- ess in a modern way. Portugal is away down ear the foot, too.—American Boy.

EDUCATIONAL

A New Boy's Building for Samuel Huston College

To the Membership of the West Texas Conference of the cMthodist Episcopal Church:

DEAR BROTHERS AND SISTERS—We, the undersigned advisory members of the Board of Trustees of Samuel Huston College, have recently met and heard a statement from President Lovinggood as to the condition of the school. We are glad to announce that it is in a most healthy condition. It has an enrollment of 312 at this time, and is overcrowded in every department. The intellectual, physical and spiritual welfare of the institution is in splendid shape. Hard work, peace and harmony prevail in every department.

The only drawback is the need of accommodation for boys. Our poor boys, those who need most help just now, must either be turned away or else crowded in inadequate rented rooms. This is an injustice to our boys, to our Conference, and to our race. West Texas Conference, we are over 12,000 strong; we must do better than this. We are loyal Methodists. We can; we will.

The whole church is lavishing praise upon President Lovinggood for the marvelous way he has managed our school, and President Lovinggood is constantly lavishing praise upon us for what we have done, but we can do more for this school, the pride of our hearts.

A letter has just been read to us from our friend, Mr. E. T. Burrowes, in which he makes a proposition to give us $6,000 on a $12,000 building if we will raise a like sum. Through President Lovinggood we have sent to Cincinnati $2,000, and Dr. W. P. Thirkield kindly guarantees to raise for us $1,000. With the $3,000 from Mr. Burrowes to cover this we have $6,000 now available. We are to have a ground breaking exercise at the College May 17, in connection with the Commencement. From the Conference and the citizens of Austin we want to raise $1,500 on that day. The Governor of Texas, the military companies, the Societies, the citizens of Austin, and the whole Conference are invited. It will be a red letter day in our Methodism. Everybody bring or send not less than $1. All who give $5 will be expected to step in and throw out a shovel of dirt.

The plans of the new building are in the hands of Mr. Burrowes and Dr. Thirkield and it is expected that work will begin immediately after Commencement. We are thankful to Dr. Thirkield and Mr. Burrowes for their interest in us, and we are going to do what we can for ourselves.

What other school and Conference has an opportunity to get a dollar for every dollar it raises?

Brothers and Sisters, in the name of our boys, in the name of our Conference, in the name of our great church, in the name of our God, let us rally to this cause. Be present or have some money there May 17.

Fifty, twenty-five, ten, five dollars from many, not less than one dollar from a thousand members, something from every member—that is our motto.

Yours for the West Texas Conference, and the cause of the Master,

D. C. LACY, President.
L. M. MITCHELL, Secretary.
MOSES SMITH,
L. D. LYONS,

Rust University

The Alumni of Rust University held a meeting Tuesday evening, April 4, and made preparation for a program Saturday night, May 12. Dr. I. G. Penn was selected to speak on said night. Rev. W. C. Clay, alternate. Dr. M. W. Dogan is invited to address the Alumni during the day. All members of the Alumni are invited to the reunion which will be held Saturday and Saturday evening. It is expected that every member will be present on this occasion, as it will be the best commencement in the history of the school.

Dr. R. S. Rust, his son and Dr. M. C. B. Mason will be present at the Commencement, which will be May 12-16. We are also expecting Dr. R. E. Jones, of the SOUTHWESTERN.

The school has been very prosperous this year, having enrolled more than 400 pupils. Dr. William W. Foster, the president, has purchased an engine and machinery which will be set up in the Industrial Department. The foundation of the new building is in, and the work is being pushed to an early completion. Another building will be erected during the summer, thus giving two new buildings. It would be well if every pastor could be present during the commencement, that he might meet the many visitors who will be present to take a part in the commencement.

JUDSON S. HILL, President.

Clark University

The following action was taken by the Board of Trustees of Clark University at their recent meeting:

The Trustees of Clark University desire hereby to express the very great pleasure it affords them to have Bishop and Mrs. Walden guests of the school for so many days. The long period of service in the educational work of the freedmen, a period covering forty-two years, entitles the good Bishop to our highest respect and consideration. Among the first on the field after emancipation, he has sustained up to date an unbroken relationship to the educational work among the colored people.

As a Board we express our supreme satisfaction with his close inspection of the university—the examining of all its interests in detail from the class-rooms to the dining-hall. We feel that only by such close personal investigation can an accurate knowledge of existing conditions in the school be possible to the Board at Cincinnati.

We, therefore, express it as our conviction that such visits made periodically by Bishop Walden would result in great good to our educational work.

In conclusion, we wish for Bishop Walden continued health, strength and activity, and hope that both he and Mrs. Walden, the faithful companion of his years, may find, as they descend into the vale of life, their last days to be their best.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson VI—May 7, 1905. Title—"The Vine and the Branches." (John 15: 1-12.) Golden Text—"Herein is My Father glorified that ye bear much fruit." (John 15: 8)

We are yet in the upper room. The supper is over, the apostles have arisen from the table, and are now standing about their Lord. They are listening with rapt attention to His words.

I. God is a Husbandman. He is represented here as cultivating a vineyard. He removes the fruitless branches and purifies the fruitful ones. This vineyard is His true church or people. It has been called by different names, as kingdom, vine, olive tree, house, body, elect, sheepfold, but after all it is the same general assembly. God planted His vineyard or church where He desired it to grow. He hedged it round about, watched over it, cultivated it, and sent showers and sunshine upon it. He expected it to bring forth fruit.

II. Jesus is the True Vine. Probably the wine on the table before them, which was the fruit of the vine, suggested this parable story. In the 80th Psalm we are told that God brought a vine out of Egypt, cast out the heathen and planted it. He caused it to take deep root and grow, and send out its boughs unto the sea, and its branches unto the river. The hills were covered with its shadow. God looked that it should bring forth grapes, and it brought forth wild grapes, because it was not a true vine. This vine was the house of Israel. Jesus is the true vine. The roots of this true vine reach far back into the past and are grappling into the very mind and heart of the Great Invisible. It was the Father who, in the fulness of time, sent Jesus into this world. His life from the manger to the cross, and on to the day He was taken up into heaven, was this true vine on earth. The onward flow of His church among men is the continued growth of the vine.

III. The disciples are the branches. 1. In the vine. These branches are not attached to the outside of this vine, but they grow into its very heart, so that its life flows through them. They cannot be broken off without hurting the vine, and leaving a great scar upon it. The mere act of joining the church, receiving baptism, and doing the commandments is good, but not sufficient. We must be grafted into this true vine. How do we become united with Jesus, so that His very nature flows through our life? (1) By becoming acquainted with Him. We cannot become attached to any one of whom we have no knowledge. We may learn of Jesus from the Bible, from His preached gospel, from His children, and from His Spirit. (2) By repenting of sin; of the thoughts, words and deeds contrary to the will of God, and of the power within that causes us to commit them. We should hate our sins, and also the principle that leads to them. Repentance is a change of the intellect, the sensibilities, and the will. When it touches the sensibilities it produces a godly sorrow for sin. Evangelical repentance implies sorrow, confession, renunciation, and restitution. (3) By believing in Jesus. Saving faith is "the substance of things hoped for." The things hoped for are all the joys of the heavenly world—the crown, the robe, the palm of victory, the harp of gold, and all the pleasant associations of that better country. The substance of these is that of which they are composed. It is realizing them in the heart. The happiness of the saint on earth is the same in kind, but not in degree, of his happiness in heaven. Substo, here rendered substance, means to stand under, and shows that our faith stands under and upholds our entire Christian life. Jesus said, "On this rock" (Peter's declaration of faith) "I will build my church." The "evidence of things not seen," includes all that is in the spirit world: all not seen with mortal eyes. Evidence is testimony, and the Holy Spirit is the testator. He bears witness to the reality of the great beyond. Faith is their evidence. By it we know they are, and through it we receive them. This faith secures the forgiveness of sin, causes the heart to be cleansed from unrighteousness, and the soul to be filled with the glory of God. We are thus adopted into God's family, or grafted into this true vine. Now the life of Jesus flows through our life, and for us to live is for Christ to live.

2. Abiding in the vine. In order to continue with Jesus three things are necessary. (1) We must run the race that is set before us (Heb. 12: 1). Life is a race, Jesus is the way, and heaven is the goal. This way is compassed about with a cloud of witnesses. Weights are sins that must be thrown off. We should run with patience, and all the other Christian graces. The mind's eye should be fixed on Jesus, who is the beginner and the finisher of our faith. (2) We must build up a strong Christian character (2 Peter 1: 5-7). We should give all diligence to add to the faith that saved us, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, love, and charity. If these be in our heart, and abound in our life, we will not be barren or unfruitful. But if we lack these graces we are blind and cannot see afar off. We behold not the joys of heaven. (3) We must fight the good fight of faith (Eph. 6: 14-17). We are exhorted to put on the whole armor of God: the breast-plate of righteousness, the shield of faith, the girdle of truth, the sandals of peace, the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit. When wearing these we may wrestle against flesh and blood, against principalities and powers, against the world rulers of this darkness, and against spiritual wickedness in high places. Thus we abide in the vine.

3. Bearing fruit. Grapes never grow on the vine, but always on the branches. Jesus the true vine, saves the world through His church, the true branches. Fruits in a Christian life refers to works, words, and influence. To bear fruit, is to consecrate the life to God, so that all we say and do will draw others to Him. To not bear fruit is to wield an influence that drives people from God. The one means joy here and hereafter, and the other means just the opposite. Self, home, church, and world are good fields in which to labor.

4. Abiding not in the vine. We apostatize (1) By harboring evil thoughts. Thoughts make character. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he" (Solomon). "Let the unrighteous man forsake his thought" (Isaiah). "Pray God, if perhaps the thoughts of thine heart may be forgiven thee" (Peter). Deeds and words are revelation of the character already made by thoughts. (2) By omission of duty. We cease going to church, reading the Bible, and calling upon God in prayer. We neglect to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, and visit the sick. To cease to do right is to begin to do wrong. (3) By transgressing law. The commandments in the law, and the precepts in the gospel, are constantly violated. Thus we cease to abide in the vine.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

BY REV. J. H. SCOTT, D. D.

Lesson Topic May 7th,

The Making of a Christian—His Exercise

Scripture Reference: James 1: 22-27.

Our lesson is from the practical Epistle of James. It contends against those tendencies which in all ages have a paralyzing effect upon spiritual life. Well has the book been called the "Gospel of Common Sense."

Our study is the distinction between hearing and doing, the danger of mistaking knowledge for obedience. Stress is laid upon the fact that perceiving the right amounts to nothing unless we do the right. Jesus said to His disciples, "If you know these things, happy are ye if you do them."

Doing is of supreme importance. The main point of our lesson is the all-importance of Christian activity and service. "Everything else, if not accompanied by practice, by avoiding evil and doing good, is vain." Bishop Butler declared religion does not consist in the knowledge and belief even of fundamental truth, but rather in our being brought to a certain temper and behavior. St. John more simply says, "He who doeth righteousness is righteous."

In the words of Dr. Plummer, suffering injuries, poverty and temptation, hearing the Word, teaching the Word, faith, wisdom, are all of them excellent; but if they are not accompanied by a holy life, a life of prayer and gentle words and good deeds, they are valueless."

St. James declares that hearing and not doing is like a man who looks at his own face in a glass. "For a time he has the clearest perception of his own countenance, every line and feature, even the lightest expression is visible, and by the mysteriously retentive power of the mind he holds it for a while in what we call the mind's eye; but, when he has gone his way, the whole image fades, and the vividness of other objects overpowers it, so that he becomes habitually more familiar with the aspect of all other things than with his own natural face." What an apt picture of the man who knows and obeys not, who hears and does not. For a time he has a vivid perception of the truth, but he does not yield to it; he does nothing or leaves nothing undone on account of the truth. So his perception amounts to nothing.

Doing is the real test of love. Jesus said, "If ye love Me, keep My commandments." Not what we believe, but what we do, is our Christianity; only the doing must be rooted in belief. "The true ritual of Christianity is active service," said Dean Farrar.

What we feel, to be of permanent good to us, must be transformed into doing. "Fire is very good," says Dr. Alexander MacLaren, "but its best purpose is to get up steam which will drive the wheels of the engine. Not what we feel, but what we do is our Christianity."

What strong, stalwart Christians our Epworthians will become if they will practice what they know, if they will be hearers that do faithfully, continually what they learn. What a blessing will come upon our churches, our country, yea, upon all lands, when the people who profess to know the Lord put in action what they believe.

Two Important Questions to Epworth League Chapters

Have you remitted the dues from your Chapter for the Central Office? If not, do it now. The month during which they should be paid is almost past.

Are you preparing to elect your Chapter Officers in May? Do not fail to do this. The ideal time for them to enter upon their official duties is July 1. This will be made the beginning of the administrative year of the League.

Advices to Epworth Conventions From the Central Office

With all possible force, promote three things:

First. Make the convention intensely evangelistic. It is impossible to gather a company more favorable to evangelistic work than can be brought to an Epworth League Convention. Some of the most successful preachers and most useful laymen of our church were converted at League conventions. To neglect this work in a convention is to lose an extraordinary opportunity and to assume the responsibility of immeasurable loss to our Lord's work. The souls saved, precious beyond computation, may not represent nearly half the good accomplished. The inspiration of the delegates and its effect throughout the district may bear vastly larger returns.

Second. Press mightily the enlistment of our Epworthians as soul-winners. For this the Fellow-Workers' Covenant is invaluable. Provide a good supply. A professed Christian who never wins others is like a salesmen who never makes a sale. We are worth to our Lord precisely what our usefulness represents. He gives fearful warnings that many professed followers will be rejected. In every neighborhood many are ready to accept Christ through personal solicitation. Were our League stirred to proper activity in this work, our Church would quicken with the mightiest revival it has ever known. This activity also brings to the individual life a fullness and blessedness of experience and a degree of power never otherwise attained.

Third. With tremendous earnestness advance the claims of Christian Stewardship. Enlist every delegate as a Christian Steward and commit every delegate to persistently promote the movement in their own chapter until the membership is thoroughly won. This is the great financial duty of the Epworth League. There is peril and frequent injury in pledging districts or chapters for specific amounts of financial aid. The objects are perhaps usually commendable and the money used to good purpose, but the method is so liable to abuse as to have been utterly forbidden before the last General Conference. Under enthusiasm, pledges have been made that could not be kept, chapters have attempted burdens that compelled financial pressure that drove some of the sound people away, that absorbed energies that should have given life and aggressiveness to other activities, that cut off the support of the chapter from other benevolent causes that were entitled to consideration, and that even deprived the local church of the financial support of its own young people.

These evils can never occur when the work of our Lord is sustained according to the principles of Christian Stewardship. The consecration of property, absolutely indispensable to a satisfactory Christian experience and character, assures our Lord of that which is His own, brings to Him a vastly larger sum than can be secured by recourse to agitation for the support of specific objects, carries this larger revenue unerringly into His treasury, and secures for it a more intelligent application. It not only effects a great economy of labor that may be employed in other spiritual service, but actually brings a multiplication of spiritual energies that surprisingly augment life, enthusiasm, power and fruitfulness of any Christian organization. Let absolutely nothing divert us from it. No other form of financial effort, however advocated by interested persons, can contribute one-tenth as much to the glory of our Lord in proportion to the effort expended.

Let our convention magnify these three ideas. If they are pushed with success the League cannot fail of glorious achievements. Otherwise it can succeed but in a laborious and meagre way, limping when it should soar. Of course, provision should be made in every convention for the discussion of other matters, some of which, as Bible study, are of great importance. But these three objects of League activity: the salvation of the unsaved, personal soul-winning and Christian Stewardship for the followers of Christ will, as the greater always includes the less, bring the realization of the very highest ideals of Christ-likeness and of fruitfulness to our young people.

"ONE HUNDRED BLACK MEN"

Under this heading in last week's Texas Christian Advocate a very interesting article appears, under the authorship of "H. G. H." Black men in their present struggle for race existence, ought to be given full credit in every detail for their achievements. It is not only fair but encouraging to them in their struggles.

The article given shows that the Negro has courage in attack, skill in strategy, and should have credit for some of the great events of which the world is justly proud.

We give the article in full:

Napoleon the Great was at war with several nations soon after the commencement of the past century. One of his armies, sent out with some of his finest ships had invaded an island in the West Indies, occupied almost entirely by black men. They were tall, muscular, brave, but the French were skilled in all the arts of warfare. The swamps, malaria and sickness came to the rescue of the hardpressed islanders. But the invading foe was nearing their main citadel of defense. One hundred stalwart black rough-riders, with powerful steeds and long lances, in the darkness of the night, stole round in the rear of the French. Suddenly, in the haze of the, early morning, they dashed upon the French like Gideon's army. In the same moment a front attack was made upon the invaders. Confusion reigned. Soon the French were in full flight through the marshes and over the water-courses. They were driven into the interior, where thousands of foes awaited their coming. A few only of the ruined army escaped to the ships to tell of the fearful disaster. All the munitions of war and army supplies were captured, thousands slaughtered or made prisoners. The ships sailed away to report the ruin of the expensive enterprise.

Another scene: It was in the capital of the French nation. Thomas Jefferson had set eyes on the vast territory claimed by the French and called Louisiana. Without it the navigation of the Mississippi by the commerce of the United States was endangered. This vast territory swept clear through the west to the borders of Canada. Napoleon claimed it embraced Texas as well. Jefferson had sent his agents over, proposing its purchase. Napoleon refused to sell. The agents waited for three long months in suspense. The last dollar had disappeared from his treasury. The American agents held $15,000,000 ready to drop into that treasury if Napoleon would but put his name to the articles of purchase. News of disaster came from several sources, yet the proud conquerer was unrelenting. A ship arrived in port and brought news of the terrible West Indies disaster. At this moment Jefferson"s agents hurried to him with the papers of purchase. He seized his pen and affixed his name to the document. He meant for Texas to be included, but Jefferson respected the claim of Spain upon that territory.

In the great St. Louis Exposition but little worth recording was said by speakers and writers and visitors about the 100 black men, almost naked rough riders, who wrought havoc with the plans of the great Napoleon, and caused the greatest domain ever purchased to fall into the hands of the United States and civilization These 100 black men were the sovereigns of destiny. A monument to them should have stood at the gateway to the Hall of Fame in the world's greatest exposition. Their deed should have blazed out in memorable light, for it had borne an hundred fold. A grain in the balance means much in the history of the soul or the destiny of a nation. History does not mention the name of one of the 100 black men who conquered Napoleon and swept an empire into our possession."

On page five of this issue we are publishing an appeal in behalf of Samuel Huston College, Austin, Texas. This school is only five years old, but its development, under President R. S. Lovinggood, has simply been phenomenal. The present enrollment is 312. Its greatest embarrassment is lack of accomodation for the students who desire to attend. There is no dormitory for the boys and an effort is being made to erect one to meet the immediate needs.

PROF. R. S. LOVINGGOOD, A. M.,
President of Samuel Huston College, Austin, Texas

Mr. E.T. Burrowes, of Maine, promises to give the amount of $6,000, a dollar for every dollar raised. It will be remembered that Mr. Burrowes has already given $5,000 to this institution. Our people of West Texas have already raised $2,000, which, added to the $1,000 raised by Dr. W. P. Thirkield, secretary in charge, makes a total of $6,000 available at once toward the erection of the boys' dormitory. The building will cost $12,000 and the balance needed must be forthcoming.

The presiding elders, pastors and the members and friends of the West Texas Conference are making an effort to raise on May 17th, at the ground breaking exercises, at least $1,500. And a dollar cannot be better spent by our people in West Texas in a way that will bring more good to the race than through Samuel Huston College. President Lovinggood has labored faithfully and deserves the hearty co-operation of all.

In this new movement we trust that every friend of education in Texas will lend his help toward the realization of the plans for which the committee so eloquently pleads in this week's paper.

Frequent volcanic eruptions are occuring in Central Asia. In Northern India, several weeks ago, it is estimated that 20,000 lives were lost by earthquakes.

THE LAUNCH FUND

The movement is growing in interest. The editor received a letter from Master I. C. Johnson, of Austin, Texas, remitting one dollar for the Launch Fund. He says, in writing, "Find enclosed one dollar to help build a boat for Bishop Scott in Africa. I want to do some good for the Master. I know I cannot go to Africa, but can help to send some one who can go. I am thirteen years old." If other boys will catch the same spirit and help out in the Launch Fund movement our subscriptions will be increased very materially.

W. D. Godman, D. D. President Emeritus, of Gilbert College, spent the winter in Florida advantageously to his health. He has now returned to his home in Madlson, Conn., where correspondents should address him.

We are deeply grieved over the announcement just received of the death of Mrs. Mamie Nocho-Suggs, wife of Prof. Suggs, of Savannah, Ga. The body was taken to Greensboro, the home of her parents for interment.

Rev. J. W. Tate, pastor of Wiley Memorial, Chattanooga, Tenn., will deliver the baccalaureate sermon of Central Alabama Academy on April 30th, and the commencement address to the graduating class on May 3.

Clow Seminary, by recent action of the Board of Trustees has changed its name to Bowen Seminary and Industrial Institute in honor of Rev. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen. This institution has already enrolled 130 students this scholastic year.

Rev. A. J. McNair, pastor of St. Stephens Methodist Episcopal Church, Yazoo City, Miss., is planning for a big rally the first Sunday in June on the indebtedness of the church. Rev. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen will be the preacher of the day.

Our church work at Gueydan, La., is enjoying prosperity under the leadership of Rev. J. P. Orville. The membership is good and plans are being made for the purchase of land on which they are hopeful of erecting soon a house of worship.

Haven Academy, situated at Waynesboro, Ga., of which Rev. R. W. S. Thomas, A. M., is principal, has just closed a most successful revival. Forty students were converted. The meeting was under the immediate charge of Evangelist E. M. Collett and his son.

Bishop Frank W. Warne has cabled from Mussoorie, India, to the Missionary Society that the recent disastrous earthquake in the North of India damaged our mission properties in Mussoorie, Rurki and Pauri, to the extent of $1,500, but that all our missionaries are safe.

Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, of Gammon Theological Seminary, So. Atlanta, Ga., will preach in our church at Kansas City, Mo., Sunday evening, May 8th, and the following Monday evening will deliver a lecture. His subject will be "What the Church and State have done for the ation."

Rev. J. J. Obee, presiding elder of the Alexandria District, says he is grateful to Messrs. Howell and Nye, real estate agents at Lake Arthur, La., for favors shown in the establishment of our work at that place. The white people of that vicinity have been very cordial to our church work.

Rev. E. S. Williams returned to the pastorate of St. Paul Church, Roanoke, Va., and was received by his people with open arms. The moving into the new parsonage necessitates the changing of his address. Persons desiring to write him should address him at 107 High St., Roanoke, Va., instead of 206 Henry St., as heretofore.

Bishop Neeley received a royal welcome at the hands of the people of Buenos Ayres, South America, in the First Methodist Church, March 9. Welcome addresses were made by Mr. W. Field and Rev. C. D. Drees, D. D., Rev. J. F. Thompson and Rev. W. P. McLaughlin, D. D. Responses were made by Bishop Neeley and Dr. H. K. Carroll.

Dr. G. G. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society, will hold his first Missionary Convention on the Brookhaven District at Brookhaven, Miss., May 2-7. He will be assisted by the presiding elder, Dr .G. W. Smith, and other brethren. All members of the District are expected to be present with their topics well prepared.

The annual concert of Straight University Alumni Association will be given Friday evening, April 28. The affair promises to be worthy of the Alumni Association. An excellent program has been arranged and some of the best musical talent in the Crescent City are taking part, notably among which is the Bishop Scott Quartette.

At New Orleans University, Friday night, April 28, there will be given a concert by Miss Minnie Burroughs and Mr. Charles Wickham, assisted by Mr. Wendell MacNeal, Violinist. The concert is given for the benefit of freshening up the room used by the 5th grade, of which Miss Burroughs is teacher.

The Missionary Society has out a new and interesting line of literature on our mission work. Among the pamphlets are: "Four Years of Progress in Africa," by Bishop J. C. Hartzell; "The Philippine Mission," by Rev. Homer C. Stuntz, D. D.; "The Philippines and India," by Bishop Henry W. Warren; and the "Priest and Penitent in Mexico," by Mrs. John W. Butler.

Rev. D. A. Graham, D. D., the former pastor of St. James A. M. E. Church this city, who has now charge of the Bethel A. M. E Church, Detroit, Mich., is, according to all reports, doing a splendid work. Bethel Church is being rapidly cleared of an indebtedness of many years standing and is in much better condition under Dr. Graham's administration than it has been for years.

Rev. D. E. Skelton, with the assistance of a loyal co-worker—his wife, is doing a noble work at Park Street Church, Methodist Episcopal Church, Cincinnati, Ohio. On a recent Sunday afternoon Brother Skelton gathered into his church more than fifty newsboys, and to these children of the street, told in simple language the beautiful story of Jesus' life. What better work than this?

The Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Robertson, Methodist missionaries in Liberia, sailed from New York City Tuesday, April 18, returning to the mission field by way of Germany, Mrs. Robertson's native land. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson have been spending a year on furlough in Germany and America. They now return to Jacktown, Liberia, where they have been in charge of the Sinoe River Industrial Mission since 1898.

Rev. W. P. C. Morrison, pastor of St. Johns Methodist Episcopal Church, Natchez, Miss., calls the attention of the brethren of the Mississippi Conference to the fact that the fourth Sunday in May is set apart as general rally day for all the churches in the Mississippi Conference for the liquidation of the indebtedness on the church property at Natchez. We hope this important item will receive the careful attention of all the brethren concerned.

Rev. J. W. Turner, presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District, who is in the city, says that Easter Sunday was a large day for missions all over the District. There are loyal brethren on this district and they are doing splendid work. Rev. Turner spent Easter Sunday in Baton Rouge, at Wesley and St. Mark, and these churches, he says, were never in a better condition. The services are well attended, the collections are in advance of previous years, and many precious souls are being converted.

Swift, of Chicago, Illinois, will, on the first day of July, give to the University a check for $25,000. Work will begin at once on the College of Government, which is to be the McKinley Memorial. This magnificent structure will be a noble monument to our illustrious ex-President, who was one of its trustees and a liberal contributor, and a great credit to the church and to the nation. The building will be of marble and will cost $250,000.

Governor Hoch, of Kansas, who is a member of the Methodist Church at Marion, Kan., said recently that the greatest personal sacrifice he had to make to accept the position as governor was the giving up of his Bible class, which he had taught for twenty-five years in the church at Marion. Judge Cunningham of the Supreme Court of Kansas, to whom the remark was addressed, replied in kind by saying: "It was a question as to whether I should accept the nomination for this position or not, because it necessitated, on my election, the resignation of the position of superintendent of the Sunday School." He had been superintendent for thirty-three years.

TO KEEP MEAT.

To keep skippers from meat, when hung in the open air:

Take meat from salt, wash off in warm water or red pepper tea, then crush some borax and make holes in a small baking powder can and put the borax in the can and dust on the flesh side of the meat. The skippers will never bother the meat.

To make bacon sweet in summer:

One half-gallon of sorghum and one pound of black pepper; pulverize your pepper and heat the sorghum boiling hot and mix pepper and sorghum together and take a brush and spread mixture on the flesh side of the meat. This is an excellent recipe.

MRS. ELLA HUFFMAN.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED FRUITS.

Dried apricots, by the way, with their delicious acid flavor, are specially grateful just now and most inexpensive. Te reason for all the diatribes against apricots, prunes and other dried fruits is really due to bad cooking. They are not soaked long enough before cooking and are then hurried up, giving the natural juices no chance to assert themselves. To prepare any of the dried or evaporated fruits requires time. Cover first with warm water and let the fruit stand ten or fifteen minutes, then wash each piece separately, rubbing between the thumb and forefinger. Pour on clear water and soak over night or longer. When ready to cook add more boiling water to that it has soaked in, and then slowly simmer three or four hours, adding fresh water as the other dries away. While they may be cooked on the stove, oven cooking in a covered jar or pipkin is the best. Cooked in this way the natural sweetness of the fruit is developed, so that in the case of prunes no other sweetening is necessary unless one has a phenomenally sweet tooth. At the very most, only a half cup of sugar to each pound of fruit can be used, and this should be added only about ten minutes before taking up. Apricots should be cooked for a long time. After the sugar is added, take off the cover of the jar, and let the fruit glaze a little, but not harden. Apples need longer soaking but not as long cooking. A few fine shavings from the yellow rind of an orange or lemon may be added to any of the dried fruits. Cooked in the oven, all these fruits become a delicious conserve possessing the flavor of the fresh fruit, while the liquid almost jellies when cold. Any of these fruits are delightful served with cream.—Notes from the Home and Farm Journal.

Literary Notes

BOOK REVIEWS.

"A Wayside Altar." A collection of poems by James Buckham. Square 12-mo. Cloth extra. 124 pages. Net price, $1.00. Postage 6c. Cincinnati, Jennings & Graham.

This beautiful volume by Mr. James Buckham, whose poems in many magazines have found wide favor will appeal to every lover of poetry.

To those who take morbid delight in unbridled fancy or imagine that the discontent of their minds finds adequate expression in pessimistic complaints, will here find little satisfaction, but that larger number who love the sunshine and quiet nooks, the simple virtues of honesty, justice, mercy, purity and truth, the deep reaches of mother love and all that go to make life strong and wholesome, will find these smooth flowing lines true to the heart of things. It would be difficult to select from so many any particular verse which distinctly excels all the others; Hidden Reeds, The Enfolding Hand, The Sentence on the Wall, perhaps wil burrow their way into the memory, but of The Land of Little Faces there can be no doubt.

I wonder, oh, I wonder where the little faces go?
That come and smile, and stay awhile,
and pass like flakes of snow—
The dear, wee baby faces that the world has never known,
But mothers hide, so tender-eyed, deep in their hearts alone.

The book is printed on good paper, with gilt top, and beautifully bound in green cloth with special cover design in white and gold.

"The Life of Florence Nightingale," by Sarah A. Tooley. Publishers, McMillan Company, New York.

The name of the author would naturally suggest an accurately and completely written biography, and such this is found to be. This is an exhaustive and exceedingly interesting history of the life of Florence Nightingale, that woman whose unselfish deeds will cause her name to be remembered forever. Author has given us a history that interests by its intimate portrayal of the life of this lovely woman. Already admiring and reverencing Florence Nightingale as one must, this book serves but to deepen the feeling and makes one grateful that the world has known such a glorious woman.

TWENTY-FOUR NEGRO MELODIES.

Transcribed for the piano by S. Coleridge-Taylor.

The twenty-four transcriptions or fantasias which make up the contents of this volume deserve to be ranked with the Hungarian Rhapsodies of Liszt and the Slavonic Dances of Dvorak, as masterly translations of folk-music into the idiom of the piano. The composer has selected his themes from the native songs of Africa and the West Indies, and has found many of the finest and most suggestive in the songs which came into being among the American Negroes during the days of slavery, and which have become familiar through the work of the Jubilee Singers. In treating these melodies Mr. Coleridge-Taylor has been careful to preserve their distinctive traits and individuality while giving them form and structure through consistent thematic development. Their depth and spontaneity of feeling, rich and individual harmonic expression, and mastery of technique entitle these compositions to a high place in piano literature.

The volume contains a portrait of the composer and an explanatory foreword besides an introduction by Booker T. Washington, giving the biography of the foremost musician of his race, and a sketch of Negro folk-music.

The volume is one of the "Musicians' Library," published by the Oliver Ditson Company, Boston. Price in heavy paper, cloth back, $1.50; in cloth, full gilt, $2.50, post-paid.

NOTES ON THE MAY CENTURY.

Mr. Arthur Hoeber's article in the May Century on "The Prize of Rome," should have special interest just now, following so closely the announcement that the American School of Architecture in Rome has been re-chartered by Congress, endowed by private liberality and made secure by a permanent and attractive home—especially as the newly chartered institution is to be conducted much on the lines of the French Villa Medici, whose workings Mr. Hoeber describes with much interesting detail.

General attention is being called more and more to what seems a widespread religious awakening. Now it is Australia or Wales or New Zealand that is affected; then amazing reports come from Korea; next, perhaps, are extraordinary returns from Los Angeles, Atlanta, or Pittsburg. These conditions will be discussed by Henry R. Elliot in the May Century, under the title of "The World-wide Spiritual Awakening."

FLORIDA.

Tampa.—Thos. H. B. Walker, Pastor. —Our First quarterly conference convened March 24th. Supt. Rev. J. Grant made things lively. He preached two big sermons. We have added 21 members to the church, 11 happy conversions, 4 by letter, 6 reclaimed. Raised for all purposes since I have been here, $369.85. I expect to hold a rally on the 3rd Sunday in April. Paid Superintendent in full for quarter, $15. Raised Sunday, $23.07, which amount we were able to bank.

GEORGIA.

Atlanta—H. C. Henderson—On Feb. 22nd there was a grand Birthday luncheon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Henderson, No. 8 Vernon place. This luncheon was given in honor of Miss Minnie Williams, who was the belle of the evening.

Hoschton—I. J. Arnold, pastor—Our quarter was held the 11-12 and was the best that has been held in four years in this place. The presiding elder was with us and we paid him every cent that we owed him. The amount was $26.55 and on Sunday night we had a glorious sermon preached by our elder. Subject—"The power of Christianity." Our beloved pastor, W. M. Wims, has everything at work and as busy as a bee in the church work and is loved by the whole community.

Satilla Bluff—Olive Green—Our Second Quarterly Conference was held April 8-9th with Rev. J. W. Fisher, our proficient and beloved Presiding Elder, in the chair. He handles the work with much ease, and with such a leader great results are looked for. Rev. J. H. Smith, our pastor, is a splendid man and is rallying his forces to victory. The role of the quarterly conference was called and most of the members answered to their names. Reports showed that three months hard work had been done. The report of the Ladies' Aid Society is worth special mention. The ladies through the guidance of Mrs. Olive Green, president, had raised $14.00 and had paid for the ceiling of the parsonage and had made it a very comfortable place for the pastor and family. Raised in the quarter $24.18.

INDIANA.

Shelbyville—Joel Perkins, pastor—Our First Quarterly Conference convened April 8-9 with the Rev. G. A. Sissle, presiding elder, in the chair and a pleasant meeting continued. All things look bright here. Sunday Rev. Sissle was at his best. He gave us three services. Thirty-five communed Sunday night. Paid elder in full. Collection for the day, $18.10.

INDIAN TERRITORY.

Ardmore.—A. W. Talbert, pastor.—Our first quarterly meeting for the conference year, convened in Warren Chapel M. E. Church, March 25-27, 1905, Rev. D. G. Franklin, P. E., presiding. The pastor having spent one week only on his new charge since the adjournment of the Lincoln Conference. The presiding elder preached two excellent and helpful sermons to large and appreciative audiences and administered the sacrament of the Lord's Supper to a goodly number.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The reports of the various officers were indicative of a good year's work. The presiding elder was paid in full. Collection for the quarter, only one week, $50.00. The trustees and the people are repairing and beautifying the parsonage and church, at a cost of about five hundred dollars, looking forward to the entertainment of the next session of the Lincoln Annual Conference. The Rev. D. G. Franklin, P. E., and who is also chairman of a committee appointed by the last session of the Lincoln Conference, to find a suitable location on which to establish a conference school, in the Indian Territory, is determined that the Lincoln Conference shall have a good school at once. So much so that he electrified the large audience that assembled to hear him speak on the necessity of a conference school in the Territory, to subscribe for that purpose the sum of four hundred and thirty-five dollars. The Rev. Franklin is proving himself an invaluable factor in the development of the Lincoln Conference.

KENTUCKY.

Falmouth—Jas. Allen, pastor—I reached my new field of labor on March 16 and was cordially received by the people. All departments of church work have been organized and are now in good working order. We are praying and planning for a successful year on this charge. My First Quarterly Conference convened April 9th, Rev. G. W. Zeigler, presiding. The elder preached three excellent sermons during his stay. Paid him $10; pastor $3.75; Missions $1.00; total $14.75. One night recently brother M. Coleman and a host of friends brought to the parsonage 50 pounds of choice groceries. May God abundantly bless them all.

Washington — Laura Moore — The First Quarterly Conference was held at Haven M. E. Chapel, April 1st and 2nd with the new presiding elder, G. W. Zeigler, presiding. He opened service by reading the 8th chapter of Romans. Rev. C. H. Pyles then delivered the welcome address. He voiced the sentiments of all the good people of Washington. In his remarks he said, "Elder we welcome you in our church, our homes and our town." The elder gladly received the hearty welcome. The regular business of the conference work was then in order. Miss Laura Moore was elected secretary. The majority of the officials were present with very good reports. The pastor's salary was set at $400. Thus ended the business part of the meeting. The presiding elder preached three soul stirring sermons on Sunday, and all were made glad. He administered sacrament in the afternoon to 47. Collection, $18.17. We believe Elder Zeigler to be a worthy and efficient man, and pray for his success.

LOUISIANA.

Beattieville Charge—D. W. Jackson —We are moving along nicely, with Rev. Jules Benn as our pastor. Owing to inclement weather we haven't been able to do very much, but we are working between showers. On the night of March 24 a crowd came to the parsonage and pounded the pastor, to his delight and surprise. There were speeches made by Bro. Brooks, the pastor and Mr. J. D. Brown, principal of our public school. Bro. L. H. Smith gave the pastor a small purse, and Bro. M. M. Smith closed the meeting. March 26, the K. of P. Lodge No. 23 celebrated their anniversary at our church and they brought out large numbers of people. We hope to send in a few subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN soon.

Natchitoches—W. J. M. Price, pastor —We desire to thank Master Scott A., Misses Beatrice C. and Ruth I Lewis for taking subscriptions among their friends and purchasing four pair fine lace curtains for the parsonage. Scott is the 14-year-old son of Prof. John G. Lewis, and this act is inspired by the conduct of his father, for no one contributes more freely to our church here than does Mr. John G. Lewis. His family attend our Sunday school and church.

Mandeville—G. W. Forest, pastor—We take pleasure in thanking the committee for a purse of $7.70. Names of committee: A. Francois, William Anderson, Martha Vincent, Beattie Bonnie. One soul added to the church. Raised $6 for missions and for the support of pastor, $10.40. We have not forgotten the S. W. C. ADVOCATE.

Baker—J. H. C. Mean, pastor—We are getting on nicely. The steward sisters had a rally Sunday night, March 12, and raised $8.00 and purchased furniture for the parsonage. The presiding elder was here Sunday, the 19th, but it rained so that he had to postpone the quarterly meeting till the 8th and 9th of April. Rev. J. W. Turner is a splendid man. One has been added to the church.

MISSISSIPPI.

Durant—W. H. Whitlock, pastor—We were appointed to this charge by Bishop Spellmeyer, Jan. 16, 1905, arrived here on the 27th and received a cordial welcome by the entire community. We are now comfortably domiciled in our beautiful little parsonage. We are greeted with large congregations every time we preach and the people express their appreciation by handsome contributions, not only in finances, but they remember the little woman, the queen of our family circle, and they desire to make her feel that she has loyal subjects. Hence on the evening of March 3rd quite a host of members and friends came to the parsonage, led by Sisters C. E. Holmes and M. M. Scott, two faithful class leaders. They loaded a table with all the good things, even dry goods, needed by the pastor, his wife and children. Our first quarterly conference was held March 3-5. Rev. S. H. Nevils was at his best in the pulpit on Sunday, altho, owing to rain, not many were out. We are now preparing to raise all of our benevolences on Easter.

Bond—Carrie Robers—Our first quarterly conference was held March 4-5. Presiding Elder Rev. R. N. Jones was present. The brethren were out with good reports. Sunday was a high day. The elder delivered three grand sermons. Many partook of the Lord's Supper and quite a number came forward for prayer. Two joined the church. We are indeed proud of our new elder. May the Lord bless him. Paid Rev. Jones in full for the quarter.

NORTH CAROLINA.

C. W. WALTON, PASTOR, WILMINGTON, —My first quarterly conference convened in Trinity M. E. Church, February 19-20, with Rev. I. W. Wells, presiding elder, in the chair. Owing to the bad weather only a few of the officers were out, but the reports show some improvement on most lines. The presiding elder was at his best and preached to the delight of all. Twenty-two persons partook of the Lord's supper. The elder had an eye to all the interests of the church. The SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE was not overlooked. The elder spoke of it to us as never before. Wilmington Charge is not dead. We have repaired our church this quarter to the amount of $79.95; paid the elder up; paid pastor, $21.90; raised for benevolence, $3.50; other purposes, $15; grand total, $126.-55. We have only forty-four members on the charge but these are plucky. We are coming with banners hoisted for God and the church.

HOW TO SLEEP.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

A New Seed Discovery for FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

Conference Notices

Dear Brethren of the Palestine District:—At our last annual conference, I was appointed District Secretary for the Conference Claimants' Cause. I will visit you in the interest of this claim, I am very anxious that our district shall do more for the Claimants' Cause this year than it has ever done before. Certainly you agree with me when I say we are not doing our full duty towards the widows and orphans of our deceased preachers, nor to the old veterans who have labored so earnestly and have sacrificed so much for the cause of Christ, and are now in the superannuated ranks. Brethren, let us bestir ourselves and come to the District Conference at Leona, August 8-13, with the entire Conference Claimants' Assessment raised.

I am yours in Christ.

A. E. GIBBS.

To the Brethren of Central Alabama Conference.—The fifth Sunday in April was set apart by the Conference at its recent session as Conference Claimants' Day. It is to be hoped that every charge in the Conference will observe this day, raise as much money as possible and forward the same to the Conference treasurer.—J. C. SAMMONS.

My dear Treasurers of the Lexington Conference, Woman's Home Missionary Society.—On to Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, O., May 10th, is the watchword at present. There we will celebrate the fifth anniversary of our Conference organization. While we will have a good financial report from figures to date, you can make it still better if you will try to collect from all of your delinquent members and have a good report from your Silver Anniversary Day. The Ohio District holds the District Banner. St. John, Cincinnati, is the banner charge. Will you allow the same district and charge to hold the banner for another year? Your delegates should know what amount your receipts call for, that she may listen intelligently to the Conference Treasurer's report. Hoping to meet you in our fifth annual session, I remain,—Yours for the W. H. M. S.,—MARTHA A. SISSLE, Conference Treasurer.

To the pastors, Sunday school superintendents and presidents of the Epworth League, Nashville District:—Let me call your attention to the Sunday School and Epworth League Convention to be held at Smyrna, Tenn., on or about the 27th of June. At the last Convention we had a grand time, but let us make this the best of all our Conventions. Each Sunday school and Epworth League arrange to send one or two delegates. The programs will be sent you in a few days.—Respectfully yours,—H. H. HINTON, E. L. Pres.

VIRGINIA.

OWEN HYPSHER, PASTOR, WYTHVILLE, VA.—Lincoln's birthday was observed February 12. We had a nice time. Our programs were ordered from the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. The same was carried out in full. The program shows the people the work that the great Methodist Episcopal Church is doing for the South, and is helping us to do for ourselves. We collected $4.00 and sent it in to Cincinnati. The cold weather has made times very hard here. Some of our people have sold their homes, others have gone, hoping to return when times are better. Thirty members of Franklin St. M. E. Church are in other places at work. Wythville is a beautiful town with a population of 3,000 or more. But we are living and doing the Lord's work. Those of the members who are interested are doing their best for church and pastor. We will try, by the help of the Lord, to make a full report. All collections taken. Our superintendent of Sunday School, Prof. R. H. Scott, is the right man in the right place. I am looking for better times this conference year.

Be A Real Woman.

No. 806 Pease Avenue,
HOUSTON, TEXAS, May 14, 1903.

I was barren during the six years of married life, suffering with painful menstruation and a dozen other aches and pains. I was a poor excuse for a wife as I was not able to be up more than about half the time and daily grew weaker and weaker.

Wine of Cardui changed me into a different woman in five short months, made me robust and strong.

I am very grateful to you for my good health and am today blessed with a baby who is the pride of our home and this is all due to your medicine.

Mrs. Charles Mason
VICE-PRESIDENT, HOUSTON MOTHERS' CLUB.

Wine of Cardui brings health to sick women. Wine of Cardui brings children to barren homes.

How can any woman refuse the health Mrs. Mason has? Any woman can secure exactly the same relief if she will take Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui is a certain cure for menstrual irregularities. It will not do impossibilities but it does cure bearing-down pains, makes motherhood possible for barren wives and relieves the pains at the monthly period.

LADIES' VICTORIA WATCH 6 size, gold filled hunting, 10 year case, engraved in an assorment of handsome scenic and floral designs, fitted with the reliable New York Standard movement, 7 jewel, nickel finish, stem wind, lever set. Your jeweler would charge you from $10 to $20.00 for a watch like this, yet it is FREE to you for selling only 16 bottles of Wrang Tang Liniment at 50 cents each.

Which had you rather do?—Do business with a firm that does exactly as claimed, or with a firm that claims to do one thing and does another? We do exactly as claimed. Every offer and statement in this advertisement are facts. There is no "pulling the wool over your eyes." We do not describe a watch in beautiful language worded in such a way as to make you believe one thing and mean another. We state plainly the facts. There can be no misunderstanding. 10,000 agents are now selling Chief Elkhorn's Indian Wrang Tang Liniment. In another year 15,000 will be doing it. Over a million bottles have been sold through agents in the Southern States, and millions more will be sold. Agents who commenced years ago to sell it are still selling it today. We do not make a practice of giving premiuns. During the year 1905 we will only give the watches mentioned here. We do not make money when you work for a watch. We prefer that you work for the cash. If you need a watch—work for one. If you don't—work under the cash plan. Read what we have to say below, and if you then desire to join the company, send in your application for the agency--if you are not already an agent.

Here you are! A dandy, good enough and fine enough to please any lady. WRANG TANG LINIMENT. Strong, Powerful, Penetrating.

It's medicine—it's not water—it's not weak. It is so strong and powerful that it goes through the skin, through the flesh and into the very bones—every drop—not a sign left on the skin—no oil—nothing. That is why it's Action is Magical. Its like Gold to Silver. A 20 dollar gold piece is 20 times as valuable as a silver dollar, yet a silver dollar is larger. It's not the size of a thing that makes it valuable. It's the Quality. One Bottle of Wrang Tang Liniment is worth 20 bottles of Water Stuff. Every drop is medicine—medicine that's powerful—medicine that's strong—medicine that's magical.

They Live in Our Memory.

New Orleans, La.—Maceo Smith, aged 8 years and some months, died April 10th, after a brief illness. Deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith, and grandson of our esteemed friend and brother, Neville Smith, of First Street M. E. Church. Little Maceo was a bright and intelligent boy. He had many friends, among both young and old, who, with stricken hearts, came out upon that sad occasion to express their heart-felt sympathy for the bereaved family, and to pay tributes of respect to his precious young memory. He was an apt pupil in the St. Mark's Day School, and the First Street Sunday school. Both schools accompanied his mortal remains to the First Street Church, where the pastor and Rev. W. R. Butler, P. E., spoke very feelingly and appropriately of the life and character of the little boy, after which they went to the Washington Cemetery, where his body was laid away to rest.

J. A. TIBCUIT, Pastor.

McCool, Miss.—Little Elvira Kennedy, aged 13 years, the daughter of J. M. and Maggie Kennedy, died March 13, 1905. She was a Christian and died as she lived. Two sisters, four brothers and her father mourns her loss.

J. M. KENNEDY.

Shuqualak, Miss.—Death invaded the home of brother Green Anderson, one of the founders of our church here and took from his side his beloved wife, sister Rhoda Anderson. She was a member of Asbury M. E. Church for 30 years. She was attacked at a very late hour in the night with heart trouble and said to her husband, "I must leave you now; farewell." She died before medical aid could reach her. In her death Asbury church loses a faithful and good member while Heaven gains a saint. Her funeral was preached by the pastor.

G. J. DOBSON, Pastor.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—John Murphy, a faithful member of Murphey's Chapel M. E. Church, departed this life in full triumph of the faith on March 31, 1905, in the 55th year of his age, 25 years of which were spent in the M. E. Church. His last words were that he was trusting in the Lord. He leaves a wife, one brother, five sisters, many relatives, and a host of friends who will miss him. The funeral took place at St. Paul M. E. Church, on Sunday, April 2, under the auspices of Davet Temple Lodge No. 9 Ancient Free and Accepted Masons. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. A. L. Boyd.

Lewisville, Arkansas.—Sister Mary Adams went home Sunday night, age 44 years. Sister Adams was converted in 1879 and joined the M. E. Church at Beaumont, Texas. She leaves quite a number of friends and relatives. Her body will be carried to Beaumont for burial, by the Calanthe of this place, accompanied by Prof. Salone and Mrs. Foster. The people at this place paid very high tribute to her memory, both white and colored.

LEE NELSON, Pastor.

Laurinburg, N. C.—Death visited us, taking from our midst our dear brother, Isaac Lytch, who was a member of Cool Springs M. E. Church and had been a faithful member for more than 34 years. The church loses one that will be hard to replace. Bro. Lytch was a meek and loving brother, who always had some word of some good cheer for all whom he met.

S. F. B. PEASE, Pastor.

Crawfordsville, Ark.—Mr. James Wright, age 20 years, died after a long illness. He professed faith in Christ while sick. He leaves a mother, father, four sisters and one brother.

C. A. TAYLOR, Pastor.

Brinkley, Ark.—Sister Lizzie Jones, the wife of brother Jones, departed this life March 23 in full triumph of faith. A. T. Stephens preached the funeral, assited by Rev. S. M. Caim and

J. W. WHITING, Pastor.

Laurinburg, North Carolina.—Death visited us, taking Mrs. Hannah Davis, wife of one of our very fine officers, Nathaniel Davis. She was a member of Galilee M. E. Church of this city. She lingered for a long time with an incurable disease and on February 26, 1905, the end came to relieve the one who so long had suffered untold sufferings, but according to her own testimony, she rests with the redeemed.

On the 17th inst. came death to our midst again, and took from us our sister, Julia McDonald, who was a faithful member of Galilee M. E Church, and had been for many years. She was what you might call a very smart woman, one who worked hard, and raised a large family of children. Work was her idea.

S. F. B. PEASE, Pastor.

Slidell—H. A. Sorrell, pastor—Sister Celia Brooks, a faithful member of our church for more than thirty years, fell asleep in Jesus on Tuesday, March 28, and was laid to rest on Wednesday, the 29th. As death drew near she said to her husband and children: "You all must meet me in heaven. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband and seven children. The funeral was conducted by the writer.

Morgan City—W. H. Jones, pastor—Sister Virginia Keys, a faithful member of Union M. E. Church, died at her home April 3. She died suddenly of heart failure. She was a stewardess of our church. Revs. L. H. Williams, D. Shelby, J. White and Wm. Merrill assisted the pastor. The interment was at Berwick.

Anderson, M. M. Monzon, presiding elder—Eddie Quick, second son of Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Quick, of Anderson, S. C., after a brief illness of less than one week, departed this life March 20th. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. M. M. Mouzon, in Thompson Centenial M. E. Church of which his father is pastor. There was no young man in the community held more highly than our young friend Eddie. The occasion was the largest of the kind ever held in the church, he being a student in the City Graded School at the time of his death and being very popular with teachers and pupils, they requested that the hour of service be at a time that all could attend. At the hour appointed, 500 pupils led by their teachers marched into the church with the members and friends who came to pay their respect to the memory of Eddie. The congregation was so great there was not standing room for more than half that attended. The floral offerings were beautiful. Many letters were sent from sympathizing friends. Eddie was a member of the church from early childhood. When the end came he was perfectly resigned. He told his mother early Monday morning that he must go now. To his father he said all is well and to his leader he said, I am waiting on the Lord.

A mother's love starts a man or woman on the right path. The right remedy at the right time fits a mother for the ordeal. Motherhood is often looked forward to with feelings of great dread by most women. At such a time when she is nervous, dyspeptic, irritable and in need of a uterine tonic—something which will calm the nervous system through the special organs, and a strength builder, she will find Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription just what is needed. Here is a medicine that has stood the test of a third of a century with approval, in that time it has sold more largely than any other remedy put up specially for woman's weaknesses. It is guaranteed by the proprietors not to contain a particle of alcohol—which could only do harm to a sensitive system.

The World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, offer a $500 reward for women who cannot be cured of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, biliousness and headache.

Crescent City Notes

To the Conference Executive Board of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Louisiana Conference: Dear Sisters—I hereby tender you this my resignation as president of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Louisiana Conference. Our society is calculated to be a source of the greatest blessing to all people; and my whole being is intensely devoted to its success throughout the bounds of our conference; but the unfortunate factional differences, if not antagonism of so many of our presiding elders and pastors against the management as now constituted make it so absolutely impossible to accomplish any substantial good in the development of the work of the society that I deem it my duty to the cause that I so dearly love to retire, with the hope that a successor may be selected whom our ministers and all our people may more loyally follow, thereby promoting the growth and usefulness of the society in our dear old conference. Thanking you for your friendship and marked courtesies and co-operation you have so kindly shown me, I beg to subscribe myself,

Yours very sincerely,

(Mrs.) A. E. P. Albert.

Rev. N. Neal spent a few days in the city last week. He speaks encouragingly of his work at Maillard.

CITY PASTORS, NOTICE!

Dear Brethren: Please meet me in the Southwestern office next Monday, May 1st, to organize various local committees for the Missionary Convention to be held in New Orleans October 10-12. Meet promptly at 10 a. m., as I must leave same day to take charge of district missionary meeting Tuesday, May 2, at Brookhaven, Miss.

G. G. Logan, Field Secretary.

Easter services at Haven Chapel were well attended. At 4 a. m. the pastor, Rev. J. McKee, preached to a large congregation. Seven unsaved souls came to the altar for prayer and two backsliders were reclaimed. The collection for missions was $10.55; total collected, $17.61.

Mallalieu Chapel was favored a few evenings ago with the presence of Dr. G. G. Logan, Presiding Elder Hubbard Daniels of the Shreveport District, and Rev. W. F. Waters. Their visit was helpful and appreciated.

The members and friends of Scott Chinn Chapel, one night recently presented the pastor, Rev. C. D. Crockett, more than one hundred pounds of groceries. The instigator of this kindly act was Brother A. Green.

A splendid service was held at Wesley Chapel early Sunday morning. The Resurrection sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson. An excellent program was rendered by the Sunday school at 10 a. m., and $5 was collected for missions. Total collection for the day, $83.

At Simpson Chapel the resurrection of the Savior was fittingly celebrated. The floral decorations were lilies and roses. Those anxious to see and hear began crowding the church from 12 m., and they were amply repaid, for the sermon as preached by Rev. Taylor showed deep thought, eloquence, and a most convincing and conclusive argument in favor of a risen and ascended Savior. Sunday school at the usual hour. At 11 a. m. a glorious time was had at the young converts' love feast. The afternoon was given to the children, who charmed all in attendance by their excellent rendition of the program. The church was again packed at night by members and friends to witness the baptism of the converts. And as they marched in, arrayed in white, led by the pastor and the steward sisters, it was a picture that could not but stir even the most hardened sinner, as was evidenced by the number who came forward for prayer.

A large audience filled Williams Chapel at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, and a glorious service was held. The pastor's text was Heb. 11: 4. Theme—"Voices of the Dead." Three persons were received into the church. Sunday school service at the usual hour. Collection $3.34. At 11 a. m. Bro. A. Turner preached, assisted by the pastor. A good audience was present. At night the Easter program was well rendered. The same was under the direction of Miss S. A. E. Brazely, who was assisted by Mr. E. J. Magruder. Mr. Magruder also read an excellent paper. The appropriate floral decorations were the handiwork of Sisters I. Dauphine, S. Goldston, Rosa Johnson and Master J. W. White. The children raised $6.25; stewards, $10.12, and the missionary collection was $21; incidentals, $1.85; and $1 for the poor.

Miss Martha A. Gair, a prominent member of Wesley Chapel, Wilson, La., who has been the guest for several days of Mrs. A. B. Harris, will return home Saturday.

At Mallalieu Chapel on Sunday, April 9th, the pastor, Rev. H. J. Wright, preached the installation sermon for the Love and Friendship Benevolent Society. A large congregation was present. A purse of $14 was presented the pastor. Easter Sunday was observed in full. The church was nicely decorated. At the early morning service Rev. Thomas McCary preached the Resurrection sermon to a full house. Several came forward for prayer. Collection, $18.50. At 11 a. m. the Sunday school rendered the missionary program. Sunday school collected $12.73. Miss Loretta Jackson was at the organ. Prof. W. R. Jordan was at his best. The children greatly enjoyed the hunt for the hen's nest after the service. Total collection for the day, $38.62. The revival service continues. During the week one young man was converted and four backsliders reclaimed. Bro. McCary preached Sunday night to a good congregation and one wanderer returned to the fold. Any of the pastors who may have spare time are invited to come and help in this great work.

COTTON.

The price has fallen a little since last issue. There seems to be an impression abroad that farmers are not reducing the acreage to any great extent, and many farmers think that the present price even will will pay better than most other crops involving the same effort and outlay. The price on Monday was 7 3-16c.

We hope our correspondents will not forget to enclose in their letters an estimate of the condition of the crop as the season progresses.

LOUISIANA.

Washington, S. Green, pastor.—One hundred young men and ladies met the pastor on time at the above named church and we organized an Epworth League chapter with earnest young men and women as officers.

San Antonio, Houston, and Galveston, Texas, have respectively 264, 253 and 260 saloons, there being one saloon to every 20 or 30 men. A wide open chance for the damnation of the youths of those respective cities.

That the Russian aristocracy is not entirely void of heart and not entirely out of touch with humanity is evinced by the fact that the Grand Duchess Elizabeth, widow of the Grand Duke Sergius, will appeal to the Czar to save the assassin of her husband from the execution of the death sentence upon him.

The teamsters' strike of Chicago is on in earnest. Over three thousand men went on a strike last Friday. The employers are fighting the strikers and have organized an employer's teaming company and placed behind it more than $1,000,000. Men are being brought from other counties and the chief of police has ruled that Winchesters may be carried provided they are not concealed. Hence Winchesters may form a part of the teamster's equipment. And the end is not yet. The strikers are determined and so are the employers.

One of the most startling lynchings that has occurred for years took place on Wednesday of last week in the town of Homer of this state. The victim this time was a white man by the name of Craighead, who last October was arrested for the murder of his half-brother's wife and her child. Since then he was convicted by a jury of twelve and by some technicality was remanded for a new trial. And while awaiting this second hearing, when all indications of mob violence had subsided, a rush was made upon the prison and the man was shot while crouching within his cell. It is said that the leaders of the mob were recognized and are known as they were unmasked. The two interesting facts about this occurrence: First, a Negro was first accused of the crime and narrowly escaped the hands of the mob. Had he been apprehended he would have paid the debt, but investigation has proven that he was not within fifty miles of the place on the day of the murder. Who knows but that Negroes who have been apprehended and lynched were as innocent as this Negro who escaped? The second interesting fact is the time which elapsed between the committing of the crime and the date of the lynching. Not only had the murderer been convicted once, but it seemed clear that his second trial would mean his second conviction and furthermore he was in the hands of the law. This occurrence is generally deplored by the press and representative citizens. It is a reflection upon our boasted civilization and evidences nothing less than barbarism.

THE WORLD'S TYPICAL PHILANTHROPIST

Philanthropy is defined in the Century Dictionary as "Love of mankind, especially as evinced in the deeds of practical beneficence and endeavors for the good of one's fellows." Let this be accepted as a true definition for philanthropy and then carefully search for one who lives in the spirit of the definition and one who is in the public view as a philanthropist and at once Andrew Carnegie will be named. And when his days are numbered Mr. Carnegie, no doubt, will be as he is to-day, one of the best loved men of this generation. He has accumulated a vast fortune and has been dealing it out generously of late in the way that he thinks will do the most good for the most people. Some of us may think that had we the disposition of such large sums they would otherwise be dispensed, but this does not involve the question of Mr. Carnegie's motive nor the sincerity of his intention to do the best thing for all concerned. He is greatly interested in the cause of education, general as well as special, and to this end he has contributed almost $100,000,000, and for other purposes, including the Hero Fund, and the Peace Temple, almost $15,000,000. His last contribution is that of $10,000,000, which is to provide annuities for college professors, who are not able to continue in active service. The gift is in the form of five per cent. mortgage bonds of $10,000,000, which have a market value of $11,000,000, and will produce annually $500,000. In making this gift Mr. Carnegie says to the trustees whom he names: "I have reached the conclusion that the least rewarded of all the professions is that of the teacher in our higher educational institutions. * * * The consequences are grievous. Able men hesitate to adopt teaching as a career and many of the professors, whose places ought to be occupied by younger men, cannot retire."

This fund is to be applied without "regard to race, sex, creed or color," providing a pension for teachers of universities, colleges and technical schools in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland. Where the majority of trustees, officers, or faculty is required to belong to any specific sect, or where a theological test is imposed, the professors of such schools are excluded from the benefits of this fund. Among those named on the Trustee Board are President W. H. Crawford, of Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., and President Edwin H. Hughes, of Depauw University, Greencastle, Ind., and President Samuel Plantz, of Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis. This is a very striking gift, both for its amount and for its purpose. The men who have given their strength and time to the development of the scholarship of the country receive very meager remuneration. And this provision so that they may spend their closing days without fret or worry will be gladly welcomed by the educators of the country.

THE BALTIMORE NEGRO

The principal cities along the eastern border as well as all large Northern cities show remarkable increase in their Negro population. According to the statistics Washington has the largest Negro population of any city in the Union, and the latest statistics show that Baltimore has a Negro population of 81,381. One-twelfth of these were born before the war. Thirty-five thousand two hundred and forty-one can read and write; of these there are 17,075 males and 18,166 females. That these people have newly moved in or belong to the transient population is shown by the fact that 21,623 are roomers and 5,498 boarders. The total number of children in school or belong to the transient population is shown by the fact that 21,623 are roomers and 5,498 boarders. The total number of children in school is 10,398, about one-third of the school population in actual attendance upon school. Perhaps one of the most interesting and hopeful showings is that there are 49,563 wage earners. Of these 19,840 are men, 21,482 are women, and 11,118 are children. These are engaged in 233 different pursuits, including 113 clerks, 38 doctors, 56 carpenters, 17 music teachers, 251 teachers and professors, 4 photographers, 1 artist and 2 draughtsmen, while there are stenographers, typewriters, lawyers, electricians, and engravers, but the number of these in the last named pursuits are not given. This is a very encouraging sign. The Negro in Baltimore is aggressive, thrifty, and of independent action. They are on the whole a church-going people, giving considerable attention to church structure and decoration. They are engaged in business pursuits and show evidence of ability in meeting the requirements of city life.

ABILITY HAS NO COLOR

One evening last week the New Orleans Choral Symphony Society of this city rendered, as a second part of its annual musical concert, "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," by S. Coleridge-Taylor. Throughout the rendition of this composition of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's there was frequent applause. This rendition of Hiawatha was presented in Tulane Theatre where we understand Negroes are not wanted at all, and are not admitted. And yet here was the singing of a composition by an author who is known to be a Negro. To plead ignorance of this fact would be culpable. It would have been very interesting if Mr. Coleridge-Taylor had been in the city during the rendition of his masterpiece. What sort of recognition would he have received? Would he have been recognized as the composer of the music of the evening and admitted to a seat of honor? It is not to be supposed that he would. In spite of his racial affiliation, his ability that has been recognized on two continents, won him a place on the evening's program and his color was forgotten, and still there are those who live in the past and say Negroes are ordained for "hewers of wood and drawers of water."

The Illiterate Negro as a Criminal not Entirely Responsible

By Professor James Applesses, Principal of St. Paul Graded School

It is a certain fact that the uncultured class furnishes the greater percentage of the criminal cases, and the courts are run largely by our own people. Now, why is this? There are two reasons for this; chiefly ignorance—which is the parent of intolerance, prejudice and fanaticism—is the first and foremost cause. Second, the encouragement that the Negro gets from his Anglo-Saxon brother. Now these are the two great principles upon which the criminal Negro acts depend.

The question arises just here, why are the Negroes in rural districts largely ignorant? The answer is easy, the lack of public schools. The few that are run are for the most part taught by unlettered teachers. The Great Teacher has beautifully said: "Let not the blind lead the blind, lest they both fall into the pit." And no one comprehends this Scripture better than the intelligent white, hence he keeps the Negro in the dark by a mild process, for he knows that if he is instructed by the ignorant he will remain ignorant. He bases his judgment upon this one great mathematical principle—things equal to the same thing are equal to each other.

Now, in all justice to humanity, we are bound to admit that our present standard—be it lofty or low—is due largely to our white brother, for he is the source from whence we must derive our knowledge; and our obtaining it depends upon how he measures it out to us. If he measures it out in large quantity our portion will be large, and, on the other hand, if in small quantity, our portion will be small. Now, the writer, and many more, know how the public schools are limited to two and three months in a year and the salaries from $20 to $30 per month. In the same district the whites' schools are run from six to nine months during the same periods, and salaries from $30 to $60 per month are paid, with thoroughly competent teachers; while the Negro has but a few good teachers here and there, like oases in a desert. It seems strange to one that the intelligents would care to live among the ignorants, when it is generally conceded that an ignorant man is a dangerous character. That the ignorants have always waged war upon each other is a question undeniable, for this was true of the Franks, the Normans, the Saxons, and the Saracens in the dark ages.

Now let us turn again to the theme, the Negro as a criminal. When the Negro commits a crime against his race—which is usually the case—the white man comes immediately to his rescue, and gets him out of his difficulty. This reminds me of two little boys quarreling and a much larger boy standing near by urging the quarrel, with the intention of cheering the one that "licks" the other with a "Hurrah. Tom is the best man!" Now what does our Anglo-Saxon brother say to us concerning our people's crimes? It is this: "You are the cause of your black brothers' crimes, for you cover crime for them." When in fact we have not a chance to conceal crime if we would, and I am sure we would not, for one would be as near our hearts as the other, and we would very aptly give each his reward; but, as I have said, we have not the opportunity for our white brother is the judge, the district attorney, the lawyer, the grand and petit jury, and, in fact, he is the law. But it is a strange thing to me to see how much sympathy a white man has for a Negro when he gets in trouble with another "darkey." He and his family are good old plantation hands, and the white man must do all he can "to get him out." And so the plantation Negroes frequently boast thus: "If I do you, my boss will take me out." I have no doubt that my readers will agree with me, when I say the Negro as a criminal is not entirely responsible.

Take our court here, in the parish of Nachitoches, out of fifty-eight cases 98 per cent. were Negroes. This shows that we are groping our way largely through drakness, for ever stumbling and seldom arising. What must be done to lessen the crimes among us? Simply this: Let us strive to secure the co-operation of the best elements of the whites, for there are some noble-minded men below the Mason and Dixon line, as well as above, and the noble men believe in uplifting their degraded brother in black. That these encourage the progressive blacks to go forward is a question indisputable. In a letter to his Excellency, Gov. N. C. Blanchard, of Louisiana, pointing out the evils of ignorance and asking his aid along this line, the writer received the following reply:

"State of Louisiana, Executive Department, Baton Rouge, May 20, 1904: Mr. James Applesses, Bermuda, La. My dear sir—I have yours of the 17th. I shall endeavor to do all possible to be done on the line indicated in your letter. I thank you for your kind commendation. Yours very truly, N. C. Blanchard."

While the Governor is the first citizen of the State, there are many others all over the entire Southland who believe in upbuilding the Negro intellectually. May the day hasten and draw nigh when our people will grow better intellectually, better morally, and better religiously.

The Washington Conference

By Rev. S. H. Norwood

The forty-second session of the Washington Conference opened in Winchester, Va., April 12, 1905, with Bishop David H. Moore, D. D. LL. D., presiding. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by the Bishop and Presiding Elders. At roll-call 128 of the 148 members answered to their names, W. R. J. Williams, John H. Randall and Horace C. Conor having died during the year and G. D. Pinkney withdrawn. S. H. Norwood was elected secretary, assisted by B. T. Perkins, J. W. Galloway, John M. Bean, E. P. Diggs, W. J. Tyler. Ernest S. Williams, Geo. E. Stephens, W. S. Jackson, Charles S. Briggs, Columbus C. Brown, John W. Carroll were elected statistical secretaries W. P. Ryder, assisted by M. W. Clair, C. G. Cummings, Elijah Ayers, Leander A. Carter, was elected treasurer. Any one acquainted with conferences and conventions could see that some special interests were stirring the members. Their faces and conduct showed it as they reached the seat of conference. These special interests were the organization of the conference, the pastorate of the mother church of the conference—Sharp street Memorial, of Baltimore—made vacant by the election of Dr. I. L. Thomas to the Field Agency of the Church Extension Society; the barring out ministers of other denominations unless properly recommended, the raising of the standard of the conference, the having Bishop David H. Moore, who had never before presided over a colored conference. On nomination of S. R. Hughes, the secretary of last session was elected on the second ballot. All eyes then turned to Sharp street. It was soon discovered that the effort was to escape said pastorate rather than to secure it. No promising young man wanted it. Dr. Brooks, of St. Mark, New York, would not even consider it, neither would promising young men like the pastors at Lynchburg and Roanoke. She went begging. Heavy debt was the cause of it. Rev. Wm. P. Ryder's health would not permit him to take it. The barring out of ministers of other denominations was championed by Rev. C. G. Cummings and Dr. J. W. E. Bowen. Cummings soon had his way, and the resolutions were adopted. Bishop Moore soon won the conference heart, kept it during the entire session, and carried it away with him. Never before had the Washington Conference had such a treat in a Bishop. Western diplomacy, Eastern frankness, and fatherly authority ruled the conference. Not one complaint was made against him, not even one word of dissatisfaction was heard. All would like a settled Bishopric if we could have Bishop David H. Moore. Much interest was manifested in the Presiding Elder of the Annapolis District, as he is the last one appointed. He carried his district forward by several hundred dollars in benevolences and several hundred in membership. The Presiding Eldership is much improved in his appoitment. He takes no part in factions and has no preferences—always taking a high ground. The Washington Conference is called the banner conference chiefly because of its location. Possibly, if so at all, it is because of its democratic spirit and practice. "The door of hope" is open to all. No one man carries it in his pocket. The conference is controlled by the majority. Your appointment—small or large—has nothing to do with your standing in conference. Your manhood fixes you. Resolution against the proposed "Jim Crowism" in Maryland, and against the rum traffic and Mormonism was adopted. Special resolution offered by Dr. D. W. Hays, looking after the graves of our dead comrades was adopted. The address of welcome made by Rev. C. E. Hodges, pastor of the church that entertained the conference, was so appropriate that it was ordered printed in the minutes, and the announcement of his re-appointment to John Mann church, as pastor for another year, was so well received that the Bishop had the entire audience join him in the applause. More satisfaction was expressed at the entertainment of this session than was ever remembered before by the oldest conference members. A strong resolution aiming to secure subscriptions enough to help make the SOUTHWESTERN self supporting was adopted. Encouraging resolutions concerning the Sunday School Union, the Epworth League, Conference Claimants, and Church Extension were adopted. One encouraging feature of the conference anniversaries was that each speaker's time was limited. A still more encouraging feature was the holding each speaker to his allotted time. The Aged Men and Women's Home of Baltimore was especially looked after.

Received on trial and full membership—Revs. Bradley Johnson, Wm. H. Kent, Charles S. Harper, Virgil Carter, Harry T. Jennings, John W. Jenkins, Benjamin Gross, Rutherford R. Robinson, Richard T. Parson, John W. Warren, and Elsie P. Moon were admitted on trial; J. B. Hopkins, Wm. E. Jefferson, Wm. H. Dean, Wm. N. Holt, C. C. Young, Joseph G. James were admitted to full membership.

Ordination—Joseph G. James, J. B. Hopkin, Wm. E. Jefferson, Wm. Lilly, R. R. Robinson, N. O. Osborne were ordained deacons; W. H.

Dean, Geo. A. Davis, Wm. J. Tyler, T. P. Thomas, Horace A. Johnson, David Johnson, and T. W. Garner were ordained elders.

Transfers—Elders: Rev. J. M. Roan was transferred from the North Carolina Conference, and Rev. Julian S. Carroll was transferred to the Delaware Conference.

Supernumeraries—Revs. Eden Hammond, Wm. Smith, T. W. Booth and J. W. Jackson were granted supernumerary relations, and G. D. Nickens was changed from effective to superannuate.

Conference Minutes—The Committee on Conference Minutes reported the minutes out of debt and a surplus of $140.00 in treasury. Last year the treasury had $69.00 in funds; before that time the minutes were generally in debt. On motion of N. M. Carroll, the Conference ordered 2,500 copies printed this year.

The Daughters of Conference, St. Paul and Sharp street, Baltimore; Asbury and Mt. Zion, of Washington, and others, sent in their usual moneys to help needy pastors. A resolution offered by the stewards impressing upon the Quarterly Conferences the necessity of using Conference Claimant Committees was adopted. The Bishop's sermon, on Sunday, at 11 a. m., was a masterly effort. Rev. Wm. P. Ryder's sermon at 8 p. m., was very able. Our official visitors, Dr. R. E. Jones, I. G. Penn, J. O. Spencer, C. C. Jacobs and others were warmly received and gladly heard. The editorship if the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE is highly commended by the conference, and everywhere favorably spoken of in our territory by both our and other people. I. G. Penn's work goes without saying. We expect much out of our I. L. Thomas. Those of us who oppose limited Bishops in the church are much pleased with Bishop I. B. Scott, M. C. B. Mason, R. E. Jones, C. C. Jacobs, and I. G. Penn, and will be of others if they fill out the bill. We are proud of Dr. A. J. Gill and the rest of the Baltimore Conference, who championed not merely our cause, but the cause of right. The total benevolent collection is $11,464.

The Washington Conference closes up its forty-second year as the greatest year of its life. Largest accession to membership, largest class admitted on trial for years, largest benevolent collection ever raised, largest collection for sale of minutes, largest amount ever paid to salary of pastors, more churches dedicated, more conference minutes to be published this year than ever. Nearly all the churches on the Washington district are getting ready for their spring rallies. The churches of Washington city closed the year with money in both trustees' and stewards' treasury. The pastors are requested at once to send on orders for minutes to S. H. Norwood, stating how many wanted, whether to be sent by mail or express , and to what place. Possibly the pastors of no other conference equal those of Washington in handling conference minutes.

League and Church Notes on the Wing

By Secretary I. Garland Penn

We are writing to SOUTHWESTERN readers from Princess Anne Academy, Princess Anne, Md., the most beautiful spot, it seems to us, there is in Maryland. We can't say the United States, although we wish we could, for there looms up before us the Clark University and Gammon Theological Seminary campus, which is a veritable park. You know we live next door to it, and when we wish a scene in nature, to give fresh life to worn out and tired frame, we just jump out of our office and take a stroll through those woods and over these grounds, thanking God, as we go, for Bishops Gilbert Haven and Henry W. Warren and Dr. Gammon, men of vision and men of soul, who wrought so well for us.

We did not start out, however, to write about our Georgia educational plant, as much as we think of it. It is beautiful Princess Anne of which we write, with level grassy plain, with just enough trees to give ample shade and not hide the buildings; with beautiful yellow buildings, the cynosure of all eyes on Pennsylvania trains moving by, eight a day, going and coming. We know nothing of the blending of colors, but one thing we know as a matter of fact, green grass in front of yellow painted buildings with green clover and wheat as a background, makes a show such as one never tires looking upon.

This is an ideal spot. You read of this institution in the SOUTHWESTERN of March 23d. If you did not, get the paper and read it. It is not only an ideal spot, but Principal Frank Trigg, A. M., is making everything about it ideal. To be in their chapel services is real spiritual uplift. How they do sing. We heard them sing the other morning, "Is Thy Heart Right With God?" and we went into a personal examination of our heart forthwith. It is hard to find new things these days. To use a big word, it is hard to find "innovations." We find some here so far as our experience goes. For example, the entire student body every evening in chapel service repeat from memory that chapter from First Corinthians upon Charity. We said "Good," of course, when we first heard them. There are other new things, but we have not the time nor space to mention them.

Principal Trigg is a practical school man—a pedagogue of thirty years' experience. He tolerates nothing poor, hence the school room work is up-to-date. Take our word for it, for we can't particularize. The faculty of the institution is among our best, and there seems to be perfect harmony among them, and all seeking to make good all that the principal claims for the institution. For instance, Principal Trigg brought several members of the faculty with him here, and they are still here.

Of course there is an Epworth League here, well organized, and the young people are in training for service in local churches when they go from here. We have told them of the Leagues at Claflin, Rust, Wiley, Samuel Huston, Clark, Philander-Smith and the rest, and they promise such usefulness as Leaguers as will put them fully in line with the best. Princess Anne is going to send a quintette to Denver for service at our International Convention. Wiley University, at Marshall, Texas, may also do the same. Negotiations for both are now on. There will be eight meeting places at Denver, so two quintettes will not be too many. The Delaware Conference, Bishop Berry presiding, by formal resolution voted to help the Princess Anne quintette go by paying transportation. Such Presiding Elders as Monroe, Moore, Brown, O'Connell, and Nutter, with such men as are in the Delaware Conference, will make good in acts and resolutions they pass. Texas always moves. Friend, get ready to go to Denver.

But back to Princess Anne. This institution is every whit a boarding school. There is no great city to send hundreds of day students. There are over one hundred and fifty boarders, representing eight different States. They look, sing, recite and act like the pick.

This is also an agricultural institution, receiving funds from the Government under the Morrill Act, so that special attention is given to agricultural. A beautiful farm of one hundred acres it is, all under cultivation, and to serve the purposes and plans of the institution, the management is compelled to rent other lands. There is a Farmers' Conference meeting here every year, when agricultural experts come down from Washington. A program, which came under our sight, reveals the practical nature of the Conference and how helpful it must be to the farmers of the peninsula.

Methodists on this Maryland-Virginia peninsula are as thick as they are in South Carolina and Mississippi. Throw a stone in a crowd anywhere, and you'll strike a Methodist. They ought to make Princess Anne a howling success, and judging from what has been done in the three years of Principal Trigg's leadership, it is but a question of time when it will grow beyond one's knowing. It is now growing by leaps and bounds.

THE DELAWARE CONFERENCE.

When we think of our noble band of brethren, in every Conference South, and how royally and loyally they stand back of our work at the Conference sessions, and how they the now writing seeking League information, it is hardly possible for us to particularize. All have done well and we shall do some particularizing in subsequent letters. The Delaware Conference went ahead of anything on General Epworth League Expenses. Well, Bishop Berry, our Epworth League president for World-Wide Methodism, presided. He was brotherly, spiritual, witty and forceful in all his talks, addresses and conversation. The Confenence is a great one—a self-supporting Conference in Missions. The Conference was held at Dover, Delaware, and was, according to Roosevcltian language, "strenuous." Three new presiding elders were made. Monroe, the old wheel horse and leader, in touch with Methodism at headquarters, and knowing the church like a book, was of course put back on the old Philadelphia District. Brown (J. R.) not known so well over the church now, but will be, because he is a man every inch and a success everywhere he has been, is another of the Presiding Elders. O'Connell, the scholar and benefactor, very radical in the sight of some when standing up straight for the real thing in righteousness, but nevertheless the emblem of purity whom thoughtful men have been made to feel glad to have him around, is the new Presiding Elder of the Salisbury District. What a record he brought up to Conference from big Ezion M. E. Church, at Wilmington, of which he was the pastor. With a membership of only 489, he reported $542 for all benevolences, over one dollar per member; 60 cash subscriptions for the SOUTHWESTERN; $36 in cash for the Bishop Scott Launch Fund and sold more Conference minutes in his church than any other. Think of one church taking $14.00 worth of Conference minutes. The accessions to Ezion last year were 52 members with 20 probationers. There is a well organized Epworth and Junior League, reporting what was asked for on General Epworth League Expenses, and also an up-to-date Sunday school. He has wrought well in one charge and can tell others how to do it from precept and not word only.

Remember, we are writing from Princess Anne, where Dr. O'Connell is helping through school three students, yet he and his blessed companion have none of their own. These are not the first people he has helped. Note, we called him a benefactor, and he is all of that.

The Delaware Conference starts out this year for new conquests. With Monroe for experience and tried ability in great responsibilities, Moore with sound judgment, Nutter with aggressiveness, Brown with great native as well as acquired strength, and O'Connell with matchless scholarship, that cabinet, with the great Delaware rank and file behind them this year, may eclipse all others in resuts for God and His church.

In the language of Bishop Foss to the church in the quadrennial address at the last General Conference, we say to old Delaware, Now, Forward, March!!!

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

March on My Soul

March on, my soul, nor like a laggard stay.
March swiftly on, yet err not from the way
Where all the nobly wise of old have trod—
The path of faith made by the sons of God.

Follow the marks that they have set beside
The narrow, cloud-swept track to be thy guide;
Follow and honor what the past has gained,
And forward still, that more may be attained.

Something to learn and something to forget:
Hold fast the good and seek the better yet;
Press on, and prove the pilgrim-hope of youth:
That creeds are milestones on the road to Truth.

—Henry Van Dyke.

The Ministry of Freshness

A religion of commandments grows burdensome. A religion of ceremonials grows wearisome. A religion of personal love is ever buoyant with the spring and variety of personal character. * * * Can you not see a special freshness and exuberance and simplicity of joy, a cordial welcoming of every new day as a new blessing in the life of the simplest and most childlike Christians, whose religion begins and ends in this: "I love Christ and He loves me; and I can please Him if I am pure and true and good; so I will try to be with all my might and His." The great ministry of freshness to the stale lives of men is the Holy Spirit, whose work is to take of the things of Christ and show them to us.

Think how the lives of the apostles must have been changed in regard to their freshness, from the time that they knew Christ! Many and many an evening Peter and James and John must have rocked in their boat on the lake, watching the sun sink below the hills that lay behind Capernaum, and wondered whether it would always rise on days as monotonous as those that they were living. But from the time that they looked up from the nets that they were mending, at the sound of the strange, sweet, authoritative voice that called them, and left their nets and followed the Stranger, we are sure that such wonderment was gone. They began to find life all new. Life and death both became to them full of those deep, pregnant meanings that are always thrilling us as we read the New Testament. They began to live eternal life, as they loved to call it, by which they meant not merely life that is to last forever—which is sometimes all that we mean by it—but life that, in every moment of it, was fresh and deep and vital with the divine companionship of Christ. "This is life eternal, to know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom Thou hast sent." The personal friendship had transfigured their dull routines and filled their mortal life with the fire of immortality. The divineness of Christianity is testified by nothing more than by its renewal, not once, but again and again, of the variety, the novelty, the spring of life.—From "Christ, the Life and Light," by Phillips Brooks.

To Day

We shall do so much in the years to come,
But what have we done to-day?
We shall give out gold in a princely sum,
But what did we give to-day?
We shall lift the heart and dry the tear,
We shall plant a hope in the place of fear,
We shall speak with words of love and cheer,
But what have we done to-day?

We shall be so kind in the after while,
But what have we been to-day?
We shall bring to each lonely life a smile,
But what have we brought to-day?
We shall give to truth a grander birth,
And to steadfast faith a deeper worth,
We shall feed the hungering souls of earth,
But whom had we fed to-day?

—Nixon Waterman.

Let Your Moderation be Known

Moderation is "sweet reasonablenss" and something more, even "considerateness." This most excellent gift should be earnestly coveted by all who desire to do the work of Christ in the spirit of Christ. So far as "forbearance" expresses its meaning, it is a virtue which needs to be developed to intensity in those whose temperament impels them to assert their principles to the extremest limit, to contend to the uttermost for everything that "is in the bond," and to speak slightingly of those who are said to be content with half measures because they prefer to work for a good which is high rather than to strain after a good which is higher, but more remote—not beyond the grasp of their desire, though, to their thinking, beyond their reach. "The forbearing man," says Aristotle, "is he who does not insist on his rights to the damage of others." Moderation prompts to the tempering of strict justice by considerations which may lead to what we suggestively call equitable concessions. From Christian service the spirit of vainglory and of partisanship will be exorcised when "intense moderation" is our animating motive. With Clement "this gentleness and equability, this 'sweet reasonableness,' was a passion." It will always commend Christianity to them that are without. Clement asks: "Who did not admire your sober and forbearing piety in Christ?" Wesley's desire should be ours: "I want an even strong desire, I want a calmly fervent zeal." Moderates who are not intense need to be reminded that "considerateness" is an active grace and prompts to energetic conduct. If extremists who lack moderation are in danger of becoming faddists, moderates who lack intensity are in danger of becoming ciphers. Nor can those who are content to be non-combatants complain that they do not count. The principle underlying "moderation" is the repression of self-assertion; and this is no mere passive virtue. "Even Christ pleased not Himself," and Christlike deeds are the outward and visible sign that the inward life is dominated by that "intense moderation" which puts effectual restraint on the clamorous demands of self. —J. G. Tasker.

The Evening Hymn

The village bells with silver chime
Come softened by the distant shore.
Though I have heard them many a time,
They never sung so sweet before.
A silence rests upon the hill,
A listening awe pervades the air;
The very flowers are shut and still,
And bowed as if in prayer.

And in this hushed and breathless close,
O'er earth and air and sky and sea,
That still, low voice in silence goes
Which speaks alone, great God, of thee.
The whispering leaves, the far-off brook,
The linnet's warble fainter grown,
The hive-bound bee, the lonely nook—
All these their Maker own.

THE YOUNG MAN'S PLACE IN THE CHURCH.

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: 1 John 2: 13.

The human family may be divided into three classes as to age, old men, young men, and children. In the church each of these classes should hold a place according to their different standings in the faith and ability to do the work of Christ. The young man's place in the church is very conspicuous, as it is between that of the father's and the children.

Childhood is the silvery dawn of life; young manhood is the fruitful summertime of life; old age is the golden harvest of life. Young men are more vigorous than old men, and much stronger than children; hence the importance of their place in the church of God. The young man's place in the world is no longer a question for further investigation. In the political world his place is fixed and filled by him; in the intellectual world it is settled forever; in the business world it is a certainty beyond dispute; in the military world his place is not contested; in the social world his place is alone by common consent. The young man's place in the church is worthy of thoughtful and prayerful consideration by himself, by each member of the Christian Church, and by each minister of the gospel. The young man's place in the church is in the Sunday school, in the Epworth League, in the prayer-meeting, the class-meeting—in fact, in every department of the church from the humblest to the highest office of honor and service.

Why is the young man's place in the church vacant? Is he indifferent? Is he more sinful than young momen? Is he less capable of receiving the truth of the gospel? Are the old men keeping him out? Are the children too noisy in their songs of praise? The young man's place in the church is not that which is occupied by old men, and is not that which is held by the children, but is that place between spring time and harvest of life. The young man is willing to fill his place in the world as statesman, patriot, scholar, citizen, but is unwilling to fill his place in the church as a faithful soldier of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Greenville, S. C.

God, in his inscrutable plans, often introduces into human lives some element of discomfort, unrest, or suffering—a thorn in the flesh that cannot be plucked out, a burden that must be borne, a daily cross not to be laid down. Some souls thus dealt with chafe against the trial; they contend with it till their sensibilities are lacerated by its cruel edges, and their hearts become morbid and bitter. They make its pressure one long and perpetual pain and poison. Others, recognizing the trial as heaven-sent, and therefore not to be escaped, accept it, not with joy indeed, but with meekness; and though it press hard and sharply, they wear it with a sweet patience that, day by day, enables them to carry it more easily. It even becomes the source of an inward development, the growth of a grace which at last proves to be the crowning, adorning tribute of their character—the special quality which, rounded out to perfect symmetry, reflects the beauty of heaven.—Selected.

YOUNG FRIENDS

The Singing of a Song

BY MISS EVA PRICE.

It is the Sabbath evening in a village by the sea. The church bells chime sweetly, and birds have gone to rest; the stars come out one by one, to keep watch, and the crickets are chirping merrily. Nature seems to know that this is the close of the holy Sabbath day and rests in beautiful quiet. Even while all nature seems to be drinking in the beauty and glory of the evening, some hearts aresad. Some are torn by anguish and pain and some watch by the bedside of dying loved ones.

In a cottage a mother watches her darling child as he gasps for breath. They tell her he is dying. But "No, this cannot be; my only child. Mother's darling, dying, no, no! He must not die!" She hopes with fear. "Oh, he must not die!" "Mama," whispers the child, "is God as good as they have taught me?" She does not answer. A battle is raging in her heart. Only a few days ago her husband was stricken with fever and died; and now her Tommy is going too. "Is God good?" is the question she asks her heart. "Yes," is the response; "yes, Tommy; God is good. He knows what is best for us. He cares for the birds and flowers and will care for His children even more. He loves us, Tommy." Silence reigned a few minutes. "Mamma, will you be lonely when I am gone? When Papa died you said I was all you had left?" "I know, my darling, but God will help me bear it." The little voice again was silent, and the short quick breathing alarms her; her heart beats faster and faster, while she breathes, "He must not die." The boy murmurs, "Mamma, I am so sleepy, please sing." Sing! Can she sing when her heart is bleeding. It is asking her too much, she cannot, and the little weak voice continues: "Poor mamma is tired; never mind, I'll be asleep in a few minutes."

Suddenly a soft, sweet strain is wafted by the breezes into the sick room.

"Nearer, my God, to Thee; nearer to Thee."

It is a maiden who is singing while walking aimlessly up and down the lane. Little does she know of the great joy she is giving to the little sufferer.

"Though like a wanderer, the sun gone down, Darkness be over me, my rest a stone;"

"Mamma," whispers Tommy, "God is good; you were too tired to sing and He sent some one to sing for me." And in a few minutes, closing his eyes upon the beloved mother, he is sleeping the sleep which knows no waking. The maiden continues to sing and the mother's grief is soothed by the song. She rests in His love and the hope that some day she too will join the loved ones gone before.

Again the maiden is singing.

"Then let the way appear, steps unto heaven;
All that Thou sendest me in mercy given.
Angels to beckon me, nearer my God to Thee,
Nearer my God to Thee, nearer to Thee."

This time the words fall upon the ear of an old man. He is pressing heavenward. Sometimes the way to him seems long and dreary. To-day he has seen his only son go down to a drunkard's grave, and his heart is torn with grief. As the words fall upon his ear and sink into his heart he murmurs. "These troubles only bring me nearer to God and show me His love, for whom He loveth He chasteneth." And then his heart sends back the sweet refrain:

"Nearer my God to Thee, nearer to Thee."

The International Epwort League Convention at Denver

BY SECRETARY I. GARLAND PENN.

The seventh International Epworth League Convention is right on us. Only about two months and Epworth Leaguers will be headed for Denver. Denver is making preparations ;indeed, when we were there in March, Secretary Williams, of the local Committee of Arrangements, said they wer ready if the Convention was to be held now. Ample arrangements are being made for the entertainment of our delegates from our ranks and the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church. Here are some of the matters our Presiding Elders, Ministers and Leagues should attend to at once:

LEAGUES ELECT DELEGATES.

The Convention is a mass body, and therefore any Methodist or Epworthian who will take interest and go will find welcome and profit by doing so. These great Conventions are generators of new life and blood, and he who would keep abreast of the times and fully informed and alive to the problem of the salvation of the world as Methodists are solving it, must attend these great spiritual meetings. Go to the power house and get charged. We are expecting every League to elect a delegate. Let our more than 2,500 Epworth League Chapters, on next Sunday, go through the operation of electing a delegate. If you elect the right person, there is every reason to believe he or she will go. Who is the right person? First, the most active, loyal and consecrated member among you. Second, the one who can help himself to go if you cannot raise all the money to send him. Third, the one who is so energetic, loyal, faithful and consecrated in his or her work at home, when no Convention is in sight, that now he has been elected and a Convention is near at hand, everybody is ready to help in an entertainment or give a few dimes to send that worker off, where he can see the big church in which he is working and bring back the tidings to enthuse and invigorate others.

TO PARENTS.

Parents, if you have a son or daughter whom you wish to make something of in the way of a man or woman with breadth of vision and soul, spend a little money on them and let them take this trip, see and hear something that will quicken and encourage them for all time. They will be going to a Christian meeting, with Christian people, under Christian auspices, surrounded by Christian influences. It will be the best tonic you can give them. They will meet the world in this Convention. Think of it, your boy or girl having the chance to mingle with thirty thousand people who "Look up and lift up." What an appetite it will give him or her to be somebody and to Look up; Lift up.

TO PROFESSIONAL PEOPLE, SCHOOL TEACHERS AND FRIENDS OF MEANS.

This is your chance. You ministers have been laboring hard, school teachers, physicians and others need a vacation. This is your chance. Denver nestling at the foot of the Rockies within a few hours' ride of Pike's Peak, where lays beautiful Colorado Springs, broad avenues and scenery that would delight the most fastidious, is just the trip you should have. Think of it, the rate will be less than one fare for the round trip and there will be special sleeping car facilities and everything that would make the trip desirable. In addition to this, what a Convention you'll have the chance to attend. The kev note of the Convention is "Evangelize." You'll hear more about the salvation of the world in four days than some of us have heard in the past years of our lives.

RATES AND BOARD AT THE CONVENTION.

The rate to the Convention is one fare for the round trip. In our next letter or circular we will give the actual amount of fare from given points in the South. The board and lodging will be 75 cents per day and two meals at the place of lodging, or one dollar per day and three meals.

SOME BIG EVENTS.

In addition to the regular program there is to a mammoth meeting of the people of our race in Denver on Sunday afternoon of Convention week. There are six or seven thousand colored people in Denver who desire an opportunity to hear some of the representative colored men and women in attendance upon the Convention. The Denver people are also preparing a social event of considerable magnitude, so that in a social way all delegates may have the opportunityy to see and know Denver's best colored citizens.

BENEVOLENCES

EDITED BY REV. E. B. BURROUGHS, D. D.

Methodist Home and Foreign Missions--The New Report

The eighty-sixth annual report of the Missionary Society—that for 1904—has just come from the press. It is a book of 591 pages, giving detailed reports from the domestic and foreign missions supported by the society, together with complete statistical statements of the society's work. A considerable improvement in the typographical appearance of the book is to be noticed, especially in the scheme of headings. The deivces used in the statistical summaries in order to make the information instantly accessible from varied points of view, have been increased in number. In addition to the usual introductory review of the year's progress, several pages are devoted to a resume of those actions of the last General Conference which pertain to missions.

The Andes Conference, the Central Provinces Mission Conference, the Philippine Islands Mission Conference, and the North Andes Mission appear among the Missions and Conferences for the first time as separate organizations.

The summary of statistics of the domestic missions shows that the sum of $523,297 was appropriated from the funds of the society to aid 3,948 pastoral charges which report 310,281 members and probationers, with $10,337,963 worth of property and $1,245,345 contributed for self-support. The summary of the foreign missions' statistics shows that the society has 276 men and 227 women missionaries, besides 231 women supported by the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. The missions report 905 natives ordained preachers, 6,719 other native workers, 226,563 members and probationers, or 10,827 more than were reported the previous year. There are nine universities and colleges, 21 theological or Bible traininng schools, 100 high schools and boarding schools, and 1,804 other elementary or day schools. These schools report 58, 632 pupils under instruction. The 4,928 Sabbath schools report 247,638 scholars. There are now 1,312 churches and chapels, besides 362 halls or other rented places of worship; and 644 parsonages or homes. The home church through the Missionary Society expended about $970,000 for the foreign missions. The missions themselves contributed for various purposes over $700,000. The average gifts per member throughout the whole church for missions advanced from 54.6 cents in 1903 to 55.6 cents in 1904.

"Heed how thou livest. Do no act by day
Which from the night shall drive thy peace away.
In months of sun so live that months of rain
Shall still be happy. Evermore restrain Evil and cherish good, so shall there be Another and a happier life for thee."

Why should a true and sincere appreciation be termed flattery and degraded to the level of insincere praise? Why should an individual be accused of acting from base and selfish policy because he feels the glow and warmth of social response.—Lillian Whiting.

It is the being that is the precious thing. Being is the mother to all little doings, as well as the grown-up deeds, and the mighty heroic sacrifice; and these little doings, like the good children of the house, make the bliss of it.—George MacDonald.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson VII—May 14, 1905. Title—"Jesus Prays for His Followers." (John 17: 13-26.) Golden Text—"I pray for them." (John 17: 9.)

Jesus closed his valedictory address with the words: "Be of good cheer; I have overcome the world." Then followed this High Priestly prayer. In it He speaks as though Gethsemane, the cross, and the tomb were past, and He was entering the presence of the Father. This is properly called a prayer, yet there are but few petitions in it. Jesus claims for Himself, as His right, His glorious investment; for His disciples He supplicates unity, preservation, and consecration; and for all future believers. He pleads for the same holy unity, and indirectly prays for the conversion of the world to the faith. There was never a more noble, lofty, holy prayer offered than this. Spencer on his deathbed desired it read to him the third time. He greatly loved it, but would never preach on it, because it seemed to him far above human understanding. This chapter, said Luther, "is so deep, so wide, so rich, that no one can sound its depth." It is very easy in language, but exceedingly deep in meaning. It teaches the plan of salvation wrought out by the death of Jesus; the presentation of this plan to the world—the preached gospel; and the fruits of this plan, or those that were to believe on Him.

I. The prayer of Jesus for Himself (1-5). Jesus was likely standing while this prayer was being offered. The address is very tender and touching. God is the Father of all creation; Father of the justified by regeneration; and the Father of Jesus as an only begotten Son. Every act of our Lord's life was under divine guidance, and fit precisely into the time alloted to it.

1. Jesus was a glorified Son. He had highly honored the Father by finishing the work the Lord had given Him to do. He had completed the plan of salvation. And now He asks the Father to glorify Him with the glory He had with God before the world was, that is, with the Father's own glory. The glory of God is that intolerable brightness with which Jehovah is pleased to shroud Himself. It was given to Jesus for a short while during His transfiguration on the Mount. Moses and Stephen at certain times possessed it in a very limited sense. God glorified Jesus by raising Him from the dead, by receiving Him into heaven, and by sending the Holy Spirit in His name.

2. Jesus was a highly endowed Son, for "power over all flesh" was given to Him. A month later Jesus said: "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth." Power is ability to think, to speak, and to act. Power over "all flesh" means ability to control the mind, soul, and body of the entire human family. It also refers to the raising of His own body from the dead, and the calling forth of our sleeping dust from the grave at the end of the world.

3. Jesus was a life-giving Son. He was to "give eternal life to as many as the Father had given Him." Life with man is power to think, speak and act. Eternal life is that higher life imparted in conversion: in being born of the Spirit. It implies faith, repentance, prayer, and entire consecration. This eternal life is secured by knowing God as the only true God, and by knowing Jesus Christ whom He has sent as the only true Messiah. Job said: "Acquaint now thyself with God and be at peace, and thereby good shall come unto thee." This is the only place in the Bible where our Lord calls Himself Jesus Christ. Jesus, the Savior of men; Christ, the Messiah, or the anointed Prophet, Priest, and King.

II. Jesus prays for His apostles (6-19). 1. The apostles belonged to the Lord, and to Jesus: "Thine they were and thou gavest them to me." All people belong to God by creation. He has made them. They are the workmanship of His hands: the sheep of His pasture. Creation implies the right and ability to govern. In the work of creation God commanded and it was done, He spoke and it stood fast. All belong to God by preservation. He provides for man. He does not support man independent of himself, but through the established laws of nature. He has put life in the seed, and productive power in the earth. He has given the seed time and the harvest: the sunshine and the shower. He has given man mind to contrive, and strength to perform. And He has taught him to sow and to reap. Truly God is man's benefactor. But all do not belong to God by redemption. Only those who have been saved from sin are ransomed. We should distinguish between atonement and redemption. The one is for sin, and the other is from sin. All have been atoned for, but only the saved have been redeemed.

2. The apostles were in danger of perishing. Judas had fallen, and Peter soon after this denied his Lord. They were in the world. The world was full of evil. It would defeat the plans of God if it could. Jesus did not ask the Father to take them out of the world, but to keep them from the evil that is in it. It was possible for them to have fallen. The devil desired to have them that he might sift them as wheat. Peter followed afar off, got into bad company, and was overtaken in a fault. Any believer may apostatize by harboring evil thoughts, by neglecting Christian duties, and by transgressing laws.

3. The apostles could be sanctified through the truth. Jesus did not say the word of God contained the truth, but: "Thy word is truth." Truth is fact. Truth may be distinguished from falsehood by its reasonableness, by the harmony of its parts, by the interest those who tell it have in it, and by the moral weight of those who relate it. Now if we apply these rules to the word of God we will see that the parts of which it is composed harmonize; that its theme—the redemption of the world by Jesus Christ—is reasonable; that those who taught it had no interest in it except the betterment of man; and that they were men of solid the revealed will of God. To the Old Testament moral worth. The "word" here likely refers to then, but to all the Bible now. It has law, history, biography, prophecy, and gospel. To sanctify, when applied to inanimate objects, means to "set apart as holy;" but when applied to man it means, set apart for a holy purpose, and also cleansed from sin to bring him in harmony with the holy purpose for which he is set apart. Sanctification here refers to that work done in man which fits him to preach the gospel: which makes him dead unto the world and alive unto God. It includes justification, regeneration, adoption, assurance, and perfect freedom from sin.

III. Jesus prays for all believers (20-26). In this part of the prayer we have a message to the world. 1. "Their word," the gospel, was to be preached. It includes everything that may be found in the Bible concerning Jesus. The prophecies that foretold His coming, His life on earth, His death, resurrection, ascension, intercession, return, judgment, rewards, and punishment. 2. This gospel must be believed: this story when told must be credited as true. This faith must be strong enough to prevent the wrong and enforce the right. All the blessings of the gospel are given through faith. It is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. Through it the elders obtained a good report. Pardon, cleansing, adoption, witness of Spirit, sanctification, comfort in death, and all the joys of heaven are results of faith. 3. One effect of this gospel is unity among believers: "That they may be one as we are one." "Amid every diversity there is, among genuine Christians, a true unity. One touch of feeling makes the whole world akin. Universal man, and man alone has the moral emotion, the religious susceptibility, the power to possess an idea of the infinite God. So amid every outward diversity, there is in the Christian body, the unity of the Spirit. The attempt has been made to bring that body under one human head, the Pope, and what has been the result? The head became ambitious, corrupt, despotic, infidel, and bloody." (Whedon.) 4. Another result of this gospel will be heaven. Jesus prayed that they might be with Him where He was, that is, in glory.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

BY REV. J. H. SCOTT, D. D.

Lesson Topic, May 14th.

How Have We Builded During This League Year

Scripture Reference.—Matt. 7, 24-27; 1 Cor. 3, 11-15; Eph. 2, 19-22.

Sixteenth Anniversary.—This is the Epworth League's sixteenth mile post. What has been accomplished in these years? Has real advancement in Christlike character and helpfulness been made? Since the birth of the league in 1889 many chapters have been organized, many conventions held and many young people gathered into the church. With increased systematic study of God's word and of the missions fields, many young people have been stirred to activity. Many have seen the blessings God has poured out upon us. He has honored us as his agents in saving our fellowmen and scattering scriptural holiness. Out of the Epworth League have gone men and women to fill official positions in Church and State. Consecrated leaders for the work in home and foreign fields have been reared. We may well give thanks and say, "What hath God wrought?"

Scripture Lesson.—Our first Bible reference gives an account of two builders distinguished by the foundations upon which they build and the durability of their structures. One digs and makes sure of a good solid foundation. The other builds anywhere and takes no pains to secure a firm base for his structure. He builds upon the sand. The storm tests both buildings. The one with good foundation stands, the other falls.

This represents two types of character. One seeks and finds out God's will and does it; the other ignores God's will. One bases his character upon obedience to Christ; the other on what may seem profitable. The storms of life test each with the result that the former stands and the latter falls.

The permanence of our League Chapters depends on whether we build on the sure foundation of hearing and obeying Christ. In our second reference the Apostle Paul insists that Christ is the only sure foundation. Even on this sure foundation some build only wood, hay, and stubble, while others build with gold, silver and precious stones. Each League Chapter may examine its year's work and see with what material it has been building.

In Ephesians, the Apostle compares us to a building "fitly framed together" for the abode of God.

Workers and the Work.—We are all in the work of character building. Each chapter is making its record. Whether we would or not we are each building our character and influence. If we are teaching by both precept and example "the truth as it is in Jesus," we are building a substantial structure. It will last. Our one business is to fashion our lives in likeness to Christ. The one work of every chapter is to build holy characters. We cannot afford to be contented with building huts when he can erect temples.

2. Whereon are we building? The foundation is of first importance. It matters not how grand the superstructure, the building is unsafe if the foundation is sandy, insecure. There is only one sure foundation and that is Jesus Christ. "All other ground is sinking sand." For league and leaguers the hope of permanent character must be built "on nothing less that Jesus' blood and righteousness."

3. How are we building? What material are we using? Not all who are building on Christ are using durable material. Some use wood, hay, stubble; they are not wise in their teaching nor profitable in their example; they do not manifest the Christlike spirit. Others use gold and silver and precious stones; they teach by word and life "the solid and permanent and soul-satisfying truths which are revealed to us in Jesus Christ."

Chester, Pa.

Easter Reports

Corinth, Miss.—Our pastor at this point, Rev. H. B. Hart, with the assistance of Dr. E. M. Jones, Field Agent of the Sunday School Union, raised on Easter Sunday a magnificent collection of $300.00.

Grenada, Miss.—Rev. E. C. F. Troupe, pastor in charge at this point, writes that success attended their efforts on Easter. Collection, $14.50.

Holly Springs, Miss.—Easter was duly observed at Asbury. The church was appropriately decorated and the Easter program was well rendered and heartily appreciated by a very large audience. The superintendent, E. H. McKissack, and teachers are deserving of much credit for their good work. Collection, $250.10.

Harriston, Miss.—Easter Sunday was a happy day for the members and friends of Union Church, Rev. A. Howze, pastor. The program was carried out to the letter. Collection, $25.00.

Columbus, Miss.—This charge reports an Easter collection of $103,25, Rev. J. M. Thompson, pastor.

Shreveport, La.—Easter was a glorious day at St. Paul. The collection raised is double that of last year. Two persons were received into the church. Dr. G. G. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society, who assisted the pastor, Rev. B. M. Hubbard, preached a strong and logical sermon at night.

Mountain City, Tenn.—Easter was observed by our Sunday School at this point, Rev. W. M. Johnson, pastor. Collection, $4.00.

Tallapoosa, Ga.—The program, under the direction of Mrs. Mary C. Harper, was rendered in a most excellent manner. Collection for the circuit, Rev. J. H. Brandon, pastor, amounted to $26.00.

Greenville, Ga.—On Easter day the presiding elder, Rev. R. R. O'Neal, preached two able sermons. The Easter program was well rendered. The pastor, Rev. Isaac T. Griner, reports $86.00 raised for all purposes. Benevolence, $63.00.

Birmingham, Ala.—The missionary program, "Light and Life," was rendered on last Sunday to the satisfaction of all present and Enon Church, Rev. B. G. Smith, pastor, collected $10.00.

Churchville, Tenn.—The superintendent of Stanley Chapel, Mrs. J. G. Isabell, says: "We had a grand time on Easter. The spirit of the Lord was with us. Our program was rendered at night in the presence of a large audience. Collection, $13.39."

Marion, Ala.—Our pastor here, Rev. A. G. Glenn, writes that the Easter program was rendered on his charge in a manner that gave great delight to the large congregation in attendance. Collected for missions, $20.00.

Baton Rouge, La.—The pastor, Rev. M. J. Dyer, says that very good Easter services were held. The revival is progressing. Four persons have been converted up to date and two reclaimed.

Vaiden, Miss.—Gratifying results crowned the efforts of this people on Easter, Rev. Green Spencer, pastor. Raised for missions: Vaiden charge, $20; Pilgrim's Rest, $8.00; West Station, $6.00; total collected for all purposes, $41.80.

Yazoo City, Miss.—Easter was observed to the letter in St. Stephens M. E. Church, Rev. A. J. McNair pastor. The Sunday school rendered its program well. Mr. M. J. Tucker, the superintendent, is to be commended for having so well drilled the children. Raised for missions $67.41, and expect to reach the $100.00 line this year.

St. Augustine, Fla.—Easter was observed in royal style. The programme was excellently rendered by the children in the evening under the direction of our efficient superintendent, Mr. J. T. McKinney, assisted by the talented musician, Mr. A. R. Grant. The decorations by Mr. and Mrs. L. Whaley were beautiful. The cause of missions was ably presented by the pastor, Rev. Scott Bartley. Collection for the day, $45.80.

Franklin, La.—The program was rendered very nicely at Asbury Church, Rev. A. B. Worsham pastor. Wm. Kennedy, our superintendent, deserves much credit for his good work. The music was under the direction of Mrs. Lydia Collins. The spiritual tide ran high all day. Collection excellent.

St. Martinsville, La.—Easter was to Rev. N. R. Randolph and his loyal members a glorious day. He writes that $2.00 was raised.

Durant, Miss.—From Rev. W. H. Whitlock we learn that owing to his helpful corps of teachers, together with the efficient organist and the willing children, Easter was a day to be remembered. $50 was the collection.

Schiever, La.—A bright, beautiful day was Easter at this place, and Rev. Thos. Williams writes that $37.50 was the collection for the day.

Houston, Texas.—A glorious Easter gladdened the hearts of the people here. Dr. R. E. Jones, of the SOUTHWESTERN, preached a beautiful sermon at 3:00 and the day closed, writes Rev. J. O. Williams, with the children's Easter exercises and a collection of $25.00 for missions. Total collection, $134.25.

Brandon, Miss.—"Easter was fittingly observed here," writes Rev. N. N. Sidney, "and a collection of $12.35 was raised."

Walhalla, S. C.—Very beautiful was Easter Sabbath with its music and flowers. The pastor preached a sermon that revived the souls of his listeners. The collection for the day was $15.00.

Pineville, La.—Soul-winning was not neglected on Easter day and during the ser[illegible], writes Rev. J. C. Brown, "seven precious souls came forward for prayer and two joined the church."

Clinton, La.—Under the leadership of the superintendent, S. B. Noble, Easter morning, writes Rev. J. Tutson, was celebrated and there were raised by the Sunday school $5.00.

Oliver Spring, Tenn.—From this place comes the good news that the program was carried out in full and through Miss Emma Bernett we learn that the collection was $3.50.

Covington, La.—Easter Sabbath was appropriately celebrated at this place and soul preaching resulted in ten conversions. Rev. B. R. Jackson writes us that $6.00 was collected for missions.

Melville, La.—At this place Easter was beautifully celebrated. Rev. E. V. Taylor led his people to great things and they made their collection $75.00.

Moss Point, Miss.—With a beautiful day to be happy in praising the Risen Lord and with beautiful music and flowers Bro. S. H. Wallace, superintendent of the Sunday School, writes us that his willing children raised $62.05 for missions.

Leesville, La.—Here were the Easter services well attended. Brother L. C. Conerly writes us that $10.00 were raised for missions and the total collection was $30.00.

Reidsville, N. C.—Glorious music celebrated Easter Sabbath. Rev. R. N. Winchester writes us the program was satisfactory, as was also the collection of $22.04.

Wood Lawn, La.—The president of the Epworth League, Bro. Morrison Rines, writes that Easter celebration began at Woodlawn at 4 o'colck in the morning and came to a close at night with $21.75 as an offering for the day.

Rome, Ga.—"The members and friends made Easter Sabbath at this place a continual beautiful service," writes Bro. H. Scott. Collection for the day was $105.00.

Lake Charles, La.—Easter was observed according to program. Much credit is due Miss G. M. Ramsay, Prof. McDonald and J. B. Franklin for the success of the same. The seating capacity of the church was taxed. Eight persons came to the altar for prayer. Rev. B. J. Reddix has charge of this work.

Elliott, Miss.—Easter services were observed at Green's Chapel and Payne's Chapel, Rev. J. W. Terrell, pastor, to the letter. The first church raised $6.05; the second church, $10.80; total, $16.85. This is credited to the faithful superintendents, R. H. Johnson and Mrs. L. V. Terrell.

Fayette, Miss.—Easter services began here with a glorious love-feast at 8 o'clock a. m. One precious soul was saved and one person united with the church. The excellent rendition of the missionary program by the children was due largely to the efforts of Mrs. Howard and Miss Nannie Watts. The pastor, Rev. P. H. Rembert reports $40.00 raised for missions.

Spider, La.—Splendid Easter services at Shady Grove and St. Matthew Churches, Rev. T. P. Norris, pastor. Raised for missions, $12.02.

Clifton, Tenn.—Easter day was a blessing to the membership and friends at this point. The resurrection sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. A. Ransom, at 11 a. m. At 2:30 p. m. the Easter program was rendered. Missionary collection, $8.39.

Winona, Miss.—The Easter service was rendered according to the program. The pastor, Rev. D. A. Bragg, reports $40.50 for missions.

Ellisville, Miss.—The churches on this work, Ellisville and Laurel, Rev. L. L. Shumpert, pastor, raised on Easter Sunday, $7.53 and $10.00 respectively.

Heidelberg, Miss.—Easter services were carried out in full by our membership at Heidelberg, Rev. W. S. Davis, pastor. The decorations were beautiful. A large congregation was present. Collection, $7.26.

Centreville, La.—From Fitzgerald M. E. Church, Rev. Chas. C. Landry, pastor: "Easter was a glorious day with us. Collection for all purposes, $44.75.

A Serious Neglect

One of the very worst neglects that any Christian may be blamable for is that of letting the Bible go unread for a considerable length of time. I think that it is impossible for any human being to say by actual knowledge how great the extent of this neglect is; but it seems, judging from the observations of many people, that it is fearfully extensive. The celebrated Dr. Maclaren, of England, in a sermon, says: "I believe that there are a terribly large number of professing Christians, and good people after a fashion, whose Bibles are as clean to-day, except on one or two favorite pages, as they were when they came out of the bookseller's shop, years and years ago. You will never be strong Christians, you will never be happy ones, until you make conscience of the study of God's word and continue steadfastly in the apostles' teaching. You may produce plenty of emotional Christianity, and of busy, and sometimes fussy, work without it, but you will not get depth. I sometimes think that the complaint of the writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews might be turned upside down nowadays. He says: 'When, for the time, ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again, which be the first principles.' Nowadays we might say in Sunday schools and other places of church work: 'When, for the time, ye ought to be learners, ye have taken to teaching before you know what you are teaching, and so neither you nor your scholars will profit much.' The vase should be full before you empty it." I am certain that no Christian can be spiritually-minded, in a broad and deep sense, unless he very often zealously reads and ponders the Bible. I am also sure that if a Christian has become lukewarm and lean he will become markedly revived and enlarged in life by giving profound attention to the spiritual teachings of the Word. Moreover, he who is thoroughly instructed in the knowledge of God's truth will not be led astray by Christian Science or Dowieism. Sink yourself deeply in Bible truth!

C. H. WETHERBE.

Chide your soul little; cheer it much. Cheer it with thoughts, and words, and actions of a wise, humane, noble, and heavenly sort. Fret not against nor brood over the limitations of your lot, but consider its divine possibilities. What you can do, let that have your heart, and mind, and strength.—Nicholas E. Boyd.

It is a sad weakness in us, after all, that the thought of man's death hallows him anew to us; as if life were not sacred, too—as if it were comparatively a light thing to fail in love and reverence to the brother who has to climb the whole toilsome steep with us, and all our tears and tenderness were due to the one who is spared that hard journey.—George Eliot.

WHISKEY AT THE BOTTOM

The cause of prohibition has been gaining ground of late in the state of Texas, as well as in other states of the South, under the leadership of the local optionists. Whiskey has been driven out of a number of counties and the number of dry counties has been increased from time to time. Waller county, of which Hempstead is the county seat, had experienced a recent election in which the local optionists won by a large majority. Some days after the election a meeting was held in the county court house looking toward the formulation of the request to the Governor for state assistance so that the law would be enforced. The meeting was interrupted by an anti-prohibitionist who, it is said, was under the influence of whiskey. A general disturbance ensued when there was a brandishing and firing of guns and more than one hundred shots were fired. When quiet was restored it was found that Congressman Pinckney, in attempting to restore order was killed and three other citizens besides. It is said that the cause of prohibition has gained considerable ground by this unwarranted and frightful tragedy. This is not the first time that whiskey has been at the bottom of the desolation of homes. It plays havoc with civilization, homes and life wherever it is permitted to run riot. There is but one way to deal with the liquor question and that is, uncompromising and relentless opposition.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON AT MERIDIAN ACADEMY

Dr. F. H. Knight, President of New Orleans University, said at the recent session of the Mississippi Conference that if Dr. W. W. Lucus were placed on an island, as Robinson Crusoe was, he would soon build up a great institution. The rapid growth of Meridian Academy seems to justify that strong assertion. Doctor Lucus is just completing his second year as president of this school and during that time one lot has been purchased and paid for, one two-story building has been erected and paid for, and negotiations are on for one-half of one of the finest blocks in Meridian, and, to crown all, Dr. Booker T. Washington has been secured to speak at the closing exercises which will take place about the last of May. We will make further announcement of the whole program later; but simply say here that every Negro within a reasonable distance who can get to Meridian, should make every effort to see this great man. There is but one Booker T. Washington, and all the Negroes of Mississippi are honored in his visit to the state. Dr. Lucus after the best.

There are in the United States, with its population of 80,000,000, 16,000,000 pupils in the public schools; 1,500,000 pupils in private schools, and probably 150,000 students in colleges and universities. Omitting the number enrolled in the blind and deaf state institutions and those in reform schools, this gives us a school enrollment of 17,650,000.

MRS. LUCY B. THURMAN,

Mrs. Lucy B. Thurman, National Superintendent of Work Among Colored People and Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, of the National Association of Colored Women, will spend the month of May in this state.

Mrs. Thurman is a genial and talented speaker of national reputation.

It has been her lot to address white audiences more frequently than her own people, and she meets an enthusiastic reception from all.

She will deliver several free lectures during the latter part of the month of May, in our city churches, under the auspices of the Louisiana Willard W. C. T. U., Mrs. Frances A. Joseph, State President; Miss E. Norrington, State Secretary.

Mrs. Thurman is one of the most representative women of the race and is doing great good. She is most cordially received at all points. She visited in Texas recently and made a great impression. She is to fill the following engagements in Louisiana: Shreveport, May 1, 2 and 3; Pelican, May 4 and 5; Pleasant Hill, May 6, 7 and 8; Alexandria, May 9; Monroe, May 10, 11 and 12; Columbia, May 13 and 14; Alexandria, May 15 and 16; Bunkie, May 17 and 18; Plaquemine, May 19; Donldsonville, May 20; Napoleonville, May 21; Thibodaux, May 22; New Orleans, May 23 to 28.

MRS. LUCY B. THURMAN,

JACKSON, MICH.

Superintendent of Work Among Colored People for the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

PEARLINGTON PEARLS

Recently we spent a few hours in Pearlington, Miss., a thriving little town of about 1,000 population, with 60 per cent. more or less colored, almost all of whom own their own homes. Mr. E. W. Maxon, of much respect, is postmaster. Among those prominent as property possessors are: J. & F. Richardson; the former owns and manages a sawmill, the latter a first-class restaurant; Capt. McCann, J. Consley, Jules Gaines, E. Peters, L. Slade, S. Snell, J. A. Monday, E. R. Jordan, J. W. Winston, L. C. Williams, H. L. Vaultz, Mrs. Davis, and many others. Mr. Vaultz conducts a restaurant doing a good business.

The denominations have creditable churches. We attended the annual sermon of the public schools, which was preached in the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Rev. F. Smith is pastor. Bro. Smith was not present, being very ill. He and Mrs. Smith are doing good work. The largest part of the audience were bright young children. The choir was composed of a fine set of young girls, Mr. H. L. Vaultz directing and presiding at the organ. The singing was inspiring. Prof. G. W. Brown, principal of the school, holds a first-grade life certificate for the state of Mississippi. He is much loved and trusted by all. He and his faithful assistant, Mrs. H. L. Vaultz, have made great improvements in the school work; they have awakened a new interest in education. The teachers are not adequately paid and facilities are not commensurate with the growth of educable children. To meet this need a number of ladies formed a co-operative board and have rendered great service to the school and town. Their names are: Mesdames A. Winston, J. A. Monday, M. Hurger, M. Thomas, L. C. Williams.

The folks of Pearlington are liberal, hospitable and kind. I was entertained by Mrs. L. C. Williams, a milliner by trade, owning a number of valuable properties about the city. Peaceful relation between all inhabitants obtains.

AGGRESSIVE EVANGELISM

The General Conference Commission upon aggressive evangelism earnestly desires that the secretaries of the various annual conferences send the names, and, if possible, the addresses, of all members of the Annual Conference Sub-Commissions to the General Secretary, Rev. J. P. Brushingham, 831 Millard Avenue, Chicago.

It will also greatly facilitate the work of the commission if the names and addresses of members of the City and District Sub-Commissions be also forwarded.

Russia is still groaning under her internal dissension, and the constant conflict between the troops and working men operates no little in helping anti-Russian sentiment throughout the world. The killing and wounding of more than one hundred unarmed working men on Monday of this week by the government troops was most unjustifiable. Not only does it appear that the working men were in an orderly demonstration, but when fired upon many were shot in the back. Russia has two armies to fight, one at home and the other at the front, and foreigners sympathize with both of Russia's antagonists.

The commencement exercises of Philander Smith College will begin on May 11 with the address to the commercial class by Rev. H. C. Beasley, of Little Rock, Ark. The baccalaureate sermon and the annual lecture will be delivered by Rev. I. L. Thomas, D. D., of Baltimore, Md., on Sunday, May 14, and Rev. T. R. Wamble, of Fort Smith, Ark., will preach the annual sermon at 3 p. m. of the same day. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen will deliver an address before the Adeline Smith Industrial Home on Tuesday evening, May 16, and on Thursday morning, May 18, will deliver the commencement address before the graduating class of the College Department.

The commencement dates for Rust University are May 12th to 16th. Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason will address the literary societies on May 12th. President W. W. Foster, Jr., will deliver the baccalaureate sermon the following Sunday. The university sermon is to be preached by Rev. Richard Rust, D. D., of Cincinnati, the same Sunday, and the annual sermon will be delivered by Rev. T. W. Davis, of Durant, Miss.

Rev. J. Mercer Johnson, D. D., pastor of Ebenezer Methodist Episcopal Church, Marshall, Texas, will deliver the annual address before the Young Men's Christian Association of Langston University, Langston, Okla., and will also deliver his famous address on "Toussaint L'Overture" before the university.

Personal and General.

Rev. J. I. Garrett desires correspondents to address him, R. F. D. No. 1, Wesson, Miss.

Twin boys were welcomed into the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. Howze, of Harriston, Miss., on April 7th.

Rev. C. T. Lewis, statistical secretary of the Lexington Conference and pastor of Asbury Temple, Lexington, Ky., died Monday, April 24.

From Mt. Vernon Methodist Episcopal Church, Houston, Texas, comes the news of twenty conversions as a result of its recent revival.

Rev. A. T. Stephens, pastor at Brinkley, Ark., has been able to hold only two services since conference. There has been a quarantine on account of smallpox.

Major General Fitzhugh Lee (retired) of the United States army, died suddenly in Washington, D. C., the evening of April 28th, after an eventful and distinguished career.

The Rev. Pierre Landry, of Baldwin, and his daughter, Mrs. I. M. Terrell, of Fort Worth, Texas, spent one day of last week with the Rev. and Mrs. Chas. C. Landry, of Centerville.

A very pleasant affair was the reception tendered Rev. Elam A. White, the new presiding elder of the Ohio District, on Monday night, April 24th, in Cory Methodist Episcopal Church, Cleveland, Ohio. An interesting program was rendered.

Rev. McD. Spencer is conducting the affairs of the Old Folks' Home and Industrial School of Blackshear, Ga., with commendable enterprise and success. Miss L. O. Harris, the preceptress, and Miss Katie Sessions are among those who are helping him in this great work.

Bishop T. D. Bratton, D. D., Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the state of Mississippi, will deliver the annual sermon of the Okolona Industrial School, Okolona, Miss., May 14th, and Dr. Royal W. Raymond, of Stratford, Conn., will deliver the annual address.

Mr. John J. Winston, a leading and reputable business man and mechanic, of this city, was united in marriage to Miss Juanita Lloyd on Thursday, April 27th, at the residence of the bride's parents, 2805 Melpomene street, this city. The SOUTHWESTERN extends warm congratulations.

The commencement of Wiley University begins on May 8th and closes May 17th. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Rev. F. F. Fitch, B. D., of Marshall, Tex., and the annual sermon by Rev. J. O. Williams, pastor of Mt. Vernon Church, Houston, Tex. The commencement address will be delivered by Mr. Emmett J. Scott, of Tuskegee, Ala.

The annual commencement of the Training School for Missionaries and Deaconesses, Washington, D. C., will be held May 19-24. Rev. J. C. Nicholson, D. D., will deliver the anniversary sermon at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church on May 21st. Bishop Cranston will address the graduating class and award the diplomas on Wednesday evening, May 24th.

Rev. Wm. R. Chase, pastor St. Charles Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, this city, on Easter preached a forceful and interesting sermon, contrasting in a striking manner Jesus with other religious founders. The sermon was a simple, convincing argument for the resurrection of Christ based upon the fact of his personal presence and energy in the life of his adherents.

Rev. E. R. Graverly, a returned missionary from Africa, is in this country making preparations to serve as medical missionary in Africa. He is serving a small appointment near Nashville, Tenn. Brother Graverly would be pleased to fill appointments for mid-week lectures and other services. The brethren who make engagements with Brother Graverly will be aiding the cause of African evangelization.

The Bishops of our church held their semi-annual meeting last week in Louisville, Ky. The Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, also met in the same city in connection with the meeting of their Board of Church Extension. A reception was given the Bishops of both churches April 29, which was the first time the Bishops of the two churches have met together for a number of years.

Rev. J. M. Shumpert, D. D., presiding elder of the Meridian District, Mississippi Conference, after a short stay in Indianapolis, Ind., left on Monday, April 24th, for Cincinnati, Ohio, where he went to attend the meeting of the Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid Society. Dr. Shumpert is to deliver the annual address at the Emancipation celebration to be held at Columbus, Miss., May 8th, for which extensive preparations are being made.

On Thursday evening, April 27th, at the close of the course of lectures delivered for the benefit of the theological department of Edward Waters College, Jacksonville, Fla., under the direction of Bishop B. T. Tanner, an interesting meeting was held. Rev. J. S. Todd, D. D., pastor of our church in Jacksonville, was introduced by the Bishop, and spoke at length, giving many historical facts, upon the general subject, "The Religious Future of the Negro."

Invitations are out for the commencement of Alcorn Agricultural and Mechanical College of Mississippi. The graduating class consists of nine young men, who will receive the degree of Bachelor of Science. There are also a number of graduates from the Industrial Department as well as 64 from the Preparatory Department. Rev. W. F. Waters, of the SOUTHWESTERN, will preach the baccalaureate sermon, and Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason will deliver the annual address.

Rev. A. R. Bamford, of the American Missionary Board, in an article which appears in the April number of the American Missionary, says: "I remember that Benjamin Kidd, lecturing some years ago, made this statement: 'I have heard all the great orators of the world, including Gladstone and John Bright, and the most magnificent triumph of oratory to which I ever listened was an address of Booker T. Washington in Chicago.' Benjamin Kidd, author of 'Social Evolution,' is a competent witness."

Rev. N. M. Carroll, D. D., the wheel horse of the Washington Conference, closed a most successful year as pastor of Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Annapolis, Md. His report for the year shows that he has been abundant in labors, delivering 156 sermons, attending 102 prayer meetings, conducting 34 funerals and making 675 visits. During the year $2,940 were raised for the trustees and $1,583 for other purposes. The church is now free of debt. Dr. Carroll was returned for the second year and was most cordially received.

Dr. I. L. Thomas, Field Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, Methodist Episcopal Church, is now ready to book engagements for services for Church Extension Conferences at central places, district conferences, special rallies on church extension loans, Young People's conventions, dedication of churches, church extension annual collections, addresses and sermons to students, preachers' meetings, etc. Dr. Thomas' service will be greatly in demand. Those who desire to secure him would do well to address him at once at South Atlanta Station, Atlanta, Ga.

As an indication of the love and esteem in which he is held, Rev. Elam A. White, former presiding elder of the Maysville district, now in charge of the Ohio District, has been the recipient of many gracious tokens. He was recently presented by the members of Scott Chapel with a beautiful gold watch chain. Following this the sewing circle of Bethel Baptist Church gave a reception in his honor and in addition made him a present of an elegant silver shaving set. Rev. White entered upon his new work with the best wishes of members and friends of every denomination throughout the state of Kentucky.

Rev. J. W. Robinson, whose pastorate at St. Mark Church, Chicago, Ill., was such a brilliant success, is meeting with favor in his new field as pastor of Ninth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Covington, Ky. The estimated cost for the running of the church for the year is $2,500. Of this amount, up to date, the membership has covered by subscriptions $2,382. The basket collection is succeeding with Brother Robinson admirably. He held to it in Chicago and succeeded, and in writing of the basket collection at Ninth Street Church he says: "The basket collection can be made a success if we try."

NEWS NOTES

To-day there are a hundred native newspapers in China where ten years ago not one could be found.

It is estimated that 80,000 persons have been converted this year in our Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Presbyterians throughout the world plan to celebrate on May 21, 1905, the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Knox.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has contributed $10,000 to the Normal School in Montgomery, Ala., an institution for the education of Negro students. A library will be built.

The Methodist churches of San Francisco will send six deaconesses to the Portland Fair, whose duty it will be to look after the needs of the women and girls in attendance.

The annual report of Rev. G. W. Lampton, D. D., secretary of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, shows receipts of an increase of $9,636.22 over the last fiscal year.

A leading white musical organization of Dallas, Texas, is preparing to render "The Death of Minnehaha," set to music by the noted Negro composer, S. Coleridge-Taylor.

We learn that generous white citizens of Kosciusko, Miss., have contributed $3,200 for the rebuilding of the Central Mississippi College, which was destroyed by fire last fall.

According to press reports the Rev. A. E. Rybourg and his forty-two parishioners of the French Catholic Church, Manchaug, Mass., have become Protestants and are now members of the Baptist Church.

Contracts have been awarded for the largest irrigation dam in the world, the same to be located on Salt river, Arizona, seventy miles above Phoenix. The dam, it is expected, will be completed during the year 1907.

The people of Spain are starving on account of a long continued drought and altho the Government has established municipal bakeries it is impossible to relieve the vast number of sufferers. Rain fell recently, but too late to save the famishing cattle.

Dr. Wolfgang Weichhardt is the discoverer of an anti-toxine, a cure for a prevalent disease—laziness. This statement, it appears, is not a joke, for an ounce of the fluid has been ordered from Berlin and experiments will be made by New York bacteriologists.

The Texas Guide of last week says: "Wiley University won everything worth winning at the inter-collegiate contest last week. Mr. George Windsor, a student of Wiley, won in the oratorical contest, and the Wiley baseball team walked off with the honors."

Pike's peak in Colorado is to be the scene of a great hill-climbing contest for automobiles next September. The top of the peak is 14,107 feet above sea-level, and the actual climb to be made by the machines consists in a trip of seventeen miles in which an ascent of 7,000 feet is made.

In compliance with amendments of the civil service rules the positions of the 360 cashiers and finance clerks in the postoffices of the country will hereafter be filled by promotion. The Mississippi Medical and Surgical Association, composed of Negro physicians, convened in its fifth annual session at Jackson, Miss., April 27. Dr. J. M. May, of Westside, Miss., presiding. Addresses were made by several of our well-known physicians, among the number being Dr. J. P. Newman, of this city, and Dr. S. D. Redmond, of Jackson, Miss., whose subject was "Tuberculosis Among Negroes." He said that if steps were not taken to stamp out the disease among Negroes it would result in the extermination of the race. The subject of consumption among Negroes was discussed, and it was agreed among the members that war would be waged by the Negro doctors for cleaner lives among the members of the race, through personal solicitation and distribution of literature.

Farm and Fireside

SOME IRISH POTATO EXPERIMENTS.

It has been found by the agricultural experiment stations that, with the cultivation and soil the same for a crop, much as regards yield to the acre depends on matters pertaining to the seed.

Thus with one eye to each set, the outcome of marketable potatoes was 272.25 bushels to the acre; two eyes, 293.19 bushels; three eyes, 248.98; four eyes, 205.93; whole tubers, small size, 289.10; whole tubers, large size, 337.40. A conclusion reached from work of this sort done by thirteen of these stations is that potato growers generally do not plant enough seed to the acre. It has in this same way been ascertained that a distance of eight inches in the drill and about three feet from row to row, is best. In like manner level cultivation is approved. Under the same auspices trial has been made to make sure of the best depth at which to do the planting. It was thus ascertained that three inches "proved" the best as far as total yield was concerned. The yield of those planted two inches deep was 275 bushels per acre; three inches deep, 298 bushels; four inches deep, 279 bushels; five inches deep, 273 bushels, and six inches deep, 238 bushels. The marketable yield was practically the same for those planted four, five and six inches deep, slightly less for those given a depth of three inches, and still less for those at a depth of two inches.—Home and Farm Journal.

GREEN BONES FOR CHICKENS.

Every farmer who keeps poultry—and a farm without it ought to be on the order of a curiosity—should have a little mill for grinding bones. This is the best sort of material in which to furnish the lime necessary in making the shell of the egg.

The fresh ground bone—green bone it is often termed—is "better than grit for fowls, as, unlike the bits of stone, it is digested in the gizzard, thus serving a double purpose. It helps to digest the grain and is being digested at the same time."

Fowls like this character of bone, and so will use it freely. And then it is held that this manure may be made "equal to that which wild birds produce from eating fishes, and which, when composted, becomes the guano of commerce.—Home and Farm Journal.

"Annual Reports of the Department of the Interior" (for the year 1903). Washington Government Printing Office.

The first number of The Country Calendar is an inspiring sign of the return of Americans to outdoor life. This new magazine of the Review of Reviews Book Company is a high-class production, not only in its large size, beautiful cover and sumptuously printed halftone illustrations, but also in its showing of such contributors as Ex-President Grover Cleveland, John Burroughs, Prof. L. H. Bailey, Secretary James Wilson, and others. Moreover, the magazine gives a unique interpretation of the serious and instructive side of country interests in its authoritative and comprehensve editorial pages and in its "departments," which latter give personal experiences and expert information about Garden and Orchard, Stable and Kennel. The features that distinguish this magazine from any we have seen are its combining of the entertaining with the profitable, and its broad and progressive policy of treating the intelligent farmer, the suburban dweller, the country estate owner, all as people with a common interest.

The articles by Mr. Gilbert H. Grosvenor on "Inoculating the Ground" and "the New Method of Purifying Water," which have appeared in The Century, have attracted wide attention, especially the first named, which appeals to the great audience of people who are interested in the cultivation of soil. The announcement of the discovery of soil-inoculation made in a bulletin of the Department of Agriculture two years ago (in an edition of half a million copies) did not begin to attract the attention of the press and the public that was at once centered on the same subject when it was treated in The Century. Mr. Grosenvor is now engaged upon several articles for The Century on timely subjects connected with agriculture.

Field Notes

OHIO.

Cincinnati — The members and friends of Park St. M. E. Church are delighted to have their most efficient pastor, Rev. D. E. Skelton, return for another year. He now enters upon his third year's work as pastor of this church. He was assigned to this work in March, 1903. Since that time many have been the changes. Old debts have been cancelled and the church repaired. Having then only a small number to greet him as pastor he now boasts of over two hundred parishioners. His sermons are indeed helpful in every way and are attracting no little attention. His work is a hard one and he stands almost alone in this great city, against the awful curse of sin and vice, known as the whiskey traffic. He is a man of sterling qualities, earnest and sincere, and is proving himself to be not only an able preacher but pastor as well. Rev. Skelton is to be found in every meeting of the different organizations of his church, helping and giving advice. Some few Sunday evenings ago he gathered over fifty news-boys into the church and in a plain, simple persuasive manner told them of the story of Jesus. It was a picture long to be remembered. Through the efforts of this good brother and his loving, patient wife, numbers are being helped into a higher and clearer experience. A man loyal to his church and devoted to the highest and best development of his race. God bless his efforts and labor, and I am sure that in the end he will receive the welcome approbation.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Mineola, A. C. Culbreth—Rev. B. M. Taylor, P. E., of Marshall District, Texas Conference held our First Quarterly Conference March 11-12 with good results. Three-fourths of the officers were present and responded all doing well. Rev. B. M. Taylor preached as we have never heard him before. He makes a good presiding elder. Collection: For presiding elder, $13.30; for pastor, $44.00; for other purposes, $24; total, $82.30.

ALABAMA.

Five Points, G. W. Staples, Pastor.—My reception was never more cordial on any charge than that acorded me on my arrival here. Although the past winter was a hard one for us the church work was not allowed to drag. Presiding Elder F. L. Teague was with us April 1-2. The reports submitted by the officers were all good and showed progress along all lines. The Elder preached acceptably on Sunday. Collection, $23.11. Paid Rev. Teague in full for the quarter $20; pastor, $129.-80, and rent expense.

Roanoke, (Mrs.) L. H. Henly.—Our first quarterly conference convened the fourth Saturday and Sunday in March, with Rev. J. W. Thomas, presiding elder, in the chair. All officers were present with written reports which showed an increase of interest along all lines. The Elder preached two stirring sermons on Sunday, having a crowded house at each service. Our people have already begun to love the new Elder and his sermons. Sunday made a lasting impression for good. Although the weather has been unusually bad, we have raised this quarter for church repairs, $36.00; for pastor, $48.50; presiding elder, $15.50; total, $100.00. We paid our Elder his full assessment. All the departments of the church are alive, and we feel that we will have wonderful success this year.

Talladega, A. R. Helvingston, Pastor.—On January 23rd the stewards of this church gave a rally and raised for pastor $21.45. May the Lord bless those brothers. At Kidd Street M. E. Church, March 19th, the brethren rallied, and raised for pastor $20.56. God's blessings on them.

ARKANSAS.

Clow, A. D. Jacques.—Rev. D. H. E. Harris has the church here in splendid working order. Everybody is interested. Although he has a large church, comfortable sitting room can hardly be found on any Sunday, because of the large atendance.

Mrs. America Sampson, one of the mothers of Methodism at Clow, a mother of fifteen children and a grandmother of 70, enjoyed her seventy-fourth birthday the 11th of April. She was royally entertained by her own children, grandchildren and friends. Many presents were brought to her. Appropriate remarks were made by Rev. C. W. Sampson, H. Bright, D. H. E. Harris and A. D. Jacques.

Pine Bluff, R. B. Brownlee.—The Epworth League of St. James M. E. Church is still alive and more prosperous than it has been for some time. Our new pastor, Rev. G. T. Saxton, has given abundant evidence of his fitness to fill honorably and creditably the position as pastor in charge. The young people of the League have received much strength from the impressions of our cultured minister. The cabinet has been able to present twenty new members to the League, Chapter 10,-187, this conference year. While I am serving in this capacity I shall endeavor to make it the banner League of the State, not in finances only, but in work and membership. We aim to rally also for the Epworth League Farm for Philander Smith College.

Saratoga, H. Bright, Pastor.—My first quarter was held March 18-19, with Rev. D. B. Harston, our new presiding elder in the chair. All the officers were present with written reports. The elder's pleasant, yet strict, way of handling the business of the conference, delighted the brethren. Rev. Harston preached two good sermons on Sunday. More than 100 persons participated in the communion service. We now have our work well in hand. Paid the Elder in full and had a small sum over for the pastor.

GEORGIA.

Adairsville, W. M. Bailey, Pastor.—The first quarterly conference of this charge was held March 18-19. Rev. C. W. Adams presided. Reports showed that the work is in fine condition. The elder preached two great sermons, and all were indeed greatly revived. We paid him in full his assessment of $13.-00; pastor, $38.40; total, $51.40.

La Grange, G. H. Lennon, Pastor.—Our second quarterly conference convened at Union Chapel, April 1-2. Owing to the fact that Presiding Elder R. R. O'Neal was compelled to be at another point, our business session was conducted by Rev. W. A. Hill, who, from many years of faithful service in the pastorate, showed himself to be very efficient in the management of the business session. The local preachers and officers read good reports which indicated advancement on all lines. The services on the Sabath were great spiritual feasts. Collection for the day, $21.85.

Tarboro, L. G. McLendon, Pastor.—My second quarterly conference was held April 8, by Rev. Wm. Daniels, who has just closed a term of six years on this district. All officials were present, and the business of the conference was disposed of with all ease. The Reverend preached Sunday to a crowded house. Brother Daniels is hopeful of Brunswick. It is the place from which he went over the district, and after the six years was returned.

LOUISIANA.

Clinton—J. Tutson, Pastor.—A grand rally will be held at Macedonia Church the fourth Sunday in May. The following pastors, their congregations and friends are invited to be with us: Revs. F. Walker, G. A. Payne, S. Carroll, B. Carr, N. Ford and W. W. Hunter.

Maillard, H. McNeal, pastor.—Union Chapel is doing well . Rev. W. R. Butler, P. E., held our First Quarterly Conference on the 10th inst. He was greeted with a crowded house. Reports showed progress on all lines. Revs. J. D. Pool, S. Williams and Theo Hill, of the Baptist Church, were present and made soul-stirring addresses which will be long remembered by our people. On Sunday Rev. J. D. Pool, assisted the pastor in administering the sacrament. Rev. J. D. Pool preached a grand and glorious sermon and eleven persons came forward for prayer.

Melville—We are glad to say the good Master so worked in the Cabinet at Monroe, La., and through the wisdom of the presiding elder and with Bishop Spellmeyer as to assign the Rev. E. V. Taylor to Melville and Wiley. He is the right man for this place. Souls are being converted and the future is bright. We are going to stand by our pastor on all lines. S. Dorsey, T. J. Johnson, C. Melvin and J. Miles.

Napoleonville—M. S. Goins, pastor—The stewardesses of Wesley M. E. Church are at work and are putting new furniture in the parsonage. A committee of small ones from the Sunday school worked hard to surprise the parsonage and succeeded. They formed themselves by making a president and secretary and treasurer; they called their friends together and they answered. The party was led by little Miss Agnes Sims, president, Miss Margaret Nelson, secretary; Miss Josie Coleman, treasurer, and presented 100 pounds of choice groceries. They were cordially invited to call again.

MISSISSIPPI.

Bond—The undersigned committee of the Mississippi Conference, Gulf District, convened in Bond M. E. Church, March 21, 1905, and the following program was arranged for the Gulf District Conference that convenes at McLain, Miss.: "Why Am I a Methodist?" P. F. Robinson; "Melchizedek and His Origin," A. C. Lacy; "An Attribute and How Many Are There," J. E. Holmes; "Divine Revelation and Its Necessity," R. S. Hammond; "Moral Law," D. R. Bentley; "Justification," Jas. Ford; "Existence of God," H. L. Kennedy; "When Was the Sabbath Changed, And By Whom?" A. M. Trotter; "The Creeds," J. K. Comfort; "Free Agents," D. D. Armstrong; "Intermediate State," D. Ray; "Shall We Have Two District Conferences?" S. H. Glenn; "What Is the Duty of a Deacon in the M. E. Church?" C. Lewis; "Sanctification," H. J. Grant; "The Conference Brotherhood," S. H. Cannon; "The Mode of Inspiration," A. M. Quinn; "Redemption and Atonement," J. C. Houston; "The Branches of Methodism and Origin," F. Smith; "Conversion and Religion," F. L. Woods; "Regeneration," C. H. Lindsay; Missionary Sermon, by J. C. Houston; Doctrinal Sermon by A. M. Trotter. All local preachers are requested to come prepared to speak on some of the above named topics. Committee—J. K. Comfort, president; A. C. Lacy, S. H. Cannon, D. R. Bently, secretary.

Bond—The good people of Bond, Miss., gave us a nice surprise party, led by Madam Roberts, Claiborne, Jackson, Alice Holly and others, singing "Life is like a mountain railroad." We asked God's blessings upon them and of course invited them to come again.

MISSOURI.

Farmington, Leroy Woolrich, pastor—I arrived at Farmington, March the 13th and began my fourth year as pastor here. I received a very cordial welcome from church and friends. The parsonage was stormed Friday evening the 16th and many necessary things were found after the storm. We have started in a revival meeting; conversions to date, 15; accessions, 14. My prayer is for one hundred conversions in this charge this year. Bishop W. F. McDowell was with us on Sunday night and encouraged us very much. The St. Louis Conference of the M. E. Church met here the 22nd of March and the brethren of the conference rendered us substantial help. The prospects for the year's work is very encouraging.

Kansas City, A. B. Adams—The pastor was received on his return from the annual conference by a number of friends. The church is doing well. Collection since annual conference, March 19 $220.15. Accessions, 8. On Sunday, May 7, Dr. J. W. E. Bowen will preach and on Monday evening, May 8, he will deliver one of his famous lecturers: "What the church and the state has done for the nation." Upon this occasion we anticipate a grand time.

NEW YORK.

Whereas, The laws of the Methodist Episcopal Church make it mandatory that a Presiding Elder shall remain on one district only six consecutive years, and—Wheras, The term of office of our Presiding Elder, Rev. C. W. Maillard, D. D., is about to expire;

Resolved, That we, the members of the Fourth Quarterly Conference of St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal Church, of New York City, on this 21st day of March, 1905, assembled in our church to express to Dr. Maillard our deep affection for the many virtues he has exhibited in our midst; his unswerving loyalty to duty, his Christian manliness, his spiritual fervor, his brotherly love, his unfeigned sympathy and patience and his dignified executive ability exhibited in the chair as a presiding officer; his ever keen interest in the affairs of our church and charge, spiritual as well as social, has been an inspiration to us. Further, be it Resolved, That because of these and many other excellent qualities possessed by him, he has endeared himself to our hearts, and we hereby assure him that even though his official relations with us will cease, yet the now close relation of friend and brother will be even stronger; and whatever field of labor may be his, with him will go our earnest solicitude and prayers to Almighty God for his safe guidance and keeping.

Signed by A. J. Mitchell, John Beck, Walter E. Handy, Committee on Resolutions. Rev. W. H. Brooks, Pastor.

NORTH CAROLINA.

West Raleigh, W. F. Allen, Pastor.—The revival on this charge has just closed with twenty-four conversions and thirteen accessions to the church. Our presiding elder, a man whom we all look upon as an efficient leader, conducted our quarterly conference and delivered during his stay an able sermon. The attendance on all services is good. We have a loyal set of members who are earnest workers. Our Sunday school of twelve classes and an average attendance of 100, is second to none. Success was ours in the rally held April 9th. Raised on pastor's sal ary, $28.00; for the church, $6.00; making a total of $34.00.

Ramseur, Celia Caveness.—We have just closed a glorious revival on this work, which consists of only two churches. Our pastor, Rev. M. C. Laughlin, has gained an influence over the young people, and we thankfully acknowledge the fact that since he has been here the work has been strengthened spiritually as well as financiall. He came to this charge October 23rd, 1904. We have paid him $58.80; Shady Grove, $26.28; total, $85.-08. Rev. Laughlin is a man of no mean ability and stands well in the community. In our revival we had twenty-one conversions. We feel assured of great success in our church work this year.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

And Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost—One Who Did it Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder diseases, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatsoever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

CLOW DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Bengin, May 20-21; Clow, 21-22; Murfreesboro, 27-28; Center Point, June 3-4; Locksburg, 10-11; Horatio, 14-15; Whitecliffs, 17-18; Wilton, 18-19; Saratoga, 24-25; Texarkana, July 1-2; Lewisville, 10-11; Camden, 15-16; Fordyce, 22-23. Brethren: Labor to make a complete record along all lines. Let us build up the work by looking after every interest of the church. Let our reports on benevolences be full, and let there be a stirring revival on every charge, for the duty of the church is to save souls. Urge upon our people the necessity for taking the SOUTHWESTERN. Keep before the people the plans of Drs. Cox and Logan. The District Conference will convene on July 26. The program will be published later. If any change occurs in the above, notice will be given. I stand ready to aid you along any line. Yours for God and the church,

D. B. HARSTON, P. E.

To the Brethren of the Mississippi Conference nearest Memphis: Dr. G. G. Logan will hold three Missionary Conventions on the West Tennessee District in May, at the following places: Memphis, Centenary, Rev. M. Williams, pastor; Mason, Rev. A. J. Proctor, pastor; Martin, Rev. J. W. Richmond, pastor. In behalf of the above named brethren, you are invited to be present and take part. If you contemplate coming, please write to the pastors and they will make your stay a pleasant one. Drs. Key, Hammond, Hubbard and Kumler are expected to be present. Yours for the church, J. A. W. MOORE, P. E.

Presiding Elders and Pastors of the Upper Mississippi Conference: Brethren—I trust that you have not forgotten our condition here at Greenville and that you still plan to help us. The fourth Sunday in February was the time set by you to take a collection for our church here. We have not heard from any of you. Since you were not able to help us at the time appointed we now ask that each pastor take a collection for us on the fifth Sunday, April 30. We are planning ourselves to take a great collection on the fifth Sunday in April. Brethren, these people need help, and you must help them. If each pastor gives $5, and with what we plan to do ourselves, we will not owe anything by the close of this year. Any amount received will be acknowledged through the SOUTHWESTERN. J. M. MARSH.

To the Tennessee Annual Conference, Presiding Elders, Presidents of District Epworth Leagues, Pastors and Presidents of every Local Chapter: As your Conference President, I ask you, my dear co-workers for Christ and His cause, will you please see that each chapter observes the sixteenth anniversary of the Epworth League, May 14, 1905. You may get regular programs from our Book Concern for $1 per 100. Have the election of officers before the anniversary. Also, remember our Conference Convention at Dickson, Tenn., June 14, 1905. See that each chapter sends one delegate or more, and send to me the names of the officers of each chapter, especially the presidents and secretaries, so that I may correspond with them. Oh, dear co-workers, let us go to work as never before, so we may send a hundred delegates to Denver's great Convention in July. I am yours in Christ,

JESSIE P. PRICE.

The Epworth League and Sunday School Convention of Fort Smith District will convene in Fort Smith, Ark., Mallalieu M. E. Church, Aug. 15-20, 1905, W. McIntosh, president. We are so glad to have the members of the district visit our town that we are beginning to plan already for their comfort. We are pleased with the plan of collecting the amount needed and are ready to pay every cent asked for. We know that every member of the Convention will come with full amount to bring the collection to high-water mark. We want each member and visitor to come with at least $1 extra to help us on our church, which must be covered. During the week of the convention we want to raise $150. For any information desired concerning the Convention, please write to me at 909 North H street, Fort Smith, Ark.

T. R. WAMBLE, Pastor.

To the Mississippi Annual Conference: Dear Brethren—The Conference minutes are not ready to send out because I have not the money to pay the printer. I contracted to pay three-fourths of the money before or when the minutes were ready, but haven't even one-fourth of the amount up to date. Send the money to Rev. A. J. McNair at Yazoo City and he will send out the minutes.

G. W. SMITH Sec.

Dear Brethren: Our first District Missionary Convention for the West Tennessee District is to be held in Centenary M. E. Church, Memphis, Tenn., May 16 and 17, 1905, conducted by Dr. Griffin G. Logan, our Field Secretary. We hope to make this a great meeting. The attention of the Tennessee Conference needs to be turned on Memphis. We need two or three new churches here as soon as we can get them. We need churches convenient to our members who have moved here from other places. M. WILLIAMS.

To the Preachers of the Baton Rouge District: Dear Brothers—Send your money at once for the Minutes. Each brother is asked to send $1 to me at 2215 Valence street, New Orleans. J. W. TURNER, P. E.

The second annual District Conference for Guthrie District will be held July 27-20 at Hennessey, Oklahoma. Pastors will elect their delegates and be prepared to make a full report of benevolent claims. All local preachers who expect their licenses renewed will be present. One Sunday school superintendent, one class leader, one president Epworth League, one president Ladies' Aid Society and all the district stewards and exhorters are expected to be present. The editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, Drs. Mason, Penn and Bowen are invited. We are expecting a great meeting, so arrange in time. Come on first day, and stay till Conference adjourns. Programs will be out in time. Yours in the work,

D. G. FRANKLIN, P. E.

To the members of the Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference: Dear Brethren—The Epworth League Convention of the Greenwood District will convene in Sallis M. E. Church July 25-26. The District Conference will be held July 27-30. I expect every member to be present.

S. H. NEVILS, P. E.

AN APPEAL.

DONALDSONVILLE CHARGE, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, BATON ROUGE DISTRICT.

To the Brethren of the Louisiana Conference:

At this place we have a beautiful church, built under the administration of Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne in 1896, at a cost of $7,000, and its probable value, as shown in the Statistics, is estimated at $8,000. The two lots occupied by the church and parsonage could not now be bought for $1,000, because of their location. The parsonage could not be replaced in like workmanship for $2,000, hence a correct estimate would be $10,000.

Dear brothers, upon entering upon my duty as pastor, in obedience to the appointments made by Bishop Spellmeyer at the last session held at Monroe, La., I found that this church had been foreclosed, and the matter was unsettled in the courts, and to continue the worship in the church buildings a special mortgage was necessary, and petition was made to the creditors, asking for more time in which to meet this note of $2,000, and the creditors would only accede until August 5, 1905.

And in consideration of this amount, and the shortness of time, the impossibility stands out against raising this amount in this given time. Thus I appeal to every pastor and every presiding elder of the Louisiana Conference to help this struggling church, and unless something is done, and that early, we will lose this property, and to lose it would be a burning sin. Much help must be forthcoming, if every pastor and every presiding elder would take an interest in it. It could be done on this wise, if I may suggest: Take an after collection, every pastor giving $1 each, which would help wonderfully. Brother pastors, please help in this needy cause. I am sure that if this church is taken from us, and I had remained silent, I would be charged with gross indifference. Let every pastor give $1 and take a collection after putting the case before the people; they will doubtless give. Send the same to Rev. J. W. Turner, presiding elder, Baton Rouge District, Baton Rouge, La. T. A. BROWN.

LITTLE ROCK DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Batesville, May 20-21; Batesville circuit, 24-25; Jacksonport, 27-28; Newport, June 4-5; Lonok and Richwood, 10-11; Little Rock circuit, 17-18; White Chapel, 25-26; North Little Rock, July 2-3; Hot Springs, 9-10; Scott and Rock St., 15-16; Hensley, 22-23; Sweet Home, 29-30; Wesley Chapel, Aug. 6-7. Dear Brethren of the Little Rock District: We are responsible to God and the church for our charges, and we should be alive to the interest of every department of the church. No pastor has a right to let the work fail because of an inactive leader. Brethren, the responsibility is on us, and if we can't get the work done, then we must do it. Push every cause of the church. Get among your people; talk to them about the Missionary, Freedmen's Aid and Church Extension Societies, and all the other causes of the church. Let us try to put the SOUTHWESTERN in every home, for it helps our work. There are pastors who plan well and work but little. No plan, however good it may be, will work itself. The pastor that plans from his pulpit and then goes home and sits down only waits to see a failure. The best way to teach and to get people to work is to work with them. I believe that the people are willing to give. Brethren, let us get to work and keep at it the year round for God and the church. Yours,

W. S. SHERRILL, P. E.

Woman's Home Missionary Society, Lexington Conference: Dear Sisters—The time is fast approaching for our annual meeting, May 10-15, 1905, in the Mt. Zion M. E. Church, Walnut Hills Cincinnati, O. We are anxious that every charge in the Conference be represented by a delegate, and if there are any charges in the Conference that have not an Auxiliary of this Society, we ask the pastor to please take a collection and send it to our conference treasurer, Mrs. M. A. Sissle, 1708 Columbia avenue, Indianapolis, Ind. Let me urge you, dear sisters, if you have not already done so, to send in your dues, contingent money and all unpaid assessments, that the great Society may see that we are willing to give as well as receive. Let each delegate come prepared to discuss the important questions programed. Let us work and pray that this may be the greatest meeting we have ever had. All District managers are expected to be present with full reports. Mrs. Delia L. Williams, our general corresponding secretary, and Mrs. I. D. Jones, one of the general deaconess managers, will be with us, and also Dr. R. E. Jones, editor of the SOUTHWESTERN. "Come with us and we will do thee good." Rev. H. W. Tate and his loyal people are preparing to entertain us free of charge. Yours for the love of Christ and in His name,

(MRS.) J. T. LEGGETT,
Conference President.

PARSONAGE BURNED.

Our parsonage at Tazewell C. H., Va., which was occupied by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Hill, and his family, was destroyed by fire on the morning of April 24, 1905. Rev. Hill only saved a few of his household goods. A little help from each pastor and congregation in the East Tennessee Conference will be highly appreciated by Rev. Hill and family. His postoffice is Tazewell C. H., Va.

TENNESSEE.

South Pittsburg—Allie M. Womack—Dear Brethren: Sunday, March 26, was our rally day and each member was asked to pay $2. The members rallied to the pastor's aid and the effort was successful. Our next rally will be held May 28th. We have bought the remainder of our church lot, Block 151, at a cost of $125.00, and have made a payment of $25.00. We hope to raise the remainder at our next rally. We are repairing the church. Sunday, April 8th, and the 9th our quarterly conference will be held. We hope then to be ready to pay our presiding elder, Dr. J. B. L. Williams, every cent of his money. We, the members of the church, are well pleased with our pastor; he is a zealous worker for the Lord and his church. We intend to raise all assessments this year.

Memphis, J. F. Neal.—The work here has run down completely without a Sunday school and I am trying to work it up again. This is the second time I have been sent to this work, although I was not pastor at this point last year. We have but a few members, but we have a goodly number of children.

TEXAS.

Groesbeck Circuit, L. R. Parker, Pastor.—Our presiding elder, Rev. J. H. Swann, held the second quarterly conference at Rockey Crossing M. E. Church, April 8-9. All officers presented written reports. Raised for elder, $21.40; missions, $2.05; pastor, $35.50. Rev. Swann was with the Sunday school, Sunday morning and preached at the eleven o'clock service before a crowded house and also at three p. m., when the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to 85 communicants. At night the elder preached again a wonderful sermon and ten persons came to the altar for prayer.

VIRGINIA.

Charles Town.—Rev. Murray, our pastor, is closing up his fourth year in this charge and has had great success since entering upon this work. The indebtedness of $1400 has, by earnest effort, been reduced to $300. The Membership of the church is seventy. Rev. Murray has, by his Christian deportment, self-sacrificing spirit and abundant labors, won the hearts of both the white and colored people, who have given liberally to assist in reducing the debt of the church. The Lilly of the Valley, a club of young men and women of Charles Town, being so greatly impressed by and interested in the work of Rev. Murray that they organized and conducted a very successful rally last Sunday for the pastor. The amount received was $52.00. The quarterly conference tendered a vote of thanks to the club. Rev. J. W. Waters was present at the conference. The reports showed the charge to be in a prosperous condition. The increase has been along all lines of church work. Rev. Waters preached on Sunday with great power and very acceptably to a crowded house. In closing up this our fourth year's work, we desire to say that we have in the past, and will in the future, endeavor to do all that we can, by the co-operation of the good citizens of Charles Town, to better the religious, menal, moral and social condiion of ur pepie, by precep and example. We desire to return thanks to all who have been interested in and have helped us in our work and labor of love. Richard Jackson, Samuel Tucker, Mrs. Georgie Tolbert, Secretary.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

A New Seed Discovery for

FORAGE, POULTRY, POPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully" This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

REV. C. T. LEWIS.

Rev. C. T. Lewis was born in Louisville, Ky., April 24, 1861, and died on his birthday, April 24, 1905, at Lexington, Ky., of acute indigestion. He married Louisa A. Murray in Louisville, Ky., in 1877, to whom were born seven children, four girls and three boys. Five children, one grandchild, a mother, two sisters and an affectionate wife remain to mourn. He was educated in the schools of his native city. At the late session of his Conference in Louisville, in March, he was moved from Dayton, Ohio, and stationed at Asbury, Lexington, Ky. He was sick at the Conference, as his was a chronic case. He made a good impression in his new charge and and was doing nicely when he was overtaken by disease. I supplied his pulpit for the two weeks he was sick and held, in person, his weekly meetings. Every attention possible was given him in every way. Rev. J. Courtney took charge of the funeral services, and a large number of pastors from our own and adjacent districts were present and took part in the services at Asbury Wednesday, April 26, 1905. A congregation that filled the church to overflowing was in attendance, and the officers and members showed their brotherly feeling and interest by their conduct. The services were admirably appropriate and solemn, each pastor saying a word. I was grieved that it was impossible for me to arrive until 5 p. m. Brother Lewis will be greatly missed. He was an acceptable pastor. May God's choicest blessings rest upon his bereaved loved ones.

L. M. HAGOOD, P. E.

St. Augustine, Florida.—Scott Bartley, pastor — God in His infinite wisdom has taken from our midst Mrs. Fannie Seville, one of the most faithful of God's followers. She was always at her post of duty and was an ardent Sunday school worker. She died in full triumph of the faith, having consecrated her life to God years ago. Our heartfelt sympathies are extended to the bereaved family. The Rev. Dr. J. T. Docking, president of Cookman Institute, and Rev. Scott Bartley, the pastor, officiated.

Brookston, Texas.—Sister Lillie Lewis, who was married Feb. 26, 1905, departed this life March 17. She was an exemplary member of the M. E. Church at Ambria and will be greatly missed by all who knew her. She leaves a husband, mother and father and five brothers to mourn her untimely death. She was laid to rest in the Circle Grave Yard. Rev. G. A. Deslandes officiated. Rev. G. R. Turner, the pastor, was in Clarksville at the time attending a group meeting and could not be reached till 'twas too late.

G. R. TURNER, Pastor.

Boyce—W. L. Dyas, pastor—Sister Elizabeth Johnson died March 28. She was a founder of Methodism here. She joined the M. E. Church under the pastorate of Rev. Hayward and lived a faithful member for more than 40 years. She leaves a faithful husband and many children to mourn her loss to the home and church.

Flournoy—Wm. Emmett, pastor—

For over a third of a century Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has sold more largely than any other blood purifier or stomach tonic.

Bigger sales today than ever before. Is that not the true test? Cures others, why not you? Makes rich red blood. An imitation of nature's method of restoring waste of tissue and impoverishment of the blood and nervous force is used when you take an alterative extract of herbs and roots, without the use of alcohol, like Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery This vegetable medicine coaxes the digestive functions and helps in the assimilation of food, or rather takes from the food just the nutriment the blood requires.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood and entirely eradicates the poisons that breed and feed disease. It thus cures scrofula, eczema, erysipelas, boils, pimples, and other eruptions that mar and scar the skin Pure blood is essential to good health. The weak, rundown, debilitated condition which so many people experience is commonly the effect of impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and it enriches the body with an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

No matter how powerful the intellect or the resources of intellectual power, it must be backed up by physical force. Every day the youth or man must manufacture a pint of rich, arterial blood, that is pure, stimulating to the brain, and that can rebuild the tissues that were destroyed in yesterday's work.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness.

Death entered the home of Bro. Ned Jones and took the precious jewel of the family in the person of Sister Lizzie Gray, who, after suffering more than twelve months, went home. She was a member of the Baptist Church Her funeral was conducted by the writer.

New Orleans—H. J. Wright, pastor—Death came to Mrs. Lottie Ellis on Friday night, March 31, 1905, very suddenly, without a word of warning. She was 52 years of age, born in Alexandria, La., and had been a resident of this city for forty years. Her funeral took place Sunday afternoon from her residence, No. 416 Eighth street, where she had lived for years. Rev. H. J. Wright, pastor of Mallalieu M. E. Church, attended her funeral. She leaves two sisters and four brothers, four girls and three boys, also grandchildren and a very large number of friends.

Slaughter—We had a grand quarterly conference Saturday at Slaughter. Every brother was at his post and had a written report. The presiding elder said he had not met a finer conference on his district, and congratulated the pastor and brethren for having such good reports. On Sunday he rode seven miles out to Rylander M. E. Church, where we held service and one person joined the church. Brother Turner is a new presiding elder, but he has taken hold like a veteran and is pushing things forward. May the Lord bless him.

Des Moines—O. A. Johnson, pastor—Mrs. Julia E Buckner was born 40 years ago, in Louisville, Kentucky; came to Iowa 28 years ago. She joined the M. E. Church 20 years ago and lived a consistent Christian. On March the 15th at 5:40 p. m. the windows of the soul were closed and with but scarce a tremor the prison walls which held her fettered soul were broken down. She leaves behind to mourn her loss a daughter, grand daughter and a host of friends. Her funeral was preached by Revs. Bates and Graves.

Flourney—Wm. Emmett, pastor—On Wednesday, Feb. 22, Bro. Joseph Leroy, a faithful member and local preacher of Providence M. E. Church, fell asleep in Jesus. His last words were comforting to those he left to mourn his going. The bereaved family has the sympathy of the entire church of which he was a member.

Lake Charles—B. J. Reddix, pastor—On March 18, death claimed Mrs. Minnie Hilton as his own. She died in the faith. Just before the end came, she said: "I am ready, but only waiting. Deceased was the wife of Rev. W. A. Hilton, of Pleasant Valley M. E. Church. The funeral was conducted by Revs. J. R. Lee, R. H. Martin, of the C. M. E. Church of West Lake, and the writer. Many relatives and friends mourn for her.

Hub, Miss.—Brother Samuel Toney, a member of New Hope M. E. Church, after a long illness, departed this life in full triumph of faith. He leaves five children, a father and mother, four brothers and two sisters and a host of friends to mourn his going.

G. W. MOODY, Pastor.

McCool, Miss.—Sister Susanna Gordon went home March 18. She leaves a son and daughter and two granddaughters. She lived a Christian for 40 years and her passing was that of a Christian. J. M. KENNEDY.

Sparta, Tennessee.—Sad to tell was the death of Mr. Willie Officer, a young man of 19 years who died as he lived, sinfully. His funeral was attended by the writer. J. L. MASSEY, Pastor.

Smithville, Miss.—Sister Celia White fell asleep in Jesus March 5, 1905. She was a Christian for twenty years and died as she lived.

N. B. BLACKMAN, Pastor.

Gretna—E. Fields, pastor—Brother Henry Burden fell asleep in Jesus on Feb. 24, 1905, after a very short illness. He was 49 years of age and had been a member of this church for 16 years. Brother Burden lived a true Christian life and was one of the pillars of this church. He leaves four girls, four boys, two sisters and a host of friends to mourn his passing. Several ministers of the Baptist church attended the funeral. The Longshoreman, of whose association he was a member, buried the body at McDonoghville Cemetery.

Gray—Jules Benn, pastor—Brother Harry Williams, one of the old members of Mt. Vernal M. E. Church, died March 29 as a Christian should die. He was 85 years of age and had been blind for 10 years. His funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. Benn, and L. H. Smith, a local preacher of the church.

Winnsboro—D. S. Kilbourne, pastor—Mrs. Hattie Brown, an honored and faithful member of McCabe M. E. Church, died Jan. 26, 1905. She leaves a husband and mother, two children, two brothers and one sister and other relatives to grieve for her going.

Hubertville—J. E. Rolax, pastor—Sister Freedonia Brooken, the wife of Bro. E. Brooken, a local preacher of Boynton Chapel, aged 49, died March 25. She was a faithful member. She died in full triumph of faith and leaves a husband and children to mourn her loss. The funeral was conducted by Revs. D. S. Sloan, W. Carr and Rev. S. Bury, of the Baptist Church, and the pastor.

Murfreesboro, Tenn.—Mr. Dick Smith died March 19, 1905, in the 20th year of his life. The death of Josie Bond occurred on the same day, age 23 years, and that of Clarissa Vaughan, each of whom died happy in the love of their Father.

C. E. ALEXANDER, Pastor.

Thomson M. E. Church, New Orleans, La.—Lloyd Williams died April 7, aged 13 years. The deceased was the son of Brother and Sister Williams, members of Thomson Chapel. The remains were laid to rest in St. Roch Cemetery.

D. M. SEALS, Pastor.

Cochran, Henry Wilson—Brother Louis Hutchinson, the father of our well-beloved pastor, departed this life at his home in Shreveport, La., Feb. 7. He was nearly 85 years old. He joined the church in 1873 under Rev. Alfred Legardy, had filled all offices of the church and was an honorary member of the board at his death. He leaves a wife, eight children and a host of grandchildren to mourn his passing.

Crescent City Notes

The Easter Sabbath was fittingly observed at Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Algiers, Rev. T. W. Williams, pastor. The day was one of spiritual enjoyment. Collection good.

On Sunday morning, April 9th, an excellent sermon was preached at Pleasant Plains Church by Brother Ewell, and at night the pastor, Rev. Wm. Harrell, preached. Wednesday evening of the following week, Dr. G. G. Logan delivered an able sermon. On Easter Sunday at 4 a. m. the pastor delivered an able sermon. At 10 o'clock the Sunday school rendered its program. The superintendent, Mrs. Nickerson, was assisted by Mrs. L. E. Hawkings. Address by Mrs. Wm. Harrell. Missionary collection, $3.25. The resurrection sermon was preached at night by Father Davage. A large audience was present. Collected during the day, $10.55.

The first quarterly conference of First Street M. E. Church was held April 20, Rev. W. R. Butler, presiding elder, in the chair. Reports indicated progress along all lines. The church is in an excellent condition spiritually, financially and otherwise, and the prospect for a good year's work for the Master's kingdom and Methodism was never better. Presiding Elder Butler was in good cheer, and his counsel and words of exhortation on this, as upon all other occasions, were replete with good taste, sound judgment and wisdom. Quarterly love-feast, May 4th.

At Mt. Zion M. E. Church, Sunday, April 23, the resurrection sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. F. T. Chinn at 4 a. m. There were several accessions to the church. The Sunday school, under the direction of its superintendent, Miss L. E. Taylor, rendered a good program and collected for missions $20.45. Total collection for the day, $95.50. The decorations were in keeping with the day.

Easter services were observed in grand style at First Street M. E. Church. Good Friday, the crucifixion sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Tircuit. The resurrection sermon was preached at 4 o'clock a. m. Easter Sunday by the pastor. At 11 o'clok the Sunday school rendered their Easter Missionary program and raised for Missions $14. At the evening service ten persons received holy baptism. These impressive services were witnessed by overwhelming congregations. Collection for the day, $159.57. Too much praise cannot be given Superintendent F. B. Smith, Mrs. O. A. Gould and the efficient teachers and officers for the careful training of the school and the consequent success attending their labors. The decorations were all that could be desired. The committee, led by Mrs. Jefferson, distinguished themselves on this occasion. Through their efficient work and that of the Stewardesses, the middle and side aisles of the church were covered with beautiful new strips of carpet. Many thanks. The revival services were glorious, resulting in the conversion of cleven persons and greatly reviving teh churh.

Mt. Zion enjoyed a remarkable service all day Sunday. At 11 a. m. Presiding Elder Marshall preached quite an interesting and helpful sermon. One accession. At 7:30 p. m. the Ladies' Vidalia Association had their anniversary sermon preached by the pastor, Rev. F. T. Chinn. The Ladies' Bakers' Association will have their annual sermon preached at Mt. Zion next Sunday. Collection, $32. The Sunday school, under the leadership of Miss Lizzie E. Taylor, is in an excellent condition.

Easter week services at Malden Chapel, Rev. John A. Lindsay, pastor, proved a success in every way. Appropriate sermons were preached every night. At 4 o'clock Sunday morning prayer and testimony meeting and resurrection sermon. At 1 p. m. Sunday school Easter exercises. Rev. H. C. Armston and W. McCormick addressed the Sunday school in a very helpful and encouraging way. The closing sermon, "The Walk to Emmaus," was preached at night. Verily the Spirit of the Lord visited us in these services. Collection, $10.15.

CARD OF THANKS.

We, the undersigned, extend our heartfelt thanks to the relatives, friends and neighbors for the many kindnesses shown during the illness of our beloved father, Stephen Duncan, and especial thanks to Dr. Henry and Rev. V. Chapman for their untiring efforts and attention during his illness and on the occasion of his demise. We thank the friends for their floral offerings. All have the lasting gratitude of his WIFE AND CHILDREN.

The Easter services of Ross Chapel, Camp Parapet, Rev. A. B. Harris, pastor, began at 3 a. m. The prayer service was led by Rev. Branch. At 4 a. m. the pastor preached. The church was crowded to its utmost capacity. At the conclusion of the sermon thirty-one persons came forward for prayer. Collections, $4.30 and $4.75. The decorations were beautiful.

The New Orleans Preachers' Meeting, which has taken formal steps to get the sisters together in convention, in the interest of the Woman's Home Missionary work of the Louisiana Conference, at Mt. Zion, this city, May 11, at 11 a. m., appointed the undersigned a committee to further request the pastors to call the attention of the sisters to the importance of getting together at the time appointed, for the work before them. It is hoped and urged that all women who desire to see this work prosper, will give their influence and labor to secure the best results. The Presiding elders and pastors are ready to assist you in every possible way.

V. CHAPMAN, Pres.
J. F. MARSHALL, P. E.,
C. W. REEVES, Secretary.

At Wesley Chapel on Sunday, April 30, good services were held until the last service at 7:30 p. m. At 3 p. m. the Good Shepherd Benevolent Association had their anniversary sermon preached by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson. They gave in their collection $12.13. Total collection for the day, $33.73.

Excellent attendance at Simpson Chapel Sunday. Rev. J. M. Turner preached at 11 a. m. Young people's song service at 6 p. m. was well attended, despite the very inclement weather.

Easter was befittingly observed at St. Matthew. The church was packed by 3 a. m. to witness the Scriptural scene, "The Risen Lord," displayed in tableau form, after which the pastor preached the resurrection sermon. Many came forward for prayers. Collection, $27. Sunday school exercises at 3 p. m. and a candy feast for the little folks. Collection, $5. At 7:30 p. m. a special literary program was rendered. Helpful and inspiring papers were read by Mrs. McCoy, Mrs. White and Miss Bertha Gonsland, with a solo by Miss Rednoy Ross. The pastor presented each class leader an Easter offering as a reward for faithfulness, also Superintendent W. J. Brown. With a sermonette by the pastor, the services closed for the day. Collection, $9. St. Matthews is on the up-grade.

The Sunday school service at Williams Chapel was fairly well attended last Sabbath. At 11 a. m. the children's love-feast was enjoyed by a large number of children. At 3 p. m. Brother T. Roberson preached. Owing to inclement weather the usual evening service could not be held. The infant son of Mr. R. Clark was christened at the altar by the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves. One joined the church. The converts will be baptised at the altar the second Sunday at 7:30 p. m. The mother of Mrs. D. C. Mead and Mrs. M. O'Hara are on the sick list. Collection, $12.48.

Cotton is doing a little better last week in sales, 7 7-16 being the price here on Monday. The government has issued its final ginners' summary, which verified its previous estimate.

The Annual Convention of Lafon Old Folks' Home met at Thompson's Chapel April 10th, 1905, at 12 o'clock a. m. Rev. V. Chapman, president, gave an outline of the work to be acted upon by the convention. Rev. V. Chapman was re-elected president; Rev. C. W. Reeves, secretary; Mrs. M. J. Nickerson, assistant. The following delegates were elected members of the Board of Control for 1905: V. Chapman, C. W. Reeves, M. J. Nickerson, S. Jones, L. L. Murray, A. Fuche, T. J. Johnson, W. M. Harrell, R. L. Anderson, M. Robinson, I. Robinson, F. Williams, H. J. Wright, W. S. Chinn, M. Nix, R. Lindsy. The convention adjourned to meet at the Old Folks' Home April 12, at 12 m. Benediction by Rev. T. J. Johnson. The Board of Control met April 12 at 12 m., Rev. V. Chapman presiding. Rev. C. W. Reeves called the roll. Sixteen members were present. The board then went into organization, with the following results. Rev. V. Chapman, president; Rev. T. J. Johnson, vice-prsident; Rev. W. S. Chinn, secretary; Rev. C. W. Reeves, treasurer. The Local Board went into organization as follows: Mrs. A. Fuche, president; Mrs. L. F. Murray, vice-president; Mrs. M. J. Nickerson, secretary; Mrs. F. Williams, assistant; Mrs. H. Davis, treasurer; provision committee, Mrs. S. Jones, L. R. Anderson and I. Robinson. Meeting adjourned to meet at Union Chapel the second Monday in May for installation of officers. Benediction by Rev. W. M. Harrell. The Board of Control will meet the second Wednesday of each month. The members appointed by the Annual Conference are earnestly requested to attend these meetings.

Editorial

The Emperor of Japan has donated to the Young Men's Christian Association $5,000. And here's another evidence of the rise of Japan. The Japanese may be put down as a pagan people, but the kingdom of heaven unto them is near at hand. When the war between Japan and Russia is closed, Japan will show the world how quickly a nation can desert its heathen religion and accept Christianity.

The ever present, irrepressible Negro has bobbed up in the Chicago strike. The Negroes were used as strike breakers, but their presence was objected to and hence the employment of Negroes was discontinud and those that had been employed are being displaced as fast as possible. The strike continues with little change in conditions, both the employers and the strikers claiming to have gained.

And now Arkansas has passed a bill prohibiting white persons from attending Negro meetings except officers of the law and ministers in official capacity. This law prevents the association of the races in a political way in public meetings and also prevents the uniting of Negro and white labor. If the law had gone further and prevented Negroes from trading in white stores then we would have more business enterprises among Negroes.

The Southern country will be for many years, if not for all time, the agricultural section of our great republic, and the farmers will hold a very important position. That the South is waking up to this fact is indicated that during last year large appropriations were made by several Southern states for agricultural and mechanical training. Appropriations made were as follows: Mississippi $92,416.42; Arkansas, $81,-419.13; North Carolina, $49,000.00; South Carolina, $141,448.20; Texas, $190,000.00; Virginia $139,271.26; West Virginia, $197,459.01; Georgia (for technology only), $40,000.00.

These appropriations were not made for Negro students, but for white students, and if the Negro is not careful in his deserting of the farm and leaving the plow for a more glittering city life he will find himself rooted out of an occupation that has been the back-bone of his existence. There are two things that might mean the ultimate driving of the Negro from the farm. First, the white people of the South giving more attention to the agricultural training of their own boys and girls. Second, the influx of Italian labor, which is in direct competion with Negro labor. If the Negro is wise he will not desert the farm. And yet there are Negro leaders (?) who frown upon any movement that seeks to keep the Negro on the farm and in occupations where there is a livelihood and least opposition. If it is industrializing the Negro to keep him on the farm, then let him be industrialized.

A SON'S DEVOTION TO HIS MOTHER

The mother of President Loubet of France died recently at the age of 92. The relation of these two persons was most interesting and suggests some lessons that are not found in the ordinary relation of son and mother. Mme Loubet was a market woman and refused to give up her occupation and go to live with her son after he was elected President. Previous to his election as President, February 18, 1899, Mr. Loubet had enjoyed a most brillian career. President Loubet has proven himself to be one of the most remarkable productions of French life and is extremely popular, especially with the common people, throughout France. After his exaltation he did not forget his peasant birth, and above all he did not forget his peasant mother. It is said he would go and see her often and sit by her side in the market place. And here is the glory of a republican form of government. He was President in spite of his lowly birth and dignified the office with true merit. In his mother he recognized the dignity of honest toil and no heights to which he attained ever separated him from her. The son was an honor to his mother and in her commonplace occupation the mother was an honor to her son. And what's more beautiful and inspiring than the picture of a president of a great republic seated by the side of his peasant mother in the market place? Here's a lesson of hope and encouragement to every boy, however poorly born and whatever his environments. Here's a lesson to the manly man—whatever is the station in life none should make him forget his mother. No man deserves so much the contempt of the public as he who imagines that he has ascended to a point where his parents, whatever their station, are beneath him. The public applauds and recognizes no action on the part of an individual more quickly than the devotion of a child to his parents. Verily, if we honor father and mother, not only life will be long, but from the public will come a constant and unstinted approval.

GONERNOR GLENN ON THE NEGRO

Governor Glenn, of North Carolina, during the recent campaign, which resulted in his election to the office which he now holds, attracted considerable attention by his deliverances on the Negro question. There was great apprehension lest the Governor would cast his influence against the proper and legitimate development of Negro life. That the Negroes of North Carolina might properly understand the position of Governor Glenn and that the Governor in turn might be more clearly understood as to his relation to a very large part of the citizenry of North Carolina, President James B. Dudley, of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, located at Greensboro, N. C., made a master stroke in the securing of Governor Glenn to deliver the commencement address. The Governor's presence attracted a large crowd and his speech no little attention.

An evading of the Negro question will not help the situation. The two races being brought face to face in an open, frank discussion savors of good to both.

The Governor's speech was full of many practical and timely suggestions. His advice was given in good spirit and was well received. In speaking on the right kind of education he says: "The education that is best suited for all classes and all kinds of women and men is the kind of education that, while it makes your mind brighter and more accurate, makes your soul purer and better and does not, at the same time, make you stop laboring with your hands." This kind of education we accept. What the Negro wants is proper and legitimate development so that he may be able to take his natural and individual place in the walks of life. The Governor rather weakens his broad platform of education when he says, in speaking of the line of education for the Negro that he should be given just as much as needed for his present conditions, and then as he shows that he needs more and shows himself deserving more and capable of receiving more, he will be given just as much as he needs for any station in which he is then placed. This is absolutely meaningless. If it means anything it means that the Negro is to accept the kind of education that somebody else chooses to give him; not the kind of education he really desires or finds his condition requires.

The Governor's advice to buy farms and rear the children so that they may be healthier and stronger, and his assurance of equal justice is accepted and appreciated for its full value. Perhaps one of the most striking paragraphs and one that means most to the Negroes of North Carolina is the following:

"As governor of North Carolina I want to say this to you. That there will not be the humblest colored woman or colored man that does not receive at my hands the same justice and the same consideration that the highest and richest white man can receive in North Carolina."

This is all the Negro can ask. He must not and should not ask for special privileges because he is a Negro. All he should ask for and all that should be given him is equal justice and fair play. If the South and the country at large grant the Negro this he will have no just ground for complaint.

While we appreciate the spirit of the Governor's address and while he seeks to deal with the problem in a fair and considerate way, nevertheless, there is a vein through the entire address to which we object. The Governor adjusts his relation to the Negro after that relation which existed between the slave and master before the war, and here's where the road divides. The

My South American Trip

By Dr. H. K Carroll

In my tour of nearly 4 months I have visited the Isthmus of Panama and studied conditions along the line of the Canal, with the view to the establishment of missions in the new Republic; spent some days in Lima and Callao attending the first annual meeting of the North Andes Mission and inspecting our work in Peru; attended the first meeting of the Andes annual conference at Coquimbo, Chile, and visited other points in that Republic, including Iquique, Antofogasta, Serena, Valparaiso, Santiago, Concepcion, Temuco, and Victoria, and inspected our church and school properties. My tour of the west coast completed I crossed the Andes, starting from Santiago, and visited Mendoza, Mercedes, Buenos Ayres, La Plata, Lomas, and Rosario, in Argentina, and Montevideo, in Uruguay, where the South America Conference met in annual session March 22. Leaving New York December 28, 1904, the tour occupied nearly four months, or, more exactly, 112 days, of which fifty-two were spent at sea. In all, I traveled about 15,000 miles. The ocean part of the trip was almost ideal, nearly free from storms and high winds; and my journeys on land were marred by no accidents or disagreeable occurrences. I was not ill a day or an hour.

Bishop and Mrs. Neely and their niece, in whose company I traveled to Montevideo, were in perfect health, with the exception of a few days' illness of Mrs. Neely at Coquimbo. They remain at Buenos Ayres, where they hoped to secure a house and settle themselves on returning thither from Montevideo immediately after the close of the South America Conference.

As to Panama, I have no question that it is true missionary ground, which Methodism has a peculiar call to cultivate. The future of the Isthmus must be changed by the Canal, how much no one can predict. The fact that is it an American enterprise not only ensures its success, but makes the presence of large numbers of our fellow countrymen along the line of the Canal a moral certainty. It is, moreover, the halfway point between the United States and our South American fields, and we must occupy it whether we would or no.

I have had a good opportunity to learn much about the resources and political conditions of the sections of South America I have visited, about the moral, spiritual and social state of the people and about the need and progress of missionary work among them. The result is, in brief, a profound conviction that this part of the New World is entitled to much more considearation for what it is and what it may become, than it has yet received. Its varieties of climate, immense mountain ranges, tremendous coast line and river system, the richness of its soil, the possibilities of its mineral resources, are to me clear indications that the development of its products, its industries, its commerce—in a word, of a prodigious wealth—only awaits intellgence, energy and capital. These requisites are being supplied from Europe and the United States, mostly from Europe, and the beginning of a great transformation may already be seen, more particularly in Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

Two things are associated with South America in the popular mind of North America—revolutions and earthquakes. The former have been more constant and destructive than the latter. While I was on the continent, one revolution began and ended, and another, better organized and more persistent, was brought to a close; but a single slight seismic shock at Valparaiso was the extent of the subterranean trouble. The political world, however, is becoming more secure and stable; revolutionists rarely succeed now, and are becoming sadly discouraged. There is a constant expansion of liberty, and therefore less cause for insurrection.

The grip of the Roman Catholic church on the throat of liberty is being weakened. It may be said to be well-nigh broken in Chile, Argentina and Uruguay, and the strong foreign influence in these countries will not suffer it to be strengthened. The church is still wedded to the State everywhere; but the area in which it is allowed to suppress other forms of religion is becoming very small. Evangelical Christianity presents a pure, free and fruitful Gospel, beside which the corrupt system of Rome appears in awful contrast. It is not unusual to hear men who were baptized in its faith say that it is the curse of the Latin race.

Methodism has as yet made little progress in Ecuador and Peru, where it is at present best known as an educational and Bible agency. The evangelistic arm is to be strengthened and made dominant. In the Southern half of the Continent we have more opportunities than we can improve for the giving of the Gospel to the people. They are ready for it, and the evidences of its power over the lives of men make it every where respected. Our greatest need is an increased native ministry and more churches. We have converts who make good exhorters and develop into local preachers. We need better facilities for training them for the itinerancy, particularly on the West Coast. Bishop Neely, with great practical wisdom, has taken steps to organize classes for this purpose at Lima, Iquique, Valparaiso and Concepcion. Suitable church buildings as an evidence that we are in communities, not as an experiment or as a traveling show, but as a permanent institution, would be splendid investments, both financial and spiritual. Our congregations in Concepcion, Victoria and other places have outgrown their accommodations, and are suffering simply for room to grow.

In Argentine and Uruguay we have some fine properties. Anything more inspiring than the congregations gathered in the basement of the new Central Church building in Montevideo during the annual session of the South America Conference I can hardly imagine. The edifice, crowning a hill in the center of the city, only a block and a half away from the Jesuit Church and monastery, and a block from the ground on which the national Congressional building is to be erected, is a landmark. Its solid, buttressed brick walls rise to a height of more than sixty-five feet. The basement, which was completed for the opening of Conference, contains 720 seats, and on the first night of the Conference ,when it was opened, no fewer than 800 people were gathered in it. It is called McCabe Hall, in honor of the beloved Bishop, whose most generous assistance made the magnificent enterprise a possibility. Its walls resounded with our hymns in Spanish, sung with spirit and fire, and with the amens and applause of the Methodist host. The press gave good accounts of the Conference sessions and evening meetings, and the influence of Methodism in the capital of Uruguay will be immeasurably increased.

Bishop Neely has been most cordially welcomed everywhere. He spares himself no trouble or pains to get a thorough knowledge of the situation and needs of our work, and with great practical wisdom deals firmly and energetically with it. His administration on the field cannot fail to place our work in South America on a much more effective basis.

In a word, what I have seen and heard and learned in my inspection of our Missions in South America, convinces me that we should contrive in some way greatly to increase the means available for their prosecution. No other form of Prostestantism has our opportunity, or seems so well adapted to meet the needs of the situation; and no other field in the western hemisphere promises more encouraging returns.

The New York Letter

By L. H. Smith

Tuberculosis, that dread disease which has ravaged humanity for years, and which appears to prey more especially upon the Negro, was the subject of a very instructing and interesting lecture at a recent Thursday evening session of St. Mark's Lyceum. The lecturer was Dr. Paul Kennedy, of the New York City Health Board Staff. This proved a happy diversion from the customary musical and literary programs. There is no lesson which needs to be taught the Negro more carefully than how to live properly; this especially applies to those residing in close and congested apartments in large cities. Tuberculosis has made terrible inroads upon the people of this city as elsewhere, and it is a singular, though inexplainable fact, that the mortality among the Negroes from that disease is higher than it is among other races. Dr. Kennedy recommended cleanliness, fresh air, sunshine and wholesome food as the best preventative and cure. The Tenement House Commission of New York is a large and important factor in the city's fight to stamp out and prevent the spread of consumption. Thousands of dollars are spent annually to combat this scourge. There are in this city eight clinics which treat solely tuberculosis. One of them attached to the Health Department Building, in twelve months treated 3,100 patients.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason addressed St. Mark's Lyceum, on April 2, also Prof. William L. Bulkley, principal of Public School No. 80. The topic that day was "Education," and the audience was given a rare treat from two such able speakers.

At the conclusion of the Conference here, Rev. Robert E. Jones, D. D., editor of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, preached at St. Mark's M. E. Church, and was given a cordial welcome. Besides pleasant memories, the editor took away a large number of subscriptions renewals for the SOUTHWESTERN.

The Rev. Dr. William H. Brooks has been returned to St. Mark's M. E. Church for another year by the Conference which met here the early part of April. After eight successful and fruitful years in one pulpit, the eminent pastor will start on his ninth year with his popularity unabated and usefulness broadened. Dr. Brooks was recently elected chairman of the Colored Men's Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association. He has taken up the work with his characteristic energy, and is endeavoring to raise the $29,000 indebtedness on the building. Towards this end a big mass meeting is to be held on the first Sunday in May at Carnegie Hall, and an appeal will there be made to the people in behalf of the work. Among the speakers are Bishop Potter, Bishop Alexander Walters, of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church; Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur, Rev. S. P. Cadman, of Brooklyn and Dr. Booker T. Washington. This branch of the Y. M. C. A. was established four years ago by Rev. Dr. C. T. Walker, and is growing. It is doing excellent work in this city where just such an institution is necessary, and its influence is far reaching. It has a membership of 400, and the attendance last year was 14,000. The building, which is two dwelling houses converted for the purpose, is hardly sufficient to accommodate the members, and when the present debt is raised it is promised that a new structure will be erected by the general association.

Easter services at St. Mark's M. E. Church were of special interest. The church floral decorations were a marvel of beauty and greatly admired by the crowds which attended. The pastor delivered a masterly sermon at the eleven o'clock service; at two o'clock the Sunday school held a special Easter service. The Lyceum followed at four o'clock with a somewhat lengthy, but a high class programme. The capacity of the church was tested at this hour to accommodate the great gathering. The pastor again preached at the evening service. The Sunday School's Easter Bazaar and entertainment opened the following Monday for a season of five nights. The annual concert of St. Mark's Lyceum takes place Thursday evening May 25 and Miss Myrtle Hart, of Indianapolis, a harp soloist, and A. Adolphus Haston, basso, are the heralded attractions.

The young people of the Epworth League Chapter 2090, A. J. Mitchell, president, will present two short dramas on Wednesday evening, May 17. The first is entitled "Mrs. M'Cackland's Economy" and the other is "A Self Made Man." Besides Mmes. W. O. Terrell and Randell, Professor Pastor Penalver and Master Walter Freeman will contribute to the evening's entertainment. The chapter is celebrating its sixteenth anniversary and the proceeds of the entertainment are for a new pulpit chair.

Dr. Booker T. Washington was in the city on Sunday, March 26, and addressed John D. Rockefeller's, Jr., class, which met in the West Side Neighborhood House, as the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church is undergoing repairs. He commenced his remarks with an anecdote of Southern Negro life and then said:

"The longer I live the more I am convinced that, after all, the one thing worth living for and dying for is the privilege of making some being more happy and more useful. No man who ever does anything to lift his fellows ever makes a sacrifice. Every man or woman who helps to lighten the load of his fellow creature is a privileged individual. I hope you will always remember that by a thought and kind act you can lift the burden from the shoulders of a member of my race. In proportion as you help us, so in the same proportion you will help yourself."

The Transition Period of the Afro-American

By Rev. J. Will Jackson, D. D.

The following paragraphs on the above subject are taken from Dr. Jackson's report as Presiding Elder read before the recent session of the Central Missouri Conference.

The Afro-American people in their unquestionably rapid material, social and intellectual growth, have reached the transition period in their semi-national life. The motions, upward or downward, of the social life of any people or race are conditioned to the effects, or influences, of environments. Incentives to progress are strongest where conditions give the best assurances of the largest possible reward to free and unrestricted exertion. The progressive life is accellerated in proportion as the means and facilities of progress are acquired. Of course, there can be, in human history, no such movement as instantaneous racial transformation. It comes only as the product of years of preparation—long-enduring time. It begins with the individual, passes slowly outward to the few and thus gradually reaches out over the masses. The transition period of a people is not the Golden Age of tranquility and peace. It is, indeed, the period of contention; contention between the advocates of the old, and the votaries of the new, condition of things; between the spirit of progress on the one hand, and, on the other, ignorance and prejudicial adherence to existing circumstances and traditions. The transition period is the period of revolution, convulsive or gradual. But progress is an indestructible principle of human nature. It is God's plan and must go on. Suppression of the spirit of progress in this country, though aimed but at a class or race, is destructive of the very elements, the possession of which makes life worth the living, and common sense, as well as the tender ties of interblending common interests, will, in the long run, forcibly dictate its folly.

True it is that the representatives of change and improvement lured on by the deceptive hopes which visionary anticipations instil, and too often misguided by false notions of duty and loyalty, often step unwisely and too far. However, the spirit of progress is possessing the people. They are growing into a more intelligent and appreciative realization of their duty and responsibilities in the community, the state and the church.

The individual is finding his place and potency in the common weal or woe. There is more of dependence up on self, not so much of passive reliance upon others. They are less the slaves of others' thoughts, but more the servants of their own. How could it be otherwise in a land of Christian institutions of learning and a powerful system of popular education such as ours? Associative touch with these mighty forces inspires them to reach out for better things. The cry is heard all over the land for the possession of property; for better homes and better things in the home; for the education of the young; for modern church buildings, and for the educated and consecrated minister of the Gospel. And it is, nevertheless, true, that the religious life and convictions of the people are as deep and sincere as ever. The so-called "Higher Criticism," Bishop, never did get up high enough to reach the colored people. It failed to produce so much as a ripple of disturbance to the restful poise of their placid faith. Why, I verily believe that there are not a few of them who firmly believe in the authenticity, credibility, inspiration and divine origin of the entire book—language, letters, leaves and lids. With such faith in the integrity and integrality of the Book of books, coupled with good works, surely the future is fair with promise of the coming supreme sway of the kingdom of our Lord and His Christ. Daylight is dawning all around us.

Stepping Stones

BY W. H. SHERIDAN M'GLUMPHY.

I do not ask that peace and joy
May ever be my lot;
I merit no such heritage
And I expect it not.

I only pray, when trials come,
That I may know His will;
And find as stepping-stones my cross,
To raise me higher still.

Kingston, Mo.

The winds blow hard. What then?
He holds them in the hollow of His hand;
The furious blasts will sink when His command
Bids them be calm again.

The night is dark. What then?
To Him the darkness is as bright as day;
At His command the shades will flee away,
And all be light again.

The wave is deep. What then?
For Israel's host the waters upright stood,
And He whose power controlled that raging flood,
Still succours helpless men.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

A Christian's Trust

BY JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER.

I know not what the future hath
Of marvel or surprise,
Assured alone that life and death
His mercy underlies.

And so beside the silent sea
I wait the muffled oar;
No harm from Him can come to me
On ocean or on shore.

I know not where his islands lift
Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond his love and care.

And Thou, O Lord, by whom are seen
Thy creatures as they be;
Forgive me if too close I lean
My human heart on Thee.

The Peace of God

REV. P. H. SWIFT.

The fullness of God is the fullness of rest and peace. How calm Jesus was! His was a troubled life. The waves were constantly breaking over Him, and yet you might have gone to Him at any moment to find that He was kept in perfect peace. He had found the dead center of life. Scientists tells us that if you could take your stand at the center of the cyclone you would find perfect calm. Just think of it. The dead center of that whirling, seething, destructive, death-bringing tempest is perfect calm. Jesus had found the dead center of life, and could say, "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy-laden, and I will give you rest." Rest has been the supreme desire of the human heart in all ages. The song of peace, like the musical murmur of the fabled fountain of immortality, has been filling the ears of the heavy laden in all lands and ages. And rest is the consciousness that fills the soul when we know that all is well, and that we are being taken care of.

Two great painters were asked to paint, each in his own way, his conception of Christian rest. The first threw upon the canvas a scene in the mountains. Rough and rugged hills filled the horizon in every direction. Nestling among them, where no breath of the tempest could ever sweep over its waters, was a little lake. "That," said he, "is my idea of peace." When the second painter unveiled his work, it was observed that he, too, had painted a scene in the mountains. But it was entirely different. In the background there were jagged cliffs, towering mountains, and storm-scarred valleys. Down one of the narrow valleys that had been carved through the heart of the granite by the forces of nature, came a mountain torrent, leaping from ledge to ledge, plunging [illegible] stretches of tilted rocks, foaming white, like the flanks of a racehorse, until it reached the edge of a yawning chasm, into which it plunged with every appearance of deafening roar. Out of the seething abyss came clouds of mist, and the sunlight smiting through them painted the morning and evening glories. Just by the edge of the chasm the artist had painted a tree. On the tree was a limb that was wet with the spray that broke over it. On the limb was a nest, and in the nest a bird, calmly sittnig on her eggs; while near at hand was her mate, with beak wide apart, as if singing one of his sweetest songs. "That," said the artist, "is my idea of peace."

We rest in Christ, not because He shields us from every storm that sweeps in fury over the sea of life, for He does not do that; but because in the storm He holds us and puts into our souls a song of peace.—From Magnetism of the Cross.

His Love

BY JULIA A. WILLIAMS.

His love, His conquering love!
It doth constrain me now
To yield my life, my all—
In full submission bow.

His love, His dying love!
Fall thou my tears like rain;
Eternal life was wrought
In agonizing pain.

His love, His perfect love!
As in a tranquil sea,
My soul doth rest; shall rest
Through all eternity.

—In Ram's Horn.

The Reward for Giving

REV. C. W. HARSHMAN.

Our actions are like the water playing in the fountain, thrown up by some unseen force, only to fall back in sparkling drops, rippling again the quiet waters below. So our deeds, if good and noble, bring back into the current of our lives, all sparkling and bright with God's smile and benediction, His own joy and peace.

"The tissues of our life to be
We weave with colors all our own,
And in the field of destiny
We reap as we have sown.

"We shape ourselves the joy or fear
Of which the coming life is made,
And fill our future's atmosphere
With sunshine or with shade."

There is a law of nature that the only way to retain our blessings is to use them, to give them out. Saved souls must freely communicate what they have received. They must go to their own homes and show what God has done for them. The more we become absorbed in the interests of others, the more we increase our spiritual joy and strength. It is upon this principle that the Bible teaches us that it is more blessed to give than to receive. It is God"s law of the universe. As we have received, so let us freely give.

There is an old parable of a man who had a pond of water on his land. He was always hoarding water, turning every little ditch into his pond, setting tubs and buckets under every eave and spout, and carrying water to put into it. He even envied the birds what they drank, fearing lest some day the pond would be dry and he would perish of thirst. But, coming one day with an unusually heavy load of water, he slipped and fell into his pond and was drowned. There are many men who are hoarding and pouring into the pond of their material wealth, who at last will be overwhelmed in its waters. It is not the pond which never gives, but the stream which does nothing but give, and looks as if it would soon run itself away, that is constantly replenished, and is kept pure, sparkling and bright.

"See the rivers flowing
Downward to the sea,
Pouring all their treasures
Bountiful and free;
Yet to help their giving,
Hidden springs arise;
Or, if need be, showers
Feed them from the skies."

There is no doubt but liberality stimulates all the better feelings and nobler qualities. It has been said that a revival of religion produces a spirit of liberality. To some extent that is true. But it is also true that liberal giving will promote a revival. A pastor after telling of the remarkable awakening of a poor widow to the duty and privilege of giving, and how from her poverty she saved a penny at a time till her offerings amounted to $21.85 in a year, remarked that she apparently grew more in Christian character that year than in all the previous years of her connection with the church.—From "Christian Giving."

In the Name of the Master

ANNA T. LAW.

Do you speak in the name of the Master,
Such words as are pleasant to hear;
Do you offer the cup of cold water,
Believing that Jesus is near?
Is your whole life so filled with his presence,
Is your soul so close to his soul,
That whether in joy or in sorrow,
You are yielding to his control?
Do you in the name of the Master,
Such acts as are loving and good;
Have you lifted some burden of sorrow,
And helped as your Father's child should?
Have you gone as the Master went, loving,
And giving thyself for that love;
Have you prayed as the Master prayed, knowing
All wrongs will be righted above?
Have you hoped as the Master hoped, lifting
Your face 'gainst this sad world's despair;
That our God has a goal for us, drifting,
His currents will carry us there?
Have you sought long to live in his presence,
And tried to keep close to his side;
Have you grown in the least like the Master,
Our Ruler, our Friend and our Guide?

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—Phil. 3: 13. Theme—Doing One Thing.

This is a busy, rushing age of of almost endless activities. Man is at work in the business world, in the military world, in the political world, in the philosophical world, in the scientific world, and in the mechanical world. Few men have taken time to consider the importance of giving attention to the things that must last forever. The things of all worlds, except the spiritual, shall soon dissolve like snow, and as quickly pass away, to be seen no more. Man is greatly burdened with doing this and that thing which is only for this life, and is often a snare to entrap and damn the soul. The problem of life is greatly simplified by Paul—the one thing, the highest, the greatest thing, the chief thing.

Other things are never neglected by those who do this one thing. Joseph in Egypt did not neglect his masters business when he made the Lord's business the chief object of his life.

The man of one business is never divided in mind. "A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways." "No man can serve two masters." Failing in this one thing, nothing is well done. Doing this one thing faithfully, all is well done. To be able to do this one thing, each must forget those things which are behind, reach forth unto those things which are before him, and press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus, which is an upward calling to an advanced life of faith, to higher attainments in Christian character, to a closer fellowship in Christ Jesus our Lord, and to a clearer vision of the infinite excellency in the Lord our Savior.

YOUNG FRIENDS

A Boy Class Leader

OLIVER B. QUICK

The Rev. M. M Mouzon, Presiding Elder of the Greenville District, of the South Carolina Conference, over which Bishop D. A. Goodsell presided, read a very excellent report, and among the many striking features was his reference to Oliver Bernard Quick, the subject of this sketch, who is a class leader in the Methodist Episcopal church, and perhaps the youngest one in all Methodism, he being only fifteen years of age.

He is the vice-president of the Junion League and a leader of one of the largest classes in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Anderson, S. C., of which his father, Rev. A. E. Quick, is pastor. This class always takes the lead in raising Conference claims, Presiding Elder's fee and Missionary money having raised at the last quarterly Conference $3.10 for Presiding Elder and $9.00 for missions.

Oliver is a student of Graded School of Anderson, S. C., and a member of the ninth grade. Among his studies are Latin (Caesar), Algebra and Ancient History. He stands at the head of his classes and expects to enter Claflin University next term.

Oliver was among those who constituted the South Carolina delegation to the last General Conference, which convened in Los Angeles, Cal. While on the way he occupied with many others the luxurious Pullman sleeping car "Fairfax." He was the center of attraction of the entire Southern delegation, and rendered valuable aid to those on board.

After arriving at Los Angeles he spent three weeks in that city attending Conference and visiting the beautiful parks and adjoining towns. Among these many pleasure trips were visits to the Cawston Ostrich Farm and one of the oldest taverns in the west at Riverside, California.

His return trip included a visit to San Francisco and a stop-over of one day in Salt Lake City, which was spent in viewing the points of interest. Among these were the great buildings of the Mormon church.

After leaving Salt Lake City he stopped at Kansas City, Mo., Denever, Colo., and the St. Louis World's Fair.

Having spent a few days in St. Louis, he returned home by way of Louisville, Ky., Knoxville, Tenn., and Asheville, N. C., to tell of the many grand sights and beautiful cities which he had seen on his wonderful trip across the continent and to Mexico.

He is faithful in his duties as class leader and League officer and proves that a boy can be of service in the Church of Christ.

O world, arise! for dawning skies
Have ushered in the Easter morn!
And list, the bells! Their chiming tells
This is the day when hope was born!
So let our voices, ringing clear,
Sing praises! Christ is here!

—Helen Whitney Clark.

George R. Smith College

The past year has been one of the most successful in the history of George R. Smith College. An increased attendance, a better financial showing, higher standards of scholarship and prevalent good order are some of the things that gratify President Lowe and the faculty, and that call forth the congratulations of friends. Better public schools in this section account for a smaller attendance in the grades than in many of our institutions elsewhere; but the enrollment in the academy and college equals that of some of the oldest and best schools of the F. A. & S. E. Society. The relatively large number of students in these departments makes possible a high standard of culture and college spirit. It is a recognition of the quality of our work that one of our students, Mr. Jesse M. Jackson, won the second oratorical prize this year in the Stewart Foundation missionary contest.

The twelfth annual commencement was a very pleasant occasion. For Thursday evening, April 27, Miss Estelle Hankins, Professor of English, had arranged a special program of tableaux, dialogues and recitations, and despite the threatening weather, a well-filled house enjoyed and applauded the parts. Friday afternoon was Field Day, and at night was the annual rhetorical contest. The gold medal prize was awarded to Mr. John Brown, of Kansas City, a member of the second year class.

Sunday morning dawned bright and beautiful, and the chapel and galleries were none too large for the crowds that assembled three times to hear the noted speakers who had been announced for the occasion. The baccalaureate sermon was preached at 10:30 a. m., by Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason; the anniversary address at 3 p. m., was by Rev. Dr. J. W. Jennings, of the Book Concern at Kansas City, and Rev. Dr. R. E. Gillum preached the annual sermon at night. The amount of $32.00 was asked for from the audience to apply on the new Industrial building, and the whole amount was secured. The Trustees authorize the announcement that the building will be ready for use next September.

The last chapel exercise Monday morning, May 1, was followed by the Class Day exercises of the graduating class. In the afternoon were the graduating exercises of the grammar department. The pupils of the Lincoln High School, of Sedalia, came in a body to these exercises both morning and afternoon. At eight o'clock Monday night the house was crowded for the commencement exercises of the Academy. Seven of the eleven graduates delivered orations and the class was addressed by Rev. Dr. I. Will Jackson, Presiding Elder of the St. Joseph District, whose pleasing voice and fitting words were well suited to the occasion. In connection with the presentation of the diplomas the President announced that one of the graduates of the Normal course, Miss aMttie Holmes, would be a member of the Faculty the coming year. A larger number of the graduates of the Academy than ever before purpose to be members of the Freshman class next year.

Many pastors of both the Central Missouri and Lincoln Conferences, as well as other friends from a distance, were in attendance, and manifested their interest in the exercises and the prosperity of the school.

Inter-Collegiate Lecture of Walden and Roger Williams Universities

The fifteenth annual lecture of the Inter-Collegiate Bureau, which is composed of the students of Walden and Roger Williams Universities, was held in Maharry Auditorium, Friday night, April 14, 1905, at 8 o'clock p. m. It was attended by some of the most representative people. The aim of the Inter-Collegiate Bureau is to secure some prominent man of the race to lecture each year. It has brought before the citizens of Nashville some very able orators and speakers. The Bureau was very fortunate in securing Rev. Sutton E. Griggs, B. D., pastor of the First Baptist Church, East Nashville, on of the most noted linguists and orators of the race. After the opening exercises of the evening some brief remarks were made by the president of the Bureau, Mr. B. F. Boyd, who, in a few but well chosen words introduced the speaker of the occastion, Rev. Sutton E. Griggs, B. D. His theme, "Facing a Crisis," was discussed in such a way as to show that he was well acquainted with the subject. He is not only an orator, but he is also one of the leading authors of the Negro race. He began by drawing a contrast between the Southern white man and the Northern white man, by saying that neither all devils nor all saints were found in the South, as seems to be the sentiment of the North. He told how the better of first class of white men in office have been displaced by the lower or second and third classes. He shows how the South is slowly but surely advancing both in commerce and business, which assert their ability to cope with the North along all lines. "Commerce and business," he says, "are demanding that lynchings must stop and law and order must prevail." The mission of the North is to clear the track and let us run the race that God has intended that we should run. The times demand men, brave men, true men, honest men, men not afraid to stand up for right. He says that the Negro is meeting strenuous opposition in all avenues of life, and to be ready to meet this opposition we must possess firmness of soul and character, adjustability, mental alertness and faith in human nature. What is meant by adjustability is that we should adjust or prepare ourselves to meet things as they come. Mental alertness means the power of forseeing or seeing ahead. Last, but not least, faith in human nature, because nature casts aside all things useless and so easy to beset her.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson VIII—May 21, 1905. Title—"Jesus Before Pilate." (John 18; 28-40.) Golden Text—"Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice" (John 18: 37)

The Jewish council condemned Jesus on the charge of blasphemy. He was then blindfolded, spit upon, struck with the hands, and asked to tell who smote Him. Early in the morning the whole council decided to bind Him and send Him to Pilate. There was a Roman law that prevented them from putting Jesus to death. The object of this second meeting of the council was to decide what charge they would bring against Jesus before Pilate. The charge of blasphemy was of no value in a Roman court. Men may become as zealous in executing the wrong as in advancing the right.

Pontius Pilate was a Roman knight. Through the influence of Sejanus he had been appointed procurator, or collector of the revenue, of Judea. His government of that land had been very unhappy. He disliked the Jews, and they hated him. He had done many things to aggravate them. He stationed a large army in Jerusalem; he hung up gilt shields, with the names of heathen deities inscribed on them, in his place in Jerusalem; he took money from the treasury of the temple to pay for the construction of an aqueduct; and he caused some Galileans to be slain while they were offering sacrifices in the temple. This last act likely caused the ill-feeling that existed between Herod and Pilate. The Jews would not tolerate the conduct of Pilate. There were between them bitter disputes and fierce insurrections. His conduct in the trial of Jesus shows him to be cruel, cowardly, superstitious, and untrue to the Roman government. Any nation is to be pitied whose chief magistrate is this type of man.

When the council brought Jesus before Pilate they would not enter the judgment hall, "lest they should be defiled, and prevented from eating the Passover." They had deep convictions against entering a hall where there might be unleavened bread, but no remorse over taking the life of one they knew to be innocent. Pilate went out and asked what accusation they brought against Jesus. They answered: He perverts the law; forbids to pay tribute to Cesar; and says He Himself is a king. The first and second of these charges Pilate knew to be false, or unworthy of notice. The third he investigated. He returned to the judgment hall and asked Jesus if He were "the king of the Jews?" Our Lord replied: "Thou savest." "My kingdom is not of this world." The council accused Jesus of many things, but He made no reply. He did not defend Himself. Pilate marveled. Jesus by His silence plead His cause more eloquently than words could have done. Pilate cried out: "I find in Him no fault," yet he would not release Him because he feared the Jews. Public opinion prevents many from doing right.

The council became more fierce. It was determined to have the life of Jesus. Pilate wished to set Him free. When he learned that Jesus was of Galilee he sent Him to Herod, who was at that time in Jerusalem attending the Passover. This was the Herod that put John the Baptist to death. He had heard much of Jesus, and desired greatly to see Him. He was exceeding glad when our Lord was brought before him. He hoped to see Jesus do a miracle. We may have wrong motives in desiring to see Jesus. Herod asked many questions, but Jesus answered him not a word. The council vehemently accused Him before Herod. The governor, with his men of war, set Jesus at naught; that is, they looked upon Him as worthy only of contempt. They in solemn mockery arrayed Him in a robe of white tissue, richly embroidered with silver, and sent Him back to Pilate. By this act he released Jesus of all political charges brought against Him. Pilate and Herod were made friends that day. Jesus is a great reconciler.

When Pilate was again "set down on the judgment seat," and Jesus was the second time brought before him, his wife sent to him saying: "Have thou nothing to do with this just man, for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of Him." The women are often nearer right than the men. If many judges who are superstitious and cowardly, would follow the advice of their godly wives, results would often be much better. Pilate desired to set Jesus free. (1) He told the council he had examined Him and found no fault in Him. Still the chief priests, scribes and elders, were determined to put Him to death. (2) He sent Jesus to Herod with the hope that the governor would set Him at liberty. This he did not do, not because he found any fault in Jesus, but because he considered the whole matter beneath his notice, or because he wished to have nothing to do with it. (3) He had a custom of releasing unto them a prisoner at festival times. He told them he would do so at this feast of the Passover, and suggested that they ask for Jesus. But the council moved the people and constrained them to ask for Barabbas, the son of Abbas, that is, the son of the father. The name indicates that he was the devil's counterfeit. It is likely he acted the part of a false Christ. He deceived the people, raised a band of followers, caused an insurrection, committed murder, and was cast into prison. Now the people ask that he be set at liberty, and that Jesus be crucified. Jesus was put to death in a time of great excitement, caused by the chief priests, elders and scribes, mixing among the people and stirring up their prejudices against Him. The world has always been taking that which is counterfeit in men, pleasure, and religion, for that which is genuine. (4) Pilate told the council to take Jesus and judge Him according to their law. They let him know it was not lawful for them to condemn any man to death. The Romans had recently taken this power from them. (5) Pilate had one more resort. He suffered Jesus to be scourged, crowned with thorns, and robed in purple. Then when the pale, bleeding, friendless "Son of man" was led before them he cried: "Behold the man. Hail king of the Jews." He no doubt hoped to disgust them, and thus cause them to liberate Jesus. This they would not do. He then "took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just man." But this did not make him innocent. He knew Jesus was just; he had the power to release Him; he greatly desired to do so, but he would not because he feared the Jews. He finally delivered Him up to be crucified. Pilate was cruel, superstitious, and cowardly. Poor man, he soon lost his office, and I fear afterwards his soul went down into eternal night.

One of the greatest trials and miseries of this life seems to me to be the absence of a grand spirit to keep the body under control; illnesses and grievous afflictions, though they are a trial, I think nothing of, if the soul is strong, for it praises God, and sees that everything comes from his hand.—St. Teresa.

Lesson Topic—May 21,

Growing Up For God

Scripture Reference, Eph. 4: 11-16.

The Word. Notice in our Scripture that Paul does not make the gifts consist of offices bestowed, but of the officers themselves. Men are more than positions. One of the best gifts the Master can give the church is inspired officers and leaders. Apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, teachers, are all necessary for the perfecting of the church. So we might say of Sunday school superintendents, Epworth League presidents, and Junior superintendents, as no doubt Paul would have mentioned them if they had existed in his day. Then Paul goes on to picture a growth into churchly manhood contrasted i nthe next verse by a picture of doctrinal childhood. The Junior developing into the Senior Leaguer, and the Leaguer coming into full-fledged official church responsibility, is the thing typified in our lesson. And it will be well to emphasize the fact that neglect of Junior work will be felt in League and church life.

Our Homily: Growing in Grace. Every Christian ought to recognize that there must be growth or death. There is no standing still in morals. We are growing in grace or declining in spiritual life. It is grow or die. And what is true in the personal life is true in the church. We must be growing up the material or future leaders. There is no place better adapted to this than in the Junior League. Notice—

The Nature of the Growth. It is an increase in the life already imparted by divine grace. We can never grow into grace; we must grow when in grace. It is not religion by development, but the development of religion. It is becoming more Christlike, more teachable, more effective in service, and better acquainted with God. It is graduating from the smaller places into the larger. It is attempting greater things for God, and expecting and receiving more things from God. It is a natural process—first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear. It is becoming proficient in the church just as men become proficient in trade, in profession, or in business. It is the development of Christian work and of Christian workers.

The Conditions of Growth. There must be certain conditions met in grace as in nature. There must be soil, food, air, and sunshine in nature. So in religion. Environment has something to do with the problem. Get into religious associations. Feed upon the Word and prayer. Let the sunshine of God fall upon you. Exercise thyself unto godliness. Many Christians do not grow just because they vegetate. Practice the lessons God gives to you. Be surely and consciously united to the Head, Jesus Christ. Then grow up into Him in all things. Take time to grow. Think, pray, exercise, and praise God for his blessings, and you will grow.

Effects of Growth. These will early be seen if we are growing. Just as in the physical growth there are seen increase in height, maturity of judgment, a healthy appetite, and strength for greater duties, so in the religious life there will be certain marks of growth. The appetite for spiritual food will be keen. Faith in God will be strong and active. Earnestness in service and faithfulness in attendance upon the services of the church and League will indicate a growth in grace. More helpfulness to others and more earnest efforts for personal holiness will be the result of growth. We will become willing workers and church burden-bearers if we are really growing in grace.

Growth. Its goal—personal holiness.
Its helper—prayer and Bible study.
Its alternative—backsliding and apostasy.
Its result—manhood and womanhood in Christ.
Its process—assimilation of the truth.
Its reward—oneness with Christ the Head.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

Easter Reports

Starkville, Miss.—From this place Rev. W. H. Gilliam writes that the Easter service was good. There were $66.18 raised for benevolence.

Waringouin and Shiloh, La.—With a collection of $20.75, splendid sermons and exercises, the Easter Sabbath passed gloriously, writes Mrs. Lucy Venable. At Shiloh the program was carried out nicely and a collection of $2.90 was raised by the Sunday school. Rev. A. B. Venable is pastor.

De Soto, Miss.—Through the kindness of Miss Martha Howard, we learn of the Easter services at De Soto. The day was a bright one and full of interest for all; $3.00 were raised for missions.

Greenville, Miss.—While lovely music from voices and organ and cornet in praise of the Risen King, filled the church, the cause of missions was brought forward and resulted in a collection of $10.55.

Batesville, Miss.—Rev. W. A. Rogers, the pastor, writes us that the Easter program was carried out in full and $20.23 for missions crowned the efforts of the day.

Booth, La.—W. L. Jefferson, district steward, writes happily of the beautiful Easter day as observed in their church. There were music and flowers and a collection of $6.55 for missions. Aside from this was raised $10.35, $3.35 of which went to the support of a sick sister.

Dickinson, Tenn.—From G. H. Beck we learn that Easter was a grand day with them. Thoughts of missions were with all and resulted in the raising of $7.36.

Lawrenceville, Ga.—At his best was Rev. A. P. Melton, of South Atlanta, and held his listeners interested the length of his sermon. The collection for the day was $45. The young people helped make beautiful the Easter Sabbath.

Wildwood, Miss.—Easter day was fittingly observed and the $24.35 raised on that day was the largest amount ever collected on Easter Sabbath at this place.

Brookville, Miss.—The Easter program here was carried out in full, writes Rev. W. H. Golden, and a colection of $123 was taken.

Lillian, Miss.—The pastor at this place, Rev. N. B. Britton, writes that Easter was observed with appropriate exercises in the churches. Raised for missions $8.00.

"As back of the tree is the tiny seed,
And back of the river—the rill:
So back of our life and its destiny
Lie our choices of good or ill."

There are no times in life when opportunity, the chance to be and to do, gathers so richly about the soul as when it has to suffer. Then everything depends upon whether the man looks to the lower or the higher helps. * * If he looks to God, the hour of suffering is the turning hour of life.—Phillips Brooks.

There is no day too poor to bring us an opportunity, and we are never so rich that we can afford to spurn what the day brings. Opportunities for character always bloom along the pathway of our duty and make it fragrant even when it is thorny.—Samuel J. Barrows.

GOVERNOR GLENN ON THE NEGRO

Governor does not separate himself from the fact that slavery is dead and all of its restrictions, limitations, servilities and humiliations were buried with it. The relation of the Negro and the white man is no longer that of slave and master. The Negro is now free, and not only free, but a free man; and as the years go the "old time darkey" passes away and Southern people should not look for that same feeling that existed between the old Southerners and the old slaves. In the nature of the case there cannot be the servilities, the taking off of the hat, and the use of the phrase, "boss" and master." There cannot be the old time manners of "Yes, sir, boss," to everything that may be said. The Negro ought to be respectful and courteous, as all people ought to be respectful and courteous, but the Governor will not find duplicated very often his type of the old Southern Negro as he found him in the hospital at Philadelphia. There is a new Negro on the scene, let this be recognized. He does not have the same feeling as the old time Negro, let this be understood. Now this is not an argument for insolence, but it is a defense for the manly and gentlemanly bearing which possesses the new type of Negro and which is often misrepresented as ill-manners.

CHILDREN'S DAY

Children's Day is approaching, and for the celebration of that day that has so prominent and fixed place in our Methodist calendar, Rev. W. F. Anderson, D. D., Secretary of the Board of Education, has prepared an exceedingly interesting and helpful program under the general subject, "The Pathway to Wisdom." Since the organization of the Board of Education, in 1873, it has loaned to 13,117 students $1,343,655.23. Of these 7,403 have entered the ministry, 825 have served the church as missionaries, and besides these 201 are registered as ministers and missionaries, 2,778 as teachers, while 1,910 entered other callings. No pastor should fail to present the cause of education fully to his congregation and give the work of the Board of Education a fair and undivided chance. All collections should be remitted promptly to the Secretary, Dr. W. F. Anderson, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

IMPORTANT TO EPWORTH LEAGUES

Next Sunday, May 14th, is Anniversary Day for our Epworth League. We hope every League will observe the day. It commemorates an important birth. Two important items on this day should received the careful attention of every Epworth and Junior League.

First, the election of officers. It is desired that all Epworth Leagues begin to elect officers at a uniform period. Anniversary Day has been selected as the date. The names of the officers so elected, with their correct postoffice addresses, should be sent to Secretary I. Garland Penn, South Atlanta, Ga. He in turn will furnish the Central Office in Chicago with a list. If these names are sent, Prof. Penn will write each officer upon the work of his department, and at the earliest get in touch with you. In giving addresses, give street and number, if any, or R. F. D. Be accurate and prompt.

Second, that collection. Every Epworth and Junior League should raise a collection on Anniversary Day of not less than one dollar for general Epworth League expenses. This collection from our colored Conferences should be sent to Mr. L. J. Price, Assistant Treasurer, South Atlanta, Ga., and not to Chicago. The resolution of the Board of Control is that "the assessment of the German Leagues be paid to the German headquarters for defraying the expenses of the German work, and that the assessments upon the colored Leagues be paid to the Assistant Treasurer for the colored work to defray the expenses of their Assistant General Secretary."

We trust these two items will be looked after carefully by our Leagues. Vouchers will be sent you for the amount you send Brother Price.

Secretary I. L. Thomas of the Board of Church Extension has entered upon his work with enthusiasm. He enters the field to help increase the collections to the Board of Church Extension and to help to cancel the outstanding loans. The following pungent sentences are to be found at the head of his stationery:

"Double your collection.

"Have Church Extension Day Second Sunday in November.

"Send for our literature.

"Be able to report your collection at District Conference.

"Build your church by our plan.

"Pay your Church Extension Loan.

"Hear the Macedonian cry.

"Spread our Methodism by Church Extension.

"Bequeath something for the cause.

"Let duty burn on your heart."

During a recent visit to Lisbon, the capital of Portugal, Bishop Hartzell had audiences with the King and several of his Ministers of State. He was one of the special guests at a private concert and supper given to the German Emperor, who was visiting Lisbon. The purpose of the Bishop's visit was to settle several important questions with the government, affecting land titles, schools, rights of missionaries, legality of marriage ceremonies, and of children born to missionaries —all relating to Portuguese colonies in Africa, and also in Madeira, which is a part of European Portugal. Our United States Minister, Col. Charles Page Bryan, of Illinois, was of great service, and will continue to look after each question until all are adjusted. The Bishop pertinently asks: "When will Protestant governments insist that Roman Catholic countries shall give to Protestants in their midst the same religious liberties granted by them to Catholics?"

OUR FALL CONFERENCES

The list of assignments of Bishops to the fall conferences reached us too late for the publishing of the entire list. We give the following in our territory:

Place and Date.	Bishop.
Atlanta, Dec. 13	Wilson
Central Alabama, Nov. 23	Cranston
East Tennessee, Oct. 19	Fowler
Mobile, Dec. 7	Cranston
North Carolina, Oct. 12	Cranston
Savannah, Nov. 30	Joyce
South Carolina, Dec. 6	Joyce
Tennessee, Oct. 5	McCabe
Texas, Dec. 6	Spellmeyer

GLOBE ACADEMY

Globe Academy, at Hub, Miss., has closed one, if not the most prosperous, years. The commencement was Sunday, April 23. The day being Easter added much to our commencement exercises. Never in the history of the Institution have we witnessed such a time. The student lovefeast, 11 o'clock, was a new feature for these parts. At 3 o'clock Rev. R. N. Jones, Presiding Elder of the Gulf District, Mississippi Conference, preached the baccalaureate sermon to a large crowd, upon the new campus which had been so beautifully fitted up by the Principal. At 8 o'clock Rev. J. B. Brooks, Presiding Elder of the Shubuta District of the Mississippi Conference, preached the annual sermon in Zion Ridge Church. It was a wonderful sermon. The work and impression for good made by these two servants of God will never be forgotten. The concerts, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, we thought, could not be excelled. Thursday night we witnessed another new feature—graduating exercises. Diplomas were awarded by the Principal to Miss Hester Jefferson and Mr. William Brown. Certificates of attainment were awarded to Misses Mollie E. Mayson, Lillie Bell and Mr. O. C. Stanley. Too much can not be said in praise of Prof. J. H. Brooks, who conducted the work of the Globe Academy this scholastic year. We have certainly been blessed by his presence and that of his other teachers, who stood by him.

The New York Age with its last issue comes in an enlarged form and change of type which adds attractiveness of appearance and a larger amount of reading matter. The Age is a vigorous and constant defender of Negro manhood rights. We are pleased to see this sign of a healthy life and steady growth. Our congratulations.

The Negro physicians of Houston, Texas, graduates of Meharry Medical College, gave a charming testimony of the high esteem in which they hold their teacher, Dr. G. W. Hubbard, of Nashville, enn. They entertained him in royal style at the handsome home of Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Lyons, by a dinner, which lasted from 2:30 to 6 p. m. Including the guest of the evening, there were fourteen doctors present, ten of this number being practicing physicians of Houston; nine were accompanied by their wives.

At the forthcoming commencement of Drew Theological Seminary, May 14-18, President Henry A. Buttz will preach the baccalaureate sermon and Bishop Thoburn will deliver the annual missionary address. Bishop Fowler will deliver the baccalaureate address on Tuesday, May 16th, and Rev. W. C. Jason, D. D., of the class of 1891 of Drew Theological Seminary, will deliver the alumni oration.

Rev. Peter J. Cook, pastor of Mallalieu Temple, Mt. Airy, N. C., sustains the misfortune of having lost by fire his magnificent residence, which is located at Oxford, N. C. His loss was only partially covered by insurance.

The Washington Conference raised last year for missions $14,017, for the Freedmen's Aid $2,034, and a total for all benevolent purposes of $11,761. We uncover to the Washington Conference and extend congratulations.

Buffalo, N. Y., wants the next General Conference and a committee of five, consisting of Bishop Berry, Dr. W. C. Wilbor, Dr. E. H. Latimer, Dr. Ward D. Platt and Rev. Price A. Crowe, has been appointed with full power to take steps at once to engage the co-operation which will be necessary.

Rev. Dr. I. W. E. Bowen addressed the Preachers' Meeting at Kansas City, Mo., last Monday, and next Sunday he will preach for our people in Topeka, Kansas. For this occasion the pastor, Rev. D. Smith, has secured our First Street Methodist Episcopal Church at Topeka in which to hold services during the stay of Dr. Bowen.

The Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, met upon the same dates at Louisville, Ky., and during the meetings exchanged courtesies. This is the first time since 1844 that the Bishops of the two great Methodisms hove met as a body. There was general fraternity and much talk of organic union.

Mrs. Thomas R. McWilliams, who went to Liberia as a missionary with her husband in the summer of 1903, but who has been obliged to return to the United States because of poor health, arrived in New York on the steamer Campania, April 30. Mrs. McWilliams left New York a few days later for DeKalb, Miss., which she will make her headquarters while in America.

Rev. A. S. Cottingham, pastor of our church at Leaksville, N. C., is meeting with unusual success. He is marshaling his forces for the erection of a new church. On a recent Sabbath the congregation raised $630.48. Dr. Morris delivered the sermon. The editor was at one time pastor of this church and extends Brother Cottingham and the congregation sincere congratulations.

Rev. W. H. Logan, D. D., pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Houston, Texas, preached before the State Normal School at Prairie View, Texas, on a recent Sunday, to the delight of the faculty and students. Dr. Logan is to preach the anniversary sermon of the Ancient Order of Pilgrims and the United Brothers of Friendship on May 21 and 28 respectively.

D.; May 15-16, Anniversary of Literary Societies; May 17, Commencement Day, Graduating Exercises of Class 1905. In the evening of the same day will be a Reunion Banquet of the Alumni.

Rev. Charles M. Melden, Ph. D., at one time president of Clark University, but now pastor of Mathewson Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Providence, R. I., continues his interest in the work in the South. During the spring he has represented the Freedmen's Aid cause before the New England Southern, New England and East Maine Conferences and made a great impression in the interest of the work. Dr. Melden was offered the flattering position of Secretary of the Massachusetts State Sunday School Association at a salary of $3,000 and traveling expenses. The Doctor refused this offer out of respect to his desire to remain in the pastorate in which he is having such admirable success.

The editor had the privilege of spending the Easter Sabbath at Houston, Texas, preaching in the morning and evening at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Rev. Dr. W. H. Logan is pastor. This church raised during the day more than $600.00 on the debt and $20.00 for missions. In the afternoon of the same day the editor preached at Mt. Vernon Church, of which Rev. I. O. Williams is pastor. This congregation raised toward the liquidation of its indebtedness some $200.00. The editor lectured also on Monday night to a magnificent audience in Trinity. He is indebted to Drs. Logan and Williams for their unstinted kindness to him during his stay in Houston

London, with its population of five million, had but thirteen murders last year.

The plague is increasing in India. The mortality for the last week in January, 1905, was 33,081, but it is thought that thousands died in addition to those reported to the government.

The conventional boards of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in session at Nashville, Tenn., last week, appointed a committee to provide for the extension of educational work among Negroes.

The Bishops of our church during their recent Conference in Louisville, Ky., subscribed $16,500 of the $500,000 needed for the relief of the Woman's College which suffered considerable loss in the Baltimore fire.

The Episcopal Bishop of Georgia received recently $50,000 for work among the black population of that State. The clergy and laity of that demnomination in Savannah met last week to plan for its distribution.

The Christian Index says: "Prof. S. M. Jenkins, of Mooretown, Miss., is writing a book, 'The American Negroes' Dictionary.' It will contain a short biography of the leading prominent families among the race."

President Roosevelt, when in San Antonio, Tex., recently, was presented by our women of that city with a beautiful silver, gold inlaid loving cup, with an appropriate inscription. The President did not fail to acknowledge this graceful act.

Everything green in Chatham, Ga., is being devoured by catepillars. For miles and miles along the roads and deep into the woods, trees 100 feet tall have been stripped of every vestige of foliage and the underbrush, except for a few stubby branches, has entirely disappeared.

The order issued recently by the Pittsburg Board of Health to the effect that long beards worn by many citizens must be washed thoroughly at least twice a week strikes one at first as rather a humorous one. But when we read "that this order followed the discovery of Dr. James McLaughlin that beards are excellent propagating nests for the germs of scarlet fever, and many cases of the disease had ravaged families, the male members of which found pleasure in the cultivation of whiskers," we thought this order a wise precedent.

WHITEWASH.

We publish again at the request of many subscribers, the following receipt for whitewash, which has been tested and found good:

Slack one-half bushel of unslacked lime with boiling water, keeping it covered during the process. Strain it and add a peck of salt dissolved in warm water. Add also three pounds of ground rice put in boiling water, and boiled to a thin paste; one-half pound of powdered Spanish whiting, and a pound of clear glue dissolved in warm water. Mix all these well together, and let the mixture stand for several days. Keep the wash thus prepared in a kettle or portable furnace, and, when used, put it on as hot as possible with painters' or whitewash brushes. This whitewash has been found by experience to answer on wood, brick and stone nearly as well as oil paint, and it is much cheaper.—Home and Farm Journal.

As material for forage and crops for improving the soil, there are few things better than oats, rye and field peas. The first two are excellent cover crops for the land in winter; they make good hay or good grazing for small stock, and they supply the land with a good amount of stubble to be turned into humus. Field peas follow nicely after these, and the two crops may be grown all in one season, thus securing an abundance of vegetable matter in the soil in the cheapest way possible. Great attention is being paid to the field pea of late, and it well deserves all that is claimed for it. As a soil improver, a feed for hogs, sheep and cattle, and a cheap form of human food, the field pea has few equals. With winter rye and oats and field peas, grasses and other forage plants may be ignored or employed in a small way only. Let every farmer choose for his use such things as may best suit his farm, or fit in best with the rotation he may have adopted. Not all or many varieties, but the best for his conditions, is the rule for each one to follow.—Cor. Home and Farm.

I am inquiring for my aunt by the name of Martha Foster, the wife of Commodore Foster, and I am the daughter of Harriet Foster, Commodore's sister; but she is a Martha Jones at present. Joyful Anthems, for the Church Choir, by Charles H. Gabriel. Publishers, Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati. Price, $1.00 per copy postpaid; $9.00 per dozen, not prepaid.

This is the compilation of plain simple composition, every number being suited for general use.

These anthems are full of sympathy and feeling and yet are simple gospel music not requiring an effort on the part of the listeners to follow the singers in their interpretation of them. While the author has aimed to meet the needs of choirs of usual musical ability, yet many of these anthems are worth the study of well trained choirs.

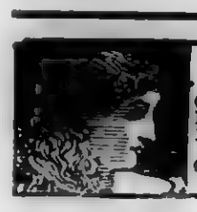
The practical side of a wedding, the problem of bringing the festivities within a reasonable expenditure, is given consideration in a carefully written paper in the June Delineator, which contains also suggestions for wedding cookery that will be appreciated by those who are interested. Various other items of domestic value are given in the form of recipes under the headings "Luncheon Dishes," "Spinach and its Hygienic Value," and "Unique Decorative Desserts," and Isabel Gordon Curtis adds a chapter on canning fruit in "The Making of a Housewife." House plans and house-furnishing ideas and seasonable gardening suggestions are other features that will appeal to home makers.

The friends of the New England Magazine will be pleased with the May number, which is quite up to its traditional standard, as an illustrator of the best of the past and present in its especial field. The personality and work of Fanny Crosby, New England's prolific hymn writer, is the subject of a brief but comprehensive and appreciative sketch by Henry L. Shumway.

Among the articles in the May Outlook of special reminiscence about Joseph Jefferson, one of the most readable is that by the Outlook's "Spectator," printed, with several new pictures. Other illustrated features of importance are: Mr. F. S. Barde's "The Oil Fields and Pipe Lines of Kansas," "The Personality of Schiller," by Dr. J. P. Worden; "Our Beautiful Summer," by Jacob A. Riis, descriptive of the eighth centenary of a queer old church in Ribe, Denmark, where Mr. Riis's boyhood was spent.

The special features of the American Monthly Review of Reviews for May are a group of articles on American municipal problems and progress; The Labor Question's Newer Aspects; a character sketch of the late John H. Reagan, of Texas, the last surviving member of the Confederate Cabinet; in the far East, with maps and other and The Progress China is Making. "The Progress of the World" contains a full treatment of the naval campaign illustrations.

The Living Age for April 15 reproduces from Blackwood's Magazine an article on "The Marriage Bond," which is calculated to make the ears of some contemporary women writers of fiction tingle; but the rebuke contained in it is very cleverly conveyed.



"All this talk about stepping out and giving the young men a chance is supremest folly," writes Prof. James H. Canfield, of Columbia University, in The Cosmopolitan for May, in an article, "The Philosophy of Staying in Harness," in which he takes issue, inferentially, with Prof. William Osler in regard to the value or lack of value of men at certain ages. Professor Canfield holds that we should stay in harness till the very end of the drive. Photographs of notable living Americans, well past the chloroform age yet still active in commerce, law, politics and finance, give illustrative emphasis to the point which the author seeks to make.

Lippincott's for May, with its complete novel and shorter stories, is as interesting as usual. General Charles King contributes one of the kind of stories of fort life in the West which appeals so generally to all sorts and conditions of young people. "The Derelict of Silver Saddle," a story of the plains, by Grace McElroy Iurs, presents a dramatic situation most human and pathetic. Owen Oliver writes of "The Man Who Was Faithful." For sale at news stands.

ALABAMA.

Warrior, (Miss) Alma L. Donaldson. On Sunday, April 9th, at the St. James M. E. Church, a silver dollar ally was held. Raised $22.38. Our pastor, Rev. E. Mixon, preached a noble sermon Sunday night, and received one member into the church.

Tuscaloosa.—Our first quarterly conference convened March 11th, in St. Paul M. E. Church, and was called to order by W. H. Nelson, D. D., presiding elder. Most of the officers were present with good reports. The Elder opened the series of meetings on Sunday, at 11 a. m., and preached four forceful and convincing sermons. Our effort was successful, for eleven souls were converted. The church is taking on new life and is planning to roll up a good year's work for the Lord. Many thanks to Rev. N. H. Redrick and T. D. Oatman, who proved themselves fishers of men, and made sacrifices to help us out in this effort. Paid Presiding Elder $15.00, the full assessment.

Eutaw, Wm. Jones, Pastor.—Our first quarterly conference convened in St. Paul Church Saturday, March 25, with Rev. H. N. Brown, D. D., presiding. Many of the officers were present with written reports. The Elder preached most acceptably Sunday morning at Springfield Church and administered sacrament to a large audience, and in the evening at St. Paul Church, where he baptized little Alvan Bernice, the infant daughter of the pastor. Raised for the quarter—trustees, $93.86; pastor, $54.07; elder, $20.00, total $169.93.

Wetumpka, J. T. M. Willis, Pastor.—My second quarterly conference was held at St. Clair, March 25-26, Rev. J. L. Teague, our presiding elder, being present. On Friday night, March 24, our love-feast meeting was held, and it was a good one. Saturday, at two o'clock a good number of members were present.. The stewardess sisters were also present with their baskets of good things to eat.. Although the weather has been unpleasant nearly all the year, yet we are trying to push the work of the church. Raised this quarter for the elder, $18.54; pastor, $38.00; trustees, $17.00.

Tensaw, P. B. Benjamin, Pastor.—Our second quarterly conference convened at Fleming Chapel, with Rev. J. W. McKinney presiding, and all officers present but one. The business session was well conducted for the night man was in the chair. At 9 a. m. Sunday morning, Rev. McKinney addressed the Sunday school, and at 11 o'clock preached an eloquent sermon, and also at 3 o'clock p. m. The gathering was small, but we raised $11.55. May God bless our Elder in his work.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville—Annie Craig—J. A. Washington, of Chicago, met the members and delegates of the Lay Association of the seat of the Lexington Annual Conference, which met in Louisville. Officers were elected and the work thoroughly organized. Mrs. A. Craig was elected president of the Louisville district. A deal of interest was manifested.

LOUISIANA.

Baton Rouge—Wm. Duplessis—The officers, members and friends of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church are delighted over the appointment of their son, Rev. Hampton James, who was licensed a local preacher from this charge twenty-six years ago, and after serving faithfully as pastor in our Methodism, and as presiding elder, returns to us as pastor. We bespeak for him a prosperous year, both spiritually and financially. Our presiding elder, Rev. J. W. Turner, is more than acceptable. Under our present administration it is predicted much good will be done for the grand old church. With push and energy we hope to reach our former standard and render good reports for the work done in every department of the church work.

Morgan City—The Preachers' Meeting of the South New Orleans District met at Union M. E. Church, this city. Rev. W. H. Jones, the pastor, had everything well in hand. The forenoon was devoted to the study of the Sunday lesson and the afternoon to organization and general business. Following are the officers for the ensuing year: President, R. C. Worsham, vice-president, M. S. Goins; secretary, W. H. Jones; treasurer, G. J. Rogers; committee, P. C. Colton, C. C. Landry, Thomas Williams. There was an unusual number present. Rev. L. H. Williams, of Mt. Pilgrim Baptist Church, delivered the welcome address on behalf of the Ministerial Alliance of Morgan City and Berwick, of which Rev. W. H. Jones is president. His speech was well prepared and delivered with eloquence. This, the first meeting, was one that will long be remembered. Revs. T. J. Johnson and Thomas Williams preached. They were at their best. After the service a reception was tendered all. Verily, Rev. W. H. Jones is a great man and is marshaling his church to success. The people spared no pains in making it pleasant and each pastor left with a glad heart. Rev. Charles Morhand was present and delivered an excellent address. The meeting adjourned to meet at Beattieville, April 20. R. C. Worsham, president; W. H. Jones, secretary.

Morgan City—W. H. Jones, pastor—Our first quarterly conference was held April 1-2, with Rev. W. R. Butler, presiding elder, in the chair. Each officer was present with good reports. The presiding elder preached at 11 a. m. Sunday to an excellent congregation. His sermon was forcible and instructive. A reception was tendered him by Dr. J. A. Barns in behalf of the pastor. We paid the presiding elder in full $11. Rev. Charles Mohamond, of West Coast of Africa, was present and made some very encouraging remarks.

MISSISSIPPI.

Macon, S. T. Walker, pastor.—On March 12th my First Quarterly Conference was held on the Columbus circuit. The new presiding elder, T. H. Henry, is the man for the place . The work seems to have taken on new life.. This is my third year on this circuit. On March 15th a great storm passed through the Columbus circuit and the pastor felt good over it for 80 or more pounds were sent to Macon to his wife. This storm was led by brother G. Topp, John White, J. Abnes, Geo. Harris, J. Printe Colia and others.

Brookhaven, L. W. Price, pastor—Brookhaven charge is taking on new life. Dr. G. W. Smith, D. D., our beloved presiding elder, was with us Sunday to hold his first Quarterly Conference. Most of the leaders were present with written reports. The elder preached two able sermons Sunday, which lifted us up in spirit, mind and body. Indeed Sunday was a high day in Kynett Chapel. We had five to join the church; seven in all since Annual Conference. Paid the elder in full; raised $8.00 for the pastor; $6.30 on brick walk and carpet. We are now praying for a great revival. Dr. Smith is electrifying the pastors and the membership all over the district as he passes from point to point.

Amory, (Mrs.) Alice Sykes—Presiding Elder W. C. Clay was with us on March 10-12 to the delight of the people and the glory of God. At the close of the conference on Friday night the pastor was called to the church in company with the elder and there a reception was held in honor of his kind, brotherly and Christian administration over the district these years. The entertainment was conducted in the following manner: Singing by the choir; Prayer by pastor; Welcome Address, Rev. Wade; Solo, Mrs. D. Armstrong; Recitation, Miss Lumpkins; Paper, Prof. Cooper; Duette, Messrs. Johnson and Nevils; Recitation, Miss Greer; Solo, Mrs. Johnnie Strong; Closing Address, by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Nevils. We raised for the quarter Twenty dollars, our full quarterage.

Ittabena, G. Orange, pastor—The people of Ittabena received me with willing hearts and have made everything pleasant for us. Our presiding elder, Rev. J. W. Wimbush, held the First Quarterly Conference with ease. The conference was well attended. The salary of the pastor was fixed at $700, presiding elder's at $84.00. The elder ably represented every cause of the church. He secured three subscribers for the paper and raised a nice sum for Rust's new building. He delivered two strong sermons and administered the sacrament to a goodly number. We begin the year with encouragement by the good people.

MISSOURI.

Ironton, A. J. Williams, pastor—Since the conference the Lord has wonderfully blessed all our efforts on this work. We are now engaged in a great revival in the church. On the 8th inst. the Lord blessed our meeting with the conversion of three souls. The result of a visit from our members and friends was the filling of tables, dressers and side-boards with good things. The party was led by Brother and Sister Hale and others

Moberly, William Wheeler, pastor Success has been mine on this charge. When I arrived here the roof was off the church, and there was but $50 for the work of repair. We went to work and raised for building and improving the church $105.60. I have received but $70 salary but my heart has been in the work.

I am now 72 years of age; have been in the work 43 years. Pray for my continued success.

NORTH CAROLINA.

G. B. McLean, Pastor, Charlotte.—The second quarterly conference of Simpson Chapel M. E. Church convened February 11-12. Everything considered, the session was a success. Rev. I. W. Wells came promptly, and was cheerful as usual. The Love Feast on Friday night was deeply spiritual and uplifting. Elder Wells delivered with great power two very practical yet strong and elevating sermons on Sunday which made lasting impressions for better on the small but attentive and enthusiastic worshippers Monday evening, Feb. 13, through the dark, storm and snow, came the most of the officers to attend the quarterly. Reports ran about as follows: Freedmen's Aid Southern Education, $1.40; pastor, $51.27; Moving and traveling expenses, $12.50; presiding elder, $7.40; missions, $5.00; poor, $6.50; trustees current expenses, $91.81; expenses for Sunday school, $16.20. Our brethren are only waiting for "Old Sol" to change his course and spring and summer wrap about us their green mantle, and the pastor, officers and members will bend in the race every energy with the earnest intention to succeed The Southwestern was not forgotten for the pastor is getting up a large list of subscribers. Our Lincoln's birthday program was necessarily deferred to the first Sunday evening in March. We hope to be up with our Easter program. The walls of the new brick church are about completed, and we hope in early spring to put on the roof.

OHIO.

Bridgeport, (Miss) Eva Newby—On March 27th a grand reception was given by the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Third M. E. Church in honor of Rev. R. F. Broddus and family who were returned to us for the second year. The church was beautifully decorated and after a very interesting programme of music and short addresses a splendid luncheon was served by the committee, and a very pleasant time was spent. Mr. Burns Harvey, of Bellaire, helped to make the occasion pleasant by the use of his graphophone. The people of Bridgeport are glad to have Rev. Broaddus back for another year. On April 3rd quite a number of members and friends brought to the parsonage a large number of good and useful things for the comfort of pastor and family. A very pleasant hour was spent socially and the visitors departed leaving the table fairly groaning under its burden. The pastor and wife wish to acknowledge this kindness of their friends and earnestly hope that the good work may go on.

The Sunday school and Epworth League association of the Gainesville District will convene at Gainesville, Fla., June 22 to 25. Dear Brethren: You must push your work along all lines. You did well last year on temporal lines; but some fell greatly behind on your benevolences. Brethren, you must be faithful in the discharge of your duties in bringing up your benevolences according to your apportionments. If you want a good appointment you must make the one that you have better and then there is always a good one waiting for you. Put the SOUTHWESTERN in every home on your charge and keep the revival fire burning in your church.

OSCAR F. NIBLACK, P. E.

SECOND ROUND.

Cotton Plant, May 13-14; Amory Ct., 20-21; Nettleton, 20-21; Ripley, 20-21; Amory, 27-28; Houston, 27-28; Houston Circuit, 30; Bell, June 3-4; Union Grove, 3-4; Corinth, 9-11; Corinth Ct., 10-11; Okolona, 16-18; Okolona Ct., 17-18; Tupelo, 24-25; Tupelo Ct., 24-25; Ripley Ct., July 1-2. Dear Brethren: Our success depends on our work. I trust you observed Easter Sabbath at every church, and that your collections have been sent in. Now is the time to make plans for Children's Day; get the programs, work the Sunday Schools, take good collections. My prayer is that the Lord will bless each charge with a great revival this year, with many souls saved and Christians edified. The District Conference and Epworth League convention will convene at Houston, Miss., July 19-23. We extend invitations and expect to be present Secretaries Penn and Logan, Editor Jones, the Sunday School representative, E. M. Jones, and Prof. E. H. McKissack of Rust University. Our district is asked to raise $230 on the new building for Rust. Each brother knows our plan for raising this money. Brethren, work the plan as you have in the past and we will win. I'll notify each pastor what is expected from his charge through his Epworth League later. Yours for success,

W. C. CLAY.

To the Pastors of the Alexandria District: Dear Brethren: In accordance to the resolution of the Preachers' Meeting held at Bunkie, La., April 26 and 27, the pastors are requested to raise all their missionary apportionment and forward same to Dr. G. G. Logan, missionary field secretary, Holly Springs, Miss., by July 1st at least. Now, my dear pastors, do this, thereby showing your appreciation of what the church is doing for us. Yours truly,

JOSHUA J. OREE.

Dear Pastors and Epworth League Presidents of Holly Springs District: Our District Conference and Epworth League convention will soon be upon us, July 26, 1905, being the date. Let us rally our forces, work for the conversion of souls. Send a delegate from each chapter to the convention. The imperative command is collect $2.50 from each pastoral charge and bring the same to the convention as International Epworth League Delegate and convention expenses.

Yours for the Master,

T. W. LOGAN, Dist. Pres.

Insanity, Death or Health?

No. 2307 Locust Street,
St. Louis, Mo., March 29, 1904.

I was a victim of sleeplessness and extreme nervousness for eighteen months, unable to get a proper night's rest and feeling tired and worn out continually. I was easily irritated and hysterical at the slightest provocation, but Wine of Cardui gave me great relief. Within a week after I began using it I had my first real good night's rest that I had had for months. My appetite was soon restored, my general system toned up and nervousness became a thing of the past.

I am so pleased to acknowledge the great curative merit of your health giving medicine and gladly endorse it.

Harriet O. Best

CHAPLAIN, LADIES OF HONOR, No. 97.

WINE of CARDUI

We want to call your attention to the complete and immediate relief Mrs. Best secured by taking Wine of Cardui. Within a week after she began taking Wine of Cardui, Mrs. Best had her first good night's rest for eighteen months. Her restlessness was caused by nervousness and Wine of Cardui, as the best menstrual regulator, has no superior in the world as a medicine to soothe a woman's nerves. Nervousness and hysteria are warnings of the approach of insanity and if relief is not secured the end can only be the asylum or the grave. With such an outlook as this before her, no suffering woman can reasonably refuse to give Wine of Cardui a trial. It brings a cure that thousands of women have sought for in vain. Will you secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui today and start treatment?

All druggists sell $1.00 bottles Wine of Cardui.

TEXAS CONFERENCE EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The annual meeting of the Texas Conference Epworth League will convene in the Metropolitan M. E. Church, Conroe, Texas, Tuesday night at 8 p. m., June 13th and continue until Sunday, June 18th. Each local chapter is asked to send five or more delegates and each Junior League three delegates including the superintendent. We hope to have a large delegation and make this the greatest meeting in the history of the Texas Conference Epworth League. The good people of Conroe are ready to entertain all who attend. See your railroad agent at once concerning reduced rates. Each chapter will send 50 cents and each Junior League 25 cents for expenses.

B. M. TAYLOR, Pres.

The committee of investigation in the case of Rev. B. R. Booker was called by the Presiding Elder, Rev. J. E. Bryant of the Navasota District. After careful investigation of all the facts obtainable, the committee unanimously decided that there were no grounds for charges.

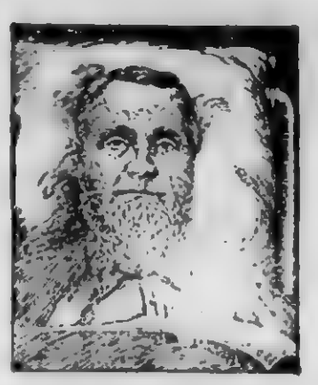
Field Notes

ALABAMA.

Bethany, I. C. Willborn.—On Sunday, April 9th, glorious services were held at Union Grove Church. Rev. I. A. Howard, of Snoddy, Ala., was with me, and preached an excellent sermon. Collection good. We cannot praise too highly our pastor, Rev. V. D. Oatman, for the commendable work he is doing.

Triana, R. R. Powers, Pastor.—Our first quarterly conference was held March 18-19. On Friday night of the 17th we had a spiritual love-feast. Saturday, at 3 p. m., we held our quarterly meeting at the Presbyterian Church. Our elder, Rev. A. S. Williams, presided, and Saturday night delivered an able sermon. The Sunday services were in the hands of the pastor, as Rev. Williams could not remain with us. Sunday morning nineteen probationers were admitted into full connection, also one by letter and one backslider reclaimed. Sunday night nine probationers were admitted. Thanks be to God for his goodness in giving us a score of strong young men to aid in this grand work. We have lost only one from our ranks this quarter, namely Brother M. F. Ragland. Raised this quarter as follows: Bishop, $2.00; elder, $16.00; pastor, $72.00. Raised for our new church, $75.00. Total, $165.00.

LOUISIANA.



Melder — J. S. Weaver, pastor — Spring Creek is alive. The people here are much pleased with their new pastor. We are planning to build a new church; the rally Sunday was for said purpose. The Sunday school is in a good condition, also the Epworth League; and Woman's Home Missionary Society. The officers of the church are good moral gentlemen, looking after every interest of the church. This charge promises to lead all other charges of its size on this district.

Slaughter—Mrs. Mary Bryan—On the night of the 16th of March, 1905, Rev. J. W. Turner, our new presiding elder, stopped over at Slaughter and gave us a good talk at the love feast, which was highly appreciated. There was quite a large crowd of people and the spirit of the Lord was upon them. After love feast a crowd of gentlemen and ladies came to the parsonage and gave Elder Turner a reception, bringing the pastor about 60 pounds. Rev. J. W. Turner returned them thanks. Rev. C. D. C. Bryan made quite a speech. A large number of ladies and gentlemen made up the committee in arranging the reception and pound party. We have paid the presiding elder in full.

New Roads—R. Jones, pastor—Sunday night was a soul stirring time at our church. We had one convert for the Master. The Lord's Supper was administered by the pastor. The Lord has blessed us. At Morganza we had the first convert on the Baton Rouge District. The Lord was on our side. Six were converted at Jones' Chapel.

MISSISSIPPI.

Kosciusko, M. C. McEwen, pastor—On the night of March 10 a band of faithful members and many friends from other churches, gave us a very pleasant surprise. They came singing, led by the Rev. J. M. Nevils, who acted as master of ceremonies, and among the many things he said he promises on the part of the people to make this the greatest year of all in the history of the church. We responded,

I CURED MY RUPTURE

I Will Show You How to Cure Yours FREE

I was helpless and bedridden for years from a double rupture. No truss could hold. Doctors said I would die if not operated on. I fooled them all and cured myself by a simple discovery. I will send the cure free by mail if you write for it. It cured me and has since cured thousands. It will cure you. Write to-day. Capt. W. A. Collings, Box 743, Watertown, N. Y.

promising to do all possible to make this the leading appointment on the Starkville district, and equal to any other charge in the Upper Mississippi Conference, after which the ladies laid on the table about 150 pounds of choice groceries. This band was led by Mesdames Callie D. Mallard, Jane Kimbrough, Peggie Ann Brinkley, Ross, West, Journey, Dodd, Presley, and many others. May the good Lord bless you all.

Pickens—(Mrs.) O. W. Crump—This is our second year at this place. The weather has not been at all favorable since the annual conference, but the good people of this work will not allow their pastor and family to suffer. The brothers call in to see us and bring such things as needed. On the 29th of February they surprised us by coming to the parsonage with a large load of good things. This happy band was led by Thos. Young and other faithful members.

West Jackson.—C. H. Jones.—West Jackson is now pushing to the front with renewed vigor. On Feb. 25-26 our beloved presiding elder, Rev. J. C. Hibbler, was with us. He preached an able sermon on the 25th, at 11 o'clock, to a splendid audience. At 7:30 again to a crowded house. His words were forceful and inspiring. The spirit of God was manifest all through his sermon. Elder Hibbler is a power for great good. With Elder Hibbler presiding elder and the Rev. W. L. Marshall pastor, we feel that success is assured. Rev. Marshall has already had eight or ten accessions to our church here and we believe him the man for the place. Since his arrival here we have purchased an organ and organized a large choir. All being done through his instructions and business ability. Rev. Marshall takes well among the people and in God's name we predict for him a great work here along all lines. West Jackson will flourish spiritually, financially and all together as never before. We are planning for a grand rally on the 23d day of March for the purpose of erecting a parsonage. We are praying for a great revival here.

Lake, N. E. Goodloe, pastor.—Our First Quarterly Conference for this work convened in Lake March 16th with Rev. J. M. Shumpert, president, in the chair. Most of the members were present with good reports, considering the hard time we have had owing to the ice and snow and that two of our oldest members, sister Mary Sems and S. Moore having gone to live with Him who doeth all things well. All were delighted at such a good beginning and are hopeful for a great work on the circuit this year. Raised this quarter for pastor $23.75; presiding elder, $14.50; missions, $2.00; total $40.25.

MISSOURI.

Kansas City, Burns Chapel. — Last Friday night, at 10:30 the pastor was aroused by a storm. When all was over $15.00 worth of good things were left. The party was led by Mrs. A. Farr, G. C. Pryor and wife, Ed. Lewis and wife, Rosa Johnson, Margaret Rodes, Annie Hawkins, Melvinia Hill, S. Young and others. Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Harris are happy and begin their fourth year's work very courageously.

Coal Creek, Rev. E. H. Forrest.—Our second quarterly conference was held in the Scott M. E. Church of Coal Creek on March 5th. The financial, educational and spiritual features of this conference were the best in the history of the place. The officers from Clinton attended in goodly numbers, and contributed much to the success of the meeting. The service started on Saturday and by Tuesday night eleven souls had professed faith in Christ.

Those who decry the usefulness of the presiding elder, evidently have not come in contact with such wise, sagacious, and brotherly men as is Presiding Elder W. A. Webber and his worthy predecessor W. T. Marley. when these consecrated men came on the work, the anxious and burdened pastor is assured of brotherly sympathy and advice. The pastor appreciates the influence of the SOUTHWESTERN among his people and is steadily striving to place it in every home. This charge has more readers of this paper than ever before. Who will say that the present animated condition of the work is not to be attributed to the influence of this splendid journal? We send one additional subscriber.

They Live in Our Memory.

Baton Rouge—Hampton James, pastor—Bro. Alfred Tanner, formerly a member of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church at this place, went home March 22. Bro. Tanner was converted 18 years ago under the pastorate of Rev. Reese Thompson. He moved to New Orleans some years ago and connected himself with Wesley Chapel, where he spent the greater portion of his Christian life. He removed to Baton Rouge and reconnected himself with Wesley Chapel, the place of his conversion. His funeral was largely attended by a concourse of his friends and his body was deposited in the National Cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Hampton James, assisted by Rev. M. P. Franklin of St. Mark and Rev. Thomas McCarry, evangelist.

Kosciusko, Miss.—The death of Robert McEwen, the brother of Dr. M. C. McEwen, on Friday, March 17, 1905, was an event fraught with sadness, not only for his immediate family and relatives, but friends throughout the neighborhood and county who knew him and loved him with all the devotion which true friendship holds. He leaves five children and a loving wife. His earthly career was one of cheerful Christian service and loving devotion to his wife and children.

REV. A. C. CULBREATH.

Rev. A. C. Culbreath, a member of the Texas Conference, and pastor of the M. E. Church at Mineola, died April 27th, and was buried at Huntsville, Texas, April 29th. He was born in Texas, August 2nd, 1848, and died April 27, 1905, making him 56 years, 8 months and 25 days old. He joined the Texas conference in December 1879, under Bishop S. M. Merrell, and was appointed to Frost Chapel and Pittsville, and received his last appointment from Bishop L. B. Wilson, at Navasota, Texas, December, 1904, to go to Mineola, Texas, from which point God called him; thus making him 26 years a member of the Texas conference. He stood high in the conference as a Christian gentleman and minister. He leaves a wife, a sister, two daughters, two sons and untold number of friends. Rev. B. M. Taylor, presiding elder Marshall District, officiated in the funeral service, with the assistance of Revs. H. C. Watson, G. Todd, J. J. James (Baptist), and the pastor at Huntsville.

T. Scott, Pastor.

Camden, S. C.—Little Maud Thomas, the baby girl of Rev. and Mrs. W. McIntosh, answered the call of the death angel at 3 p. m. Thursday, April 27th, 1905. She was 1 year, 7 months and 11 days old and was sick but a few days. Her remains were laid to rest in the family burying plot in the city of Camden. Rev. A. Lewis, assisted by Rev. J. W. Brown and Rev. Mr. Muldrew, of the Presbyterian church, conducted the service. H. C. Asnoy.

Jeanerette, La.—On Thursday, April 4th, occurred the death of Mother Adeline Frazier, for many years a member of St. Paul M. E. Church. Sister Frazier was a staunch Christian woman, and an earnest laborer in the Master's vineyard. For a number of years she stood at the helm of the stewardess board and until three months ago faithfully performed her duty. She was also district steward for a number of years and filled the office with credit. She was a friend to the church and ministry. The following ministers were present: Revs. G. J. Rogers, J. E. Rolax, J. D. Pool, W. M. Smith, Wilson Steward, and the writer. All joined in paying tribute to the memory of this noble Christian.

D. S. Sloan, Pastor.

Fairfield, La.—Bro. Manuel Molden, a member of Hays Chapel M. E. Church, aged about 69 years, died March 31st in Christian faith. Brother Molden was a good man, loved and respected by all. He leaves a wife, one son, two daughters and many friends.

F. D. Thomas.

Osborne, Miss.—Sister Ella Warn died March 16th, 1905, aged 38 years. She was a member of the M. E. Church for about 24 years, and died in full triumph of faith. A husband and nine children and a host of friends survive her. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, L. J. Terrell.

Martha A. Wesley.

Florence, Miss.—On the 8th of April, Mrs. Emily Morris, wife of Rev. A. C. Morris, of the Springhill Baptist Church, was called from labor to reward. The deceased joined the church in 1878 and has ever since been faithful to her duties, a loving mother and a true wife. During her illness, which lasted for months, she was patient. The grief-stricken husband and sorrowing children we direct to the Heavenly Father who doeth all things for the better. The funeral was conducted by Rev. L. Jones and M. Cooper.

Owens, Miss.—Sister Emma L. Coleman was born Jan. 27, 1878, and died April 9, 1905, aged 27 years. She joined Durant M. E. Church in 1894, but moved her membership to Springhill M. E. Church in 1898 where she remained until her death. She lived a faithful Christian life. She leaves a husband, one child, a mother, four brothers and several other relatives. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor. H. N. York.

Jacksonport, Ark.—Sister Sallie Williams, a devoted Christian, after spending more than twenty-seven years in the Master's service was called home on April 20, 1905. The church as well as the family mourns the loss of this Christian woman.

M. F. Strong, Pastor.

Fort Stephen, Miss.—On April 10th, 1905, Sister Emma McCoy, a member of Blackwater Baptist Church, was called home. She leaves a husband, mother, brothers, sisters and other relatives. The funeral service was conducted by R. B. Anderson.

Pelahatchie, Miss.—Sister Charlotte Melvin, a faithful member of Mt. Ridge M. E. Church, died in peace March 16, after an illness of about two years. The church has lost a faithful member. The funeral was attended by the pastor. The deceased leaves a husband, son and several grandchildren to mourn.

S. Jossel, Pastor.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

No other medicine than Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription could possibly "win out," as the saying goes, on such a proposition; but they know whereof they speak. They have the most remarkable record of cures made by this world-famed remedy ever placed to the credit of any preparation especially designed for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments. This wonderful remedy, therefore, stands absolutely alone as the only one possessed of such unrivaled properties as to fully warrant its makers in publishing the remarkable offer above made in the utmost good faith.

"A short time ago I was almost dead with nervous prostration, general debility and female weakness," writes Mrs. Loretto Webster, of 317 Virginia Ave., Lexington, Ky., Worthy Treasurer, Independent Order of Good Templars, "Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was recommended to me as a sure cure, and I found this to be true, for I obtained splendid results, securing fine health. Women ought to be grateful to think there is one safe and sure cure offered to them for their troubles. I advise every sick and suffering woman to stop spending money and wasting time with doctors' prescriptions, when a few bottles of your remedy is sure to cure. I am the happy mother of two children, boy aged sixteen, and girl, eight years."

Do not permit the dealer to insult your intelligence by suggesting some other compound which he recommends as "just as good," because he makes it himself. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has stood the test of time and experience. Thousands speak well of it—because thousands have been cured by it.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of urine difficulties. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind., will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Orangeburg—S. S. Lawton—The great revival meeting at Trinity Church, this city, closed last night, April 3, after running four consecutive weeks. Results: Converts, 61; received on probation, 73; by letter, 4; reclaimed many. Beyond a doubt Rev. Fulton is a great preacher; he seems to be well prepared for the Gospel ministry, physically, mentally and spiritually. Trinity Church is certainly in good condition. Rev. Whitaker, the great church-builder, built the fine edifice; Rev. Doctor Clark, the great church-worker, put in the hydrogas lights; Rev. Taylor, the excellent financier, paid off the heavy indebtedness; Rev. J. B. Middleton, the disciplinarian of the South Carolina Conference, put the congregation under excellent disciplinary rules and regulations; Rev. I. H. Fulton, the indefatigable pastor and revivalist, is now putting on the finishing touches; his predecessors built the altar and placed the wood thereon; this great pulpit orator calls the fire from heaven.

TEXAS.

Harleton, M. Q. A. Fuller.—The second quarterly conference of Harleton Circuit was held April 8-9, with Rev. B. W. Taylor presiding. A number of officers were present. Peace and harmony prevails on the circuit. Rev Taylor went at the work of the quarter like an old hand. Sunday was a day of spiritual manifestation. Brother Taylor preached two good sermons, to the edification of all present. Nearly 100 persons partook of the Lord's Supper. The Reverend spoke earnestly to our people of the Southwestern and Wiley University, and what each is doing for our people. He will be welcomed on this circuit, at anytime. Collections were good. One subscriber for the Southwestern.

Farrington, Maud Robinson.—Our Sunday school here is a good one. Up to date we have paid our beloved pastor $10.15 and our presiding elder $2.00.

VIRGINIA.

A. W. Randolph, Pastor, Dublin, Va.—On New Year's night our watch meeting was grand. It was the out-pouring of the blessed Spirit was manifest. Our people began the new year with much courage and zeal. On January 15, we began a revival which was continued to the 30th, with good results, conversions, six. The church was greatly revived both financially and spiritually. We are trying to push our work to the front. On February 25-26 our second quarterly conference was held. Rev W. E. Mitchell, the presiding elder, was on hand and the majority of officers were present with written reports which showed that the work was in a prosperous condition. The elder's sermons were well received and appreciated. He was well pleased with the reports and said they were among the best presented. He also spoke in behalf of the Southwestern. Paid Rev. Mitchell $12.40; raised for church indebtedness, $20.29; benevolence, $20.18; pastor, $54.61; total for the quarter, $107.48.

York Town, N. G. Davis—One night there appeared at the door of the parsonage kindly faces of ladies and gentlemen who had come to make the inmates of the parsonage happy by filling their tables with good things. Many pounds of choice groceries were left. Space will not permit us to give names of all the dear friends present.

Field Notes

Brownlee—I. B. Henderson, pastor—Our work at this place is progressing. Every interest of the church is being carefully looked after. I have taken six members into the church since the last session of the Louisiana Annual Conference. The stewards of our church at Asbury presented a $6.95 Bible; also Bro. H. McCoy gave a $6.95 Bible to Scott Chapel. The pastor and family were given a pound party on March 30, and when the party was gone we had more than 60 pounds of choice groceries. Our work is prospering along all lines. We are preparing to paint our church and seat it. We further expect to raise at least half of our benevolences on Easter Sunday.

Field Notes

Jeanerette, G. J. Rogers, pastor.—On the night of March 18, 1905, the pastor and his wife were aroused by a crowd of our young people, both ladies and gentlemen, singing nearer my God to thee. The writer offered prayer, after which refreshments were served. Our tables were loaded with nice groceries.

It is said that Emperor William of Germany has declared that if Russia proves incapable of averting the "yellow peril," Germany may find it necessary to undertake the task. And if Germany does not succeed any better than Russia has in its attempt it will not be worth the while.

The strike situation in Chicago continues with but little change. There have been sympathetic strikes and occasionally violence. The colored men who were brought in as strike breakers have been assaulted as other strike breakers would have been assaulted, whatever their color. These colored men will not be immuned from assault by union men because they are colored men. The employers are making a vigorous effort to win the strike.

The war in the Philippines does not seem to be over. That is the view of it taken by the Filipinos. In a recent fight on the Island of Jolo between Pala, the Moro chief, with 600 well armed followers and the United States troops, under the personal command of Major-General Wood, 300 Filipinos were killed and of the Americans seven were killed and 19 wounded. It sometimes looks as tho there will be an annihilation of the Filipinos rather than a subjugation. At least, some of them are not taking to American ideas very readily.

Every now and then we hear a slur against the plantation songs of the American Negro. We read recently, as a commendation of a president of a certain university, that "he has not introduced plantation songs," which is to say that those who have introduced them are to be censured. There are many of the songs that should not be preserved, but there are others that no amount of false pride or any effort to forget the past should make the Negro lose sight of them. There is a melody, an expression of soul, a warmth and depth of music found in some of these songs that cannot be excelled by any other American music.

The reception tendered President Roosevelt at Chicago on his return trip from the West was a fitting tribute alike to the personality of the man and to the patriotism of the club that entertained him. It is seldom that a President of one political party is entertained by the club of an opposite party. Mr. Roosevelt is proving himself to be the President of the whole country, West as well as East, South as well as North. The sentiment expressed in his address before the Iroquois Club in reference to capital and labor is both strong and healthy. And the sentence addressed to Mayor Dunne, "I give you, as a matter of course, my hearty support in upholding the law, keeping order, in putting down violence, whether by a mob or by an individual" meets with hearty approval throughout the country.

IS THIS A DISTRICTED EPISCOPACY

The following article is taken from the last week's issue of Zion's Herald. It is significant when we consider the view of many concerning "our general superintendency." We give the article in full:

"BISHOP GOODSELL'S APPEAL.

"To the Ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church in New England:

"DEAR BRETHREN—It is known to you all that a great Missionary Convention is to be held in Trinity Church, Worcester, May 23, 24, 25, under the auspices of the Open Door Emergency Commission. Its object is to quicken the missionary spirit in our pastors and people by more complete presentation of all the missionary interests than was possible at the meeting of the General Missionary Committee last fall.

"There will be the largest and fullest missionary exhibit yet given at any of the conventions, and a program of addresses unsurpassed in their quality and scope.

"I appeal to my brethren in the ministry to make this convention a success:

"First, by attending yourselves. The season is propitious, the place easy of access, the railroad fares reasonable, and the opportunity for acquiring missionary intelligence attractive, full, and rare.

"Second, by appointing your Sunday-school superintendents and Epworth League presidents delegates to the convention, or, if they cannot come, substituting them with your best Sunday school and Epworth League workers. In the Sunday-schools and Epworth Leagues we must train the missionary leaders of the future.

Third, by persuading as many of your people to attend as possible. Prejudices against missionary work disappear as intelligence spreads. No one talks against missionary work who knows what the churches have done.

"The irreligious tourist, who mingles only with his kind in coast cities; the indifferentists, to whom one religion is as good as another; and the religious faddists, who, knowing little of Christianity, cheerfully believe in a Buddhism or Babism they have never seen at home—these are the only ones, except the narrow and the stingy, who decry missionary work. Those who know praise. Come and bring.

"Your servant in Christ,

"D. A. GOODSELL, Resident Bishop."

The article in an indirect way only has to do with a districted episcopacy. Bishop Goodsell is given directness in supervision and effectiveness because the administration is localized. He is not the last Bishop to hold the New England Conferences—and may not hold them for years. But, Bishop Goodsell feels called upon to impress his personality upon the life of our New England Methodism and is proving himself to be a royal leader. It does not affect his general superintendency at all to address a letter "To the ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church in New England," nor yet does it limit his general superintendency by signing himself as "Resident Bishop." Methodism needs a directness of supervision, a sort of hand-to-hand leadership, an impressing of personality upon the movement of Methodism in the various sections, and this Bishop Goodsell is giving without reservation, save the thought of the good of Methodism and the spread of Christ's kingdom. He is concentrating his strength upon New England and in no way is "any part or rule of our government" altered, nor is episcopacy done away with nor is "the plan of our itinerant General Superintendency" destroyed. The Constitution is upheld and there is directness and effectiveness in leadership, which Methodism in all parts of the Church desires.

Bishop Mallalieu will live in this city as long as Methodism lives because of his magnificent and statesmanlike leadership, which our Methodism enjoyed during his residence in this city. Our large Methodist population, with its vigor and growth, and with splendid school facilities stands as a monument to the leadership of Bishop Mallalieu. What we are now having in Europe, in South America and in China, and what we are having in the large centers where our Bishops are, is but the enswer to the demand for some sort of a general superintendency, tho general, is nevertheless in a sense districted. We have seen nowhere a more direct and unanswerable argument in favor of a districted episcopacy than the article which we reproduce from Zion's Herald.

It is said that Dr. Booker T. Washington tells a number of interesting jokes; here's a good one. In closing his recent address before the great audience which gathered in the Carnegie Hall, New York City, on Sunday, May 7th, Mr. Washington told this story:

He was called into a little church in Alabama where the congregation had refused to pay the preacher. While he was making a speech an old Negro in the back part of the room kept saying in loud tones:

"We ain't gwine to pay 'im! We ain't gwine to pay 'im!"

After being interrupted several times, Mr. Washington asked the old man why he objected to paying the preacher.

"Because we paid 'im fow dem same sermons las' year."

We have sometimes noticed with what laxity pastor's salaries have been paid and what an effort it took to secure the funds necessary to keep a church running. Being a preacher and sometimes guilty of the repetition of a sermon, we have never thought of it in the light that the congregation had heard the sermon before. Perhaps the old brother is right. We preach some of our sermons too often. Yet, what would some of us do if we had to preach a new sermon every time we entered a pulpit? Say, brother pastor, it might be well for you to change up and preach some new sermons.

A tornado swept the town of Snyder, Okla., on Wednesday of last week and more than one hundred persons were killed and a hundred others were injured. So great is the suffering that an appeal has been issued by the Mayor of the city asking for relief. The property damage is said to be nearly $400,000. The town had originally only 1,000 inhabitants and is entirely unable to cope with the disaster.

Greater America

By Mr. George A Windsor

[Mr. Windsor, as the representative of Wiley University, entered the Texas Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest and won the first prize. "Greater America" was the subject of his oration.]

Rolling on through the ages, there runs a steady stream of tendency. Some mighty purpose is heading everything toward an ideal goal. Every creature, from the coral insect to man, has its place in this procession. Every event, epoch, idea, principle and institution has been marshalled into line to help forward this purpose. What a marvelous array of nations went before, leading humanity up from the pit of bestiality to the mount of the beatitudes, from cave dwellings to the United States of America. Truly civilization wends its way westward.

"The Eastern nations sink, their glory ends,
And empire rises where the sun descends."

Westward the nations have filed from age to age, each leaving a foundation of ascent for future generations. Through wars, convulsions and revolutions, the kingdoms of this world have headed steadily toward one grand ideal. And the realization of that ideal is America.

Standing upon the platform of bygone ages, Columbia looks out on the rich heritage God has given and the fathers have left, and American possibilities and probabilities loom up before her and stretch away into the distant future until the human mind must confess its inability to imagine her prospects.

But a hundred years ago, and the territory now known as the Louisiana Purchase was a wild and trackless wilderness. But a hundred years ago, and where St. Louis stands to-day, some hunter camped at the foot of a tree, cooked his supper, saw his fire go out and lay down to sleep, with only the infinite solitude of the woods for his blanket. And yesterday, on the banks of the Mississippi, in the exposition held in commemoration of that great purchase, we beheld the accumulated greatness and grandeur of the centuries.

To-night, under the Lone Star, gently kissing the breeze, the memory of San Jacinto and the Alamo comes vividly before us. The hallowing dust of Austin, Fannin, Milam, Bowie, Houston and Travis has made this soil sacred, and left it to be forever a heritage dedicated to the valor of the honest freemen of the great Southwest. Here, on Texas soil, the young civilization of the West fought its first battles, and achieved its greatest triumphs. No word in history is more potent, more magical, none more inspiring than that mighty word by which the people of Texas swear—the Alamo.

While we reverence those who fought for our independence in the marshy bottoms of the Brandywine, or maintained our honor on San Juans rugged brow, we must not forget the men who carried the banner of the young republic from the "Old Dominion" to the wilds of the western frontier, and made it possible for the new born sun of independence to cast its rays of civilization from Plymouth Rock to the Golden Gate.

For the future of America, yea, the future of advanced civilization, lies in that country extending from where the rugged Rockies rear their grim heads into the broad expanse of the limitless ether, to where the fertile fields of Louisiana slope gently into the Father of Waters. East of the Mississippi lie 800,000 square miles of wealth-producing land, while on the western side 1,830,000 square miles are quietly awaiting the touch of the plow, that they might bring forth fruit in abundance.

Yet vast territory and abundant resources do not in themselves constitute wealth. Amid all this plenty, the American Indian starved for ages. Until the Angle and the Teuton—men who had conquered many a wilderness before, the wilderness of Brittany, of Normandy, the Black Forest of Germany—scaled the Appalachians and hewed a path into the wilderness. These hardy pioneers were the true architects of our material prosperity.

The great West belongs to the poor man. It is his by right of conquest, conquest over all obstacles, conquest over privation and uncertainties, conquest over all the forces that had combined to thwart him in his plans to install a home and build a commonwealth.

Somehow, of late the jingle of gold and silver in the money marts has sent a shudder down into the foundation of this republic. There is a growing dread of the tyranny of a plundering plutocracy. But, sirs, the poor man who redeemed this wilderness, whose sinew laid the foundation o the civic structure, and who has wrought into its fabric every element of American soil and sun, brain, blood and soul, is the most potent factor in our civic life. Thank Heaven, we do not derive our power from the seats of the mighty, but from the souls of the humble.

This development of the West favors the rich and poor alike. One does not become rich at the expense of the other, but both at the expense of the inexhaustible resources of developing America. There is wealth enough stored in the undeveloped resources of America to make every peasant in Europe an independent citizen.

Some problems in the development of America can only be solved by the application of gigantic capital. The vast amount of wealth accumulated by our capitalists is only a natural result, for in the development of a country invested capital brings in large returns. The infant industries of the East were protected by legislation until they grew into giant monopolies threatening the very institutions that fostered them. Now remedies are sought in tariff and trust measures and reciprocity. But the great West offers a solution to the problem. The investment of capital in the East has reached the point of diminishing returns. And must the Western farmer ship his goods to an Eastern market, with all the cost of transportation, or shall the Eastern capitalist bring his surplus wealth into the undeveloped West and make a market for Western produce?

The great West is perfectly capable of holding the accumulated savings of the Eastern capitalists. And as long as there is competition among the capitalists, as long as there is a great part of this country thinyl peopled and undeveloped, American democracy will not be threatened by a tyrannical plutocracy. All honor to the captains of industry, the makers of manufactures, the builders of railroads, the essentials of commonwealth.

Giant capital, with muscles of iron and sinews of steel, all a-quiver with steam and electricity, whipped and spurred by American genius, will tunnel the mountains, span the gorges, and bring forth mineral treasures, transform forests into comfortable dwellings, bring down the high-piled snow of the sky-mingling Rockies to cool and refreshen the waste and feverish plains of the arid American desert, transport the indigent population from the over-crowded cities of the East to the rolling prairies of the West. Then it is that the withered hand of want will cease to be stretched out to the merciful hand of charity: industry will create, justice will protect, and prosperity will dwell.

Then "Old Glory," her stars made sacred by oft-shed tears, her bars made crimson with patriots' blood, being draped about the American emblem, the "Grand Old Monarch" of the air spreading his wave-like pinions, and soaring into the azure canopy of the heavens, will behold a continued hum of industry, from the cold and icy waters of the Great Lakes to the calm and exhilarating current of Mexico's Gulf, and from where the stormy Atlantic combs her disheveled locks on the rock-ribbed coast of Maine, to where the calm Pacific dashes into spray against the "Golden Gate."

Give to a Rome universal power, and she falls with the weight of her own responsibility. Give to a France a Europe, and she meets her fate on the bloody field of Waterloo; but give to America that younger but mightier civilization of a developed West,

And who shall curb her swiftness in the forward race?
Far, like the comet's way through infinite space,
Stretches the long, untraveled path of light
Into the depths of ages; we may trace
Distant, the brightening glory of her flight,
Till the receding rays are lost to human sight.

Evangelism in the Home

By Bishop W. F. Mallalieu

THE IDEAL HOME.—The family is the unit of society as the individual is the unit of humanity. Home implies always the family. Home is one of the sacred words of all English-speaking people. South of the equator, north of the equator, from sea to sea, and from shore to shore, "home" is a word of blessed significance.

The ideal home is the Christian home. There may be homes that are not strictly Christian, where love and kindness rule and abound. But the home over which God's blessed angels hover, homes that are reminders of the blissful paradise where the presence of God was revealed to our unseeing parents, are the Christian homes. Such homes when sufficiently multiplied, make an ideal community, and such communities multiplied make an ideal commonwealth, and such commonwealths multiplied make an ideal nation, and such a nation is fit to become the possessed inheritance of the Lord Jesus Christ.

This blessed dream of faith and hope will only be realized when all homes become Christian. The world will not be converted to the truth en masse. Towns and cities, society at large will not thus be saved. Even the three thousand born into the Kingdom of Pentecost were only a small fraction of the population of Jerusalem. And the four thousand shortly after added to the number of those who were being saved constituted a scarcely appreciable portion of the whole population.

The great and imperative need of Christians is the Christian home. This means that the father and mother should be true and faithful followers of Jesus, and daily, yes, constantly by word and example, illustrate His spirit, so that children and friends shall be constrained to say these parents have been with Jesus and learned of Him.

MOTHER THE FIRST TEACHER.—Perhaps it may be said with truth that almost everything in and about the home depends upon the mother more than the father. It is the mother who sees the first smile of intelligence that lights up the features of the little babe; it is the mother who first understands its innocent prattle; it is the mother who soothes the pains and sorrows of the child with words of kindness and the kiss of love; it is the mother who teaches the child to say: "Now I lay me down to sleep;" it is the mother who first tells the child about Jesus and heaven; it is the mother who never forgets to pray daily for the precious child committed to her care. What a treasure such a mother, patient, gentle, Christian, is in any home. There is always hope of the children of such mothers. They may be tempted, and may perchance, stray away into paths of sin, but it will be well nigh, if not quite, impossible for them to surmount the barriers in the way that leads to death when erected by the sweet example, by the prayers, by the tears of such a mother.

FATHER AND MOTHER AS EVANGELISTS.—Surely the mother is the divinely appointed evangelist for the home, and always all her efforts ought to be supported, and duplicated by the father. Happy the home, happy the children, whose fathers and mothers are evangelists.

It is to be feared that in some Christian homes mistakes are made in regard to the age when children should be expected to make a conscious surrender of themseves to Christ. Certainly they should never be so treated that they shall come to feel that they are compelled by parental authority. They must not be driven into the fold of the Good Shepherd. They themselves must will to do His will, in order that they may know the truth. At the same time the thought must never be entertained that it is not wise to expect that children of tender years should defer their choice until they have passed the age of childhood. In all this land of ours small boys and girls are taught lessons of patriotism; they sing, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," almost before they leave their cradle, and the Fourth of July is one of the greatest of all days, and the star spangled banner is made to their thought the emblem of all that is most glorious among the flags of all nations. Why not begin in the same way with the boys and girls in their religious training? It is a delusion of the most mischievous character that leads any father or mother to say, let the child grow up to years of understanding, let him read books of various forms of fiction, let him attain wide information and maturity of thought, and then let him decide. Decide what? Decide whether he will be an atheist, an agnostic, a heathen or a Christian? No! No!! By all means pre-empt the young soul for Christ; see to it that he not only becomes a true patriot, but a true Christian.

Remember, it will not do to attempt to shift responsibility in this matter. It will never answer for parents to-day, we depend upon our faithful pastors and Sunday school teachers to train our children. Better let them depend upon charity to supply them with clothing, daily bread and shelter. There are some duties that parents cannot expect others to perform for them. Only parents can evangelize the home as God requires. They may be thankful for any helps that come to them, but they must not ignore duties that are manifestly their own, duties which they can neglect only at the peril of the loss of those they ought to love better than they love their own lives.

Fathers, mothers, Christian parents, evangelize your own homes, and with prayers, and tears, and love, and above all by holy living, win all the children for Christ and heaven.

A Word About Father Crowley and His Recent Book.*

By Rev. John Barr.

*A paper read before the Ministerial Association of New Orleans, May 8, 1905. The price of Father Crowley's book on the Parochial School is $1.00 postage prepaid. Send your order to Eaton & Mains, New Orleans.

Perhaps not since the days when Martin Luther attacked and routed Tetzel, the peddler of indulgences, and thus began the work of purifying the church, has there been such an exposure of the rottenness and utter depravity which obtains among the priesthood of the Romish church as we find in a book which has just been issued by Jeremiah J. Crowley, a priest in the archdiocese of Chicago. The title of this work is significant, and a perusal of the pages that succeed it, will prove to the most prejudiced that it has been aptly chosen. It stands as follows: "The Parochial School a Curse to the Church and a Menace to the Nation." The author is unquestionably a man of great bravery, of transparent sincerity, who has conferred a blessing on his adopted country, and has made a real contribution to the cause of truth and justice and pure religion, by the fullness and directness with which he has given the world the benefit of his knowledge concerning a hideous plot against humanity.

No better insight to Crowley's position and purpose can be vouchsafed than by quoting his own words as we find them at the close of the introduction to his book:

"I am not unmindful of the seriousness of the position which I take in openly exposing the parochial school, in directly championing the American public school, and in boldly assailing ecclesiastical wickedness in high and low places. I know full well the greatness of the power—financial, social, and ecclesiastical—which I oppose. I know that it has vast capital and great prestige. I know that it dines with rulers and is on terms of intimacy with governors, judges and other public officials. I know by several personal attacks that it has henchmen who are ready to take life for pay. I know that it claims to be able to muzzle the press and that by a show of its strength it stifles protests against its wrong doing. But I know some other things. I know that God lives. I know that the genius of his church is against ecclesiastical corruption of every kind. I know that the honest Catholic people of America are crying out for deliverance from ecclesiastical tyranny, immorality and grafting. I know that the masses of the American people are lovers of purity, truth, and justice and that they are loyal to the Republic. I know that this is not the first time in human history that a lone man, relying only upon the blessing of God and the approbation of decent men, has assaulted intrenched iniquity and overthrown it. I do not dread the struggle for "'Simple duty hath no place for fear.'

The following brief sketch of the author's life is doubtless also in place. Jeremiah J. Crowley was born in Cork County, Ireland, on November 20th, 1861. His parents were of Celto-Norman stock and belonged to the plain people. He says:

"My father was a farmer of means. He died July 7, 1904. My mother's maiden name was Nora Burke. She died a few minutes after my birth, while I was being baptized, she having received the last rites of the church. My father thought I could not live, and immediately before the priest pronounced the words of baptism he made an offering of me to the priesthood in the hope that God would graciously spare my life."

The boy grew up in a pious atmosphere and from the first turned gladly to the studies necessary to the attainment of his vocation. In his twenty-fifth year he was ordained a priest in the Church of Rome. Soon afterwards he paid a visit to America, and labored with great acceptability during sixteen months, as an assistant priest in one of the churches in Manchester, New Hampshire. Then he returned to Ireland, where he gained much notoriety by his espousal of the cause of evicted tenants, especially in one notable instance of a Protestant who had been displaced by the action of his own minister. The outcome of this case was the imprisonment of Crowley for nine months. Upon the completion of his sentence he came out of prison a famous man and the idol of the people. After several years of distinguished service to his church in Ireland he came again to America, bearing with him the highest testimonials as to his character and ability, from his superiors. Passing from New York to Chicago, he was settled by Archbishop Feehan, in the pastorate at Oregon, Ill. It was here in 1901, he made himself conspicuous by joining with twenty-five other priests of the archdiocese in protesting against the ordination of one Muldoon, a vicious and corrupt priest, as auxiliary bishop to the feeble-minded and superannuated archbishop. As an immediate result of this action, Crowley was excommunicated by Feehan. The evident injustice of this action was soon recognized by the papal delegate at Washington, at whose instance the excommunication was withdrawn, and Crowley was restored to the priesthood. In the meantime, Feehan proceeded against Crowley in the civil courts and had him ousted from his parish. This civil case has been appealed and is still pending. Upon his restoration Crowley reiterated his charges against certain members of the hierarchy, and urged that his evidence be judicially examined. This the church authorities failed to do. So, after due warning, he has published in the book under discussion the gist of his charges, and much proof to sustain these allegations.

This book is of more than passing interest, because of the full and definite information which it gives from one in a position to know, of the plans of the Romish priesthood to overthrow the public school system of America, and because of the able defense of these schools which it contains, by a most unlooked-for advocate. The work is an arsenal, well-stocked with arms and ammunition for the use of lovers of truth in a conflict which seems to be imminent. It is dedicated to the "emancipated Catholic laity of tomorrow," and is written especially for the purpose of opening the eyes of the Romanists to the enormities of many of their so-called spiritual leaders, and of rousing them to stop such abuses, and to assert their own right to a voice in the management of their church.

The work contains twelve chapters, under the following headings:

1. Introductory.
2. The Parochial School and Catholic Clerical Hostility toward the Public School.
3. The Board of Education of the Parochial School System.
4. The Parochial School Superintendents.
5. The Parochial School Principals and Assistant Principals.
6. The Parochial School Teachers.
7. Graft.
8. The Parochial School Pupils.
9. The Parochial School and the Loss of Thirty Million Catholics in the United States.
10. Apaism—Its Causes and Cure.
11. The Emancipation of the Catholic Laity.
12. The Public School—An Appreciation, with a Discussion of Methods for giving Religion a Recognized Place in the Public Schools.

A resumé of the book may be put under the following general heads:

First, the hierarchy of Rome has determined that the public school system in America must and shall be destroyed. In the accomplishment of this purpose the following plan is being put in operation: (1) The establishment of a church school in connection with every parish. (2) The support and upbuilding of this system, regardless of the burden which it places on the people. (3) The denunciation of the public schools as godless

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

The Vision of a Soul

BY LAURA MARTIN.

'Twas a soul who had paused on its journey,
Weary of wand'ring in sin,
Tired of the world and its pleasures,
Longing for rest from its din.

As it lingered alone by the wayside
A spirit sat down by its side,
And plead with it gently but firmly
To cast the old living aside.

"O, Soul! You are here at the crossroads,
Will you list to my pleadings to-night?
Turn back from the pathways to ruin
And enter the road of the right.

"You have tasted the world and its pleasures,
And have found it has nothing to give,
Will you not now return to your Saviour,
Who is waiting and longing to forgive?"

The soul looked away in the distance,
Then turned from the spirit away,
"The busy world calls me," it answered,
"And I cannot choose but obey."

She paused in the sky to the eastward,
Far brighter than all the world's gold,
Appeared like a heavenly vision
Of the "star" so resplendent of old.

The soul watched the picture, enraptured,
Forgetting the world and its dross;
The light slowly gleamed to a whiteness
And a figure appeared on a cross.

Then back from the path she turned quickly,
With longing for life and for rest;
And turning her eyes to the eastward,
On toward the cross she pressed.

At its foot she threw down her burden:
"O, Christ! I have wandered astray;
I am weary of sin and its pleasures,
They cannot continue for aye.

"But I'm longing to take up your burden,
To lay my poor head on your breast,
To hear your glad voice in rich welcome,
'Well done, you may enter your rest.'"

The light in the east faded slowly,
And twilight descended in calm;
It soothed the tired soul into slumber
Like the notes of a comforting psalm.

Her comrades on earth paused to listen,
Softly the soul hastened by;
In their ears a glad anthem was ringing:
It was, "Glory to God on high."

God Sees the Best

God does not set the less against the greater, as we do. He sets the greater against the less, that is His way. Who will not say, Blessed be His love? Man being very small, being petty at the kingliest, finds a flaw.

Thus the wise fool talks: "He is honest, he is wise, he is gifted; he is, on the whole, a man of notable intellectual stature and influence; but—" man thinks he is clever when he discovers a "but." He gathers himself up into Pharasaic perpendicularity and says: "I discovered that, I pointed out that frailty; I saw it."

There can be no pit deep enough for a wretch like that. How doth God speak? Thus hear the music of infinite love: "He has gone astray, he has been unfaithful, he has turned aside from me a thousand times, he has done the things he out not to have done; yet"—that is the difference between human judgment and divine judgment in relation to that greatest of all mysteries, human character.

It is better to fall into the hands of God than into the hands of men. Your brethren like to speak against you, to have discovered a peccadillo, one little sin, and to have fingers dainty enough to pick out that little hair and be able to say: "I've got it!" The Lord saith: "You have wounded Me and disappointed Me and gone away from Me, yet—how can I give thee up? Return!"

That is the difference between your human theories and the great divine idea of redemption—God always seeing the best, fixing His eyes upon the salvable points, looking to those elements that are still left out of which He can rear manhood. He will not quench the smoking flax; He will not break the bruised reed.—Joseph Parker.

Trust and Obey

If we could see beyond to-day,
As God can see;
If all the clouds should roll away,
The shadows flee—
O'er present griefs we would not fret,
Each sorrow we would soon forget,
For many joys are waiting yet
For you and me.

If we could know beyond to-day,
As God doth know,
Why dearest treasures pass away
And tears must flow—
And why darkness leads to light,
Why dreary paths will son grow bright—
Some day life's wrongs will be made right,
Faith tells us so.
If we could see! If we could know
We often say;
But God in love a veil doth throw
Across our way;
We cannot see what lies before,
And so we cling to him the more,
He leads us till this life is o'er,
Trust and obey.

The Old Time Religion

Would you believe it, my fastidious brother or sister, they are making the welkin ring over in London by singing this homely old religious battle-hymn? The Weekly Witness, in its report of the wonderful revival, says:

"When introducing this song one afternoon recently to his aristocratic Albert Hall audience, Mr. Alexander said:

"I often hesitated about using this song with a cultured and educated audience, but an incident occurred during our work in Scotland which showed me that it touches the hearts of all classes.

"When I went to Edinburgh I was entertained in the home of the dean of the medical faculty. I liked him very much, but he was Scotch and I was a little afraid of him—he was so proper. We used this hymn-book all through our campaign there, but we never sang "The Old-Time Religion," for I thought those Scotch people would never put up with that song. But at last some people came round to me, and said, 'Why don't you sing No. 7—"The Old-Time Religion?' I put them off with one thing and another. The day before our mission closed, however, some one came up and said, 'Now, do let's have No. 7 before we get through.' I thought, 'Well, they can't run me out of town but one day before our time, anyhow.' So we sang 'The Old-Time Religion,' and, to my surprise, these Scotch people caught it up almost like they do in America or Australia. When I got home that afternoon I didn't dare to think of what Professor S— would say to me. But when I got indoors he just looked at me from under his eyebrows and said, 'Why did you not have that before? It is the best song you have had!' And when I was up in Edinburgh a few days ago on a flying visit, he spoke of No. 7."

Gratitude

We thank Thee, O Father, for all that is bright,
The gleam of the days and the stars of the night,
The flowers of youth and the fruits of our prime,
And blessings that march down the pathway of time.

We thank Thee, O Father, for all that is drear,
The sob of the tempest, the flow of the tear;
For never in blindness and never in vain
Thy mercy permitteth a sorrow or pain.

We thank Thee, O Father, for song and for feast,
The harvest that glowed and the wealth that increased;
For never a blessing encompassed earth's child
But Thou in Thy mercy looked downward and smiled.

We thank Thee, O Father of all, for the power
Of aiding each other in life's darkest hour,
The generous heart and the bountiful hand,
And all the soul-help that sad souls understand.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: Rev. 3: 20. Theme: The Divine Guest at the Door.

The human heart is the door which leads to every possibility of good, to every inspiration of living hope, to every activity of holy faith, to every consummation of pure love, and to every desire of willing obedience. Through the open door of the heart alone can God the Father, by His Son, reach man and save him from wretchedness, despair and death. We have in the text a picture true to life in time as it is related to man in his relationship to God as Creator, Redeemer and Savior. Christ stands at the door of man's broken down, sin cursed nature, seeking admission, that He may reinstate His own divine nature, repair the awful breach, cleanse the sinful inclinations, and re-dedicate him to the service of God. At the door of every sinner's heart this moment stands Jesus as a Friend; He knocks as an interested Visitor; He listens as an earnest Seeker; He waits as only God can in tender mercy and patient love.

Jesus is knocking at the door of the demolished residence of our sin cursed nature. He must knock, for He cannot force His way; He must wait until He is invited to come in; He cannot come in until the door is thrown wide open to admit Him. Jesus stands at the door of man's intellect with the truth which sets free; at the door of man's affection, with pure love which imparts life; at the door of man's memory with the full record of his sins that must be cleansed and forgiven; at the door of man's hope with the glorious promise of heaven; at the door of man's desire with the possibilities of a better life; at the door of man's conscience with the terrible rod of iron, saying, "Ye know your duty, but have failed to do it," and at the door of man's will with the divine light of holy and noble motives.

Behold the patience of Jesus. He, although refused admission, simply taps, lightly taps at the door; although He is refused, and contemptuously kept waiting, He gently repeats the rap again and again.

YOUNG FRIENDS

Mamma Todd's Celebration

BY ANNIE WILLIS M'CULLOUGH.

A stormy Arbor day! What a strange thing to find in the springtime calendar! And not a gentle spring rain, either, but a hard, steady, gray pour. The clouds hung low and black and the streets were streaming with water. So were the faces of some of the children who had hoped to celebrate the day, and were now disappointed.

There were no tears, however, in the Todd family. Mamma Todd was generally quicker than tears. Before you had a chance to feel that dreadful ache that begins somewhere about the heart and spreads all over you, when disappointed, she would laugh and pop out with some better plan than the cherished one you had to give up.

Mamma Todd thought that being happy was a habit. She said her children should have the habit, no matter what came. She would have a happy family. When any of the children were real frowny, they had to go out of the room until they could look happy again.

So on this stormy Arbor day she laughed more than usual at breakfast.

"Of course you couldn't plant trees," she said. "It's raining so fast that really the holes you dig would be puddles before you could set the tree roots in them and puddles are not just exactly the things to plant trees in."

So Morris Todd and Marion Todd and five-year-old Dorothy Todd laughed, even while the rain was just pouring against the dining-room windows.

"You must come home early, Papa Todd," said mamma. "Come at 3 o'clock this afternoon. This house is going to be full of holidays—not just one little Arbor day, but a whole roomful of holidays."

"Dear me!" exclaimed Papa Todd. "I'll come, of course. But what if you have the place so full that I can't get in?"

"You can peek through the window!" shouted Dorothy, clapping her hands.

It was a busy, busy day. Nobody had any time to feel sorry about the celebration they had missed. Morris had to go out, in rubber boots and coat, to ask half a dozen of their little friends to come over at 2 o'clockp. "We don't know what it is," he told them, "but mamma does, so it's sure to be fine."

The plan proved to be an afternoon of holidays. Mamma Todd had long been thinking of this as a good way to help the children over some great disappointment. Each child was to represent a holiday in tableau, the rest to look on. Mamma Todd arranged each tableau herself, then opened the sliding doors and let the children look as long as they liked.

First came pretty little Helen Chase dressed as a May queen, with a wreath of artificial flowers and a silver-paper wand which she held gracefully in her hand.

When mamma asked, "Guess what holiday this is?" they all shouted, "May-day."

Next came Morris Todd, dressed in his soldier suit. He was dragging a little express wagon full of plants and flowers and stood with his soldier cap raised above his curls in a salute. After a little hesitation, some one said, "Decoration day," which was right.

When the sliding doors opened again there was Donald Pratt touching a piece of punk to a big red firecracker that would never go off because it was home-made. A toy cannon and pistol were lying near him.

"Fourth of July!" shouted the children as they saw it.

A girl kneeling by a tub of water in which apples floated was not hard to guess as "Hallowe'en," and then the audience knew that Thanksgiving was coming, even before the doors were again opened. The tableau showed a plump girl dressed as a cook, stirring something in a bowl, at a table heaped with fruits, vegetables, pie plates and cake pans.

"Christmas" was very pretty, with a small Santa Claus filling the stockings of two big dolls, who slept near by in their white bedstead. How they all clapped for that!

"Washington's birthday" showed a small George Washington astride a big hobby-horse.

"Now it's Dorothy's turn. Mamma saved her till the last," said Morris, who had just peeped into the library through a side door. "She's going to look awfully sweet—the best of all."

The doors opened and the prettiest tableau of all was disclosed. Dorothy sat on the floor, playing with her village and pan of sand. Her dolls were there, too; also Scamp, the fox terrier, who was never far away from Dorothy. It was a wonder he kept so still, but he seemed to know that you mustn't move in tableau.

"Notice what she's doing with the trees," suggested Papa Todd.

"Oh, Arbor day!" they cried out. "It's the best tableau of all!"

"And so you see we really have celebrated Arbor day," announced mamma, "because we have had a tree-planting."—Youth's Companion.

A Word About Father Crowley.

and immoral. (4) A persistent and widespread effort for division of the funds raised by the State for education.

Second, an exposure of the fallacy of the hierarchy's position by showing (1) That the ultimate control of all Roman Catholic schools is foreign and anti-American. (2) That the teaching force in parochial schools is utterly inadequate, because of the lack of training and character on the part of most of those who are engaged in this work. (3) That the effect of these parochial schools on the children who are sent to them is demoralizing, because of the inefficient methods used in teaching, and because of the subordination of the training of the children to schemes for money-getting, and because of the low ideals constantly held before the children.

Third, the certainty of the overthrow of the parochial school is insisted upon. This result will be brought about either by an outraged constituency or by an indignant public.

Fourth, a detailed revelation for the benefit of Roman Catholics of the corruption of the church in past ages, together with a recital of the dreadful practices of many of the priesthood here in America. Also a relative comparison of the antagonistic systems of Americanism and Vaticanism. Finally, an appeal to the laity to insist on control of their church property through local boards of trustees, to demand a decent priesthood, to study the truths of their religion as contained in God's word, a translation of which has been made from the Vulgate, under the authority of the church.

A careful study of Crowley's book can but fill us with apprehension for the welfare of our beloved land and her precious institutions. In reading its burning and eloquent words we are reminded of Lafayette's prophecy, that, if ever the United States were overthrown, it would be by the machinations of the Romish hierarchy. The presence in our midst of enemies so inveterate and so powerful as those described by Crowley bodes ill for the future, and especially so, because of the widespread indifference to or tolerance of this peril on the part of our people and their leaders. In view of the danger, it is cause for profound thanksgiving to Almighty God that he has raised up for himself a witness, brave and strong, in the very camp of the enemy. It behooves all loyal Americans, regardless of class or creed, to support vigorously Crowley's efforts towards exposing the baseness and treachery of those whose schemes threaten the destruction of the best loved of institutions. "The Parochial School" should be given a wide circulation, as a most effective antidote to the poison of ignorance and false tolerance that is coursing through the veins of our body politic and body religious.

Who can tell, if he gets a fair hearing, whether Jeremiah Crowley may not be used as an instrument to complete, in our country at least, the work which was begun in Germany nearly four hundred years ago?

EDUCATIONAL

Cookman Institute Items

BY MARY NEFF, A. B.,
Secretary of the Faculty.

This famous pioneer school—the oldest school for colored people in the State of Florida—is just closing one of the most prosperous and blessed years of its long history.

During the year, 350 students have enrolled, including all sections of Florida, even Key West.

The year has been one of great peace and harmony in every department. The large, new buildings, with the extensive campus, have been greatly enjoyed by the students.

During the year many distinguished visitors from the North and South have called at the school and inspected the work. Among those who have favored the school with addresses may be mentioned Bishop B. T. Tanner, of the African M. E. Church; Bishop D. H. Moore, of Portland, Ore.; Bishop C. C. McCabe and Bishop J. M. Walden, of our own church; Bishop L. H. Holsey, of the Colored M. E. Church, and Bishop Alexander Walters, of the Zion Church; Dr. L. W. Munhall, the noted evangelist, and Prof. and Mrs. Lowe, of Philadelphia.

Our gracious revival, in which more than 100 of our students were gloriously converted, has made the year memorable.

Dr. Docking, the president of the school, represented its interests in various sections and has made a pleasing impression, so that our ministers and churches feel that a friend and brother has come among them.

The year promises to close with the same hopeful outlook with which it began. The Commencement Exercises promise to be of a high order. Bishop Luther B. Wilson, of Chattanooga, will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, May 28, and Bishop E. J. Weed, of the Episcopal Diocese of Florida, will give the Commencement address on June 2.

The new catalogue is now being prepared and will be ready for distribution by May 29. It promises to be an attractive representation of the school and its work. It will be finely illustrated and beautifully arranged. Such as may be interested in this work can secure a copy by addressing the president. Dr. Docking will be pleased to have the ministers who may know of persons who ought to attend the Cookman Institute send him the names and addresses so that he can mail them the new catalogue.

Marion Educational Institute

Sunday, May 21, at 11, Baccalaureate Sermon by Rev. A. G. Glenn, D. D., of Marion, Ala.

Eight p. m., address before the M. C. B. Mason Debating Society, by President R. M. Davis, A. B.

Monday, 8 p. m., concert, Primary Department.

Tuesday, 8 p. m., concert, Normal Department.

Wednesday, 8 p. m., Graduating Exercises.

This promises to be the greatest in the history of the Institute.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson IX—May 28, 1905. Title—"Jesus Crucified." (John 19: 17-30.) Golden Text.—"Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures." (1 Cor. 15: 20.

Jesus, after being condemned, was delivered into the hands of Roman soldiers to be crucified. They took Him into the "common hall," gathered about Him a large band of soldiers, divested Him of His robes, clothed Him in purple, put on His head a crown of thorns, and in His hand a reed. They smote Him, spit upon Him, and mockingly worshipped Him. They then put on Him His own clothes, and led Him away to be crucified. When they started Jesus bore His own cross, but likely through weakness He gave down ,and they compelled Simon, of Cyrenia, to carry it for Him to the place of crucifixion. This event is divided into two periods of three hours each.

I. The Period of Mocking. 1. The place where Jesus was crucified was called Golgotha, or Calvary. Both words are the same. The one is Hebrew and the other Latin. They mean the skull, or the place of a skull. It was likely an oval-shaped knoll, and almost barren of trees and grass. The exact location is not now certainly known. It was beyond the walls of Jerusalem, but "nigh to the city." It was in a garden, in which there was a new tomb, owned by Joseph of Arimathea. And it was near a road. The graves of many great men cannot to-day be found.

The drink offered to Jesus before His crucifixion was wine mingled with myrrh; vinegar mixed with gall. The wine was a cheap sour drink, used by the soldiers. The myrrh was a bitter gum, obtained from a low thorny tree in Arabia. This drink was likely mixed with wormwood, or some other stupefying drug. The design was to deaden the sensibilities, and thus prevent pain. It was no doubt given in mercy. There may be found some sympathy in the most unfeeling hearts. This drink Jesus refused. He felt it to be His mission to drink the cup His Father gave Him to its bitter dregs. We should be very slow to take any drug to deaden pain.

The crucifixion of Jesus is a sad piece of history. The instrument on which He died was composed of an upright beam and a cross piece. The main timber extended above His head, and to it was nailed the superscription. The cross was laid on the ground. Jesus was placed upon it; his arms extended and his hands nailed to the wood. It is likely His feet were drawn towards His body until their soles rested flat on the beam and then spiked fast. The cross was then raised and allowed to drop with a heavy thud, into the hole made for it. We can only conceive of the pain caused by such cruel treatment.

The time of the cricufixion was nine o'clock in the morning. The Jews began the day at sunset, but the second twelve hours began at sunrise. The four soldiers that nailed Jesus to the cross, now took their seats beside Him, to see that He was not removed. While thus guarding Him they cast lots for His clothes. Thus the prophecy: "They parted my garments among them, and cast lots upon my vesture"—was fulfilled. See how cold and unfeeling man can become. The sons of Jacob sat down to eat bread by the living tomb of their brother Joseph.

The superscription nailed above the head of Jesus was written in Hebrew, Latin and Greek. These were the three leading languages of that age. They indicated religion, empire, and culture. We read: "This is Jesus, the king of the Jews." (Matt.) "The king of the Jews!" (Mark). "This is the king of the Jews" (Luke). "Jesus of Nazareth, the king of the Jews." (John). Pilate gave Jesus up to be crucified because He said He was the king of the Jews. This was no doubt the superscription. Mark has omitted all of the preface, while each of the other evangelists have given parts of it. Pilate likely wrote: "This is Jesus of Nazareth, the king of the Jews." It was written in mockery, yet a truer sentence was never expressed. Jesus is a king, not of the Jews only, but of all nations.

Jesus was crucified between two thieves. Thus the Scripture: "He was numbered with the transgressors," was fulfilled. One abused him for not saving them and Himself. The other feared God, acknowledged his guilt, said his punishment was just, and asked Jesus to remember him when He came into His kingdom. Jesus said to him: "To-day shalt thou be with me in Paradise." This is not an interrogation, but an emphatic declaration. Jesus always hears the prayer of the penitent believing sinner. This is the only death-bed conversion in the Bible. God has given just one to show that it is possible, and only to teach that it is not probable.

II. The Period of Darkness. This darkness began at noon and lasted three hours. It was not an eclipse of the sun, for it occurred at the time of the full moon. It was no doubt miraculous. Nature was in sympathy with the Son of God dying on the cross. It was that sign from heaven, for which the Pharisees had mockingly asked. By it the people were awed, and became silent. All mocking ceased. No event of theirs is recorded while it lasted. It was a symbol of the wrath of God. How awful are the transgressions of men.

The seven sayings of Jesus while on the cross are impressive. When the cross fell with a heavy jolt into the hole made for it, Jesus prayed "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." When the penitent thief confessed his sins, and begged for pardon, Jesus said: "To-day shalt thou be with me in Paradise." When He saw His mother and John standing near by He said to her: "Woman, behold thy son," and to him: "Behold thy mother." When His sufferings were intense, He cried: "My God! my God! why hast thou forsaken me?" When His wounds had created a burning fever, He said: "I thirst." When the work the Father gave Him to do was completed He cried: "It is finished." He then cried with a loud voice: "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit," and gave up the ghost. His spirit took its flight. The head likely fell forward on the breast. All was over. The world has been redeemed. Jesus "suffered for sins, the just for the unjust."

When Jesus expired on the cross two strange events occurred. (1). There was an earthquake. Rocks were rent, and graves were opened. After Jesus arose from the dead, many saints came forth from their graves, entered into the city and were seen of many. (2). The veil of the temple was rent in twain. This was the great veil of purple and gold, that divided the holy place from the holy of holies. It was twenty yards long and ten yards wide. The Lord said by this act: that He no longer dwelt in the temple; that the work of salvation was complete; that the middle wall between Jews and Gentiles was taken away; that the old covenant, with its priesthood and sacrifices, was at an end; and that the new covenant of grace was now inaugurated.

Missions Among Latin People

Scripture Reference: I Tim. 2:5; Heb. 10: 19-22.

The people among whom the Roman Catholic faith predominates are called Latin. Italy, Mexico and South America are the Latin countries in which we have established missions. Besides these there are several islands Roman Catholic, but we are not to consider them at this time.

By their wealth, their social prestige and their political power Romanism makes this field hard for the propagation of Protestantism. Their priests and nuns keep the people in ignorance and prejudice them against the practices of the true faith. This vast field, though so difficult, we believe, shall yet yield abundant fruit to the glory of our Lord and Savior.

Italy.—Our mission work in Italy began in 1871 when Rev. Leroy M. Vernon entered Rome. In spite of the difficulties the work slowly advanced. Dr. William Burt, now a Bishop residing in Europe, wrought in this field eighteen years. Under his supervision the work has wonderfully prospered. The King of Italy has publicly recognized the beneficent effect of the work of Methodism in his domain, especially what has been done in Rome. We have two districts outside of Rome manned by native preachers, namely Naples and Bologna.

Mexico.—The Mexican mission was started in 1872 under that old missionary hero, Dr. William H. Butler, who also began our mission work in India. His son, Dr. J. W. Butler, has been working in this field for a number of years and is now presiding elder of the Central District. This mission now includes Mexico, Lower California and Central America. The Mexico Annual Conference has five presiding elders's districts, 5,000 members and probationers, besides over 10,000 adherents. Nearly 5,000 children are in our day schools and 3,000 in our Sunday schools. We are making some headway among this illiterate and superstitious people. The recent progress has been marked and gratifying.

South America.—Methodism began her work in South America when Justin Spaulding was sent to Rio de Janiero and John Dempster to Buenos Ayres. It sometimes seemed as though we were not to make much headway, but recently we have divided the work into two Annual Conferences. They have nearly 6,000 members, with fifty missionaries. Bishop T. B. Neely has his Episcopal residence in Buenos Ayres. Dr. H. K. Carroll, Assistant Corresponding Secretary of the Missionary Society, has been on a recent tour of inspection of this field. He says: "I have had a good opportunity to learn much about the resources and political condition of the sections of South America I have visited; about the moral, spiritual and social state of the people, and about the need and progress of missionary work among them. The result is, in brief, a profound conviction that this part of the New World is entitled to more consideration for what it is and what it may become than it has yet received.

Methodism has as yet made little progress in Ecuador and Peru, where it is at present best known as an educational and Bible agency.

The evangelistic arm is to be strengthened and made dominant. In the southern half of the continent we have more opportunities than we can improve for the presenting of the gospel to the people. They are ready for it, and the evidences of its power over the lives of men make it everywhere respected. Our greatest need is an increased native ministry and more churches. We have converts who make good exhorters and develop into local preachers. * * * No other form of Protestantism has our opportunity or seems so well adapted to meet the needs of the situation; and no other field in the Western Hemisphere promises more encouraging returns.

Easter Reports

Port Allen, La.—The Resurrection Day was one of great enjoyment at Scott Chapel. Ten persons bowed at the altar for prayer and one was received into full membership. Raised for missions, $10.00; total collection, $47.95. Rev. C. Spears, pastor.

Cotton Plant, Ark.—The Easter program was rendered in a most excellent manner. Collection, $50.00. Rev. G. W. Johnson, pastor.

Coffeyville, Ark.—The Easter Sabbath was appropriately observed and $6.00 was raised for missions. Rev. H. T. Canady, pastor.

Pelican, La.—The Easter program presented by the Sunday school of James Chapel, Miss Blanche Ogletree, superintendent, was a success. Collection, $5.75.

Minter City, Miss.—Easter was observed with large success. At 11 o'clock a. m., the pastor, Rev. L. F. White, preached the Resurrection sermon before a large and attentive audience. In the afternoon the Sunday school rendered a fine program. Collection, $53.50.

Hawkins, Texas.—On the Hawkins Circuit, of which Rev. T. Moore is pastor, the following Easter offerings were raised: Hawkins Church, $10.10; Center Church, $10.50; Green Grove Church, $5.00; Gilmer Church, 50 cents; total, $26.10.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Easter Sunday was an auspicious occasion for Warren Church. The pastor, Rev. A. S. Virgil, preached to a crowded house. In the afternoon occurred the dedication of the new $1,600 pipe organ, on which Mr. Andrew Carnegie kindly donated $750.00. The large congregation greatly enjoyed the excellent papers and addresses. The little folks did well. Collection, $157.87.

Pearlington, Miss.—Easter was a joyful day with our people here. The church was tastefully decorated and an interesting program was rendered under the direction of Superintendent W. A. Daniels. The Easter offering was $11.72. Rev. F. Smith, pastor.

Winsted, La.—At Trinity M. E. Church a splendid program was rendered. Mrs. E. Dright, the assistant superintendent, assisted by a band of Sunday school workers, made the occasion a success.

Oxford, Miss.—Easter services were successfully carried out at each church on the Oxford Circuit. Collections: Lotts Chapel, $7.00; Jones Chapel, $5.40; Mount Zion, $4.50; Sulphur Springs, $4.47.

Falmouth, Ky.—The Sunday school of our church at this point, Rev. James Allen, pastor, rendered an interesting Easter program. A collection of $10.00 was raised; $5.00 of which was for missions.

Fort Smith, Ark.—Prof. W. F. Kidd, the efficient superintendent of Mallalieu Church, his faithful corps of teachers, the young people and the decorating committee made Easter a day of joy. Raised for missions, $25.00. T. R. Wamble, pastor.

New Albany, Miss.—Easter was a glorious day for the churches on the New Albany charge, Rev. J. H. Bynum, pastor. At St. Mary $19.40 was raised; New Albany, $73.85; total, $93.25.

Crawford, Miss.—A happy occasion was Easter Sunday at Crawford, Rev. J. Johnson, pastor. A generous offering of $40.00 was given.

Jacksonport, Ark.—Easter was observed in a successful manner by our church here, of which Rev. M. F. Strong is pastor. Collection, $15.45.

La Follette, Tenn.—The excellent program rendered on Easter Sunday at Central Church delighted the large audience present. Collection, $8.00

Blount Springs, Ala.—Easter was a high day at St. James Church, Rev. C. H. Allen, our efficient superintendent and his corps of teachers spared no pains in making the day one of interest. The program was well rendered. Collection $11.25.

Owenton, Ky.—Easter Sunday was a gala day in the history of Stowe Chapel M. E. Church, it being the first Easter exercises rendered for several years. The program was excellent. A neat sum was raised for missions. Several young souls were added to our church.

Itta Bena, Miss.—Under the direction of its superintendent, Prof. J. T. Strong, this Sunday school presented an excellent Easter program. Rev. G. Orange, the pastor, reports a collection of $90.80.

Lexington, Miss.—The Easter program was rendered in full at Epworth Chapel, writes the pastor, Rev. C. E. Moody. The success of the same is largely due Mrs. V. H. S. Hoover, the organist, and the assistant superintendent, Mrs. L. D. Bethel. Collection, $52.00

Newport, Ark.—At this point Rev. Wm. White, pastor, the Easter service was all that could be desired. A collection of $60.00 indicates the success of the same.

Bay St. Louis, Miss.—The Easter program at St. Paul Church, Rev. J. E. Holmes, pastor, was pleasingly rendered under the able management of Miss Beatrice R. Ross. Collection, $20.00.

Dadeville, Ala.—Easter Sunday was a glorious day on this charge. The pastor, Rev. J. A. Holliday, raised at Dadeville, $41.00, and $19.00 at Pleasant Hill, making the total collection $60.00

Waynesboro, Ga.—An interesting program was rendered Easter by the Sabbath school of Haven M. E. Church. A large audience was present. Missionary offering, $15.00. Rev. J. S. Stripling is pastor.

Hazlehurst, Miss.—The resurrection of our Savior was observed at Mount Sinai Church with beautiful flowers, and an excellent program conducted by Mrs. J. R. Ratliff and her able assistants. The Easter offering was $4.90.

Jackson, La.—Easter observance at Magnolia Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. H. T. S. Johnson, pastor, began at 4 o'clock a. m., and continued into the evening service, with most excellent results. Collection $20.30.

Covington, Ky.—Rev. John W. Robinson writes: "We had a great day Easter. Raised for missions alone $77.24 and $34.09 for the church's running expense."

Summerfield, N. C.—The Easter celebration on the Summerfield Circuit was quite a success. The mission collection was $30.00. Total collections for the day, $40.00. Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor.

Galloway, Tenn.—Easter proved a day of exceptional interest to the Methodists here. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Mosley, preached a beautifl Easter sermon, With addresses, recitations and sweet music, the glad story of the resurrection was told.

Hernando, Miss.—On Easter, at 11 a. m., the pastor, R. Sewell, preached an able sermon. In the afternoon the Easter program was rendered to the delight of all present. Raised for missions $12.02.

Summerville, Ga. — On the Summerville charge, Rev. W. C. Bryant, pastor, Easter Sunday was observed with fine exercises. The total collection was $30.00. Bro. R. Simmons, an excellent teacher in the day school here, rendered most excellent help all day.

Rapides and Avoca, La.—Easter day was observed with much delight. One addition to the church. Collected for missions, $8.00. Rev. Wm. L. Amos pastor.

Smyrna, Tenn.—"On Easter we raised $11.10 for missions. Our program was splendid. Many visitors were present. Superintendent Ella Gregory arranged the program," writes Edith Erevein, the reporter.

New Augusta.—Easter day was observed at Bolton Chapel. The program was carried out in full. Collection, $6.50. At night a great many sinners bowed at the anxious seat; eight additions and three conversions.

Enterprise, Miss.—Easter was observed on this circuit, reports Rev. C. H. Brown. The program was followed and the collections from the several churches amounted to $13.60.

Reddick, Fla.—Through Rev. A. Emanuel we learn that the Sunday school rendered a beautiful program on Easter Sabbath and raised for missions $13.00.

Washington, La.—Through Miss Josephine Walker, we have a full account of the Easter services. They were all interesting and spiritually uplifting. The day closed with a collection of $30.00.

Comite, La.—Rev. A. Luster writes that the Sunday school is alive and on Easter followed the program and had an enjoyable time. Collection good.

Olivier, La.—For missions was raised $9.00, writes W. D. Riggen. Easter was fittingly observed.

Clarksdale, Miss.—Easter Sabbath was a day of great joy, writes Mrs. E. E. Bell. The Sunday school with its splendid teachers did well. She reports $20.00 for Easter collections.

Vanceville, La.—The report for Easter Sabbath, from Rev. W. H. Lang, says, at 3 o'clock in the early morning the resurrection sermon was preached to a crowded house. For the day there was a collection of $39.80.

Mills, Miss.—From his several charges, Rev. W. S. Leake reports a total collection of $47.05. The celebration of Easter was fitting.

1—All business letters should be addressed to Eaton & Mains, and all communications intended for publication to the Editor.

2—In sending matter for publication, write plainly on one side of the paper, and make your communication as short as the subject will allow.

3—When the ADVOCATE does not arrive regularly, notify us promptly.

4—Methodist pastors are our authorized agents, to receive subscriptions and collect dues for the ADVOCATE.

We have been encouraged by the manner in which the brethren have been sending in subscriptions. The spring conferences did exceedingly well, sending in the largest lists we have had from these conferences in many years. While we have a number of kind and cordial letters from the brethren in the renewal of their subscriptions, all of which we most heartily appreciate, none is more striking than a letter from Mrs. Mary English, of Theodore, Ala., who is 84 years and 6 months of age. She writes interestingly of her pleasure in reading the SOUTHWESTERN. She says she is not too old to develop herself, and being the leader of a class of twenty members she thinks it is very necessary that she should take the church paper. Sister English has it down right, every officer of the church should subscribe for some church paper.

Dr. Booker T. Washington in an address before the recent meeting held in Carnegie Hall, New York City, under the auspices of the Colored Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, is reported as saying: "I have always been proud of my race, and I am prouder of it this afternoon than ever before. No temptation, were it physically possible, could make me become a Jap, a Chinaman, an Englishman, or any one but an American Negro." Dr. Washington is right. For in spite of all limitations, discriminations and embarrassments the American Negro has a great opportunity. If he is looking for service it is near him. If he is looking for heroic opportunities the circumstances that surround him will bring them forth. If he is looking for heights to climb they are on every hand. If he is looking for honor, in spite of all that's been said, the world stands ready to honor the American Negro who proves himself by worth and merit. Nevertheless there are American Negroes whose greatest delight would be to get away from the race.

Leroy Irvin Lexon, a boy nine years of age, is to be rewarded by Miss Helen Gould for his bravery in saving the Rio Grande express, last October, from a wreck in the canyon of the Las Animas river. The lad was on his way to school when he discovered several tons of rock on the railroad track, whereupon he immediately ran back and with his handkerchief signalled the oncoming train. When the train stopped it was within ten feet of the pile of rock. As a reward for his bravery Miss Gould is to give the lad an education in a preparatory school and university, the same to be selected by the boy's parents.

PROFESSOR McWILLIAMS DIES FOR AFRICA'S REDEMPTION

THOMAS R. McWILLIAMS
Died at Monrovia, Liberia, April 15, 1905

Mr. Thomas Rutherford McWilliams, for the last two years professor of sciences in the College of West Africa, died of hæmaturic fever on Saturday, April 15, at Monrovia, Liberia. At the time of his death his wife, Mrs. Leona McWilliams, was on her way to America, having been compelled to leave Liberia because of her own poor health.

Professor McWilliams was a native of Kansas, and at the time of his death, was in his twenty-seventh year. He received his education in Kansas State University from which he was graduated in 1901, and in New Orleans University, where he was an instructor and graduate student, receiving the honorary degree of Master of Science in 1902. It was while he was connected with the latter institution that he became acquainted with Miss Leona V. McNeil, whom he married May 28, 1903, the month in which they were appointed as missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church to Liberia. Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams sailed from New York City, June 13, 1903, and immediately upon their arrival in Monrovia, Mr. McWilliams began his work as teacher.

About the beginning of last April, only two weeks after his wife had sailed for America, Mr. McWilliams was stricken with fever. After being confined to his room for two weeks he seemed to be improving, until Friday, April 14, when there was a decided change for the worse, and at 7 o'clock the next morning he passed away. He was buried in the mission plot at the Monrovia cemetery, close by the grave of Melville Cox. Dr. A. P. Camphor, president of the College of West Africa, said of Mr. McWilliams: "He was a good and faithful teacher and much loved by his students." Mrs. McWilliams, who arrived in New York before the news of her husband's death reached her, has gone to the home of her father, the Rev. Wiley McNeil, of DeKalb, Miss.

According to Dr. Camphor, Professor McWilliams' death is the first loss of this kind among the Negroes engaged in our mission work in Africa since Bishop Hartzell became Missinoary Bishop.

"THE GOSPEL MESSAGE"

In the second series of the Methodist Pulpit the Western Methodist Book Concern brings out the volume of sermons of Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society, under the title of "The Gospel Message." There are in all eight sermons and talks. Dr. Mason is the first of the men of our race in the Methodist Episcopal Church to enter the field of sermonic literature and in doing so he brings credit to himself, the Church and the race. In the volume there is much of his burning eloquence, clear, practical and vigorous thinking and apt illustration of the gospel truth. The volume is neatly and substantially bound, containing a photogravure of the author. In appreciation of the worth of the volume, as well as the honor done the race in issuing it, thousands of copies should be sold among our people in the South. The book may be had at this office at fifty cents; seven cents added for postage. Send in your orders at once.

OUR WORK IN LIBERIA

The Liberia and West Africa comes to us in its March number graced with the picture of Bishop Scott on its front page, and brimful of interesting news. Much interest, of course, centers in the reception that was tendered Bishop Scott by our workers and Liberian Methodism in general. Bishop Scott is bringing new honors to the race and to the Church in this office of grave responsibility. We desire to give two excerpts concerning the impression that the Bishop has made in Liberia. They appear editorially in The Liberia and West Africa, and we give them in the order in which they appear.

"Bishop Scott's first presidency of the Liberia conference more than met the expectation of that body, and the way he has taken hold of the work is such as to gratify and inspire all concerned. From the time of his arrival to the present he has been very busy, faithfully studying conditions and planning for the good of the work. With his long experience of men and affairs, his strength of character and capable leadership, the outlook for the work promises much for the future."

In giving an account of the Liberian Annual Conference the same paper says:

"The new Bishop in his maiden presidency, exhibited fine executive ability, and seemed perfectly at home in the president's chair. His handling of the business connected with the conference and the work generally, showed quickness of grasp, soundness of judgment and safeness of leadership and a training of years gathered from the various sources of our great Church system, all of which seemed an excellent preparation for the work to which the Church had called him."

It will be seen by this that Bishop Scott is giving pre-eminent satisfaction and is alike a credit to our Methodism in Africa and to our Methodism at home.

Dr. J. H. Reed and family have arrived in Liberia and Dr. Reed has entered upon his work as vice-president of the College of West Africa. Our school interests, under Dr. A. P. Camphor, is being pushed with vigor. We have now throughout the republic of Liberia 30 schools, with the College of West Africa at the head. There are in these schools 42 teachers and 1,084 students, of whom 507 are Americo-Liberians and 577 are natives. Dr. Camphor, the president, is pushing the work with might and main.

On February 28th, Dr. Ernest Lyon, the Resident Minister and Consul General of the United States to Liberia, tendered a reception to Bishops Hartzell and Scott. There were present besides the Bishops other distinguished guests, including Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Camphor, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Sherrill, and Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Reed. The Liberia and West Africa, speaking of the affair, says: "The spacious apartments of the Legation were open to the guests of the evening, who entered most heartily into the social conviviality that chased away the hours in sweet concord and friendship. This gathering was most unique and formed really somewhat of a reunion, since many of the guests had been former schoolmates in bygone days. At 3 p. m. sharp, the guests under the direction of Dr. Lyon, our congenial host, marched by couples to the dining room where a most sumptuous feast was prepared. There, with light hearts and keen appetites, the courses one after another were dispatched amid jokes and laughter until the physical man felt the full sufficiency and satisfaction of his being."

This reads well and makes us on this side wish we had the privilege of enjoying such feasts with such distinguished company. These items of news concerning our workers in Africa no doubt will be read by our constituency with much interest.

THE VIGOR OF METHODISM

Perhaps there is no better illustration of the power of Methodism to adapt itself to the needs of the world than is illustrated in our work in the Philippine Islands. Admiral Dewey hoisted the American flag on Sunday, May 1, 1898, and then in rapid succession do the events transpire that looked toward the establishment of Methodism in this new field. (1) In July 1898 the Missionary Society took action looking toward the occupation of Manila. (2) In November 1898 Bishop McCabe sent Rev. Mr. Owens to Manila. (3) During March 1899 Bishop Thoburn visited and organized the First Methodist Episcopal Church. (4) In November 1899 the General Missionary Committee made an appropriation of $2500. (5) About January 1900 four women, representatives of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, landed in Manila. (6) On March 26, 1900, Rev. Thomas H. Martin landed as the first regularly appointed missionary of the Missionary Society, and on May 9, 1900, Rev. J. L. McLaughlin and wife landed. (7) March 1900, during the visit of Bishop Thoburn, accompanied by Dr. Frank W. Warne, occurred the ordination as deacon of the first Filipino convert. (8) August 1900, organization of the Philippine District Conference, by Bishop Frank W. Warne. (9) On April 19, 1901, Dr. Homer Stuntz and Rev. W. A. Goodell landed. (10) October 1901 the first piece of land was acquired. (11) November 1901, the Mission Press opened. (12) May 1904, the General Conference passed an enabling act for the organization of the Mission Conference. (13) March 11, 1905, the Philippine Island Mission Conference was organized, Bishop W. F. Oldham presiding. And thus in seven years after entering into a new field, we have not only gotten our first convert, but we have organized a Mission Conference with two thriving districts, composed of 12,436 probationers and more than 6,000 adherents, and a total of 144 local preachers and exhorters, 136 of whom are Filipinos, 4 Americans and 4 Chinese. What hath God wrought!

BISHOP NEELY IN SOUTH AMERICA

The wisdom of assigning general superintendents to foreign residences has been justified by the results that have been attained. During the last quadrennium Bishop Vincent was assigned to Zurich, Switzerland, and Bishop Moore to Shanghai. During this quadrennium Bishop Burt takes up the residence in Zurich and Bishop Bashford in Shanghai. Buenos Ayres being added to our list of Episcopal residences, Bishop Neely was assigned to this post and has already justified the wisdom of the assignment. The Buenos Ayres Christian Advocate speaking of Bishop Neely's presence says: "By his ability as a preacher, his wisdom as an administrator, and his gracious manner towards all, Bishop Neely has captured the hearts of our people. It is a great compliment, and also a great blessing to our work, that the home church has sent one of her ablest men to reside here permanently and direct our work." The presidency of Bishop Neely at the thirteenth session of the South America Annual Conference is most enthusiastically commended and, altho some delicate and complicated questions arose they were all satisfactorily and amicably adjusted.

The Eliza Dee Home for our girls in Austin, Texas, at the close of its first year is in pressing need of increased accommodations. Forty young women who applied for admittance had to be turned away. For the good of these and many others who would improve themselves we hope the necessary funds for a new wing to the Home will be in hand before the opening of another school year.

Personal and General.

Rev. M. S. Goins, pastor of our charge at Napoleonville, was in the city this week and reports his work in splendid condition.

Rev. D. D. Williams, our pastor at Lockport, La., who has been ill, is now sufficiently recovered to resume charge of his work.

Rev. S. Beauford, of Cave Springs, Ga., closed recently a successful revival, in which occurred fifteen conversions and additions to the church.

Rev. E. O. Troupe, son of Rev. S. D. Troupe, has accepted the pastorate of Dahomy charge of the Greenville District, Upper Mississippi Conference.

Rev. J. W. Lavatt, B. D., of the Washington Conference, will deliver the annual sermon to the graduating class of Douglass High School at Huntington, W. Va.

We are pleased to receive the minutes of the last sessions of the Mississippi and Central Missouri Annual Conferences. Secretaries G. W. Smith, D. D., and B. F. Abbott, have done their work very creditably.

Bishop Luther B. Wilson will preach the baccalaureate sermon of Cookman Institute, Jacksonville, Fla., May 28th, and Bishop E. G. Weed, of the Episcopal Church, will deliver the commencement address on June 2nd.

Rev. W. H. Higgins enters upon his work as the pastor of St. James Church, Pine Bluff, Ark., with the most hearty reception and co-operation of the entire membership. His pastorate at St. James promises to be one of the most useful years of his life.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Liattah Cora Aberalla Marshall, of this city, to Mr. Richard Anderson Crolley, of Chicago, the ceremony to take place June 7th, at the residence of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Marshall, 1724 Constantinople street.

The Rev. J. M. L. Harrow, of Garraway, Liberia, arrived in New York on the steamer Grosser Kurfuerst, Wednesday, May 10, and left the next day for his boyhood home in Milverton, Ontario. Mr. Harrow will spend a few months in Canada for the benefit of his health.

Rev. R. Carroll, of South Carolina, speaking of Dr. L. M. Dunton, of Claflin University, says: "He is one of the greatest, wisest and best men in the country." This is a true estimate. It is not an over-use of superlatives. They are all in place. Dr. Dunton fills every one of them. May his tribe increase.

The following changes have been made in the appointments of the Delaware Conference since the last session which was held at Dover, Del.: Rev. F. H. Butler goes to Montclair, N. J.; Rev. D. H. Hargis to Centreville, Md.; W. S. Brown to Hudson; Rev. Hudson Waters to Box Iron; Rev. A. R. Shockley to Harrington, Del.

Mrs. A. E. Davis, superintendent of the Junior Epworth League, Little Rock Conference, expects to start out on her work soon. She has been hindered in doing so before now on account of ill health. She desires that the pastors shall begin the organization of Junior Epworth Leagues at once. Her address is Brinkley, Ark.

The Mt. Pleasant Methodist Episcopal Church, which is about completed, is considered one of the most attractive buildings in Gainesville, Fla. The opening services were held Sunday, April 30th, when $500 were raised. The large and well-arranged parsonage is completed. To the splendid young pastor of this church, Rev. J. M. Deas, and his co-workers we extend hearty congratulations.

President W. W. Lucas, of Meridian Academy, is making extensive preparations for the reception of Dr. Booker T. Washington, who is to deliver the annual address of that institution May 31st. In order to accommodate the crowd that is expected, Dr. Lucas has secured the Fair Ground and reduced rates, it is expected, will be granted on all roads leading into Meridian, and a great time is expected.

Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, delivered the annual address at Rust University, Holly Springs, Miss., Friday, May 12th; the commencement address at the State Normal College at Normal, Alabama, May 16th, and the commencement address at Alcorn University, Westside, Miss., May 18th. Governor Vardaman is president of the Board of Trustees of the last named institution.

Mr. B. R. Peters, an energetic young man of New Iberia, is agent for the Postal typewriter. He is putting push and enthusiasm into his work and, altho he has been in the employ of the company only five months, he has sold twenty-five machines. His territory is the lower part of Louisiana. Mr. Peters is an upright, honest, Christian young man and can be depended upon for integrity in business relations. His address is 518 Peters street, New Iberia, La.

Prof. R. B. McRary, A. M., of Lexington, N. C., delivered the annual address before the literary societies of the Agriculture and Mechanical College, Greensboro, N. C. The address was a very scholarly treating of the Negro problem from a three-sided point of view—moral, intellectual and physical. Prof. McRary said that a little learning is a dangerous thing, and probably has worked greater injury to the Negro than any other one thing. He laid stress upon practical education and urges that whatever is done should be done thoroughly. And well did he say in closing: "No people can ever hope to be successful who leave God out of their training."

Dr. J. C. Waddy, of the class of 1904, Meharry Medical College, has been practicing since his graduation at Murfreesboro, Tenn. Rev. C. E. Alexander, our pastor at this place, writes a most excellent letter concerning Dr. Waddy's professional and religious life during his stay at Murfreesboro. Brother Alexander says: "Not only does Dr. Waddy commend himself because of his efficient practice of medicine, but by his gentlemanly and religious life has won the confidence of all the people. The doctor gives considerable attention to church work, taking especial interest in the church music." Dr. Waddy desiring a larger field, leaves Murfreesboro, and Brother Alexander says that the entire community, tho wishing him the best of things, regret exceedingly that he must leave.

NEWS NOTES

The forty-third general assembly of Missouri granted this year to the Lincoln Institute, the State Normal School for Negro students, an appropriation of $77,000.

Chas. C. Cade, a Negro letter carrier in the postoffice of Houston, Texas, was one of the five from the entire state to pass successfully the civil service examination for positions in the Postal Service of the Panama Canal District.

Mr. Chas. Stewart writes interestingly, in the Baltimore African American of May 13, of Dr. Matilda A. Evans, the first woman physician, black or white, to enter Columbia, S. C., and has so demonstrated her ability that she is now recognized as one of the ablest physicians and surgeons in that state. Dr. Evans, seeking to aid her race, turned her home into a hospital and this effort was so well received by the people that it led to the establishment of a hospital and training school for young girls of the race.

According to the new Catholic Directory Boston is the third largest Roman Catholic city in the United States.

At a recent mass meeting held in Carnegie Hall, New York, about $10,000 of the $29,000 needed for the Colored Young Men's Christian Association, of that city, was raised. A check for $500 was received from Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan. Bishop H. C. Potter and Dr. Booker T. Washington were the principal speakers.

The yellow fever is spreading through Panama and as several persons employed by the United States canal offices are prostrated by the scourge, it is likely to interfere with the work of the Panama canal. The Panama Canal Commission, however, has alloted $634,440 for sanitation work on the isthmus, and steps will be taken to improve conditions.

Grand Army Memorial Day is to be one of unusual interest this year in New York City. The Confederate Veterans of that city are to be the guests on this auspicious occasion of the United States Grant Post, Grand Army of the Republic. The oration at the tomb of General Grant will be delivered by Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, and afterward the old soldiers, of former opposing armies, will dine together.

Doings of the Workmen.

ALABAMA.

Hobson City, R. W. Fisher.—This charge, under the leadership this year of Rev. L. W. Goodson, our new pastor, is a success. In spite of the unfavorable weather, we have had good services each Sabbath, but one. Each department of the church is at work, the Sunday school, the Epworth League and the Woman's Home Missionary Society are all doing excellent work. The church generally is spiritually alive. The congregation is being increased. The Sunday school seems to be doing better work financially than every before. Three members have been added to the church this quarter. Rev. J. W. Thomas, our new presiding elder, held our second quarterly conference April 1. He seemed on Sunday to have been at his best. He preached a glorious sermon on Sunday morning and administered the Lord's Supper to a large number. Raised for the presiding elder this quarter, $10.02; pastor, $52.74; Sunday school, $12.50; $5.63 of that amount for missions, $1.05 for the Sunday School Union, and $5.00 for the sick and poor. Trustees, $27.81. Total for the quarter, $109.11.

ARKANSAS.

Augusta—John Young.—St. James M. E. Church, Rev. James H. Green, pastor, is enjoying prosperity. Rev. Green has won for himself the confidence of this town. Since his arrival here we have been known as the second leading church in Augusta. He has taken 16 members and built a very nice parsonage. Rev. James Green is a church worker and a stirring preacher and is carrying a good congregation and is loved by all classes of people.

Lewisville—P. W Bobo.—Our first quarterly conference convened April 15-16, 1905, with our new presiding elder, D. B. Harston, in the chair. We had a full attendance. The presiding elder stirred the people up about our church paper. On Sunday he preached a wonderful sermon. Rev. Lee Nelson, the pastor, and the presiding elder fixed the appointments for local preachers. The writer was sent to McVeal and Magnolia. Collection this quarter $58.00.

Polk—R. B. Fagan.—I was at Newport on a visit. I stopped to see Rev. White, the pastor. About twelve or one o'clock a storm arose, and the result was a band of willing workers came in, and the many good things were left. Bro. White is moving along in a first-class style and is loved by the people.

Hensley—A. S. Johnson.—My first quarterly conference commenced April 15, with W. S. Sherrill in the chair. It was a full conference. The Elder preached at 11 a. m. and baptized Frederick Douglass Harston, the son of Rev. D. B. Harston. The Elder preached also in the evening, and seven were received into full connection. Raised this quarter, $32.36. Dr. W. S. Sherrill is the hero of our conference.

Bentonville—C. C. Flowers.—Dr. E. E. Budanauso, A. M., B. D. M., is here supplying our work until Rev. Jackson can get to us. Dr. Budanauso lectured to a crowded house in the Opera House one night last week and it is said that more than 700 people were turned away. Those that heard him asked him to repeat his lecture. We are proud of Dr. Budanauso because we have never had a man that the white people seem to take to so much.

Bledsoe—D. W. Johnson.—My first quarter was a success. The elder was unavoidably absent at the quarterly conference. The work is alive and all interests looked after.

Marcha—J. H. Sanders.—Our first quarterly conference was held at Zion Chapel, April 1st, Rev. M. N. Langston in the chair. He is the right man in the right place. The elder preached in the morning and Rev. A. R. Ray in the afternoon. Paid P. E. $10.36, raised for the poor $1.36, mission $12.

Marianna—F. J. Jacobs.—Quarterly conference met on time April 1st, with Rev. B. J. Griffin, P. E., in the chair. The reports showed an increase on all lines. He preached a logical and philosophical sermon. Forty communed. Collected this quarter for pastor $20. At 3 o'clock p. m. we went to Marianna, wher the new organization was awaiting us in spite of the rain. We paid P. E. in full. We have paid for a lot in Marianna at a cost of $210.00. The new church will cost $1,500.00, and it will be a help if the brethren will send me a few dollars for the new enterprise, as we need help.

Cotton Plant—G. N. Johnson, Pastor.—The evening of April 17th, Dr. J. L. Wilson, pastor of Wesley Chapel, Little Rock, Ark., delivered before this people one of his interesting lectures. All were delighted. He also preached two excellent sermons.

GEORGIA.

Waynesboro—J. S. Stripling, Pastor. Haven M. E. Church.—We have just closed our revival. Revs. A. M. H. Evans, of Millen, Ga., and E. M. Collett and his son, of Charlotte, N. C., assisted us. The meeting was glorious. We had twenty accessions.

KENTUCKY.

Louisa—G. C. Riley, Pastor.—Our first quarterly conference was held March 22-23, by our new presiding elder, Rev. G. W. Zeigler. He was heartily received and highly appreciated. This was one of the greatest quarterly conferences ever held in this part of the country. We regret the loss of our beloved P. E., Elam A. White, but God has put in his place another noble man. Our prayers will follow him that he may have success on his new work. Our pastor is hard at work again. We trust this will be a banner year for our church. One year ago, our pastor, G. C. Riley, found here only eight members, but we now have 37 active members. We have a lovely little church valued at $700. Mrs. Myrtle J. Livisay is our organist. Our Epworth League Chapter is in a prosperous condition, with Miss Ethel L. Riley as president.

Maysville—Miss Julia S. Young.—At the last annual session of the Lexington Conference, Rev. E. A. White, P. E. of the Maysville district, was transferred to the Ohio district, much to the regret of his many friends. Rev. White had been on the district four years, and by his manly bearing and the Christian spirit which characterized his dealings with his fellow-man, has endeared himself to the people of his district. In appreciation of the high esteem in which they hold him, the members of Scott Chapel gave him a beautiful gold watch-chain and the sewing circle of the Bethel Baptist Church gave him a reception at the home of Mrs. Silas Marshall, where over sixty guests paid him an earnest of their personal interest and friendship, and in addition presented him with an elegant silver shaving set, including mug, brush and mirror. Rev. White takes with him into his new work not only the sincere best wishes of every member of the Methodist church on the district, but of members of every denomination, and his legion of friends throughout the State.

LOUISIANA.

Pleasant Hill—Our first quarterly conference was held at Mt. Zion M. E. Church March 11 and 12, with the Rev. H. Daniels in the chair. A good number of the officers were present with their reports. The presiding elder preached a sermon which was the need of the hour; it was both logical and spiritual. Text, Acts 3: 19. Raised at the quarter $16.10, and for all purposes during the quarter $43.20. Paid presiding elder $13,; paid pastor $22.85. The bad weather has hindered our work some, but the spirit our people manifested at the first quarter speaks well for the future. The people manifested sympathy toward me and my family during the cold snap by giving us pounds, and I take this method of thanking the members of the W. C. T. U. for a hat and the members and friends for a suit of clothes for the Conference.

Baton Rouge—Hampton James, pastor—A grand reception was tendered Mrs. Ella Jordan and Mrs. Emma Emma Chambers, of Shreveport, La., on Monday evening, March 27, at the residence of Mrs. Anna Jordan, sister-in-law of Mrs. Ella Jordan. The guests who had the good pleasure of attending the reception consisted of some of the best people of this city.

W. T. S. Johnson — If present indications count for anything Magnolia M E Church is going to be her former self during this year. The members are manifesting a degree of interest in the entire machinery of the church that certainly points towards sucess. As an evidence of good feeling between pastor and people, the parsonage has been beautifully papered and partially refurnished. Last Tuesday night a pound party was given us, resulting in a large number of pounds, enough to last a long time.

Pecan Point—R. E. White—At a late hour Saturday night we were awakened by Sisters Ann McElroy, Malinda Coleman, Teana Taylor, Alice Thomas and Emma Logan, who led a host of members and friends to the parsonage. Several Baptist friends were with them. Bro. Jack Woodson, of the Baptist Church presented the pastor a purse on behalf of the friends. The pastor in well chosen words thanked the party and offered prayer. The party then were invited into the dining room, where they loaded the table with good things and left a promise to call again.

Patoutville—J. W. Winey.—This is our second call since our loving pastor has been with us and on the 2nd we had a good sermon preached by Rev. S. Tilmon. His subject was "We lay down our lives for the Brethren," and we had a large congregation to listen to it. We thank the Lord that we have our pastor living with us in patoutville.

Vincent, J. H. Rylander, pastor.—At this place we have some of the best and thriftiest people in this State. Many of them own property. As a token of respect for us, I was cordially received. The most of my traveling and moving expenses was raised before I met all the people. Rev. J. W. Turner, our presiding elder, held our First Quarterly Conference, after which he preached an excellent sermon which was inspiring to our people. Following, the writer preached his introductory sermon. On the night of March 3, the same day we moved in the parsonage, a number of young friends together with some leading members of the church, visited us, and presented us money and many good things. Since then, they continue to come with fine groceries and various supplies.

Berwick—D. Shelby, pastor—Last night about 10:30 o'clock a number of friends came to our home, leaving 50 pounds of groceries and $1.25 cash. There was a welcome address by D. Smith and remarks by S. James and F. J. Humphrey. This is the work of the steward sisters of Mason Chapel M. E. Church. The committee that led this cause is a blessed one. It was composed of Mrs. C. E. Sanders, Mrs. E. Smith and Mrs. F. Branax.

MISSISSIPPI.

Tupelo—W. M. Williams—Our first quarterly conference was held by Rev. W. C. Clay, our elder. He came to us well rested and full of enthusiasm, and preached a well prepared sermon. One precious soul was converted and one joined the church. At 7:30 p. m. our pastor, the Rev. J. C. McGee, preached an eloquent sermon. He is a good man and we all love him. May God help us to follow him. Collection for our quarterly conference, $21.45.

Elliott—J. W. Terrell, pastor—A storm arose in Payne's Chapel Thursday night, March 2d. Not a cloud was to be seen. This church is five miles from the other. The storm didn't stop until it reached the parsonage. The leaders were Brothers R. H. Johnson, A. P. Purnell, and Miss Luvena O'Neal. They brought everything in the line of groceries. This storm was highly appreciated and the stormers are invited to came at any time. Brothers R. H. Johnson and Y. W. Logan came with the wagon, the contents of which made the hearts of the pastor and wife to rejoice. We are planning to do a great work this year for the Lord and the church.

Lexington, C. E. Moody, pastor.—On Tuesday night, March 14th a party of young people, thirty-five or forty in number, led by sisters Seanie Armstrong, N. E. Outlaw, Lula Cooper, Maggie Wade and Phillips, gave us a pleasant surprise. Just as we were preparing to retire for the night we heard the sweet strains of music approaching. We opened the door and were met by this merry crowd who made their way to the kitchen, and to our surprise deposited 78 pounds of choice groceries on the table. In a few appropriate remarks we thanked them for their kindness and invited them to come again. The party consisted of members of our church and the Baptist church and the sinner people. This is the second time that the good people of this place have surprised us.

Canton—D. F. Dudley, pastor—Our first quarterly conference convened here March 3-5. Rev. J. C. Hibbler, the presiding elder, was on time. Our quarterly conference was well attended. The estimating committee placed pastor's salary at $600; presiding elder's, $80; conference claimants, $3; educational fund, $2. Sunday was a grand day. At 3 o'clock love-feast; 7:30 preaching by the presiding elder, and the whole membership was out. Dr. Hibbler preached from the text, "Redemption." Raised $32.16. Communicants, 115.

Minter City, L. F. White, pastor.—I came immediately to my work the first Sunday after the adjournment of conference, was cordially received, and greeted with words of welcome. We had a good beginning and pray for a good ending. Our First Quarterly Conference convened March 18-19 with Rev. B. F. Woolfolk, D. D., in the chair. On account of bad roads and heavy rains, not a third of the people turned out. Those present made good reports, which indicated a prosperous and successful year. Sunday was a glorious day. The Lord was with us and poured His spirit upon us. Fiftyfive communed. Paid pastor $55.20; presiding elder, $25.00; other purposes, $7.50; total during quarter, $87.20

Paulding—B. W. Robinson, pastor—The quarterly conference of the Paulding Circuit convened March 11-12, with the presiding elder, Rev. J. B. Brown, in the chair. The conference was well attended. Nineteen class leaders presented written reports showing the work in a prosperous condition. At 11 o'clock the elder preached with power to a well filled house. This was one of the two eloquent sermons delivered by him during the day, to the delight of all present. We found this work in a dilapidated state, but with the Lord to help us we mean to bring things to pass. Paid the elder in full; total raised this quarter, $30. We are now planning the erection of a new parsonage at Leonia. The office of this work will not be Paulding hereafter, but Leaonia, Miss.

Cornwell—W. T. Haynes—Our first quarterly conference met at Maple Springs, March 11-12. Rev. Thos. W. Davis, presiding elder, presided. The writer was elected secretary. Rev. W. T. Wright, the pastor, is a good leader, and good results are expected this year on this charge. The financial claims fixed by the committee are as follows: Pastor, $650; presiding elder, $100; benevolence, $100. Two cash subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN; $41.05 raised in the conference; total amount raised during the quarter, $54.85. The next quarterly conference meets at Hopewell.

Fayette—P. H. Rembert, pastor—We are moving off nicely in our new field of labor. Our beloved presiding elder was here Feb. 22nd and held our first quarterly conference. We had quite a number of the conference members present, and they made good reports. I brought my family to this place on March 4th and the people received us gladly. We were met at the depot by a committee of three, namely, Rev. A. Logan and Sisters Jones and Taylor, and when we reached the parsonage we found that a storm party had been there and filled the dining room table with many good things and left Sisters Logan, McInty and Haly to make us welcome.

Handsboro.—A surprise in honor of Mrs. Maria C. Franklin was given on the 3rd of March. The parties participating in this happy affair met at the residence of Mrs. Franklin's mother and enjoyed a most delightful time. Among the promoters of this social gathering were Mrs. S. A. Camp, Misses A. K. Moffet, L. Bell, O. Wells, W. Boyd, I. Wells, E. and W. Harris, and others.

S. A. CAMP.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Statesville Charge—Rev. A. B. McQueen, pastor—Storms do not come all the time as this one came for damage was not the result of its coming—only good. The members of Bell Mount M. E. Church and several of the Shiloh members of the Zion Church came to the house of Sister Hanshaw and left many good things. Come again at any time.

TEXAS.

Madisonville, A. E. Gibbs, pastor—Our First Quarterly Conference was held at Tanyard April 1, with the presiding elder, L. S. Blakeney, present. The officers were on hand and presented splendid reports showing the circuit to be in splendid condition, owing to a heavy rain storm on Saturday night we could not have 11 o'clock services on Sunday. The elder was at his best at 3o'clock and preached a soul-stirring sermon. The sermon will be forever remembered by those present. The holy sacrament was delivered to a goodly number of comunicants. Paid the elder $9.15; pastor, $27.50; benevolences, $16.00; total, $52.65. The SOUTHWESTERN and Wiley were remembered.

VIRGINIA.

Grantville—E. R. Miller—This charge is in a prosperous condition. The aim of the entire church seems to be one. Our church is a very beautiful and commodious edifice, and our people here are intelligent, thrifty, loyal Methodists. They love and believe in the old church. The Methodist Episcopal Church believes in manhood and womanhood, regardless to race or color—previous condition, servitude. Therefore no true ambition need not be suppressed for fear it will transcend impossibilities. She holds out boundless opportunities to her children. The blessings offered our people by the M. E. Church are fully appreciated. Great numbers of our people own their own homes and farms. They do not only fill the church at the various services with their presence, but they are always ready to contribute liberally of their earthly substance for the support of the church. There is great demonstration of the power of God at each service. We have had several conversions and additions to the church. I am striving to lead this host to victory by the help of God.

Fourth Vice President.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

The Minutes of our Conference will be ready by the last of this month. Please forward to me the money at once, as I shall not be able to get them and send them out to you until they are paid for. Some of our brethren have sent in their money and I know others will as soon as they read this ntice. Yours in the work,

W. R. BUTLER,
1924 Sixth St., New Orleans, La.

WEST TENNESSEE DISTRICT.

By request of many of the brethren I have changed the date of the West Tennessee District Conference from July 28rd to August August 22nd. Now, brethren, it is expected that you come prepared to report in full the entire benevolent collections. Dr. E. M. Jones, our Sunday Schol Agent, will be present, also other leading men., Dr. D. W. Fields, president of the Sunday School District Convention; Rev. Joseph Harrison, president of the District Epworth League Convention; Mrs. Caroline Palmer, of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, and Mrs. A. H. Stewart, of the Ladies' Aid Societies, each expect to have their departments largely attended. The committee on program will in due time have a neat program for the different societies on the district. Rev. J. P. Price is making preparations to entertain the Conference. His people expect to entertain all those who may come. Brethren, send in your Walden University money to Dr. J. A.Kumler, D. D., president of Walden University. Yours for the church,

J. A. W. MOORE, P. E.
270 Calhoun St., Memphis, Tenn.

CLARKSDALE DISTRICT.

As Junior League Superintendent for the District, I desire information on the following points: 1. Let all pastors and Junior League officers report on all Junior Leagues, giving the number of members and stating the condition of the Leagues. 2. Please let me know in cases where the Junior Leagues have not been organized. Address me at Schlater, Miss.

G. B. MURRELL.

GRIFFIN DISTRICT.

I was appointed to the Griffin circuit on the 12th of December, and Hosanna Church was burned on the 25th of January. It was the seat of the District Conference for this year. Some thought it best to change the place of meeting, but the brethren and myself went to work, and now we have a rice large church, and well seated We therefore invite you to come on We will assure you a comfortable place to hold the conference and everything else that will add to your comfort. J. H. DAVIS, Pastor.

OPELIKA DISTRICT.

Reduced rates have been secured on the certificate plan for the Opelika District Missionary Convention to be held at West Point, Ga., June 1-5, 1905. C. L. DUNN.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

For reasons best for all concerned the Brookhaven District Conference is hereby changed from June 22 to July 20. The brethren will take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

G. W. SMITH, P. E.

WACO DISTRICT.

The Sunday School and Eporth League Convention will convene at Chilton, Tex., June 22. Every chapter should be represented and make this the best convention ever held. Reduced rates have been secured over all railroads. Tickets on sale June 21 and 22. J. S. MEDLOCK, Pastor.

PALESTINE DISTRICT.

Dear Brethren: If you will compare your last year's benevolent assessment with the Conference statistical report, you will find that we raised only 33 1-3 per cent. of the amount assessed for the Conference Claimants' cause. This shows that that very worthy claim was sadly neglected, which, of course, should not be the case. Further comparison shows that many of the pastors did remarkably well in this matter, while others showed an utter lack of interest or indifference, and, as a natural result, collected nothing.

This cause, intelligently presented, will induce intelligent and liberal giving. Remember, brethren, that these worthy souls are looking to us to-day for the help which they so richly deserve. We must not fail. I appeal to you again, with all earnestness of heart, and urge that you do your whole duty toward these honored veterans and the widows and orphans left to our care. Yours in His name,

A. E. GIBBS.

Madisonville, Texas.

NAVASOTA DISTRICT.

Dear Pastors and Members: I was appointed at the last Conference as secretary of this district to look after the Conference Claimants' Fund. We cannot overestimate the worth of the old fathers in the Gospel, who have given their time and good health for the Master's cause. Old age is upon them and no wealth have they to make them comfortable. The Conference says it cannot use them and the churches have closed the doors against them for support. Brethren and sisters and friends, let us help these worthy brethren by raising the Conference Claimant assessment. Raise every dollar. I am planning to visit each charge to help just a little in this matter. Write me at once if you need me, and send send me the names of your Committee on Conference Claimants. J. A. TILLORY.

SAN ANTONIO DISTRICT.

Dear Epworthians of the San Antonio District: In accord and by authority of the Executive Board of the Epworth League of the San Antonio District, I herewith give you an outline of the proceedings that body, which met in San Antonio April 7, trusting that you will act accordingly.

Have You Rheumatism?

You Can Be Cured FREE

A SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY.

It is now possible to be cured of any form of rheumatism without having your stomach turned up-side down or being half choked to death, and every sufferer from rheumatism should welcome this marvelous discovery with open arms and give it an honest trial. The new remedy was discovered by John A. Smith, Milwaukee, Wis., who is generous enough to send a package free to every sufferer who writes at once. It is a home treatment and will not keep you from your work.

As you know, if you've tried them, every so-called rheumatic remedy on the market to-day, except this genuine cure, will cause you violent stomach pains, and some of them are so dangerous they will cause heart trouble. And the worst of it is they never cure. When a person has rheumatism the constitution is so run down that he should be very careful what he puts into his stomach.

It therefore gives me pleasure to present a remedy that cures. That remedy is

"GLORIA TONIC."

Before I decided to tell the world about the discovery of "Gloria Tonic," I had it tried on hospital patients, also on old and crippled persons with perfect success. But some people never will believe anything until they know it from experience, so the best and quickest way is for you to write me that you want to be cured and I will send you a package of "Gloria Tonic" free of cost. No matter what your form of rheumatism is, acute, chronic, muscular, inflammatory, sciatic, neuralgia, gout, lumbago, etc., "Gloria Tonic" will relieve you. Do not mind if other remedies have failed you, nor mind if doctors say you are incurable. Mind no one but write me to-day sure. "Gloria Tonic" has so far cured persons of upwards 80 years of age. This offer is not for curiosity seekers, but is made to rheumatics only. To them I will send a trial package of "Gloria Tonic" free.

Never before has a remedy been so highly erdorsed as "Gloria Tonic." Among the eminent people who endorsed it are:

DR. G. QUINTERO, X. Medical Doctor and Surgeon of the University of Venezuela, whose endorsement of "Gloria Tonic" bears the official seal of the United States Consulate.

HON. EUGENE H. PLUMACHER, UNITED STATES CONSUL, Maracaibo.

STEVENSON MACADAM, F. I. C., F. C. S. of Analytical Laboratory Surgeons Hall, Edinburgh, Scotland.

L. L. RATHMAN, CALOOTE, South Australia.

THE EDITOR of the famous Medical Journal "Health," London, England, and many others.

If you are a sufferer send your name today and by return mail you will receive "Gloria Tonic" and also the most elaborate book ever gotten up on the subject of Rheumatism, absolutely free. This book contains many drawings from actual life and will tell you all about your case. You get "Gloria Tonic" and this wonderful book at the same time, both free, so let me hear from you at once. Address JOHN A SMITH, 1092 Gloria Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis.

Free to Women.

Free Trial of the Marvelous Neo-Treatment, Sent to any Woman who sends Description of her Case.

Dr. Vance M. Powell.

Neo-treatments are a wonderful cure for all diseases of women such as falling of the womb, ulceration, inflamation, painful, irregular or suppressed menstruation, flooding, change of life, ovarian troubles and the many other diseases or weaknesses of the female organs, piles, fistulas or rectal diseases. Neo-treatment makes possible painless childbirth and every young mother should use the Neo-treatment. Full explanation of this wonderful new treatment and free trial package is sent free to any woman who sends full description of her case and tells the doctor what she wishes to be cured of. All consultation in office or by mail is free. Dr. Vance M. Powell, 42 Masonic Temple, Peoria, Ill.

The two-dollar plan for collecting our Samuel Huston College claims that we have so successfully used for the past four years was adopted for another year. We kindly ask that you do not wait until within a week of the District Convention to collect these claims. Don't put this matter off. We urge you to begin at once, and there will be no doubt as to our accomplishing that which our beloved presiding elder requests—that we report not less than $150.00 at the convention for Samuel Huston College.

There is a lack of interest in the spiritual department upon the part of the Epworthians of the district. Acting upon this thought the Board asks that each chapter, under the auspices of the pastor and first vice-president, conduct a series of revival meetings of not less than eight or ten days. I shall write each president personally of a few other things recommended by the Board; also concerning the expenses of the delagtes to the International Convention to be held in Denver, Colorado, July 5-9. I might add that Dr. T. S. McMorris, our district president; Rev. A. L. Carper, third vice-president, and your humble servant are the delegates elected.

I have sent report cards all over the district. Please send them in and thus keep in touch with the central office. Remember that you are a part of the leading district of the West Texas Conference, and with Rev. J. W. Weakley, our beloved presiding elder; Dr. T. S. McMorris, leading our Epworthians; Dr. G. J. Starnes, the Sunday school, and Sister E. S. Spriggs the W. H. M. S., we feel safe in saying that we will surely succeed and will still be in the lead at the close of this year.

Most sincerely your co-laborer,

DORCAS N. WALKER.
Corresponding Secretary.

WE DON'T CARE if you are skeptical, we care not if you have no confidence, it makes no difference if you give no credence or belief, it matters not even if you lack hope. It takes only a trial—all we ask. It will do the work—it cannot help doing it. It comes from out the ground, from the earth's veins, the dust out of which man was first made, and flows like fire through the veins or the sufferer, the sick and the needy, curing whether the user believes in it or does not believe.

CRUTCHES ARE THROWN AWAY but not through hope, bandages are taken off, but not through confidence, purges are poured into the sink, hot water bottles are laid away on the shelf, plasters are destroyed, but not through faith. It is the work the Ore was made for, the duty for which it was put into the earth's veins and it can no more help doing it than can man help following his natural destiny—the sufferer can no more resist its action, its power, than can man resist the power of the sun, the tides of the earth itself.

IT IS DIFFERENT from anything that has ever before been offered, from those other treatments you have used, as is pure milk from chalk and water or the brilliant sunlight from a tallow candle. It flows like life through your veins, pure as it came from the veins of the earth and acts in a different manner, cures in a different way. It is different from all others and can be differently offered to those in need—on trial, the user to be the judge—a way sellers of medicine dare not duplicate or copy.

IF YOU WANT IT if you need it, if you are suffering for it, wasting away day by day, for lack of that help and health which it alone can bring to you—SEND FOR IT! It will not cost you one single penny if it does not help. Nothing to begin with, nothing at any time if you are not satisfied, if you don't want to pay for it. You are to be the judge!

OLD CHRONIC CASES are those we seek especially. It matters not what you think, what you have thought, what the doctors think or what they would make you think. It counts not a whit what desperate efforts you have already made, what disappointing failures you have already been through—SEND FOR IT ON TRIAL! It is different—a trial will prove it, the only thing that can prove it, the only thing that is needed to prove it. A trial will tell its own plain story, a story that will mean comfort, peace, health and happiness for you. You must only first open the book, by sending for it, by beginning its use.

You Are to Be the Judge!

in this way. Read our Special Offer and then send for a package to-day. The deciding power is to be left entirely with you. You say yes or no, right or wrong. If it does not help you, you do not pay—not a cent! We know it, know it will help, know it will cure, know we will be paid, or we could not, would not, dare not offer it on trial If you need it, how can you refuse?

Read This Special Offer

We will send to every subscriber or reader of this paper or worthy person recommended by a subscriber, a full-sized One Dollar package of VITAE-ORE by mail, postpaid, sufficient for one month's treatment, to be paid for within one month's time after receipt if the receiver can truthfully say that its use has done him or her more good than all the drugs or dopes of quacks or good doctors or patent medicines he or she has ever used. Read this over again carefully and understand that we ask our pay when it has done you good, and not before. We take all the risk, you have nothing to lose. If it does not benefit you, you pay us nothing. VITAE-ORE is a natural, hard, adamantine rock-like substance—mineral—Ore—mined from the ground like gold and silver, and requires about twenty years for oxidization. It contains free iron, free sulphur and magnesium, and one package will equal in medicinal strength and curative value 800 gallons of the most powerful, efficacious mineral water drunk fresh at the springs. It is a geological discovery, to which there is nothing added or taken from. It is the marvel of the century for curing disease, as thousands testify, and as no one, answering this, writing for a package will deny after using. VITAE-ORE has cured more chronic, obstinate, pronounced incurable cases than any other known medicine, and will reach every case with a more rapid and powerful curative action than any medicine, combination of medicines or doctor's prescription which it is possible to procure.

VITAE-ORE will do the same for you as it has for hundreds of readers of this paper, if you will give it a fair trial. Send for a $1 package at our risk. You have nothing to lose but the stamp to answer this announcement. We want no one's money whom Vitae-Ore cannot benefit. Can anything be more fair? What sensible person, no matter how prejudiced he or she may be, who desires a cure and is willing to pay for it, would hesitate to try Vitae-Ore on this liberal offer? One package is usually sufficient to cure ordinary cases, two or three for chronic, obstinate cases. We mean just what we say in this announcement, and will do just what we agree.

A Hale and Hearty Trio.

ENTIRE FAMILY PERMANENTLY CURED OF SERIOUS CHRONIC AILMENTS.

Stomach and Kidney Troubles, Rheumatism and Bright's Disease Made to Disappear.

My entire family has great reason to be thankful to Vitae-Ore, as it is to this remedy that we owe our state of good health during the past few years. It has, indeed, worked wonders for all of us. When we first learned of it, six years ago, my mother was sorely afflicted with a disorder of the stomach and bowels, which had been troubling her for over twelve years and at that time very severely. Her doctor bill during a short time amounted to $50.00, with little or no evidence of improvement. Vitae-Ore was specifically recommended for this trouble, and we had mother give it a thorough trial. It gave her immediate benefit, the relief being almost from the first dose, and it was only a short time before we could report her entire cure. It has been permanent, as there has been no return of the trouble.

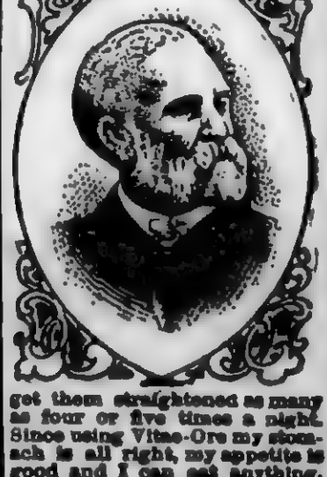
Father was also afflicted with Kidney Trouble, pronounced by the physicians Bright's Disease, and although at first skeptical, he gave it a trial upon seeing what it was accomplishing for my mother. The result was the same as in her case and he now has no symptoms of his old malady. I personally had been troubled off and on with Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble and my condition at the time we first learned of Vitae-Ore was causing me a great deal of uneasiness, as I feared it would become chronic, and I used Vitae-Ore continuously for about three months' time with the same results. We are, indeed, a hearty trio, all now enjoying the best of health, and we owe it all to the remarkable powers of Vitae-Ore.

Many of our friends and neighbors, learning of what it has accomplished for us, have used it for similar ailments, and I know of many cures as satisfactory as ours have been.

O. H. WARD, Newcastle, Pa.

Make the Effort Which Means Your Cure

Nothing is so pitiable to witness as wrongly applied effort, particularly so when the effort thus put forward is earnest and persistent, of a kind that, placed in the proper channel, would be productive of the results sought after. Especially is this true of the attempts of sick and ailing people to secure a cure for their ills, many wasting some of the best years of their lives in an effort along the wrong direction, lives that are made miserable by a protracted disorder that apparently defies all efforts to eradicate it. They will apply themselves diligently to the treatment, will follow it and doses themselves day after day with a determination and spirit that is, indeed, commendable, but the effort is misdirected and nothing but additional and prolonged distress comes of it.



The trouble is, that they are treating the SYMPTOMS, the external evidences of a disturbance within, and not the CAUSE which brings it about. They deaden the immediate discomfort by drugging with narcotics and preparations which depend for temporary efficacy upon a narcotic influence and are doing nothing to get at the fountain head of the trouble, which remains in its seat, undisturbed and unconquered. Thus it is that the treatment is kept up, week in and week out, month after month, year after year, the sufferer always seeking a cure and not realizing that what he is seeking lies in an entirely different direction. Doctors diagnose the case, question as to the symptoms and treat the symptoms instead of investigating for the cause, and having discovered it, taking proper steps to remove the wrong condition which makes it possible. Patent medicines, too, are placed on the market and advertised to treat the symptoms, to relieve this and that outward manifestation of an inward abnormality, while the CAUSE goes merrily on, causing more and more symptoms as time progresses, more work for the doctors and more sales for these so-called medicines.

Vitae-Ore treats the CAUSE, not the symptoms. It gets into the veins, courses through the vital organs, doing its good work in each, setting each to rights and by so doing removes the inward disorder itself. It is a CURE and not merely a check for a time upon the outward physical manifestation of that disorder. This is one of the reasons for the absoluteness and permanency of its cures, the principal reason for the wide range of symptoms it causes to disappear. Many different symptoms and local disturbances can be attributed to one particular lesion, one fundamental lack of functional activity that is primarily alike in many separate cases, accounting for the ease with which Vitae-Ore effaces such different symptoms by the perfect removal of these underlying and controlling causes.

STOMACH & KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Appetite Good—Can Eat Anything.

I have had Stomach Trouble for twenty-five years and Kidney Trouble for ten years. I suffered with Cramps at night so bad that I would have to rub my legs and walk the floor to get them straightened as many as four or five times a night. Since using Vitae-Ore my stomach is all right, my appetite is good and I can eat anything. My Kidney Trouble is cured and the Cramps are a thing of the past. Every suffering mortal should give it a trial.

They Live in Our Memory.

Bellwood, Tenn.—Brother Andrew Smith, aged 42 years, died April 25, after a brief illness. In his death the church has lost a good worker. He was a class leader, sunday school superintendent and missionary treasurer. He died as he lived, a true Christian. His funeral was preached in Hopewell Church, of which he was a member, by Revs. B. F. Anderson, T. Blackman and H. P. Belcher. He leaves three children, two brothers and one sister to mourn his going.

Spider, La.—Mrs. Anna Jefferson departed this life April 16, aged 33 years. She was the wife of Brother Limus Jefferson, a class leader of Shady Grove. She was converted a few days before her death. She leaves a husband, five children and a host of relatives to mourn her loss. Her funeral was conducted by Rev. T. P. Norris, in the presence of a host of her friends.

Rosedale, La.—Brother Alex Lockman departed this life May 1st, in the evening, in the full triumph of faith. He was a local preacher for 38 years. Brother Lockman was one of the founders of the Hartzell M. E. Church and he was 73 years old. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. A. B. Venable and J. L. Augustus, pastor.

Vanceville, La.—Sister Caroline Waine, a member of Scott Chapel, fell asleep in Jesus on April 23, trusting in the Lord. She was visited by her pastor a few days before her death and she told him if he did not see her again to meet her in glory. She leaves a husband, one daughter and one son and many relatives to mourn their loss. C. S. HENDERSON.

Torras, La.—Brother Ed. Jones passed to the Beyond April 27th. He suffered for more than a year. He was 49 years old and spent the best part of his life in the church. He was a good and faithful member. J. J. COURTS.

Corinth, Ga.—Sister Julia Boddy went Home May 2, 1905, aged 64 years. She has been a member of the M. E. Church 48 years. She was the wife of Brother Julius Boddy, who is a local preacher. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Tharpe, pastor. ELIZABETH JACKSON.

Waynesboro, Ga.—Sister R. N. Quarles, wife of Brother A. D. Quarles, departed this life February 21. Sister Quarles (nee Gill) had been engaged in school teaching work until about two years ago, when she became the devoted wife of our dear Brother Quarles, who spared no pains in doing everything that would make her happy. She was loved, honored and respected by all who knew her. She was a loving mother, a faithful wife and devout Christian. She died in full triumph of faith. J. S. S.

Crawfordsville, Ark.—Sister Charlotte Grogry, a faithful member of Newmans Chapel M. E. Church, fell asleep in Jesus April 17, after six months' illness. She was 58 years old. She leaves five daughters, four brothers, one sister and many friends. When dying she said to her son-in-law, "You have been good to me and have done all that you could, and now I am going home to die no more. Jesus will take care of me. Rev. C. A. Taylor conducted the funeral.

New Orleans, La.—Brother Willie Johnson died Saturday, May 6, in full triumph of faith. He was a member of Wesley Chapel.

On April 27th Brother Jessie McMillan went Home. He was a member of Wesley Chapel.

Corinth, Miss.—Brother Nora Adams died April 19, 1905, aged 2 3years. He was a faithful member of Concord M. E. Church and was one of the bright lights of Methodism. He was also local preacher and recording steward and a member of one of the respectable families of this county. He leaves six brothers, six sisters and parents and friends to mourn their loss. Rev. H. B. Hart conducter the funeral ervice.

East Calvert, Texas.—Sister Darchune Smith, the wife of Brother Jessie Smith, passed into the Beyond on April 15th. She joined the church while young and always lived a true Christian. She leaves a husband, four children, two sisters and three grandchildren and a host of friends to grieve over her going. Rev. A. Taylor officiated at the funeral service.

Campti, La.—A memorial service was held Sunday, April 9, 1905, in memory of Rev. A. H. Banks. A large number of his friends were present. Rev. Banks lived a consistent Christian. He was born in 1859, was admitted on trial in the Louisiana Conference, 1887, and was sent to State Line, Miss., where he served 1887-1888. Then to Eola, where he served from 1889 to 1892; New Iberia from 1893 to 1896; Algiers, 1897-1898; Laharpe, 1899; White Hall, 1900, Zachary, 1901; Wesley Chapel, Baton Rouge, 1901; Mansfield, 1902; Bedford, 1903; Campti, 1904. This ended Brother Banks, life on earth. He was joined his many relatives and friends in heaven. The day he died he said, if he did not answer roll call again on earth he would answer in heaven. Rev. Banks leaves a wife and two children to mourn their loss. They have our prayers and sympathy. Rev. Clarke, Rev. G. Thomas and Rev. Dorsey, of the Baptist Church assisted in the service.

ACROSS COUNTRY.

The signs of the times point to an enormous increase of intelligent public interest in health: to a new generation with purer, stronger blood and therefore more active, braver brains and body. No physically robust, healthy person ever succumbed to grip, consumption, malaria or any other germ disease. But with a weakened system we all have to fight the germs of disease. Our blood is often in a fertile condition for the growth of bacteria—the germs of disease—because our stomach is disordered or our liver is torpid—in either case our blood does not get the proper nourishment. A torpid liver means a stagnation of the blood and an accumulation of poisons which furnishes a weak spot for bacteria to enter.

To enrich the blood and increase the red blood corpuscles, Dr. Pierce years ago found a vegetable compound, which he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, that would quickly cure the bad symptoms by increasing the red blood corpuscles and thereby feeding the nerves on rich blood. This "Medical Discovery" also acts upon the digestion and assimilation of food, so that the blood gets its proper elements from the products of digestion. Feed the lungs, stomach and heart on rich red blood and you have surely a healthy body which will throw off the germs of disease which lurk everywhere. Get as near nature's way as you can. A medicine made entirely from botanical extracts and which does not contain alcohol is the safest. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY
And Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost—One Who Did it Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder diseases, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatsoever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

Field Notes

MISSISSIPPI.

Brookhaven—D. D. Dukes, Pastor.—Rev. G. W. Smith, presiding elder of the Brookhaven district, held our first quarterly conference March 11-12, at Crump Chapel. All leaders were present with their reports. We voted that each member pay for Benevolence 50 cents. Rev. Smith lectured Sunday morning to the Sunday school, at 11 a. m. He preached an excellent sermon. We will bring our district to the front.

Crawford.—Rev. F. H. Henry held his first quarterly conference. All officers were present and gave good reports. The salary of the presiding elder was raised $60.00 and the pastor's from $450.00 to $550.00. Paid Rev. Henry $15.00. On the 20th of March our colored school opened, with Prof. P. R. Quinn as principal for the fifteenth year. Quite a number of the parents were present. Rev. J. J. Johnson delivered the lecture.

Shelby and Fallston—R. J. Shipp, pastor.—Our second quarterly conference convened the third Saturday and Sunday in March. All officers except one were present with good reports. The elder, Rev. M. M. Jones, preached four strong sermons. One hundred persons were at the communion table. Paid the elder $21.00, pastor $9.00, total raised in the quarter, $30.00. Our work is in a healthy condition.

Stephen—R. B. Anderson, Pastor.—The Fort Stephen Circuit is yet alive. Our first quarterly conference was held March 24. Rev. J. M. Shumpert, D. D., presiding. Reports of officers showed the work to be in good condition. The Elder preached an able sermon. Communicants, 43. Paid the elder, $14.50; pastor, $16.00.

Bay St. Louis—J. E. Holmes, Pastor.—Our first quarterly conference was held March 25. Rev. R. N. Jones, presiding elder in the chair. Pastor, leaders, stewards and chairmen of the various committees submitted reports to the satisfaction of the presiding elder, with whom our people are delighted. We raised the elder's assessment of $12.50, and had the privilege of listening to his two interesting and instructive sermons preached to a packed house.

Meridian—Mrs. H. A. Clark.—Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Dorsey and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hammett were delightfully entertained at the home of Miss Magnolia Hinton, on the evening of March 15. We gladly welcome them to our city. The ladies rendered beautiful selections in poetry and vocal music. The Messrs. Dorsey and Hammett, the popular mechanics, are here beautifying our new court house. The families are comfortably situated at the home of Mrs. H. A. Clark, 12th street and 32nd avenue.

Alesville—D. P. Shaw, Pastor.—On Monday night, March 27, a storm arose from all directions at the Salem Church led by the local preachers, A. B. Slate, Wm. Milner and others. In the company were Sister S. E. Thomas, Brothers F. D. Davidson and B. B. Cohran, of the Spring Hill Baptist Church. Brother S. E. Stephenson, of the Presbyterian Church, headed the list of gifts with one dollar in cash. The pastor extends a hearty invitation to the company to come again.

Harriston—N. N. G. Lipscomb, Pastor.—The hard winter greatly hindered us in the beginning of the year's work, but amid all the hindrance, our first quarterly conference was a good one. Elder R. P. Threlkeld presided. We raised his quarterage up to $15.00 and paid the first $11.00. The work is doing fairly well.

COTTON.

The bad weather lately throughout the cotton belt has sent the price skyward. Spots sold for straight 8 cents on Monday. Thos. H. Price, a New York operator, who predicted the drop last winter, is now just as confident that the bottom has been reached and that prices will advance rather than decline. He thinks there will be a tremendous expansion in manufacturing and the prospect of another large crop is extremely doubtful.

At Mallalieu Chapel Thursday evening, May 11, the four departments of the Epworth League met in joint session and rendered an interesting program. Refreshments were served to all present.

Rev. A. B. Harris, pastor of Camp Parapet, was tendered a pleasant surprise Monday. Ninety pounds of choice groceries were left at the parsonage. The promoters of this successful venture were Mrs. Josephine Williams, Miss Mary Lisso and Miss Hattie Williams.

At Pleasant Plains Church, Sunday, April 30, the Dewey Social Club had its annual sermon preached by the pastor, Rev. William Harrell. The Society collected $8.50. The president, Mr. W. T. Johnson, and members are grateful to the pastor and to the choir, which was directed by D. B. Phillip, with Miss B. Griffin as organist. Collection for the day, $11.25.

On Sunday morning, May 14th, all services were well attended at Williams' Chapel. At 11 a. m. Brother P. J. Becnel preached, assisted by the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves. At 3 p. m. leaders' speaking meeting, led by Brother Wm. Mathew. Song service at the usual hour. During the evening service Mrs. A. Bailey, Miss C. Eades and Ruth S. Bagner were baptized at the altar. One annual subscriber to the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection, $19.42.

MISSIONARY CONVENTION.

The meeting called at the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE office on Monday, May 1st, 1905, by Rev. G. G. Logan, D. D., Field Secretary of the Missionary Society, was fully attended. Dr. Logan stated the object of the meeting to be to organize the city pastors and those living here into local committees and put them in operation for the Missionary Convention, which will be held in this city in October.

The following local committees were selected:

On Press and Publication.—Prof. F. B. Smith, Revs. W. Scott Chinn, A. B. Harris, J. J. Obee.

Committee on Transportation.—Revs. C. W. Reeves, M. W. Dogan, D. D., I. Garland Penn, J. W. Turner.

Committee on Reception.—Revs. V. Chapman, William Harrell, C. D. Crockett, John McKee, H. Taylor, R. E. Jones, D. D., J. F. Marshall, D. D.

Committee on Entertainment.—All the city pastors, with one presiding elder, Rev. H. Daniels.

Committee on Attendance.—All the city pastors, with Revs. J. F. Marshall, D. D., W. R. Butler, H. Taylor, V. Chapman and A. E. P. Albert, D. D., as an Executive Board.

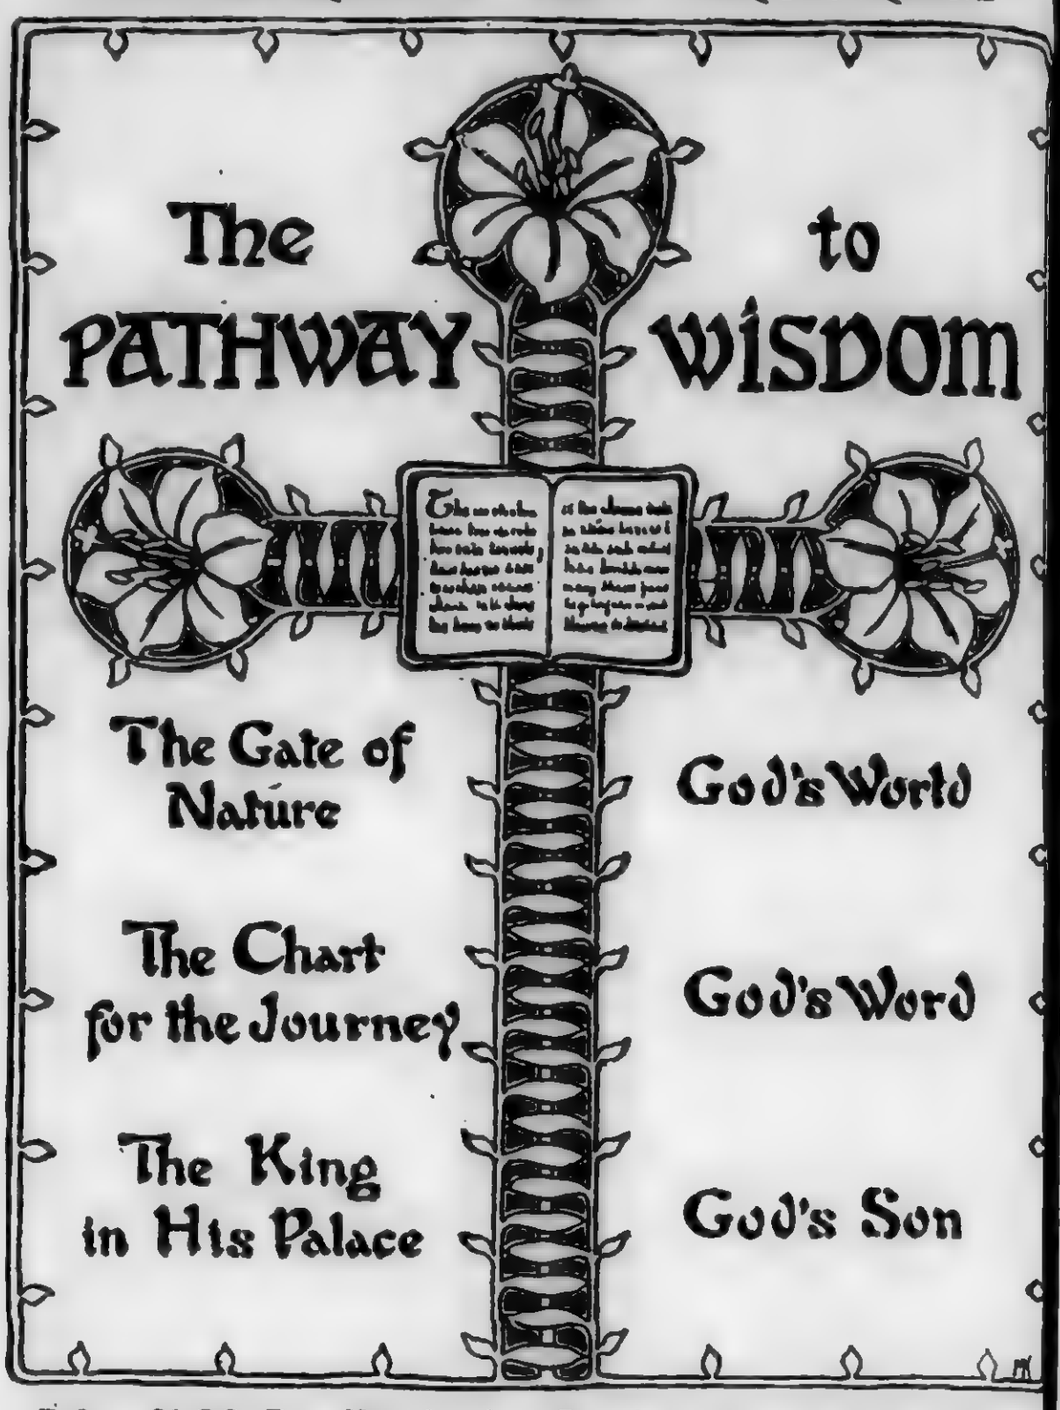
Committee on Ways and Means.—Revs. F. T. Chinn, T. J. Johnson, J. A. Tircuit, H. Taylor, D. M. Seals, and Presiding Elders, Revs. J. F. Marshall, W. R. Butler, H. Daniels, J. J. Obee, J. O. Brown and J. W. Turner.

Committee on Badges.—Revs. T. J. Johnson, F. T. Chinn, Rene C. Metoyer, Esq., Rev. W. R. Butler.

Committee on Pulpit Supply.—The presiding elders of the city churches and the pastor where the convention is held.

Rev. Dr. Logan is ex-officio member of all committees.

The Committee on Entertainment will meet and select their chairman and other officers and decide on a most reasonable rate for lodging and board among the members of the several churches, and report the same so that all may be advised.



There are other committees but they will appear later on when filled from the other conferences. (Signed)

On Friday evening, April 28, under the direction of Miss M. J. Burroughs, a concert was given in the chapel of New Orleans University for the benefit of the fifth grade, of which Miss Burroughs is teacher. The chapel was full to overflowing with a representative audience to listen to what proved to be a most pleasing program, which reflected credit upon the participants and the directress. The music and recitations were of a high order and the dumb-bell drill, under the immediate direction of Miss Burroughs, was especially commended.

Editorial

Dr. Washington Gladden is the authority for the statement that the Congregational Church will blacklist great financiers who have achieved wealth by "oppressive and unscrupulous methods." Dr. Gladden and his sympathizers will be kept so busy in investigating and determining upon those who have been "oppressive and unscrupulous" in accumulating wealth that they will do little else. What will Doctor Gladden do as to the contributions of poor people who have accumulated their pittance by "unscrupulous," if not by "oppressive methods?" That a man is a millionaire is not prima facie evidence that he is a thief. There are many persons who are shadowed by poverty for the reason that they did not carefully and economically handle small incomes. As long as the world stands there will be inequalities in intellect, power and wealth among men. All men who are millionaires are not unscrupulous. And the church that begins a blackmailing list will have a long one.

A proposition to bring Chinese into the South meets with determined opposition by farmers and farming interests in the South. Even Negro labor is preferred to Chinese labor, and it is rather exhilarating to learn that, after all, the Negro is given the preference over some one. The Chinese coolies were tried in the South immediately after the civil war and the experiment was an unanswerable failure. The Times-Democrat in discussing the suggestion of supplying the increasing demand for labor by introducing Chinese coolies, says it would aggravate "the present difficulties by opening up new race complications and prejudices," and would be "an act of inconceivable folly."

The anti-mob bill introduced in the Illinois Legislature by its only Negro member, Mr. E. D. Green, has been signed by Governor Deneen and becomes a law of the Commonwealth of Illinois. The bill provides for vacation by proclamation of the sheriff's office when that official allows a prisoner to be taken from him and lynched, and provides for a fine of $1,000 for participation in a lynching mob.

In giving an account of a complaint on the part of Rev. W. A. Moer, pastor Franklin Street Methodist Episcopal Church, this city, the Picayune heads the article "SALOON VS. CHURCH." Is not the saloon in open opposition to the church? The church of necessity must oppose the saloon; does not the saloon also oppose the church? The saloon defies the laws of God and man. And when a saloon is open for business on the Sabbath within the shadow of a Christian church, is it not pursuing its policy of direct if not open opposition to the church? If, therefore, the saloon is taking up arms against the church, there is no time for Christian people to be talking about personal liberty and a legal business supplying a demand. Open opposition on the part of the saloon ought to unite the Christian church against its vigilant foe. A united Christendom could crush the liquor power easily.

JOHN KNOX--THE REFORMER

The dust of four centuries has not been able to cover the name of John Knox, which stands out clearly in the rise and development of the Christian Church. While his name may not be known to every household, nevertheless there are very few who are not in some way acquainted with his life and labors, and with what heroism he wrought for the cause of Christ and His church. The name of Knox is inseparably connected with the glory of Scotland, and tho but a small tablet, now considerably worn, covers his resting place as a monument to him, it can be said that Scotland is the monument to John Knox. Take him out of the history of Scotland and the nation loses its forcefulness and standing. For Knox lived at the crucial time when he could and did serve to the highest good of his country. In observing the four hundredth anniversary of his birth, which occurred in Haddington in 1505, Protestantism honors one of the best and truest reformers.

He was a Calvinist in theology largely by the circumstances which threw him in contact with John Calvin, but he was unmistakably and unreservedly one of the foremost Protestants of his time and figures prominently in the general reformation. He was educated for the priesthood in the Roman Catholic Church, and but for his instruction of the two sons of Douglas of Longweddrie, little is known of Knox for the first forty years of his life. He comes into view by allegiance to Wishart and his allying himself to the reformers that were barricaded at St. Andrew and subsequently the surrender of these few, and along with them Knox served nineteen years as a galley slave in France. But he rises to full view when he began to lead the Protestant forces in his own native country, Scotland, and when he opposed the alliance of Queen Mary to the Roman Catholic Church, and against her, it was, that he prayed, "Purify, O Lord, the heart of the Queen from the poison of idolatry. Release her from the bondage of Satan, in which she was brought up, and in which, for the want of teaching, she still remains." Knox hated the rule of women and his "First Blast of the Trumpet Against the Monstrous Regiment of Women" made known his position. Knox, with all faithfulness, denounced the mass as idolatrous and adherents to the Pope as idolators, and until his death, November 24, 1572, he gave himself without reservation to the liberating of Scotland from the bondage of Romanism. Scotland is to-day largely what it is as the result of the labor of John Knox from 1555 to 1572.

Though born four hundred years ago he lives, while many who have been born since and have risen to honor and to fame are forgotten and are lost in the dust of the oncoming ages. John Knox was a man that faced the conditions of his time with four squares. He was fearless of man, but feared God, courageous and consecrated, vigilant and unmoved by flattery or bribery; he was a resolute and determined leader of men to whom this generation and the generations yet to be born are debtors.

THE SCARCITY OF LABOR

There is a dearth of labor throughout the South and, among other reasons, it may be accounted for upon the ground that the South is entering upon multiplied industries, that there is an increase of public work, and likewise an increase in lumber and swamping business and, further, the northern demand for labor. Nevertheless, whereas at one time there was an overplus of labor in the South, there is now a scarcity, and it is sometimes alleged that the idleness of the Negro is the cause for it.

We confess that there are too many idle Negroes and there should be some strenuous exhorting on the part of our preachers lest many be idle. The Negro must work, and he who does not work shall not eat. Our preachers occupy a strategic place and can be of great service to the interests of our section, with which interests the interests of the Negro are unquestionably allied. Let there be a preaching of the Gospel of work, full and free. A prominent Negro farmer made some very hard charges to us recently against Negro labor. He said that as a matter of fact the Negro would not work a full week and demanded, of course, a good many holidays. It seems to us a little preaching along this line is needed. Exhort our people to work full time, and along with this excursions and midnight picnics should be discouraged, both of which are damaging to the Negro. 2. Make the interests of the employers and those employed one. 3. Exhort the Negroes to stay out of the cities and work on the farms. This will be better for those who remain on the farm and better for us who are in the cities, for a congestion of labor in the cities makes it hard on all. Exhort, threfore, our people to faithful and consecutive labor. This should be done because it is necessary for the proper care of the families and the education of the children.

While there are some things to be remedied on the part of the Negro there are some things that must be remedied on the part of the planters or employers: 1. Better treatment for the Negro. Ill treatment will drive a dog from one's premises, and most assuredly will ill treatment drive away a human being. The Negro is a man with all the sensitiveness to harshness and inhuman treatment. Flogging, cursing, cheating out of wages, drives labor away. Let the Negro feel that his life and the lives of his wife and children are secure and let him feel that if accused he will have a fair trial before judge and jury and a step will be made toward securing more labor. 2. Build better tenement houses, not shacks but something worthy of the name home, so that the tenant will stay and take an interest in the building of a home. To this end let there be a generous use of whitewash and

Which Shall it be---Foreign or Negro Labor?

By C. H Moore, A. M.

When the verdict of the white voters of North Carolina was registered at the polls in August, 1900, they emphatically and distinctly said that, thereafter none but literates would be allowed the right of suffrage unless under the grandfather clause.

On account of this decision, over one hundred thousand colored men who had been wielding the ballot either for weal or for woe since 1868, being now disfranchised because of their illiteracy, became restless and fearful lest their future condition might be similar to that which obtained in the days of slavery, when, according to a decision handed down from the United States Supreme Court by Judge Taney in the fifties, "A negro had no rights that a white man is bound to respect."

More than one colored man who was shorn of his political strength because of inability to read and write the Constitution, came to the writer and asked his advice as to the best course to pursue—whether to stay here or pull up stake and leave the land of his nativity, and all that is near and dear to him, and cast his future lot in a strange land among strangers.

In our limited foresight and weak judgment we advised them to stand still, to exercise patience, and at the same time firmly rely upon the Lord of Hosts.

A certain class of whites in the States, misunderstanding the overwhelming verdict in favor of white supremacy, took it for granted that they had free license to take the disfranchised colored man's property, to abuse him, and otherwise impose upon this defenceless creature with impunity.

It was not long, however, before this class of whites were plainly given to understand by Governor Aycock, and the press of the State, that such unwarranted and barbarous conduct against the illiterate and impotent colored man would not be tolerated for a moment.

When this decree was spread abroad and it became generally known among our people, they then became somewhat contented, and began to settle down to work. But not, however, before thousands had left the State. As to what followed, the events during the past four years will answer.

In the course of time Mr. Charles B. Aycock's term of office expired. He is justly famed as our Educational Governor. He goes out of the Governor's mansion and from public life into that of a private citizen. His mantle, by the voice of the white people, falls upon another in the person of Mr. Robert B. Glenn, whose desire, according to the press of the State, is to become and go down in history as the Industrial Governor of the Old North State. We truly hope and pray that this ambition will be fully realized.

During the interval between the election last fall, and the sitting of the legislature, there was a revival of the rumbling of discontent, and uneasiness prevalent four years ago among the colored people, owing to some very bitter speeches and extreme measures urged against them by certain members of the dominant party. Since the adjournment of the General Assembly we think this feeling of restlessness and of uncertainty has perceptibly subsided to a large extent. Nevertheless, all is not as calm and serene with the colored brother as we could wish. What the future holds in store for him the present may soon determine.

On account of a scarcity of labor in some parts of the State, there is a more or less demand for foreign to supplant negro labor. While we readily admit that there are entirely too many lazy, shiftless nd unreliable negroes upon whom no one can depend, yet there are thousands of others within the borders of the State who are willing to stay here and work, provided they are given a fair showing. They are well known to their white neighbors; and a more patient, faithful, law-abiding and less vindictive people dwell nowhere on the face of the globe.

A few evenings ago we chanced to partly overhear a conversation between two colored women who were evidently returning home from their daily tasks. The one asked the other where she was staying and for whom she was working. After she answered, she asked how she liked the place. She replied, "Very well, indeed," and furthermore said that she had been there longer than a year, and would stay as long as the relations between her and her employer continued as they now are. She remarked that Mrs. ——— was very kind to her; that she wasn't like some other white folks for whom she had worked who seemed to think that a "nigger" ought not to get tired sometimes, or get sick. On the contrary, however, if she happened to get sick, Mrs. ——— sympathized with her, and moreover, sent her nice things for sick people to eat. Besides, she paid her fair wages, and she had no complaint. In fact, it was a pleasure to work for her.

The other woman replied: "I wish I had such a place as that. Because the lady for whom I am working isn't paying me much to begin with, and she seems to think I am not doing enough to earn even that little."

The other day the white foreman on one of the finest buildings now in course of erection in Greensboro—the City National Bank—without just cause, struck and otherwise mistreated one of the colored laborers. The white mechanics came together soon after the assault, and demanded of the contractor the dismissal of this foreman on account of this cruel imposition. The contractor willingly complied with their request.

It is said that on one occasion, the Gods propounded this question to the wise men of ancient Greece: "What is the best kind of government?" Several answers were given. The one, however, which received approval was Solon's, the wise statesman and lawmaker of Athens: "That is the best government in which, whenever a wrong is done any subject, however humble, it is keenly felt by all."

Now, when the relations existing between the white employer and the colored employe are of such a sympathetic and reciprocal nature as in the two instances mentioned above, then there will be no demand for foreign labor on the part of the one, and less dissatisfaction on the part of the other.

If my opinion is worth anything, I would say to the white people of my native State that, it were better to "cast down your buckets where you are" for laborers than "to fly to evils that you know not of."'

Suggested Revival Program For Evary Presiding Elder's District in Our Methodism

Where the district is large, it may be divided into two, three, or even four, groups for the accommodation of the preachers, and the reduction of expense. In each case the meeting should be held in a central place, and one easy of access, and every preacher concerned should make special effort to be present.

The meeting should have but a single purpose, and that the revival of the work of God in all hearts, and homes, and churches.

We suggest that the meetings be limited to a single day, and that only preachers be invited to attend:

PROGRAM.

9 a. m.—One hour alone with God—subject: "Waiting on God—prayer and Bible reading.

10 a. m.—Brief statement by each preacher, as to what he has seen take place under his ministry in revivals.

11 a. m.—The Human Element in Revivals.
- (a) In the Home.
- (b) In the Sunday School.
- (c) In the Epworth League.
- (d) In the Church.

12:30 m.—Dinner. If possible take dinner together, and let the conversation be confined largely to revival themes.

1:30 p. m.—Prayer meeting for revival in every charge on the district.

2:30 p. m.—Need of Revivals.
- (a) On The District.
- (b) In Each Charge.
- (c) In Our Own Hearts and Lives.

3:30 p. m.—The Work of the Holy Spirit in Revivals.
- (a) In Those Our Fathers Witnessed.
- (b) Brief testimonies of several preachers concerning the work of the Holy Spirit in revivals in which they have participated.

4:30 p. m.—Gather around the altar for the renewal of personal consecration and prayer for a special baptism of the Spirit for an enduement of wisdom, tact, and power to give efficiency in the supreme work of saving souls.

The program may be varied to suit the needs of any district, but we are sure great good will ensue if presiding elders and preachers for one whole day can wait on God, and plan and pray for the salvation of perishing souls.

Rust University Commencement

On Friday night, May 12, the anniversary of the literary societies occurred. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, the speaker, announced for the occasion, could not be present. Mr. A. P. Shaw, A. B., of the class of 1902, kindly consented to make the speech of the evening. Mr. Joseph G. Shaw, president of Rust Lyceum, presided. The students sang "Climbing Up Zion's Hill," Rev. Dr. N. R. Clay led in prayer, four young men debated the subject of "Compulsory Education," and Mr. A. P. Shaw spoke on "Freedom." After the literary program there was a play-hour, planned by Mrs. Foster, dean of the university. All the exercises were of high order, and the words of praise of those present are still to be heard.

Saturday was devoted to field games and the meeting of the Alumni Association. The meeting of the Association was, perhaps, the most enthusiastic ever held. Rev. Dr. W. H. Williams presided. Plans were inaugurated to have a great reunion of all the graduates one year hence. It was decided to ask the members of the Association to raise four hundred dollars to supplement four hundred dollars which President Foster kindly consented to raise, with two hundred dollars promised by two of our bishops, making a total of one thousand dollars, to be used in equipping some section of our industrial plant. The members present subscribed nearly two hundred dollars. At eight o'clock p. m. the anniversary of the Alumni Association occurred. Dr. N. H. Williams presided. Dr. I. Garland Penn was the speaker of the occasion. He spoke on "The Educated Man in the Realm of Results." He said that God wants men, and those who would respond effectively to the call should be better educated. He said that hardships and difficulties are valuable in the training of the individual; that the educated must reach the unreached and be of service to others and strive for that essential of life, character.

Sunday, at 10:30 a. m., the Baccalaureate Sermon was preached by President Foster. His text was, "The Lord is the strength of my life." (Ps. 27-1.) He said that God's relation to man is real and vital; that man can realize the fullness of God's relation to him by faith, trust, confidence and prayer; and that the great purpose of life is to have strength which may be used in service for others. After the sermon the president made remarks to the graduates in which he urged upon them the importance of making the text the motto of their lives.

At three o'clock p. m. the university sermon was preached. President Foster conducted the preliminaries. Rev. E. C. F. Troupe led in prayer, and Dr. R. H. Rust preached from the following text: "Draw near to God." (James 4-8.) He said that some of the benefits of drawing near to God are: A sense of reality of the unseen world, promotes the development of Christian character, restrains from sin by the revelation of purity and enables us to appreciate and use divine providence. He counseled preparation, physical, intellectual and spiritual, for the work of life. He said that it is our duty to surrender our wills to the will of God, draw near to Him, and, on the basis of character and manhood, all the problems of life will be solved.

At 7:45 p. m. the annual sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. W. C. Clay. President Foster read the scripture lesson, Rev. Dr. Rust led in prayer and Dr. W. C. Clay preached from the following text: "Ye are the salt of the earth." He said that the young people are the preservers of the race and the church, that they must live close to Christ and be lifters of the people. He exhorted them to return to their homes and take an active part in the church services.

On Monday at 10 a. m. the meeting of the board of trustees and the class-day exercises occurred. The board transacted the regular routine business. Rev. Dr. R. H. Rust, son of our beloved benefactor and friend, Dr. R. S. Rust, was elected a member of the board. The class-day exercises were presided over by Mr. Lee M. McCoy, president of the college class. The exercises were of high grade. At 2 o'clock p. m. the reception to the founder, the ministers' conference, and the mothers' and fathers' meeting occurred. The founder, Dr. R. S. Rust, could not be present. In this we were greatly disappointed. But he was represented by his son, Dr. R. H. Rust, by whom he sent his message. Every heart was glad to receive a message from this great and good man, our friend.

At 7:45 p. m. the chapel was crowded. It was, perhaps, the largest crowd ever assembled here. The students entertained the audience with a splendid program. They all played well their parts. After the concert, Mr. Joseph G. Shaw, president of Rust Lyceum, itroduced Dr. M. C. B. Mason, who spoke on "Not Honor, But Service." Character and service for others were the keynotes of his discourse. Everybody was greatly benefited and rejoiced at having heard this magnificent orator.

Tuesday was commencement day proper. The graduation of the college class was in the morning. President Foster presided. Dr. R. H. Rust delivered the address to the graduates. He spoke on "The Divine Ideal." He said that we are created in the divine image and that image cannot be destroyed; that we reach ideals through rugged paths; that purity, not pleasure, is the chief purpose of creation; that a man should be educated for manhood, a woman for womanhood, and both for humanity. After the address, Dr. Mason read the resolutions adopted by the Cincinnati Teachers' Meeting on the life and works of Dr. R. S. Rust, characterizing him as a man of principle, rather than policy. Dr. Mason commented on the resolutions in words which glowed with eloquence, and received thunderous applause as he told of the goodness and greatness of the man.

At 2:30 p. m. the graduating exercises of the college preparatory and normal classes occurred. President Foster presided. Rev. T. L. Inghram led in prayer. The president then called on the speakers from the graduating classes, after which Dr. M. C. B. Mason delivered the address to the graduates. He told the young people that they have the largest possible opportunity for service; that the future depends on them; that they must show their adaptibility to their work; that they must have individuality, initiative, enthusiasm and love for humanity. Diplomas were awarded by the president and the dean. The names of the graduates are as follows: College Course; N. R. Clay, Joseph G. Shaw, Lee M. McCoy; College Preparatory, Lila M. Barnett, Stella Butler, Nathalie Doxey, Beverly T. McEwen, Magnolia Payne, Mary Lou Walton; Normal, Bessie F. Elliott, Susie Featherstone, Nettie B. Hatcher, Annie M. Hightower, Lucille C. Inghram, Susie A. Johnson, Annie M. Newman; Nurse Training, Lizzie B. Shumpert, Nettie Hatcher, Susie Johnson, Susie Featherstone, Lucille Inghram, Carrie Vanzant, Willia Butler, Bessie Elliott, Annie Newman, Margaret Woolfolk, Annie Hightower.

The speaking of the graduates was a contest. The following are the names of the prize-winners: College Class, Lee M. McCoy; College Preparatory and Normal, Beverly T. McEwen.

The commencement was largely attended by the ministers of the conference. Drs. J. M. Shumpert and S. A. Cowan of the Mississippi Conference were also present. All the visitors noted with keen interest and appreciation the many evidences of improvement here. An engine has been installed in the industrial plant during the year and two new buildings are in process of erection—monuments to President Foster's untiring work. Indeed I heard one of the ministers say, after having been shown through everything here, "The half has never been told."

The Cooke Amendment

By R. T. Miller

That there is great need for a court of final recourse in our Church, which shall decide questions and cases heretofore much befogged and left in a condition of noisome disappointment, will not be doubted by any one experienced in the study or administration of our Church laws.

That one should propose an amendment to the constitution, so well calculated to cure these evils, and at the same time so courageously and frankly invite attention and criticism to it as Dr. Cooke has done, is a matter of congratulation.

That any amendment proposed should, at the beginning, meet the approval and command the support of all is a consummation hardly possible, however desirable. In his article Dr. Cooke does not himself put forth this amendment as a finality, but invites criticism. It is granted that the proposed amendment may be phrased differently or arranged in other form; but the question is not on the phrasing nor on the form. It is this: Is a court of final reference and adjudication feasible and advisable?

It seems readily feasible under our regulations. An amendment may be proposed and adopted by some one of the Annual conferences, and recommended for similar action by all the others. If favored by all, or the legal majority, the General Conference could then take final action. Or, the measure might originate in the General Conference, and when adopted by the Annual conferences become immediately operative in either case.

It seems advisable, nay, even necessary, from many points of view. Notably by examining the report of the committee on Epworth League, which the General Conference adopted at its last session, and thereby squarely trampled under foot the provisions of Section 6, Paragraph 46, Article X of the Constitution. It may be admitted that this is a flagrant and unusual case, but it certainly serves to show the possibilities under our present system and gives an all-sufficient reason for some provision which would prevent or cure such evils.

That a delegated body may be at one and the same time a supreme legislative body, a supreme executive body and a supreme judicative body is anomalous in representative government, offensive to dignified statesmanship and a peril to our ecclesiastical system. Such a relic of Colonial government should have been relegated by our ecclesiastical legislators, as was done by the administrators of our civil affairs long years ago.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

It Yet Shall Be

A sweeter song my soul has heard
Than angel anthems, lay of bird.

It cheers my heart in storm and night,
And makes both storms and darkness bright.

The sweetest song that comes to me—
The song of hope—it may yet be!

Is winter here? Have song-birds fled?
They have but flown; they are not dead!

The snows will melt, and with the spring
The birds return on joyous wing.

And flowers that faded long ago
Will bloom again in summer's glow.

Though skies be black and dark the night,
The day draws near with blessed light.

So faces that have vanished here
In heaven's bright morn will reappear.

Sweet voices that are hushed and still
Will there again our spirits thrill.

Hopes may have flown, but not for aye,
True hope will live a deathless day.

Above the clouds, beyond the night,
Faith soars and sings in living light.

Thence comes the sweetest song to me,
The song of hope—it yet shall be!

Our Final Home

REV. LOUIS ALBERT BANKS.

A home is not a mere association of tramps; it is held together by ties not only of love and sympathy, but of mutual responsibility and care and toil. So in a church home we get the home feeling as we get the feeling of responsibility for it, and as we come to regard it not only as a place where there is a feast, and where we may be fed, but a place where we may feed others; a place where we may bear the burden as well as enjoy the blessings; where we may share the fellowship of Christ and his people in service as well as in benediction. It is sweet to have a church home, where somebody relies on us; where somebody misses us if we are absent; where somebody lifts their eyes to us for sympathy and fellowship; where we run our roots down in the garden of God and flourish under the great Gardener.

But there is still another home dear to the Christian, and that is our final home in heaven. We are only here on the earth for awhile, and home is speedily broken up as the children grow up into manhood and womanhood, and go away to college or to business or to build homes of their own. I met a good woman at a conference the other day, a minister's wife, and she said to me: "Just think of it, my baby has grown old enough to go to Germany to college, and there's nobody at home now but just my husband and myself." And a quick tear came into her eye as she said laughingly: "And that's why I am at conference." The home was broken, and soon death breaks it. And what is true of the first home is true of the second; the church homes change and pass away. But we are going home where all these things will cease, and we shall be at home forever. If we are living in the right spirit, and serving God with loving heart, this thought of the heavenly home gets sweeter every year. Every year there are more people there than we know. Every year the current tugs more at the keel of our ship, and love's magnetism pulls harder at our heart, until we long to be at home with the dear ones who have gone ahead of us. Many feel as Jean Ingelow sang in her little poem, "Longing for Home:"

"I pray you what is the nest to me,
My empty nest?
And what is the shore where I stood to see
My boat sail down to the West?
Can I call that home where I anchor yet,
Though my good man has sailed?
Can I call that home where my nest was set,
Now all its hope hath failed?
Nay, but the port where my sailor went,
And the land where my nestlings be:
There is the home where my thoughts are sent,
The only home for me—
Ah me!"

—From "Unused Rainbows."

Stepping Heavenward

In the beautiful story which bears this title we have the account of an exceedingly human life in its struggles, not after heaven, as we generally use the word, but after a heavenly life. After many years of discouraging failure, the young woman realizes that she is really climbing upward toward the life for which she has all these years longed. Not only does the flight of each year mark so much of life's journey finished, but it also marks progress toward the goal that once seemed well-nigh impossible.

While every man needs to learn that sainthood, like heaven, is not reached by a single bound, but by the slow process of little steps, there is also need of learning that no number of steps and no amount of climbing can carry a man to heaven if his face be not first turned in that direction. Oh, the mistaken travelers who imagine that they can grow in grace, when they have never come into God's grace because they have never obeyed Him! Sometimes there may seem to be little difference between the weak, faltering saint and the one who has never turned to the Lord, but there is this radical difference—the first may be a long way from the heavenly prize, but every step brings him nearer to it; the second has his face turned in the opposite direction, hence each step puts greater distance between him and God.

Two men who have been sitting side by side in the church go out of the house when the service is over, and stand for a moment on the steps together. To both of them home lies away to the right. One of them fails to turn to the right, and so the two pursue their journey in the darkness. Once they stood together; once there was only a step between them; now they are going farther apart. One with every step draws nearer to home and safety; the other leaves both every moment farther behind him.

How can one be sure he is stepping heavenward? Only by following Him who alone can safely lead the way. We are told of those who say, "Lo, here!" or, "Lo, there!" but the Christian dare not go after them. They may lead to that which for a time seems attractive, but they can never lead us heavenward. Whatever path the Christ would not choose if He were here, leads downward.

"Little by little, sure and slow,
We fashion our future of bliss or woe,
As the present passes away.
Our feet are climbing the stairway-bright,
Up to the regions of endless delight;
Or gliding downward into the night—
Little by little, and day by day."

—Forward.

Another Day

Another day begun!
Lord, grant us grace that we,
Before the setting of the sun,
Redeem the time for thee.

Another day of toil!
To thee we yield our powers;
Keep thou our souls from guilty soil
Through all the passing hours.

Another day of fear!
For watchful is our foe,
And sin is strong, and death is near,
And short our time below.

Another day of hope!
For thou art with us still,
And thine almighty strength can cope
With all who seek our ill.

Another day of grace
To help us on our way!
One step towards the resting-place,
The eternal Sabbath-day.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—Psa. 27:4. Theme—Desiring One Thing.

It is wonderful and exceedingly interesting to study the unity of the kingdoms of the Universe of God. All laws may be reduced to one principle, and all creations traced to one Creator. All of the laws of God may be fulfilled in one word, and all physical life is the same in all animals and plants.

Divided aims and purposes tend to distraction, weakness, failure, and disappointment. The man of one calling may be proficient, of one book, eminent, of one pursuit, successful. What a man cannot at once attain it is good for him to desire, for the one thing desired often leads to the choice of the one thing needful, which shall not be taken away from him.

A godly mind gathers itself up into one wish, one desire, one purpose, one aim. The man who is a new creature in Christ desires one thing only, and he who is truly awakened gives up all else that he may buy the pearl of great price. The first thing in the mind of the Christian is the one thing above all most desirable. The one thing which David desired was not common, but a chief good. There was nothing equal to it, or above it in value and utility. It was the last thing which his soul could possibly enjoy in time and in eternity. It was the one thing in which all things have their beginning and end; the one center to which all spirits draw in their devotion to praise Him, who is worthy of all praise now, and forever more.

The one thing desired must be sought daily, continually with all the heart, and with all the soul. Let us this very moment seek and obtain the one thing desired that we may dwell in the house of the Lord forevermore.

EDUCATIONAL

Walden University

Beginning Wednesday, May 3rd, with the Theological and Bible Training Department, and closing on Thursday, May 11th, with the address of Bishop Walden, marks one of the greatest epochs in the history of this, the oldest and best of our institutions in the Southland.

The exercises of the Bible Training epartment were a fitting commencement to a very brilliant closing. The orator of the evening was Rev. Samuel Redmond, of Class A, second year's course. His address on the "Necessity of a proper use of time" was well delivered, original, and showed thorough preparation. In the absence of an invited speaker, Dr. J. A. Kumler gave a helpful and interesting address on "Then and now." The dean of the Theological Department followed in a brief address. The musical program was a pleasing feature.

A great audience gathered in the new Meharry Auditorium on Thursday night, May 4th, to hear the musical Valedictory of Mr. Joseph I. Berry, of the class of 1905. He was ably supported by Mrs. Josie McNairy, dean of the Verdi Musical Conservatory and of the Walden Musical Faculty, under the direction of Miss Mary E. Braden. This number is said by many to have been the highest point reached in this department. Miss Braden, during these exercises, added to her increasing reputation as a great teacher of music. The exercises of the English Department on Friday were up to the usual standard. Sunday, May 7th, was a great day. The announcement of the baccalaureate sermon by President Kumler drew a vast audience. The sermon was an able and inspiring one. Union services were held by the Epworth League, and Sunday school in the afternoon. The annual sermon was preached at 7:30 p. m. by Rev. L. M. Hagood, B. D. M. D. D.D., of Kentucky. The doctor, who is himself an Alumnus, was at his best, and his splendid sermon will not soon be forgotten. On Monday and Tuesday nights the exercises of the Normal Nurse Training and College Preparatory Departments were held before delighted audiences, and several of the class orations were above the average.

Thursday, May 11th, was the great day. The spacious auditorium was well filled with one of the most representative audiences of the city and surrounding country, both white and colored. We noticed on the platform Drs. Guernnsey and Merrill, of Roger Williams and Fisk Universities: lawyers, doctors, clergymen, representing every profession. Bishop John M. Walden, D. D., LL. D., was the orator of the day. Right well did he sustain his well earned reputation. The occasion will never be forgotten. As the eminent man of God delivered his message, with pathos, eloquence and power, he seemed to look beyond his audience into the homes of the thousands of the race for whose uplifting he had given the best years of his life. In the "Conquests of Truth" the vast congregation seemed to follow the path so eloquently portrayed with ever increasing interest. Verily, the truth had in our good bishop a most able advocate.

President Kumler then called forward those who were found worthy of the honors of the university. Of the class in millinery, eight received certificates; stenography and type writing, seven; English, fifty-five certificates. Normal, five diplomas; College Preparatory, six diplomas. Mr. B. F. Duke Boyd and Mr. George W. Gibson received the degree of Bachelor of Arts, respectively. Miss Dovie A. Reeves received the degree of Bachelor of Science. Seven young men having completed the first and second years' course of study in the Bible Training Department, received certificates.

The president's levee held in the spacious dining hall after the services was a grand affair. Hundreds sat down to a repast which would have been the envy of kings.

Perhaps one of the greatest events of the commencement exercises was the splendid display of the departments in the library. Here was work, skilled, original, impressive, not borrowed from books, but wrought out by skilled and deft fingers under the direction of patient and impartial teachers. No apology was needed here. Millinery, printing, dress making, cooking, map drawing, diagraming, draughting, civil engineering, modern appliances for Bible instruction, history, painting, drawing. The work spoke for itself. The splendid compliments of our honored Bishop Walden, Drs. Kumler, Hubbard and almost everybody that visited our display was an inspiration.

Taking everything into consideration, this has been the greatest year of the University. The enrollment, notwithstanding the great fire, has reached nearly 900. President Kumler has led ably and acceptably, notwithstanding a very severe spell of sickness which kept him from active leadership for more than a month. Splendidly located, with an able faculty and a glorious record to inspire, there is no reason why Walden University should not keep her place in the lead.

EDWARD W. S. HAMMOND.

Gammon Theological Seminary

The scholastic year closed with the exercises of commencement week, April 23-27.

The weather was delightful, the spacious campus in its clothing of spring foliage was pleasant to see, and good fellowship prevailed in all circles, making this one of the most satisfactory commencements of recent years.

Bishop L. B. Wilson on Wednesday, April 19th, sounded the keynote of the occasion in the ordination service, which he had courteously consented to conduct for the benefit of the brethren of the senior class, who were to be appointed to charges and whose conferences had already met. This service was in Clark Chapel, which was well filled. The Bishop preached a very helpful sermon from Matt. 25:15 on the mutual helpfulness of the one talent and the five talented man. He then ordained C. G. Taylor, as elder, and E. W. Rinchen, A. G. Jenkins and G. W. Jackson, as deacons.

Drs. L. G. Adkinson, J. W. E. Bowen, Geo. E. Trever, Arnold Oliver and Rev. P. H. Travis assisted in the service.

Sunday, April 23rd, Rev. M. C. B. Mason, D. D., preached the baccaulaureate sermon in Clark Chapel, from Luke iv. 18-19. It was inspiring and uplifting in its influence upon the student body who always listen to the eloquent utterances of Dr. Mason with great profit and pleasure.

Dr. J. W. E. Bowen had charge of the love feast at 11 a. m. and the anniversary of the Stewart Missionary foundation in the evening. At the latter service hymns and essays and orations on Africa which had been awarded prizes were read.

Monday evening the Gammon Lyceum held its anniversary and had a program of great interest.

Tuesday evening the Alumni reunion was held in Clark Chapel with Dr. G. W. Arnold presiding. The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. R. K. Harris, of Macon, Ga. He was a graduate of the class of 1899.

Rev. Drs. S. C. Upshaw and A. B. Melton assisted in the exercises.

Dr. Arnold stated that 205 students have been graduated from the Seminary since the establishment in 1886.

The prayer meeting Wednesday evening was in charge of President Adkinson, who in his usual tender and sympathetic manner made it an occasion of deepest spiritual enjoyment. At the close he asked all present to shake hands with the faculty, who stood in line with him at the front. The feeling was deep and genuine and many eyes were wet with tears at the greetings and farewells.

Commencement day exercises were in charge of President Adkinson. The spacious hall was filled with students and friends and the program was well rendered. The religious tone and earnest spirit that breathed in all the orations was specially marked. The high grade of work and ability of the various men shown in the delivery of these original productions was a matter of favorable remark by many.

We give herewith the names of the graduates and the subjects of their theses: J. B. Booth, "The Life that Counts;" M. B. A. Cain, "Mental and Moral Purity Must Sustain the Flag of Church and State;" J. J. Harrison, "The Age, Some of Its Problems and Their Solution;" G. W. Jackson, A. B., "The Place of Fundamental Law in the Economy of a ation's Existence;" A. G. Jenkins, A. B., "Recent Legislation Against the Negro;" E. W. Kinchen, "A Plea for the Aged;" L. M. Bolden, "What is Worth While;" G. H. Lennon, "Contest and Victory;" T. J. Robinson, "The Mission of the Ministry;" G. F. Stevens, "The Christian Religion of Yesterday, To-day and To-morrow;" C. G. Taylor, "Sterling Qualities in True Leaders;" H. F. Thomas, "The Man for the Ministry;" J. W. Warren, "God's Estimate of Man;" B. S. A. Williams, "The Triumph of Right in the World of Politics and Religion."

Dr. Adkinson, in a short address at the close, referred to the great harmony which has marked the work of the year and the highly efficient work of the two new members of the faculty, Drs. Trever and Yates.

The improvements made on the campus were of great value. New fire apparatus had been installed under the management of Dr. Yates at the cost of nearly $1,000, and electric lights placed on the grounds and in all the buildings of the Seminary.

The attendance has been the largest in recent years, if not in the history of the school.

The work in the classes has been highly satisfactory and the prospects for the next school year are exceedingly favorable.

Dr. Adkinson will spend most of the summer at the Seminary. Dr. Bowen will have headquarters there, but will make a tour through several States and may go as far as New England.

Dr. Trever goes to Wisconsin, where he will conduct revival services for a month, and then go to Ludington Camp Ground, on Lake Michigan.

Dr. Yates goes to Bangor, Maine, where he was pastor when elected to the professorship in Gammon. He has been elected to the management of the Northport Camp Ground. He will spend the vacation in special work for his department in the Seminary, being in close touch with the great libraries of Boston and aBngor.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson X—June 4, 1905. Title—"The Resurrection." (John 20: 11-23.) Golden Text.—"But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept." (1 Cor. 15: 20.

The events that immediately follow the resurrection are as follows:

1. The women visit the tomb. (1, 2). They came very early in the morning. Mary Magdalena was among them. They brought sweet spices to anint the body of Jesus, and thus prevent it, as long as possible, from decomposing. They talked among themselves about the stone over the entrance of the tomb, and wondered who they could get to roll it away. But when they drew near they saw it had been removed. Mary Magdalena turned from the company, ran back into the city, and told Peter and John the body of Jesus had been taken away. She did not believe He had arisen from the dead. The other woman drew near and entered the tomb. They saw an angel on the right side, clothed in a bright garment. They were afraid and bowed with their face to the earth. The angel told them to fear not. He had not come to take life, but to bring news. He asked them why they sought the living among the dead. This was his way of telling of the resurrection. He told them to go their way and tell the disciples that Jesus had arisen and would go before them into Galilee. They departed immediately from the tomb with fear and great joy; a strange blending of feeling. As they ran to bring the disciples word Jesus appeared unto them. He gave the familiar salutation: "All hail," or all rejoice. They drew near, held Him by the feet, and worshipped Him. This was likely His second appearance.

Note—They who seek Jesus early in life, and early each day, will find Him. We should be untiring in our labors for the dead. We may talk one to another of the difficulties before us in life. If we go forward the hand of Providence may remove obstacles from our path. We should tell others about the wonderful works of God. Jesus has been an object of search from the night He was laid in the manger to the present day. They who look for Him in the grave, or among the low goveling things of earth will never find Him. He is marching at the head of His church, as a great invisible shepherd at the head of his visible flock. When life's journey is over, and we pass into the great beyond, then shall we see Him as He is.

II. Peter and John Visit the tomb. (3-10). When Mary Magdalena told them the body of Jesus was not in the sepulcher, they ran to see if her words were true. They ran together for a season, but John being younger and fleeter than Peter, soon left him behind. He reached the tomb first, stooped down and looked in, but did not enter. When Peter came up he went immediately into the tomb. John followed. They found the linen clothes lying in one place, and the napkin folded and lying in an other. The body of Jesus they did not find. John believed that Jesus had arisen from the dead, not because he understood the Scriptures, but because the body could not be found. Then Jesus had repeatedly told them he would arise on the third day. After this investigation they returned to their home

Note—We may investigate the reports of others, in matters about which we are concerned, though we do not fully believe them. All do not journey in the narrow way from earth to heaven with the same swiftness. The disciple should have an humble boldness that will constrain him to approach Jesus without fear. When we arise from the death of sin, to a life of righteousness, we should leave our grave clothes behind. The study of the Scriptures will strengthen our faith in the resurrection of Jesus.

III. The appearance of Jesus to Mary. (11-18). She did not enter the tomb while Peter and John were searching for the body, but stood without weeping. When the two apostles departed she did not go away with them. She remained near the tomb and would ever and anon stoop down and look in. She hoped no doubt to learn something of the body of Jesus. Note—Grief for our dead that is controlled by reason, is not condemned in the word of God.

Mary saw in the tomb two angels, one at the head and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain. They were robed in white or shining garments. They asked why she wept. This was not for information, but was a mild reproof. It also showed their sympathy for her, and their desire to help her understand herself. It opened the way for that which was to follow. Se told them the cause of her sorrow. They had taken away her Lord, and she knew not where they had laid Him. Her faith and love were not evenly balanced. Note—God does not reveal His will to us now through the meditation of angels, but through His written word.

When Mary ceased speaking to the angels she turned about and saw Jesus standing near by, but did not know Him. The same occurred with the two disciples on their way to Emmaus, and with the apostles by the sea of Galilee. There was as much in the voice, as in the word, that caused Mary to recognize Jesus when her name was spoken. Her reply, "Rabboni," or Master, showed profound respect. Why did Jesus forbid Mary to touch Him, when He allowed the other women to hold His feet, asked the apostles to handle Him, and commanded Thomas to thrust his hand into His side? The touch with the apostles was to confirm their faith, but with the women it was an expression of love. Jesus had greater work for Mary just then, than holding His feet. There would be time for this by and by. He had not yet ascended to the Father. He desired her to go and tell His brethren that He would soon ascend to His God, and to their God. She promptly obeyed. Note—To those who truly and earnestly desire to see Jesus He will appear, the fairest among ten thousand and altogether lovely.

IV. Jesus appears to the apostles. (19-23). The resurrection day has drawn to a close. The disciples have assembled, likely in that upper room, to eat their evening meal. The doors are shut for fear of the Jews. There are present ten of the apostles and some others. Judas is dead, and Thomas is absent. Mary Magdalena, Peter, the women, and Cleopas, were likely telling how Jesus had appeared to them during the day. Suddenly "Jesus came and stood in their midst." It is not known how He entered that room, and speculation is useless.

The disciples were greatly frightened when they saw Jesus. They supposed He was a spirit. But He showed them His hands, and feet, and told them to handle Him. A spirit had not flesh and bones as they saw he had. Even then they "believed not for joy." Jesus asked if they had any meat. They gave Him a "piece of broiled fish, and an honey comb." He ate the same before them. Jesus convinced them of His identity through four of the senses: by sight—they saw him; by sound—they heard His voice; by touch—they handled Him; and almost by taste—for He ate before them.

Jesus taught the disciples. (See Luke). (1). The Scriptures are divided into the Law, the Prophets, and the Psalms. The entire Old Testament reveals Jesus. The redemption of the world by Him is the theme of the Bible. It teaches His life, death, and resurrection. (2). Understanding the Scriptures. He breathed on them and said: "Receive ye the Holy Ghost." They had the Spirit in a measure before the death of Jestus, here more was given, and on the day of Pentecost He was shed forth in all His fulness. He was to aid in understanding the Scriptures, and in knowing the hearts of men. (3). The chief doctrines of the Scriptures are the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus, and repentance and remission of sins in His name. Here the apostles are represented as doing that which they cause to be done. It is God only who remits, and retains sins. (4). These doctrines were to be preached first at Jerusalem, and then "among all nations." The gospel is for Gentiles same as for Jews. Jesus "tasted death for every man." (5). The disciples were to be witnesses that Jesus was the theme of the Bible: that the word of God is spiritually discerned; that these doctrines are to be preached throughout the world.

The Making of a Christian: Helping One Another

Scripture References, Eph. 4. 1-6 Heb. 10. 24, 25.

The Word.—We have in our first selection the human side of the church and the mutual relations of each member. First of all there is the exhortation to walk worthily. This walk is to be characterized by lowliness, long-suffering, meekness, forbearance and unity. The plea for unity is strengthened by the showing that unity characterizes the church. One is the body, the faith, the hope, the baptism; not one form of water baptism, as some have sought to teach from this passage, but one baptism of the Spirit symbolized by water. As God is one, so should the church be one. We are to recognize each other as brothers of a common faith, and help each other in the building up of character. In Hebrews we have the further exhortation to "consider one another," and only provoke unto "good works." And this is to be done by assembling together and exhorting one another. This is what results from the usual church service.

Our Homilys Members One of Another. We are all fractions. The law of mutual dependence runs through human society. We depend upon a thousand other workers and toilers for the common necessities of life. The law is even more in evidence in the spiritual life. We are touching our fellow-men on every side. As Alpine travelers are bound together by ropes, so we are by ties of influence. We are in a very real sense our "brother's keeper." We are members one of another. Let us notice how this law works in the church.

It May Hinder. Often the fact that e are selfish and "seek our own" is a stumbling-block and a hindrance to our fellow-Christians. Our indifference toward the sufferings or trials of our brother may be the means of his fall. A failure to speak the encouraging word or do the helpful act may result in the backsliding of a brother. A neglect of helpfulness in a time of trial often disheartens. A frown may do more to discourage than a sermon can help. Having our way, pushing our plans without considering others, may be the means of hindering a whole church.

It May Help. How often one sunny Christian is the life and inspiration of a whole church! One Christian who is thoughtful and sensible may help a hundred to be better, and do more for Christ. The Master is our example in this. He went about not pleasing himself, but doing good. Recognizing the fact that we have influence, let us use it for helpfulness. Remember one of our bishops has said, "The measure of our religion is our helpfulness to one another." If you are conscious of strength, use that strength—not to harm, but to help. Thus you "may with one mind and one mouth glorify God."

It May Glorify God. Such a spirit of thoughtful regard for the rights and opinions of others will do more to recommend religion than many sermons. It will attract souls to the church and to Christ. It will build up the kingdom of righteousness on earth. By this blessed unity wrought by the spirit of Christian endurance the church becomes as one living person from whose single heart and voice God hears the songs of glory. The infirmities of the weak are often removed when they are "borne with." Pleasing others, we learn to please God. Possessing the spirit of helpfulness, we possess the spirit of Christ.

Motives of Helpfulness—

"Sympathy"—putting yourself in his place.
"Zeal"—desiring to see the kingdom prosper.
"Love"—the great Christ motive.
"Self-interest"—building others we help ourselves.

an allotment of garden plots. Surround the labor with some inducements to remain. 3. The Negro is anxious for some sort of education. So much has been said for and against education that, if for no other reason, the Negro wants to be educated out of curiosity, if not for utility. Give him a chance to educate his children. Set apart a little cabin, whitewash it and arrange it for school purposes, with seats and blackboards, and, of course, with permission for the employment of a teacher, which the Negro himself will pay for it. 4. A fair and honest return for services rendered.

We deplore most sincerely this scarcity of labor. In part, as we have said, it is due to general prosperity, but on the other hand there are other reasons for which neither the Negro nor the southern planters are wholly at fault. We have made here a few suggestions which, if followed by all concerned, we believe will relieve the situation.

A CALLED PASTORATE

The Central Christian Advocate makes the following announcement: "The official board of Grand Avenue Church, Kansas City, Mo., have extended to Dr. Daniel McGurk, of Cedar Falls, Ia., a unanimous call to become pastor in succession to Dr. William A. Quayle. Dr. McGurk has wired his acceptance." We have no doubt of the pre-eminent fitness of Dr. McGurk for the pastorate of this, one of the leading churches of our Methodism, but the announcement quoted savors of much that is un-Methodistic. One of the distinguishing features of our denomination is the appointing power of the Bishop; yes, the absolute appointing power. A "unanimous call" and a "wired acceptance" are un-Methodistic. It does not help Methodism, if such a thing is to be done, to announce it in the public press. Already the fever is spreading, and official boards that have heretofore relied upon the godly judgment of our Bishops are now dictating appointments; examples of which are known throughout parts of the church. We have known of cases where the parsonage has been remodeled to suit the taste of the "called pastor," even before the Conference had met and without the consent of the Bishop. No one can tell what exigencies will demand a shifting of the pastors at any particular Conference. We have no doubt but that in the case referred to, that of Grand Avenue Church, Kansas City, not only the wishes of this church, and the forthcoming pastor, Dr. McGurk, were consulted, but such a procedure of a called pastorate warms our Methodist blood, and we enter our protest. It may work well for some, but in the long run it will work harm to many.

THE CASE OF PROFESSOR MITCHELL

Dr. H. G. Mitchell, Professor of Hebrew and Old Testament Exegesis, of Boston University, has attracted considerable attention throughout the church by the attacks made upon him because of certain of his teachings which were deemed heretical. Three times have charges been preferred against him along this line, in 1895, in 1899 and in 1904. The charge in 1904 was submitted by a member of the South California Conference and referred to the Bishop. At the meeting of the Board of Bishops, held in Louisville, Ky., the case came up for consideration. Bishop John M. Walden, secretary of the Board of Bishops, sends us the following action, which was adopted May 1st:

The General Conference of 1904 adopted the following:

"The Bishops are hereby counseled not to nominate or confirm any professor in our theological schools concerning whose agreement with our doctrinal standards they have a reasonable doubt. The Bishops are hereby authorized and directed, whenever specific charges of misteaching in any of our theological schools are made in writing, by responsible parties, members or ministers of our church, to appoint a committee of their own number to investigate such charges, whose report, if adopted by the Bishops, shall be transmitted to the trustees of the theological school involved, for proper action in the premises."

Under this provision complaints against the teachings of Professor H. G. Mitchell, a professor in the School of Theology of the Boston Univehsity, presented to the Bishops last November, were carefully investigated by a committee of the board appointed at that time.

On April 26, 1905, that committee reported to the Board of Bishops; and, after full consideration and slight amendment, their report was adopted as follows:

To the Board of Bishops: The committee appointed in November, 1904, to investigate certain complaints made in writing against the teachings of Hinckley G. Mitchell, D. D., a professor in the School of Theology of Boston University, and signed by three laymen and four ministers of our church, having carefully considered the matter committed to them, respectfully report as follows:

1. The evidence submitted to us is not sufficient to prove the first complaint, namely, that Professor Mitchell denies the deity of Christ.

2. Some of the statements of Professor Mitchell concerning the historic character of the early chapters of the Book of Genesis seem to us unwarranted and objectionable, and as having a tendency to invalidate the authority of other portions of the Scriptures. We, therefore, think there is some ground for the complaint on this head contained in the paper laid before us.

3. Having carefully considered the other matters presented in the complaint, we are of the opinion that Item No. 2 in our report sufficiently covers the case, and no further deliverance is necessary.

Resolved, 1. That the secretary of the Board of Bishops be, and is hereby, instructed to transmit to the trustees of Boston University a copy of this statement, including the report on the complaints against Professor Mitchell, "for proper action in the premises."

2. That having been notified by the trustees of their action favoring the continuance of Professor Mitchell in his professorship, the Board of Bishops, as a matter of courtesy to the trustees, and in view of the findings contained in Item No. 2 of our report recited above, and of the reasonable inferences therefrom, respectfully returns the nomination of Professor Mitchell without action.

THREE GREAT NEGROES

Meridian Academy, Meridian, Miss., will hold its commencement exercises May 28-31. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached Sunday, May 28th, by Rev. J. M. Shumpert, D. D., and the Academy sermon by Dr. G. W. Smith. On Wednesday morning, May 31st, Dr. J. W. E. Bowen will deliver an address at the Fair Ground, and at 3 p. m., Dr. Booker T. Washington will speak. Dr. Washington will be introduced by Dr. M. C. B. Mason. And thus Dr. Lucas has succeeded in bringing together on one occasion three of the most noted men of the race, Washington, Bowen and Mason. Most schools consider themselves fortunate if they can secure one of these men on their commencement program, but Dr. Lucas has secured the services of all three and each one is so well known that comment is unnecessary. To most of our people it will happen only once in a lifetime to hear three such men from the same platform. It is a remarkable tribute to our work in Meridian and to the aggressiveness of Dr. Lucas, that three such distinguished men should be programmed. Our preachers and friends throughout the State of Mississippi should take advantage of this great occasion and go in large numbers to Meridian and catch hope and inspiration from three of the foremost men of the race. Round trip tickets at one and one-third fare will be granted on all roads leading into Meridian, and there is no reason why thousands of our people should not get the inspiration of the occasion.

We append here, for the benefit of our constituency, the reduced round trip rate to Meridian. Tickets on sale May 31. Hattiesburg, $3.40; Ellisville, $2.55; Laurel, $2.25; Heidleburg, $1.50; Enterprise, 70 cents; Jackson, $3.85; Pelahatchie, $2.75; Forest, $1.95; Newton, $1.25; Hickory, 90 cents.

BISHOP HENRY McNEIL TURNER

The Quarto Centennial Celebration of the election and consecration to the Episcopacy of Henry McNeil Turner, D. D., LL. D., was held from May 18 to 21, in historic St. Paul African Methodist Episcopal Church, St. Louis, Mo. The Missouri Conference was the first Conference of which the Bishop was a member, and in St. Louis he was elected and ordained to the Bishopric. And here hosts of friends, admirers and followers gathered to pay loving and deserved tribute to this noble Christian man, this fearless champion of the race, in appreciation of his twenty-five years of active and faithful service as an episcopate of the African Methodist Episcopal Church. This event was carried out with complete success. A superb program was rendered. Bishops Gaines, Grant, Arnett and other prominent men were present.

Bishop Turner, ever since his career as United States Chaplain, has held a prominent and conspicuous place in American life. He began his missionary work by touring many Southern States, where he organized and formed many new churches. During the reconstruction period the race had no braver champion than he, and today he is one of the best known and most influential leaders of the race.

Bishop Turner is a man of scholarly attainments, of pure life, a lover of truth and justice, and it is said the men of his episcopal district love and revere him. All denominations honor and respect Bishop Turner, for, as one of his admirers has well said, "he has, in the face of all impediments, had the courage to be a man, and, above all else, to be himself."

The SOUTHWESTERN extends a warm hand of congratulation and appreciation to the Bishop. May he live long to serve his God, his Church and his race.

Personal and General.

Mrs. J. M. Harris, of Kansas City, Mo., is visiting her father, Mr. F. O. McGinty, of Griffin, Ga.

Rev. Valcour Chapman preached the annual sermon of Gilbert Industrial College, Baldwin, La., May 14th.

Rev. W. A. Smith, our pastor at Caldwell and Wynne, Ark., is exceedingly happy over a recent gift—a fine baby boy.

Dean Pierre Landry, of Gilbert Industrial College, was in the city this week, attending the commencement of New Orleans University.

Rev. Dr. G. G. Latshaw, of Cincinnati, Ohio, spent a few days in the city this week, the guest of Dr. F. H. Knight, president of New Orleans University.

Rev. R. N. Jones desires his correspondents to address him at Seventeenth Street and Thirty-first Street Ave., Meridian, Miss., instead of Moss Point, as heretofore.

Rev. J. S. Todd, D. D., pastor of Ebenezer Methodist Episcopal Church, Jacksonville, Fla., is on a visit to Chattanooga, Tenn., and Atlanta, Ga.

Rev. D. D. Dukes, our pastor at Brookhaven, Miss., rendered very efficient service to Rev. H. Jordan of Summit, Miss., in his recent revival.

Miss Eunice Tramwell closed her school at Mantua, Ala., on May 12, after a successful year's work. She will spend the summer with relatives at Huntsville, Ala.

Rev. C. H. Monroe, our pastor at Booneville, spent a few days in the city recently under medical treatment. He is now at Clinton seeking the full recuperation of his health.

Rev. and Mrs. V. D. Jenkins, our pastor at McDonogh, Ga., will celebrate their crystal wedding on June 28th. These have been happy years to them, and may there be as many more.

Rev. Stephen A. Huger, presiding elder of the Ocala District Florida Conference, will preach the annual sermon of the Emerson Memorial Home and School at Ocala, Fla., on May 28.

Mrs. Lucy Swanson of Shreveport, a member of St. Paul Methodist Church of that city, who has been visiting Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Tircuit, of this city, returned to her home Friday evening, May 19.

Rev. I. H. Holder, our pastor at North Fort Worth, Texas, writes us that Rev. M. C. Cavines and twenty members of the Independent Methodist Church joined our church in North Fort Worth on May 10th.

Rev. M. C. B. Mason, D. D., has already for this season delivered his fifteenth commencement address. He is yet to address the graduating class of the State Normal School of Alabama, of which Prof. W. H. Council is principal.

Rev. J. W. Lewis, our pastor at Zachary, is planning for a stake-driving and ground-breaking on the third Sunday in June, and all ministers of the District are invited to participate. Rev. Lewis, who was in the office a few days ago, reports the work of his church in excellent condition.

Bishop Henry Spellmeyer is an alumnus of New York University, of the class of 1866. Bishop Spellmeyer will preach the baccalaureate sermon of his alma mater at University Heights on Sunday afternoon, June 4th.

Miss Bertha McNeil has just returned from Baldwin, where she spent last year in connection with Gilbert Industrial College. She has done splendid service at this institution and her work was especially commended by Bishop Walden.

Dr. I. L. Thomas, of the Board of Church Extension, requests that all the presiding elders send him the dates of District Conferences. He is anxious to visit as many of the District Conferences as possible. Dr. Thomas' address is So. Atlanta, Ga.

Rev. Moses Blake, A. B., pastor of Simpson Methodist Episcopal Church, Charleston, W. Va., sends us his yearly report, giving account of his work from March 20, 1904, to April 10, 1905. The aggregate collection for that time amounted to $5,654.66.

The National Memorial Day will be celebrated at the Chalmette National Cemetery, a few miles below New Orleans, as usual. Rev. William R. Chase, presiding elder of the New Orleans District of the Gulf Conference, is announced as the orator of the day.

Rev. C. S. Waters, M. D., a successful practitioner of Moss Point, Miss., is critically ill. Dr. A. D. Simonington, Dr. G. H. Wilkinson and Dr. E. C. Shaw, of Mobile, Ala., visited Dr. Waters at Moss Point, and after consulting, Dr. Waters was removed to Mobile for medical treatment.

Mr. Arthur P. Bedou, the outdoor photographer of this city, is out on his annual trip through the State of Mississippi and will visit Brookhaven, Natchez, Jackson, Vicksburg, and other places. Mr. Bedou is a first-class photographer and has given eminent satisfaction wherever he has been privileged to do work. We commend Mr. Bedou to the favorable consideration of our constituency.

Rev. E. M. Jones, D. D., preached the annual sermon of the Noxubee Industrial School at McLeod, Miss., on Sunday, May 7th. The sermon was ppronounced by those who were present as the best they had heard for a long time. Rev. C. W. Butler assisted in the service. The closing exercises of this institution was held on Friday, May 12th, and the address was delivered by the principal, Prof. S. J. Hunter. Eight pupils received certificates. The enrollment is 220.

Judge Albion Tourgee died May 21, at Bordeaux, France, where he was serving as American consul. Judge Tourgee was born at Williamsfield, Ohio, May 2, 1838, and lived for some years following the civil war in Greensboro, N. C., in which the scenes of "A Fool's Errand" are laid. Subsequently Judge Tourgee moved to New York State, making Mayville his home. He was the author of several books, prominent among which are "A Fool's Errand" and "Bricks Without Straw," both of which deal with the reconstruction period.

The pastor, Rev. O. A. Johnson, of Burns Methodist Episcopal Church, Des Moines, Iowa, announces that the new two-story brick church recently erected will be dedicated June 18 by the Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, assisted by the presiding elder, Dr. J. Will Jackson. This building, which is considered the best church edifice owned by Negroes in that state, is valued at $4200. The pastor and people plan to raise on this occasion at least $500. May they be successful.

Work on the new dormitory for the Colored Agricultural and Mechanical College at Greensboro, N. C., is in progress, and the college authorities are expecting soon to have another large dormitory added to their equipment. The building will be a three-story brick structure, containing forty-eight rooms, steam heat and electric light. The plans for the building were drawn by Prof. Adam Watson, the director of the Mechanical Department, who is himself a graduate of this school. All the work is being done by students.

Doings of the Workmen.

ALABAMA.

Huntsville, A. B. Anderson.—The Lake Side M. E. Church is in excellent condition under the able leadership of Rev. Martin. He was given on his arrival here a hearty reception by this people. The stewardess sisters went to work at once on an old indebtedness of the church. We are going to do all in our power this year.

Anniston.—On Sunday, during my second quarterly conference, elder J. W. Thomas was at his best. He preached at 3 p. m. to a large congregation. His sermon made a lasting impression on all. Fifty persons partook of the Lord's Supper. Raised for the elder $10.05. Bro. Emmit McHundon, our new District Steward, was largely responsible for the financial success of the quarter. Total collected for the day, $12.15. Bro. E. J. Collins, of the Presbyterian Church, preached at 7:30 p. m. Two persons were received into the church.

Alexander City, S. L. Damous, pastor—On my charge I found some faithful members, so I took hold of the work, using my best thoughts in its interest. On April 15-16 my first quarterly conference was held at River Side with Rev. F. L. Teague in the chair. The elder's presence was invigorating. On Sunday he preached and administered the Lord's Supper to a goodly number. We raised the elder's quarterage in full. We have some friends among the sinners who are standing by us in our great struggle.

Kellyton, A. A. Roberson.—The Love Feast at Kellyton Chapel on a recent Wednesday night was a spiritual feast.

The Stewardess Sisters, led by Sister Hannah Moore, kindly presented the pastor with groceries. My second quarterly conference was held at Rockford Chapel Saturday May 6, with Rev. F. L. Teague presiding. Many of the officers presented written reports. The elder preached acceptably to a large congregation. Raised for the quarter; Trustees, $3.33; pastor, $36.87; elder $18.50; on missions, $5.00; extension, $2.50; total, $66.20.

FLORIDA.

Tampa.—The officers and members of Bowman M. E. Church have again raised high the name of their church on the roll of honor. Sunday, April 16 closed their Spring Bazaar and Rally in which $178.55 were raised. The following ladies worked hard to make it a success and were able to report from their several booths or clubs: Mrs. Grace Forbs, $10.83; Mrs. P. A. Daniels, $3.01; Mrs. Estelle Roberts, $5.55; Mrs. C. C. Smith, $4.46; Miss Florida Johnson, $2.25; Misses May Miles, Lillian Forbs, Estella Peyton and Esther Meeks, $4.09. Many other ladies worked just as hard and faithful. The following captains, with the extra donations received, raised: Mrs. Lizzie Pope, $9.85; Mrs. B. J. Holston's Club, $1.50; Mrs. Girtie Whitfield, $10.75; Mrs. Jane Lewis, $12.10; Miss Dora Daniels, $6.30; Miss Bessie Brown, $6.50; Mrs. Lean Phelp, $5.55; Mrs. Celia Buyant, $14.00; Mrs. P. N. Griffin, $4.25; Miss F. E. Davis, $8.25; Mrs. A. J. Prince, $13.25; donated by Masons, Odd Fellows, K. of P., Brotherhood and St. Joseph Aid Societies, $14.55; Miss Mary Adams' Volunteer Club, $7.50; Mrs. C. C. Smith, $2.00; from tickets to Bazaar and public collections, $28.05. When the fact is considered that Miss Adams and Miss F. E. Davis, two captains, were called away and Mrs. Maggie Prince, Mrs. Gertie Whitfield and Mrs. Elizabeth Pope were taken quite ill on the evening of the Bazaar, we are forced to say that the church did well. This is not the first work old Bowman has done since the Conference. Six weeks ago the church closed a meting with several conversions and accessions and for closing day a thank offering was made of $70.15. The quarterly conference which met six weeks after the annual conference reported 21 conversions and raised $371.78. The church received during the ten weeks of Rev. Thos. H. B. Walker's pastorate 23 members, and collected $612.43. The Lord is working wonderfully in the hearts of the people of Bowman, and some great things will yet come to pass.

Braidentown, C. W. Caldwell.—On the 16th of April our rally was held. Quite a large gathering was out to hear Rev. E. W. Garrison, pastor of Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church. Clubs No. 1 and 2 lifted their collections. Club No. 1, Bro. C. W. Caldwell, captain, reported $14.00, and club No. 2, Sister M. M. Cusbert, captain, reported $29.00. Total $43.00. The erection of the new M. E. Church of Braidenton is a certainty. Rev. Morten, the Baptist minister, gave us generous assistance. We hope to make the South Missouri Conference a great one.

GEORGIA.

Macon.—The Board of Church Extension of the Savannah Annual Conference convened in Warren Chapel, Macon, Ga., April 19, 1905. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. W. H. Brown, presiding elder of the Waynesboro District, assisted by presiding elders R. R. O'Neal, of the LaGrange District, J. W. Fisher, of the Savannah District, and Rev. C. R. O. Rowland. After which the president of the Board, Rev. W. H. Brown, made a few brief remarks, touching the object and purpose of these meetings. The secretary then called the roll and the following brethren answered: Revs. W. H. Brown, C. R. O. Rowland, secretary, R. R. O'Neal, J. W. Fisher and Bro. B. J. Jordan. Applications for donations were taken up and the following places received endorsement from the Board: Shady Grove, Harris City, La Grange District, $100.00; Oak Grove, Reidsville, and Sopherton, Ga., both of the Savannah District were endorsed for $100.00 each, Nashville church, on the Waycross District, $150.00, making a total of $450.00 disposed of to churches within the bounds of the conference. Rev. A. B. Allen, presiding elder, of the Waycross District, made a touching appeal on behalf of missions within our bounds. The meeting was brought to a close after a most profitable session at 5 p. m. the same day. Benediction by the president.

C. R. O. ROWLAND, Sec.

Commerce, L. E. Freeman.—The Rev. A. McNeal, pastor of Warren Chapel, has, by his intelligent, loyal and earnest efforts, awakened great enthusiasm among the people of Commerce. He is faithful and steady, ever ready to promote the interest of the church. The Sunday school and its superintendent, J. J. Mayfield, receive his assistance. The League is in good condition and there are evidences of continued growth. The parsonage committees are doing a commendable work in the way of furnishing the parsonage. Mrs. Emma L. Adams, chairman, collected on Easter Sunday $55.08.

South Rome, H. Scott.—The South Rome M. E. Church is having a year of prosperity. A parsonage lot has been purchased, paid for and the deeds recorded. We plan to build a neat three room parsonage on this lot within the next ninety days. Our first quarterly conference was held recently. The presiding elder's claim of $11.25 was paid in full. Too much cannot be said in praise of Rev. Stirling and his beloved wife, for their leadership and interest in our work. They are loved by all.

KANSAS.

Coffeyville, J. W. Nolond.—At the last session of the Lincoln conference, Bishop Henry W. Warren appointed Rev. H. T. Canady to the pastorate of St. James Church. He was heartily received and entered into the work with vigor. Rev. Canady found only 17 members enrolled, but the church has been quickened. Conversions, 1; accessions, 14. Under his leadership the Trustees' rally, May 7th, resulted in $110.73 with which to begin the erection of a three-room parsonage.

KENTUCKY.

Moorefield—We found our church in a very poor condition as well as location, but now it is crowded at each service. We have succeeded in raising money, have purchased good land and paid for the same. Also, we have put nice new furniture into the parsonage. This also is paid for. Pastor and people are making things go at this charge. Mrs. Bettie White is doing good work.

Murray, F. C. Dillon — We as a church congratulate ourselves on having as our pastor Rev. G. W. Bailey. His strong and powerful sermons, together with his Christian example among the people have endeared him to all. The Epworth League and the Home Missionary Society have been reorganized and the outlook is promising. Tuesday, April 25, our presiding elder, Dr. L. M. Haygood, was with us and presided at our quarterly conference. Tuesday night he preached to an appreciative audience a sermon that will be long remembered for its logic, diction and religious truths. With two such leaders we can hope for nothing else save an outpuoring of God's blessing and the growing of our church along all lines.

Dover, L. W. Florer, Pastor—Our first quarterly meeting and sacrament was held May 3 and 4. Dr. G. W. Ziegler, our new presiding elder, was with us. His broad experience as a pastor for twenty-five years has well fitted him for the presiding elderate. The church is delighted with him. We are much encouraged.

Cynthiana, I. C. Miller, M. D.—The reception given by the Ebenezer M. E. Church, Thursday night, April 20th, in honor of Rev. J. W. Staples, who was recently transferred to this work, was a grand affair.

Cloveporte, W. H. Pope, Pastor—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Feb. 18th, by Rev. Joseph Courtney, D. D., our presiding elder. Every member of the conference was present with reports which indicated the church to be waking up both spiritually and financially. We have built a neat three-roomed parsonage on our lot. Our Sunday School and Epworth League, with Prof. G. W. Adams and W. W. Bridewell leading, are moving along nicely. Our Woman's Home Missionary Society, with Mrs. M. B. Pope as president, is doing a great work, both for the church and community. Mrs. M. B. Pope was the elected delegate to the Woman's Home Missionary Society meeting in May at Cincinnati, O. On returning from the Annual Conference we conducted a three weeks' revival, which closed with 42 conversions and reclamations; 36 of these united with our church. Raised during our revival, $66.87.

LOUISIANA.

Musson, Sherman Smith—On April 7 the first quarterly conference convened at Shiloh church. Our presiding elder, J. W. Turner, conducted affairs nicely. A grand reception was given him by the stewardess sisters, led by Sisters Georgiana Butler and Mary Troxclair. Our pastor, Rev. A. B. Venable, is looking carefully after every interest of the church. Collection, $8.25.

Natchitoches, W. J. M. Price, Pastor—The loyalty of our people here is manifested in the way they responded to roll call in our financial meeting, Sunday, April 9th. We thank our friends for their assistance. The leaders reported as follows: A. W. Goins, $13.50; A. Matthews, $10.15; King Micklebury, $30.25; H. Smith, $15.50; Mary J. Sharp, $21.50; H. Wallace, $22.25; D. K. Micklebury, $9.55; H. Hamilton, $4.15; A. Witherspoon, $20.05; R. Spencer, $18.65; other collection, $7; total, $172.55.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

HOW TO SLEEP.

A Book For Tired, Sleepless People. Contains fifty simple remedies for sleeplessness without use of drugs; also chapters on Sleeping Habits and Hours; Getting ready for Bed; Position in Bed; the Bedroom, Bed and Bedding; Care of the Bedroom; Sleep for Children; Bedtime Stories, Songs and Poems. "The only simple, practical, helpful book on Insomnia published. If not troubled with sleeplessness yourself, hand this card to someone who is, or better still, send the book as a Christmas gift." A dainty book for the bed-room or library table. Green cloth covers, poppy design in colors. Price 55 cents postpaid.

F. J. Gronen, La Verne, Ills., Pub., Department G.

Halcyon, Wise M. Williams—At Pleasant Valley Church on the 5th day of March, we had a good speaking meeting and the spirit of the Lord was with us. We had a glorious time. Eighteen mourners asked for the prayers of the church. Pray for us that we may gain them.

Campti, Philip Joseph.—I am glad to say that our new pastor, Rev. E. H. Clark, is moving along well. He is planning several splendid movements. He is the man for us. Our Sunday School is starting off this year very well with about 25 pupils. Miss L. O'Neal is superintendent and we feel safe to say that Miss O'Neal is right one for the office.

Logansport—G. W. Brady, pastor—Rev. H. Daniels, our presiding elder, was with us on April 2-3 and held the first quarterly conference. Twenty officers were present and made their reports. The Rev. H. Daniels preached for us on Sunday night and Monday night. Two have joined the church and 25 came forward for prayer. The church is alive. We paid the presiding elder in full and raised for all purposes $49.90.

Washington—S. Green, pastor—Rev. J. J. Obee, presiding elder, was with us on the 26th and 27th of March and held our first quarterly conference. The church made no mistake in appointing Rev. J. J. Obee presiding elder of the Alexandria district. St. Mark M. E. Church was happy on the night of March 27. Rev. E. C. Goins was with us and preached a soul-stirring sermon. We paid the presiding elder in full $20. Total collections, $90.

Lizelia—C. W. Ivy, Pastor.—My first quarterly conference convened in Daleville M. E. Church, with J. M. Shumpert in the chair. All officers were present, except a few, with good reports that indicated prosperity. Paid the elder in full, $13.50; pastor, $24.50. Estimated for the pastor's salary this year. $400.00; presiding elder, $54.00; benevolence, $54.00; Bishop, $3.00; Conference claimants, $5.00.

Rapides—W. L. Amos, pastor—Our first quarterly conference was held March 30 and 31, with Rev. J. J. Obee, presiding elder, in the chair. All officers were present with their reports. The meeting was one of much profit. The following ministers were present: Rev. P. W. Clark, of Alexandria, and Rev. W. L. Dyas, of Boyce. Both preached excellent sermons. Collection for the quarter, $30. Two accessions to the church and one baptized.

Spider—T. P. Norris, pastor—We are moving along nicely in our new charge. The people here are well pleased and expect to do more this year than in the past. They are standing by me. On the 26th $11.70 was raised at Shady Grove and $3.65 at St. Matthew. Total, $15.30. Six members have been received in full membership. Plans have been laid to furnish the parsonage. Everything shows signs of improvement. Pastor's salary is settled at $500.

Pineville—C. Dorsey—Sunday, March 26, was a grand day with us. Damocles Lodge No. 48, K. of P., turned out in a body at Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, Pineville, accompanied by Queen Victoria Lodge No. 52, I. O. O. F. The chapel was very well packed and an excellent sermon was preached by the Rev. J. C. Brown. Both the orders A collection of $22.85 was raised. The orders are in excellent condition. C. Commander Gaines deserves much credit for his way of managing. An address was made by the writer on and the public were made to feel glad. Pythianism.

MISSISSIPPI.

Marion—E. M. Dukes, Pastor.—Rev. G. W. Smith held the first quarterly conference of Columbia Valley M. E. Church, March 22. The officials presented their written reports. The elder preached twice while with us. The people are greatly pleased with his administration. A large audience was present Saturday night. Paid Rev. Smith in full. Collection $10.55.

Nettleton—W. C. Hillard, Pastor.—On my return from conference my people received me kindly. During the severe cold weather we were greatly hindered in our work, but are now doing nicely. Our first quarterly conference was held March 4-5, by Rev. W. C. Clay, who preached an able sermon Sunday morning. Paid the elder in full.

Fayette—K. Ellis.—Sunday March 26, at Adams Chapel M. E. Church, the Knights of Pythias celebrated their 25th anniversary. Our pastor, Rev. P. H. Rembert, preached the anniversary sermon. The church was crowded with the members of the Order and friends. Rev. H. D. Howell, of the M. E. Church, South, was present, also Revs. Walker and Gordon of the Baptist Church. Rev. H. D. Howell preached a glorious sermon for us on the third Sunday.

West Jackson—C. H. Jones.—On the 26th of March a grand rally and jug breaking was given at the West Jackson M. E. Church, for the erection of a parsonage and other expenses of the church, There were several contestants for prizes. The successful ones were: Miss Nellie Meves, who raised alone $14.15; Miss Deborah Holbrook, $9.98; Miss Hattie Brown, $4.96. Numbers of others worked faithfully. West Jackson is coming to the front. In our pastor, Rev. W. L. Marshall, we have a good leader, and predict a grand and glorious work this conference year under his administration. Total amount paid $72.53. We have entered into a great revival with Rev. J. K. Comfort, of Hattiesburg, preaching for us. He is a power for God. Elder G. W. Smith, of Brookhaven district, was with us one night recently. Thirteen persons came to the anxious seat and one of that number accepted Christ.

Brookville—H. H. Golden.—The members of Baldwin Church gave a grand reception in honor of our new presiding elder, Rev. F. H. Henry, on Friday night, March 17th. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Mr. W. L. Moore and Miss Louisa Clay. Brief remarks were made by the pastor, to which the elder most eloquently responded, after which refreshments were served. Our first quarterly conference was held March 18-19, Rev. Henry presiding. Most of the members were present with good reports. The elder's salary was raised to $100 and that of the pastor to $726. Paid the elder his full quarterage of $25.00. On Sunday Rev. Henry preached a strong and intellectual sermon, and administered the sacrament to a large number of communicants.

Macon—J. H. Everett, Pastor.—Our first quarterly conference was held March 24-26, with Rev. F. H. Henry presiding. The elder preached one of is best sermons Sunday night, and administered the Lord's Supper to 85 communicants. Collection for the day $86.25.

Gulfport—S. H. Glenn, Pastor.—We had a successful quarterly meeting. Rev. Jones preached a striking sermon. There were nine added to the church. Two subscribers for the Southwestern. Raised $21.00. Paid presiding elder in full.

Bell—B. J. Roberson, Pastor.—On our arrival here, Bro. Grant Hughes, one of Rust's students, kindly met us with a conveyance. On Sunday we met an enthusiastic crowd, who gave us a hearty welcome. I was made to feel at home and at rest. We have at Westley's Chapel a lively and energetic class of people. Bros. C. C. Cunningham, Gus Taylor and L. Novels were in the lead in taking the collection. They raised $10.01 and one yearly subscriber to the Southwestern.

Clinton—W. L. Mills, pastor.—On a recent Friday evening about eight o'clock a welcome storm struck the parsonage. The door was opened and a host of friends entered, led by Sister Sarah Holley. Prayer was offered to Him who sends such storms to supply our needs. Solo by Miss Luvenia Holley, and our friends departed, leaving our table groaning under its heavy burden.

Dear Brethren—This brings us up to Children's Day the 11th of June. Put the programme into the hands of the Educational Committee and Sunday school at once. But one man in the District reached the "Goal" on Easter—whole assessment—I. T. Griner. Let's see who will go and do likewise on Children's Day. The District Conference will convene at West Point M. E. Church, Thursday, July 27-30. One class leader, one Sunday school superintendent, one Epworth League delegate and one steward from each charge is expected to be on hand. The first day also each local preacher for examination in each of their four years course of studies, and exhorters who expect their license renewed. Program will be out on time. Reduced rates will be procured. Yours in Christ,

R. R. O'NEIL, P. E.

THIRD ROUND.

Millican, June 17-18; Caldwell, 17-18; Anderson, 24-25; Brenham Sta., 30-July 2; Brenham Cir., July 1-2; Brookshire, 8-19; Sealy and San Felipi, 15-16; Bellville, 22-23; Courtney, 29-30; Hockley, 29-30; Hempstead Cir., Aug. 5-6; Hempstead, 12-13; Navasota Sta., 19-20; Navasota Cir., 19-20; Yarboro, 26-27; Waller, Sept. 2-3. Our District Conference, Sunday school and Epworth League Conventions will meet at Stoneham, Texas, August 22-27. We expect a full delegation. The pastor, Rev. S. M. Bolden and his people are making ample preparation for the entertainment of all who may attend. Prepare to report all of your benevolences in vouchers. Please do not think of reporting this year less than a full amount for all causes. Collect and send to Rev. M. W. Dogan, D. D., all monies for the president's cottage and prepare your forces for Friday night of the conference, which will be the great night for the anniversary of Wiley University. Do not wait until then, however, to send in your money, for all sent in before will be credited to your account at the District Conference. Brethren, put forth every effort for spiritual and financial success. Very few of my brethren reported to me the result of their Easter efforts. See well to Children's Day. As ever, I am at your service for anything I can do. The great church needs money, yet we must not forget that the greatest aim and purpose is the salvation of the human family from sin and ignorance. Your brother and friend, J. E. BRYANT, P. E.

LINCOLN CONFERENCE.

Dear Pastors—Kindly let me know how many delegates will go from each station or circuit to the Lincoln Conference Epworth League Convention which meets at Independence, Kansas, June 22-25, 1905. Revs. I. G. Penn, Gen. Asst. Secretary of the Epworth League, Dr. R. E. Jones, and other Field Agents of our church are cordially invited to meet with us. Those who can do so will please write

J. J. CABBELL, pastor.

TOPEKA DISTRICT.

Dear Brethren—You know that our membership is small and we cannot succeed without your help. We must raise $50.00 at once in order to get $200.00 from the Church Extension. I am doing what I can. Will you please help me by raising or by causing to be raised $1.00 from each charge, a collection from each church. Send it to Mrs. H. Watson, 909 Bellevue Ave., Galena, Kans., and we will acknowledge the same. Brethren do not fail us. Rev. H. South, P. E., has given $5.00 and Mr. Moeller $5.00. We anxiously await your response.

The Medicine That Cures.

RENO, OKLA., May 11, 1904.

Wine of Cardui absolutely does cure sick women. I consider it the most valuable medicine, and it is the cheapest cure any sick woman can use, as it takes as a rule, only a few bottles to effect a complete and lasting cure. I especially recommend it for uterine or ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, painful, profuse or scanty menstruation and it is a most valuable adjunct to use during the gestative period, insuring easy childbirth and speedy recovery.

It should have a place in every home as it is a true friend to wife, mother and maiden and I most heartily recommend it.

Dr. E. Buchanan

WRITER AND LECTURER.

Dr. Mrs. Buchanan is an authority on the science of medicine and certainly appreciates the great work physicians are doing for the relief of sufferers. But this does not deter her from expressing her views in praise of Wine of Cardui.

Mrs. Buchanan's high intelligence and long and successful experience render her advice of great value. Wine of Cardui regulates menstruation, cures bearing-down pains and relieves suffering women of the pain and misery to which their sex is heir. You have the word of Dr. Buchanan and thousands of other eminent women that Wine of Cardui will completely cure you.

All druggists sell $1.00 bottles Wine of Cardui.

SHUBUTA DISTRICT.

It is expected that each Epworth League will send one delegate to the District Conference July 26-30, that officers may be elected. Each delegate will bring at least 50 cents to defray expenses. Let each pastor of the District speak of this matter before his Epworth League. The Conference will give us Friday evening. Let us as Leaguers accomplish something. As we have no district president, I am acting in that capacity until one can be elected. You are expected to present your reports at this conference.

R. HOWZE, First Vice-Pres.

AN APPEAL.

Dear Friend and Brother—We, of the Rayne M. E. Church, Rayne, La., ask your assistance to help us pay for our Church, which is threatened to be sold on the 15th of June if we do not raise at least $100.00. Now we ask you to come to our assistance if you cannot give more than a dollar. Send the amount you may give to our presiding elder, Rev. Joshua J. Obee, Box 473, Alexandria, La.

E. V. MAYFIELD, R. S.
JOSEPH VALLERE, D. S.

I concur in the above, for the people there are poor, few in number and deserving. J. J. OBEE, P. E.

ABERDEEN DISTRICT.

To the Epworth Leaguers: The International Epworth League Convention is drawing near and we pledged ourselves to send two delegates to Denver. Therefore, let each chapter collect the one dollar and send th same to the treasurer, Mrs. P. Massengale, Macon, Miss., so the delegates may draw on the treasurer for the amount necessary to defray expenses. Remember that our District League Convention convenes at Tabernacle Church on the Athens Circuit July 26, 1905. Let all members and visitors come on the 25th so we may begin work on the morning of the 26th.

J. BURTON, Pres.

PREACHERS OF ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

April 26th and 27th, 1905, at the request of the presiding elder J. J. Obee, the preachers of the Alexandria District met at Bunkie. The following officers were elected: H. C. Gair, president; W. L. Amos, secretary. The presiding elder stated the object of the meeting was for the purpose of arranging the district so that there may be a closer unity and the systematic manner of running revivals, raising of benevolences, matters concerning Women's Home Missionary Societies, Epworth Leagues, and presiding elder's support on the district. These questions were deliberately discussed and plans were soon drawn up and adopted for the purposes of running the district. Dr. G. G. Logan was present and the brethren paid over to him the monies collected for missions. Rev. A. I. Costin, of the Baptist Church, Bunkie, and Rev. Chas. Mohamed, of West Africa, were the visitors of the meeting and took active part. Mrs. J. J. Obee was introduced.

The meeting was largely attended. The presiding elder and brethren are making a successful start for the year.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbagoe, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind.

MONROE DISTRICT PREACHERS.

The Monroe District Preachers' Meeting was reorganized April 25, 1905, for the ensuing year. The Rev. J. O. Brown, presiding elder, being present, presided. The following officers were elected: President, D. G. Taylor; Vice-president, C. M. Angrum; Treasurer, S. N. McGruder; Secretary, F. D. Bowers.

SOUTH NEW ORLEANS PREACHERS' MEETING.

The South New Orleans District Preachers' Meeting convened at Beattieville April 27, with Rev. R. C. Worsham in the chair. Rev. Jules Benn and his good people entertained the ministers royally. Rev. Eugene Baptiste preached a good sermon at 3 p. m. and Rev. T. J. Johnson preached at night with power. After which Rev. W. H. Jones invited sinners. About 25 came forward for prayer. A reception was tendered the brethren. Bro. L. H. Smith, a faithful local preacher, of Beattieville, spared no pains to make it pleasant for all.

R. C. WORSHAM, Pres.
W. H. JONES, Sec.

NEW ORLEANS DISTRICT MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

The Fourth Annual meeting of the association was held May 1, 2, 3 at St. Charles Avenue Church, New Orleans.

The opening sermon was preached by Rev. M. C. Hickman, of Hammond, La. An altar service followed the sermon and two came forward for prayers.

At two p. m. on Tuesday Rev. Dr. Knight, of the N. O. U., lectured before the brethren on "The Preacher in His Study." This lecture, which is a resume of the doctor's visit to the studies of some of the sages of Europe and America, is not only very interesting but intensely practical and helpful.

Rev. J. C. Orcutt, of Poland, La., preached the Tuesday night sermon and gave a lucid exposition of John 3:5.

After organizing and giving the reports on Tuesday morning, the time was given to the papers and discussions. The papers that aroused the most discussion were "The Preacher and Prayer," "Sunday School Teachers and Teaching," and "The Best Method of Raising Church Finance."

Other papers read were: "The Preacher and His Reading," "The Preacher and His Finances," "Twelve Years in Mexico," "Wm. Carvosso, Lay Evangelist," "The Need and Mission of the Local Preacher," "Church Doors," "Can We Have a General Revival," and "Sin Reproving Out of the Pulpit."

These papers were all well prepared and the brethren showed a lively interest in discussing them.

Wednesday afternoon was given up to sight seeing. Wednesday night the brethren who remained in the city held a street meeting.

The tone of the meeting all through was revivalistic as shown by the prayers and testimonies of the devotional services. The preachers and people of the New Orleans District are concertedly concentrating prayer for a general revival. In view of the promise of Matt. 18:19, "If two of you shall agree on earth as touching anything, that they shall ask it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven," they are holding on to God for this revival.

LAYMEN INSTITUTE.

The Ministerial Official and Laymen Institute was held at West Radford M. E. Church, Rev. John D. Starr, pastor, April 27-30. Various topics were discussed. Rev. Storr and his people cared for the institute. President, Rev. J. F. Prigmore preached the opening sermon. On Friday the 28th Rev. A. W. Randolph preached. The welcome address was delivered Friday night by Rev. Webb. Response by Rev. A. W. Randolph. Saturday Rev. H. G. Harrison preached. Sunday was a high day. Sunday School at 9:30 o'clock; at 11:15 a. m. Rev. J. M. Watson preacned and hungry souls were richly fed. In the afternoon and night preaching by Rev. T. J. Johnson. At all services the church was filled. Next institute will be held at Draper June 1-4. Collection $15.26. Officers: J. F. Prigmore, Pres.; A. W. Randolph, Vice-pres.; J. M. Watson, Sec.; F. D. Johnson, Asst. Sec.; Miss Alice Morgan, corresponding secretary.

Drs. M. C. B. Mason, I. G. Penn and R. E. Jones are expected to be with us. Brethren, please don't fail to bring new subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. We did well last year and we want to do better this year.

I. C. Rucker, J. A. Patterson, I. L. Pratt, Committee. R. P. Threlkeld, presiding elder.

Melville—C. Melvin—Rev. J. W. Turney, our new presiding elder, was with us the 5th and 6th, and held his first quarter. Every officer was on hand with written reports. There was an increase on all lines. Paid presiding elder $15 ,and pastor, this quarter $60.25. Rev. E. V. Taylor is the man for the place. Souls are being converted and the SOUTHWESTERN is looked after. We are going to push our way up higher.

Bastrop — A. Matthew — The first quarterly conference of Mt. Nebo M. E. Church was held March 24. The presiding elder, J. O. Brown, was on hand and dispatched his work with great tact. The officers and members are proud of the appointment of both presiding elder and their beloved pastor. We had a good pastor, Rev. T. P. Norris, and we believe that Rev. F. D. Bowers is also the right man. Notwithstanding a rainy spell we are moving off grandly.

I CURED MY RUPTURE

I Will Show You How to Cure Yours FREE

I was helpless and bedridden for years from a double rupture. No truss could hold. Doctors said I would die if not operated on. I fooled them all and cured myself by a simple discovery. I will send the cure free by mail if you write for it. It cured me and has since cured thousands. It will cure you. Write to-day. Capt. W. A. Collings, Box 743, Watertown, N. Y.

Baseball is the key-not to the May American Boy. The noted baseball player of olden times, A. G. Spalding, contributes the first part of a story of the origin of baseball. The fiction includes a Decoration Day story entitled "The Ministration of a Child." Boys of a practical turn of mind will find much of interest and profit in this number, particularly in the Money-Making and the Boy Mechanic and Electrician Departments, "How th Build an Auto-Wagon" and "How to Make a Telephone" being the two leading articles under the latter head. There are lessons on How to Play the Mandolin; instructions on How to Plant a Tree, etc. $1.00 a year. The Sprague Publishing Co., Detroit, Mich.

In the May Voice of the Negro the monthly review is as spicy and vivid as ever. The two notes that will probably attract widest attention are "Rockefeller and the Missions," and "Rash and Senseless Generalization." Professor DuBois contributes his second paper on "The Beginnings and Endings of Slavery," under the caption, "Slavery in Greece and Rome." The April and May numbers are eight pages larger than preceding numbers.

REMARKABLE PAINTING

Practically

GIVEN AWAY

"The Three Most Beautiful Roses," by Paul de Longpre.

At the urgent solicitation of the Woman's Home Companion, Mr. Paul de Longpre, who is the greatest painter of flowers in the world, consented to make a painting of what he considered "The Three Most Beautiful Roses," and the painting is without doubt one of the masterpieces of this great artist. This magnificent picture is reproduced in all its original grandeur on the cover of the Woman's Home Companion for June. Although this cover is an accurate reproduction of a painting worth hundreds of dollars, yet the June number, which has this exquisite cover, may be obtained at any first-class newsstand or direct from the publishers for the trivial sum of only ten cents.

Mr. Paul de Longpre is justly styled the "King of Flower Painters." He not only paints roses, but every flower that grows, and is the highest authority on flowers. His paintings are found in the most select homes. Some have sold for as much as seven thousand five hundred dollars ($7,500.00).

Artists, art critics and competent judges all agree that the covers of the Woman's Home Companion far excel those of any other magazine.

The Woman's Home Companion is a magazine which in beauty and excellence, art, stories, illustrations and fashions, etc., excels all other home and family magazines. The Woman's Home Companion is published by The Crowell Publishing Company, New York City, also Chicago, Ill., at one dollar a year, and is the favorite magazine in nearly half a million homes, where it is read each and every issue by three million people.

They Live in Our Memory.

JONES.—Death came to the home of the Rev. W. H. Jones, Morgan City, La., and took their infant son home to its heavenly parent. Rev. H. W. Coleman, pastor of the Little Zion Baptist Church, Berwick, conducted the funeral service.

New Iberia, La.—Mrs. Felice Oliough departed from this world to the spiritual world on April 4. Hosts of her friends came from Lafayette, La., to witness the last of their dearest friend, which goes to show the admiration and kind and continued remembrance they possessed toward her. Whereas they said in part: "In view of the loss we have sustained in the decease of our friend and associate, Felice Oliough, and of the still heavier loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to her; Be it Resolved, That it is only a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say that, in regretting her removal from our midst, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard. Resolved, That we sincerely condole with the family of the deceased on the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them, and commend them for consolation to Him who orders all things for the best and whose chastisements are meant in mercy.

Polk, Ark. — Sister Margaret Watkins, aged 74 years, the wife of Rev. Bailiam Watkin, went home March 4. She had been a Christian 40 years. She leaves one child and many relatives and friends to mourn their loss. Rev. R. B. Fagan conducted the funeral.

Kosciusko, Miss.—Sister Ann Smith, a member of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, Kosciusko, Miss., died April 5, 1905. Sister Martha Gage, a member of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, died May 4, 1905. Bro. Charles Story, a member of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, died May 1, 1905.—M. C. McEWEN.

Vanceville, La.—Sister Eliza Johnson, a faithful member of Mt. Zion M. E. Church, fell asleep in Jesus April 8. after fighting in the army of the Lord for sixty years. She died as she lived, a faithful member and a strong Christian. She leaves one sister and other relatives to mourn their loss. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Lang.

Clinton, La.—Beach Grove M. E. Church has lost Brother L. G. Wilson, the district steward. He died April 20, aged 25 years. His death was sudden. The funeral service was attended by ex-Pastor Rev. J. D. Banks and Pastor B. Carr.

Moss Point, Miss.—Bro. Frank J. Hill, one of the leading men of Moss Point and a member of our church, (steward and trustee), died Wednesday night, the 3rd instant, of apoplexy. Rev. S. H. Cannon led in the funeral service.

Vaiden, Miss.—Mr. Evander Towns, departed this life April 3rd, 1905, aged 16 years. He was not a member of the church, but felt some evidence of being saved. He was the son of Shepard Towns, one of our leading members on the Vaiden charge. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Green Spencer.

Jennings, La.—On Tuesday, April 25, 1905 the angel of death took home Sister Isabella Anderson. She was born Nov. 28th, 1854. She struggled hard

The crown of womanhood is motherhood. But uneasy lies the head that wears the crown or anticipates this coronation, when there is a lack of womanly strength to bear the burdens of maternal dignity and duty. The reason why so many women sink under the strain of motherhood is because they are unprepared.

"I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. J.W. G. Stephens, of Mila, Northumberland Co., Va. The reason for this advice is that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best preparative for the maternal function. No matter how healthy and strong a woman may be, she cannot use "Favorite Prescription" as a preparative for maternity without gain of health and comfort. But it is the women who are not strong who best appreciate the great benefits received from the use of "Favorite Prescription." For one thing its use makes the baby's advent practically painless It has in many cases reduced days of suffering to a few brief hours. It has changed the period of anxiety and struggle into a time of ease and comfort

The proprietors and makers of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, of Buffalo, N. Y., ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure death, but gave up, in glorious triumph, the turmoils of time for the joy of an endless eternity. She was, even in pain, full of cheer and hope. This dear one died a brave and faithful servant. We mourn her loss. Her place can never be filled in the home, in the church, in the community. She was a constant adviser and counsellor. She leaves seven children to follow her and a kind husband she awaits in the glory land. Her life was sacrificed in doing good for her children and fellow men. Four of her children, namely, George Turpeau, David Turpeau, Mrs. Mary T. Hammett and Miss Angela Turpeau, did not get to see her before she was called above. But a blessed hope is ours. We shall see our mother again. Her body was interred at St. Martinsville. N. R. Randolph officiated at the funeral services.

Rasser Charge. — Death visited us on the 6th of March, taking Sister Dillann Calhoun, the wife of one of my local preachers, Cato Calhoun. She joined the M. E. Church in 1873, under the pastorate of Rev. Lewis. She lived a true and devoted Christian for 32 years. Her age was 42 years old. She leaves a husband and nine children and a host of friends to mourn their loss. B. McDaniel conducted the funeral.

Darrow, La.—Mr. Adam and Mrs. Dora Wilson, of Belle Helene, La., lost their infant boy, George K. Wilson, aged five months. The funeral was attended by the Rev. T. A. Brown.—C. W. KERSHAW, Darrow, La.

Trappe, Md.—Sister Sarah J. Bantom went home on Tuesday morning, September 29th, 1903. She was forty-seven years of age, and had been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church twenty-four years. She was always cheerful and kind, and was loved by both white and colored people. In her death, her husband loses a loving wife, her mother an affectionate daughter, and the church a faithful member. She never shirked her duty, neither in the church nor in society, and was always ready to help the needy. Funeral was conducted by Rev. J. H. Winters.

Shelby, Miss.—Sister Matilda Mosely was born 65 years ago in Mississippi. She spent 30 happy years in the M. E. Church and was called home to glory from Simpson's M. E. Church at Shelby, Jan. 26, 1905. She made a visit to her children, carrying each one a present and saying that she was "going to leave them."—J. W. Winbush. (Received April 26.)

Shreveport, La.—Sister Amanda George is no more. She departed this life April 19, in full hope of the eternal reward that awaits the faithful. She leaves a host of relations and friends to mourn their loss. Their loss is heaven's gain. The funeral department of the Order of Odd Fellows had charge of the funeral. Rev. B. M. Hubbard was assisted by Rev. Samuel Armstead, in conducting the funeral services.

Gahagan, La.—Bro. Aaron Williams, a faithful member of Zion M. E. Church and a class leader of the same church, died in full triumph of faith, April 7, 1905. In his death the church has lost a faithful member. F. M. Livingston conducted the funeral.

Baton Rouge, La.—Mr. Lewis Watson died the 25th of February. He was sick only three days. He leaves one brother and many friends to mourn his loss. The funeral was conducted by Rev. M. J. Dyer. Bro. Henry Baker died March 15. He was sick only a few days and died in full triumph of faith. The funeral was conducted by Rev. M. J. Dyer, assisted by Rev. W. M. Harrel. Bro. Manuel Wright died March 24. He professed religion just before he died. He leaves two brothers and a sister to mourn their loss. Sister Fortune died April 20, in the faith, at a good old age. She was buried from the church on the 22nd, by Rev. M. J. Dyer. Little Solomon Woods died March 12, aged two years. His mother is a faithful member of Daly Chapel.

Devall, La.—Miss Nettie Magulin died April 21. She was a member of Harmony M. E. Sunday school and a faithful scholar. She said the Lord was going to take her home to rest. She leaves three brothers and three sisters and a mother to mourn her going.—C. SPEARS, Pastor.

Scottsboro, Ala.—Sister Harriet Densy Moore departed this life April 7, 1905. She went home cheerfully. She had been a faithful and consistent member of Joyce Chapel M. E. Church for more than twenty years. Her funeral was attended by the pastor, Rev. H. Adams, assisted by the Rev. A. S. Williams, P. E.

Comite, La.—Mr. George Gray, a member of St. Luke M. E. Church, died April 4th, and was buried on the following day. Mrs. Zilphy Hitton was stricken with paralysis April 21 and died April 25. She was a member of St. Luke, and the wife of Rev. Abraham Hilton. Three daughters and many relatives and friends mourn her loss.

North Little Rock, Ark. — Sister Hattie Goldsby departed this life April 5th. She was faithful to the end. She died as she lived, a consistent Christian. She died in the bloom of life. She had just entered her 21st year. She was one of earth's brightest jewels, pure and spotless. She leaves a mother and father and two brothers and one sister and a host of friends to morun her going. Rev. D. W. Nelson spoke fittingly of her life.

Shelbyville, Ind.—Rev. Thomas Summers, a local preacher who formerly lived at this place, died at Rushville, Ind., and was brought to this city and his funeral was conducted by the Rev. S. A. Sissle, P. E., assisted by the Rev. Carpenter, of Rushville. Other ministers present were Rev. Lock, of Pewee Valley, Ky., and Rev. Leonard, of the Second Baptist Church of this city.

Filbert, S. C.—Brother R. L. Wilson died at his home near Filbert, S. C., on the 25th of April, 1905, at 10 o'clock a. m., of consumption. Bro. Wilson was 43 years of age, a good and faithful member of St. James M. E. Church for 19 years. He served the church as district steward, church steward and class leader. He had fine traits of character, which commanded the esteem of all who knew him. He leaves a widow and nine children. The funeral took place on Wednesday, and was largely attended, being conducted by Rev. W. H. Greer.

Biloxi, Miss.—Sister Lucinda Muruh, the mother of Sisters M. Moses, C. Parker and others went home in full triumph of faith March 27. Sister Muruh was the oldest person of this city, her age being 105 years. She had been a Christian for 70 years and a member of the Missionary Baptist Church in New Orleans, La. Her funeral was conducted by her pastor of the M. E. church in this city. She leaves a host of relatives and friends to mourn her going.—R. S. HAMMOND.

WANTED---Room and Board

By man and wife only. Will give best references. Address "Inquirer," this office, 429 Carondelet St.

The second quarterly love-feast of Haven Chapel was held May 19. The presiding elder was paid in full, paid pastor for the quarter, $101.45; total raised, $121.00. Revs. H. Taylor, H. J. Wright, M. C. Harris and Presiding Elder J. F. Marshall were present. From the excellent concert given by the Junior League and Stewardess Sisters, on May 20th, $12.40 were raised for the pastor, Rev. J. McKee, who desires to acknowledge his appreciation. On last Sunday evening, Haven Chapel was graced with the presence of Dr. M. C. B. Mason. Rev. G. G. Priestley preached.

At Williams Chapel, Sunday, May 21, prayer meeting was held at the usual hour. The Sunday school attendance was large. At 11 a. m., Rev. W. F. Waters preached an excellent sermon. At 3 p. m., the King's Daughters rendered their monthly program. Mrs. E| Woodfolks presided. Sermon by Brother W. Fisher. Song service as usual. Rev. C. W. Reeves, the pastor, preached at night. Mrs. L. E. Brooks presented the trustees with $7.10, in behalf of the ladies and other friends of the church. Two annual subscribers for the Southwestern. Collection, $40.41.

Rev. Robert R. Jones, our pastor at New Roads, spent a few days in the city last week, visiting his mother.

Rev. Robert E. Jones, of the Southwestern, preached at Scott Chinn Church, Sunday, May 7th.

On Friday night of last week New Orleans University held an oratorical contest. The prizes were two ten-dollar gold pieces, to be awarded to the young man and to the young woman excelling in the declaiming of a standard selection. Those entered in the contest among the young women were: Misses Carrie Pratt, Edna Taylor, Pearl Belden, Angela Turpeau, Emily Chapman and Cora Lee Vinette. Among the young men were : Messrs. Jackson Davis, Wilfred Madere, Peter Murray, E. J. Magruder and Appolus Lee. Miss Emily Chapman won the prize among the young ladies and Mr. E. J. Magruder among the young men. All the speakers acquitted themselves with credit alike to themselves and to the university.

Simpson Chapel, with Mt. Zion, administered baptism by immersion to the remaining converts. Rev. Taylor, assisted by Rev. A. B. Harris, preached very acceptably at 11 a. m. At night a special program was rendered by the Friends of Africa, Temperance, and Y. M. C. A. Societies of the New Orleans University. Addresses by Mrs. A. Vera Davage, Miss M. O. Simms and J. W. Jackson; Thaddeus Taylor and Prof. M. S. Davage.

Miss Helen B. Daniels, daughter of Rev. Hubbard Daniels, presiding elder of the Shreveport District, departed this life May 2d, 1905. She was born in DeSoto Parish December 24, 1885, and was in the bloom of life. She was a member of the Senior Normal class of New Orleans University and would have graduated at the forthcoming commencement. She was a member of Mt. Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, a member of the choir and a teacher in the Sunday School, and was in many ways a useful and exemplary young woman. Her father took her on a visit to North Louisiana, and just before leaving home, upon the request of the family for a song, she sang, "God Be With You Until We Meet Again." But the next meeting will be around God's throne. The funeral was conducted from Mt. Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. F. T. Chinn, the pastor, having charge of the service. Short eulogistic remarks were made by Revs. W. R. Butler, J. A. Tircuit, J. F. Marshall, R. E. Jones, F. H. Knight and Henry Taylor. Brother and Mrs. Daniels have the deep sympathy of all their friends in this their sore bereavement.

Sunday, May 21st, was Decision Day in First St. M. E. Sabbath School. It was an intensely interesting service; sixty-one precious young hearts decided that from that time forward they would make Jesus their King. Special mention needs to be made of Mrs. Ella Boyd and Mrs. O. Gould in their effort to help the children during that service. Dr. M. C. B. Mason was present and spoke words of cheer.

LABORERS' ATTENTION

The International Laborers' Union, jurisdiction of North America, is the only great protector of the Laboring Men and Women.

It is not an organization run for profit, but is for the purpose of protecting all its members, who own and control the organization and elect all its officers.

It pays a Strike and Lockout Benefit, and burial benefit, and many other things that this space won't allow us to enumerate.

It does not have any "color" line. All Laborers, no matter of what color or whether men or women, or what class of laboring work they follow, are organized into separate Local Unions and then federated together under one International Union that helps to raise the wages and lower the hours of toil of the long oppressed laboring class.

Read and ponder over the result of the first three years' work. Here it is:

Thirteen District Councils established.

Two hundred and fifty Local Unions organized.

More than 23,000 members initiated.

Growing rapidly in all portions of North America.

Good, honest, straightforward men and women, who can give references, wanted in all towns and cities where we are not yet established, to form Local Unions of Laborers. This work can be done during spare time while following regular employment. Remuneration is ample. Write, stating your present employment, and full information to the International Laborers' Union

40-42 CANBY BUILDING, DAYTON, OHIO.

$3 a Day Sure Send us your address and we will show you how to make $3 a day absolutely sure; we furnish the work and teach you free, you work in the locality where you live. Send us your address and we will explain the business fully, remember we guarantee a clear profit of $3 for every day's work, absolutely sure. Write at once. NEW ORLEANS, JUNE 1, 1905

Vol. 39 No. 22

Editorial

President Roosevelt has issued an order against the employment of convict labor on government works. A very legitimate, practical and patriotic thing to do.

The sale of the gas franchise of Philadelphia was a travesty upon honesty and respect for the community interests. Mayor Weaver's fight to annul the franchise is heroic, deserves success and meets with approval throughout the country.

The total number of felonious arrests in Chicago for the months of January, February and March reached 2,836. Of these the white Americans furnished 1,803, or 64 per cent. of the whole as against 62.8 per cent. of the white population. Foreign born persons contribute 725 or 25.7 per cent. of the whole as against 34 per cent. of the population. A very fine showing indeed in favor of the foreign element. The Negroes furnish 328 arrests or 11.5 per cent. of the whole as against 2 per cent. of the population. A very bad showing for the Negro.

The commercial guilds of China have instituted a boycott of American goods for the reason, it is alleged, that the American government has disregarded the stipulations of a treaty between this country and China as to the treatment of Chinese arriving in this country. Whether this boycott is just or not we do not know; but the Chinese are not very far wrong if they think that the money argument is effective with the Americans. The average American has a natural and patriotic weakness in favor of the almighty dollar.

For some weeks the entire country has been on the tip toe of expectancy as to the result of the recent naval battle in the Far East. The Japanese have met the enemy and are victorious and the world is happy over it. Admiral Togo has perhaps proved himself to be the greatest naval officer of history. It is seldom given to an officer in command to win two great victories, and in this latest defense of Japan's national honor and integrity, Admiral Togo and his faithful men have won a complete victory. Admiral Rojestvensky of the Russian fleet is supposed to have met his death on his flagship, which was sunk by the Japanese. Admiral Nabogatoff and 3,000 of his men are prisoners of the Japanese, while thirteen vessels of the Russians have been sunk and six captured. Little damage so far is reported to the Japanese fleet, and in this naval struggle the Japanese have won the war, victory is theirs. It is pitiable to note that Russia cannot see that she is whipped and tremendously outclassed by the vigilant and skillful Japanese.

THE COLOR LINE IN THE CHURCH

The proposed union of the Presbyterian churches of the country and the recent sessions of the General Assembly have given rise to the discussion of the color line in the Christian church. The ever present and irrepressible Negro comes up in the proposed union of the Presbyterian churches. What shall be done with him? That's the question.

For what does the Christian church stand? Is it a social institution which is to recognize the petty preferences and the illegitimate prejudices of some particular class, or is it an institution for the salvation of men, of all men who are made of one blood? The very existence of the church is a condemnation against classes. A church built wholly of the rich would not be tolerated and there is no more excuse for constructing a church on the color line than to make wealth the standard of membership. The Western Christian Advocate makes the following practical, fair and legitimate statement in reference to the color line in the Christian church:

"It is unfortunate that the question of color should be brought up in connection with the organization of a Christian church. If Christ were on earth, He would be glad to have the Negroes come to service with the white men. He would see in such a spiritual union the basis for the final uplifting and purification of the Negro race. The more of them who come into the church the better. The religious tendency is the one thing above all others that will make a Negro self-respecting and a valuable citizen. If he prefers to have his own church for the purpose of mingling with his fellow communicants on a purely social basis, that is his own affair. But in a church the social relations need not be confused with spiritual relations. Before the altar all men may be equal. That does not imply necessarily that they will 'mix' well at a dinner-table or an evening party. The Negro, especially the kind that goes to church, generally knows enough not to become obtrusive or objectionable. There is no danger of his forcing his way into social relations with a different race unless he is invited. He should be given every opportunity the church affords to avail himself of its spiritual benefits. A church is a church first and a club afterward."

A LITTLE MEANS MUCH

It is remarkable how far a few dollars will go toward the evangelization of the world when expended thro the channels of our Missionary Society. There are many churches that contribute $30.00 a year to the Missionary Society and could easily double the collection and make it $60.00, and that $60.00 would pay the entire support of a native preacher in Africa, India, China, Korea or Japan. Many of us will not understand how native preachers can subsist on such small income as has been indicated, yet a little more than 10 cents per day will sustain a native preacher in the parts of the world where the Gospel is so much needed. It would be a great thing indeed if a large number of our churches would resolve to support some native helper in Africa, India or China. Dr. G. G. Logan would be pleased to have any communication from individuals or churches along this line. At least hundreds of native preachers throughout the world should be supported by our people.

MR. CHARLES C. MORSE RETIRES

After fifteen years' service as business manager of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE Mr. Charles C. Morse retired for health reasons, on the 31st day of May. Mr. Morse was born in 1841 in Hyde Park, Vt., and completed the academic course in his native town during which time he spent three years at the printer's trade. In 1861 he offered his services to the government as a private but was rejected on account of physical debility. He published a local paper in his town until 1876, when under the administration of General Grant he was appointed United States postal clerk in the railway mail service and was removed for "offensive partisanship" by the first Cleveland administration in 1885. He then purchased and subsequently published and edited the Vermont Christian Messenger for nearly three years, disposing of it to Zion's Herald of Boston in 1887, when he was called to take charge of the printing department of Clark University, Atlanta, Ga. In May, 1890, he was appointed by the publishing agents at New York business manager of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

He was made reserve delegate to the General Conference in 1892, after only two years' residence in this section and without his knowledge. He was a regular lay delegate to the General Conference of 1896, 1900 and 1904, the last time being sent by the new Gulf Conference.

Mr. Morse springs from an honored Methodist parentage, but dates his church membership

New York Letter

By L. H Smith

Mr. Judson W. Lyon, register of the United States Treasury, in an address delivered before a large audience at St. James Presbyterian Church, on the 16th, made a splendid defense of the Southern Negro laborer. He spiritedly combated the arguments of alleged well informed writers, that the Southern Negro farmer was indolent, unreliable, criminal by nature and relapsing into barbarism and would only work under "physical compulsion." He said in part:

"The colored man started out without a grain of sand or a penny of capital with which to begin the great struggle of life. To-day he owns or rents and cultivates 38,233,933 acres of land in the South, or about one-eighth of all land cultivated in that section. They grow on their own farms over two-fifths of all the cotton grown in this country."

In summing up the Negro's labor and cultivation of tobacco, cotton-seed oil, corn and sugar-cane, he said the grand totals of their earnings amounted to $643,957, 959.90, or a per capita average for 8,000,000 colored people of $80.50. The speaker further said, using the last census report as his authority, that "over one half of the farms in Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina are conducted by Negroes, between one-third and one-half in Alabama and Georgia, between one-quarter and one-third in Virginia and Arkansas and Florida." The following extract from a recent letter of Mr. William E. Curtise, a noted traveler and writer, was read by Mr. Lyon: "The assessed value of Negro farms in 1900 was $499,943,734, the value of the crops produced upon them was $229,907,702, the amount paid for labor was $8,789,792 and the amount paid for fertilizers was $5,642,844." The speaker rightly asserted that these figures were sufficient to prove that the much talk of ignorance, carelessness and stupidity of the colored farmer is more a figment of a disordered imagination than a reality. He made a striking contrast of the progress of the Russian peasant who received his emancipation years before the American Negro was freed, and although he was given from three to eleven acres of land, according to data gathered a few years ago, not one of them owned a horse. On the other hand, the colored people in the late slave holding States have over $85,000,000 invested in live stock, which includes over 2,000,000 head of cattle, 3,000,000 hogs and 12,000,000 horses and mules.

Samuel Huston College Commencement

The fifth closing exercise of Samuel Huston College began Thursday evening, May 11th, with the primary department, in charge of Miss Florence Hamilton, teacher. The program was of a high order.

Friday afternoon grades were read. A larger per cent. of the students passed this year than ever before. At 8:15 p. m. the Haven Literary Society carried out its annual program in charge of Professor J. W. Frazier.

The debate subject, "Resolved, that the Negro should emigrate to Africa," showed that the disputants had put forth considerable effort and research to prepare themselves. Miss Elizza Huff won first place in the recitation contest, and Miss Carrie Downs, second.

Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock, the sewing and dressmaking department, under the management of Misses C. I. King and Ellen Newton, held its exercise.

Miss Daisy Higgins, of Waxahachie, read a good essay and was granted a diploma, showing that she had completed the four years' course. Misses Julia Mumphord, E. A. M. Webb, Essie Johnson and Pinkie White were given certificates for plain sewing.

Dr. E. B. Wright, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, delivered the address. It was forceful, eloquent, practical and instructive.

Sunday morning, at 9:30, a regular old-fashioned love-feast was carried out, in which the faculty, students and visitors entered heartily. Following this service President Lovinggood's three children, Reuben, Beulah and Burrowes, and three students were baptized by Dr. Latshaw of Cincinnati, and Rev. S. E. Jones, of Austin. Several students were received in to the church as a result of the revival in the early part of the session.

Rev. G. G. Latshaw, D. D., preached the Baccalaureate sermon. Text: "Why was this waste of the ointment made?" Mark xiv: 4. The attention of the audience was attracted and riveted by his apt and forceful illustrations. He made a fine impression upon all.

The graduating class and the whole school were strongly urged to go out and do something for the Master and for humanity.

Monday and Tuesday were devoted to the Conference Epworth League. Various subjects pertaining to all kinds of Christian work were discussed. Monday evening at 8:15 the fifth annual exercise of Eighth grade took place under the management of Profs. Roberts and Eason.

All acquitted themselves creditably.

Dr. Latshaw's remarks to the school and to the class were very complimentary.

Tuesday night the "Cantata of King Saul" was played to a large and an appreciative audience. It did much credit to Mrs. C. L. Brown who managed it.

Wednesday at 10:50 a. m. the regular commencement program began. The orations were very fine. The following is a list of graduates with their subjects:

"The Culture and Value of Literature," Mrs. M. D. Brown Yerwood, Victoria; "Survival of the Fittest," Mr. A. E. Kirkpatrick, Mooreville; "An Ideal Citizen," Mr. George M. Munchus, Waxahatchie; "An Appreciation of S. Coleridge Taylor," Miss G. M. Goodwin, Corpus Christi; "The Negro His Own Emancipator," Mr. L. H. Lightner, Dallas; "Relation of Education to Christianity," Miss L. I. Morrow, Littig.

When the validictorian, Miss Morrow, finished speaking, teachers, students and visitors were in tears. Dr. W. P. Thirkield, secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, in presenting the diplomas, said that the valedictory was the best he had ever heard in his twenty years' experience in the Freedmen's Aid work.

It was the consensus of opinion that this was the best commencement in the history of the school.

GROUND BREAKING.

At 3:30 p. m. the chapel gallery and all other available space was filled to overflowing. Mr. Carpenter's military band, Capt. Kinchion's State Militia, the Uniform Rank of K. of P. under Mr. L. M. Mitchel, were centers of attraction. Secretary Thirkield, Dr. Weakly, of Cincinnati a member of the Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Society delivered excellent speeches. They commended highly the progress of the race, the success made by our school, and the heroic struggles and sacrifices of President Lovinggood.

Several other brief speeches were made. About $1,100 in cash and subscriptions was raised, more than $600 of which came from the white citizens of Austin.

The exercises in the chapel being over, the band, military company, Uniform Rank of K. of P. and citizens marched to the place where the $12,000 boys' building is to be located, and broke ground. More than 1,000 people were present to witness this exercise.

VISITORS.

The following are some of the many visitors to our closing exercises: Drs. Thirkield, Weakley and Latshaw, Cincinnati; Revs. A. Foster, D. C. Lacy, N. J. Johnson, J. S. Wyatt, — Dickerson, Abbington, M. Smith, James Hutchinson, L. L. Campbell, J. B. Pius, H. Swann, J. W. Weakly, J. A. Stout, Little Rock; Mesdames E. S. Spriggs, Manerva Brown, Washington, Merril, Dilwood, Doolittle, Hollingsworth, Davies, George Morrow, Walker, McClain; Messrs. Murray, Munchus, Freow, Kirkpatrick, James Williams, Harper, Supt. McCallum, of the city schools; Judge Fulmore, Mr. George A. Brush, and many others that space will not allow me to mention.

The enrollment the past session was 314.

Drs. Weakly, Thirkield, Latshaw and others remarked often in my presence: "You have a great man at the head of your school."

J. W. FRAZIER.

Franklin Institute Commencement

The Franklin Normal Institute of Franklin, La., has just closed the most successful session in its history. The enrollment reached quite two hundred and would have been many more but for our limited facilities. The closing exercises began on Monday, May 15, with a celebration of the anniversary of the Frederick Douglas and the Booker T. Washington literary societies. The exercises were in every way a splendid tribute to the noted statesman and the distinguished educator.

The results of our annual examinations, which occurred on the 18th and 19th were very gratifying and showed a steady and healthy improvement in the intellectual progress of our pupils.

A special program of music and other literary exercises was rendered on Friday and Saturday nights, 19th and 20th. Music was a special feature of this program, and atlhough many of the performers were young in years they exhibited a skill that reflected credit upon Mrs. Porter whose special work is music and sewing.

On Sunday, May 21, our annual sermon was preached by Rev. B. W. Stewart of Mt. Zion Church. Rev. Stewart is one of the foremost ministers of the Baptist Church of this State. He chose for his subject "We Must Educate," and his discourse of quite an hour was a source of inspiration to all present.

The graduating exercises occurred on Monday, May 22, at 8:30 p. m. Prayer was offered by Rev. R. C. Worsham, of Asbury M. E. Church. The following are graduates of the English course: Lucinda N. Hall, Azzie L. Nurse, B. W. Stewart, Jr., and Lula A. Washington. The parts rendered by these pupils in these exercises showed that they had been under careful training. A most fitting climax to the closing exercises of Franklin Institute was the annual address delivered by Rev. R. E. Jones, D. D., editor of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. It was announced that he would address the audience on "The Triangle of Life." From a standpoint of mathematics we have had some dealings with the triangle ourself, but the speaker demonstrated with a mathematical precision that the triangle has a great moral significance as well. The house was packed, many whites being present, and for more than an hour they were charmed by his eloquence and words of advice. Dr. D. M. Foster, parish superintendent of public education, and the entire faculty of the high school for whites were present.

The following ministers were present and had seats on the rostrum: Revs. B. W. Stewart, R. C. Worshaw, Charles P. Landry, Henry Thompson, James White, Morton Dixon, M. S. Alexander, J. W. Williams and W. Wiggins.

WM. PORTER.

Bennett College Commencement

The commencement exercises of Bennett College, Greensboro, N. C., this year were among the best in the history of the institution. Excepting the first evening, which was stormy, every day and evening the exercises were attended by large and appreciative audiences. The following is a summary of what took place during the week.

On Wednesday evening, May 10th, there was a Gold Medal Contest by the Y. W. C. T. U. Three young women and one young man took part in the contest. The medal was awarded to Miss Mamie B. Mundy, of the class of 1905.

Thursday evening, May 11th, was the anniversary of the Music Department. An excellent program was rendered by a number of representatives from this department under the direction of the efficient music teacher, Miss Eva V. Johnson. There were vocal and instrumental selections from such composers as Mendelssohn, Mattei, Pinsuti, Beethoven, Braga and others.

On Friday evening, May 12th, were the closing exercises in the Department of Dressmaking and Domestic Science. A very helpful address was given by Miss Edna Mitchell, teacher in the Greensboro city schools, on the subject, "The Home Perfected Through the Knowledge of Domestic Art." After the address those present were delighted by the exhibits of the sewing and cooking departments at Kent Industrial Home. These exercises were under the direction of the superintendent of the Home, Mrs. Cora E. Colburn, and Miss Florence Bryan, in charge of the Dressmaking Department.

Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock, the students, teachers and friends of the institution gathered in the College chapel for their annual Love Feast. This service was conducted by Professor Chavis. The leader read and commented upon the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians, and four members of the class of 1905 passed the bread and water. After this nearly every one present gave a testimony of his Christian experience and his determination to advance the cause of the Lord. These testimonies were in many cases very touching and inspiring. The meeting closed with an old-fashioned "Methodist handshake."

Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, St. Matthew's M. E. Church was packed to its utmost capacity, the occasion bengi the Baccalaureate sermon by Rev. J. P. Morris, D. D., vice-president and professor of higher mathematics of the institution. Dr. Morris was at his best, and delivered a deep, but comprehensive discourse, taking as a subject, "The Co-operation of God and Humanity in Bringing About His Kingdom." The people were greatly edified by the sermon, and it was a general verdict that Dr. Morris did great credit to himself and the institution.

Sunday evening, at 8 o'clock, were the anniversaries of the religious societies. Short papers were read by representatives from each of the following societies, the Y. W. C. T. U., the Y. M. C. A., and the Friends of Africa. The principal feature, however, was the annual sermon by Rev. W. R. Winchester, A. M., B. D., pastor at Reidsville, N. C. Rev. Winchester is a graduate of Bennett College and of Gammon Theological Seminary, and he, of course, preached an enthusiastic and eloquent sermon.

Monday evening, May 15th, was the annual program of the Bennett Literary Society. All the young men who performed acquitted themselves with credit. The address was given by Mr. Jas. S. Lanier, attorney-at-law, in Winston-Salem, N. C. Lawyer Lanier spoke from the subject, "Correct Ideals." He delighted all with his eloquent and forceful words.

Tuesday evening, May 16th, was the anniversary of the Cornelian Ring Society (the young ladies). The music and the literary productions were very good and gave evidence of thorough training and much ability. Mrs. Constance Peeler of the city delivered the address on the subject "The Beautiful Life." She spoke earnestly and with telling effect, and made her discourse "beautiful" in its simplicity.

Wednesday, May 17, at 2 o'clock p. m., were the Commencement Day exercises. The people began to make their way to the chapel shortly after twelve o'clock, and by two o'clock almost every available space was occupied. The class of 1905 numbered eight, four from the academic department, two from the normal, and one from the musical. The first one of these was represented by Aaron E. Freeman, oration, subject, "Monuments that Endure," and by Reuben C. Peeler, oration, "The End Crowns the Work." The Normal department was represented by Miss Nettie C. Moss, oration, "Youth, the Time for Preparation." The College was represented by Miss Mamie B. Mundy, oration, "They Can Who Think They Can"—Class Motto. The Musical department was represented by Miss Fannie Lee Anthony Morrison, instrumental solo, "Sonata, C Sharp Minor B."—Beethoven.

The annual address was delivered by Rev. G. H. Detwiler, D. D., pastor of West Market M. E. Church, South, Greensboro, N. C. The speaker began by saying that there were two things he would refrain from doing—first, "Talking of the wrongs you have suffered," second, giving "good advice." He spoke chiefly of three old-fashioned cardinal virtues," namely, Honesty, Industry, Temperance. He talked in a very practical manner, yet his discourse was profound and far-reaching. After pointing out some of the secrets of success in the disposition and character of the Anglo-Saxon, he closed by assuring the "colored people" that after all their best friends are in the South. It is thought by some that Dr. Detwiler is one of the greatest preachers of the country.

The commencement exercises closed Wednesday evening by the annual re-union of the Alumni Association. Many prominent citizens of Greensboro and a number of visiting friends and patrons were guests of honor at the Alumni Banquet. The commencement was pronounced by all as one of the best in the history of the institution. Bennett College is indeed accomplishing much for Methodism and Christian education at large. J. H. Lovell, Reporter.

Philander Smith College Commencement

The commencement of Philander Smith College, May 14th-18th, 1905, was, in many respects, a record-breaker. The baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. I. L. Thomas, D. D., who also delivered the annual lecture. Dr. Thomas was at his best, and carried his audience by force of logic and oratory. Rev. T. R. Wample, of the Little Rock Conference, preached the annual sermon, and all who heard him will long remember the sermon, which was well prepared and delivered.

A vast number of Conference brethren and friends attended each exercise. Rev. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen delivered two excellent addresses, one to the graduates of the Adeline Smith Industrial Home and the other to the graduates of the College class. Language is too inadequate to express fully the merit of Dr. Bowen's addresses, his name on the program was the signal for a great gathering of people, and as he reasoned with things pertaining to the betterment of humanity, all present were completely captivated.

The classes graduating from the college, Normal and Industrial Departments, were most excellent, and a hearty-God-speed was extended to the twenty young men and women who go out to take their places in the arena of life.

Philander Smith College is a great college which meets the demands of a needy people. Students from every county of the State are there, except those where there are no colored people. There were 666 students enrolled this year, the largest number in its history, and the 22 teachers in the faculty are strong, consecrated, and sacrificing. The Theological Department, inaugurated by Mr. John C. Martin, of New York, and taught by Rev. D. W. Boatner, B. D., is a blessing to our people. Too much praise cannot be given to Mrs. H. M. Nasymth, superintendent of the Adeline Smith Industrial Home, who for nine years has managed the Home so successfully. The enrollment for these years in the Home is 429. One has only to visit the home and see the industrial work done to be convinced. We have never seen better decorum among students.

The W. H. M. Society is to be congratulated for placing such an indefatigable superintendent of sterling worth in the Adeline Smith Industrial Home.

We look for the cause of the growth of the college, and find that President Rev. J. M. Cox, A. M., D. D., with his queenly wife, stands at the head with vigilant eye and directs, in the midst of many needs, without complaint, successfully and carefully the affairs of Philander Smith College. Few men would or could do what President Cox does. The Conference brethren hold him in high esteem and will show their loyalty by their collection. His work for many years is his best argument.

The needs are an increased appropriation for F. A. Society Boys' Dormitory, Industrial Building and equipment for Laundry Building, books, etc.

Space only allows me to say that Miss Clara James, matron, does her work to the full satisfaction of the administration and deserves much praise.

The next session will begin September 27th, 1905, and if the future can be judged by the past, the dawn of a new era for Philander Smith College is near at hand.

J. L. Wilson.

Dr. F. B. Coffin, secretary of the Board of Trustees, sends the following note:

"At the trustees' meeting of Philander Smith College, President Cox gave the following report: 'The year has been a record breaker. The John C. Martin Fund called into our ranks Rev. G. W. Boatner, and the results have been gratifying. Enrollment for the year 666. Average monthly attendance, 600. States represented 13. Counties in Arkansas represented, 58. Largest in history of the school. Boarding department greater than ever before. More room needed. General health good. Indebtedness greater than ever before, caused by purchase of new property, furniture, laundry, cooking range, laying concrete sidewalks, sewerage. Boys' Dormitory furished and Girls" Dormitory cleaned up and papered. The trustees raised $90.00.'

"The trustees consider this the greatest year in the history of the school, with all our efforts crowned by 20 graduates and the services of Drs. I. L. Thomas and J. W. E. Bowen.

I feel that I voice the sentiment of the board, faculty, students and community in asking the Heavenly Father to spare, for many years, that broad-minded, cultured, ideal Christian gentleman, Dr. J. M. Cox, that he may continue to lead us from one degree of success to another, and that the Industrial Home may become a part of Philander Smith College, for the good of both."

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Love Unfeigned

BY MISS BLANCHE B. TODD.

Love unfeigned was that of Christ's,
Which proved itself upon the cross
When his blood through the Jews sufficed,
Planted its pow'r ne'er to be lost.

Oh! Christ did'st thou love me so?
To buy in pain and agony,
Pardon for a wretch so low
And vile as I, on Calvary?

Thy love indeed unfeigned
Was proved on Easter morn,
When e'en its pow'r o'er death reigned
And burst the tomb at Easter dawn.

Oh! for more of this, thy love;
My heart may be like thine,
And in mansions, prepared above,
I'll pass with loved ones hours sublime.

Dodge, Texas.

Theology is a failure apart from kneeology.

"The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want, at least as long as I am able to take care of myself." Many seem so to read it.

"If you want be miserable, look at yourself;
If you want to be perplexed, look at others;
If you want to be happy, look to Jesus."

Charles Wagner, in his book, "The Simple Life," makes but this one quotation in all the book from the Scriptures, "Thy money perish with thee."

"He saved others; himself he cannot save" has been transposed to read, "He saved himself; others he cannot save." If you do not believe it has listen to class meeting testimonies.

"Unto death." Daniel went that length and so did Shadrach and his two companions, as both the lions' den and the fiery furnace testify, rather than disobey God. So ought we. "Unto death" is still required to gain the crown of life. Are you meeting the requirement?

The 7th article of our Articles of Religion says: "Original sin is the corruption of the nature of every man." Corruption cannot be forgiven, but can be cured or cleansed. Hence Methodism is but consistent with her own articles of religion in teaching that we must be sanctified, cured, cleansed.

For a Pretence

In the 23rd chapter of Matthew, Jesus pronounces a number of woes against the Scribes and Pharisees. One of them is for dishonest dealings, taking advantage of the misfortune of others to drive sharp bargains. Then to cover this up and make it appear that they were honorable men, because praying men, they "made long prayers." Their making a cloak of "long prayers," of religious pretensions heaped "the greater damnation" on their heads.

It is a serious matter to make a pretense of religion. Yet it is not an unknown thing these days.

For instance, one comes into a community and joins the church. Presumably this is done to help the church and the kingdom of Jesus Christ. If so there can be no pretense in it and it will at the same time be of great advantage to the individual. But cases are known where the sole object was to help one's self, to have more influence, or to get more business. Against such an one there rests the charge, "for a pretense."

To make a cloak of church membership, the church which Jesus Christ loved and gave Himself for is to do a wicked thing that will not go unpunished.

We need to be careful that our motives be what they seem.

The Secret of the Lord

God sometimes shuts the door and shuts us in,
That he may speak, perchance through grief or pain,
And softly, heart to heart, above the din,
May tell some precious thought to us again.

God sometimes shuts the door and keeps us still,
That so our feverish haste, our deep unrest,
Beneath his gentle touch may quiet, till
He whispers what our weary hearts love best.

God sometimes shuts the door, and though shut in,
If 'tis his hand, shall we not wait and see?
If worry lies without, and toil and sin,
God's Word may wait within for you and me.

A Beautiful Prayer

What time I am afraid I will trust in Thee. (Psa. 56. 3.)

In God I have put my trust; I will not fear. (Psa. 56. 4.)

The fishermen of Brittany, so we are told, are wont to utter this simple prayer when they launch their boats upon the deep; "Keep me, my God; my boat is small and Thy ocean is so wide." How touchingly beautiful the words and the thought! How wise and appropriate the prayer! Might not the same petition be uttered with the same directness by us every day of our lives? "Keep me, my God; my boat is so small"—I am so weak, so helpless, so easily carried by the winds and tossed by the waves. "And Thy ocean is so wide"—the perils are so many, the rocks so frequent, the current of temptation so resistless, the tides of evil so treacherous, the icy mountains of disaster so threatening that, except Thou, the Lord, dost keep me I must utterly perish. Keep me, my God, keep me; my boat is so small and Thy winds are so fierce. Thy waves are so high, Thy waters are so deep, Thy ocean is so wide, I am so buffeted about by sharp adversity, so driven before the storms of grief, so swept by the resistless euroclydon of defeat—keep me, my God, keep me!

"Hide me, O my Saviour hide,
Till the storm of life is past;
Safe into the haven guide;
O receive my soul at last!"

The beauty of this prayer is seen, not merely in the faith and trust which it reveals. Glorifying that confidence is the great fact that it is justified by the event. God hears it, and answers it, and the life which can breathe such a prayer is beyond the reach of final disaster.

—G. B. F. Hallock, D. D., in Epworth Herald.

God calls us to duty, and the only right answer is obedience. Undertake the duty, and step by step God will provide the disposition. We can at least obey. Ideal obedience includes the whole will and the whole heart. We cannot begin with that. But we can begin with what we have. It is better to obey blunderingly than not to obey at all.—George Hodges.

Text: Luke 10: 42. Theme—One Thing Needful.

Man foolishly thinks that he needs many things. There are only three things that man must have to sustain his physical life, and all of these are graciously and bountifully given unto him without price and without measure; hence he is not in need of them at any time during his stay on earth. They are, air, light, and water; and these he does not have to labor for to get them; they are given, freely given.

Martha thought she needed a good supper for her distinguished Guest; that she needed some one to help her in the kitchen; and that she needed the time that Mary was throwing away while sitting at the feet of Jesus, all of which was a mistake.

Mary's choice was relative. She chose Jesus because she believed He had chosen her. Mary's choice was wise, because in choosing Christ Jesus she made choice of the first of all beings, the best of all things, both in time and in eternity.

Mary's choice was conculsive and inclusive. She made it after serious thought, prayerful meditation, and thorough investigation.

Things needful are not always absolutely necessary. Riches, luxuries, comforts of life, education, good health and even life itself are needful, but are never absolutely necessary. These any man would enjoy, yet his life does not consist of, nor depend upon any of them.

There is but one thing absolutely necessary for man. He must have salvation through Christ; companionship and guidance of the Holy Spirit; the approval of God the Father, and the "well done" of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Man must be born again to obtain the one thing needful, that good part which shall not be taken away from him by death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature.

The one thing needful contains all happiness, full salvation, and final victory over all things in this world, and in the world to come it leads unto eternal life in the presence of God the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost.—Amen.

McDonogh Decoration Day

By William Talbot Childs

If anticipation is sweeter than realization, when both come together one must feel like voicing the words of the poet:

"And oh! if there be an Elysium on earth,
It is this; it is this!"

With the long school session of 1904-05 over—the three trying days of final examinations no longer a dread; and Decoration Day actually realized after so much anticipation; better still, commencement the next day; and best of all, the anticipation of summer vacation which will begin the following Monday—the one hundred and fifty boys of McDonogh School, McDonogh, Md., are never so happy as when the "wake-up" bosses make their rounds at five o'clock in the morning of McDonogh Decoration Day, which is always observed the Friday before Commencement Day. This year it falls on June the second. How much there is in store for the lads!

Yet there are a score or so who are not as jubilant as their comrades, nor as they were wont to be on similar occasions. No one expects the graduates to go about shouting they realize that they will soon have to say good-by to their Alma Mater and that dear old McDonogh will be dearer than ever to them when they go out into the world and begin their lifework. They would endure "kept-ins," examinations, and even punishments against which their youthful minds have hitherto rebelled for just one more year at McDonogh. Alas, their school days are ended!

On Thursday afternoon of Commencement week, some of the ladies of the place, the teachers, and a number of the school boys assemble in the gymnasium and make wreaths, anchors, crosses, bouquets and festoons of orange blossoms, roses, pinks, peonies, honeysuckles, ferns and evergreens gathered from the McDonogh hothouses, the gardens and the woods. Friday morning every boy has some task to perform until eleven o'clock, when they are dismissed that they might bathe and change their work clothes to their best suits—their "Sunday suits"—before dinner.

They form a very restless and oftentimes mischievous crowd about the McDonogh Station, awaiting the train to carry them to Baltimore. And what a jolly time they have en route! At every stop they either sing some of their familiar college songs or give their football yells, or otherwise make their presence known. People assembled at the various country stations think pandemonium has broken loose when they hear such yells.

"Union Station, Baltimore!" the conductor finally announces.

Dozens of boys spring to the platform before the train comes to a standstill, notwithstanding previous admonitions. Mothers, sisters, brothers, aunts, uncles, cousins, sweethearts, friends and friends' friends are on the other side of the railing. But alas! the fond embrace, the hearty handshake, the lavishing kisses—all affections—must be deferred; for the boys are on duty! The First Sergeant of Company A assumes his post on busy Charles Street and impatiently awaits the formation of the three military companies into one battalion.

"Fall in!" rings out in a clear musical tone as the few delinquents scamper to their proper places in the ranks.

"Count fours!" This is the officer's next command when he is certain that every boy stands erect, with hands to the side and eyes to the front. Not even a side glance at some of the home folks is tolerated! Neither must the hand be lifted to brush away a pestering fly!

"One! Two! Three! Four!" Down the line these numbers are repeated, until the little fellow, known as "Shorty," at the end of the line, feebly sings in a high soprano voice, "Four!"

His duty performed, the First Sargeant turns upon his heel, salutes the Captain of Company A, and says, "Comp'ny's Form'd." He means "The company is formed!" but boy officers are as prone to abbreviations as Uncle Sam's regulars.

"Take your post!" the Captain answers, returning the salute.

Now this dignitary is in absolute charge. He looks as if he feels his responsibility when he gives his first command, "Left forward, fours left: march!" He could not boast that he had never been confused, but for this occasion he has memorized the program so well that nothing could disconcert him. In his career he has given such commands as "Left forward, fours right: march!" but these blunders have happened on the McDonogh campus just after he had been elevated to the exalted post of First Captain.

Cab-drivers, newsboys, A. D. T. messengers, street urchins, corner loafers and business men pause to admire the perfect step of the lads in bobtail blue coats with red braid about the collars and sleeves, and brass buttons each marked McD. Every boy, from the tallest to the shortest, wears long trousers to match the coat. Their shoes are polished, their clothes as neat as could be expected after a ride of twelve miles in the cars, and altogether they present a creditable appearance. Indeed, they resemble a battalion of little soldiers without accoutrements.

The battalion of "solier kids," as the preceding band of street urchins styles them, halts upon entering Greenmount Cemetery. Now for an hour with home folks! Kisses and embraces in profusion!

But this hour seems too short, for the same punctual First Sergeant is ready to re-form the battalion at four o'clock. Before resuming the march to their benefactor's monument, each private is given a bouquet and the designs are handed to the officers.

It is in keeping with the request of John McDonogh that his grave is annually decorated. At the conclusion of his will are these words:

> "That it may be permitted annually to the children of the free schools (situate the nearest to the place of my interment) to plant and water a few flowers around my grave. This little act will have a double tendency. It will open their young and susceptible hearts to gratitude and love to their Divine Creator for having raised up as the humble instrument of his bounty to them, a poor frail worm of earth like me, and teach them at the same time what they are, whence they came, and whither they must return."

Up the slight incline through peaceful Greenmount Cemetery march in column of twos the bright-faced, light-hearted lads and form around the base of John McDonogh's monument. They sing two verses of the McDonogh Decoration Hymn and strew about the monument their flowers, after which the remaining two verses of the hymn are sung.

Then the boys are dismissed. With a glad hurrah they break ranks and seek their relatives and friends to spend another happy hour before returning to McDonogh. The nearby ice cream saloons are patronized and soda fountains do a rushing business. If there are no relatives to entertain, some McDonogh alumnus beckons to a group of the lads and treats them. McDonogh boys do not come to Baltimore every day; they are from the country and they are determined to get as much pleasure as possible out of their short visit to the city.

A stylish-looking lady, probably one who has been instrumental in placing the lad at McDonogh School, hands a little fellow a package about the size of a shoe box. The boy's face is one big grin. He knows that the package contains, in the McDonogh vernacular, "good stuff," that is, cakes, candies, fruits and knickknackery to be obtained at McDonogh only on visiting days or when the boys return from their Christmas and summer furloughs. The lady also slips a bright coin into the happy lad's hand. He has no scruples about etiquette curiosity will not permit him to wait until he is out of the lady's sight to ascertain "how much?" it is. Again he smiles: "More'n I thought!" he whispers to Dick, his chum, whose wistful eyes have never left the package. He too grins, for the kind lady has slipped a quarter into his hand.

"Now, don't you want to go and see some of the beautiful monuments?" the lady asks.

The object of her generosity makes no answer. For the first time since examinations he feels like one who tries his best to look pleasant when almost bored to death. He wants to show his gratitude, but he knows Dick's mouth is watering—and so is his!

"We'll eat it after while!" he consoles Dick.

The kind lady overhears the whispering; she understands; she selects a place where the two lads might enjoy themselves. It will give her more pleasure to watch them devour the "good stuff" than to walk about the cemetery.

Everybody knows the history of the man whom New Orleans despised the first half of the last century. No human being then knew why he forsook the pleasures of life and hoarded his gold. The offspring of the very street urchins, who stopped in their play and pointed out the "miser" as he methodically and untiringly pursued his quest for riches, join to-day the "grateful band" of McDonogh boys in singing his praise and strewing "with willing heart and hand, fresh flowers upon McDonogh's grave." The Monumental City is justly proud of the record of McDonogh School, and links the name of John McDonogh with such immortal names as George Peabody, John Hopkins and Enoch Pratt, whose endowments may not equal in financial magnitude the gifts of present day philanthropists; nevertheless, they are the pioneers of American philanthropy; and John McDonogh deserves the more praise in that he sacrificed his life for the one definite purpose. Baltimore and New Orleans will ever keep fresh the memory of their first and greatest philanthropist.

Amid the fluttering of handkerchiefs and the waving of hands the McDonogh bound train leaves Baltimore. It is not such a sad occasion to the little fellows to separate from home folks, for to-morrow will be Commencement, when there will be another reunion.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Love Unfeigned

BY MISS BLANCHE B. TODD.

Love unfeigned was that of Christ's,
Which proved itself upon the cross
When his blood through the Jews sufficed,
Planted its pow'r ne'er to be lost.

Oh! Christ did'st thou love me so?
To buy in pain and agony,
Pardon for a wretch so low
And vile as I, on Calvary?

Thy love indeed unfeigned
Was proved on Easter morn,
When e'en its pow'r o'er death reigned
And burst the tomb at Easter dawn.

Oh! for more of this, thy love;
My heart may be like thine,
And in mansions, prepared above,
I'll pass with loved ones hours sublime.

Dodge, Texas.

Theology is a failure apart from kneeology.

"The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want, at least as long as I am able to take care of myself." Many seem so to read it.

"If you want be miserable, look at yourself; If you want to be perplexed, look at others; If you want to be happy, look to Jesus."

Charles Wagner, in his book, "The Simple Life," makes but this one quotation in all the book from the Scriptures, "Thy money perish with thee."

"He saved others; himself he cannot save" has been transposed to read, "He saved himself; others he cannot save." If you do not believe it has listen to class meeting testimonies.

"Unto death." Daniel went that length and so did Shadrach and his two companions, as both the lions' den and the fiery furnace testify, rather than disobey God. So ought we. "Unto death" is still required to gain the crown of life. Are you meeting the requirement?

The 7th article of our Articles of Religion says: "Original sin is the corruption of the nature of every man." Corruption cannot be forgiven, but can be cured or cleansed. Hence Methodism is but consistent with her own articles of religion in teaching that we must be sanctified, cured, cleansed.

For a Pretence

In the 23rd chapter of Matthew, Jesus pronounces a number of woes against the Scribes and Pharisees. One of them is for dishonest dealings, taking advantage of the misfortune of others to drive sharp bargains. Then to cover this up and make it appear that they were honorable men, because praying men, they "made long prayers." Their making a cloak of "long prayers," of religious pretensions heaped "the greater damnation" on their heads.

It is a serious matter to make a pretense of religion. Yet it is not an unknown thing these days.

For instance, one comes into a community and joins the church. Presumably this is done to help the church and the kingdom of Jesus Christ. If so there can be no pretense in it and it will at the same time be of great advantage to the individual. But cases are known where the sole object was to help one's self, to have more influence, or to get more business. Against such an one there rests the charge, "for a pretense."

To make a cloak of church membership, the church which Jesus Christ loved and gave Himself for is to do a wicked thing that will not go unpunished.

We need to be careful that our motives be what they seem.

The Secret of the Lord

God sometimes shuts the door and shuts us in,
That he may speak, perchance through grief or pain,
And softly, heart to heart, above the din,
May tell some precious thought to us again.

God sometimes shuts the door and keeps us still,
That so our feverish haste, our deep unrest,
Beneath his gentle touch may quiet, till
He whispers what our weary hearts love best.

God sometimes shuts the door, and though shut in,
If 'tis his hand, shall we not wait and see?
If worry lies without, and toil and sin,
God's Word may wait within for you and me.

A Beautiful Prayer

What time I am afraid I will trust in Thee. (Psa. 56. 3.)

In God I have put my trust; I will not fear. (Psa. 56. 4.)

The fishermen of Brittany, so we are told, are wont to utter this simple prayer when they launch their boats upon the deep; "Keep me, my God; my boat is small and Thy ocean is so wide." How touchingly beautiful the words and the thought! How wise and appropriate the prayer! Might not the same petition be uttered with the same directness by us every day of our lives? "Keep me, my God; my boat is so small"—I am so weak, so helpless, so easily carried by the winds and tossed by the waves. "And Thy ocean is so wide"—the perils are so many, the rocks so frequent, the current of temptation so resistless, the tides of evil so treacherous, the icy mountains of disaster so threatening that, except Thou, the Lord, dost keep me I must utterly perish. Keep me, my God, keep me; my boat is so small and Thy winds are so fierce. Thy waves are so high, Thy waters are so deep, Thy ocean is so wide, I am so buffeted about by sharp adversity, so driven before the storms of grief, so swept by the resistless euroclydon of defeat—keep me, my God, keep me!

"Hide me, O my Saviour hide,
Till the storm of life is past;
Safe into the haven guide;
O receive my soul at last!"

The beauty of this prayer is seen, not merely in the faith and trust which it reveals. Glorifying that confidence is the great fact that it is justified by the event. God hears it, and answers it, and the life which can breathe such a prayer is beyond the reach of final disaster.

Lesson XI—June 16, 1905. Title—"The Message of the Risen Christ." (Rev. 1: 10-20.) Golden Text.—"I am He that liveth, and was dead; and behold I am alive for evermore." (Rev. 1; 18.)

John was the son of Zebedee and Salome. His father was a fisherman, and kept hired servants. John was called, with his brother James, to follow Jesus. He was sensitive, passionate, eloquent and affectionate. In the Synoptic gospels he figures as Boanerges, a son of thunder. In the fourth gospel alone the loving element of his character appears. He was the disciple whom Jesus loved. He was personally acquainted with Caiaphais the high priest. After the crucifixion he took the mother of Jesus to live in his home. He with Peter came early to the tomb. He dwelt in Jerusalem or about fifteen years after the death of Jesus. Tradition asserts that he visited Rome, and there before the Latin gate was cast into a caldron of boiling oil, from which he was supernaturally delivered, so that he was a martyr in will though not in deed. It is also said that when a poisoned chalice was given him, he made the sign of a cross over it, and the poison fled in the form of an asp. At a later period he was banished to Patmos, where the scenes of the Book of Revelations were given. Tradition makes Ephesus his last field of labor, where he died at a very advanced age. He was a companion and brother of the church in great tribulation, and was banished for preaching the word of God and bearing testimony to Jesus Christ.

I. The voice. (10-12.) 1. Time—"The Lord's day." A day pertaining to the Lord—Jesus. The resurrection day, the first day of the week, the Christian Sabbath. It was first observed as a day of devotion, then as a day of rest also, and finally took the place of the Jewish Sabbath. 2. Spirit—"I was in the Spirit." Not his own spirit but the Holy Spirit, or in a state of mind produced by that Spirit. A state of high religious enjoyment, such as any Christian may have in his devotions. He was likely spending the time in meditation and prayer. 3. Voice—"I heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet." John the Baptist was the "voice of one crying in the wilderness." The speaker is, or seems to be, out of sight. The trumpet is a wind instrument, with strong, full tones, used to call assemblies together, and to marshall hosts for battle. God can speak to us in the "still, small voice," or in strong, full tones. Jesus is the "Lamb of God," and also the "Lion of the tribe of Judah." 4. Words—Alpha and Omega are the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet. When applied to Jesus they mean that He was at the beginning and will be at the ending of all things. They refer to eternity, past and future to us. Many facts would pass before the mind of John in vision. These he was commanded to write in a book: to put them on record. John probably made the record in the Isle of Patmos, and then sent it to the seven churches of Asia. These churches are types of all churches, and that which was sent to them is applicable to us. Seven is a prominent number in the Old and New Testaments. In Revelation there are seven spirits before the throne, seven golden candlesticks, seven stars in the right hand of the Son of Man, seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, and seven seals of the book. These cities are all in Asia Minor. Ephesus was a large commercial city, famed for its wonderful temple of Diana. Paul founded the church there. Smyrna was about forty miles north of Ephesus, and has to-day about one hundred and eighty thousand in population. It is a great missionary center. Thyatira, once celebrated for its purple dyes, is still a considerable town. Sardis, once a famous city, the capital of Cresus, and enormously wealthy, is now in ruins. Philadelphia has to-day about ten thousand inhabitants. And Laodicea, once famous as a seat of the wool trade, is now only a wretched village, surrounded by ruins.

II. The speaker was "the Son of Man." (12-16.) These candlesticks were not at the base, dividing into seven prongs, but were seven separate candlesticks. They were really lamps with wicks inserted. Each lamp is a church, the oil is the grace of God, and the flame is the light with which the church illuminates the world. The Son of Man standing in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks, shows how Jesus is with His church even unto the end of the world. He is the very soul of His church, giving it light and love. This was a princely and priestly robe, denoting righteousness and honor. Jesus was girt with a golden girdle, not around the waist as a laborer, a runner, but about the breast, denoting dignity and repose. The appearance of the Son of Man here indicates kingly authority more than priestly service. His head and hair are white like wool. He stood before John as the "Ancient of days." His hoary head was no sign of decay, but was indeed a crown of glory. His eyes were as a flame of fire, piercing and penetrating into the very heart of man, and scattering terror among His adversaries. His feet were like fine burnished brass. Strong and steadfast, supporting His interests, subduing His enemies, and showing irresistible power. His voice was as the sound of many waters, or of many rivers falling into one. He can and will make Himself heard far and near. His Gospel is as a flowing stream, fed by the upper springs of wisdom and love. He had in His right hand seven stars, representing the ministers of these seven churches. They are under His influence and direction. Ministers, like stars, should be light-givers and time-keepers. Out of His mouth went a sharp two-edged sword. This was His word, which both wounds and heals; strikes at sin on the right and on the left. His countenance was as the sun traveling in his strength. In His face was a splendor too bright and dazzling for mortal eyes to behold.

III. The word spoken. (17-20.) This vision was too great for John: he fell to the ground as dead. The clearer we see Jesus by faith, the humbler we feel in His presence. He came and touched John with His right hand and told him not to fear. Jesus had not come to take life. He then revealed to John His name as the "first and the last"; the one that was in the beginning and will be in the ending of all things. The one who lived, and died, and is alive again forevermore. Hades is the region of the dead: the spirit world where all go when they depart this life. The keys were a symbol of power and authority. They teach that Jesus had control over death, and the grave, and the last judgment. John was commanded to write the book of Revelations. Then the symbol of the seven stars, and the seven golden candlesticks were explained.

Some of the grandest things that have been done in this world by heroes of God have been done by those who were feebly endowed, as the world judges, for the task which was set before them; but they were done. Not from the seen, but from the Unseen, did they draw their strength.—R. J. Campbell.

Not Ashamed of the Gospel

Scripture Reference: Rom. 1: 13-17.

Paul yearned to preach the Gospel in Rom Although he had purposed to go to the Imper City, he was hindered, and only as a prison did he at last reach there. His heart was s on building up saints and saving sinners bo Jew and Gentile, both Greek and barbarian, bo wise and unwise. He had the true knowled of God, while the whole barbaric world wa without it. They were without true inspiration he had it. He knew Jesus Christ, his crucifie and risen Lord, to be God's power unto salvatio unto every one that would receive Him and tru in Him. This glad tidings, therefore, Paul fe himself morally bound to give, even to prou Rome. He had confidence in the Gospel. H was not ashamed to declare it. Neither ough we after its nineteen centuries of glorious tri umph.

Not ashamed of the Gospel.

It takes courage to stand up for that whic is everywhere spoken against. The Gospel i Paul's day was not popular. Philosopher scorned it. Priests and people of all classe spurned it as a religion without a temple an without an altar. "Religion and custom, la and policy, pride and interest, philosophy an letters" were all united against it. To be Christian then meant persecution and social os tracism and sometimes imprisonment and death The simple fact that the Gospel is the power o God unto salvation was sufficient for Paul. I made him a hero. He was not ashamed of i It ought to make us heroic. We should prea it and seek to enter all open doors to mak Christ known.

The Gospel in its essence is Jesus Christ.

Not a theory, but a Person, He, not it, is th power of God. It has been eloquently said "Go and untwist all the beams of light in th sky; get at and expunge one of the colors fixe there by God; or let an army be set to changing the smallest truth of mathematics; either would be as easy as getting the person of Christ out of the Gospel." He is the power, "not only in the cogency of perfect principle, but in the en ergy of an eternal life, an Almighty Will, an In finite Love."

It is Jesus Christ, Son of Man, and Son of God, the crucified, risen, ascended and reigning Lord, we are to make known. This is glad tidings, "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." His blood cleanses from all sins. He is the dynamite that breaks hard hearts, that liberates the slave, sets the prisoner free and overthrows the thrones of despotism and tyranny He is the transforming power that makes new creatures of men, that will make this a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness. It is in Him that we have the revelation that God is just and the justification of them that believe.

Not ashamed of Jesus.

Burning with love to Him who was his Lord and Savior, Paul counted no sacrifice so great, no defeat so discouraging, no obstacle so disheartening, and no danger so appalling as to prevent him from using all his powers and seizing every opportunity to make known to men of every class Christ as the divine Savior. He gloried in the Cross of Christ. Not ashamed was he to be known as Christ's ambassador. We need a holy boldness to be instant in season and out of season to tell lost men of an Almighty Savior. It is not so popular yet to be an intensely earnest Christian, a bond slave to Jesus Christ.

But away with shame when we have such a mission—to beseech men in Christ's stead to be reconciled to God. Away with shame when we have the only remedy for the epidemic and fatal disease of sin; and while we have such a conquering and unconquerable Lord. Let us be ashamed that we are not more faithful, that we do "no more revere His name."

Alcorn A. & M. College Commencement

The Alcorn Agricultural and Mechanical College closed its thirty-fourth session with a great degree of satisfaction to those who have labored so earnestly for its success, the commencement week extending from the 12th to the 18th of May.

The school has had 618 matriculates, which number is one hundred more than the board ordered that we should receive, owing to the crowded conditions last year and the consequent epidemic of smallpox.

The deportment and scholarship of the student body were never better. The college class of this year was unusually strong. The number of graduates in all departments was unusually large —72.

The co-educational feature is no longer an experiment, but a reality, and is under the most thorough and competent management.

President Lanier's executive ability in handling so large a plant is unquestioned by all fair-minded persons.

The Rev. W. F. Waters, assistant business manager of the Southwestern, delivered the baccalaureate sermon, a most masterly effort. Being a young man, his was not only instructive and eloquent, but inspiring to the young men who listened so attentively to him. His insistence upon the young men and women to observe and appreciate "little things" still rings in their ears.

The week was closed by the annual address by the Rev. M. C. B. Mason, D. D., the princely secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, but I forget that he needs no introduction. And, yet, there may be some imitations, since one must "beware of imitations." His earnest appeal for a better understanding between the two "distant sections" in sentiment, a closer union in the common interest of the races and his earnestly-expressed hope for peace, universal peace, will not be forgotten by any who heard him.

Easter Reports

Nanticoke, Md.—"On Easter Sunday, Asbury Sunday school presented one of the finest programs that we have heard for years. The church was appropriately decorated. In the evening the children rendered their program excellently, under the direction of our efficient assistant superintendent, Mrs. Cora B. Barcley; Miss Edythe R. Hammond, organist. An address was delivered by Mr. Mervin Hardy. Our missionary collection was grand. A large congregation enjoyed an interesting discourse by Mr. Jessie Wallace, a student from Dover State College, Dover, Del.," writes Miss Edythe R. Hammond.

Earlton, Fla.—Easter was a delightful day with our church, at this point. Under the leadership of the superintendent, Mr. Geo. H. Cooper, the Sunday school rendered an excellent program, which was highly appreciated by all. Collection $1.19. Rev. J. J. Keller, pastor.

Eupora, Miss.—Very successful were the Easter exercises of our Sunday school here, conducted by the faithful superintendent, Mr. W. M. Ford. Raised for missions, $15.55. Rev. C. L. Walls, pastor.

Laurenceburg, Tenn.—Easter was an enjoyable day with our people here. The Easter offering amounted to $5.87. Rev. W. Ellison, pastor.

Hatiesburg, Miss.—At St. Paul Church Easter Sunday was a red-letter day. The Sunday school, which is in excellent condition, has an average attendance of 130. The total collection was $97.00, $32.00 of which goes to missions. Rev. J. K. Comfort, pastor.

Brenham, Texas.—Rev. J. H. Hubbard, of Mt. Zion Church, on Easter Sunday closed a three weeks' revival meeting with ten additions to the church. The Sunday school rendered a beautiful program at night. The music was superb, and the decorations of flowers and ferns added to the joy of the occasion. Collection, $25.16.

Sylacauga, Ala.—Our Sunday school here rendered a good Easter program and raised $12.00 for missions. Rev. G. W. Reeves, pastor.

Bolton, Miss.—Easter services at Asbury Chapel and St. Paul were grand indeed. The efforts of J. L. A. Thompson and D. Bassett were crowned with success. Raised for missions, $10.00 and $9.00 respectively. Rev. I. L. Pratt, pastor.

Hazlehurst, Miss.—Easter was observed on this charge, of which Rev. J. S. Thomas is pastor, and the missionary collection amounted to $8.98.

Marion, Ala.—The Easter Sabbath was gloriously observed at Simpson Chapel, three miles east of Marion. Superintendent G. R. Roston conducted an excellent program. The Easter message was delivered by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Knox. Collection, $6.77.

Bell Springs, Va.—The Easter exercises were nicely rendered by each Sunday school on this work. A Sunday school has been organized at Bell Springs. Collection $29.78. A. W. Randolph, pastor.

Colinville, Miss.—The Easter effort was quite successful on this charge. Mt. Zion Church raised $3.35; Shiloh, $3.40; total, $8.65. Rev. K. Roberts, pastor.

Calvert, Tex.—Collections: Brushy Church $6; Owing Chapel, $5.00; Wickson, $4.00. Easter sermons preached at Owing Chapel by Revs. I. P. Nelson and L. J. Walton; at Wickson by Rev. Walton Davis, and at Brushy by the pastor. Mesdames Viney Thornton and Rebecca Clay and Brothers H. T. Nelson, W. H. Brown, Rick Moorings and Joshua Jones deserve much credit for the interest they awakened in the rallies at the different churches. R. H. Jenkins, pastor.

Cloverport, Ky.—"Our Easter program was fine. Our church and Junior choirs rendered good music. Raised for missions, $4.00," writes the pastor, Rev. W. H. Pope.

GREELEYVILLE, S. C.—"Easter Sunday was duly observed. The appropriate program rendered was appreciated by a large audience. We collected $8 for missions. Wilson Chapel Sunday school is in a progressive condition," writes the superintendent, Mr. E. J. McCullum.

HAHNVILLE, LA.—"Easter Sunday morning St. James church was crowded at an early hour. Rev. Cooper preached the Resurrection sermon. The Easter program was well rendered, under the direction of Superintendent N. Kyles. The floral decorations were appropriate. Five persons joined the church. Collection for missions $10. Total collection for the day, $28.30," writes Mr. A. C. Morrell.

ENGLISH EDDY, GA.—Easter was a high day in this charge. The program was nicely rendered and the superintendent did excellent work. Total collected for missions, $13.10. Rev. E. J. Kimball, pastor.

EUTAW, ALA.—"Our Easter program was excellent. The Sunday schools did well. Collection for the day, $35.34," writes the pastor, Rev. Wm. Jones.

LEBANON, TENN.—Easter was a day of joy with this people. The floral decorations were beautiful, the program excellent, conducted by Misses Laura Bostick and Willie May. The Easter sermon was preached by Rev. B. B. Manson. Collected for missions. $12.50. B. F. Anderson, pastor.

COVINGTON, KY.—Miss Ella B. Brown writes: "We enjoyed the Easter Sabbath. The pastor, Dr. J. W. Robinson, preached in the morning. The Sunday school had their exercises in the afternoon, and the choir rendered special music in the evening. Collection, $112.34, of which $77.24 was for missions.

ACKERMAN (MISS.) CT.—Easter day was an auspicious occasion for Mt. Herman Chapel. The church was tastefully decorated. The Resurrection sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. John W. Byrd. At 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. the Sunday school rendered interesting programs. Collection, $20. Total collection for the circuit, $275.25.

FRANKLIN, TENN.—The Easter services were carried out in part. Had a very nice time. Collected for missions, $6.37. D. J. Mitchell, Supt.

ROSEDALE, LA.—At Hartzell M. E. Church Easter Sunday, at 4 a. m., the pastor delivered an able sermon and at 10 o'clock the Sunday school rendered its program. The superintendent, Mr. A. Thomas, was assisted by Prof. H. J. Edmond. Collected during the day, $21.95.

All business and all work should lift up, and not hold down; it should make free, and not enslave; it should ennoble and not degrade. It is as honorable to make shoes or anchors as to paint pictures or write books. The shoemaker should learn the secret through his work of finding the sandals of manhood for his own feet. The blacksmith should learn, through the making of anchors for his great ships, to find the anchor that is to hold his own soul to the truth amid the storms of life.—Rev. J. W. Lee, D. D.

We get a thought by giving it away. We secure our hold on it by letting it go. We never really know a truth until we have told it to another. The one who gains most in class work is the teacher, if he is the teacher. This is one of the practical paradoxes of our intellectual life, and a blessed paradox it is.—Great Thoughts.

Honest love, honest sorrow,
Honest work for the day, honest hope for the morrow
Are these worth nothing more than the hand they make weary,
The heart they have sadden'd, the life they leave deary?
Hush! the sevenfold heavens to the voice of the Spirit
Echo: He that o'ercometh shall all things inherit.
—Owen Meredith.

Hope is on high within the veil, where Christ sitteth at the right hand of God. Grovel not in things below, among earthly cares, pleasures, anxieties, toils, if thou wouldst have a strong hope on high. Thou canst not soar to heaven and stoop to earth. Lift up thy cares with thy heart to God if thou wouldst hope in him—Dr. Pusey

The best things are nearest—breath in your nostrils, light in your eyes, flowers at your feet, duties at your hand, the path of God just before you. Then do not grasp at the stars, but do life's plain, common work as it comes, certain that daily duties and daily bread are the sweetest things of life.—Impressions.

What multitude of threads make up a fringe; and yet how beautiful and costly when completed. And here is found a beauty of the real Christian life—the highest, truest Christian life. There are not a few who may be willing upon rare and notable occasions to do or suffer some great thing for Christ, but the ten thousand little things of life are entirely beneath their notice, as they also suppose them to be beneath the notice of the Lord.—P. S. Henson.

MR. CHARLES C. MORSE RETIRES

from the pastorate of Dr. Charles Parkhurst, now editor of the Zion's Herald, while serving his first pastorate in Hyde Park. Dr. Parkhurst was a frequent visitor to Mr. Morse's sanctum and could at that time wield a facile pen. Mr. Morse was justice of the peace six years prior to his acceptance of the position in the railway mail service. He was married to Miss I. L. Barber, also a Vermonter, in 1871, to whom five sons and a daughter have been born.

In all Mr. Morse has spent eighteen years in the work in the South. He has been most cordially received by the brethren and has made warm friends among many of them, who have been ready to honor him. He retires with the good wishes of all. On Tuesday of this week the New Orleans Preachers' Meeting waived its regular session and the preachers and a few friends met in the office of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and tendered Mr. Morse a testimonial of appreciation.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Douglas M. Seals, Rev. W. R. Butler spoke for the Louisiana Conference, and Rev. Valcour Chapman for the New Orleans Preachers' Meeting. Mr. Morse's pastor, the Rev. W. R. Chase, spoke of Mr. Morse as "A Churchman," and Rev. F. T. Chinn as "A Citizen." Rev. Henry Taylor in behalf of the SOUTHWESTERN office force and the New Orleans Methodist preachers presented the token. Mr. Morse responded in a very happy vein.

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

The semi-annual May meeting of the Trustees of the American University was recently held in Washington City. A large number of Trustees were present and much important business was transacted.

A check for $10,000 from a lady friend in Chicago, reached the University office the morning of the Trustee Meeting, with a promise that $15,000 additional would be paid July 1. Announcement was also made of the gift of a farm of 700 acres, in good state of cultivation, and with splendid buildings, located in Indiana, on the Ohio river, forty miles south of Cincinnati. The gift is unconditional and the farm is valued at from $20,000 to $25,000. Announcement was also made of a generous bequest for the University in the will of Charles W. Slagle, of Baltimore, recently deceased.

The Trustees approved the action of the Building Committee in awarding the contract for the completion of the superstructure of the McKinley Memorial College of Government, at a contract price of $137,729. The same kind of marble is to be used as that in the completed College of History, which came from the famous Columbian quarries near Rutland, Vt. Work will begin within a few days and under the terms of the contract is to be completed within a year.

The Board elected two new trustees, Dr. J. G. Bickerton, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Franklin E. E. Hamilton, of Boston, to fill vacancies.

No action was taken on the proposition which has been recently made looking toward an affiliation with the George Washington University.

NEW ORLEANS UNIVERSITY COMMENCEMENT

New Orleans University has just closed, in many respects, a most remarkable year's work. The attendance has been the largest in the history of the school and the work gratifying. The commencement exercises proper began on Sunday, May 19th, but for several weeks before programs of considerable interest were rendered by the different grades and the festival by the musical department and the oratorical contest deserve special mention. On Sunday, May 21st, the baccalaureate sermon was preached by the president, Rev. F. H. Knight, Ph. D. The sermon was logical, inspiring, instructive and had great carrying force. The service was largely attended and a number of the conference brethren were seated on the platform. On Monday evening, the 22nd, the exercises of the Eighth grade were held. The attendance was large and the program exceedingly interesting. Certificates were awarded to a large number of students certifying that they had completed the regular eight years' work of the English course and were therefore entitled to admission in the Preparatory and Normal departments. Commencement day proper was May 23rd. The exercises were held in the new annex, which is being pushed toward completion. President Knight is devoting considerable strength and energy toward the completion of this annex, which when completed will afford a large seating capacity. During the year $1,900 have been spent on the annex and the stairway leading to its main auditorium, which has been constructed this year, was commendably spoken of by all who attended the exercises. The program was opened by the singing of "America" and prayer was offered by Rev. T. J. Johnson, pastor of Wesley Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church, this city. The first in order were the orations of those graduating from the Normal department and the first speaker, Miss Ella S. Boyd, spoke upon the subject "Look Not Mournfully Into the Past." Miss Cecelia A. Carter spoke upon "Education, Past and Present," and Miss Hattie A. Davage treated the subject of "Discipline, Past and Present." At this point Miss Boyd sang a beautiful solo entitled "An Apple Bough." The Normal department continued its program with an oration by Mr. John H. Davis on the subject, "The Outlook." Mr. Apollos W. H. Lee discussed the "United States Protectorate Over San Domingo," and Mr. Nathaniel S. Nelson followed in "A Plea for the Public Schools." These were given diplomas from the Normal department. There were four who had completed the regular preparatory course. They spoke in the following order and upon the subjects given: Deborah Z. Chapman, "Influence;" James M. Hall, "Elements of Success;" John W. Hutchinson, "The Demands of the Hour;" Charles L. Williams, "The Value of a Man." At this point Miss Ora J. Wilson delighted the audience with a vocal solo. There were only two candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, namely, Mr. John W. Jackson and Mr. Theophilus J. Smith. Mr. Jackson discussed the subject of "The Royal Purple" and Mr. Smith "The Congo Question." Mr. George Carere executed with delicate touch and skill as a violin solo "Il Trovatore." Miss Annie V. Robinson and Miss Carrie A. Thibodeaux having completed the course of the nurse training department were presented certificates. President Knight in well chosen words presented the diplomas and degrees. In making the announcement, Dr. Knight made a most remarkable statement concerning Flint Medical College. That Flint Medical College takes high rank throughout the country is evidenced by the following incident: Dr. Knight recently was approached by a young white man, a graduate of Tulane Medical College, this city, who sought a diploma from Flint Medical College. This young man had made application for registration as a practicing physician in New York. The diploma of Tulane Medical College was not acceptable for registration, while the diploma from Flint Medical College is not only acceptable in New York, but through all the Northern states. This is a high tribute alike to the work that is being done at Flint Medical College by its professors, and the standard which the College is able to maintain. Hereafter no student will be admitted to matriculation into the Flint Medical College without having completed the regular college preparatory course or its equivalent. And thus New Orleans University closes one of its most prosperous years with increased attendance and with the annex pushed toward completion.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION MANUAL

A successful and wideawake pastor will be prompt in his yearly requests to the secretaries of the several benevolent societies of the church for an annual report. Not only will he thereby secure much valuable and interesting information without cost, but he is likely to be a back number as a Methodist preacher if he does not study these annual reports faithfully. The sixty-fifth annual report of the Sunday School Union is before us and contains much that is worth careful reading. There is a full account of the anniversary of the Sunday School Union held last fall in Providence, R. I., and several of the addresses are reported at considerable length. The address of Governor Garvin, Rev. F. J. McConnell, D. D., on "The Kind of Bible Study Demanded By the Times," Rev. W. F. Anderson, D. D., on "The Bible as a Factor in Education," Rev. Charles Rhodes, D. D., on "Dividing Lines Between Babyhood, Childhood and Youth," Dr. Robert R. Doherty, on "The Mechanics of Teaching," Rev. George P. Eckman, D. D., on "The Bible and Contemporary Scholarship," Rev. R. J. Cook, D. D., on "The Ethical Teaching Needed in the Sunday School," constitute some of the addresses in this annual report. These addresses, taken together, form a most excellent survey of Sunday school work. This manual, besides addresses, contains many helpful suggestions as to methods and some interesting statistics about our own Sunday school work. Write at once for this report, address Rev. J. T. McFarland, D. D., No. 150 Fifth Ave., New York.

Rev. Charles W. Maillard, D. D., one of the most prominent and influential members of the New York Conference, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 22, 1905, after a career of thirty-eight years as a most successful Methodist preacher. Dr. Maillard was a member of the last General Conference, and did prominent service on several of the standing committees. At the last session of his Conference, having served a term as presiding elder of the New York District, he was appointed byl Bishop Hamilton to the pastorate of Washington Street Church at Paughkeepsie, N. Y. Dr. Maillard was brotherly, warm hearted ,aggressive and possessed rare oratorical ability. He made friends of nearly every person he met. In his death Methodism has lost a strong man.

Personal and General.

Rev. S. M. G. Taylor, pastor at Eola, La., is quite ill.

Rev. D. H. V| Purnell, pastor of Scott Methodist Episcopal Church, Chicago, Ill., is pushing his work with vigor.

Prof. J. H. Augustus is principal of the public school at Washington, La. The closing exercises, which took place on May 19 and 20, were a decided success.

Rev. J. K. Comfort, pastor of St. Paul Methodist Episcopal Church, Hattiesburg, Miss., has just closed a glorious revival. One hundred and twenty-three were converted and added to the church.

Rev. Frank Mason North, D. D., of New York, preached the baccalaureate sermon of Morgan College, Baltimore, Md., last Sunday. The commencement exercises of this institution took place on June 1.

Rev. Charles C. Jacobs, D. D., preached the annual sermon of the Allen Industrial School at Asheville, N. C., on May 14, and is to deliver the annual address of Haven Normal Academy of Waynesboro, Ga., on June 21.

The minutes of the Mississippi Conference are out. The brethren who have failed to receive their share of the minutes should write at once to Rev. A. J. McNair, Yazoo City, Miss., and those who are delinquent in payment for their minutes should send in the same at once.

The Rev. R. D. Powell and family, of Valparaiso, Chile, reached New York by steamer Coya May 25, leaving later for Zanesville, Ohio. Mr. Powell first went to Chile in 1889, to engage in self-supporting work under Bishop Taylor, later severing his connection with that work and carrying on an independent orphanage enterprise.

Mrs. Louisa Alton Parker, who for some time made her home in Laurel, Delaware, since the death of her husband has returned to New Orleans, and finds a warm welcome from her host of friends. Mrs. Parker has with her a baby daughter and they are with Mrs. Parker's mother on Saratoga street near Seventh.

The Rev. William P. McLaughlin, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church in Buenos Ayres, Argentina, with Mrs. McLaughlin and their daughter Mary, and Miss Estella C. Long, M. D., principal of the North American Academy at Montevideo, Uruguay, arrived in New York on the steamer Tennyson, Saturday, May 20.

The commencement exercises of the Delaware State College for colored youths, Rev. W. C. Jason, D. D., president began on May 28 with the sermon to the graduating class by Rev. W. F. Cotton, D. D., pastor of Zoar Church, Philadelphia, Pa. The commencement exercises will take place June 2nd, and the annual address will be made by Rev. Thomas F. Poulson, D. D., of Ridgley Park, Pa.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Gertrude M. Ramsey, of Houston, Tex., to Prof. Joseph B. Randolph, of Pass Christian, Miss., the ceremony to take place June 7th at the residence of the bride's parents in Houston. Mr. Randolph is in charge of the Greek and Latin department of Wiley University, and Miss Ramsey is one of the charming young women of Houston, and the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Ramsey.

Rev. Ezra Squiers Tipple, D. D., has been elected to the chair of Practical Theology in the Drew Seminary, made vacant by the death of Dr. Samuel Upham. Dr. Tipple was born in 1861 and graduated from Syracuse University in 1884 and has received from that institution the degrees of A. B., A. M., Ph. D., and D. D. He took his theological course at Drew Theological Seminary. His entire pastorate has been within the city of New York. He had signal success as secretary of the Metropolitan Thank Offering Commission, by which organization about $1,000,000 was secured for the payment of church debts and other purposes in New York.

Dr. A. B. Leonard, Corresponding Secretary of the Missionary Society, leaves New York Monday, May 29, to visit Alaska in the interests of the Missionary Society. After a brief visit with his only brother, Mr. Jesse Leonard, in Dorset, Ohio, Dr. Leonard will proceed to Seattle, Washington, whence he will sail in company with Bishop D. H. Moore, about the middle of June. After attending the annual meeting of the Alaska Mission, which meets in Ketchikan, beginning June 29, he will visit all the important places in Alaska where the Methodist Episcopal Church is operating and other points where the work should be established. Returning to Portland, he will participate in the Church Congress which is to be held in connection with the Lewis and Clark Exposition, and then will attend the sessions of the Utah and Kalispell Missions and the Montana, Idaho, and Columbia River Conferences. On his way back to New York, he will stop at Springfield, Ohio, for the session of the Cincinnati Conference, of which he is a member.

Great preparations are being made in Atlanta for the Second Annual Meeting of the National Association of teachers of Negro Youth. The indications are that every state will be represented with large delegations. The State Teachers' Associations of Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma, North Carolina and South Carolina are sending special delegations to the Atlanta meeting. Besides these, large numbers of individual members will go from these states. Other states where there are no state organizations will have large representation. This will, no doubt, be one of the greatest meetings of Negro educators in the country. A splendid program is being sent out. Hundreds are planning to take the side trip to Tuskegee at the close of the meeting. This trip will cost only $3.00, from Atlanta and return, free entertainment being given by Dr. Washington at Tuskegee. Reduced rates of one and one-third fare on the certificate plan have been granted by all railroads. The meeting begins June 28 and continues three days.

Rev. W. H. Smith, presiding elder of the Sedalia District of the Central Missouri Conference, is in the midst of a successful career. Since his appointment to this district two years ago three new churches have been built and several old ones remodeled. The membership of the district has also increased. Brother Smith is what the world would call a wide-awake presiding elder. He s an enthusiastic supporter of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and is planning a vigorous canvass on his district, looking toward sending the SOUTHWESTERN a large subscription list. Judging from the determination that can be read from every line of the picture that we present of Brother Smith, he will succeed in his canvass.

REV. W. H. SMITH,
Presiding Elder of Sedalia District Central Missouri Conference

NEWS NOTES

More than 100,000 enrolled Christian students attended the World's Student Christian Federation held recently at Zeist, Holland.

The body of Paul Jones, the great sailor, is to be brought from France by a squadron of the United States navy and buried at Annapolis.

Our people of Newport News, Va., are erecting a fine large hotel. It will be equipped with all modern conveniences; also a steam laundry.

Doings of the Workmen.

ALABAMA.

Ashville Circuit, Mrs. J. W. Thomas—I had the pleasure of being present during the second quarterly conference at the above named place, April 22-23, Rev. L. L. Allen, pastor. All services were crowded. More than two-thrids of the officers were present. The District Steward responded by laying the presiding elder's money on the table. Sunday's collection was used for other purposes. One soul was added to the church on Sunday. Raised for all purposes, $119.53: Presiding elder, $15.69; pastor, $74.54; for the church, $11.00; education, $3.50; Epworth League, $1.70; W. H. M. Society, which has raised $13.60, gave $5.00 for missions, also repaired the church. The pastor has been given a horse and buggy. Received in the church during the quarter fifteen members. The pastor and his good wife are untiring workers—this accounts for the life of the church.

Evergreen, J. C. Chuman, pastor.—The 30th of April was our quarterly conference occasion. The presiding elder, A. W. McKinney, preached at 11 o'clock the annual sermon to the city public school, it being their commencement, and at night he preached again to a crowded house. Rev. A. Stoker, of the A. M. E. Zion Church, preached for us at three o'clock a very excellent sermon. The entire collection for the day was $44.56.

Alexander City, G. H. Godfrey.—Our second guarterly conference was held April 8-9 at Sanford Chapel. Presiding Elder F. L. Teague presided. A number of officers were present with written reports. Our quarterage was $10, but we raised $12.50. We had a good conference. We are quite proud of our pastor, Rev. W. O. Pearson. He is putting new life into the work and the people are taking fresh courage and trying to do their duty.

Cedar Grove Charge, G. W. Blackman, pastor.—My second quarterly conference was held April 22 with presiding elder Williams in the chair. All officers were present with good reports that indicate great improvement in the work. The elder preached two good sermons. Sacrament was administered to 71 communicants. Paid the elder $16.30; pastor, $2.70; Sunday school raised $1.30. Paid pastor during quarter $54.00. Total $75.00 for the quarter.

GEORGIA.

Milner, M. P. Moore, Pastor—The night of March 22 we were agreeably surprised by being presented with a number of pounds of groceries. The donating party was lead by Sister Alice H. Jackson. In the crowd were members of the Baptist Church as well as our own church. This is not the first time Sister Jackson has so kindly remembered us. She is the day school teacher in our community and she is one of the most faithful and energetic workers in our Sunday School and church, and is ever willing to help in every good cause. We want to thank our friends for their kindness to us.

Oxford, Hugh H. Walker—Our second quarterly conference convened March 24, in Rust M. E. Church. The reports showed a marvelous advancement on all lines. Rev. Dr. G. W. Arnold, presiding elder, gave a profound discourse on church work in general and said that this was the best quarterly conference he had ever witnessed in this charge. Without any extra effort, the church paid the presiding elder more than the assessment for the quarter. Two distinguished visitors, Prof. R. L. Campbell of Payne Institute, Augusta, and Dr. Graves of the M. E. Church, South, preached respectively at 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. The church is enjoying unusual prosperity and is crowded with eager listeners every Sabbath.

Rome, Y. T. Fedrick, Pastor—Second quarterly conference of Floyd charge was held April 27, by Rev. J. Sams, ex-pastor and ex-presiding elder, one of the oldest men of the conference. According to the reports the work was in a prosperous condition. Elder Sams preached Sunday morning. Paid elder in full, $10.50; pastor this quarter, $23. For all causes this quarter, $45. We are all proud of our new presiding elder, P. W. Adams. He is one of the best men in the Atlanta conference.

Hoschton, R. C. Young—Our benevolent assessment is $61; we raised $69.24 on Easter and paid it in full. The greatest success that has been achieved since its organization. Rev. W. M. Wims is the right man for this place. He has the sympathy of the whole community. The prospect for the ingathering of souls seems bright. We are proud of our new pastor and his wife, Mrs. I. V. Wims.

Hogansville, W. H. Towns.—Our church work is running smoothly. The Ladies' Aid Society was organized by our pastor, Rev. W. G. Alston, about six or seven weeks ago. Sister Roberta Terrell was elected president, Sister Mollie E. Ramey, secretary and Sister Rase Hendon treasurer. Since organization, they have bought and paid for new lamps and have money yet in the treasurer. On the 31st of March the society gave a grand reception at the residence of Mrs. Luvenia Glanton. The presiding elder, Rev. E. H. Oliver, was present and made an eloquent speech. Our quarterly conference convened at 7:30 o'clock of the same day and it is said by all that this quarterly meeting was the greatest that has ever been held in Hogansville. The collection was $42,94. The elder was at his best Sunday evening. Rev. J. W. Thorpe spent the evening with us and he also rendered good service. Our pastor has met with success so far in all his efforts.

Stockbridge, Ga.—We have had a very successful year so far. Have built a new church at Bentley Hill, entering on April 9, 1905. Rev. Gray, pastor of Oak Hill charge, and his good people together with our charge and friends raised a collection of $47.00. The people at this point feel very proud of their new structure. On April 15-16 was held our second quarterly conference, Rev. P. H. Travis presiding. The quarterly services were held at Red Oak. Collection, $32.00. During the quarter we have raised for building and improving, pastor, presiding elder and benevolence, about $225.

LOUISIANA.

Slaughter——S. P. Banks, reporter—The anniversary sermon of the Knights of Pythias was preached here at Little Rock Baptist Church by Rev. J. D. Smith, pastor. The public collection was $3.30 and the collection of the Knights was $7. We had a good meeting and all members were prompt in attendance.

Port Allen, C. Spears, Pastor—April 2 was a day of joy. Thirteen persons came forward for prayer. The church was crowded to its utmost capacity. Collection, $21.85. Sister Harriet Henderson, a member of Scott Chapel, whom we thought would lose her sight, is now much better.

Darrow, Miss Edna S. Reddix—All loyal Methodists are rallying to the standard of Rev. C. W. Kershaw. Our forces have been organized for this year's work. The Sabbath school is in fine trim. A fine reception was given Rev. and Mrs. Kershaw recently, led by Mrs. Celestine Jones, Prof. J. A. Reddix and Mrs. Martha Powell. Two large baskets of choice groceries and a purse, also articles of wearing apparel were presented them. Speeches were made by the pastor, Reddix and Mr. M. J. Bringier.

New Iberia, E. S. Gullett—Our first quarterly conference was held March 14th, with W. R. Butler in the chair. All officers presented written reports which showed advancement on all lines. The steward sisters put $89.75 worth of furniture in the parsonage. Our new pastor came to us on March 3, and everything is moving along nicely. The members are all well pleased with Rev. P. C. Colton and St. James has taken on new life. We are expecting a great year's work.

Bastrop, F. D. Bowers, Pastor—I take this method of thanking the stewardesses of Mt. Nebo church for presenting me a fine suit of clothes as a token of their appreciation of my appointment as pastor. The parsonage has also been provided with everything necessary to make it comfortable.

Washington, C. A. Biszile—Sunday, April 9th, was a glorious day for our Epworth Leaguers at St. Marks church. They divided into two squads, viz.: Company No. 1, W. C. Cooper, captain; No. 2, S. L. Foutz, captain. They raised $25 for the pastor. Refreshments were served by Sisters Mary Mingo, L. White, E. Pitre and Lou Williams. We must thank Brothers Ed. Williams, L. Jones, J. Williams and C. A. Baszile for their magnificent support.

Village, T. A. Hampton—On Sunday morning, April 9th, sermon by T. A. Hampton. Class meeting followed. The day was one of praise.
We were thankful for the presence and counsel of our old Father Johnson, one of the oldest men in the state. After this service we went over to Kynett and held another good meeting.

Batchelor, A. Williams—Our first quarterly conference was held March 29th, Rev. J. W. Turner presiding. Reports indicated that affairs are in excellent shape. The outlook is bright and we are encouraged. On Sunday night the elder preached to a crowded house and administered the Lords Supper; 75 persons came forward for prayer. All departments of the church are alive.

Welsh, S. M. Haynes, Pastor—The first quarterly conference of this charge convened April 10th. Each official was present and with written reports. We have a good set of officers. Too much praise cannot be given our steward sisters. Total amount raised for all purposes, $78.70. We hope to reap a good harvest this year for the Master.

Schriever, Thos. Williams, Pastor—Our first quarterly conference was held April 7-9, with Presiding Elder W. R. Butler in the chair. All officers were out with good reports. Collected for the quarter, $65. We are preparing for a good revival, as it is very much needed. I have been cordially received and well treated as a pastor at this place by both saints and sinners.

Rosedale, J. L. Augustus, Pastor—Hartzell Chapel M. E. Church, Rev. J. W. Turner, presiding elder, visited our work and held his first quarterly conference April 10th. The elder gave some interesting and wholesome advice to the surprise and delight of all who heard him. The officers presented written reports. Sister H. Green, president of the stewardess board, read an excellent report. Our church work is well organized. Our Sunday school superintendent, A. Thomas, is doing good work. The Epworth League's president, Bro. M. Walker, is getting the work of this department well in hand. The elder preached an interesting sermon to a large audience. A pleasant surprise was given him by the stewardesses and others. All indications are for a successful year's work. The Rev. P. W. Clark, of Alexandria, the Missionary Secretary, was with us April 13th. He presented the missionary stereopticon views and delivered an excellent lecture.

MISSISSIPPI.

FOREST—N. Toole, Pastor.—My first Quarterly Conference was held March 11-12. Dr. J. M. Shumpert was present. The majority of officers were present with written reports which showed life in the work. I am starting off nicely. Sunday was a great day at Forest. Paid the elder $22.50, full salary. Total collection, $32.25.

Crawford—T. J. Thompson—Rev F. H. Henry held our first Quarterly Conference March 4-5. A large audience greeted the elder. We paid him $15.00. The public school of Crawford, taught by Prof. Quinn, opened March 20th with a large attendance. Our pastor, Rev. J. J. Johnson, is loved and respected by all, and we hope to keep him with us for many years. In his work he has the hearty co-operation of his members. Under his administration every department of the Church is alive.

Newton—A. Reid.—Elder Shumpert was here March 9, and held the quarterly conference and preached a powerful sermon, to the delight of all. We are always pleased to have him with us and to receive his words of instruction.

Yazoo City—A. J. McNair.—The first quarterly conference for St. Stephen M. E. Church was held March 24 and 26. Rev. J. C. Hibbler presided. Reports from pastor and officials indicated success along all lines. Three had been converted, three had died and five joined the church during the quarter. Paid pastor $70.40; presiding elder, $25. The elder preached at 3 o'clock and at night. The day closed with $162.40 raised; total raised for all purposes during the quarter, $257.80; four subscribers for the Southwestern. We organized an auxiliary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, Mrs. M. A. McNair, president. The Ladies' Aid Society was organized with Mrs. Josie Gibbs president. We are also planning to pay the indebtedness of the church, to raise all the encumbrances and to have a great revival and put the Southwestern in the homes first of all the officials of the church. St. Stephen is the finest and most beautiful church in the State owned by Negroes. Our people in Yazoo City are a proud and wealthy people, thrifty and industrious, as well as intelligent. They are greatly pleased with their pastor and presiding elder. We have young men here with busines tact—Dr. L. Miller, the physician; Mr. Winston, the merchant; Mr. Gatlin, the shoe dealer, and A. J. Oaks, the lumber man, do a large business. There are many other business establishments run by our people, which gives us a good showing, thereby letting the world know that the Negro has awakened from his sleep on the bale of cotton.

Ruleville, J. B. Starkey, pastor—My First Quarterly Conference was held at Ruleville March 11-12 with Rev. B. F. Woolfolk, presiding elder, in the chair. Reports showed the work alive both spiritually and financially. The elder was at his best on Sunday. He preached two able sermons. Forty-five persons partook of the Lord's Supper. Paid the elder in full, $25.00. Supscription for the new biulding at Rust $27.

Clinton, W. L. Mills—Rev. R. P. Threlkeld held my first quarterly March 4-5, and on Sunday morning met the Sunday School and delivered an interesting lecture. At eleven o'clock he preached an able sermon to a good congregation. The teachers and students of Herman College were present. Sacrament was administered to 42 communicants.

Meridian—J. B. Bryant—At St. Peter Church, Marion, on Saturday, March 4, our official meeting was held with the pastor in the chair. Rev. Erby delivered an excellent lecture. Sunday, visitors from several churches worshiped with us. The pastor preached able sermons during the day. Collection, $10.60.

Crystal Springs—R. H. Patton, Pastor—My first quarterly conference convened March 11-12. Rev. I. S. Thomas was sent by Presiding Elder Smith to hold the conference. The leaders' reports showed the work to be in good condition. We raised $20. Paid the elder in full, $16. Rev. Thomas preached two eloquent sermons. The sacrament was administered to 70 communicants. The Ladies' Aid Society has been organized.

Summit—H. J. Jorden, aPstor—We desire to express our thanks to the good people of Summit for the kindness shown us on several occasions. Owing to their thoughtfulness we have received many pounds and baskets of groceries. These gifts are acceptable at all times.

Ellisville—L. L. Shumpert, Pastor—We have a number of loyal sisters who belong to the Woman's Home Missionary Society. They are doing a grand work. They contributed recently $10 toward the furnishing of the parsonage. Mrs. Mary McInnins is the president. We also have a good church at Laurel, and an active auxiliary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. They donated $10 to the parsonage also. Mrs. Corean Magee is president.

Vernon, J. E. Webb Pastor.—J. B. Brooks held my quarterly conference March 6-7. The session was a pleasant one. The elder preached twice during his stay. Paid the presiding elder $6; pastor, $4.30.

Stephensville—C. A. Jordon, Pastor—Our first quarterly conference was held with Rev. J. W. Winbush in the chair. The elder preached Sunday morning. The sacrament was administered to 17 communicants. Raised this quarter for pastor, $105.50; for elder, $5.25.

Carthage—R. R. Davis, Pastor.—Presiding Elder J. C. Hibbler held our first quarter. His sermon greatly inspired all who heard it. The sacrament was administered to thirty communicants. Twenty persons bowed at the anxious seat. Paid the elder $12.50; pastor, $7.50.

LILIAN—A. B. Britten, Pastor.—Our first Quarterly Conference was held at St. Paul M. E. Chrch, March 14th, with Dr. J. M. Shumpert in the chair. The session was a success along all lines, each member being present with favorable reports. Paid presiding elder in full. At night the elder preached an excellent sermon. Forty persons partook of the Lord's Supper. We feel that the All Bounteous Giver greatly blessed us in giving to us as an administrator such an able and considerate man as Dr. Shumpert.

Conference Notices

ABERDEEN DISTRICT.

The first District Conference, Epworth League and Sunday School Convention will convene July 26-30, at Tabernacle Church, on the Athens Circuit, five miles from Aberdeen, Miss. All visitors will buy tickets to Aberdeen, and from there they will be conveyed to the church.

On Tuesday night, July 25th, Rev. S. T. Walker will preach. Wednesday morning, July 26, Epworth League Convention. All Leagues must be on hand Tuesday evening, as the League will have only one day.

Thursday, July 27th, the Sunday School Convention will be held and only one day will be given for this Convention work. Friday, July 28th, is date of the District Conference. All the members and delegates will be on hand and remain there until the close. Each Sunday school and Epworth League will elect two delegates at once, so they may prepare papers on subjects assigned. Let "Soul serving" be our motto. Drs. R. E. Jones, I. G. Penn, E. M. Jones, I. L. Thomas and G. G. Logan are expected to be present and represent their work. Brethren of the Aberdeen District, you did well on Easter, now plan to make a great rally on Children's Day and come to the Conference with round reports. Some of the brethren have raised all of their benevolence on Easter. The following are some of the reports:

Dear Brethren:—How are you standing with the Benevolence? Several of the pastors have gained a hundred per cent. over last year, but I have only heard from a few. What about your Easter Collection? Those who failed on Easter, rally your forces for Children's Day. Our District Conference, Sunday School and Epworth League Convention will convene at Baxley Wednesday, July 19, 1905, at 10:30 a. m. We hope to have a full attendance. The programs will be out in time. Rev. W. H. Brown, P. E., of the Waynesboro district, and Rev. A. R. Allen, P. E. of the Waycross district, promise to be with us, and we hope to have a number of the other church officials. Pastors, each of you bring three cash subscriptions to the District Conference for our Southwestern. I want that our district put in one hundred this year, and don't forget the Bishop Scott Launch Fund. I hope every member of the District Conference and Convention will come prepared to respond to this great and needy enterprise. I am yours for success. J. W. Fisher, P. E.

SOUTH NEW ORLEANS PREACHERS' MEETING.

The South New Orleans District Preachers' Meeting convened at Jeanerette May 11, with quite a number of members present. Rev. D. S. Sloan, is our pastor at this place. The sermons and discussions were fitting and profitable. The stewardess served an excellent dinner and the King's Daughters gave a reception. We found Bro. Sloan in the midst of a revival and stayed over to help him. The next meeting will be at Petersonville, June 8.

TALK IS CHEAP; ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS

To any reader of this great paper who will send me their name and address (a postal will do), I will send (not a sample) but a full-size box of

GLOSSINE

Queen of all hair tonics. This, the greatest and most meritorious remedy for the human hair, causes the hair to grow with rapidity and gives to it that rich glossy tone so much desired by all. No matter how short or harsh or curley your hair may be, Glossine will make it long and straight, soft and fine, and of so rich and pliable a texture that it can be dressed in any prevailing style desired. Glossine cannot fail. I stake my honor on its great merit and prove its worth by sending a full-size box free to all who write to me. Address Miss Helen Martin.

Literary Notes

Tor, a Street Boy of Jerusalem.—By Florence Morse Kingsley. For sale by Henry Altemus Company, Philadelphia.

Tor, a little waif of the streets of Jerusalem, jeering at Pilate, the Roman governor, as he rides through the street in his chariot, has his sight stricken out by the cut of a barbed lash in the hands of this official. Upon this and later the restoration of his sight by Jesus, rests the deep interest of the book.

Tor witnesses the closing scenes of the life of the Saviour, but because of his temporary imprisonment he is spared the climax of the Jews' hatred of Christ, but is among the first at the tomb after the resurrection and is first to recognize the Saviour as he talks in the garden with the woman.

The story is written with much strength and beauty and is full of action.

The picture of the Jews clamoring to Pilate for the crucifixion of Christ and the awful threats and curses thrown at Him the Saviour of the world, is terribly real and touchingly pathetic.

The House that Jack Built.—By Wesley Johnston. Publishers, Eaton & Mains, New York; Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati.

This is a story that will at once appeal to boys and young men, as it portrays the struggles of a very young boy up into manhood. It tells very interestingly of his courage, honesty and his sticktoitiveness in spite of the most adverse circumstances and serious obstacles. It is a clean, good book, and will be very helpful to every boy. The love interest which runs through it, though properly subordinate to the main plot, gives much beauty to the story and will give the book many girl readers.

A Wayside Altar.—By James Buckham. Publishers, Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati; Eaton & Mains, New York.

This is a collection of poems that is well worth the reading and studying too. They are beautiful, sympathetic and religious, full of harmony and rhythm.

The author assuredly understands human nature and its needs, and the poems are written in the most helpful strain. For the sad moment there is sympathy; for the weak moment, strength and trust; for the hour of religious exaltation, perfect companionship and understanding.

To Drive Out Malaria
And Build Up The System.

Take the Old Standard GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC. You know you are taking. The formula is plainly printed on every bottle, showing it is simply Quinine and Iron in a tasteless form. The Quinine drives out the malaria and the Iron builds up the system. Sold by all dealers for 27 years. Price 50 cents.

Field Notes

GEORGIA.

The seventh session of the Sunday School and Epworth League Convention of the Waynesboro District, Savannah Conference, assembled in Spring Head M. E. Church April 27, 1905 with Rev. W. H. Brown, P. E., in the chair. Shortly after the organization a few minutes were profitably used in discussion "Why it is that the Methodist Episcopal Church among the Colored People does not seem to thrive as well as other churches." The Sunday School Reports disclosed the fact that the Sunday Schools were greatly in advance of last year, several new Sunday Schools having been organized in various places in the District. There is also an increase in the enrollment. The Epworth Leagues are being quickened by the vigilant pastors at their head.

Among the visitors during the convention was Professor R. W. S. Thomas of the Haven Normal School, Waynesboro, Ga., and his assistant, Miss Mae R. Reese. Prof. Thomas addressed the convention in words which delighted all present. He called the attention of the ministers to the urgent need of a dormitory for the Haven Normal School. On Saturday the Literary Exercise with its many subjects was an intellectual feast. Miss Mae R. Reese, a talented young Methodist woman, read a splendid paper.

Rev. H. E. Burns, of the Atlanta Conference, preached a delightful sermon Friday night to a packed house. The evening services were well attended. The sermons were of a very high order. At an early hour Sunday morning a love-feast meeting was held. The church was filled. After this meeting Rev. A. M. H. Evans was introduced, who held his audience in close attention for about fifty minutes. At three o'clock the Rev. S. L. Deas preached At night the Rev. J. S. Stripling filled the pulpit. The convention adjourned to meet at Statesboro, Ga., 1905.

W. M. BELLINGER, Reporter.

Folkston, P. H. Hurst.—The Folkston Mission never was in better condition than now. The pastor, Rev. G. T. Holman, is doing a great work. The church at Traders Hill, now being erected, will, when completed, be an honor to the denomination. Rev. G. T. Holman was ordained Effective Elder by Bishop Cranston, at Brunswick, Ga., in 1903, although the fact is not recorded in the minutes of that conference year or the preceding year.

Tallapoosa Circuit, J. H. Brandon, pastor.—Our second quarterly conference was held April 29-30, Rev. W. C. Bryant presiding, at Bremen, Ga. Sunday at eleven he preached a strong and effective sermon. Two persons joined the church. Collection $14.17. Rev. Bryant is a Christian gentleman and also ex-pastor of this place. He still lives in the hearts of these people. At night we were joined by the presiding elder, the Rev. C. W. Adams, who was gladly received by all. He made a strong talk to the people on the needs of the church.

Folkston, Griffin T. Holman, pastor.—This part of the Savannah Conference has been known as the preachers' starving point, but I have promised myself and God to go where the church sends me for Jesus' sake, so I came here and found 12 members. One has been converted and added to the church since. The outlook of our work in Charlton county is quite encouraging.

Commerce, Mrs. M. L. Williams.—The M. E. Church here has taken on new life. Our pastor, Rev. A. McVeal, and wife are great enthusiastic Christian leaders and workers. Everyone loves them and all are working with a will. The parsonage committee furnished some very nice furniture for the parsonage. The Epworth League, with Miss Luessie Freeman as president, is, with the hearty co-operation of the several vice-presidents, carrying forward the good work with renewed inspiration. Our Sunday school superintendent, Mr. J. J. Mayfield, is pushing this work also. Our pastor preached Sunday morning and evening to a large congregation. We anticipate great things this year. Our financial plans are worked systematically.

Cave Spring, S. B. Beauford, pastor.—March 27th was the greatest day ever known in the history of our church. Three weeks ago I called my Board of Trustees together and got out a plan to lift a church extension debt of some 15 or 16 years standing. I put the sisters to work. Here is what they accomplished: Clubs No. 1 Mrs. Mattie Davis, $6.26; 2, Mrs. Mary F. Pitts, $16.00; 3, Mrs. Josephine Brandon, $10.85; 4, Mrs. Florence Baity, $4.26; 5, Mrs. Mary Johnson, $13.75; 6, Mrs. Nettie Johnson, $3.60; 7, Mrs. Ellen Banks, $5.05; from the public, $10.00; grand total, $69.77.

Baton Rouge—On April 6th the 24th birthday anniversary of Mr. Samuel Meyers was celebrated at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lena Smith. Quite a large crowd of young people were out and two beautiful presents were given him.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

And Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost—One Who Did it Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder diseases, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatsoever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

SEYMOUR.—At her home in St. Martinsville, La., on Friday, May 5, 1905, Mrs. Harriet Seymour, a loyal member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, went home to her reward, leaving many sorrowing relatives and friends.

N. RANDOLPH.

WALTON.—After forty years in the Master's service, Mr. Levi Walton, of Durant, Miss., was called to his reward on Saturday, May 13, 1905. His illness was long and exceedingly painful but he bore it with Christian fortitude. He had been a faithful member and class leader of Wesley M. E. Church for many years. The Odd Fellow Lodge, of which he was a staunch member accompanied by the Household of Ruth, attended his funeral en masse. His wife, two sons, two daughters, and several grandchildren survive him. The funeral service was attended by the writer and presiding elder Rev. T. W. Davis. W. H. WHITLOCK.

KEYES.—Bro. Dan Keyes died May 10, 1905, at his home, Harriston, Miss. He was not a member of the church, but he said he had given up everything and was willing to die. His funeral was conducted by W. N. G. Lipscomb.

MCLOAN.—Sister Alice Mcloan, of Harriston, Miss., died April 28th, 1905, happy in her Savior's love. She leaves her husband and children to mourn their loss. The funeral service was attended by W. N. G. Lipscomb.

HILL.—Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to take from our midst on May 3, 1905, our beloved brother, F. J Hill, we realize that the church has lost one of its most faithful and active members, the Sunday School one of its most efficient teachers and the cause of education one of its strongest supporters. Truly Death loves a shining mark. To his bereaved family, we extend our heartfelt sympathy and bid them bow with Christian fortitude to His will, who doeth all things well.

Faithful spirit free from all stain,
Ours the heartache, the sorrow and pain,
Thine the glory and infinite gain,
Thy slumber is sweet.

W. H. Hardy, C. S. Fairley, T. B. Stallworth, Alberta Bartel, Jessie McFail.

Moss Point, Miss.

GARTH.—On March 20, 1905, at Strange, Miss., Mrs. Tennessee Garth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Clay, fell asleep in Jesus. She was an active and loyal member of Paines Chapel. The husband has lost a true and loving wife, the mother, father, brothers and sisters, a dear daughter and sister. The last sad rites were performed by Rev. S. M. McLeod and Rev. J. M. Hill of the Baptist Church.

S. H. CLAY.

PATTERSON.—Mrs. Ina Patterson, a member of McCra Chapel, Ramseur, N. C., passed to her reward March 28, 1905. Aged 28 years. She leaves a bereaved husband, one child and many friends. The funeral service was attended by the pastor.

M. C. LAUGHLIN.

HARRIS.—On April 9, 1905, Mrs. Louise Harris, of Schulenburg, Texas, entered into rest, leaving her only daughter who had waited on her with loving and tender care all during her illness. When the messenger came he found her ready. The church, as well as the daughter, will miss this dear one. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Wormly, conducted the funeral service.

KID.—Sister Polly Kid, a faithful member of Union Chapel, LaGrange, Ga., died Saturday night, March 31, 1905. For many years Sister Kid has been a faithful and loyal Christian, but our Father, in His wise providence, has called her from labor to reward. "Servant of God, well done!" The funeral was attended by the pastor, G. H. Lennon.

GUILFORD.—Mrs Bettie Guilford, the wife of Spencer Guilford, was born March 18, 1865, and died March 30, 1905, at Willis, Texas, aged 40 years. From youth she was a faithful and consistent Christian member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. She was a most painstaking mother and for 21 years a devoted wife. She suffered greatly for seven months, but two weeks previous to her death she told her mother that she had given up everything, and to take care of her dear little ones, for she was going to live with Jesus. She leaves a husband, seven children, mother, four sisters and two brothers. Her funeral was attended by Rev. G. M. Stewart.

HARRISON.—In the Parish of West Baton Rouge, Smithfield place, La., Mr. William Harrison, the father of our pastor, Rev. D. Harrison, died in the Christian faith on Wednesday, April 12, 1905. His funeral was attended Thursday morning, April 13, by the pastor, Rev. Robert William, of the St. Mark Baptist Church. Age, about 70. Three sons, grand children and a host of friends survive him. The deceased was well thought of by both races.

MORGAN.—Sister Amanda Morgan, the oldest member of Mt. Sinai M. E. Church, of Sterlington, La., was born in Richmond, Va., May 11, 1835, and died in peace March 27, 1905. She leaves six sons, five daughters and a host of friends. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, C. L. Angrum.

Brother Hervey Smith's mother, Mrs. Neville Smith, and his little 8-year-old boy, Maceo, preceded him to heaven Jan. 22 and April 10, 1905, respectively. He was buried from the First St. Methodist Episcopal Church. A wife, three children, a father and a sister are left behind to mourn their loss. May the God of all comfort sustain them in this gloomy hour. Mrs. Emma B. Smith-McKoin, of St. Louis, Mo., could not attend her brother's funeral because of the illness of her husband. J. A. Tircuit, pastor, and W. R. Butler, P. E., officiated.

Nettleton, Miss.—Death invaded our ranks recently, and from our midst went Brothers E. Bell, Levi Bert and Siter Mintie Williams. They died as Christians should.—W. C. HILLARD, Pastor.

Mills—W. S. Leake, Pastor.—Our first quarterly conference was held by Rev. S. H. Nevils. All the official brethren were present but three. Good reports were presented, which showed marked progress on all lines. The pastor's salary was fixed at $600. Paid elder in full for the first quarter, $25.-00. The faithful sisters of Midway church were present with a nice dinner.

LEWIS.—Whereas Mr. Chas. R. Lewis, a student at the Ohio Weslyan University and a member of the Sunday School and Epworth League, chorister of the choir and a member of the steward's board of Trinity M. E. Church, Delaware, Ohio, was called to the bedside of his father, the Rev. C. T. Lewis, pastor of Asbury M. E. Church, Lexington, Ky., who, having just a few weeks before completing fifteen years of efficient and faithful service for the Kingdom of Christ, was on April 24, 1905, called by death into the kingdom of joy, therefore, be it resolved, that we, the members of the Sunday School and Epworth League, of Trinity Church, do express to Brother Charles R. Lewis and to the family our deepest sympathy in these hours of sad bereavement.

Committee: Miss Nannie Leggett, J. Homer Reese, S. A. McNeill, Rev. J. T. Leggett, pastor.

PETISON.—Mrs. Ida Petison died at Rosedale, La., March 27, 1905. She was not a member of any church, but died in full hope of heaven. Her funeral was attended at Muson St. Peter M. E. Church by the pastor, assisted by Rev. C. E. Brabford.

J. L. AUGUSTUS.

ALDRIDGE.—Sister Jennie Aldridge of the M. E. Church, Eupora, Miss., went home to rest Feb. 26, 1905. She was a good young woman, and a loyal member of the Sunday school and Epworth League. When nearing home she sang "Nearer My God to Thee."

C. L. WALL, pastor.

Starkville Circuit, Miss.—On Thursday night, April 27th, death came to the home of Mr. Joe Evans and summoned Sister Annie Spencer Evans, his much beloved wife. She was a faithful member of New Prospect M. E. Church for 12 years, was president of the Junior League, teacher of the Sunday school for a number of years. She had been married about six months. She was a true wife, a loving daughter and a Christian friend. New Prospect has lost a worthy member. Her funeral was conducted by Rev. N. G. Wicks of the Baptist church assisted by the ex-pastor, G. W. Baker.

Gulfport, Miss.—Sister Emma Nelson, the daughter of Bro. and Sister Walter Nelson, died April 25th, 1905, at peace with man and God. She joined our church one year ago, but has been sick ever since.—S. H. GLENN.

Brentwood, Ga.—Mrs. Laura Stripling, wife of Bro. Virgil Stripling, of Brentwood, Ga., departed this life March 1. Sister Stripling was a faithful wife and a loving mother. She died as she had lived in the full triumph of faith. She leaves to mourn her going her husband and ten children, besides a host of friends.

So. Pittsburg, Tenn.—Brother Jerry Young, an old trustee of the church, died April 9th. For some years he served the church faithfully, although not a member at the time of his death. He leaves a bereaved wife and daughter.—ALLIE M. WOMACK.

Butler, Texas.—It has pleased the Almighty God to call from labor to reward Brother James Wilson, on the 18th of September, 1904. He was 31 years of age and had been a member of our church about 10 years. He did not dread to die, he said he was ready and willing to go. He leaves a father, mother, wife, three children, five sisters and three brothers, to mourn his going. —Mary Wilson, Reporter. F. R. Morton, Pastor.

SMITH.—Mr. Hervey H. Smith, son of Mr. Neville Smith, a worthy member and an efficient officer in First St. M. E. Church, died May 8, 1905, at the family residence in Dryades St., this city. Deceased professed the Christian religion during his last illness and expressed the desire to join the church that he might enjoy her consolation and die within her pale. His desire was granted.

KING.—Lucinda King, a member of Stephen's Chapel M. E. church, Manchester, Tenn., passed from this life April 20, 1905. She was a faithful member of our church and was highly respected by all, as was shown by the large crowd of people who followed her body to its resting place. Sister King leaves a mother and father, brothers and sisters, to mourn their loss. The funeral was conducted by Rev. H. W. Rucker, assisted by Rev. T. Stephens.

SANDERS.—Susan Sanders, a member of Ross Chapel, Camp Parapet, La., passed from this life, obedient to the call of God. Her funeral was preached by Rev. A. B. Harris.

BLOOD WILL TELL.

It takes lots of vitality, nervous force and strength to win a race. Blood must be pure and good.

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anemia, is common in men and young women, and all those who work indoors, who do not get enough good oxygen in their lungs, consequently have too many white blood corpuscles.

Keep the nerves nourished, the heart strong, the head cool, the stomach vigorous, the liver active with a tonic which has stood the test of time and has a wide reputation, such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Tonics consisting of large portions of alcohol, iron or cod liver oil, do not bring the desired changes in the blood, because they do not enter the system and are not absorbed into the blood, with the exception of the alcohol, which shrivels up the red blood corpuscles when it does come in contact with them. Therefore do not allow the dealer to insult your intelligence by telling you he has something better than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

The cost of mailing only. "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," 1008 large pages, is sent free on receipt of twenty-one one-cent stamps, for the paper-covered book, or thirty-one stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

For constipation, the true, scientific cure is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Mild, harmless, yet sure. No other pill can compare with them.

The King's Daughters and Sons of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church had their sermon and installation Thursday night, May 25, by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson. This society presented to the church the picture of Bishop I. B. Scott. Mrs. Ellen Phelps presented to the president of the King's Daughters a beautiful silver cup, and Mrs. Anna Brooks presented to the same president a very handsome butter-knife. Refreshments were served to the large number present. F. N. HIGGINS, District Steward of Wesley Chapel.

At Williams Chapel Sunday morning the prayer meeting service was well attended. At 11 a. m. Brother P. J. Becnel preached, assisted by the pastor. At 3 p. m. the G. A. R. of Post No. 5 held their memorial service. An excellent program was rendered. Rev. A. E. P. Albert, D. D., was the orator of the occasion. Sermon by the pastor. At 8 p. m. the pastor preached. A number of sisters gave the pastor and family a nice supply of groceries, for which they thank them. The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin was christened at the altar. The trustees are busy trying to beautify the church property. One annual subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection, $21.83.

BATON ROUGE DISTRICT.

Committee on District Conference Program—Revs. H. James, M. P. Franklin, J. H. Thompson, J. O. Richard, C. Spears, T. O. Brown, and C. D. C. Bryant. J. M. TURNER, P. E.

On Sunday, May 28th, at Wesley Chapel services were well attended. At 11 a. m. Brother Felix Castry preached an interesting sermon to the Therogot Post, Grand Army. Rev. T. J. Johnson, the pastor, closed with a few remarks. Collection for the day, $39.10.

The succession of Rev. Stephen Duncan was opened in the Civil District Court for the Parish of Orleans by Lawyer F. B. Smith. He leaves his property in the possession of his wife until her death, after which it is to be equally divided among his four children, Misses Rebecca, Octavia, Anna and Stephen Duncan. Of his insurance of $3,000 in the Methodist Ministerial Association, he leaves $1,000 to his wife and $500 each to his children. To Mrs. Matilda Clark, his daughter, he leaves his interest in the Louisiana Emigration, Land and Improvement Company, Ltd. All things considered, Rev. Duncan has left his family well cared for, and it is such an example that is worthy of emulation.

Sunday afternoon, at Mallalieu was the Epworth League rally. Rev. H. Taylor of Simpson, Rev. John H. Lindsey of Malden, Rev. Wm. Porter, also Brothers Priestley and Moffett of Simpson were present. Brother Lindsey represented the spiritual, Brother Priestley the mercy and help, Brother Porter the literary, and Brother Moffett the social department. An hour and a half of good spiritual and social time was had with the League and their friends. Sixteen dollars and twenty cents were gathered, after which the League served light refreshments to all. The spiritual department furnished ham sandwiches and the mercy and help department the ice cream; the literary department ice lemonade, and the social department assorted cakes. All went home praising the League.

Miss Julia Chastine, Napoleonville, La., while attending the closing exercises of the New Orleans University, was the guest of Misses Stella G. and Rosa A. Seals, of 1023 St. Roch avenue.

The First Street M. E. Church of this city is prospering, as usual, and the pastor, Rev. J. A. Tircuit, and his faithful flock are pushing along all lines to make this the best and most successful year of the present administration in the accomplishment of practical and tangible results. The attendance at the various services has increased at least 40 per cent, and the weekly collections are in keeping with the foregoing facts. Every indication points to a healthy status of things along all lines and speaks well for the future of this great church. Recently the church was organized into several companies for the purpose of raising money on the debt of the church. Rally day, June 25th. They hope to do well, and will, for some of the best and most active members of the church are at the head of this movement.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason, Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, preached at the First Street M. E. Church, this city, last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. A large and appreciative congregation greeted him and with joy and gladness received the message of love and mercy which he bore to them from Him whose character is love and whose property is always to have mercy. The sermon was all that could be desired and made a lasting impression upon all present. A collection was given the Doctor for his Student Fund.

COTTON.

Cotton took a 3-16c rise again on Monday. It is probable that the recent great Japanese naval victory, with its consequent prospect for peace, will have a tendency to keep up the price, as it gives promise of wider and freer markets. 8⅝ was the Monday quotation.

AGENTS WANTED.

Agents wanted to represent a large sick, accident and death benefit society. Big commission contract and choice territory. Ministers and teachers make lots of money working for us. Write for information at once. Address J. W. Cooper, President, Salisbury, Mo.

Field Notes

LOUISIANA.

Bermuda, Prof. James Applesses—Some possess the tact of making friends. This may be rightly said in the case of the Rev. W. J. M. Price, pastor of Asbury church. This is Rev. Price's fourth year with us and tho' this has always been called a hard place to "hold," the reverend feels no weight, for the people received him gladly. This was clearly demonstrated the first Sunday in March, when they turned out in a large body to witness the first services held this year and showed their appreciation by giving an excellent collection, amounting to $20.25. The climax was reached when seven souls came forward and joined the church. Thus Elder Price begins his first service of the fourth year with a splendid collection and seven new souls. If we are to judge from his beginning, we should say that this will be the most successful year's work of his four years.

New Roads and Morganza, R. Jones, Pastor—At Taylor M. E. Chapel we had a good quarterly conference. Rev. J. W. Turner, our presiding elder, preached an able sermon.

Booth and Lee's Creek, A. C. Mitchell, Pastor—Our first quarterly conference was held April 8-9, and we had a pleasant session. Dr. J. F. Marshall was present. The officers were present also with good reports. Paid the elder in full. Sunday morning Rev. Marshall delivered an interesting lecture before the Sunday school. He preached to a crowded house at 11 a. m. Collection, $17.75.

Shreveport, B. M. Hubbard, Pastor—The Grand United Order of Odd Fellows held joint thanksgiving services at St. Paul church Sunday, May 14. Our capacious building was filled to its uttermost capacity. Mr. Eddie Walker was master of ceremonies. Rev. J. H. Martin preached the sermon. Collection, $51.80.

Boyce, W. L. Dyas, Pastor—I have been conducting a revival meeting for 22 days at each of my churches and the results have been wonderful. Sixteen conversions at the Village church and six at the Kynett M. E. Church. All joined my church except three. A surprise party was given the pastor and his family on the 27th of March, led by Bro. Robt. Johnson, Sisters Riptoe, Ada Harris, Isline Kennedy, Miss Eliza Thompson, Ella Hazell, Mr. Ross, Rev. Mrs. Fairfax.

Dennis Mills, La.—Mrs. Mary J. Abram, of New Orleans, 33 years of age, departed this life as a Christian should. She was brought to her home in St. Helena Parish, where she now lies resting. One daughter is left and a host of friends to mourn her going. Rev. J. D. Banks spoke fittingly of her life as a Christian.

Brinkley, Ark.—Sister Hattie Walters departed this life April 23, in full triumph of faith. She leaves a host of relatives, and her brother, Dr. J. C. Sherrill, who is in the Dark Continent, to mourn her loss. The funeral was attended by Rev. R. J. Chrisians and J. W. Whiting.—A. T. STEPHENS.

Editorial

President Roosevelt made a step, looking toward peace in the Far East, but Russia will not consider peace terms at the present state of the war. It would appear that the Japanese, with continuous victory as has been theirs, could keep up the war indefinitely, whatever the resources of Russia may be. The Russians lost in the recent naval battle 10,000, while the Japanese losses did not exceed 800.

It would be proper hereafter in referring to Japan to say "The Greater Japan," not in territory, but from the standpoint of a world view. Japan is a self-lifted nation. It became conscious of its Oriental stupidity and had the courage to adopt Western civilization and possessed original force and individuality sufficient to supplement and increase the measures adopted. Japan may never possess territory in various quarters of the world, nevertheless it is from now henceforth a world power that will hereafter be consulted in international questions and will furnish its share of the world heroes for the inspiration of the young people of all lands.

We have in New Orleans separate street cars; that is, the cars are partitioned with little or no space for colored patrons. The screen is movable. A highly respectable colored woman and daughter recently boarded a car and took seats set apart for "Colored Patrons." As passengers came on the conductor removed the screen further back and asked the colored passengers to sit in a small space little less than a cage. The woman refused, saying she was assigned to the seat she was then occupying and remained in it to the end of her journey. She was arrested, charged with violating the separate car law, placed in prison over night and fined $25. Let it be noticed that she sat in the colored compartment but the conductor later moved the screen, placing her in the white side. What justice! It would be hard to make that woman and many others believe that justice can be had for any colored person.

There is in South Africa "The African White League," quite a contradictory name to start with. When the Boers and the British settled South Africa they were glad enough to get the labor of the natives, but now having dominion of the country and getting rich from its resources, efforts are being made to get rid of the natives. Not satisfied with the exclusion of the native entirely from the suffrage of the South African Colonies, the White League presses its purpose still further and is trying to prevent the importation of Negroes. While there is a class that sympathizes with the purpose and effort of the White League still owners of the gold and diamond mines are anxious for labor to develop their plants and are not concerned as to the color. Is it not a remarkable fact that wherever the Negro is a bone of contention that circumstances arise to force some to take his part, even tho it be for commercial reasons?

THE LIGHT TURNED ON

Much has been said in various sections as to the amount contributed by the South for Negro education, and not infrequently has it been proposed that the taxes should be divided and the sum appropriated for Negro education to equal only the sum of taxes paid by Negroes. The fairest and most unbiased statement that we have read comes from a recent issue of the Morning Post, published in Raleigh, N. C., of which Mr.

REV. W. F. WATERS,
Business Manager Southwestern Christian Advocate

Robert M. Phillips is editor. He is a Southern man. He investigated the case carefully. He speaks with boldness and frankness.

Mr. Phillips takes from the official records of North Carolina for the year 1903-04 the following items: "Total expenditures for Negro country schools, $245,510.44; of this amount $234,625.59 is expended for teachers, $10,221.79 for houses and $663.06 for institutes. The total amount spent in North Carolina for country schools in 1903-04 is $1,515,446.49."

"The Negroes in North Carolina constituted one-third of our total population in 1900; there were, in 1903-04, 683,284 children of school age in North Carolina, 221,545 of whom, nearly one-third, were Negroes. Remembering these facts, note the following:

Total general school taxes levied in 1903, 18c on each $100 poll taxes		$1,296,824 22
Levied on Negro polls	$107,355 82
Levied on Negro property	25,477 10
Add one-third of liquor, railroad and corporation school taxes levied	86,945 94
Total school taxes to be paid by Negroes		219,778 86
Total school taxes to be paid by whites		1,077,045 36
Total amount for Negro country schools		245,510 44
Total amount of taxes paid by Negroes		219,778 86
Excess paid by whites to Negro schools		$25,731 58

"This $25,731.58 divided among 1,263,603 white people, the population in 1900, will give 2.04 cents as the amount actually contributed per capita by the white people of North Carolina during 1903-04 for the education of Negroes in the country districts, or less than nine cents for each of the 290,000 white voters of the state."

Think of it! North Carolina spends on Negro country schools 9 cents per capita for each of the 290,000 white voters, and this 9 cents would be reduced to 2.04 cents if the total excess of $25,731.58 paid by the whites for Negro schools were distributed among the entire white population. If the school taxes had been divided according to total population the Negroes would have received in 1903-04 the sum of $432,274.74 out of the $1,296,824.22 general taxes, for their schools. If the $1,296,824.22 had been divided per capita among the counties according to school population, each child of the 683,284 children of school age would have received $1.90 each. There are 221,545 Negro school children, hence they would have received on the per capita school population basis $420,935.50, somewhat less than they would have received according to total population.

Commenting upon the foregoing facts the Post says:

"But in all phases of the question it will be readily seen that the Negroes are not sharing in the general school taxes according to total population or according to the number of children educated. * * * And furthermore, the figures given above will, or ought to, convince all sober thinking men of the reason why Negro education has not heretofore accomplished its purpose in North Carolina. If Negro public education has been a failure, it lies in the fact that no 221,545 children of any race can be educated effectively for $245,510.44 a year, and no sensible man or woman in any degree acquainted with the cost of good schools can be found who believes such a thing possible with such a pitifully small outlay of money."

This will be unwelcomed by many who are disposed to be unfair, but in this exposition Mr. Phillips has proven the flimsiness of the argument for the division of school funds and that much that is being said in reference to Negro schools being run by taxes paid by others falls flat. As he says, the total cost upon each white voter for Negro education in North Carolina is nine cents.

The Methodist Order of Worship

Bishops Warren and Walden, appointed by the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, to urge in their behalf the use of the Common Order of Public Worship in all our churches, speak as follows:

"The same order of Divine service may now be used each Sabbath in more than forty thousand Methodist Churches in all parts of our land—North, South, East, and West—and other parts of the world. This desirable usage is made possible through the authorized and authoritative preparation of a Common Order of Worship by the joint action of two commissions, one appointed by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and one appointed by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. This Order is in our Discipline and a part of it, and will appear in the Hymnal prepared for the two Methodisms.

"While Methodism was one throughout our country, there was such uniformity in its order of worship. Wherever a Methodist might go he found in the Methodist congregation the service with which he was familiar—the service which made him feel at home. However far the pastor was moved by the itineracy he did not have a new service to learn, and the Bishop on his remotest visits, whether in the city or the country, was not dependent on a prompter in conducting the public service. We may rejoice that the time is at hand when a wholesome uniformity in public worship is being restored to Methodism.

"After this adoption a few individual churches will need to forego some usage which has come to be prized by them, but this will be amply compensated by the advantages in which the millions of Methodists share through the observance of their Common Order of Worship. Where this Order in its extended form is followed, it is found to be both full and rich, combining the best forms of inspiring devotion and all that can be properly observed in the time to which a Methodist service should be limited.

"To secure the widest adaptation the more essential parts of worship are made obligatory, while the others are optional. The obligatory parts, Praise, Prayer, Lessons from the Holy Scriptures, the Offering, and the Sermon, have their place in all Protestant churches, and are vital to a service in which God is to be honored and through which the worshipers are to be spiritually edified and instructed in the truth. These obligatory parts were deemed essential by the fathers of Methodism, and for generations formed the whole of their public worship. These parts, as now arranged, make the simple and beautiful service both helpful and impressive.

"It begins with the singing of a hymn, the people standing, and while so engaged their attention will be least distracted by late-comers. The singing turns thought from the secular to the sacred and prepares the worshipers to share in spirit in the public prayer. This should always close with the Lord's Prayer, in which all should audibly join. By this time the Scripture lessons, distinctly and impressively read, will be heard with a quickened interest. The collection follows these lessons, and the people are prepared to make their free-will offering an act of sincere worship. The second hymn sustains, and, if spiritual, will deepen the devotional feeling, so that when the preacher begins his sermon the congregation both in mind and heart is in a receptive frame.

"The essentials of Divine service, Praise, Prayer, Scripture lessons, free-will Offering, and the exposition of the Word, can have no more effective arrangement than is given in our obligatory Order of Public Worship.

"The optional portions are greatly prized wherever used and they add all the enrichment that is either desirable or can be helpful in a Methodist service. There is no proper place in public worship for aught that is not honoring to Him, who must be worshiped in spirit and in truth. The interest of the congregation is to be enlisted, but no part of the service should be planned solely to enlist this interest. Even the organ voluntary can and should suggest that the presence of God is in the place of worship. The anthem should be pleasing to the people, but it also should make them conscious of its religious and unlifting power.

"Our fuller service is rich and impressive. After the first hymn the people, still standing, repeat the Apostles' Creed, that incomparable summary of the fundamental truths of the Christian religion. With these great truths clearly in mind the worshipers bow in prayer. How real and blessed the privilege of union in public prayer thus becomes! The anthem, if words and music are fitly chosen, will increase the delights of the sanctuary. After the first Scripture lesson, read responsively, read with better effect if the people stand, all join in singing the 'Gloria Patri,' that venerated and joyous strain of praise to the Triune God. They follow the second Scripture lesson, the free-will offering, and the second hymn.

"It requires thirty minutes for the proper observance of this fuller service preceding and leading up to the sermon. The order is logical and meets every purpose of such Divine service. It was planned to give the people the largest opportunity to share directly in the solemn and inspiring acts of worship—in Singing and Prayer, in Creed and Scripture lesson, as well as in free-will Offering, and to give the other parts the most helpful relations to the service as a whole. The Methodist congregation that observes this appointed Order will find no need of anything different and no place for anything more elaborate.

"This Common Order of Worship is Methodistic in origin. It was not created by the Joint Commission, but, like everything important in Methodist usage and polity, it is a development. The essential parts were used in the days of Wesley and Asbury; the modifications and additions have been slowly and carefully reached. We now have the matured form for the expression of the deep, earnest, reverent spirit of worship which animates Methodism. This form is authoritatively established by the two great branches of American Methodism. With a common Catechism and a common Hymnal, with the same doctrines in our sermons and the same evangelistic aims in our movements, it is not only meet, it is providential, that all the congregations of the two communions use the one Methodist Order of Public Worship.

"In behalf of the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"HENRY W. WARREN.
"JOHN M. WALDEN."

Wiley University Commencement

From May 8 to 14 the graduating and closing exercises of the various departments and societies held forth.

The annual love-feast Sunday morning at 10 a. m. was the last gathering of the great student body in a religious meeting of their own. Earnest testimonies were given by the students relating to the wholesome influence under which they had lived during the school year, and expressing their mutual love and good-fellowship.

At eleven the baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. F. F. Fitch. His subject, "Endurance," was well handled and was an uplift to all. At night the annual sermon was preached by Rev. J. O. Williams. Rev. Williams has the happy faculty of drawing his audience into his subject with him and holding their attention to the end.

Monday evening we listened to the program of the Alumni Associataion. Mr. Emmett J. Scott, of Tuskegee, gave the address. Mr. Scott is an alumnus of this institution and was much at home with his old associates, his subject, "Service," and the earnestness of his manner were the delight of the large audience which turned out to hear him.

The annual musicale was rendered Tuesday evening. This program has become a fixed feature of the commencement and with a charge of twenty-five cents the spacious chapel was crowded. The rendition of the "Old Masters," the vocal music and the skillful playing upon various musical instruments comprised the entertainment, which was a treat to all.

Wednesday was commencement proper. At ten o'clock the spacious rostrum was filled with the faculty, the graduates, board of trustees and distinguished visitors.

Dr. D. G. Latshaw, of Cincinnati, made the address to the class. His subject was "Preparation for Service." The doctor is a pleasing and convincing speaker, his counsel to the class was powerful and practical. Those graduating from college were: Miss Ester J. Calvin, of Marshall, Thomas J. Douglas, Liberty, K. W. McMillan, Hainsville, James A. Warren, San Antonio. The Normal graduates: Misses Marie J. Spiller, Fanny Willis, Lucie A. Brown, and Mr. E. H. Holden.

The diplomas were presented and degrees conferred by President Dogan. Dr. Parker of the Board of Trustees then read resolutions from the Board of Trustees, among which were those commending the efficient services of President Dogan and faculty, and one recommending that a suitable cottage be erected at once for the president's family.

Floral offerings and presents completely deluged the graduates and with the benediction by Rev. F. Gary, the greatest commencement of Wiley University passed into history.

Mr. L. H. Williams, alumnus of the institution and a successful merchant, was made member of the Board of Trustees. Mr. Williams had manifested great interest in the welfare of his alma mater by a recent donation of $100 to the musical department. Prof. H. B. Pemberton, class of '88, and Rev. J. I. Gilmore, of Clarksville, were also added to the Board.

One of the special attractions of this commencement was the new electric and power plant run by the students, which furnished the brilliant electric illumination for the buildings and grounds.

Extirpation of the Congo African for the Sake of Monestary Gain

By J. W. Jackson, A. B.

The Stewart Missionary Foundation for frica in Gammon Theological Seminary pro- ides prizes for oratorical contests and contests n hymn writing for schools of the Freedman's id Society. Mr. J. W. Jackson entered the ocal contest at New Orleans University and won he first prize. His oration was then submitted o the judges at Gammon Theological Seminary nd he was awarded the first prize over orations ubmitted by all colleges and universities. A rare onor. We print below the oration in full.)

The individual or nation who puts stress upon alue as the chief end of happiness, or makes utility the bases of right or with the true con- cience blinded, presses forward for personal ain, living in the world and of the world, and aking away all means, or at least hindering other ndividuals of attaining unto the realization of he rational self, demonstrates that the true light as not yet shown forth in his intellectual and noral faculties.

All human beings have a right handed down rom the one Supreme Being; that right is the ight to life. Having life, the necessary obli- ation of protecting life evolves itself from the bligation. Life is the one necessity without which all efforts cease. This right and obligation re often overshadowed by motives of various orms. Sometimes it is ambition, love for con- uest, personal value, or monetary gain for in- ividual or nation.

Sing Achilles in strains unmistakeable and ag- regate the exact number of lives of noble reeks sent to the gods below, to avenge thy wrongs. Explore, by excavation around the ase of the snow-capped Alps, and find if you can o your undoubted belief, just how many human eings, with the image of God stamped upon hem, were dashed to death over the precipices n to the gorges below. Visit the battle at the Bride of Lodi and other places that were covered with blood and won by Napoleon the First, and each some conclusion if you can as to the pre- mium placed upon human life at that period.

The pendulum of thought oscillates between he philosophers of this day and the philosophers rom the time of Thales to Johannes Scotus. They searched for light when there was no rue light. Do we censure the deeds of those who lived and died without the true light? Hu- man depression and extirpation of human life s an awful thing in all ages. Can it be possible o find among any of the nations which lay laim to the most ancient civilization oppression f helpless humanity for the sake of personal ain? I will appeal to you and the civilized world for an impartial investigation of the con- ditions as now existing in the Congo Free State; he direct result of the autocratic government s administered by King Leopold the Second. When Dr. Stanley emerged from the mouth of he Congo, King Leopold hastened into a confer- nce with him. The result was the association f King Leopold"s scheme; the stati of which as to promote legitimate trade of all nations, o guarantee peace and liberty to all the natives, r, in a word, the amelioration of society and he expansion of the human faculties of the tives.

On these terms, King Leopold applied to the ivilized world for recognition. The United States, ever anxious to be generous was the first o recognize the association as the Congo Free State, and in a conference at Berlin, the civilized nations of Europe followed. Thus the flag of Leopold floated over that part of Africa now known as the Congo Free State, and twenty mil- lions of people and one half a million of square miles of land were handed over into the hands of an absolute monarch. Forty years have pass- ed and the light dawns upon the so-called phil- anthropic efforts and reveals obviously a degrad- ed and oppressed humanity.

I say peace and liberty were guaranteed. Peace, that state of quietness, tranquillity, freedom from disturbance or agitation, was guaranteed. Lib- erty, which can mean nothing in this sense other than a free access to all those means which en- able one to attain unto perfection, the supreme end of humanity, was guaranteed.

There was a time when efforts on the part of the part of the natives were not necessary. The soil produced the means of their existence. They seem to have been living happily and contented, and evidently in a better condition than after the white men of Europe or Belgium set foot upon the soil of the Free State. The rule of the King took from the native the wealth of his native land and the incentive he might have had to learn the benefits of the natural resources of his soil and the exchanging of these for the pro- ducts of civilization. In the place of developing the latent powers and giving the natives a greater ambition and greater incentives to appreciate the value of the natural resources of his native land, the King took them away. All lands have been declared the property of the State. The privi- lege of gathering rubber and ivory and giving them in exchange for the products of civilization have been denied them; and the King declares that those who receive such products from the natives are thieves. Under such conditions labor on the part of the natives ceased and justly so.

The necessary consequence was forced labor; for unless the native could be compelled to gather the rubber and ivory the reasons for the Bel- gians' stay in the Congo Free State was ended. Within the last eight or ten years the barbarities practised upon helpless men, women and chil- dren have brought about a great discussion among the thinking class of people. I am anxious that the world shall know of these conditions. According to Mr. Morrell, an army greater than England, France, Germany, and Western Africa combined are quartered upon the population. Imagine such a condition. Cannibals are armed with repeating rifles and quartered upon the pop- ulation and placed over human souls for the purpose of compelling them to the imposed duty of gathering rubber and ivory. Women, help- less women, are chained in gangs, and to add insult to injury, are guarded by night and by day. Wherefore, to compel their husbands to bring in the requisite amount of rubber, ivory and breadstuff.

Visit the sections of Africa beyond Stanley Pool and every place where Belgium has dele- gated its powers to the rubber companies, and mark the rapid decrease in population. The white people who are subjected to these tasks, seek refuge in suicide. Fathers shot down, mothers separated from their beloved children and the children are killed with the muzzles of the guns, cut into suitable pieces and eaten. The natives are compelled to take refuge in for- ests and there, subjected to the attacks of rav- enous beasts, lie concealed in the grass three and four days and often perish for want of food and drink. When you ride the streets upon your bicycles with the tires made of rubber, and when you notice the tires of the automobile pass upon your streets, think possibly that that very rub- ber cost a human soul. You ask why the gov- ernment does not put an end to such barbarities? I answer, King Leopold is the government. His rule in the Congo Free State is an absolute mon- archy. The premium which he puts upon human life, according to his idea, is rubber and ivory. Who gave to this one man such absolute rule? It was the United States, then the civilized na- tions of Europe assembled in a conference at Berlin.

In the British Museum, you find bricks with the name of Rameses the Second stamped upon them, which shows the oppression of the Israel- ites and the inhuman character of the oppressor. You know of the ten plagues, but I will declare unto you that the tasks placed upon these natives of the Congo is far greater than either of these. Can such crimes be possible since God has set the standard of the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God? If there be need for mercy and help, does it not find some place among the heathen? But the natives are perishing as if some great pestilence were sweeping over the country.

Aside from the results of the government as manifested upon the native is there another side? In all monarchies, barbarism may be found. In absolute monarchies violence and force predom- inate. In good governments, both civil and re- ligious, two standards predominate; the first, a good system for formation and organization of authority; the second, a good system for securi- ties for liberty. Neither of these elements is found in the government of the Congo Free State. Do the actions of Belgium in the Congo Free State reflect upon the plenipotentiaries? Is it possible for an individual or nation to oppress another without the character of the oppressor becoming stained and both dragged down to- gether?

"The changeless laws of justice
Bind up oppressor and oppressed;
And close as sin and suffering join
We march to fate abreast."

Blessed lines of Whittier! Is it not possible for Europe or the white man in Europe to set a better example for the Negroes in Africa? Yet let us not become discouraged, but let us hope for a better day when an impartial investigation shall be made and the evil recompensed, and the sun of liberty and peace shall shine forth in its resplendent beauty. The Congo Reform Asso- ciation is hot in pursuit of the cruelties now trav- eling throughout the Congo Free State. Last April the first memorial was presented to Con- gress; since January the 15th, 1905, three memo- rials concerning the conditions now existing in the Free State have been presented to Con- gress. One has been recently presented to Con- gress signed by 120 of the leading brains and morals in America. Furthermore, these ques- tions are discussed in the Belgian Parliament at the present day.

The Russian, to avenge his wrongs, appeals to his dynamite; the Indian to his tomahawk; the Japanese to his men-of-war, and the Cuban to revolution; but the Negro has taken the right side, and to right his wrongs, he appeals to his midnight groans, his prayers, and his fixed faith in the justness of his cause. Thus we hear no- thing from the native himself, but with their faces turned towards the risen sun of civilization, with outstretched hands, they look and wait and pray for the deliverance which they have been told would come.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Cross Before Crown

Sick and despondent, weary of life,
Tired of its heartaches, sorrow, and strife;
Longing for rest, but finding no peace;
Looking toward death as a happy release.

Cease thy complaining, sad soul of mine,
Accept without murmuring the lot which is thine;
Remember the Saviour—the road that He trod;
Know ye not that these trials lead upward to God?

Remember the mocking; remember the jeers,
The thorn-crown, the scourging, the thick-falling tears;
Remember the cross, the nails, and the spear,
The anguish, the blood-sweat, the grave, lone and drear.

'Tis thus that the Lord with a love most benign
Hath sanctified suffering and made it divine;
So therefore, my soul, murmur not, nor complain,
But rejoice o'er the sorrows, and count them as gain.

After the storm are the sunshine and flowers;
After the darkness dawn life's brightest hours;
After the tears come gladness and joy;
Of what value is gold if unmixed with alloy?

Then, onward and upward, my soul, till the end,
To the duty before thee thine energies bend;
Be honest, be upright, be noble, be brave—
'Tis the soul of a coward would hide in the grave.

For if at the last the crown thou wouldst wear,
It must be through suffering, sorrow, and care.
It is through the cross we transcend unto life,
That peace which is sweetest comes after the strife.

—J. Frederick Bishop, in The Living Church.

Praying and Doing

Some Christians do not seem to really understand the truth that praying and doing are very closely related to each other, when one does his whole duty. The sick person who prays that God will restore him to health is under obligation to do all that he can to help himself to recover. It is his duty to employ such means as are adapted to cure him. If he be very ill, then he ought to secure the services of a competent doctor. To merely pray for restoration to health is a presumption which God does not favor. Then, too, he who prays that he may be continued in good health should be careful to obey the laws of health. He should live temperately. He should avoid taking rash risks. Let him keep out of cold draughts. It is as much his duty to thus guard his health as it is for him to pray. The editor of the Sunday School Times says: "The sooner that we learn that if a man has the hardihood to defy the laws of God, it is he who suffers, and not they, the better it will be for us all. We pray glibly for a revelation from God, and here is one of the plainest and most undeniable revelations that man can ever hope to receive. Yet every month Christian men defy it repeatedly and deliberately. How can we hope to be happy if we defy the great and beneficent laws of God?" There are many Christians who say that they greatly honor God by exercising so strong a faith in Him that they will not use any medicine when they are sick; but such a kind of faith dishonors God. Such a person sets his own terms on which he demands God's favor. Why did Christ give orders to certain diseased ones to use a particular means, in connection with his own gracious power? For one reason, if no other, that the afflicted one might learn the lesson that prayer and means are designed to work together. When you pray that God will send out his gospel into all parts of the world, it is your duty to give some money to help hurry on the good tidings. Be careful how you pray. C. H. WETHERBE.

Why Thou Hast Shut the Door, Pray

Lord, I have shut my door,
Shut out life's busy cares and fretting noise;
Here in this silence they intrude no more. Speak
Thou, and heavenly joys
Shall fill my heart with music sweet and calm,—
A holy psalm.

Yes, I have shut my door
Even on all the beauty of Thine earth—
To its blue ceiling from its emerald floor, filled with spring's bloom and mirth;
From these Thy works I turn, Thyself I seek.
To Thee I speak.

And I have shut my door
On earthly passion,—all its yearning love,
Its tender friendships, all the priceless store of human ties. Above
All these my heart aspires. O Heart Divine!
Stoop thou to mine.

Lord, I have shut my door!
Come Thou and visit me; I am alone!
Come as when doors were shut Thou cam'st of yore and visited'st Thine own.
My Lord! I kneel with reverent love and fear,
For thou art here!

Faith and Reason

There are many persons who will not believe in the things of God because they cannot comprehend all. They will not exercise the divine gift of faith because to do so seems to go counter to what they are pleased to call their reason. They willingly accept many facts of their daily lives without question, although it baffles their reason to understand them. Now, the facts of the spiritual life are just as real as, and no more mysterious than, those of the natural life. Why, then, should we accept one and reject the other? It is to the spiritually-minded that the mysteries of the kingdom are revealed; and in proportion as one comes into spiritual sympathy with God he comes into a knowledge of God and of the things of God.

The true plan is to believe in God and in Jesus Christ whom He has sent, and going forward on the strength of that belief, and living in accordance with it, to trust Him for illumination concerning the things of the spirit. But to reject all because we cannot grasp all is fatal to growth in the spiritual life. It is very much as if a thirsty traveler passing through a desert were to come suddenly upon an oasis, and, because he could not uncover the source of the water supply, should refuse to quench his thirst. To do this is folly, but it is very much the same as many people do in relation to their religious natures. They will not eat and be satisfied because they do not understand the mystery of the spiritual bread; they will not drink because they cannot disclose the source of the Water of Life. It may be well for us to heed this exhortation of a great poet:

"Drain the sufficient drop and praise what checks
The drouth that glues thy tongue—what more would help
A brimful cistern? Ask the cistern's boon
When thou would'st solace camels; in thy case
Relish the drop and love the lovable."

If We Knew

Could we look beyond the portals of the hearts wh near us beat,
See the noble purpose baffled by the wayward, straying feet,
Could we but discern the motive, though the work deeds seem few,
We might cease our swift condemning, if we knew.

If we knew the secret anguish, when the life seem full of joy,
Could we see the glittering teardrop 'neath the steel
flashing eye,
Could we count the wounds we give them—hearts tender, faint, but true—
Ah! we never would be cruel, if we knew.

Could we find the golden moments we have lost pride and scorn,
If we knew the souls o'erwhelmed with burdens the
we might have borne,
Could we see them, faint and fallen, when we might have helped them through,
We could only shrink and cower, if we knew.

If we knew what joy and blessing we might bring souls distressed,
If we knew how we could lead them to the Master
peace and rest,
Could we learn what he would teach us—to be gentle
wise, and true,
Yes, ah, yes, we'd be more like him, if we knew!

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, 4. 4.

Text—Matt. 10:8. Theme—Divine comman concerning giving.

I.

All men are willing to receive good thing but all are not willing to give good things un others. There is a large bulk of selfishness i man. Man has nothing but what has been give to him, and has no more in his possession that h can call his own, than the birds of the air, th grass of the field, or the ox of the stall. Th text has but little reference to money. The di ciples of Jesus had but little money. Jesus ha given them the gift of healing the sick, cleansi the lepers, raising the dead, and casting ou devils, and He would thus instruct them not t use these miraculous gifts in seeking to make gain of their advantage, for the gifts of God ar all freely bestowed upon man, and are not to b used for selfish ends and ungodly purposes.

The command to give freely applies to every good gift. It applies to man's knowledge o things, his influence over creatures, to all hi possessions of talent and money, and to all of hi time in its twofold nature now and forever more

The divine purpose of God in freely bestowing all the blessings of this life upon man is, tha others might enjoy them through him; that man himself may fully understand that all he has he holds only as trustee; that all might know that God at all times condemns the worldly fashion of giving by rule and measure; that each might recognize this truth: "The workman is worthy of his meat;" that all men might ponder over the tremendous fact, "The earth is the Lord's, etc."; that each man might ever set before him this startling statement, "We brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out;" that man might seek to know thoroughly this question, "Will a man rob God?" Man to whom all things have been freely given, ha robbed God, the giver of every good and perfect gift, of all in his vast storehouse of innumerable and valuable riches, by withholding from Him what is his by rights invested in himself.

New York Letter

By L. H. Smith.

Nearly $10,000 was raised at a mass meeting of e Colored Men's Branch of the Young Men's hristian Association at Carnegie Hall, on May The building was well filled when the exerses commenced at half-past two o'clock in the fternoon. The chairman of the branch, Rev. r. William H. Brooks, pastor of St. Mark's . E. Church, introduced the presiding officer, Ir. W. H. Sage. The speakers were Bishop H. Potter, Dr. Booker T. Washington and Bishop lexander Walters. Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan ontributed $500 and the balance was in pledges nd cash money.

The general association has agreed to duplicate very dollar that the branch raises before July "Preventive methods are the best," said Bishp Potter, in beginning his address. "And there s none more preventive than that which recogizes the isolation of a young man of whatever lass or color. Less and less does it become easy or a young man to relate himself to the domestic ife. Less and less is our modern social life rganized on a basis which enables us to bring urselves easily into contact with the lives of thers. If we really knew what the people of he so-called 'dark ages' were, we would know hat they were far above us in this respect."

Dr. Washington was the next speaker, and he was greeted with cheers and waving of handkerhiefs. After complimenting the people on their ine appearance, he said:

"I have always been proud of my race and I m prouder of it this afternoon than ever before. No temptation, were it physically possible, could make me become a Japanese, a Chinaman, an Enlishman or any other but an American Negro. I am told by Mr. Jerome, the District Attorney of your city, that the colored people here are a most eputable element. I am glad to see that this rganization has the confidence, the sympathy nd the active support of the Christian ministry f the city. The best thing about this organizaion is that it concerns itself with the Negro's ody as well as his soul. And somehow I believe hat if you take care of your body the Lord will ttend to the soul. The great trouble is with he Negro's body. Everybody believes that the Negro will be saved and that his soul has an eternal abiding place, but the trouble is with his ody. This organization makes a young man keep in good trim. And unless the Negro young man keeps a strong and vigorous body he cannot hope to compete with the rest of the people in this or any other city. You cannot sit up at a card game in a saloon all night and hold your job long."

The A. M. E. Zion Church Conference was held here last week at Mother Zion Church, West 80th street. Bishop Hood presided. The sessions lasted five days, from Wednesday to Monday. Dr. Booker T. Washington spoke on the opening night, and the Hon. J. C. Dancey was another distinguished guest.

Division of the Deaconess Work

The Board of Managers of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, at their late annual meeting in Denver, took most important action relative to its Deaconess work.

This branch of its activities was organized under the direction of Miss Jane M. Bancroft (now Mrs. Geo. O. Robinson), following the annual meeting of the society in Boston, October, 1888, and it has grown in the sixteen years intervening to such large proportions as to make impracticable the administration of its administration under one Bureau.

Mrs. Robinson, the Secretary, asked to be relieved of the heavy responsibilities of the Secretaryship, and in consequence upon her recommendation, five new Deaconess Bureaus and one Standing Committee were formed from the present work. Able and effective women, who have had experience in the administration of deaconess institutions were appointed as Secretaries of these five new Bureaus. These are to be known as the Eastern, Central, Western and Pacific Bureaus, the Bureau for Colored Deconess Work, and the Committee for National Training Schools.

The Eastern Deaconess Bureau will include the Homes at Portland, Me.; Rensselaer, near Albany, and Brooklyn, N. Y.; Jersey City and Newark, N. J.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Washington, D. C.; the Deaconess' Home and Mt. Tabor Institutional Building, Baltimore, Md.; the stations at Mt. Carmel, Pa., and other points near the Atlantic seaborad. The Secretary for this Bureau is Mrs. W. L. Boswell, 644 N. 32nd street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Central Deaconess Bureau will include the Homes at Buffalo, N. Y.; Pittsburg, Pa.; Cleveland, Columbus, Bridgeport and Toledo, Ohio; the Deaconess Home and Tillman Avenue Mission, at Detroit, Mich.; the Deaconess Orphanage at Urbana, Ill.; the institution at Grand Rapids, Mich., and the Deaconess Stations at Indianapolis, Ind; Knoxville, Tenn.; Marion and Fostoria, Ohio; Warren, DuBois and Franklin, Pa., and Bay City, Mich. The Secretary of this Bureau is Mrs. D. A. Minard, 619 Bird Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Western Deaconess Bureau includes the institutions at Keokuk, DesMoines and Sioux City, Iowa, the local work at Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kansas, the Deaconess Home, Wichita, Kansas; Denver Deaconess Home, the Sanitarium at Colorado Springs, Colo., the Deaconess Station at East St. Louis, and stations in all the cities west of the Mississippi River as far as the western boundary of Colorado. The Secretary for the Western Deaconess Bureau is Mrs. John W. Bush, 2762 Charlotte Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

The Deaconess work of Utah, including Davis Deaconess Home, Salt Lake City, and stations at Provo and Maroni, has for some years been administered by the Bureau for Utah and will still remain under its care.

The Bureau for the Pacific Coast will consist of all the deaconess work upon the coast, the local work at San Francisco and Portland, Ore., Los Angeles Deaconess Home, stations in different localities, and such other work as may develop west of Utah. The Secretary for this Bureau is Mrs. John Stevens, Stockton, Calif.

These Homes and institutions, numbering about forty, have a value of more than $612,000. Included in the work are 450 deaconesses and deaconess probationers.

Mrs. Jane Bancroft Robinson retains the chairmanship of the committee having charge of the National Training Schools at Washington, Kansas City and San Francisco.

Miss Henrietta A. Bancroft was made General Superintendent of the entire work, and continues her efficient service as the Field Secretary, with headquarters at the Book Concern Building, 21 East Adams Avenue, Detroit, Michigan, to which all deaconess correspondence for the Woman's Home Missionary Society should hereafter be addressed.

The Deaconess work of the Woman's Home Missionary Socity is one of the large divisions of the deaconess work of Methodism, all of which is under the general direction of the Board of Bishops acting as the General Deaconess Board.

"Except the Lord build the house they labor in vain that build it." With hearts filled with gratitude to the All-wise Father for His guiding, beneficent Providence, the society consummated these divisions, which it is believed will tend to the still greater efficiency of this noble service.

Tuskegee Commencement

The twenty-fourth annual commencement exercises of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute closed May 25. Eighty-three students were graduated from the academic department. At the same time 113 students were given trade certificates, indicating that they have done the work intended to fit them for one of the thirty-seven trades and industries taught here. Of the eighty-three graduates, fifty-four received both diplomas and trade certificates. The total number of individuals receiving diplomas and trade certificates today is 142.

Of the native born students there were 23 States and Territories represented among the graduates. Of this number 22 were from Alabama and 12 from Georgia. Six of the graduates, however, were foreigners who have come to the United States to study. Among these one was from Porto Rico, one from British Honduras, two from the Bahama Islands and one other from Jamaica.

The total number of students enrolled during the past year in all departments of the school was 1,504. In this number 36 States and Territories were represented. Of the foreign students 11 were from Africa, 5 from Central America, 19 from Cuba, 15 are from Porto Rico, 2 from San Domingo, 2 from Hayti, 8 from Jamaica and 6 from other islands in the West Indies.

The commencement exercises began last Sunday, when Rabbi A. J. Messing, of Montgomery, Ala., delivered the commencement sermon.

Monday, May 22, were held the twelfth anniversary exercises of the Phelps Hall Bible Training School. The annual address was made by Rev. P. Jas. Bryant, D. D., pastor of the Wheat Street Baptist Church, Atlanta, Ga.

Four students of the Bible Training School were given certificates, signifying that they had completed a three-years' course of Bible study. One of these was from Jamaica.

Wednesday afternoon the exercises of the Agricultural and Industrial departments took place. These exercises, which were instituted eleven years ago, have always proven one of the most interesting features of commncement week, because of the practical demonstrations with which students illustrate their talks. This year one young woman, Salina King, of Tuskegee, Ala., showed an audience of students and visitors how to make a loaf of bread according to scientific principles, giving a history with a practical demonstration, of the whole chemistry of bread making. Another young woman, Marie Eugenia Rodriguez, of Bayoman, Porto Rico, showed in a similar manner the process of making Cheddar cheese. DeWitt Howard, Tuskegee, Ala., illustrated, by means of diagrams reenforced with examples of the different types of machinery, the methods of overcoming some of the ordinary difficulties of cotton culture. Sarance Hardaway Darden, of Villarica, Ga., in a similar way illustrated the manner in which the school has applied the principles of science to the art of making bricks.

The commencement address was delivered today by Rev. C. T. Walker, D. D., of Augusta, Ga.

The graduate address was delivered by William Carter of the class of 1893.

The students took a prominent part in the exercises today, and not the least interesting and instructive addresses were made by members of the graduating class.

The titles of some of these addresses indicate the direction of thought and the sort of intellectual training that students acquire in the school.

Samuel J. Willoughby, Meadowview, Va., made the subject of his address, "Two Plantations—A Contrast in Agricultural Methods;" Sebron Edwards, of Demopolis, Ala., spoke on "The Economy of Slave Labor." Martella M. York, of Springfield, Ill., discussed "Plantation Home Life, Past and Present." Elizabeth E. Thompson, of College Hill, O., described a "Plantation School." Walter Ardel Brown, of Greenville, Ala., sketched "The Evolution of the Negro Farmer."

One of the most interesting addresses of the day was that of Charles Hilton Weir, of Nassau, New Providence, B. W. I., who has not only shown himself a first-class student, but a keen observer and student of conditions in the Southern States. Mr. Weir was valedictorian of his class.

Among the visitors from abroad who attended the closing exercises today was a party of business men from Atlanta, headed by J. E. Wooten, general passenger agent of the Atlanta & West Point Railway.

The exercises closed with a few remarks from Principal Washington, and the distribution of diplomas.

The number of students who have graduated and received trade certificates from the school at Tuskegee since its foundation amounts now to 888.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson XII—June 18, 1905. Title—"The Heavenly Home." (Rev. 22: 1-22.) Golden Text.—"To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with Me on my throne." (Rev. 3: 21.)

I. The New Jerusalem. (1-5). I. Synopsis of chapter twenty-one. In these verses we have the conclusion of the vision of the new heaven and new earth. This vision begins with the first verse of the previous chapter, and gives a description of the church after the last judgment. The Bible, which opens with the fall of man, closes with his final restoration; with Paradise regained. In this vision we have the descent of the New Jerusalem to the new earth 1-4; the divine announcement of its blessedness and condition 5-8; the description of the New Jerusalem, the capital of this new earth 9-27; and the river and tree of life.

2. The river of life. (V. 1). Water of life means living, or running water, like a spring fountain. It is just the reverse of a stagnant pool. The allusion here is likely to the first Eden where a river watered the garden. As this is the second Eden, it was natural to introduce a river of water, yet in such a way as to accord with the future abode of the redeemed. The river does not spring up from the ground, but proceeds out of the throne of God, and of the Lamb. Perhaps the writer had in his mind the description of Ezekiel 47:112, where a stream issued from under the temple and parted in different directions. In the east such fountains and running streams constitute an essential part of enjoyment and prosperity. Here the river is an emblem of peace, plenty, and happiness. The fact that it flows from the throne shows that all the joys of heaven proceed from God.

3. The tree of life (V. 2). In the midst of the street of this river, and on either side of it, was there the tree of life. From the front of the throne goes forth a very broad street. The river cleaves the street lengthwise into two long strips. There is a breadth of the street on either side of th river in which the tree of life grows in rows. Some think that in the streets of the city, as well as on the banks of the river, was the tree of life planted: that everywhere it abounded. The idea in the mind of the writer is that of an Eden where all is combined to constitute beauty and happiness. This tree of life was one in kind, but many in numbers. It abounds throughout the city: was the common tree in this blessed Paradise. The tree of life will not produce twelve manner, but twelve crops of fruit, or twelve fruit,harvests. One for each month of the year. The idea is abundance, not variety. The fruit is the ambrosia, and the river furnishes the nectar. "The leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations." They contribute life and health to those who had been diseased with the malady of sin. We are not to suppose there will be sickness, and a healing process in heaven. But the life and health of that blessed world will be results of the tree of life.

4. Some additional facts about this city. (1) "There shall be no more curse." The curse pronounced on man by the fall will be in heaven unknown. The earth will be no more cursed, and will no more produce thorns and thistles; man will be no more compelled to earn his bread by the sweat of his face; woman will be no more doomed to bear the sufferings which now come upon her; and the race will be no more with sickness, sorrow, tears and death. (2) "The throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in" this city. God will reign there forever, and the principles of purity and love which the Lamb came to establish will pervade that blessed abode to all eternity. It will be the delight of all who are in heaven to serve God day and night; all the time. They shall see his face, or be constantly in his presence, and forever behold his glory. His name shall be in their foreheads; they shall be designated as his. (3) "There shall be no night there." This city did not need the sun, or the moon, or gas, or electricity to light it. Yet no earthly city was ever lighted half so well. The glory of God and of the Lamb are the light of it. The glory of God is that intolerable brightness in which He is shrouded, and on which mortal eyes cannot look and live. Artificial light is not needed in heaven.

II. A part of the conclusion of this book. (6-11). The main purposes of the vision are accomplished; the church is triumphant; the affairs of earth are wound up; the redeemed are received into heaven; the wicked are cut off; the earth is purified; and the affairs of earth are fixed on their permanent foundation.

1. The affirmation of the angel. (6-7). This is the angel that had shown John the vision of the New Jerusalem. He assures John that all these things are true. All that had been revealed to him by symbols, or otherwise, is fact, and will come true. The God that inspired the prophets, whose predictions John knew to be true, had sent his angel to reveal these things to John, and through him to the world. The angel revealed "things which must shortly occur." Some of them were fulfilled soon after they were recorded, others were fulfilled centuries later, while others reach far into the distant future. The words: "I come quickly," were undoubtedly spoken by the Redeemer, but are here repeated by the angel. They mean that Jesus will soon return to judge the world, that his reward will be with Him, and that all will be blessed who keep the "saying of the prophecy of this book."

2. The effect of this vision on John. (8-9). He saw the parts that were displayed by pictures, visions and symbols, and heard the parts that were spoken. They overcame him. He fell at the feet of the angel, as though he would worship him. He may have mistaken the angel for the Messiah, yet this is only supposable. The angel said to him, "See thou do it not." This is an absolute prohibition to worship angels or saints. This angel was of "thy brethren the prophets." He appeared to John in the general rank of the prophets, and was no more entitled to worship than they. He, like the prophets, was employed to reveal the future to man. He kept the "sayings of this book;" he was one of God's creatures, and was under the same great religious principles that are binding alike on men and angels. We worship God in songs, prayers, gospel, Scriptures, etc.

3. The command: "Seal not the sayings of this book." It is the angel speaking, and the book of Revelations is referred to. Isaiah and Daniel were commanded to seal their prophecies, because they related to far-distant times. But those spoken by John began immediately, and reached to the end of time. The scenes of persecution were soon to open upon the church. It was important that it should have access to thsse prophecies of the final triumph of Christianity to sustain it in its trials.

5. The fixed state of the righteous and of the wicked. (11). This no doubt refers to scenes beyond the judgment. It cannot mean this life for here there is nothing fixed. It was proper to declare, at the close of revelation, that all who were then righteous would remain so forever, and that none who were then wicked would ever change their character or condition. The unjust are those who offend against equity or justice. They violate higher laws but will not stoop to base things. The filthy are those who offend against chastity and decency; the sensual, corrupt, vile. The righteous are those who are just an upright. They stand in contrast to those who are unjust. The holy are those who are pure in heart and life. They stand in contradistinction to the filthy. The unjust and righteous are near the line between good and bad, while the filthy and the holy are farther apart.

Lesson Topic June 18.

Minor Moralities

Scripture Reference: Eph. 4, 25-32.

The Word—Our lesson from Ephesians is a catalogue of the more common vices of life and an exhortation to shun them. Minor moralities are only minor because less emphasized. There are no little sins. Sin is hateful to God and deadly in its nature. There are no minor moralities in the sense of less important, but there are some which are more likely than others to be considered as trivial or unnecessary, but which are among the very important elements of a Christian character. Among them are those enumerated in our lesson: the avoidance of lying, anger, stealing, ribaldry, and brawling. It is not surprising when you consider the prevalence of these vices among heathen nations that they should have crept into the early Christian church. Not only does the apostle rebuke these vices, but he commends the opposite virtues, tenderness, and forgiveness. A careful attendance to little faults and little virtues is necessary to the building up of a model Christian character.

Our Homily: Danger of Little Sins.—Strictly speaking there are none such. But sins which are common and vices that are winked at are looked upon differently from gross and violent sins. To kill is murder, but to be angry at a brother is thought trivial, though the Scriptures say he who is so disposed toward his brother is a "murderer." To violate chastity is criminal, but to "look with lust" is thought an insignificant matter. But our lesson calls attention to some minor moralities and immoralities. No sin ought to be thought of minor importance. Some good reasons can be alleged why this is so.

Little Sins Indicate a Wrong Heart. The speck on the apple indicates the worm at the core. The angry word, the profane jest, the unclean story indicate the corruption within. Often a word will reveal character like a flash of lightning in a dark night. The "minor" moralities indicate major qualities. The depraved nature, the wrong spirit, is shown out in the little act and the unguarded speech.

Little Sins Open the Way to Larger Ones. No man begins with murder and theft. He has practiced long in the school of deceit, anger, pilfering, and prevaricating. A lie leads to swearing; a secret sin leads to others to cover that one up. A young man hypothecates a trust fund; to cover that up he lies, he steals more, he may even kill to cover up his tracks. How often is one hurried on from a small sin to a large one. How often the small beginning ends in ruin and disgrace. How easy to allow the character to become honeycombed with deceit, hypocrisy, and ruin, all because one has been led on from one immorality to a larger one.

Some Little Sins Result Disastrously. It was only a glass of wine; but it led one to be a drunkard. It was only a bad book; but it smirched the soul and defiled the imagination. It was only a sinful pride, but it led to theft and crime. One little deviation from the path of rectitude may be the switch which will turn the whole train of life on to the side track. Minor moralities are important. Little sins are dangerous. They need forgiveness and may destroy the soul just as surely as bigger ones. Beware of them! Keep the heart right and pure. Only thus can we keep right with God.

Watch—

The lips—that they speak the truth
The heart—lest it harbor sinful anger.
The hands—that they touch no unclean thing.
The thoughts—that they keep pure and clean.
The life—that it be absolutely sincere.

Board of Education

To the Pastors of Methodism:

Will the pastors north, east, south and west give careful attention to the Children's Day collections this year? The demand upon the funds of the Society is greater than ever before. Last year the Board of Education distributed in round numbers $100,000 among the educational institutions of the church to be loaned to their student bodies. At the annual meeting in December the Board voted to increase this sum the coming year to $110,000. Hence, the necessity of an advance in our Children's Day collections. The well being of multitudes of struggling young people, as well as of our institutions in a good measure, depends upon the faithfulness of the pastors in looking after these interests.

Data concerning the work of the Board have been sent to all the pastors. The February number of The Christian Student contains important facts. The May number, which has just been sent out from the office, will be very helpful to the pastors. It gives much valuable information concerning the ideals and purposes of Children's Day as an institution in the Church.

We should be especially pleased if our friends would push the Honor Roll of one dollar subscribers to the fund, as this gives us an opportunity to circulate The Christian Student, and thus to keep the people informed as to the work of our Board. We earnestly hope that the day may be an inspiration throughout the Church.

EDWARD G. ANDREWS, President.
WILLIAM F. ANDERSON, Cor. Secty.

Christian Education

To the Young People of Methodism.

I appeal to our young people everywhere to form at once an unwavering determination to secure an education. The time was when the college was for the favored few, but now, thank God, it is for all. In this day of the general dissemination of knowledge therel is absolutely no excuse for ignorance. The college is within reach of the poorest Methodist young person in the land, provided that young person has a spirit of enterprise and self-denial.

The determination to secure a college education having been formed, it then becomes vitally important to make a wise selection of the institution which you will enter. I have not a moment's hesitation in saying that Methodist young people should go to Methodist institutions. A distinguished educator was heard to remark some time ago that "a man in the university must fight to keep his soul alive." Doubtless that is true of some universities, but it cannot be true of a university which embodies the ideals of our own church. Our educational ideals are the Christian ideals. We believe in the broadest and most accurate scholarship, but we believe also that the atmosphere of an educational institution should be genial and helpful to the soul's development Godward.

I earnestly bespeak for Methodism your deepest love and loyalty. Born of the Spirit of God in nEgland's greatest university Methodism's line has gone out through all the earth and its words to the end of the world. The Christian centuries have produced no more powerful, no more redemptive, agency. What the Protestantism of to-day would have been without the leavening touch of our beloved church it is hard to conceive. It is worth while to be identified with a movement which has developed such a history, such a spirit, and such a power. And it is worth while to be loyal to it.

Young people, wake up! Face collegeward! This message is for every young Methodist in America. We want to help you to a life of larger vision and larger service. We trust this simple word may bring a new thought to many of your minds as to the possibility of your own life and send a thousand of you (who may never have dreamed that a college training was possible for you) to the institutions of our beloved church at the opening of the coming fall term.

With best wishes for all, I am sincerely,

WILLIAM F. ANDERSON, Cor. Secty.

To Conference Claimants

After seven years of silence, the work for the Veterans to which I gave seven years, has been resumed. The call to this work was of God. The call from it was of men; although they were the wisest of men, I know now they were wrong. The way has been opened Providentially for me to support my family by my week-day work. I can give my pen and my Sundays to this cause as a labor of love without compensation. The continued confidence and co-operation of veteran ministers is solicited. Any facts or incidents of your lives or the lives of others that will help stir and spur the conscience of the church to its Christian duty will be used confidentially. The time is not far distant when the Golden Rule can be adopted by the Annual Conference. This will insure you not merely the affection of the lips which wastes itself in empty words, but the love of the heart which will treat you with justice and righteousness. This new campaign in your behalf began May 14 in Metropolitan Temple, New York. A paper upon the topic, "The Methodist Pastor Emeritus," was read before the New York Preachers' Meeting, May 22. It was published in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle of the same date. Any one desiring it can secure a copy by sending two two-cent stamps to the Eagle. Communications to me may be addressed Jay Benson Hamilton, 359 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Epworth League Elections

Everything in co-operative effort depends upon leadership. In a few weeks, leaders will be chosen in the local chapters throughout our Epworth League. It is possible by the manner of election alone to make the coming year either the best or the most unsatisfactory in our history.

The Epworth League is an important factor in our Lord's work. Every position is a sacred trust as truly as is that of a pastor. For one to hold or conduct a League Office selfishly or to neglect or trifle with its duties, is to defeat the work of our Lord, and to hinder bringing lost souls to their Saviour. By our votes we are not to reward or honor our friends, but fill these places of trust with those whom God would choose through us.

With leaders of selfish motives or inadequate ideals, no real success is possible, but if divinely called to their positions, the largest success is assured. Therefore an election of officers is of the greatest importance to the spiritual life and work of a chapter. All candidates should be considered in this spirit. The election should be preceded by a prayer service and a prayer might well be offered before balloting for each successive candidate. Each vote should be cast as though Christ wrote the ballot.

If this spirit prevails in the election, those chosen will feel the responsibility of a divine appointment, the members will feel that fidelity to their leaders is loyalty to God, and the new year will open with the greatest assurance of unparalleled success.

Let us prepare everywhere for the best year in the history of the League.

EDWIN M. RANDALL, General Secretary.

Is it not often, at least, because we are so anxious to be happy in this world, so eager to grasp at a condition belonging not to here, but to hereafter, that we fret and fidget for what God has denied us?—Sidney Lear.

THE LIGHT TURNED ON

The Post takes a most patriotic and commendable stand in the following paragraph:

"Therefore, will it pay white men who claim to be fair, unselfish and just, to stir up strife and race hatred and further put off the day when there will be inaugurated an effctive school system for the Negro race, as well as for the white race, for the pittance of nine cents annually per white voter?"

That the Post understands the situation will be borne out by the following statement:

"Manifestly, no public school system, white or black, can become a real public benefit until that system becomes a real public burden, fully recognized and cheerfully borne by all the people. These figures are not made, therefore, to put off the day when every North Carolina child of whatever color may have full opportunity for that complete education which God intended him to have, and which it is the solemn, religious duty of the people of the state to provide, but only to stop the mouths of the gainsayers by showing the ridiculous littleness of some too common appeals to selfishness and race hatred."

We are profoundly grateful to the Morning Post for this brave and statesmanlike editorial. These men of the South can clear the mist if they will, and some of them are doing it right manfully. They deserve the good praise and commendation of all our citizens, white and black. In this effort Mr. Phillips has done the South and the Negro as well a great service. It is hoped that the Post will lose none of its deserved popularity for speaking so frankly on such a vital question. But the South will never achieve its true greatness until such men as the editor of the Morning Post are given the right of way.

Dr. I. L. Thomas, Field Agent of the Board of Church Extension, preached at Central Avenue Church, Atlanta, Ga., on May 21, and in the evening delivered the Annual Sermon of Clark University. May 22 he addressed the Atlanta Preachers' Meeting on the Church Extension Cause and was given an enthusiastic welcome and a genuine assurance of support. May 25 he addressed the delegates and visitors at the Griffin District Sunday School and Epworth League Convention, at Union M. E. Church, Atlanta. Sunday, May 28, he delivered the Annual Sermon to High School at Newnan, Ga., at 11 a. m. and preached to a large congregation at night.

A committee from the Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, consisting of Bishop Walden, Bishop Spellmeyer, Secretary Thirkield, Drs. Nast and Weekley and Mr. G. B. Johnson, have just returned from Fort Worth, Texas, where they went on invitation of members of the Chamber of Commerce, to consider plans for the enlargement of Fort Worth University. The strong hold that President MacAdam has on the city was indicated by a banquet tendered the committee by leading citizens, and the provision made for the entire cost of the committee.

A YOUNG MAN TO THE FRONT

Sharp Street Memorial Church of Baltimore is in many regards a great church. It is said to be the most magnificent building owned by the Negro race anywhere in the world. The congregation is large and progressive. Indeed it is a most representative church. Rev. I. L. Thomas, D. D., closed his pastorate of this magnificent church with the last session of the Washington Conference. Who was to be his successor? When Bishop David Moore, presiding at the Washington Conference, read the appointments announcing Rev. W. A. C. Hughes as pastor of Sharp Street Memorial Church, there was a surprise; for Brother Hughes is still a very young man, but he has won his spurs by discretion, hard work and Christian deportment. He is loved and honored by all his brethren, and though some thought the lightning would not strike him

Rev. W. A. C. HUGHES, Ph. B.
Pastor Sharp Street Memorial Church Baltimore, Maryland

they are nevertheless glad that this young man is coming to the front so rapidly.

His first appointment was at Hudson, N. Y., where, after a brief pastorate, he was appointed to Leigh Street, Richmond, Va. He found this church greatly in debt and advertised to be sold. What should be done? This man had true faith in God. He assembled his little flock in the church on the very date it was announced the sale would take place and led them in prayer and he went forth to see the mortgagee and stayed the sale for sixty days, and in that brief period raised $750, and from that time greatly reduced the debt. From Richmond, Va., he was appointed to Jackson Street, Lynchburg, another charge heavily in debt. In debt, however, because this congregation contributed $5,000 towards the establishment of a school, which sum was raised by a mortgage on their property. In seven weeks Brother Hughes swung this church clear of debt and the mortgage was burned. He is an attractive, evangelical preacher and has had pre-eminent success wherever he has gone. He holds the degree of Ph. B. from Taylor University, Upland, Ind., and was for some time at Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga. He has entered upon his work as pastor of Sharp Street Memorial Church with the zeal and earnestness that have characterized his work heretofore and already has won the confidence and support of the membership of this great church. We predict for him a brilliant career as pastor of Sharp Street Memorial. He has a great future and one that is also bright.

CHANGES IN OUR BUSINESS OFFICE

To fill the position made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Charles C. Morse, Messrs. Eaton & Mains, the Publishing Agents at New York, have appointed Rev. W. F. Waters as Business Manager of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Mr. Waters needs no introduction to our constituency. He is favorably known throughout our entire territory. He was appointed Assistant Business Manager in November, 1901, and in recognition of his faithful and efficient service and his pre-eminent success as a canvasser he has been promoted to this responsible position. Almost five years of service with the SOUTHWESTERN gives him an experience that is thorough and assures a careful handling of the business interests of the paper. That he will give a good account of himself in this new capacity of large and delicate responsibility his friends have no doubt whatever.

Prof. H. L. Billups, of Sedalia, Mo., has been appointed to the second place in our business office. Prof. Billups has represented the Central Missouri Conference as a lay delegate in the General Conferences of 1896, 1900 and 1904. He is well and favorably known to the church. He graduated from the Business College of Oberlin, Ohio, in 1891, and graduated from Wiley University with the degree of M. S., in 1903, and received the degree of Ph. B. in 1905. He is a technical and competent bookkeeper and will strengthen our office in this department.

The Publishing Agents have seen fit to increase our office force by the appointment of Prof. F. B. Smith, of this city. Mr. Smith has from time to time served in our office, understands our work and is in full sympathy with the mission of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and makes a strong addition to our force. Mr. Smith is a graduate of New Orleans University, holding the degree of Master of Arts. He is a lawyer by profession and has represented the Louisiana Conference in the General Conferences of 1900 and 1904.

With these three strong, aggressive young men pushing the circulation of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE who can tell but that our list will grow by leaps and bounds. These men, of course, will receive a most cordial welcome from our constituency everywhere.

MERIDIAN ACADEMY

Meridian Academy fulfilled its promises in its recent commencement program. On Sunday morning, May 28th, the baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Rev. J. M. Shumpert, D. D., presiding elder of the Meridian District, Mississippi Conference. It was very fitting that Dr. Shumpert should be chosen to this important place on the program, being as he is one of the oldest and most representative men of his Conference and a loyal and ardent supporter of the Academy. His sermon was practical and eloquent and therefore helpful. Wednesday of commencement week was a great day. Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society, was present and attended the trustees' meeting, leaving early in the afternoon to meet an important engagement at Cincinnati. Rev. J. W. E. Bowen, D. D., came according to announcement and received a cordial and hearty welcome from the brethren, who honor and admire him for his worth and services to the race. But the central figure of attraction was Dr. Booker T. Washington, and the people came from far and near to see this man of the race whom all the world delights to honor. The occasion was a memorable one for Meridian, and particularly for our people in that city and the towns round about. Hundreds were present from a distance representing all classes of the race. Dr. Washington spoke in the afternoon at the Fair Ground, where it is estimated 3,000 people had assembled to hear him. Altho the seating capacity was limited and the majority of the people had to stand, there was no disorder whatever, and the part of the audience that stood did so for literally hours with but very little complaint, so anxious they were to see and hear Mr. Washington. His arrival as the occasion for tremendous applause by the entire audience, which was fringed by quite a few white people. Dr. Washington was introduced in a most eloquent and appropriate way by Dr. J. W. E. Bowen. The introduction was replete, thoughtful and eloquent. Mr. Washington's address possessed the usual power of his public utterances of tremendous earnestness and of unvarnished, unadulterated effort, to help the people at the points where they most need help. He has a most interesting personality and is a most eloquent and forceful speaker, all of which is emphasized by his sincerity. His deep and unflinching belief in what he says, his unanswerable comprehension of the needs of his people and the manner in which the man goes about to help them is one of the most commendable things of his career. His speech was vigorous, thoughtful and eloquent and his visit to that part of the state of Mississippi will yield great good to our people and to the state at large. We will publish his address in our next wee's issue.

Dr. E. L. Faulkner has hung out his shingle as a practicing physician in Denver, Colo., and has opened up a thoroughly equipped and modern drug store under the naem of the Ideal Pharmacy. Dr. Faulkner in this effort is giving Denver an example of the taste and business-like capacity of the Negro to conduct a high-class enterprise. Dr. Faulkner was born in Tallahassee, Fla., in 1865, and came to New Orleans in 1884 and in 1889 entered the night class of New Orleans University. Subsequently he entered the regular classes of the university and in 1892 he matriculated at the Tuskegee Institute. He completed his academic course in 1898 and in 1901 completed the pharmaceutical course at Meharry and graduated from the regular medical department of Meharry in 1904. Our friends who will attend the convention at Denver would do well to call on Dr. Faulkner at his splendid place of business, at 2100 Arapahoe street.

The Epworth League, of Asbury Church, Washington, D. C., observed the sixteenth anniversary of the Epworth League on May 21. It was a great day with the young people of Asbury. The official program was used and the address was delivered by Hon. Judson W. Lyons, Regisaer of the Treasury. Mr. Lyon, in the course of his remarks said:

"I have the highest respect for the Methodist Episcopal Church because of the stand she took on the slavery question, and because of her continued favorable attitude toward the black in this country. I remember, with pleasure, the sainted Bishop Gilbert Haven, and his labors among the struggling blacks in the South when I was a boy. This church has a history that you should be proud of."

Personal and General.

Rev. J. H. Thompson, pastor, Wilson, La., spent last week in the city.

Bishop Berry is to conduct the "morning watch" meetings at the Denver Convention.

Mrs. Henry M. Wilson, of Baltimore, the mother of Bishop L. B. Wilson, died Monday, May 29th.

Dr. G. G. Logan will spend the month of June in South Carolina in the interest of the Missionary Society.

Mrs. T. R. McWilliams desires her correspondents to address her at Waynesboro, Miss., instead of DeKalb, Miss.

An invitation has been extended Bishop W. F. McDowell to become Harvard University preacher for two full periods next year.

Mr. Edward Morse, son of Mr. C. C. Morse, left Wednesday of this week for California. He goes seeking the restoration of his health.

Rev. C. K. Brown, B. D., pastor of St. Paul Methodist Episcopal Church, of Guthrie, Okla., preached the annual sermon of Langston University Sunday, May 21st.

Rev. T. W. Boothe, a superannuate of the Washington Conference, died May 23. The funeral service was held in Sharp Street Memorial Church, Baltimore, May 26.

Rev. E. H. Oliver, D. D., delivered the annual address on May 29th of Morris Brown College, Atlanta, Ga. This school has the largest attendance of any school for our people in the state.

Rev. H. H. Buckingham, A. B., of Ellisville, Miss., delivered the commencement address at the High School of Meridian, Miss., at its recent commencement. Prof. J. A. Hopkins is the principal.

The commencement address of Mary Allen Seminary, a large Presbyterian school for our girls, located at Crockett, Texas, was delivered by President R. S. Lovinggood, of Samuel Huston College, on May 21st.

The commencement exercises of Hartzell Industrial Academy, Donaldsonville, La., were held Wednesday afternoon, May 31st. Mrs. C. D. Shallowhorne is the successful principal of this institution.

At the commencement of Howard University, Washington, D. C., June 1, the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon Rev. M. J. Naylor and Rev. S. R. Hughes, of the Washington Conference. Honors worthily bestowed.

Rev. R. N. Jones, presiding elder of the Shubuta District, Mississippi Conference, is proving the wisdom of his appointment. His services recently rendered at Bentley Chapel and St. Paul Church, Hattiesburg, Miss., are highly commended by both pastors.

Rev. William R. Chase, pastor of St. Charles Avenue Church, this city, delivered the annual address on Memorial Day at Chalmette. The address was highly commended as a patriotic and eloquent deliverance, which was enthusiastically and cordially received.

Mr. B. G. Hightower, a staunch member of St. Matthew Methodist Episcopal Church, Greensboro, N. C., is bereaved of his wife, who died May 31st. Mrs. Hightower is survived by her husband and three children. The SOUTHWESTERN extends deepest sympathy.

Dean Pierre Landry, of Gilbert Academy was called suddenly to Fort Worth, Texas, on account of the illness of Mrs. Terrell, his daughter. Enroute the Dean had a narrow escape in a wreck, in which a number of passengers were hurt. Dean Landry escaped without any injury whatever.

Rev. N. D. Shamborguer, of Asheville, N. C., delivered the annual address at the recent commencement of Mason Academy, Hickory, N. C. A correspondent in writing says that the address was one of the best ever heard on a like occasion. Brother Shamborguer is one of our most promising young men.

Rev. J. W. E. Bow, D. D., Ph. D., lectured to a crowded house of both races in Yazoo City, Miss., June 2. The white people were especially cordial in their greetings and comment. Dr. Bowen preached for Rev. A. J. McNair the following Sunday, and $1,055 was raised on the church debt. St. Stephens is steadily coming to the front.

Rev. D. B. Harston, presiding elder of the Clow District, Little Rock Conference, makes an earnest appeal to the Epworth Leaguers of Arkansas to attend the forthcoming international Epworth League Convention at Denver. The attractions are many and there is no reason why there should not be a large delegation. Those in Arkansas who plan to go should write Rev. D. B. Harston, Clow, Ark.

Wiley University, at its last commencement, conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity upon Rev. J. A. T. Foust, A. M., B. D. Dr. Foust has just reached this country on a furlough from Africa, where he has served five years as presiding elder and principal of one of our schools. He is a classical graduate of Bennett College and an alumnus of Gammon Theological Seminary and will wear the honor conferred upon him by Wiley worthily.

The Reform movement has struck New Orleans for a brief period at least. Police Inspector Journee has been displaced and Judge Whitaker appointed in his stead. New Orleans perhaps takes first place as a wide open city of all American cities and yet Journee could see nothing going wrong. What Inspector Whitaker will see and do the future will tell.

The Rev. J. A. T. Foust, Mrs. Foust and Miss Ida May Sharp, missionaries to Liberia, reached New York by Steamer Lucania Saturday, May 13. Mr. and Mrs. Foust have been in charge of the mission at Cape Palmas, and during the conference year which closed in February Mr. Foust was presiding elder of Cape Palmas District, Liberia Conference. Miss Sharp has been teaching English and music in the college of West Africa, at Monrovia.

Miss Rebecca Bell, of the Epworth Evangelistic Institute, St. Louis, Mo., is in the city conducting a ten days' meeting at the St. Charles Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. At the close of the meeting here she will preach two months on the New Orleans District of the Gulf Conference, of which Rev. W. R. Chase is the presiding elder. Miss Bell is making a most excellent impression and her preaching is attracting large audiences.

Franklin Institute, under the principalship of Prof. William Porter, A. M., is doing most excellent work. It is touching a local class of people that otherwise would not be reached. Prof. Porter has the confidence of both races in Franklin and his school bids fair for a most prosperous future. He has constructed a splendid building without any help and kept his school open regularly for more than nine months each year for several years. He has gone North seeking aid. His cause is a worthy one. In all his plans he is ably assisted by his wife.

Rev. W. H. Crawford, one of the oldest and most influential members of the Little Rock Conference, died May 4, 1905, at the age of 70 years. For three and a half years he has been in poor health, but remained firm in the faith. He has filled many of the most important charges of his Conference and was twice presiding elder. As a preacher he took high rank among his brethren and his influence was always on the side of peace and of righteousness. There was much strength in his rugged character, made strong and firm by many years of service. His funeral was conducted from Wesley Chapel, of Little Rock, Ark., by Dr. W. R. R. Duncan and the pastor, Dr. J. L. Wilson. Brother Crawford is survived by his wife and several children.

At the recent District Missionary Meetings held at Memphis and Mason, Tenn., Rev. S. H. Nevils, presiding elder of the Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference, and Rev. H. D. Hart, rendered splendid service by delivering very able sermons and addresses. Rev. R. Sewell, of Hernando, Miss., and Rev. J. H. Bynum, of Albany, Miss., took very active part in the Memphis meeting and rendered very effective service. Rev. W. F. Waters, of the SOUTHWESTERN was also present at the Memphis meeting. The meetings were under the management of Dr. G. G. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society.

Doings of the Workmen.

ALABAMA.

HUNTSVILLE, J. T. Martin, Pastor—We have just closed our second quarterly conference. It was indeed a success in every way. Rev. A. S. Williams, our presiding elder, preached on Sunday morning a special sermon to the young men. Raised this quarter, $374.81. Our watchword is, "One hundred converts for our Zion, every dollar of our benevolence, twenty-five subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN, and the church beautified for the annual conference. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, D. D., will be wth me Sunday, May 28th, and we are expecting to raise $200 that day.

CEDAR BLUFF, J. B. Webb, Pastor—My second quarterly conference convened at New Hope Church, May 6, with Rev. J. W. Thomas in the chair. The elder preached two excellent sermons. Three admitted on probation. The elder had his good wife with him, who organized for us the Woman's Home Missionary Society, one at New Hope Church and one at Gayselvills Church. Collection this quarter, $42.36.

TALLAHASSEE—Eclectic and Bethel Circuit Chapel Church is on a boom. All services are well attended. Plans are made to ceil the church an put in gas. Brother W. H. Jordan preached an interesting and instructive sermon on May 1st.

ARKANSAS.

DANVILLE, J. C. Thompson, Pastor—Our first quarterly conference convened April 29-30. The presiding elder was with us. We raised $28.75 on Sunday. One convert. The elder preached two good sermons.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, A. L. Greene—Our first quarterly conference was held April 22-23, with Rev. B. J. Griffin, presiding elder, in the chair. Rev. C. A. Taylor, our pastor, is trying his utmost with the assistance of the church to make a high mark for 1905. Paid pastor $35, presiding elder in full $10; Sunday school, $2; missions, $4.60; other purposes, $1; total for the quarter, $52.60. Sunday morning Elder Griffin preached to a large audience. Twenty-six persons partook of the Lord's Supper. On the fifth Sunday in April, Rev. C. A. Taylor gave a rally for education and collected $15.

CAMDEN, G. W. Weir, Pastor—Our first quarterly conference was held April 22-23 by the presiding elder, Rev. D. B. Harston. The elder preached two very acceptable sermons on Sunday. We expect a fruitful year's work.

FLORIDA.

JACKSONVILLE, G. W. Covington, Pastor of St. Joseph M. E. Church, is meeting with great success in his new field Rev. P. Swearingen held our quarterly conference the 12th and 14th ult. The work is in better condition than at any time during the past. Just three months ago this pastor assumed charge of this work; the people met him and his family with open hearts. Prof Brown was at the organ. The following Monday morning we put $73.55 in the bank to the credit of the church. The young people contributed almost two-thirds of the collection. On the Sabbath before Easter there was $31.35 raised.

STARKE, S. Poppulas, Pastor—Sunday, April 30th, was a successful day financially. The pastor, officers and members had planned for a free-will offering for the purpose of repairing the old Mt. Mariah M. E. Church, which has been standing here as a landmark for Methodism for thirty-five years. Members and friends came from far and near to participate in this grand cause. On last Friday night a large crowd of stormers visited the parsonage, led by Mrs. Ophelia Turner. In suitable words the pastor expressed his gratitude. Sunday the elder preached a good sermon and was paid in full. Twenty persons have joined the church. Over $235 have been raised and both pastor and people are well satisfied. During one week $104.90 for improvements and benevolence was raised.

GEORGIA.

TEMPLE, C. H. Blake, Pastor—The Sunday School and Epworth League Convention convened at Temple, Ga., May 26. The district officers failing to be present, the convention elected Prof. C. W. Harper, Principal of the Tallapoosa Public School, president pro tem., and Pro. S. S. Simmons, of Douglasville, Ga., secretary pro tem. Prof. Harper presided with such dignity and satisfaction to all concerned that the convention unanimously elected him president for the ensuing year. The pastors and the laity of the district feel satisfied that the Sunday schools and Leagues will progress as never before under his administration. Let all the brethren support him in this great work.

KENTUCKY.

SHARPSBURG, W. W. Carter—The first quarterly meeting was held in Scott's Chapel, Saturday and Sunday. Rev. G. W. Zeigler, presiding elder; Rev. C. J. Nichols, pastor. Everything passed off quickly and everybody is pleased with the new pastor and presiding elder. The attendance at each service was far above the average. The collections were very good. Raised $35. All departments of the church have received a new impetus and great good will be accomplished this year.

LOUISIANA.

WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The convention of the Louisiana Conference Woman's Home Missionary Society, which met recently in Mt. Zion M. E. Church, was attended by the following delegates: Williams Chapel, B. Williams and Ida Willis; St. James, Parish St. Charles, F. A. Cooper and J. Coumb; Mt. Zion, L. Sims and M. Archie; Wesley Chapel, M. Johnson and M. Phillips; First Street, M. Luster and M. Wells; Ross Chapel, L. Bundy and M. Small; Williams Chapel, C. Williams; Pleasant Plain, M. Stewart and M. Nickson; Simpson Chapel, M. Demond and E. White; Union Chapel, R. Smith; St. Matthew, M. Cooper, Hahnville, La.; second vice-president, Mrs. Phyllis Turner, Franklin, La.; third vice-president, Mrs. Carrie Williams, Shreveport, La.; fourth vice-president, Mrs. J. D. McCain, Marksville, La.; corresponding secretary, Miss Ruth B. Smith, New Orleans, La.; recording secretary, Mrs. Mary Philip, New Orleans, La. District managers: New Orleans, North, Mrs. Mary Pardo; New Orleans, South, Mrs. Maggie Luster; Alexandria, Baton Rouge, Mrs. Robert Jones, New Roads, La.; Shreveport, Mrs. Mattie Howell; Monroe, Mrs. Fannie B. Thomas; treasurer, Mrs. F. T. Chinn, New Orleans, La.; secretary, Nellie Chinn, New Orleans, La.

LAKE ARTHUR, Thomas B. Ovill, Pastor—Our second quarterly conference was grand. Raised $62 with 15 members. Sent 7 subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN.

LAKE ARTHUR, Thomas B. Ovill, Pastor—I desire to thank Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gordon, Mrs. Ada Perry and others for the grand pound surprise tendered me recently.

LAKE CHARLES, B. J. Reddix — A grand concert and drama was given on Monday and Tuesday nights, May 15th and 16th, 1905, at the Lyons Hall, for the benefit of The People's Normal and Industrial Institute of Lake Charles, La. "The Drunkard's Wife," an emotional drama in four acts, was successfully produced by the following young ladies and gentlemen: Miss Ethel Moses, Prof. J. McDonald, Bruce Clarendon, Mrs. Geo. W. Julien, Lawyer Jones, Prof. J. H. McGaffy, Miss Rosa Cain, Miss Moss and Mr. Julien. They played their parts exceptionally well.

NORWOOD, J. H. Thompson, Pastor—The officers of the Turner Chapter, Epworth League, of Norwood M. E. Church, are: President, Miss Julia Taylor; first vice-president, Miss Lizzie Hills; second vice-president, Miss Leny Barrow; third vice-president, Miss Lillie McWilliams; fourth vice-president, Miss Katie Barrow; treasurer, Mrs. Mattie Nero; secretary, Miss Clacsey Barrow; superintendent Junior Epworth League, Miss Carrie Vance; librarian, Mr. Lewis Eli. This cabinet has been approved by the quarterly conference. Rev. J. W. Turner, P. E.; J. H. Thompson, Pastor.

BUNKIE, Chas. H. Monroe, Pastor—A few Saturday evenings ago Miss Alice Collins presented the pastor a box of nice groceries; I take this method of thanking her and her many friends for their kindness, which was much appreciated. At a late hour, one evening recently, quite a large crowd came to the parsonage, led by Sister E. White and others. They left the tables laden with many nice things of more than a hundred pounds and a purse was presented to the pastor. It was an act of encouragement that the pastor and family appreciate and we thank these faithful members and friends for that good deed. Remarks by the pastor; prayer, Wm. Robinson; solo, Miss M. E. L. Cheney; recitation, Mrs. H. Cabble; short talks by Bros. W. Wilson, A. Baham and others, after which refreshments were served and the party retired.

GUEYDAN, J. P. Oville, Pastor—Rev. J. J. Obee held his first quarter here April 9th. Stewards, leaders and trustees reported. We raised our full apportion for missions and paid the presiding elder in full. Things look bright here.

RICHLAND—An enjoyable surprise party was recently tendered the pastor, Rev. Hampton. This movement was headed by Brothers Dotson, Gorden, Dixson, Page and others.

Save Your Daughter

No. 125 West 38th Street,
NEW YORK CITY, N. Y., April 8, 1905.

Wine of Cardui has been a blessing to my home. I have often found that it was a great relief when I was weary or in pain, but I am especially grateful for what it did for our daughter and only child. I noticed that her menses were tardy and she suffered with headaches and giddiness, heaviness in the abdomen and about the loins. This seriously interfered with her studies and she had to discontinue several of them.

A visitor calling on me and discussing the matter suggested that I give her a course of your Wine of Cardui as it had relieved her daughter of a similar trouble. After my daughter had used it for five weeks I found a great improvement in her looks, health and behavior, in fact she was a different girl. The flow became regular and we have not had any difficulty since.

WINE of CARDUI

Here the menstrual function had not been properly started and the unnatural condition was making the young girl an invalid. The headaches and giddiness, indicated something more than a mere temporary ailment. They were symptoms of a functional weakness which would become more and more aggravated as years went by. But Mrs. Thompson was ready to take advice for her daughter's welfare and she gave the little sufferer Wine of Cardui and now she is a well young woman.

If your daughter is sickly and frequently ailing the letter of this good mother contains the best advice you can follow.

Wine of Cardui is the menstrual regulator that cures nine cases out of every ten. Young girls, mothers and aged women find this tonic indispensable.

All druggists sell $1.00 bottles Wine of Cardui.

MALONSON.—Brother Louis Malonson died in New Orleans, La., April 9 after an illness of 8 weeks. He was converted two weeks before his death, was received into the church on probation and was baptized April 8. His wife is a faithful member of Haven Chapel. His remains were shipped to Lutcher, La., his old home, where the funeral service was conducted at his mother's residence, April 10. Rev. M. Harris assisted in the services. Interment in St. Mitchel cemetery.

J. MCKEE.

CULBRETT.—A. C. Culbrett died at Mineola, Tex., April 30, 1905. He was first vice-president of the State Epworth League. The conference, the church and the Epworth League mourn his loss. He was a loyal brother and we loved him well, but Jesus loved him better. The many friends tender their sympathies to the bereaved family.—JOHN FISHER.

MASSEY.—Sister Hattie C. Massey, wife of Rev. J. L. Massey, of Tullahoma, Tenn., fell asleep in Jesus, May 7, 1905. Aged 40 years. She was married to Rev. Massey about 6 months ago. She was a true wife and a faithful member of Howard's Chapel. She still lives in our hearts. Her funeral was attended by Rev. P. R. Woodson, pastor, and Rev. Marchbanks.

REV. P. R. WOODSON, pastor.

THOMAS.—At his home, New Orleans, La., Mr. Louis St. Thomas, aged 27 years, died May 13, 1905. He professed faith in Christ during his illness. His remains were laid to rest in St. Roch cemetery. He leaves a wife and a host of friends

D. M. SEALS, pastor.

PRESTON.—At the Lafon Old Folks' home, New Orleans, La., Tuesday May 9, 1905, occurred the death of Sister Louise Preston, a native of Virginia, aged about 65 years. She was a member of Mallalieu M. E. Church, having joined Oct. 23, 1900. The funeral service took place in the chapel of the Home, Wednesday, at 3 p. m. She was a member of the Queen Esther Temple, which attended the service, Rev. H. J. Wright, her pastor, and Rev. J. P. Brown, the Chaplain, officiated. She was laid to rest in the Washington cemetery. Sister Preston was perfectly willing and ready to go.

H. J. WRIGHT.

CARR.—Lawrence Carr, a faithful member of Ross Chapel, Camp Parapet, La., passed into the Beyond in full triumphant faith. Rev. A. B. Harris had charge of the funeral service.

SIMS.—Thomas Sims departed this life at the age of 28 years and 23 days. On his death bed he accepted a loving Saviour and was glad to go to rest. To his mother, brothers and his sister we extend deep sympathy. The Rev. J. D. Wilson baptized him before death came and laid him to rest.

HILL.—Frank J. Hill, of Moss Point, Miss., pased into the Beyond May 8, 1905. He was a member of St. Paul's M. E. church and a steward and trustee, and died as he lived, a faithful servant of the Lord. He attended the revival which was going on at the time of his death every night, save one, and took the names of those who joined and Tuesday night before service began he came to the pastor's study and said: "Brother Cannon, I thought I would drop in and bring the roll of those who have joined the church and let you know what good I have derived from this revival. You would be surprised to know where this revival found me, but it has lifted me up where I ought to be, and I am so glad, too." The next night he suffered an apoplectic stroke and passed away two hours later. Bro. Hall was looked upon as being one of the leading men of this town. He was among the first at every call of our church. As a Sunday schol teacher he was magnetic. His class raised $8.00 Easter for Missions. As third vice-president of the Epworth League he did his duty faithfully. In his death the church has lost one of her best members and the town one of her best citizens. He leaves a wife and sister and friends to mourn their loss. The following ministers assisted in the funeral: Rev. S. H. Viel, of the A. M. E. church, and Rev. W. S. Brown and C. W. Wilson, of the Baptist church. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. S. H. Cannon.

LINDSEY.—Anna E. Hargrave Lindsey was born in Jamestown, N. C., and died in Delaware, Ohio, April 22, 1905, aged 70 years, 11 months and 15 days, in the full and exalting faith of a child of God.

She, with her family, came to Ohio in May, 1869. They resided at Mt. Gilead until 1897, when she went to Charlestown, Ill., for eighteen months, and then spent one winter in Florida.

For about six years she has resided in Delaware, where more and more she became loved and esteemed by all.

Her verse of "The Book," her favorite term for Bible, was Matt. 6:33; her chapter, Ps. 86; her hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." Her last message to her class was: "I have lived in this church 40 years, and if I could live 40 years longer I would remain in it. Take the name of Jesus with you!"

Dr. Hamilton, of the A. M. E. church, and Rev. H. M. Lowry, of the Baptist church, assisted the pastor, J. T. Leggett, in the funeral service.

The American Girl.

WHAT MAKES HER POPULAR.

The American girl is admired and liked at home and abroad because she is the happiest, usually the healthiest and friendliest of girls. She is fond of life and is alive to everything beautiful and good in existence. Mrs. Langtry has said that the American woman has little to learn from her English sisters.

Dr. Pierce, the specialist in women's diseases, of Buffalo, N. Y., advises simple exercises for women, preferably in the outdoor air. But many women are confined to the house and their household duties or their business confines them to poorly ventilated rooms.

If a woman suffers from a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, she naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In 98 per cent. of cases the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

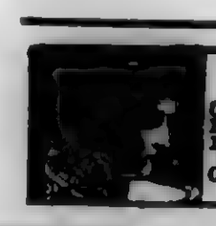
BATON ROUGE DISTRICT PREACHERS' MEETING.

The Baton Rouge District Preachers' Meeting convened at Jackson, La., in the Magnolia M. E. Church. This meeting was a source of inspiration to all present. The pastors' reports were encouraging and helpful. A committee was ordered to write letters of condolence to Rev. H. Daniel and family, sympathizing with them in their loss by death of their daughter Helen; also Rev. Robert Anderson's wife, deceased.

Several visitors were introduced. Rev. J. W. Lee made encouraging remarks. Able sermons were delivered by Rev. Jones of New Roads, J. H. Thompson and the president, Rev. M. P. Franklin. Subject for general discussion at next meeting, June 8th, "What can the preachers do to create greater interest in the prayer meeting?" "Is carrying the people in the popular sense elevating the people?" The meeting ordered that every pastor and supply and congregation stand by Rev. T. A. Brown and the St. Peter's Church to help liquidate the debt against that people and church.



Dear brethren, the presiding elder requests that every pastor meet the next Preachers' Meeting at New Roads, La., June 8th, 1905, at 2:30 p. m., without fail. Resolution was offered in honor of the citizens of Jackson for their royal entertainment. J. H. Thompson, secretary; Rev. M. P. Franklin, president; Rev. J. W. Turner, P. E.

The successful joining up of the Zambesi Bridge at the Victoria Falls, South Africa, in April called general attention to that remarkable natural wonder which has a considerably greater height than Niagara. The meeting of the Zambesi Bridge girders marks an epoch in the railway history of Africa, and when trains pass over the bridge South Africa will be in touch by railway with Northwestern Rhodesia. There is a description of this bridge in Theodore F. Van Wagenen's "Victoria Falls" in the June Century, a vivid pen-picture of "a terrific gash in the floor of an apparently unending plain, which, as one gazes, simply swallows a river in a manner that produces almost a thrill of horror * * * Twenty miles away the spray thrown back from the depths of the tremendous cavern into which the river tumbles appears like a column of smoke rising from a burning village, and during the last mile of the railway journey the roar of the falling water becomes noticeable. Finally, when the edge of the chasm is reached, if the river is in flood, the eye and ear are assailed by a combination of phenomena that probably cannot be duplicated as marvels anywhere else on the planet." The article is accompanied by impressive views from recent photographs.

INQUIRY.

I inquire for my brothers. I came from East Tennessee, Hawk county. Mother is named Sharlo Gillmers and father's name is Bill Gillmers. They had six children, Lucinda, Dick, Dave, Isabel, Jim, Caroline. I was brought to Mississippi by Bill Earl and sold to Charles McClendon. Please address, Dick McClendon, Binford, Miss.

INQUIRY.

I am inquiring for my brother by the name of Peter Young. He left this country with his young master, William Vouner, two years after freedom and went to Louisiana, and the last we heard of him he had become a preacher and still in Louisiana in the year of 1872. His oldest brothers are named Joe Young and George Green. If any one can give an account of him write me at once to Lagrange, Ga.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind., will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.

Field Notes

FLORENCE, E. Powell, Pastor — Our first quarterly conference was held May 6th by Rev. J. O. Brown. The officers presented good written reports. The work accomplished this quarter met with the elder's approval. Rev. Brown preached a good sermon while with us and gave also a good talk before the Sunday school. We expect to enter into a revival soon.

CLINTON PARISH—The members and friends of Pine Grove and Beach Grove churches are delighted with their pastor, the Rev. B. Carr. An evidence of appreciation was the gathering at the parsonage on Friday evening, April 7, of a large host, led by Sisters Jennette Thomas, Harriet Johnson, Martha Wilson and others, with generous contributions.

BASTROP, E. I. Powell, Pastor—Wednesday night at prayer meeting, the good members and friends of Mt. Olive M. E. Church brought with them many pounds to gladden the heart of the pastor, for which I thank them.

HUBERTVILLE, J. E. Rolax, Pastor—Our revival on Easter Sunday was quite a success. Seventeen persons were added to the church. Baptizing was carried out Sunday night, May 7. The Lord's Supper was administered to 93 communicants. The church was crowded beyond its seating capacity. The work of the church prospers. Collection for the day, $20.30.

PLEASANT HILL, J. A. Landry, Pastor—Our work here is in good shape. On the 7th, Sisters Annie Morris, Ellen Taylor and Ella Bryant and their friends put a new bed in the parsonage, with mattress and springs, for the comfort of the pastor and wife. The good sisters deserve much praise for their faithful and good work. Sisters Annie Morris, Ellen Taylor and Emma Elder are foremost in leading off this year. I hope that they will hold on and that others may become possessed of the same spirit. On the 9th a cake feast was given by Sisters Emma Elder, Mary Yancy, a Baptist sister, and Ida Reasby. Sister Elder raised $16.65, Sister Yancy $3.50; total $20.15.

Washington,—S. Green, Pastor.—Our work at this place is in good shape. The SOUTHWESTERN is being presented to our people.

Plaquemine—J. O. Richards, Pastor.—On the night of March 22, at a late hour, the inmates of the parsonage were aroused by the voices of many singers. They were admitted and Brother Henry Walker, in a brief speech, made known the object of the visitors, who were led by Brothers A. Randall, Henry Walker, J. B. Foster, Wm. Truehill F. Moon, C. Wiggings, V. Walker and other members and friends. H. Walker, on behalf of the vistors, presented the pastor with a purse. The pastor responded and offered prayer, after which all departed, leaving many precious pounds. We take this method of thanking the members and friends for their liberality.

You Are Eligible to Attend

The Annapolis or West Point
Military School

If you are an unmarried American boy between the ages of 17 and 23, of good habits and can pass the necessary physical examination, have a knowledge of reading, writing, arithmetic, English grammar, geography and history of the United States. Unlike most schools, the government allows you about $500 per year to defray all expenses. You receive a thorough military and academic education, and upon graduation may resign or accept a commission as lieutenant with promotion in the regular service.

CANTON—D. F. Dudley, Pastor.—On account of very cold weather the opportunity to meet all my people on this charge did not present itself until the fourth Sunday in February. It was a happy day's service. The pastor and people seemed to be pleased with each other. I find a good many of our people doing business here. We have good people in Canton. I have found that out by the storms that continue to blow into the parsonage. On Friday night, March 17, a number of generous friends, led by Mrs. Mariah Jackson, Mrs. Rosa Jones and others, brought to the parsonage 250 pounds of groceries. This kindness was greatly appreciated.

DON'T USE A BROOM!

You Cannot Sweep Back

the tide with a broom, try you ever so hard. It is not natural, it cannot be done by artificial means. Nature can cause it to flow back, can put dry land where before was water, and does it every time it rolls forward, but in her own way and her own time. It is the same with your disease, the disorder which is consuming you, eating your vitals. You cannot sweep it back, cannot cause it to recede and fade away by the use of artificial drugs, never intended by nature to go into the stomachs or to enter the veins of man, drugs which are like straws in a heavy wind and have no more force, or power to check the onward march of the disorder, than has the eager, anxious sufferer to sweep back the waves of the ocean.

Nature can cause every sickness to roll back into the depths from which it came, can put solid, substantial, hearty health into a body which before was flooded with disease, saturated with decay, racked with pain, but she does it in her own way, uses her own remedies, follows her own means and it is foolhardy and dangerous to attempt to change her.

It is wasting time, precious time, to seek to sweep back the rushing tide with a broom made of sweet-tasting, sweet-smelling pills, lotions, tablets and compounds made to sell and to sell only. It is combating nature, not helping her, and nature is too strong to be combated successfully. In Vitæ-Ore,

NATURE HAS PROVIDED A CURE

A cure as sure, as certain, as regular in its action as the tides of the ocean, and she guides its course, directs its work in the human system, by the same immutable, unchangeable laws as she guides the waters of the mighty deep. She has in Vitæ-Ore, the most wonderful creation of which man of to-day has knowledge, combined the subtle elements of iron, sulphur and magnesium, elements which hold the same inexplainable attraction for disease as the moon holds for the tides, and combined them in a manner of her own which man's inventive and creative genius has been unable to duplicate or counterfeit. She placed it in the ground, ready for his hand, for what purpose if not to relieve and cure the ills of mankind. You can test it, can judge for yourself, and it will not cost you a cent to do it. It is different from all others and can be offered in a different way, a way that "sellers of medicines" dare not duplicate. If you are sick and tired of quacks, sick of dosing yourself day after day with each sunrise finding no change in your condition, if you are sick of being imposed upon, try this natural curing ore. IT WILL NOT FAIL YOU!

Read Our Special Offer:

WE WILL SEND TO ALL Subscribers or readers of this paper a full-sized $1.00 package of VITÆ-ORE, by mail, POSTPAID, sufficient for one month's treatment, to be paid for within one month's time after receipt, if the receiver can truthfully say that its use has done him or her more good than all the drugs and doses of quacks or good doctors or patent medicines he or she has ever used. Read this over again carefully, and understand that we ask our pay only when it has done you good, and not before. If not, no money is wanted! We take all the risk, you have nothing to lose. If it does not benefit you, you pay us nothing. We give you thirty days' time to try the medicine, thirty days to see results before you need pay us one cent, and you do not pay the one cent unless you do see the results. You are to be the judge! We know Vitæ-Ore! WE WILL TAKE THE RISK!

FROM THE EARTH'S VEINS TO YOUR VEINS

A COMPLETE BREAKDOWN.

Had No Strength, Heart Was Weak, Could Not Rest.

For years I was troubled with a complete breaking down of the system. My strength left me entirely and I was as weak as a child, often feeling as though I had not strength to breathe. My heart was so weak it seemed as though it would stop beating, and my family was afraid I would die of heart failure. I took a great deal of medicine, but none of it did me any good; I was always so tired and could not rest and often cried with weakness. I bought a medical electric battery, and, although it gave me some relief, it was only temporary. Vitae-Ore was then brought to my attention by an advertisement. I have used it now for three months' time and cannot praise its curative powers too highly, for I am now strong and feel better than ever before in my life. Vitae-Ore has done all this for me and I will always be ready to speak highly of this remedy. MRS. JNO. E. DAVIS, Box 378, Parry Sound, Ont.

MAKE NATURE YOUR DOCTOR

WHAT VITÆ-ORE IS:

Vitæ-Ore is a natural, hard, adamantine, rock-like substance—mineral—ORE—mined from the ground like gold and silver in the neighborhood of a once powerful, but now extinct mineral spring. It requires twenty years for oxidization by exposure to the air, when it slacks down like lime and is then of medicinal value. It contains free iron, free sulphur and free magnesium, three properties which are most essential for the retention of health in the human system, and one package—one ounce of the ORE, when mixed with a quart of water, will equal in medicinal strength and curative value 800 gallons of the most powerful mineral water found on the globe, drank fresh at the springs. It is a geological discovery, to which nothing is added and from which nothing is taken. It is the marvel of the century for curing such diseases as

Rheumatism, Bright's Disease, Blood Poisoning, Heart Trouble, Dropsy, Catarrh and Throat Affections, Liver, Kidney and Bladder Ailments, Stomach and Female Disorders, La Grippe, Malarial Fever, Nervous Prostration, and General Debility,

as thousands testify, and as no one, answering this, writing for a package, will deny after using. VITÆ-ORE has cured more chronic, obstinate, pronounced incurable cases than any other known medicine and will reach such cases with a more rapid and powerful curative action than any medicine, combination of medicines, or doctor's prescription which it is possible to procure. If yours is such a case, do not doubt, do not fear, do not hesitate, but send for it!

Vitæ-Ore will do the same for you as it has done for hundreds of readers of this paper if you will give it a trial. Send for a $1.00 package at our risk. You have nothing to lose but the stamp to answer this announcement. We want no one's money whom Vitæ-Ore cannot benefit. You are to be the judge! Can anything be more fair? What sensible person, no matter how prejudiced he or she may be, who desires a cure and is willing to pay for it, would hesitate to try Vitæ-Ore on this liberal offer! One package is usually sufficient to cure ordinary cases; two or three for chronic, obstinate cases. We mean just what we say in this announcement, and will do just as we agree. Write to-day for a package at our risk and expense, giving your age and ailments, and mention this paper, so we may know that you are entitled to this liberal offer.

You Are to Be the Judge

A DOCTOR TESTIFIES.

I have used Vitae-Ore personally for some time. I was troubled with Bright's Disease, my feet being so swollen at times that I could not wear my shoes. This condition was further complicated by Gastralgia (pains in the lower part of the abdomen), and altogether I was much distressed. All of this has left me, I using nothing but Vitae-Ore, although previous treatment, persistently followed, showed no visible abatement. I will say further that I have used this remedy in my practice with a degree of success that I have never attained with any other remedy, and I shall continue to use it as long as I can procure it. Dr. G. W. SMITH, Minneapolis, Kas.

OLD PEOPLE.—For the aged there is nothing better than Vitae-Ore. The loss of appetite and general breaking down of the digestive organs is delayed, the blood purified and enriched, the vital organs are strengthened and a peaceful old age may be enjoyed by the use of this natural remedy without drugs.

NOT A PENNY UNLESS BENEFITED

☞ This offer will challenge the attention and consideration, and afterward the gratitude of every living person who desires better health or who suffers pains, ills and diseases which have defied the medical world and grown worse with age. We care not for your skepticism, but ask only your personal investigation, and at our expense, regardless of what ills you have, by sending to us for a package. ADDRESS

Literary Notes

Alexander's Magazine has just reached our office. It is an excellent publication. The table of contents reveals an unusual array of fine literary talent. Perhaps the most notable contribution to the magazine is that of the sketch of the life of S. Coleridge-Taylor, the great African composer, Booker T. Washington. There are two fascinating love stories and a sketch of Madam Estelle Pinckney Clough, the New England Nightingale, whose residence is at Worcester, Mass. The editor contributes a sketch of the life of Mrs. Carrie W. Clifford of Cleveland, Ohio, and a tribute to the late Joseph Jefferson. The subscription price of the magazine is but $1 a year and 10 cents a copy. Our readers desiring to see this publication may send 10 cents for a specimen copy to Charles Alexander, 714 Shawmut ave., Boston, Mass.

Crescent City Notes

WANTED---Room and Board

By man and wife only. Will give best references. Address "Inquirer," this office, 429 Carondelet St.

Mrs. S. A. Gates favored the young people of the Epworth League of Simson Chapel with a very interesting paper. The Teamsters and Loaders' Associaton held their anniversary on last Sunday at 11 o'clock. The sermon as preached by Rev. Taylor was very interesting and enthusiastically received. The association showed their appreciation by presenting to the pastor and church $71. The program for the song service was well rendered. Dr. Jones, editor of the Southwestern, was present and addressed the large gathering.

On last Wednesday night Rev. Taylor was severely pounded at his home in Constance street by his members and friends and the result is the Reverend is wearing a fine Porto Rican hat.

Simpson Chapel tendered Miss Liattah Marshall a reception on June 2d, which was largely attended by members and friends led by Rev. H. Taylor and Mrs Sarah Stokes. They presented her a fine silver water service.

On last Sunday morning the Sunday School of Wesley Chapel hald its missionary service and collected for mossions $3.45.

The 11 o'clock service was well attended, sermon by the editor of the Southwestern. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered at night to 237 communicants. Total collection for the day $67.49.

On Tuesday evening, May 30, Pleasant Plains Church was honored with the presence of Rev. H. Taylor, Rev. Green, of Washington, and Rev. Williams, of Baton Rouge. Sunday morning, May 28, Rev. Acock, of the Fourth Baptist Church, delivered an excellent sermon. A class from Wesley Chapel was present also. At night the pastor, Rev. Wm. Harrell, preached. Collection $11.

At Williams Chapel, Sunday, June 4, the Sunday School was well attended and a lively discussion was had led by Miss A. E. Duncan, P. J. Becnel, H. Parker, and R. Obee.

At 11 a. m. speaking meeting led by brother Wm. Mathews. At 3 p. m. the stewardess board rendered their monthly programme, led by sisters S. Robinson and C. Terrence.

The Holy Communion was administered at night to a large number of communicants. The pastor was assisted by Dr. R. E. Jones and Wm Mathews. Benn Harmon and Anna Harmon were expelled from the membership of Williams Chapel for neglecting the means of grace.

A company of ladies recently gave the pastor's wife a grand birthday reception. Mrs. M. D. Miller had charge of the affair and a very pleasant evening was spent at the parsonage. Mrs. Reeves extends thanks for same. Mrs. A. E. Brazeley also remembered the pastor and family in a way that was greatly appreciated. One annual subscriber for the Southwestern. Collection, $39.

The personal financial effort made by the members and friends of Thompson Chapel, Rev. D. M. Seals, pastor, on May 28 was a complete success. They succeeded in raising $75 on the debt of the church. The members are very much encouraged and are determined that the debt shall be paid.

Hon. J. Madison Vance delivered the Commencement Day address at Branch Normal College, Pine Bluff, Ark., on June 6th. Prof. Isaac Fisher, a graduate of Tuskegee is principal. Mr. Vance will also address the National Negro Business League of Mississippi, which meets at Greenville on June 15.

Rev. L. L. Greene, our pastor at Colfax, writes: "We are flooded with rising water and have been for six weeks. Hundreds of acres of cotton and corn are under the water. Stock-raisers are driving their stocks to higher land, but we are holding our own."

A CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to thank the following pastors and their congregations for their kindness, by collection and donation to a fire-stricken family: Rev. T. J. Johnson, Wesley Chapel; Rev. F. T. Chinn, Mt. Zion; Rev. J. A. Turcuit, First Church; Rev. H. J. Wright, Mallalieu Chapel.

Names of personal donations and otherwise will be published later. The five million dollar fire which visited New Orleans Feb. 26 swept away nearly everything in the way of household effects, the family barely escaped with their lives. Any donation will be thankfully received and highly appreciated. Send things to Mrs. T. McCary, 1316 Toledona street.

As an evidence that Judge Lynch is not dead as yet several cases of mob violence are recorded. In one case five negroes were implicated, the guilty was easily determined upon and was summarily lynched.The others are in prison awaiting their fate. A mob can always easily determine the guilty party.

Signs of peace are seen. It was left to President Roosevelt to take the first step. He had the courage to do it. A great nation was at the back of him, a nation that has no Far East motives. Both Japan and Russia seem to take kindly to the thought of peace. It is high time. Enough lives have been sacrificed. What the terms will be none can tell. That is a secret. American diplomacy wins words of praise everywhere for this step for the cessation of hostilities in the Far East.

The annexation of Porto Rico seems to have been profitable to the United States. For the calendar year of 1904 the commerce of Porto Rico reached an aggregate of $31,000,000, $25,000,000 of which was with the United States. In 1898 our commerce with Porto Rico was $3,700,000, an increase in six years of $21,000,000, or more than 500 per cent. Porto Rico has been benefited otherwise by the presence of the United States in that island and the annexation is proving mutually helpful and pleasant.

One of the most remarkable persons of today is King Menelik, of Abyssinia, who can not be kept from public view in spite of his far away inland kingdom. Dr. Rosen, the German Minister o Morrocco went recently as a special envoy of Germany to King Menelik, says that Menelik is essentially a "man of sound morals and excel- principles." He has a quick mind, mild and conciliatory disposition, supported by occasional severity. He always keeps his word, doing what he says he will do, and is just to the traditions of his country." If King Menelik continues his high standard, he may lose his identity with the Negro race.

The saloon means the untimely death of thousands. Bishop Hartzell for it, "the saloon is responsible for the death of 200,000 black men in Africa every year." In spite of its dealing out death and destruction it continues in its effort to increase its power and grows more and more defiant. It is said that here are 1,500 saloons in Chicago now selling liquor without license. In further evidences of its defiant spirit two saloonkeepers have brought suit against a Chicago preacher for having advised his parishoners not to patronize their saloons.

TO THE GRADUATES--GREETING

The number of graduates for this year is unusually large. The school attendance for the past year was considerably increased and the commencement season ushers out of school life into life's school literally thousands of young people. For what purpose do they come into life that is real and earnest? Education is not an end, it is a means. The individual that does not comprehend this will soon find the world cold and non-sympathetic. An education, indeed all virtue, should be for the purpose of helping men to achieve that which is best in life, both for themselves and for others. If the "others" are left out, then the education is reduced at once to selfishness and loses its greatest power. Christ taught some that they might in turn teach others. Underlying the plan of salvation is the plan and purpose of God to have human co-operation in the salvation of the world. The individual save is augmented strength to the force of Christ for the salvation of others. As one individual has been blessed and saved he must in turn help, bless, and save others. All true life is under the ideal of the life presented by Christ Jesus. His life was pre-eminently for others.

To the graduates, therefore, who have come into the heritage of a splendid education we would say, think not of the glory of your achievements of school days, but pitch in at once to help swing this old world into harmony with the principles and teachings of Christ Jesus. By the strength of your culture, by the power of your knowledge, make some dark place brighter, lift some soul nearer Christ, inspire some one for for the larger and better life. As you have been blessed, bless others.

MOMENTS OF HOLY WAITING

Those moments in God's house just prior to the opening of the service. Those moments should be holy. They should be filled with holy meditation, which is "the Chrisian's unspeakable privilege, and his alone." What a hush there is in a Catholic place of worship—and why? What a bustle and twittering there is in the average Protestant Church—and why? There ought to be the solemn hush as if on the tip-toe of expectancy awaiting the coming of the Holy Ghost. There is all too much talk and exchange of glances, if not too much irreverence in the usuual moments preceding the service. Bishop Vincent contributed to the Zion's Herald recently the following sentences on "Moments of Holy Waiting:"

"The following suggestions should be made in public announcements, in cards, or widely distributed tracts, to preserve some of our Sunday morning and evening public services from becoming mere sociables:

"Persons who wish to converse in never so low a tone during the sacred moments of waiting for the opening of public service, should at once quietly retire to the hall or ante-room.

"These moments of Holy Waiting must be guarded for meditation and for personal private prayer for those devout persons who come to the House of Worship for the purpose of worship.

"All conversation at this time, even in a whisper, is out of place and out of taste. It prevents the devotional spirit. It interrupts serious people, and as an example of inattention and irreverence is especially harmful to the young life of the church."

NORWAY SEEKS INDEPENDENCE

The attention of the world is now directed to the action of Norway in seeking to break loose from its alliance with Sweden. Prior to 1814 Norway was governed by Denmark, but in 1814 Norway was transferred to Sweden without even the consulation of its wishes. The two countries are quite dissimilar and have all the while maintained their separate legislative assemblies. Since 1891 Norway has been making an effort to secure independent consular service, but King Oscar recently veoed the independent consular bill and this may be the direct cause for this action on the part of Norway. Norway has an area of 124,129 square miles, as against the area of Sweden, which is 172,876. The population of Norway in 1900 was 2,239,880, while the population of Sweden in 1901 was 5,175,228. The Evangelical Lutheran creed is the state religion and the church is called the Norwegian Established Church. There are in Norway 10,280 Methodists.

King Oscar has entered his protest against the secession, but whether this action on the part of Norway will bring about a civil war can not yet be determined. It is probable, however, that Norway will maintain its independence and is now seeking recognition at the hands of the Governments of the world.

PEACE TERMS

It is not probable tha Japan has as yet disclosed to the public its terms of peace. A recent dispatch says that the Japanese minister at Washington, Mr. Takahira, has informally acquainted President Roosevelt of the basis upon which the Japanese Government will conclude peace. This is rather premature, and the dispatch seems not to have been confirmed. Yet the terms of peace suggested are interesting and we give them for what they are worth:

The permanent cession of Port Arthur and Saghalien Island. The withdrawal forever of Russian troops from Manchuria. Recognition of the independence of Korea under Japanese protectorate. Japanese control of the Manchurian railway. The surrender to Japan of all Russian vessels interned at neutral ports. Payment of an indemnity sufficient to reimburse Japan for the expenses of her armies in the field, which is said will amount to one billion dollars. The status of Vladisvostok, the limitation of Russia's naval force in the Orient for a period of years, and other questions bearing on the future relations of the two governments will possibly be left for determination by the commissioners.

What Should Education Accomplish

By Booker T. Washington

[Extracts from the Address delivered at Meridian Academy, Meridian, Miss.]

The question is often asked: What is expected to be accomplished through the education of the Negro? What should education do for a race? That is a question which is constantly being asked, and especially a question which the its application to the black man in this country. its application to the black man in this countryy. Education is of little value for any race except as it is used in a manner to increase human usefulness and human happiness.

Before any people can advance very far in civilization there are certain material or economic needs that must be met and mastered. No race of people in the history of the world that has not at some time become owners of land and owners of homes in a large degree has ever gone forward and had the respect and confidence of their fellows. Just now, especially in the South, the Negro occupies a peculiarly interesting position. There never was such an opportunity to get hold of the land and to become the owners of homes as is presented to the black man at the present time, and I hope that you will let nothing stand in the way of taking advantage of this opportunity. Wherever the white man can buy land in the South, with few exceptions the Negro can buy it. If we do not take advantage of these opportunities now, the large influx of foreigners and Northerners will put the price of land beyond our getting. Besides, every individual in this community will testify that when the Negro becomes the owner of property, with few exceptions, he becomes a law-abiding, conservative, moral and upright citizen, one that is an honor to the community. It is very seldom that the Negro who has a bank account, is a taxpayer, who owns his little home, ever becomes a criminal. The criminals for the most part come from that element of the race who own no soil, who have no bank account, who have no fixed and permanent employment, but wander from one town to another and from one plantation to another without visible and reliable means of support.

Another result that education should accomplish is to improve the methods of labor on the part of a race, and when I say methods of labor, I include labor with the hand, with the head and with the heart. First of all, education should result in the race realizing the dignity and beauty of all forms of labor, and that all forms of idleness are a disgrace. In the days of slavery the Negro was worked. There is a vast difference between being worked and working.

In our methods of educating the Negro we should see to it that the education has bearing upon the employments which the Negro is likely to engage in. For example, here in the South, the masses of our people are engaged in agriculture and large numbers in mechanics, and a large number in many forms of domestic service. Can we convince the world that an educated Negro is more valuable in agriculture, more valuable in mechanics and in domestic life than is true of an ignorant one? These results cannot be accomplished all at once. The world must bear in mind that a little after freedom the Negro had the idea that to get away from labor was the main thing to be accomplished. It has required years to teach him that labor, instead of being a curse, is a blessing. Within the past 25 or 30 years we have simply been educating a few leaders to spread the gospel of labor, and in proportion as we can multiply the number, the results of industrial education will be more apparent in every state, county and community in the South.

Education should help the Negro to become reliable in his labor. The charge is constantly brought against us that we cannot be depended upon as laborers for continuous service; that if the wage is paid on Saturday night, the employer is never certain that any large proportion of the laborers will return to service on Monday morning; that many will not return until the last cent has been spent. Our leaders should see to it that our people are constantly taught to shake off and get rid of this unfortunate habit. The disposition to move year by year from one plantation to another, from one community to another, from one state to another, is of little advantage to us.

One of the serious and great problems confronting the South just now is the scarcity of labor. Our industrial operations have gone forward at an immense rate, so much so that there are three jobs looking for every laborer instead of three laborers looking for one job. This condition of things makes it all the more important, it seems to me, that both sides of the question be considered. The Negro has a responsibility, the white man has a responsibility. The Negro should be protected in his rights as a citizen, especitlly in the country districts; should be protected from mob violence, and I am glad to say that this is being done most effectually in your state. If the Negro is to be induced to remain in the country districts and keep away from the large cities, where he is likely to grow up in idleness, good schools should be provided for the country districts, decent and comfortable houses for the laborers; in a word, life in the country should be made just as attractive and comfortable as life in the city. Unless the Negro gets protection of life and property in the country and the advantages of schools and churches in the same degree that he does in the cities, it is not likely he will remain contented as a laborer in the country districts.

The black people and white people are to remain, in my opinion, for all time, here in the South, and peace and harmony and good will and mutual forbearance should always exist.

The Negro should be proud of his community and loyal to the state in which he lives. I wish more and more that the white people might call attention to the good points in connection with he Negro's life instead of laying quite so much emphasis on his weak points. I believe that the Negro would be encouraged to make himself more useful and more reliable if, through the public press and in other ways, he could receive more commendation and not quite so much condemnation. Race hatred and ignorance never settled any problem on earth nor ever helped forward a sigle human being.

We should not become discouraged as a people. Right here in the heart of the South there are white men who are just as much interested in our progress and our future as is true of the white people in any other part of the world, and this class of white people we should trust and stand by. We should seek more and more to emphasize our advantages rather than our disadvantages. We should seek more and more to call attention not so much to the sins of the Southern white man, but to his righteous deeds, and in proportion as both races thus feel and act, in the same degree shall we have peace and prosperity.

The Rennaissance of Methodism

By John T. Brushingham, D. D.

Evangelist Manhood comes straight to the point: "Unless Methodism shall bestir herself, God will give to some other denomination the leadership in evangelistic work, and we shall lose our crown."

An Evangelistic Ministry. He calls earnestly for an evangelistic ministry, affirming that the supreme work of the minister whom God has called to be a fisher of men, and remarking that even in our theological seminaries the art of soul winning has not been given its proper place. He places spiritual power where it belongs, far above intellectual embellishment, church building and money raising. He demands in the minister a high conception of the supreme importance of his work, faith in the word of God, and in the divine Christ, the passion for souls (as if we went to men with our hearts bleeding in our hands), and the enduement of power.

An Evangelistic Church. The author is equally pointed in his demand for a pentecostal church as well as a pentecostal ministry. At Pentecost Peter was surrounded by a praying church and three thousand were converted. On Mars Hill, Paul preached, but there was no revival. The obstacles in the churches are worldliness, social pride, indifference concerning the unsaved, unconfessed sin, and prejudice against revivals. The conditions in the church at Pentecost were, the church united, the church mighty in prayer and the church recognizing the leadership of the Holy Spirit, instead of the usurpations of ponderous ecclesiastical machinery and the wisdom of men.

The Preaching Needed. Of the claptrap and sensationalism that has been misnamed preaching during recent years, and of the fustian and twaddle and platitudes of what some have called the new evangelism, the author delivers his soul. This wicked world, he tells us truly, will never be stirred to its depths except by fiery preaching of the eternal fundamental truths of the Holy Scriptures. He pays his respects to Hull House as useful in its way, but quotes Dr. Hillis: "I see that what I had once hoped might be done to my fellows through schemes of social reform and philanthropy can only be done by the influence of Jesus Christ. For there is no dynamic in reform save the cross of Jesus Christ." Genuine conversion and saturation with the Christ life will bring ideal social conditions.

Doctrines and Methods. The doctrines to be emphasized are: Repentance, regeneration, the witness of the Spirit, the infilling of the Spirit, the return of the Lord. The methods to be emphasized are: Personal work, open air and tent meetings, Sunday school evangelism, prayer meetings, evangelism, special revival services on the model of the day of Pentecost.

This striking and convincing booklet concludes: "If these cardinal doctrines of the word of God, preached by the apostles and by our fathers, shall be emphasized anew by an evangelistic ministry, and these well-tried methods of work shall be wisely and faithfully used in all our churches, then, in answer to our united prayer, there shall come in these twentieth century days such a Pentecost as shall girdle the earth." To all this we say Amen, and we believe that every reader of this inspired booklet will say Amen.

This book may be purchased of Eaton & Mains, 429 Carondelet Street, New Orleans, for 25 cents.

The Influence of the Bible Eduoation on Christian Character

By Miss Mary Lillie Waters

The influence of this, the highest of all educations, may be likened unto a drop of water. It is never still, but rushes on and on, pushing its way hither and thither for good.

There is not a book, the drawing forth and establishment of whose principles can prepare us for perfect living as can those from that most blessed Book of books, the Holy Bible. When we have drawn forth the substance of those words: "Lo, I am with you alway," though the way may seem dark, the path lonely, yet through it all we can see the shining light. And oft we are permitted to see the cause of this cloud, the purpose for which it was and behind it the mighty hand of our Heavenly Father. Here we find a doctrine of faith, faith to believe that He is with us. And then there is a peculiar knowledge which the word of God gives us, truths which we could not learn from nature nor in any other way except from the study of His word. The Bible tells us that God is just and good and merciful. But the teachings of nature are not uniform. Here we see justice and goodness, there we see what looks like a want of both, and were it not for our knowledge of the Bible we could not fully decide whether God is just and good and merciful or not.

The influence of this education on Christian character is great. It is pure, sweet and wholesome. It has a tendency to purify and therefore improve all our powers both morally, intellectually and socially. Thorugh Bible education the mind of man comes in contact with the Divine mind, and thus we derive our greatest benefit. The great object of the Bible is to develop all the powers of the soul, so that the soul may be restored to perfection, and therefore its influence upon Christian character is to make it perfect.

To prepare us for complete living is the function of education, and surely the education that does not include the study of the book of the Life Giver is a failure.

We study about the surface of the earth, the sun, moon, stars, air, flowers, birds, beasts and man, but before we have finished our course what do we do? We pick up our Bibles and we turn to Genesis, 1st chapter, and what do we read? The first verse says: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." Is that all? No. Read it through, and you will find that He created everything that was, is now and ever shall be. And it is from this creation that we get our week. We have seven days, the seventh being the Sabbath, the day on which the Lord rested and therefore made it holy.

We read the pages of history, and in vain do we strive for a character to emulate. We find many careers there, but we fail to find the ideal character, and so we turn to our Bibles and we read of one born in Bethlehem of Judea, and who was found by wise men in a manger. One who, at the age of twelve, was found in the Temple answering questions in a way that astonished those about Him, and yet when His parents came for Him, He returned willingly with them to Nazareth. At the age of thirty we find him starting out on the mission of His life. Is He looking for fame? Does He waste time looking for the easiest work? Does He boast, take any honor to Himself or teach any false doctrines? Can you not see Him descending the banks of the Jordan? He, the Lord, coming to John to be baptized. John had said, "I am not worthy to unlatch His shoes." Yet He comes to John to be baptized by him. Then see Him welcomed today in Jerusalem and to-morrow these same people cry "Crucify Him!" See how He bears it all! See Him on the cross! He only says, "Forgive them, Father, for they know not what they do." Ah! Christians, well might we try to emulate His glory. Well might we try to be more Christlike. How can a Christian study this, the life of the greatest man the world has ever known and will ever know, without benefit, without being lifted up to nobler and better things. To think of this great man, our Savior, being also our brother and that through His suffering we are given life everlasting and a model, an example, a life without blemish.

The influence of this education upon Christian character cannot be bound. The height is too high for us, the width too wide.

We notice that Christ was sent here for a purpose, again we notice the prophets, the apostles and the multitudes all had different duties to perform, and we decide that we, yes, even we, are sent here for a purpose. They have finished the work assigned them and what is the influence? That we should push onwards and upwards, ever doing our duty as followers of Christ.

This influence cannot be hidden. The Christian character that is influenced by this education will be seen and felt, if not heard.

"Father of mercies, in Thy word
What endless glory shines!
Forever be Thy name adored
For these celestial lines.

Here may the wretched sons of want
Exhaustless riches find;
Riches above what earth can grant,
And lasting as the mind.

Here the fair tree of knowledge grows,
And yields a free repast;
Sublimer sweets than nature knows
Invite the longing taste.

Here the Redeemer's welcome voice
Spreads heavenly peace around;
And life and everlasting joys
Attend the blissful sound.

O may these heavenly pages be
Our ever dear delight;
And still new beauties may we see,
And still increasing light.

Divine Instructor, gracious Lord,
Be Thou forever near;
Teach us to love Thy sacred word,
And view the Savior there."

The Will Not Club

By Bishop W. F. Mallalieu

The city of Louisville, Ky., is a peculiar place. It is neither wholly Southern nor wholly Northern. It is a mixture of both. One-seventh of its people are colored; six-sevenths are white. It has a Sunday on its calendars, but not enough importance is attached to it to make it at all Puritanic. It is quite the common thing to keep the retail groceries open on every day in the week, and it seems the saloons have equal liberty. They make a good deal of whiskey here, and do not by any means export the whole of it. There is, of course, a vast amount of drunkenness in the place, and there are other things that attract the attention of a stranger. I have just spent a Sunday in this city, and make a note of some of the things I have observed.

First of all, on the sacred day I have seen many boys and young men smoking the disgusting things called cigarettes. Now everybody knows that boys who have this habit are driving nails in their own coffins. They will go down to untimely graves, and if they do not become insane or idiotic, they will be worthless for all good purposes and a constant burden on friends or the public. Then I have seen two ten-year-old boys, in knickerbockers, puny, pale-faced, stupid-looking little fellows, hard at work with little black briarwood pipes, pipes that must be thoroughly saturated with nicotine poison.

Again I have seen a bunch of white boys from twelve to seventeen or eighteen years of age, on a street corner, "shooting craps," for money, and with them a black man sharing in the game, and no color line drawn. On the same Sunday I have seen several well-dressed young men in one of the principal hotels, gambling with dice. Nearly all sorts and all ages seem to take to this particular vice, without fear or shame. It does not seem to have occurred to them that gambling is a mere modification of theft, there being very little difference between a gambler and a thief.

Then, again, on this same Sunday, I have seen at least half a dozen drunken men, most of them black, staggering along the streets of the city. And all this on my way to or from a morning and afternoon church service.

These conditions exist to a greater or less extent in other cities besides, and there ought to be a remedy, and our young people of whatever color ought to be saved from falling into these wicked and destructive practices they ought to be warned of their danger, and shown some better way.

Why not have a "Will Not Club," or a "Will Not Society," in every one of our churches, in every one of our Sunday schools?

Suppose every Sunday school should have an organization of "Will Nots," wit hthe following constitution:

PLEDGE OF THE "WILL NOTS."

1. I will not use tobacco in any form.
2. I will not bet or gamble in any form.
3. I will not touch, taste or handle any intoxicant.

If all our boys would join the "Will Nots," and then, as Emperor Williams of blessed memory used to say, "Put money in the pocket, knowledge in the head, and religion in the heart, a bright, prosperous, happy and useful future will be theirs. Why not have a few thousands of "Will Not Clubs" in our churches and Sunday schools?

There are some people who turn gray, but do not grow hoary, whose faces are furrowed but not wrinkled, whose hearts are sore wounded in many places, but are not dead. There is a youth that bids defiance to age, and there is a kindness which laughs at the world's rough usage. These are they who have returned good for evil. * * * Whom the gods love die young, and they die young because they never grow old.—F. Marion Crawford.

Love is the great miracle worker. In the storm of battle, what multitudes have gladly died for king and country! Without the help of passionate, hot-blooded impulses, thousands and thousands of men and women have serenely accepted death in cruel and ghastly forms, because they loved One who first loved them. One who loved them when they could plead no loveliness of their own. One who loved them till love itself burst forth from unsealed fountains within and washed them clean. Selfishness is a great power, but love is a greater; it is the motive and interest of the highest life on earth and in heaven.—Rev. C. G. Ames.

The lightsome countenance of a friend giveth such an inward decking to the house where it lodgeth, as proudest palaces have cause to envy the gilding.—Sir P. Sydney.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

"Learn of Me"

O, thou, so weary of thy self-denials,
And so impatient of thy little cross,
Is it so hard to bear thy daily trials,
To count all earthly things a gainful loss?
Poor wandering soul! I know that thou art seeking
Some easier way, as all have sought before,
To silence the reproachful inward speaking,
Some landward path unto an island shore,
The cross is heavy, in thy human mesure,
The way too narrow for thy inward pride;
Thou canst not lay thine intellectual treasure
At the low footstool of the Crucified.
In meek obedience to the heavenly Teacher,
Thy weary soul can only find its peace:
Seeking no aid from any human creature,
Looking to God alone for his release.
—Selected.

Religion with some is like face powder, just on the surface for looks.

Some people can make a better class meeting testimony before strangers than before their own family.

"Ambassadors for Christ." That is appointed messengers, agents to acts in Christ's stead for Him. Are you representing Him?

Yes, I know we are to be in the spirit of prayer all the time, but, really, now, how much have you prayed today? How many hours have been given to prayer this week?

Have you really been converted or only baptized and joined the church? The interests at stake are so great that we ought to know beyond peradventure.

"Willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord." Can you say that? Or do you flinch a little at the thought? You may be called on today to go. Who knows. "Be ye also ready."

Forethought. Just what that is is a question. In the name of forethought many prepare for a rainy day who entirely ignore the fiery day. The rainy day may never come. The fiery day is sure to. Do such really have forethought?

"Give us a quiet hour in which to die" is a petition frequently heard that cannot be pleasing to the Father. He says "the effect of righteousness shall be quietness forever. And my people shall dwell in quiet resting places." Thank God we are not limited to an hour of quiet it is ours forever, our dwelling place.

"Love beareth all things." On freight cars you read this legend:

Capacity, 60,000 pounds.
Load limit, 70,000 pounds.

Love, unlike the freight car, has no load limit, but "beareth all things."

Called to the ministry. That means called to preach the Gospel. And now you are following some other calling. What is the reason? Have you lost your call to preach, or were you mistaken in your call or has God excused you from the call or—well, what is the reason you have forsaken the pulpit?

Since God "hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth" it is just as honorable to be men of one color as another. A man is a man for all of his color. It is not skin pigment that makes or unmakes the man. Actions make the man. Skin color can no more do it than can the clothes on his back. The issues of life, the Wise Man says, are out of the heart. "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life." So humanly speaking, what you are depends on yourself; your actions and not the color of your skin. Keep this in mind. Guard both words and actions. Especially, refuse to use the term "nigger." It is coarse, rude, unmannerly, unkind, contemptuous to speak of or to one another as "nigger." Never do it even in jest. The term signfiies mean, low, worthless and is just as applicable to such of any other color as to a black man, Don't use the word. In action be upright. Make your word as trustworthy as a bond. Live above reproach. Do good to all "especially to such as are of the household of faith." Prove to the world that you are a man God made and in the world to come you will hear Him say, "come ye blessed of my Father." Recognition is sure to come there whether it does here or not.

The Better Age

When, after days of dreary rain, a space
Of clear, sofe blue, between the parting clouds,
Opens on the drenched fields and dripping woods,
The tillers of the soil are glad, and say
The storm is overpast. For well they know
That in this clear blue spot begins the reign
Of sunshine. Broader shall the opening grow,
As through the throng of clouds the western wind
Goes forth, a conqueror, and scatters them
And sweeps them from the glorious cope of heaven.

Thus, in the works of mercy that engage
The minds and hands of thousands, we behold
Signs of a blessed future. They who watch
Beside the sick beds of the poor, who seek
And lead the erring back to the right way,
And heal the wounded spirit with the balm
Of pity, and hold back the cruel hand
That smites the helpless; they whose labors win
The outcast hater of his kind to feel
The power of goodness and shed penitent tears,
Are God's elected agents to bring in
The better age. With gladness and with thanks
We number mercy's triumphs, and our hopes
Go forward to the train of glorious years,
When all the clouds of strife that darken earth
And hide the face of heaven shall roll away,
And, like a calm, sweet sunshine, love and peace
Shall light the dreariest walks of human life.
—William Cullen Bryant.

The Impulse to Follow Christ

NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS.

No matter how far the earthly pilgrim wanders from the path, God sends His angels of recovery out to win the wanderer back from the thorns and thickets, the bog and the slough. Each night simply marks an epoch, each morning begins a new march. Influences may be silent and secret, but they are real. Not the stroke of the earthquake is so powerful as the stroke of Christ's truth falling upon man's hard heart. Not the thunder of the storm is so entreating as His still small voice, calling men away from selfishness and sin toward obedience and duty. And once the man is redeemed and made Christian and ripe and mature, who shall describe the beauty of this divine work? If scientists would crange mud to gold, or pebbles to diamonds, it would be as nothing compared to this transformation of man from the power of sin and Satan into the light and beauty of the kingdom of God. And once such a transformation has been wrought, the whole earth ought to wake, and every string of heaven quiver with the out-blown joy. For there is joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons that need no repentance. Oh! it is a wonderful thing to be conscious of an abiding impulse to follow Christ in thought, disposition and life. Happy are they who have built upon His foundation, and have found Him a guide, counselor, a school-master, a friend. And having followed him here below, when at last the iron gate of life closes behind us, and the golden gate of death swings open before, and we enter the company of the noble and the great garnered from all the ages, and by reason of some small deed to Christ's little ones, are crowned, then every generous heart will lift up the crown placed upon the brow by the pierced hand, and everything that is finest in thought and purest in feeling will rise up to proclaim Christ as Lord and Master, and to place the crown before His feet while we confess that not unto us, not unto us but unto His name be all the praise of our salvation.—From "Faith and Character."

Postal Card Sermon

By Rev. B. F. Witherspoon, D.D.

Text.—Deut. xxx. 19.

Theme.—Choosing Life.

The text contains the greatest conclusion to which the human mind can be directed.

There are many conclusions to which men come in this life only to be most fearfully and sometimes eternally disappointed. Felix concluded to postpone his salvation from death for a season that never came. Caesar concluded to defer the urgent business of life just at the point and at the time where the night of death set in, in all of its gloom and misery. The text earnestly points out one choice or conclusion which all men should make, and all others will be well and wisely made.

This choice should be made by each man, because the whole matter of life rests alone with him he is free to choose life or death; there is no middle ground between life and death; only the man who lives for God on earth can hope to live with Him in heaven; and because life is everything in this world, and in the world to come.

Life originally was the very breath of God and is an undying substance that runs parallel with the life of God. He that hath chosen life, hath in himself the propelling power of faith, the basis of obedience, the sweetness of love, the inspiration of hope, the steadfastness of patience, and the springtide of meekness.

He that hath chosen life strives daily to know God, labors earnestly to serve God, and to enjoy His presense at all times. The man that hath chosen life has but one object in view, and has chosen Him who is his real life, and can therefore please, glorify and live for God.

Dear reader, Christ has long chosen you to be His follower. Have you chosen Him, the Life, the Truth, the Way? Remember, God must stand by your choice, whether it be good or bad; that in youth is the time to choose life; that what you fail to choose in time, you shall never have an opportunity of choosing after death takes you into boundless eternity; that each man has life eternal who chooses it; that the man who comes short of life must blame himself: that he who dies in sin, dies because he by choice wills to die, and that he who refuses to live, has chosen to die, to make his bed in hell. Children, does it seem unjust for you to choose life? Young man, does it appear to be unreasonable for you to choose life? Old man, is it inconvenient for you to choose life?

"But if thou leave thy God,
Nor choose the path to heaven,
Then shalt thou perish in thy sins.
And never be forgiven."

Greenville, S. C.

The future is lighted for us with the radiant colors of hope. Strife and sorrow shall disappear. Peace and love shall reign supreme. The dream of poets, the lesson of priest and prophet, the inspiration of the great musician, is confirmed in the light of modern knowledge; and as we gird ourselves up for the work of life, we may look forward to the time when in the truest sense the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdom of Christ.—John Fiske.

YOUNG FRIENDS

Mother's Eyes

BY MORGAN SHEPARD.

Most always I don't mind at all when Mother says to me:
"Come, dear, it's bedtime," and she puts me close up to her knee;
The way she says it seems to make me say the same far down
Inside of me, so that her words sound almost like my own.
Maybe, perhaps, I want to play some more, or read my book.
But I forget about such things when I see Mother's look.
There's something in my Mother's eyes when bedtime comes at night
That makes me want to look at her and do the thing that's right.
At bedtime, Mother's eyes are strange, they are so soft and true;
Her words are very gentle, and her hands are gentle, too.
We do not laugh, or talk, or play when she puts me to bed;
We seem to want to wait and think of other things instead.
Of course, we talk a little bit, but in a different way—
The things we think and talk of then don't seem to come by day.
I ask her questions when I'm there beside her on the floor
That I don't like to ask till then, or never thought before.
Oh, I'm quite sure that Mother's eyes give thoughts for me to think,
For when I look straight into them they very seldom wink.
Of course, her eyes can't talk, I know, but, when I look, I see
There's something in them every time that must be just for me.
I do not tell her what I see, or of the pain it brings
(It is a sort o' pain and makes me want to do good things).
Sometimes she takes me in her lap and holds me very tight.
And I can feel her breathe real soft (but that's because it's Night);
And once I felt her breathe quite long—she does that when she sighs—
So I looked up and think I saw some tears all in her eyes.
I didn't know just what to do, but thought that I would cry:
It hurts me in my throat and heart when I feel Mother sigh.
Then something happened, very queer (but Mother's different),
She held me awful close to her, and some of her tears went Right over on my cheeks and eyes, I felt them very wet:
She kissed me lots, and squeezed me, too; I thought she'd never let Me up again, but soon she did, and I could plainly see
Her tears were gone, and there she was, just laughing some at me.
So then she put me in my bed, and I could see a light
Was shining out of Mother's eyes as she kissed me Good-Night.

How to Succeed

Kubelik, the greatest of violin players, says, in an exchange, that he should like to give the American boys advice on how to succeed:

First, they must learn to wish. Until they know how to wish, till their whole soul is one wish, they can never be what they would be. A wish that hurts and hurts—that is the wish that comes true. And the whole world, and poverty, and friends, and ill health cannot stop it from coming true.

If they wish they will work. Wishing and working will make the world right over for them. The boy who would like to succeed, he cannot succeed, but the boy who wishes to succeed till he cannot eat or sleep, or do anything but work for wishing, he has success.—Epworth Herald.

Be Yourself

BY ALICE MAY DOUGLAS.

Have a mind of your own. Do your own thinking. Respect your own ideas. Do not be afraid to differ from others, but be slow to put forward opinions that differ from those of the rest of a company unless yours be such that should be put forward. Have convictions and stand by them. But do not hesitate to change your mind when occasion demands. One has said that a person who never changes his mind is one who does not have a mind large enough to change, and another that for a man to change his mind is simply to confess that he is wiser to-day than he was yesterday.

Be yourself. You can't be another if you try; people will respect you more when you are living your own natural life and not trying to live that of another.

Allow others to likewise be themselves. One of the greatest authors has said that one of you is enough for the world.—The American Boy.

The Power of the Lillies

Those small acts of kindness that children and young people are constantly doing. These acts are the "littles"—what is their power? The answer is given graphically in the Sunday at Home:

No greater mistake could be made, however, than that of counting these little services as trifling. God judges of things not by their bigness or glitter, but by this: have we done what we could? By this test the seemingly small offhand kindness may one day be found greater than many a deed that gets into the papers and which everybody praises. A wise engineer thinks just as much of a pin or bolt as he does of the great driving wheel, for he knows that nothing can go rightly unless every pin and nut is faithfully doing its duty. For want of a nail the horse's shoe came off, for want of the shoe the horse was lamed, for want of the rider arriving in time the battle was lost. This is the whole story of the power of what we call littles; there is nothing really little or really great with God; if it is right, if it is kind, if it is good, then what we call little is as great in his eyes as the thing that everyone speaks about.

Go on, then, my bairnies, with your quiet deeds of kindness; these are the seeds out of which the bigger fruits you wish for will yet come.—Northwestern Advocate.

Colorado Letter

Iam proud to say the banner of the Methodist Episcopal Church is now waving in the city of Colorado Springs. Three years ago we had nothing here, now we have three churches, one in Pueblo and one in Denver, and in a few years will have them all over the State. Rev. C. W. Holmes has done a noble work. He has for a number of years devoted much of his time to mission work, rescuing the fallen and furnishing aid to those in distress and helping in every way possible those in trouble. The third annual session of the Lincoln Conference was held in this city March 2-5, presided over by Bishop H. W. Warren, and since the conference our dear pastor's wife was taken down seriously ill and had to be carried to St. Francis Hospital. She is much better now and is again at his side in the parsonage and the good work will move on again. Since the great Epworth League Convention will be in Denver and a large number will stop at Colorado Springs, great preparations are being made to entertain both white and colored delegates, and the Methodists and Baptists are both preparing to help us entertain, and we want all Methodist Episcopal ministers to be sure and stop over in the Springs, better known as Little London, and all those who will stop here will think it is London. Be sure and stop, for we need your encouragement.

SEDLEY B. JONES.

THE SUPERINTENDENT OF OUR LARGEST SUNDAY SCHOOL

MR. MARCUS F. PITTS, of Philadelphia, Pa.,
Whose Sunday School Has an Enrollment of 1713

Methodism has some large Sunday Schools, but our own Bainbridge Street Sunday School in Philadelphia has not only the distinction of being the largest Sunday School among our colored churches, but stands tenth in the entire list of Methodist Episcopal Sunday Schools throughout the world. It has a total enrollment of 1,713, and Mr. Marcus F. Pitts is the superintendent and has been since 1887, except for a short period when he served as pastor of the Carver Street Mission. When Mr. Pitts took hold of this Sunday School it had an enrollment of only 200, but he has given himself unreservedly to this work and has built an institution which is an honor to himself as well as to our great denomination. An increase from 200 to 1,713 is no mean record. Brother Pitts has proven himself to be a man of great ability in the training of children and for this he holds a most unique place in the city of Philadelphia. A few facts in reference to the life of this most successful superintendent will be welcomed. He was born in 1854, on the 29th day of January, near Berlin, Md. When but a boy of 9 he served three years under a very hard and merciless master, who, of course, deprived him of a common school education. After emancipation he served in various employments, as a farmer, ditch and wood cutter. He went to Philadelphia at the age of 20, but having a thirst for knowledge he attended a night school and was awarded a prize for his close application to his studies. In 1887 he was elected financial secretary of the Light Star Lodge and the same year was elected superintendent of the Bainbridge Street Sunday School. In the same year, also, he was appointed chairman of the Citizens' Permanent Relief Committee of Philadelphia, and in this position he has given great satisfaction in the relief of the suffering of the poor. These positions he has held without compensation. But still another honor came to him within the same year—that of the management of the Alta Friendly Society, a white institution, which recognized his business ability and unquestioned honesty. He was finally appointed to the superintendency of this society, which position he holds to-day. He is the first Afro-American appointed by this society, and this position was given him solely on his merit. Brother Pitts is president of the Conference Board of Church Extension of the Delaware Conference and is a member of the trustee board of Bainbridge Street Church. His Sunday school on Easter raised $468.82.

Said an old divine to a young one once: "From every text in Scripture there is a road to the metropolis of the Scripture, that is, Christ, and, my dear brother, your business is when you get a text to say, 'Now, what is the road to Christ?' and then preach a sermon, running along the road towards the great metropolis—Christ. I have not yet found a text that has not a road to Christ in it. I will get one; I will go over hedge and ditch, but I would get at my Master, for the sermon cannot do any good unless there is a savor of Christ in it."

LESSON XIII.
June 25, 1905.

Second Quarterly Review

Golden Text.—"But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through his name.—John xx. 31.

I. JESUS THE GOOD SHEPHERD.

Golden Text.—"I am the good shepherd the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep." It is the life that is the most valuable that is most willing to give itself up for another. Only a life of love can be really large.

II. THE RAISING OF LAZARUS.

Golden Text.—"Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life." It is not easily credible that Christ, who conquerer death, can raise the dead. God will give his sweetest secrets to us as soon as we can be trusted with them.

III. THE SUPPER AT BETHANY.

Golden Text—"She hath done what she could." He always does something worth while who does what he can. Christ rated deeds by quality not by quantity.

IV. THE ENTRY OF JESUS INTO JERUSALEM.

Golden Text.—"Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord." He can never reach the goal who does not run in the "name of the Lord." Only a great nature can sustain a great name.

V. JESUS WASHING THE DISCIPLES' FEET.

Golden Text.—"By love serve one another." Only the lowliest heart is fit for the highest honors. Kingliness is not in crowns but in character.

VI. THE VINE AND THE BRANCHES.

Golden Text.—"Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit". A tree may be known by what it does not bear as well as by what it bears. A man must be much before he can do much.

VII. JESUS PRAYS FOR HIS FOLLOWERS.

Golden Text.—"I pray for them." The answer to Christ's perfect prayer for us can be prevented only by ourselves.

VIII. JESUS BEFORE PILATE.

Golden Text.—"Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice." It is practically impossible for a false heart to hear truly. Character cannot be grown in the soil of compromise.

IX. THE CRUCIFIXION.

Golden Text.—"Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures." Like a grain of wheat dying on its way to a larger life, so Christ died on his way to a larger life in the lives of redeemed men. Some cross must be borne by us all in our triumphal march to our coronation.

X. THE RESURRECTION.

Golden Text.—"But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept." Death is incidental, life is essential; death is temporary, life is eternal. The resurrection of Christ in the past is a pledge of the Christian's resurrection in the future.

XI. THE MESSAGE OF THE RISEN CHRIST.

Golden Text.—"I am he that liveth and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore." Death is the temporary, shadowy tunnel that lies on the way to the eternal day.

XII. THE HEAVENLY HOME.

Golden Text.—"To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne." The path to eternal thrones leads through the land of temporary tribulations.

The Vast Field of Southern Asia

Scripture Reference—Mal. i. 11; Matt. viii. 11; John x. 16.

One of our most important mission fields is what is known as Southern Asia. It includes India, Burma, Malaysia and the Philippine Islands. Whether we consider the extent of the territory, the number of people to be reached or their moral condition, or their spiritual need, this field is immense. Here we find a population of not less than 350,000,000 people. Success has attended our efforts more largely here than in any other mission field. Here we have eight mission conferences and missions with four missionary bishops. They are Bishops Thoburn, Warne, Robinson and Oldham.

INDIA.—It is estimated that India contains one-fifth of the world's population. The people are chiefly Hindus, Brahmans and Mohammedans. While the vast majority of the people live in villages, they have some great and populous cities.

The system of caste, the condition of womanhood, child marriage, the degradation of child widows and the superstitions of the masses, their poverty, the famines that devastate the country—these manifest the great need of this field. The intelligence of many and their dissatisfaction with their old faith, together with the soul thirst of the multitude bespeak our opportunity. Dr. Wm. Butler began our mission work in India in 1856. We have now four great annual conferences and nearly one hundred thousand members and probationers. Still, in this vast field we have only begun the work of evangelization. Bishop Warne said: "Livingstone received his call to his great life work by hearing Moffatt, after returning from Africa, say, 'I can see the smoke of a thousand villages where the gospel has not gone; I have to report that after a quadrennium of extensive travel in India I can see the smoke, not of a thousand, but of five hundred thousand villages in which there is not a Christian. Who can estimate the opportunity and responsibility of the Christian church in India?'"

BURMA.—The second country in Southern Asia field is Burma. Its size and geographical position make it of very great importance. It borders on India, China, Siam and the Malay States and has a long sea coast. It is not as densely settled as India and China and many thousands of the emigrating population from both countries pour into Burma and mingle.

Burmese are a bright people, but mingling with so many influences make this a difficult field. However, they have no caste system as in India. They have the purest form of Budhism. Seventy per cent of their males can read and their children flock to our mission schools. We have a growing mission in this promising field.

MALAYSIA.—This field embraces the Malay peninsula and an "island continent" with a present population, excluding the Philippines, about equal to that of the United States. Our work in this field was begun in 1884. Success has attended our efforts in the cities of Singapore and Penang. This mission became an annual conference in 1902. Vast opportunity is afforded Christianity in this immense field.

THE PHILIPPINES.—The open door of the Philippine archipelago has been entered. After five years of mission work we have about 12,000 members and an increasing number of native preachers. Our success is amazing. Dr. Stuntz and his fellow missionaries have wrought well. God has blessed them in this land of Romanism and heathenism.

Through the Evangelical Union, which divides the territory among the denominations, our church was given equal privileges in Manila, and to the north, the very choicest part of the island of Luzon was allotted to us, and still larger sections have been recognized by the union as our territory. The Island of Mindanao has opene to us.

A most promising mission field is in the Philippine Islands.

Providence Normal and Industrial School

The closing exercises of the Providence Normal Agricultural and Industrial School, Cowpens, S. C., began on May 7, with the Annual Sermon by the Rev. J. C. White, a prominent Baptist minister of Rock Hill, S. C. In this effort Rev. White acquitted himself with credit. It was indeed a great sermon, logical, forceful and scholarly.

On Monday night, the 8th of May, the annual address was delivered by the Rev. M. M. Muzon, A. M., presiding elder of the Greenville District. Elder Muzon's ability as an orator is well and widely known. He was frequently applauded and his pointed illustrations and brilliant rhetorical flights as well as his address in the main, have been the topics of conversation and favorable comment ever since.

The three nights' exhibitions were in every sense a perfect success. Although beginning on Tuesday night, we could not conclude until the following Monday night on account of rain and storms. From the town and country for miles around the best white people attended in large numbers, from the first to the last night. Many of these would remain and shake hands with the Principal, congratulating him upon his wonderful success, and bidding him Godspeed. Every available inch of space in the large church building was filled to overflowing. During the year nearly three hundred students were enrolled. These were taught by five competent and Christian teachers, including Rev. D. H. Kearse, A. M., Principal, and his faithful and loving wife. Rev. and Mrs. Kearse are teachers of wide experience, and have given to this community nearly four of the best years of their life, for which they have never received one cent as compensation for their service. In fact they have given almost every dollar the Reverend has received for his salary as pastor of our church in the development and support of the school and church. Eighteen acres of land have been purchased. Over one hundred dollars' worth of school furniture and fixtures have been bought, every dollar of which represents the personal outlay of Rev. Kearse and his wife, while they have also contributed largely to the school's current expenses. Verily such sacrifices are rarely seen in these days of greed and gain. It is very gratifying to note that the school is rapidly growing and gaining friends each day North and South, and it is hoped that a large building will go up this summer.

The school could have had nearly one hundred boarding students this year had there been sufficient accommodations. Many applications from abroad could not be considered for reasons above stated. Perhaps there is no place in all South Carolina where a school of this kind is more needed than here. Until the Providence Normal was organized by Rev. D. H. Kearse, some four years ago, the system of education was worse than none at all. The blank expressions upon the faces of our young men and women, not more than a dozen of whom had ever gone beyond the second reader, told the pitiable story of a woefully neglected childhood. Many and various were the incentives to wreck and ruin. With few exceptions, home life was homes of inebriety, vice and crime. The mind of the child having nothing nobler to emulate, very naturally inherited the moral and mental disposition of those amidst whose influence they moved. That mind became the slave of depraved nature, and animal passion, and thus juvenile criminals, to take the places of those of riper years, were alarmingly in evidence. We are glad to say that certainly have these good people interfered with prior conditions. More than two hundred of our people old and young, have been gloriously brought to the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in their right mind. This year Miss Martha J. Chambers, L. I., Miss Georgie R. Irwin, and Miss Nola J. Hardy, assisted Rev. and Mrs. Kearse in their work. These ladies did most excellent work, and are greatly loved by pupils and parents. We earnestly trust that God will give Rev. and Mrs. Kearse many years among us, and that the Providence Normal Agricultural and Industrial School has come to stay. In addition to his school work, Rev. Kearse has succeeded in building for us certainly one of the prettiest churches in the South Carolina Conference, unique in design, spacious in apartments, beautiful in finish. The parsonage has had a new chimney built, and two new rooms added, also one unfinished room nicely plastered. A fine new church organ, worth over $150, has been bought and paid for. The church last year raised over $1,200 for all purposes. Thus Cowpens, once the insignificant, has now but one equal on the Spartanburg District—Silver Hill, and she excels only in point of greater numerical strength and the superior advantages of its members.

WM. WILKINS.

Commencement at Cookman Institute

The year that opened so full of promise and prosperity closed in the same manner on Friday, June 2. The neatly printed program which had been distributed were rendered in a creditable manner, and the closing days of the year were pleasing evidences that the students had made commendable progress.

The week opened with the baccalaureate sermon preached in the Ebenezer church to a large audience by Bishop Luther B. Wilson, of Chattanooga, Tenn. The good bishop made a deep impression upon the whole student body, through his visit to our school and city.

Tuesday was set apart as the class day for the eighth grade, from which nine students received certificates of promotion to the academic department.

Thursday was observed as Patron's Day and a great day it was. The friends of the school began to assemble in the early morning and when the exercises began at 10 o'clock the beautiful new chapel was filled to overflowing with students and parents.

On Friday the commencment exercises occurred in the Ebenezer church, which was very tastily decorated for the occasion. The programme was an excellent one and consisted of an inspiring address by Dr. E. Lyman Hood, president-elect of Atlanta Theological Seminary, in addition to other interesting features. This year there were but two graduates. Next year's class promises to be much larger.

The graduates are Samuel S. Campbell, Jacksonville, Fla., and Nathaniel Hilbert Curinton, Bass, Fla.

All who are interested in the welfare of Cookman are deeply grateful for the success of the past year. Dr. J. T. Docking, the president, is constantly receiving appreciative expressions in regard to the work from all sections. The new catalogue giving all information regarding the school and finely illustrated, is just published. This will be sent to any one requesting the same, on application to the president.

MARY NEFF,
Secretary of the Faculty.

Columbus, (Ohio.) Letter

For many years it was thought that the colored Methodists living or moving north of the Ohio river preferred the A. M. E. of A. M. E. Zion churches, hence it was not until about 30 years ago that our own church took hold of the work and organized the Lexington Conference, which includes in its territory the States of Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, parts of Illinois and Michigan.

In Columbus, the capital of the historic State of Ohio, our church was organized in 1886, just 19 years ago, with a small membership, and no property. Revs. J. G. Jones, G. W. White, T. L. Wilson, William Johnson, C. J. Nichols, J. H. Payne, M. McCoomer, A. McDade, H. W. Tate and the writer have served as pastors. A six-room parsonage was built by the Rev. J. H. Payne.

Under the five years pastorate of Rev. H. W. Tate the people erected a cozy brick edifice, leaving an indebtedness of about $5,000 and in March, 1903, I as appointed by Bishop Walden. Up to date, two years having passed, we have been able to add to the membership nearly an hundred, have almost doubled the congregations in size, and have reduced the indebtedness about $2,000, made about $500 in improvements and in point of influence the Eleventh Street Church stands second to no other church in the city. Much that has been accomplished could not have been done had it not been for the fact that Rev. H. W. Tate erected a new building, and arranged to have the street improved before my appointment.

I found no other M. E. organization here among my people, but on August 6, 1903, just 19 months ago, I organized the East End Mission, with 11 members. When our last session was held in Louisville I was able to report 119 members in this mission, a lot fully paid for, $250 in bank, and a plan on foot to secure a piece of property worth at least $3,000.

Rev. J. H. Payne was appointed as pastor of the East End Church, no longer a mission, and I agreed to carry out the plan of securing property. On April 22 I was able to close the trade, and a new building which had been erected by a Baptist organization, a neat frame church, 40x70 feet, together with the lot, worth at least $3,000, came into our possession with an indebtedness of less than $500, and on Sunday May 7 I preached the first sermon in this, the Second M. E. Church, to a congregation of nearly six hundred people.

Rev. J. H. Payne is working like a beaver, and we now have two good strong churches in this city, and when our conference meets next March, the Lord willing, I hope to have a third church to hand over to the bishop with a request for the appointment of a pastor.

The A. M. E. Church on Long Street, the old St. Paul's, which has stood there for fifty years, was sold the other day for $43,000, and they will erect a modern church building, in the residence portion of the city. While neither of our churches will be as fine, still they are neat, cozy, and comfortable, and we are having as large congregations as the others.

Our people are flocking here, by the hundreds, from Virginia, North Carolina and West Virginia, and if our pastors would notify us of their coming many would be saved to our church.

EDWARD L. GILLIAM.

Newman, (Ga.,) Letter

The commencement sermon by Dr. J. L. Thomas, Field Agent of the Church Extension Society, to the Newnan High School in Newnan chapel recently was one of the most eloquent and instructive ever heard in these parts. Dr. Thomas is one of the brightest stars among our people. He, together with his wife and daughter, are residents of South Atlanta, which they have chosen as their future home. The South will always receive with open arms men like Dr. Thomas. Here the harvest is great and the laborers are still few. The message brought by him was never received more eagerly by our people. The time is not in our memory when Newnan chapel was occupied by a more intelligent or eager audience. Rev. M. M. Alston, D. D., the pastor of Newnan chapel, was among the first to secure the services of Dr. Thomas after he entered Georgia. Elder Alston is leaving no stone unturned that will add to the spiritual growth and general progress of his people. His people never tire of his wholesome advice, yet he never fails to bring into his pulpit the best men in his connection. This golden message of Dr. Thomas comes just after a glorious revival in the church by which a hundred new members or more have been added both by conversion and letter. Newnan chapel was never in a more prosperous condition along all lines.

Matthew, who was a student at Clarke, and Miss Eula, who has been teaching in Louisiana, are now around the family altar, to the great delight of their father and mother and our people in general. It is expected that they shall add much to our society of young people.

There never were greater signs of progress among our people in this community than now.

Do not think of your faults, still less of other's faults. In every person who comes near you look for what is good and strong honor that, rejoice in it, and, as you can, try to imitate. For the rest, you will find it less easy to uproot faults than to choke them by gaining virtues. If, on looking back, your whole life should seem rugged as a palmt-ree stem, never mind, so long as it has been growing and has its grand green shade of leaves and weight of honeyed fruit at top—Ruskin.

ON TO DENVER

The date of the International Epworth League Convention, to be held in Denver, is fast approaching. The preparations for the entertainment of the host of Leaguers expected to visit Denver has been completed. The program announced is strong and promises to be a feast of reason and a flow of soul. Ample arrangements will be made for the enterainment of the colored delegates. We would like to know of those in our territory who expect to go. This is necessary in order to secure the proper accommodations in Denver. If those who are going will drop a card to the Southwestern we can arrange to meet at some central point enroute and the trip will be all the more pleasant because of the association. Let us know if you are going to Denver.

SHE HONORS THE RACE

A race is to be judged by its individual products. The best are to be taken as a standard, and not the worst. The individual ought to have his chance in life without regard as to race, color, or previous condition. This fifteenth amendment to the Constitution is a declaration of freedom of the individual. If the country would be fair enough to recognize the cases of individual worth found among the Negroes there would be some change in opinion.

Every now and then announceemnt is made of some remarkable record by a Negro student in a northern school. In schools where the pick of the country are to be found and that these students so frequently carry off the honors is a source of encouragement and inspiration. Attention is called to the record of Miss Addie Palmer, of Columbia, S. C. In speaking of Miss Palmer the Journal of Education, of Boston, in its recent issue says:

"In the city of Columbia, S. C., there is a student who has completed the 11 years' course of study without a minute's absence from any cause. Not once absent or tardy from the hour of entrance to the lowest primary grade to graduation fraom the high school. The board of education has had a special gold medal made for Addie Palmer, in view of this record, and it does not lessen the public appreciation of her faithfulness that she is a colored girl."

Miss Palmer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Palmer, of Columbia, S. C., her mother dying last week. Miss Palmer is a niece of Miss I. E. Mullon, of this city.

The highest honor awarded in the senior class at Cornell was won this year by Miss Jessie R. Fausett, the only Negro student in he art class. This young woman carried off also the Phi Beta Kappa honor, and is the first Negro girl to whom it has gone.

"THE WILL-NOT CLUB"

Bishop W. F. Mallalieu contributes in this issue of the SOUTHWESTERN, on page 3, an article under the above subject and makes a very practical suggestion for the organization of the Will-Not Clubs. The bishop has in this movement indicated his resourcefulness as of old, seeking to help the young life of the church. We ask a careful reading of the article on the "Will-Not Club."

Some weeks ago we published in our contribution department the oration of Mr. George A. Windsor, who won the prize in the oratorical contest for the State of Texas. Mr. Windsor, who is still in his teens is a promising student of Wiley University and gives evidence of a bright future. He comes from one of the best of Methodist families. His father and mother are now residing in Guthrie, Okla., where his father is doing a flourishing business. As an inspiration to our young people we present a good picture of Mr. Windsor.

The Association of Colored Physicians, Dentists, and Pharmacists of Arkansas, met in Hot Springs, Ark., May 25-26. Dr. H. W. Suggs presided and Dr. R. J. Meaddough served as secretary. The program was strong and comprehensive. Drs. J. H. Smith, S. A. Dingwall, E. J. Mooney, J. W. Roland and E. D. Adam and Mrs. Mary Hunley, presented able papers. Dr. R. F. Ward of the faculty of Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn., was present and addressed the meeting. The following officers were elected: Dr. E. V. Odum, president; first vice-president, D. E. J. Mooney, Morrillton, Ark.; second vice-president, Dr. R. L. Tweed, Argenta, Ark.; corresponding secretary, Dr. R. J. Meaddough, Little Rock, Ark.; recording secretary, Dr. S. A. Dingwall, Hollie Grove, Ark.; treasurer, Dr. J. W. Roland, Pine Bluff, Ark.; delegate to the National Association, Dr. C. M. Wade, Hot Springs, Ark. The citizens of Hot Springs gave the doctors a royal reception at the close of their session.

Dr. S. L. Mitcham, of Marktree, Ark., whose reputation as a physician is well known to our constituency, had a most difficult case recently and after consultation it was found best to remove the patient to the hospital at Memphis. This he did after consultation with the dean over the phone, but much to our surprise this reputable physician was not permitted to see the operation upon his patient at the Memphis hospital. It is said that he was excluded simply on the ground that he was a Negro. Dr. Mitcham's reputation in eastern Arkansas gives him patients from both races. This treatment at the Memphis hospital was an injustice alike to Dr. Mitcham and his patient.

Nothing more clearly indicates racial progress than the growth of literary appetite, indicated by the growth of literary race journals. Nearly every town where there is any considerable Negro population there is a local Negro paper, while there are published several magazines in the interest of he Negro race, all of which seem to thrive, at least they live. The latest addition is the Alexander Magazine, published in Boston, Mr. Chas. Alexander, editor. Volume one, No. 1, is before us. It is a thing of beauty, artistically printed, with choice and select reading material, a credit alike to its brilliant editor and the race to which he belongs. May the Alexander Magazine live long, and here's our right hand for success and prosperity.

The enrollment of Drew Seminary for the past year is 168. The recent erection of buildings of a modern character and other improvements naturally increases the running expenses of the seminary. It is now proposed to raise an endowment of $250,000. By the generosity of Mr. John W. Purcell, of Bridgewood, N. J., and the sanction of the seminary authorities, a social settlement has been established in East Side, New York, where the students of the seminary are receiving practical suggestions in the solution of the problems confronting the churches of the city.

Rev. James M. Wallace, A. B., D. D., is in the midst of prosperity as the pastor of Spencer Methodist Episcopal Church, Muskogee, I. T. Brother Wallace is a native of Alabama and was born in Shelby of that State in 1866. He was a student of Tuskegee Institute, where he learned the printer's trade and graduated from the State University of Kentucky in 1891, with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and in 1904 from Gammon Theological Seminary with the degree of Doctor of Divinity. Rev. Wallace has accepted a position on the advisory board of the Afro-American Industrial Exposition Company—a Negro World's Fair, to be held in New York City in 1906. On this board are Booker T. Washington, W. D. Crum, Bishop Arnett, Bishop Derrick and others.

Three Chapters of the Wesley Brotherhood are reported from South America. The first of these was organized at Antofagasta, Chile, prior to the coming of Bishop Neely, the president of the Brotherhood, into South America. It was named, in honor of President Neely, L'Obispo Tomas B. Neely Capitulo (Chapter). It is connected with the Chilean Methodist Episcopal Church at Antofagasta, the Spanish language being used in the service of the Church and the Brotherhood. The Rev. Roberto Olave is the energetic pastor. Chapters have been more recently organized with the English Methodist Episcopal churches at Lomas and Buenos Ayres

Rev. J. P. Brushingham, of the Committee on Aggressive Evangelism, announces "that the firm of George Carpenter & Co., Fifth avenue and South Water street, Chicago, has generously consented to make a discount of 50 per cent. upon their catalogue prices of tents to those who apply in the name of the General Conference Commission on Aggressive Evangelism. The popular size for district work is 40 by 60. A good quality canvas of that size can be secured for about $120. It would doubtless be well to send for a catalogue. Inasmuch as many ministers and presiding elders are arranging for tent work, it would be advisable to place an early order, so as to obtain an outfit in time for the summer season."

Rev. H. A. Carroll, of Ames Memorial Church, Baltimore, Md., and his presiding elder, Dr. E. W. S. Peck, have issued an appeal to the public for assistance in the liquidation of the present indebtedness of this church. The building is a fine stone structure that was bought a few years ago for $15,000, of this amount $3,000 has been paid. The congregation, which is small, has done exceedingly well, and now desires the help of the public. Any donation sent to the pastor will be thankfully received. Address Rev. H. A. Carroll, No. 1362 N. Calhoun street, Baltimore, Md.

Dr. J. L. Wilson, pastor of Wesley Chapel, Little Rock, Ark., announces that on June 4 he raised on his new building $668. This makes a total of $1,148 for the trustees that has been raised since the Doctor's arrival in February. Wesley Chapel of Little Rock is one of our strongest churches.

The commencement of the Industrial School at Blackshear, Ga., will be held June 29-30. The commencement address will be delivered by Rev. A. B. Allen, presiding elder of the Waycross District of the Savannah Conference. Rev. McD. Spencer, the president, says the school has had a prosperous year.

Rev. J. N. C. Coggins, B. D., Field Secretary of the Negro Young People's Educational and Christian Congress, is having pre-eminent success. His recent address at Roanoke, Va., carried the people by storm. An audience of a thousand people was out to hear him and the audience went away delighted. Brother Coggins receives a cordial welcome wherever he goes.

Mrs. Lucy B. Thurman, National Superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, delivered on June 5 at First Street Church, Rev. J. A. Tircuit, pastor, a remarkable address on "Taking Steps Backward to the House of Bondage." Mrs. Thurman has a national reputation as a speaker and always makes a pleasing impression upon her udience. She was accompanied on this occasion by Mrs. Frances Joseph.

Mrs. R. J. Palmer, of Columbia, S. C., sister of Mrs. I. E. Mullon, of this city, passed to her reward June 6 after an illness of several months. She was a woman of a very striking personality, earnest and devoted in her efforts for the uplifting of Christ's poor and loyal to all movements that sought the upliftment of womanhood. Mrs. Palmer was the wife of R. J. Palmer, one of the leading merchant tailors of Columbia. The family has the deepest sympathy of the SOUTHWESTERN.

Jacobs will deliver the address. Rev. R. W. S. Thomas, A M., is the principal of this institution.

The commencement week of Allegheny College begins next Sunday with the baccalaureate by President Crawford. The annual sermon before the Christian Associations will be preached by Bishop Henry Spellmeyer. This is the ninetieth commencement and in recognition of this fact addresses will be delivered on Tuesday afternoon, the 20th by Hon. William Reynolds, class of '37; Bishop James M. Thoburn, LL. D., class of '57; Ida M. Tarbell, L. H. D., class of '80; Rev. Robert G. Freeman, class of '04. Tuesday evening at the anniversary of the Phi Beta Kappa will be addressed by Rev. William Anderson, secretary of the Board of Education.

Mr. Richard A. Crolley, of Chicago, and Miss Liattah C. A. Marshall, daughter of Dr. J. F. Marshall, of this city, were united in marriage on the evening of June 7, the editor of the SUTHWESTERN and Rev. Henry Taylor, pastor of Simpson Chapel, reading the ceremony. Mr. Crolley is head bill clerk in the Methodist Book Consern at Chicago. He is a graduate of Clark University, Atlanta, Ga., and is a man of a very pleasing personality. He entered the Book Concern some years ago and by faithfulness in service has been promoted from time to time until he now holds this very responsible position. Miss Marshall is the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Marshall. She is a graduate of New Orleans University, is an accomplished musician, and a reader of considerable merit. She is one of the best products of New Orleans and has the best wishes of many friends for a happy life. The presents as tokens of esteem were numerous and valuable. Mr. and Mrs. Crolley will make their home in Chicago.

We learn thro Dr. G. G. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society, that the Open Door Emergency Commission has accepted the invitation of Wesley Chapel, of New Orleans, as the place for holding the forthcoming Missionary Convention. It is said that the pastor and officers of Wesley sent up a magnificent invitation. The Open Door Emergency Commission has the program in hand and a strong and interesting program will be built. Dr. Logan announces that two of our own bishops will be present, one corresponding secretary, Dr. F. G. Gamewell, executive secretary of the Open Door Emergency Commission, Bishop Elias Cottrell, of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, Bishop J. W. Alstork, of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, and other speakers of celebrity. Rev. M. W. Dogan, Ph. D., President of Wiley University, will be the secretary of the Convention, and the outlook is bright for a most unusual meeting. Some of the presiding elders are planing to hold special meetings preparatory to this convention and to create interest in the same.

NEWS NOTES

The National Negro Enterprise Association, Rev. J. O. Spears, president, has opened a park for our people at Jeffersonville, Ind.

The presence of Dr. Booker T. Washington at the Economic Congress, which meets in Brussels in September is urged by the King of Belgium.

Bishop Hartzell estimates that the white man's rum is responsible for the death of 200,000 black men in Africa every year through the diseases that it induces.

Dr. Frank G. Browne, who has been the assistant since 1896 of Editors Moore and Gilbert of the Western Christian Advocate, has returned to the pastorate. His successor is Rev. Robb Zaring, an alumnus of Depauw University.

Rev. Charles Mohammed, a native Moorish African, spent several days in Shreveport last month, the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Cain. Rev. Mohammed preached to a large and appreciative audience on May 10, in St. Paul Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Leggett, wife of Rev. J. T. Leggett, of Delaware, O., was in Cincinnati recently, attending the annual meeting of the Lexington Conference Woman's Home Missionary Society, of which she is president, and while there was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. B. Mason.

During the recent commencement, Wiley University, Marshall, Tex., 52 were granted certificates from the English course, 18 from the Preparatory, 1 from Theological. Five were granted diplomas from the dress-making department, 1 from millinery, 2 from music, 4 from normal, and 6 from college, total 89.

On Monday, June13,, ex-Congressman Josiah T. Walls, the only negro ever elected to Congress from Florida, died at his home in Tallahassee, Fla., after a long and successful political career.For many years he has managed the largest and richest truck-growing farm in Florida, which affords employment to numbers of men, women, and children.

Bishop Burt preached in the American Methodist Episcopal Church in Rome on May 8. After the service a bust of the bishop, in pure Carrara marble, was unveiled and presented to him. It occupies a place in the Methodist building on the Via Firenze, where it will always be a reminder of the bishop and his great work for the Methodism in the Eternal City.

The Washington Bee, an ably edited race journal, has passed its twenty-fifth milestone of usefulness.The event was fittingly celebrated last week by representative citizens and friends and the editor, Mr. W. Calvin Chase, Sr., was presented costly tokens in appreciation of his long and efficient service. Many able and brilliant speeches were delivered by distinguished men.

Rev. G. W. W. Jenkins, D. D., of the Washington Conference, pastor at Parkersburg, W. Va., is available for lectures on various subjects of interest to the young people and to the race in general. He has two interesting lectures, the subject of one being "Some Things the Negro Possesses and Some Things He Lacks," and another, "There is no Mason and Dixon Line—What Shall the Negro Do?" Dr. Jenkins is a capable and fluent speaker and any congregation will be fortunate to secure his services. His address is No. 123 Seventh street, Parkersburg, W. Va.

Rev. E. S. Williams received a most cordial welcome at the hand of St. Paul Methodist Church, Roanoke, Va., where he was returned for the third year. An enthusiastic, largely-attended reception was given in Rev. Williams' honor and Hon. E. J. Oliver presided. Brother Williams holds the esteem of both races of Roanoke. He has recently completed a magnificent parsonage and the church which is being built under his administration is nearly completed. It will be one of the most beautiful churches in the Washington Conference and a credit to Methodism. ot only has Brother Williams been unusually successful as a builder, but his SOUTHWESTERN list has been increased from one to twenty-five. He has been faithful in the distribution of Methodist literature and careful to supervise all the interests of the church. His success at Roanoke is little less than phenomenal.

Doings of the Workmen.

Superintendent Junior Epworth League—Miss Lizzie Miller, Baton Rouge, La.

Superintendent, District League, Evangelism—Rev. J. O. Richard, Plaquemine, La.

Epworth League Guard—Rev. C. Spears, Port Allen, La.

The above officers have been endorsed by the presiding elder. Now, I wish each pastor to call his young people together, have a chapter organized at once and send a list of officers to Secretary Penn, So. Atlanta, Ga., or to the central offices, No. 57, Washington St., Chicago, and, too, send names of president and members of chapter to me at Wilson, La. Urge your chapter to elect a delegate to the convention to be held in Denver, Colo., July, 1905. Send their names to me. Let the Juniors have a place in the work. We shall have the District Conventon in September next. Let every chapter prepare her banner; get League pins and badges for every member.

Let each chapter and member subscribe for the Southwestern.

Yours in Christ,

J. H. THOMPSON.

Wilson, J. H. Thompson, Pastor.—Our rally at Odd Fellows' Hall was very encouraging. The entertainment netted $7.00; church, $22.00; total, $28.00. Total for the lot on which we will buld a new church at Wilson, $24.00. Brother Gus Paxton and family deserve much praise for the way they are working for the building fund, but all our members are faithful, and the good citizens also are helping us. The leading whte people are interested in the movement and have promised their aid. Mrs. Edward Smith, Green Betreese, Howard Glasper, Barney Ross, are among our leading friends, also Mrs. Harriet Bater and family.

Our next rally will be held June 18, third Sunday. All pastors are cordially invited, also their congregations.

Melville, E. V. Taylor, Pastor.—At a late hour one night recently I was awakened by the arrival of a host of friends. They came in singing, and brought with them 75 pounds of groceries. Words of thanks and prayer were offered and the party retired.

MARYLAND.

Cambridge—The people of Waugh M. E. church received Rev. A. L. Martin, their pastor, very cordially for the eighth year, nearly $16,000 having been raised for all purposes during Rev. Martin's seven years pastorate. Many souls having claimed their spiritual birth and many accessions to the church, young people are also alive to every interest of the church; a new church nearing completion, the cost of which is nearly $700, having been met, harmony reigns supreme. All this warranted his returns. A grand reception was tendered the pastor and family last Thursday evening. Mrs. Sarah J. Jackson, John Driver, and Lizzie Henson and others were the chief promoters. Mr. Carnegie's gift of $900 to this church for a new organ has given it new life.

Nanticoke, Edythe R. Hammond.—A missionary Society has been lately organized in the Sunday School by our pastor, with Mrs. Nellie Hardy, president; Mr. Bradford Bradshaw, secretary; and with eighty-four members enrolled. They have gone to work and we are looking forward for grand results.

A large surprise party visited the parsonage last Saturday night led by Mrs. Cora R. Barclay, Mrs. Catharine Hardy, and others. They loaded the table with choice groceries which were highly appreciated by the pastor and family. The annual convention of the D. G. Tabernacle, No. 2, of the G. G. A. O. of B. and S., of Love and Charity was held in Asbury M. E. Church May 3, 4, 5. Among some of the most prominent delegates were Mr. J. H. Lee, G. G. D. M. of Washington; Mr. Arthus Hayes, the principal undertaker of Richmond, Va.; Revs. W. J. Hacket, Covington, Va.; W. A. Jones, Glen Echo, Md.; Thomas Davis, Portsmouth, Va.; Mrs. Alice V. Gray, Washington, D., C. and Mr. Paul Ervin, Richmond, Va. The officers were installed by Mr. J. H. Lee.

MISSISSIPPI.

Lauderdale.—All friends are hereby invited to attend the grand celebration of the Lightfoot Lodge No. 27, to be held at this place June 24.

Bolton.—In the program of the Vicksburg Distric, recently printed the following subject, "What Profit is the Field to the Missionary Cause," should read, "What Profit is the Field Agent to the Missionary Cause." The presence of Dr. G. G. Logan is desired at this convention.

Pearlington, F. L. Smith, Pastor.—The big saw mill which is the backbone of this place blew its first whistle for the first time in five months. The church has put on new life and the prodigal sons are returning home again. Our first quarterly conference was a success, held by Rev. B. M. Jones, presiding elder. His wise way of ruling speaks for him a glorious success this conference year. Our publis school here has been a source of pleasure to the entire town and a remarkable success, under the leadership of Prof. G. W. Brown, of Laurel, Miss., with Mrs. H. L. Vaultz, of this city, as assistant. The average attendance was more than 100. Prof. Brown and Mrs. Vaultz are worthy and able workers for both church and school.

Tupelo, J. C. McGee, Pastor—The Sunday school is under the leadership of Mrs. C. E. Giles, superintendent, Miss Welthy Williams and Miss Lela Clifton, teachers. They are working hard to make the Sunday school a success. We are increasing in number every Sunday. The whole Sunday school came to the parsonage a few nights ago and gave the pastor a very warm reception for which he returns many thanks.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

"La Creole" Hair Restorer contains the ingredients used by the most famous Creole beauties. It will restore gray hair to its original color, stop falling hair, cure dandruff, keep the hair clean, soft and glossy and will make curly or kinky hair lie straight and smooth for a long time.

MISS NANCY RICE.

Nothing Takes Its Place.

This is a photograph of Miss Nancy Rice, 185 Beale street, Memphis, Tenn., who has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for years, and who says:

"Nothing I have ever used will take the place of your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer, as it keeps my hair in a splendid condition."

Miss Rice is a woman of striking personal appearance, which is owing very largely to her fine hair, the result of using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT

Has Done Wonders.

This is a photograph of Mr. Louis Nemore, residing at No. 10 Turley St., Memphis, Tenn., one of the most highly respected colored men in the city. He is implicitly trusted by his employer for the last ten years—Dr. Heber Jones, one of our most prominent physicians, and now president of the Memphis Board of Health. Mr. Nemore says he takes pleasure in stating that our "La Creole" Hair Restorer has done wonders for his splendid head of hair. "It has kept my hair from falling out, and has kept my head and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. I recommend it very highly."

MR. LOUIS NEMORE.

If your dealer cannot supply you, we will send by prepaid express, to any station in the United States or Canada one bottle for $1.00; 6 bottles for $5.00.

MISSOURI.

Wright City.—The district stewards of the St. Louis District, Central Missouri Conference, held their annual meeting at Wright City, Mo., April 12, 1905, at the call of the presiding elder, Rev. C. M. Keeton. The devotions were led by Rev. B. McCain, the pastor. A number of district stewards and their proxies were present. The presiding elder's salary was estimated at $1,270.00. The assessment for benevolence is to remain the same as last year, except where a difference in the apportionment occurs. The presiding elder was present and presided. The ladies of the Wright City church prepared a most excellent dinner, which was enjoyed by all. The neat and attractive appearance of this cosy little church certainly speaks in the highest terms for this membership.—E. P. Geiger, St. Louis, Mo.

Warrensburg, W. A. Bohanon, Pastor.—On May 14 our first quarterly conference was held, Rev. W. M. Smith, presiding elder, in the chair. The meeting was enthusiastic. Reports showed rapid spiritual and financial progress. Sunday at 11 o'clock the elder preached. The trustees raised, it being rally day, a collection of $50 Presiding elder paid, in full, $11. Five accessions to the church. $103.94 for the quarter.

All mothers of daughters should write to Mrs. M. Summers, Notre Dame, Ind., for a free copy of her "Advice to Mothers." See ad. in this paper.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Gastonia, S. McDonald, pastor.—A successful rally was held April 30 for the indebtedness of the church. Our few members gave of their means willingly and it was truly a day of rejoicing. At 11 o'clock a. m., Rev. William H. Howard of the Zion Church preached and Rev. C. H. Shute of the Presbyterian Church preached in the afternoon. The pastor filled the pulpit at night. A very attentive congregation composed of members from the various churches was present. These with several of our members from Bessemer City rallied nobly to our aid with a collection of $17.75. To this amount our faithful few added $82.25 making a total of $100.

Lumberton, W. W. Pope, pastor.—Our presiding elder, Rev. I. Wells, conducted the first quarterly conference of this charge April 29-30. The reports were good. Lumberton charge stands number one on the district. Raised during quarter: for pastor, $110; benevolence $50; total $186. The elder preached several times during his stay to the great satisfaction of the people.

Franklin, A. E. Robinson, Pastor.—My second quarterly conference was held in New Hope Church May 7-8 by our presiding elder, Rev. M. M. Jones. The elder's sermons greatly benefited all who heard them. Thirty-five communicants bowed at the altar. One person received baptism. Raised for pastor $10, easter collection $3, collected Sunday $13.25, on church repairs, $15.50; total, $41.75; the best work accomplished by this church since its foundation.

NEBRASKA.

Hastings, T. J. Ross, Pastor.—Three short months ago we had in Hastings an old dilapidated deserted hotel building to worship in, situated along the railroad yard tract, with a small indebtedness of $156.93 in one place, $26 and $1,400 in another. So with 18 members, all faithful Christian women, with but one exception, we pitched battle against sin and in our meeting God gave us by conversion 3 and accessions 3. Then we sold our old encumbered hotel church for $775 and bought in the centrally populated part of city, among our people and on the Sabbath, God willing, we will hold our first service in a beautiful little chapel of our own with but a small indebtedness of about $400 against it. God helping us and all things being equal we shall try and pay that off before our next annual conference. The first quartely conference was a success financially.

OHIO.

On the evening of April 27, 1905, the Steubenville Sub. District Epworth League and Sunday School Convention met in the Second M. E. Church. After devotions the president, Mr. Nelson Howard, stated the object of the convention. Welcome address by Mr. Z. T. Kent. Response by Rev. H. A. Foreman.

Friday morning appointment of committees. In the absence of Rev. Kichen, Rev. H. A. Foreman preached to the Leaguers. That the Steubenville Sub. District League is alive and alert to its every interest was evidenced by the reports of the various officers. The papers and addresses were spirited and full of thought. Saturday evening Rev. E. A. White addressed an appreciative audience. Three months hence the convention meets at Mt. Pleasant, O.

H. A. FOREMAN.

OKLAHOMA.

McLoud, Mrs. E. Chambers.—The conference sent us a very able pastor, Rev. J. A. Gallon. He is doing good work at McLoud and also at Earsboro, and we feel that there will be much good accomplished in the service of the Lord this year. We now have a fine new church in eastern Oklahoma that will cost us about $850, but we have already paid $440 cash on it.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Pittsburg, Warren M. E. Church has just closed one of the most successful years in her history. When Pastor S. A. Virgil, took charge of the Church in March, 1904, the people were scattered and despondent, but with God's help the work was begun, and so far nothing has failed. The mortgage on the church made more than 15 years ago has been paid, a new pipe organ, valued at $1,700, has been installed. The membership has increased to 95 and all departments of the church are revived. The conference of 1906 will be held in this church. A special request is made to pastors of our church in the south who wnow the addresses of their members who have come to this city or of those who may come, that they send the same to Rev. S. A. Virgil, No. 26 Wandless street, Pittsburg, that he may look them up. To make this more effective a department has been created in the church to secure employment for those of our members who desire it and place them with a good healthful circle of friends. The pastor would be glad at any time to hear from preachers or laymen concerning this matter

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Charleston, W. R. A. Palmer.—The Rev. Bishop Luther B. Wilson, LL. D., has been to Charleston, S. C. As soon as the good Bishop consented to come and preach the 39th anniversary sermon of Centenary, the Lord's day, April 9, for more than three weeks it was fully announced and kept before the public. He has come and gone; he has left an impression behind him and carried the hearts of the people with him; his services in Charleston will never be forgotten; unborn generations will be told of that great spiritual red-letter day when Bishop Wilson preached. Those who heard him were blessed. Those who could and did not hear him have something to regret as long as they live. Dr. J. E. Wilson was present, took part in the services and introduced the Bishop. The Rev. A. G. Townsend, D. D., also ex-pastor, who assisted us so materially in our revival while in the city several times on business was personally invited by the pastor to be present, as was also the Rev. J. L. Grice, D. D., who preached so powerfully at the revival four nights during the week and departed on the morning Bishop Wilson arrived, Saturday, Apri 8. 4 p. m. the Bishop preached at Bethel, the Rev. I. E. Lowery, D. D., pastor; this is the same edifice and the same pulpit in which his illustrious predecessor, Bishop Francis Asbury preached; 8 p. m. Bishop Wilson preached at Centenary again. It was the third bishop we have had with us within four months, and the fifth sermon; for Bishops Goodsell and Walden preached once, but Bishop Wilson preached three times. Coming as he did at an apportune time in the midst of the most wonderful outpouring of God's spirit the people ever witnessed in this city, more than 500 souls having professed saving faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, eternity alone will reveal the good this faithful servant accomplished in the name of his master by preaching the Word; the people were fed; they literally feasted on fat things, "'Twas a heaven below."

TENNESSEE.

South Pittsburg, A. Mitchell, Pastor.—Our second quarterly conference was held April 8 and 9. The services were largely attended. Dr. J. B. Q. Williams, presiding elder. He preached two soul-stirring sermons on Sunday. Rev. I. J. Nonn, of Jasper, preached in the afternoon. The Holy Sacrament was administered on Sunday night to more than thirty communicants. Two additions to the church. Total raised this quarter, $123.40. Paid presiding elder his assessment. The elder was very much pleased with the work this quarter.

Humboldt, Jessie P. Price, Pastor.—Our second quarterly conference, held April 2-3 at Kenton, Tenn., closed with good results, Rev. J. A. W. More presiding. Paid the elder in full. Paid pastor $38.18, trustees $10. Every department of the church is improving. The elder preached two able sermons. The Epworth Leaguers are moving on nicel.

TEXAS.

Madisonville Circuit, A. E. Gibbs, Pastor.—Our work is gradually gaining in spiritual strength and the membership is being strengthened. All auxiliaries of the church are well organized and doing splendid work. Miss Carrie P. Burns, one of the most talented and promising young women of our congregation at Midway, has charge of our Sunday school at that place. Our Wiley students, Misses Burns and Grace, Messrs. A. W. Burns and S. G. Glazer, and a loyal membership will see to it that the Madisonville Circuit will hold her place (first) in the Wiley contest at the District Conference. Our beloved presiding elder, L. S. Blakeney, is taking unusual interest in Wiley this year. We are planning to build a church at Midway in the near future.

And Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost—One Who Did it Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder diseases, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatsoever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

EASTER REPORTS.

COLUMBIA, Miss.—Easter Sunday was happily observed at this point. Rev. E. M. Dukes is pastor. Collection $2.

GARLANDSVILLE, Miss.—The missionary cause as not neglected, $2.60 was raised. Rev. C. G. Gavin writes that special prayer was offered for Bishop Scott and the success of his work in Africa.

Literary Notes

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS.

This set of the American Monthly Review of Reviews for June are: "The Career of Joseph Jefferson," by Joseph B. Gilder; "Modjeska, Dramatic Artist and Patriot;" "Count Cassini, Typical Russian Diplomat;" "Japan's Representative at Washington;" "The larger Problem Before Admiral Togo," Kinnosuke; "The Church-Union Movement in Canada," by the Rev. J. P. Gerrie, editorial department, "The Progress of events of the past month, at home and abroad.

BOOK REVIEW.

"The Marriage of William Ahe," by Julia Humphrey Ward. Harper Brothers, New York, Publishers.

Feeling sure that we had a treat before us in this book, we laid it down with a feeling of disappointment. The author's powers of delineation are good. Her descriptions are graphic, but the leading characters are without the necessary strength to make them really interesting.

William Ashe, the hero, an Englishman, by over-indulgence, over-devotion, turns his wife into a heartless, selfish creature, very much on the order of Thackeray's Becky Sharp, in "Vanity Fair. The wife commits many indiscretions, but the husband is forgiving, and always smoths over the differences, preferring not to make her feel the enormity of the indiscreet act, and thereby unconsciously lending himself to other indiscretions. The story is pathetic.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

"Only a Profession; and Other Sermons." (Second series of the Methodist Pulpit). By Edmund M. Mills, D. D. Publishers: Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati; Eaton & Mains, New York. Price, 50 cents. Postage, 7 cents.

"Princess Sukey." (The story of a pigeon and her human friends). By Marshall Saunders. Publishers: Eaton & Mains, New York; Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati. Price, $1.25 net.

A very valuable article in the June number of "The Voice of the Negro" is a comprehensive statement of the scope and purpose of the Colored Men's Department of the Young Men's Christian Association. Mr. W. A. Hunton, who contributes to the paper, is thoroughly versed in Y. M. C. A. work. He was for several years the first and only colored international secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The history of the movement is told by Mr. Hunton in plain though charming language. The article is profusely illustrated. Among the pictures of interest will be that of Mr. J. E. Moorland, the young man who has been chosen as the second international secretary for the Colored Men's Department. His work lies chiefly with the city associations, while Mr. Hunton's time is largely devoted to work among the college associations.

Prof. J. R. E. Lee, President of the National Association of Teachers of Colored Youths, contributes a very valuable paper on the History and Scope of the Association. The National Association of Teachers of Colored Youths meets in Atlanta on the 28th of June.

They Live in Our Memory.

BUTLER.—Lula Butler, a member of St. James M. E. church, at Blount Springs, Ala., passed into the Homeland May 8th, 1905. She was a consistent and faithful Christian and was a shining light. She leaves her husband and a daughter to mourn her passing. Many friends sympathize with these in their loss.

Rev. J. C. Simmons conducted the funeral service.—ANNNIE SAMMONS.

GRANT.—Ferdinand Grant passed into eternity April 11. His death was accidental and caused by drowning. Death found him unprepared and the wife and relatives have sad hearts because of his going with no hope in the Father. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. E. H. Clark.

NUTTER.—Jackson Nutter a faithful member of Asbury M. E. church, fell asleep in Jesus May 6, 1905, at his home, Nanticoke, Md. He was the son of Henry and Leah Nutter and was born October 19, 1864, being 41 years, 6 months and 17 days old at his death. He bore his brief illness patiently and said that he had made a complete surrender and was willing to die. He leaves a wife, three children, two brothers, two sisters and many friends to mourn his going.

He was buried with honors by the Masonic Lodge, of which he was a member, from Asbury Church, by Rev S. Hammond, assisted by Rev. W. H. Hayman, of Witipquin, Md.

PAXTON.—Susie Gair Paxton was born April 14th, 1878; age at death, 27 years and 19 days. She was converted and joined the church eight years ago under the pastorate of Rev. S. Carrell. She was a member of Class No. 6, Bro. Daniel Allen being the leader. She always was studious and lived a very quiet life. She endured her long illness with fortitude and courage, having unshaken confidence in Jesus as her Saviour and Redeemer. Most of her life was spent in the educational work of her race. She was a student of New Orleans University for several years and a teacher in the public schools of this State. She was a young woman of rare ability. A few years ago she was married to Mr. Wm. Paxton, a young man of high standing, with whom she lived a faithful wife. Her mode of living was a great benefit to the family, and her death was an example of what the love of God gives in strength to His own. "All is well," were her last words. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. J. H. Thompson, assisted by Revs. S. Carrell, Dan Allen and A. Sellers.

The family has our deepest sympathy in their hour of sadness. We pray the great Comforter may attend them.

CARR.—Annie Jane Carr departed this life April 17 at Maringouin, La. She was triumphant over death, rejoicing in the God-given faith that was hers. Her funeral was conducted by Rev. A. B. Venable.

HILL.—The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hill passed into the arms of the waiting Saviour May 10. The funeral was conducted by Rev. A. B. Venable.

SANDERS.—The four-year-old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Sanders went Home to a living Saviour on the morning of the 10th of May. He was baptized that day by Rev. A. B. Venable and passed peacefully away.

SPELMAN.—Julia Spelman, one of the oldest members of Asbury M. E. church at Franklin, La., passed into the Beyond May 8th. She lived an exemplary Christian life. Many friends and relatives mourn her passing. Rev. R. C. Worsham was in charge of the funeral service.

BELCHER.—Lizzie Belcher, the wife of Rev. H. P. Belcher, departed this life May 13, 1905. She was a faithful member of Hopewell M. E. church at Beel Wood, Tenn. She loved her church and did all she could to help it.

For her husband and children we have the deepest sympathy. Rev. T. B. Blackburn conducted the funeral service.

CLARK.—Sister Naomi Clark, age 33, died May 30th, 1905, in the full triumph of faith. She leaves seven children, husband, parents and relatives to mourn her going. She joined St. John's Church 15 years ago and kept the faith until early sunrise, when the Lord took her home. In dying she said, 'I want all my friends, sisters and brothers to meet me in heaven." She called her children to her bedside, and with fond and maternal caresses, bade them farewell. In praise to God, she sang this song, "A little talk with Jesus makes it right, all right!" She left her children in the care of her Christian parents and left word for them to be raised up in the Sunday school. The funeral was conducted by Rev. C. L. Dunn, pastor, assisted by Rev. J. H. Parker.

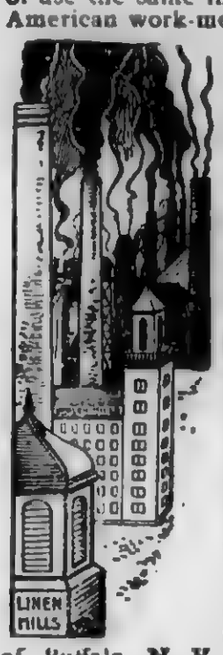
NOLLS.—At Villa Rica, Ga., May 18, Mr. Dan Nolls passed from earth to heaven, triumphing over death as befitted a Christian. To mourn his passing are a wife and two children and many friends. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. J. Sagus, from Mt. Carmel M. E. Church.

GARRISON.—Mr. N. L. Garrison, a member of Rising Star M. E. Church, departed this life May 19th, 1905. He was 62 years old and more than half of his life had been spent in the service of God. Besides being class leader, he was a local preacher and district steward and trustee, and also superintendent of the Sunday school. All who knew Bro. Garrison loved him. A wife and many friends mourn his going. He was buried with Masonic honors, and his funeral was conducted by Rev. L. W. Goodson.

THOMPSON.—Sister Annie Thompson, a member of Mason Chapel M. E. Church, at Lecompte, La., died May 22, 1905. She died in the faith. She leaves two little children, a father and mother, sisters and brothers, to mourn their loss. Her funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. A. Davis.

GUSTAVE.—Sister Mary Gustave, of Woodlawn, La., departed this life May 13th. She was one of the old members of Woodlawn Church. She was a faithful member. Her remains were deposited in Woodlawn Cemetery, by the Household of Ruth, of which society she was a member. Our loss is heaven's gain. The funeral was conducted by Rev. John D. Wilson.

ARMELIN.—At Charenton, La., Miss Fannie Amerlin departed this life May 22, 1905. She was converted to Christ on her sick bed. She leaves father, sisters and brothers to mourn their loss. Her funeral was preached in the Godman M. E. Church. Her remains were laid to rest in St. John the Baptist Cemetery. Rev. O. J. Harvey conducted the funeral.



RILES.—At Charenton, La., Brother Edward Riles, after an illness of two weeks, died in great peace May 28, 1905. He was a faithful local preacher of the Godman M. E. Church. The bereaved are commended to our heavenly Father. Rev. E. B. Richard assisted Rev. O. J. Harvey in the funeral service.

EDMOND.—Mrs. Maggie Edmond, wife of Mr. Dabs Edmond, passed into the Land Eternal at Swansea, S. C., May 29th. Sister Edmond was a member of the A. M. E. Church and always a consistent Christian. Her funeral was preached by Rev. B. F. Gandy of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

MAYES.—Mr. Adolph Mayes died at Double Bayou, Texas, Friday, February 17th, 1905. He was born in 1842. Although in the 62nd year of his life, he was full of vigor to the last, being at his work only one week previous to his death. He died from an attack of acute pneumonia, which lasted but a few days. He was a man of clean habits, unquestioned integrity, unswerving fidelity to the right; a man of charity, truthfulness and square dealing. Is it any wonder the community pauses to-day to pay tribute to his memory. In honor of his memory our distinguished merchant, his wife and other white citizens attended the funeral. Many of our preachers who had pastored the Wallisville circuit remember Brother Adolph Mayes from his frequent visits to the church, in which he took keen interest. Especially was he interested in the Sunday school, class meeting and prayer meeting. He leaves a son, two brothers, devoted sister, and a host of friends to mourn their loss.—S. C. Gill.

The Toilers in Our Factories.

No workmen in the world can do so much or use the same intelligence that our own American work-men and women are capable of. That is why America is now beating the world in manufactures; all due to the brain and muscle of our Yankee men and women

Unfortunately where there is smoke, dirt and dust and little sunlight there also can be found the germs of disease. Nature's great disinfectant is sunlight. It is in the factory, the workshop, the office, that men and women suffer from diseases which are in the dust and the bad air. Such disease germs enter into the blood in two ways, either through the lungs or stomach.

After years of experience in an active practice, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., discovered a remedy that is a blood-maker and tissue-builder, at the same time alleviates a cough. He called it Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—an alterative extract that assists in the digestion and assimilation of the food—so that the blood gets its elements from the products of digestion, the liver at the same time is started into activity and there is perfect elimination of waste matter The germs of grip, malaria, catarrh or consumption find a fertile field if the body is not kept in perfect order and the blood pure.

Because the stomach is diseased there is a diminution of the red corpuscles of the blood. This is why one is sleepless, languid, nervous and irritable. Sensitive stomachs groan aloud at the irritating cod liver oils, but they will get all the food elements the tissues require by using the "Golden Medical Discovery."

The "Discovery" is absolutely a non-alcoholic and non-narcotic medicine. There is nothing else "just as good."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the best laxative for old and young people. They cure constipation and biliousness.

Graham, W. H. Pleasants, Pastor.—We have just closed one of the greatest revivals that was ever held in Graham. Old men and young men even threw away their cards, bowed at the altar, and were happily converted. Women and children gave their hearts to God. The result was one hundred and twelve happy conversions, ninety of this number connecting themselves with our church. The following ministers assisted in the meeting: Our venerable father in the Gospel, Rev. P. P. Brooks, Revs. L. Diggs, C. H. Hurd, J. R. Hill, T. W. Russell, and oters.

Crescent City Notes

A pleasant party of friends, led by Sisters Caroline Higgins and I. Roberson, visited the parsonage of Thomson chapel, on Tuesday evening, June 9th, bringing with them many choice pounds of groceries. The presentation address was made by Mr. F. Chase; response by the pastor, Rev. D. M. Seals, after which refreshments were served. Another testimonial of appreciation by the members to their pastor is the fine pair of shoes given him recently. Members and friends are doing everything possible to insure the comfort of pastor and family.

The Children's Day exercises were nicely rendered at Mallalieu Chapel Sunday at 11 a. m. The pastor, Rev. H. T. Wright, was assisted by Brothers J. T. Jordan, James Johnson, Adam Thomas and W. R. Jordon. The superintendent, who was absent on account of illness, is now convalescent. Miss Loretta Jackson presided at the organ and the Sunday school choir rendered good music. The collection was creditable.

Mrs. S. E. Hawkins, teacher Pleasant Plains School, and her school and friends will give a grand concert for the benefit of Pleasant Plains M. E. Church on the 19th of this month. Members of Wesley Chapel are expected.

All services were well attended at Williams Chapel Sunday, June 11th. At 11 a. m. the Children's Day program was well rendered by the children, led by Miss S. A. E. Brazely. At 3 p. m. the leaders' speaking meeting was led by Brother Wm. Mathews. The installation service of the King's Daughters was held at 7:30 p. m. Sermon by the editor of the SOUTHWESTERN. The infant daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George Davis, of Natchez, Miss., and Mr. S. L. Latimere were christened. Miss Frances Harris was received into the church. Two annual subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. The Girls' Rhetorical Club gave the pastor a nice present; presentation speech by Miss N. Bailey.

Rev. John Stevenson, an honored member of our church at Waterproof, was taken seriously ill some days ago. He is now at his home in Shreveport.

The anniversary sermon of the Citizens' Protective Union was preached at Wesley Chapel Sunday evening by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson. Collection for the day, $41.16. Rev. Johnson's mother, whom he visited recently, is yet ill.

Literary Notes

The Monthly Review is almost a complete history of the current events for the past month. The note entitled "African Unrest" is informing and shows how thoroughly the magazine seeks to take in the events of the world.

In the Sanctum a most interesting account is given of the phenominal growth of the magazine. In a year and six months the subscription list has grown to 17,000. The magazine now goes not only to every State and Territory in the Union but to almost a dozen foreign countries. In their office the editors employ five stenographers and keep four typewriters busy all day.

In the thirty-two pages which comprise the June American Boy there is not a dull line; and both in variety and class of matter the paper is head and shoulders above any other periodical for boys. The cover page, entitled "Texas Bids Goodbye to the President," showing a great throng of happy, smiling faces, makes an appropriate index to the high-class stories and articles in the magazine. Among the many larger articles and stories which will delight the reader are: "Bunker Hill Day in Boston," a most suitable story for June; "The First Marathon Race," which gives the origin of this race which is now a part of important athletic meetings. "Animal-Devouring Plants" tells of the queer food that certain plants require. Subscription price, $1.00 a year. The Sprague Publishing Co., Detroit, Mich.

I would like to find George Black, who left Baton Rouge in 1900, with his sister and brother-in-law, Jinnie Ellis, and Alfred Ellis.

Editorial

King Oscar has sent his protest to the Norwegian Storthing, protesting against the secession. He does not recognize the dissolution. The Norwegian Storthing has replied, upholding the withdrawal and urging a peaceful settlement. The Conservative papers of Sweden are urging war against the secessionists.

A well-to-do Negro in a certain section of the South recently bought an automobile, but he was promptly waited upon and told that that town would not permit a Negro riding in an automobile. He was ordered to return the machine, and this he did promptly. Comment is unnecessary. This reminds us of the fact that there is a section of the country where Negroes are not allowed to carry hoisted umbrellas, and still another section where top buggies are not permitted to be used by Negroes.

Bossier parish, of Louisiana, is now being harassed by whitecappers. At the logging camp placards were posted warning all Negroes not to work, and they didn't. But the business of the Antrim Lumber Company has been stopped. Assistance has been asked of the Federal authorities. Individuals have a right to earn an honest living without molestation, and legitimate business is necessary for the development of the country. He who interferes with the labor and business of a State is an enemy of the State. Whitecapping ought to be stopped.

Atlanta has a new railway station, said to be one of the finest in the South, and the Negro is treated to something new in its management. "At this station no Negro is allowed to enter or pass out of the front door." We have been all over the country, we have noticed the encroachments of discriminations against Negroes, but we have never seen it on this fashion before. Negroes must go to the rear or side to enter the station. What next? How can the Atlanta Negroes stand that?

Peace negotiations are progressing and Washington has been chosen as the place for the meeting of the Peace Commission. Japan positively objected to any city in Europe, Russia preferred Paris, but both governments agreed on Washington. President Rosoevelt has offered the olive branch in such a way as to win the praise of all nations and added confidence in American diplomacy. The world is beginning to realize that Theodore Roosevelt is a citizen of the world, sincere and courageous. Whether the assembling of the peace commissioners will end the conflict cannot yet be foretold, nevertheless, President Roosevelt has shown that the strength of the American nation is on the side of peace.

THE RACE SLANDERED

In a recent issue of the Memphis Appeal, a protest is made against the boisterousness of the Negroes of Memphis, which is objectionable to the residents of certain quarters of the city. We know too well that much that is said by the correspondent is true. The race is sorely afflicted by an idle, worthless class who prove to be a millstone around the necks of the better class of the race. We cannot too strongly condemn the vices of this class of our people who, by their loud and brawling conversation, disturb the peace and quietude of the citizens of Memphis and elsewhere. The Appeal, however, in commenting upon the protest makes some extravagant and unwarranted statements and statements that cannot be borne out with facts. It says: "Almost the entire Negro race in the South live in constant violation of the law." This is a sad comment upon the state of affairs and a direct reflection upon our municipal and State officials, who are the custodians of the law. This charge will be news to many, for it is sometimes thought that Negroes certainly contributed their full share, if not more, of the arrests made. The Appeal continues: "There are probably as many illegitimate children as legitimate in the South." This is a delicate point that should not be touched. It has a double action. Who's responsible for many of the illegitimate children? Who's responsible for the great change in the complexion of the Negro race, so much so that in many instances the racial identity is almost lost. Can Ethiopia of his own accord change his skin?

We do not desire that the sins of our people shall be covered. It is our experience that the lower class of Negroes receive severe condemnation at the hands of the better class. All that we desire to say at present is that it is unfair to a struggling race to be slandered in such a way as by the quotations made. That "peculation is almost universal" among Negroes is hard for any one to believe. Such wholesale slander breeds no good in a settlement of the difficult, intricate problem that is interwoven into the life of the South. There should be a recognition of the better element of our people who are earnestly striving to live exemplary lives. Condemn the bad, but encourage the good.

THE MISSISSIPPI NEGRO BUSINESS LEAGUE

At the call of a number of leading men, almost two hundred of the substantial and influential business men of the State of Mississippi assembled in Greenville, on June 14-15, and organized a State Negro Business League. The meeting was inspired by the National Negro Business League, of which Dr. Booker T. Washington is president, and which has for its object the stimulation of business enterprises and to aid the people in legitimate pursuits for the accumulation of wealth. The meeting at Greenville was a success, decidedly so. The attendance was large and representative, the speeches were practical, and therefore helpful. All the sessions were full of inspiration. No one can attend such meetings, characterized by earnestness, sincerity and a deep purpose to do the very best for the uplifting of the race, without feeling encouraged. There was no attempt at race antagonism. Effort was made at scientific study of the Negroes' commercial standing, and counsel was given as to what is best to be done, in a business way, to give the Negro successful and reliable standing in the business world. Instances were given of success with small beginnings of Negro enterprises, and efforts were made to induce others to enter into business pursuits. There were bankers, lawyers, farmers, merchants, funeral directors, milliners, doctors, mechanics and men and women representing various industrial pursuits. It might be claimed that the meeting dealt only with material things, nevertheless, it was full of hope and inspiration. The leading spirit of the meeting was Mr. Charles W. Banks, of Mound Bayou, Miss. He has the grip and inspiration of an organizer. A cool and firm leader of men, considerate and brotherly for every man's interest, it was easy for him to be the leading spirit of the meeting. In the permanent organization he was chosen president. Mr. Banks is a successful business man of Mound Bayou. Prominent among others who attended the session were Hon. H. W. E. Mollison, lawyer and banker of Vicksburg; I. T. Montgomery, of Mound Bayou; J. W. Frances, president of the Mound Bayou Bank; Mr. Robert Green and C. W. Gillian, successful merchants, and Hon. L. J. Winston, lawyer and real-estate agent. On the closing evening addresses were made by Mr. J. Madison Vance, of this city, and Mr. J. E. Bush, of Little Rock, Ark.

The local entertainment was superb. Seemingly everything that could be done for the comfort of the visitors was done. Mr. J. W. Strauther and Mr. J. C. Chappelle, of Greenville, were among the leading spirits of the local committee of arrangements. These gentlemen received the hearty commendation of all for the manner in which they conducted the local arrangements of this meeting.

If similar meetings, as this Mississippi Negro Business League, were held throughout the South, it would have a tendency to encourage the Negro to enter business enterprises where he now is seldom seen, and divert his attention from discriminations which chafe him and cause the loss of energy. It would lead him into the avenues where contact with the white man can be had with the least friction, and here's the practicalness of the whole movement. It has a philosophical and practical bearing on the race situation. The races need contact for the better understanding of each other, and contact without the least suspicion of social equality. In the business world the white man has no hesitancy in dealing with the Negro, and, if for no other reason, business enterprises among our people ought to be encouraged.

The Church Extension Collection

By Rev. J. L. Thomas, D. D., Field Agent. Board of Church Extension

Methodism is a power within and a conquering force without. The mission of the Methodist Episcopal Church is to help the human race heavenward. What would have been the condition of our people, North and South, had it not been for the Old Church. She sent her heroes to the Southland to help us before the smoke of the Civil War had cleared away. Much of her achievements are due to the wise operation of the work of the Board of Church Extension. Many of the great men of the Church have been and are heralds of this great work. A simple glance back into the past ought to be enough to greatly increase our interests in Church Extension. The three thousand churches in which we preach and worship, aided by the Board of Church Extension, should appeal daily to the 97 Presiding Elders, 1,700 pastors and 300,000 members especially within the bounds of the twenty colored Conferences, with the sound of the trumpet calling attention to our duty to the Board of Church Extension, which has done and is doing so much for us. We can greatly increase our number of churches by rallying to our church planting agency.

The needs confronting us, say we ought. Duty says we must. We stand for more than a name and recipients in our church. We must help as never before to carry the financial burdens necessary to save the world. We have been looking long to the church for help and the church is proud of what she has been able to do for us. While we are not able to walk alone, we should make a strenuous effort in that direction.

To live up to our Methodist faith, we must believe in and support the cause of Church extension. One of the ways to extend the kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ is to build churches where they are needed. When you put a church in a community with a Godly man in the pulpit, you practically put into it a life saving station for the people. Building houses where the people may worship God opens the door, where mankind of every walk of life may commune with God; where the foundation of right living might be inspired and where future generations might have an example transmitted to them worthy of esteem and emulation.

The Board of Church Extension makes it possible that the needs of struggling congregations for a church home might be known to our Methodism.

The spirit of God has laid the cause of Church Extension upon the heart of many consecrated lives who sought Divine guidance in the gift of their means so that it might do the greatest good to the greatest number. The time has fully come when some of our colored men and women of means should give $250 or more to build a memorial church bearing the name of a sainted father or mother whose memory deserves to be perpetuated.

To give towards building a church among a poor struggling congregation will be giving to a cause that will help the present and future generations. When you make a large or small investment in Church Extension you are helping to save the world. If you desire to give to a cause where the result will tell in time and in eternity, help to plant a church where the condition of things indicates that the community is in great need of such a monument.

When you give towards Church Extension, you are helping to make things ready in the right direction for future generations. The Church Extension cause is so important and supplies such a great need that no minister or layman should fail to give annually all within his power for this benevolence. There should not be a single charge on any district, within the bounds of any Annual Conference, although ever so small numerically, that should fail to report a collection for Church Extension. If the cause is presented on its merit, and the people are told what the Board has done, we are confident that not a single pastor would need go to the Annual Conference without the Church Extension collection. We plead with the ninety-seven Presiding Elders of the twenty colored Conferences to take up the matter of the Church Extension collection with each pastor on his District. So that the record will show in the next minutes that the collections have been taken in full in every charge.

Every time the Board of Church Extension helps to erect a church it is material evidence of the spread of Methodism.

The only way to meet the necessity of the new work of the Church is to give liberall Church Extension. We have evidences on hand that our church is expanding. There to be something in it that makes every love it. How it should cheer us to know the Home Missionaries and self-sacr pastors are going forth gathering the peopl the kingdom of Christ, and in order to them together permanently, these worker appealing every day to the Board of C Extension to help them build churches. how much you can help to do for the Ma cause toward this important work. Make rifice of something you are going to bu let that money go into the Church Exte fund to help to respond to the Macedonian

The second Sunday in November Church Extension Rallying day. Let the day school scholars, Epworthians, members friends of the Church unite in one strong and make the collection as large as it has been and send the money immediately to M. King, Corresponding Secretary, 1026 Street, Philadelphia, Pa. The day shoul brim full of Church Extension interest as as information and cheerful giving. Whe it can be done, let a special Church Exte Rallying Song be prepared in each charge sung with enthusiasm. The pastor and Ch Extension Committee should begin at an date to work up the occasion. Send for Church Extension programs. We will measure up to our opportunity and ability we give for Church Extension much more our fathers and mothers were able to Thank God, we are moving up from the o bus giving. We have begun to recognize personality of each of our benevolent caus

Let each pastor preach a sermon on Church Extension cause, as required by Discipline. Let him put the Church Exte Committee to work at once and gather new cruits for the cause everywhere possible.

We have a great opportunity to prove gratitude for what has been done for us. Le use it, not only for conscience sake, but for benefit it shall be to future generations.

We will deal with the Loan Question in next article.

South Atlanta, Ga.

Woman's Home Missionary Society in Delaware Conference

By Mrs. L. A. Pullett, Corresponding Secretary

For what does the Woman's Home Missionary Society stand?

It stands for practical education.

It stands for the making of pure homes and good citizenship.

It stands for the development of Christian character.

What is this society doing?

It is maintaining schools and homes for the Christian education of girls and boys of all nationalities.

It is supporting hospitals, deaconess' homes, immigrant homes and rest homes for tired workers.

Our Conference Society has, in the five years of its existence, done as much as could be expected to help in all these directions.

The number of auxiliaries has increased to twenty-five. We cannot say that all these auxiliaries are in a oflurishing condition—most of them are; but a few, especially on the lower districts, are not very active at present, because they are not near enough to the center of the work to be easily reached. Several auxiliaries on the lower districts have sent in some of the best reports we have ever had.

The Centerville district, Mrs. F. H. Butler, corresponding secretary, has recently organized at Centerville. This auxiliary is doing splendid work, with twenty-seven members.

The Cambridge district has a new auxiliary, at Cambridge, starting with fifteen members. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. L. Martin, tells us that very great interest is manifested in the auxiliary, not only among the women, but among the men also.

The Salisbury district is still in line with Mrs. Laura Parker as corresponding secretary, who always brings up her conference money.

The Wilmington district is again alive. Mrs. M. J. O'Connell, the corresponding secretary, has done splendid work in creating interest, and also in raising funds.

The Philadelphia district is well organized, having fourteen auxiliaries. This district holds quarterly and annual meetings which have done much to stimulate the work.

The last annual meeting was held at Zoar, Philadelphia, from October 18th to 20th, 1904. The district was well represented and everything was done in a business-like way.

The Newark, Montclair and Orange auxiliaries have united in holding quarterly meetings, which have been very helpful.

Last year we had no Queen Esther Circles—now we have five, at Zoar, Bainbridge St., Chester, Newark, and Montclair, all of which are in excellent working order.

Our deaconesses are using every opportunity for service. Miss Valentine is employed in Baltimore, working in Sharp Street and Metropolitan Churches. Miss S. J. Gale is at Zoar, doing great work for Master. Miss Nettie W ams serves faithfully and successfully at John's Church, Newark. On the whole, work in the conference is making notable p gress.

We are very grateful to the pastors who h shown interest in our work, and appeal to th pastors who may not be so favorably impre ed with the work, to lend a helping hand encourage the women to organize and to h create sentiment in favor of our society. T W. H. M. S. is helping the pastors and not hi dering them, as some suppose.

Every pastor in the Delaware conference oug to have an auxiiary of the Woman'sl Home Mi sionary Socieay on his charge.

Every woman in the Delaware conferen ought to be a member of an auxiliary, because increases her power for good.

We are expecting to receive the heartyy su port of both pastors and members this comin year, and assure you we will do our best bring a report next year which will show grea er progress.

"We are born at home, we live at home, an we must die at home; so that the comfort an economy of home are of more deep, heart felt and personal interest to us than the publi affairs of all the nations of the world.'"

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

This My Life

I strike to keep me in the sun;
I pick no quarrel with the years,
Nor with the Fates—not e'en the one
That holds the shears.

I take Occasion by the hand;
I'm not too nice 'twixt weed and flower;
I do not stay to understand;
I take mine hour.

The time is short enough at best.
I push right onward while I may;
I open to the winds my breast,
And walk the way.

A kind heart greets me here and there;
I hide from it my doubts and fears.
I trudge, and say the path is fair
Along the years. .

—JOHN VANCE CHENEY, in The Independent.

The only epistle many read: "Ye are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read of all men."

Sin, like the gasoline automobile, always leaves a stench in its trail.

The dis-appointment may be his-appointment. Hence Paul declares: "I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, to be content."

Don't, as Webster used to say some preachers did, take your text from the Bible and your sermon from the newspapers. "Preach the Word."

Backsliding like coasting in winter time is easy and swift and down, and lands at the bottom all who go that way.

"Be angry and sin not" is not a honey-bearing blossom to the one who gets mad now and then. Temper that gets mad is carnal.

"New Testament standard of piety." Now just what do you mean by that? That there is a difference between that of the Old and New? It is a grave error to so think. The standard is the same in both and, being identical, that of of either will keep you out of the sin business.

"Will you cheerfully be governed by the rules of the Methodist Episcopal Church, hold sacred the ordinances of God and endeavor, as much as in you lies, to promote the welfare of your brethren and the advancement of the Redeemer's Kingdom?"

"Ans.: 'I will.'" Disc., page 304.

That is a solemn vow.

"Jordan is a hard road to travel."

Yes, that is so if undertaken alone. But with Jesus it is a way, on a highway, that is smooth, with no lion nor ravenous beast; that is no trouble, no danger, and a road on which "the ransomed of the Lord return and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads." With Jesus for your traveling companion, Jordon is an easy road to travel.

"O Lord, send the power." What kind? Power to do so that men will look on and wonder, or power to live godly, so that the joy of persecution shall be yours. There are various kinds of power. Purity is power. If it is purity you want, bless God, that is to be had for the asking. But if it is some indefinite working ability apart from purity of life, there will be no answer to your prayer.

Clean up or clear out would be a heroic measure. But listen: "And the mixed multitude that was among them fell a-lusting." "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart." "Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord." "And in that day there shall be no more the Canaanite in the house of the Lord."

The mixed multitude made the trouble. Cleanness is commanded. Only the clean will make the port. The Canaanite will be shut out.

Guard the Thoughts

Until you have learned to control your thoughts you will never be able to live a godly and righteous life. As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he; and it is because the thoughts that we entertain in the hostelry of the soul are such worthless and vain ones that our words and acts often bring so heavy a disgrace on the name we love. When the heart is right, the ear and the eye and the mouth and the foot will necessarily obey its promptings; but when the heart is wrong, filled with tides of ink, like the cuttle-fish, it will develop itself in the impurity to which it gives vent. * * * If you habitually permit evil things to have their right of way through you, or lodging within you, remember that in God's sight you are held equally guilty with those that indulge in evil acts, because you are withheld, not by your fear of Him, but by your desire to maintain your posititon among men.Rev. F. B. Meyer.

Unanswered Yet

BY EMMA SCHRADER.

Unanswered yet! That prayer I've made so long?
I thought, O Lord, thou would'st have granted me
My one petition; surely 'twas not wrong,
When thou didst bid me ask, to bring to Thee
This one request? Here on my bended knee
I pled for answer to the blessing sought,
For days and years I've sought it constantly
And still my prayer doth wing its flight, faith fraught,
And shall I then petition Thee and heaven for naught?

Ananswered yet! My prayer was for a gift
That would gladly take and use for Thee;
I prayed to have my limitations lift,
That mine a life of usefulness might be.
I thought, O Lord, that Thou would'st surely see
That it was wise, and answer my request,
That gladly thou would'st grant the gift to me;
And would it not have been the wisest, best,
That Thou deniest still my wished-for, strong behest?

Unanswered yet? No, not unanswered, soul,
'Twas surely answered in thy God's best way.
The clouds, that, darkling, o'er thy pathway roll,
Are big with mercies that to you convey
A richer blessing than you ask each day.
And is the gift a small one, that your will
Is God's? That if He answers yea or nay,
The answer satisfies the spirit still?
More than you ask He gives, your life with joy to fill.

Prayer

Go not, my friend, into the dangerous world without prayer. You kneel down at night to pray, and drowsiness weighs down your eyelids; a hard day's work is a kind of excuse, and you shorten your prayer, and resign yourself softly to repose. The morning breaks, and it may be you rise late, and so your early devotions are not done, or are done with irregular haste. No watching unto prayer! Wakefulness once more omitted; and now is that reparable? We solemnly believe not. There has been that done which cannot be undone. You have given up your prayer and you will suffer for it. Temptation is before you, and you are not ready to meet it. There is a guilty feeling on the soul, and you linger at a distance from God. It is no marvel if that day in which you suffer drowsiness to interfere with prayer be a day in which you shrink from duty. Moments of prayer intruded on by sloth cannot be made up. We may get experience, but we cannot get back the rich freshness and strength which were wrapped up in those moments.—Frederick W. Robertson.

"The sunshine of life is made up of very little beams that are bright all the time. To give up something when giving up will prevent unhappiness; to yield, when persisting will chafe and fret others; to go a little around rather than come against another; to take an ill look or a cross word quietly rather than resent or return it—these are the ways in which clouds and storms are kept off, and a pleasant and steady sunshine secured."

I see not any road of perfect peace which a man can walk, but after the counsel of his own conscience. Let him establish himself in those courses he approves. The unremitting retention of simple and high sentiments in obscure duties will harden the character to that temper which will work with honor, if need be, in the tumult or on the scaffold.—Emerson.

Sweet Hour of Prayer

Now let us repose from our care and our sorrow,
Let all that is anxious and sad pass away;
The rough cares of life lay aside till to-morrow,
And let us be tranquil and happy to-day.
Let us say to the world, should it tempt us to wander—
As Abraham said to his men on the plain—
There's the mountain of prayer I am going up yonder,
And tarry you here till I seek you again.

—JAMES EDMESTON.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—II. Cor. 11: 14.

Theme—Some Very Remarkable Things About the Devil.

(I.)

The devil is an old, sagacious and seemingly courageous creature of God. He knows how to change his garments and his mode of operations among the human race whom he would decoy, entrap and eternally destroy. Wheneva he wishes to catch a weak Christian he wears a mask of religion and sanctity. Often he puts on as best he can his lost habiliment of light, and by it attempts to deceive the very elect. In a fictitious manner he uses the livery of heaven to serve his own malicious purposes, that he may the better accomplish his dark and deadly designs. There are many remarkable things that can be said about the devil, a few of which we will mention in these two sermons.

The devil is a firm and constant believer. He believes in God the Father, Christ Jesus the Son, and in the Holy Ghost. He steadfastly believes all things taught in the Scriptures. He believes in good men and upright women, but he does not believe in base men and worthless women. The devil is always busy. He is ever at work attending to what he has decided to follow as a business, which he pushes with all his power early and late. He is never idle, neither does he employ idlers to do his work.

The devil is very energetic. He is an old fowler, a greedy wolf, a roaring lion, an artful sifter, a tireless, beguiling serpent, and a continuous sower of tares.

The devil is seemingly courageous. He three times attempted to entrap the Son of God, on a single occasion; he assaulted and overthrew Judas Iscariot in the very presence of Jesus his Savior; he dashed Peter almost to death while he sat and looked upon Jesus; he utterly destroyed Ananias and Sapphira, and he undertakes to build up all his works which Christ has destroyed.

The devil is persevering. God is against him, yet he as a deadly wounded bear is fighting to destroy the human race. Christ Jesus has fully and completely destroyed his works, yet he is still pursuing his course and persistently engaged in the same business of ensnaring souls. The Holy Spirit is everywhere present in the world for the purpose of putting his reign to an end—yet he is at work as though the day of Pentecost had not come.

Seventh International Epworth League Convention

Notes on the Progress of the League

By Secretary Penn.

We never had so many inquiries and so much correspondence on League work. All are writing at once. Keep it up. Will answer by and by. Mail received averages 20 letters a day. We are sending out on an average of 30 a day. The speeches at Conference on keeping in touch with headquarters are bearing fruit. Likewise, our correspondence direct with League officers is putting new life into the work.

* * * * * * *

We never had so many orders for League literature as now. Large orders, too. Keep it up. You can't make bricks without clay. Must have literature to work with.

* * * * * * *

Some of our friends have not had answers to their letters. Be patient. We are having more than we can do. We are answering now at the rate of 30 a day. Yours will be the next.

* * * * * * *

Send a list of your League officers with their postoffices addresses so we may write to them. Brother Pastor and President, it pays to do this. We can help you if you give us the names and CORRECT addresses. If in a city, give street and number; if R. F. D., state the number. Don't guess at addresses. Take time and get them. This office doesn't want to throw away postage.

Sunday, June 11, was spent at Winston-Salem, N. C., with Rev. G. W. Morehead and his people. The League and Book Concern is $25 better off in money by our being there, and we trust the League and people helped. It was a great day. St. Paul is a flourishing church. They are building a $20,000 church and it makes our old Methodist heart rejoice to see it. We talked with League cabinet officers. They have organized a League choir and are using our latest book, the "Joyful Praise." They helped on General Epworth League Expenses and in every way the stay was profitable to the church. Mrs. Lula B. Frieze is President and anxious for the greatest success in the League.

* * * * * * *

The unheard-of in our experience is an Epworth League mass meeting, at 10:30 a. m. on Monday. But that is just exactly what Pastor G. B. McLean and Epworth League President E. J. G. Collette, and the League, had at Charlotte Monday morning, June 12. The surprise is that so many were out. We had just four hours lay over in Charlotte and Brother McLean used us anyway. An outfit of literature has been bought, and judging from the unusual interest manifested, the League must go at the Charlotte church. God grant it may.

* * * * * * *

At Spartanburg, Monday night, we had the pleasure of addressing some of the genuine Methodists and Leaguers pastored by that prince among our young men, Rev. J. F. Page. No wonder he has success. There is order, system, consecration, talent and tact in that soul. Every cabinet officer was out and we had a cabinet conference after the address. President Thompson of the League, who is a postoffice employe of Spartanburg, outlined many features he had in mind for aggressive League work, and with such help as we were glad to give him, we are expecting things to be done at Spartanburg. As Spartans in Burg, they must DO THINGS.

* * * * * * *

We expect to have the Supplemental League literature especially adapted to our infant work in the South from the press in time for our fall Conferences. It will include the combination song book authorized by the Board of Control last November. More and more we are impressed with the need of simplifying our literature as to methods, suggestions and services that they may meet the special conditions that obtain among us.

We have decided that this must be done this summer so that it may be on sale at the Conferences beginning in the fall.

* * * * * * *

To all of our brethren who saw to it that the Epworth League and Junior League in their churches reported $1 on General Epworth League Expenses at the Conferences and who have reported this year already, since Anniversary day, we are greatly indebted. That our own Conference, the Washington, shoul lead all others in this respect is gratifying. If such genuine indorsement and substantial help upon the part of our brethren in the Washington Conference with whom we were born and reared means that they are pleased with what we have done thus far, we promise them to be even more watchful, that they shall have no less cause in the future for loyally and royally supporting us. Presiding Elders Gaines, Young, Peck, Waters, Hayes and Briggs were with their men every time in interest and desire for this cause.

* * * * * * *

Such reports as the brethren have made on General Epworth League Expenses enables us to say in our report at the Board of Control in July that we are taking care of three-fourths of all expenses, incident to the maintenance and operation of our office in Atlanta and the travel of the Secretary. Let us praise the Lord for such interest.

Conventions and Their Inspirational Effect

By I. L. Thomas, D. D.

Field Agent of the Board of Church Extension.

The object of a convention is to bring people together from various places to consider questions and subjects vital to the well being of the individual, organization or institution, especially is this true of a Christian convention.

We would therefore be very much disappointed if the young and inexperienced members of the convention would not be inspired by what they saw and the words and work of noted leaders who had been invited to contribute their wisdom and experience to the convention.

One of the first things that would impress the delegates upon their arrival at the convention city would be the broad principle of hospitality manifested by the many Christians interested and the welcome extended by the representatives of the commonwealth. Such action would inspire the delegates, especially those who had never witnessed such an occasion before, to return home with a larger heart for humanity.

Then the local preparation for entertainment and work of the convention would be a means of study for those who have had a limited experience in arranging for large gatherings. Such an object lesson would be inspiring. Then, enthusiasm would be an inspirational effect, because it is the current of life that animates all who would be deeply interested in the success of the convention. Then comes in turn for consideration the program arranged and the participants, an observation of which would give the young inexperienced conventioners a wider scope of the making of a great program and the importance of selecting the best talent to serve a great gathering from many places. A convention like the International Epworth League inspires each delegate to endeavor to know more about the League and Methodism; to do more in spreading the Kingdom of Christ; to live a consecrated life; to be a willing worker in lifting up humanity in general, and to be an example of that for which the League stands.

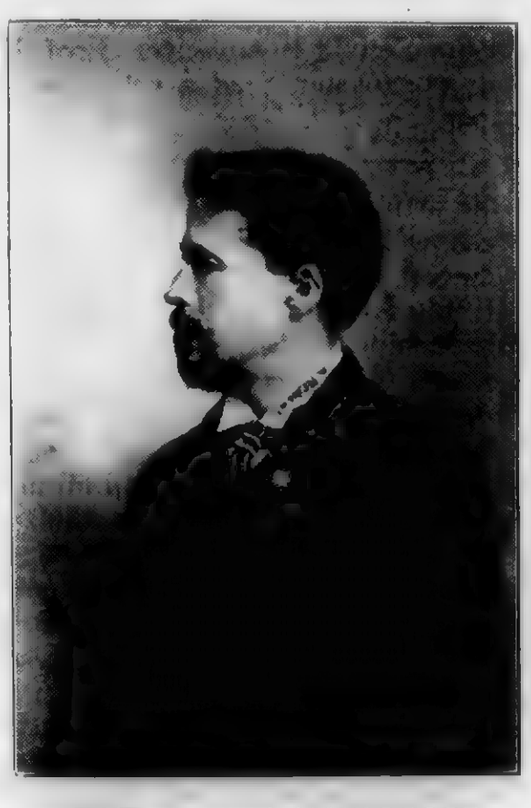
It is an inspiration to meet those after whom you have read with profit upon a subject in which you may have been personally interested and of course such is the inspiring privilege of many who go to conventions.

If you desire to be a blessing to the League at home, go to Denver, Col., July 3, and get full of inspiration for more aggressive service.

Past Delegations at International Conventions

By Secretary Penn.

Our International Epworth League Conventions have not been a help to any Epworth Leaguers or Methodists more than to those of our Conferences. From Toronto, 1897, to Denver, 1905, there is a chain of pleasant reminiscences concerning the attendance of our delegates and at each Convention some specific occurrence or occasion brings to our minds the Convention. From our standpoint, to decide which was the greater meeting for us is somewhat of a hard thing to do. At Toronto in 1897 we all remember what a representative delegation of our people invaded Canada for the first time. Our Canadian brethren gave us a genuine welcome. Up to that time, the Toronto delegation was the largest of our people in attendance upon any of the International Conventions. The next Convention, which was at Indiaapolis, 1899, was a record breaker in point of attendance. Our delegation was quite five hundred. This was to be expected in view of the proximity to the seat of the Convention. The San Francisco Convention of 1901 will ever be historic and of pleasant remembrance. So far as we know, it was the first time in our race history that a party of our people occupying a special Pullman car made a journey across the continent. One of the special features of that trip was the reception paid our delegation at Los Angeles and a special feature of the program was the great speech of Dr. I. B. Scott, now Bishop Scott of Africa. The bishop was then editor of the Southwestern. He made a hit for our people, as he always does, and it has ever been regarded as a feature of the Convention. Detroit, 1903, was also a great time for our people. From our thinking, the Sunday afternoon meeting at Bethel A. M. E. Church was one of the most helpful occasions it has ever been our pleasure to witness. We have attended many occasions where five-minute addresses were the features of the meeting, but none have equalled that occasion for variety of the thoughts presented by each speaker, for the splendid delivery of the addresses, and their acceptance by the great audience present.



If space and time permitted, many tangible evidences of progress in men and things could be easily traced to one or the other of our Conventions. We think we can safely say that not one of our ministers or delegates ever attended one of these great generators of enthusiasm for our Christian work who did not feel quickened and inspired to do greater service. In any movement where numbers act in concert, whether in an army or on the battlefield, in a political party or in church forces, there must be kept up the SPIRIT DE CORPS, else nothing great will be done. Our conventions have done this for our people in the past. Among our best and most influential as well as broad minded men in our Colored Conferences are those who have had contact with the Church at these Conventions and have observed her onward march in conquests for the world's salvation. Denver, 1905, will prove a blessing to all those who may go. Let us hope that our people may see it as a chance and an opportunity to see the Church on dress parade, touching hearts and heads for a greater victory tomorrow in God's name.

Our Delegates and Meeting Points

By Secretary Penn.

It is very desirable that our delegates enter Denver in a body. None of us who went on the Sunset Limited special to Los Angeles, Cal.,

PROF. R. S. LOVINGGOOD

can forget the pleasure experienced in being together on that trip. There was a chance for an exchange of thought, the meeting of each other socially and conferences on matters of the race and church which can never be forgotten and which were of the most helpful and profitable character. Come, then, let's go together. The delegates in Georgia will leave Atlanta Monday morning, July 3, reaching Birmingham over the Southern Railway at 11:25 and leaving Birmingham at 12:20, arriving at Tupelo at 4:49 p. m., Holly Springs at 6:40 p. m., and Memphis at 8:05 p. m. Alabama delegates can join us at Birmingham; Mississippi delegates at Tupelo and Holly Springs and Louisiana and Tennessee delegates at Memphis. Leaving Memphis at 8:25 p. m., we reach Kansas City Tuesday morning at 9:40. Missouri and Kansas City delegates, also those from Arkansas, will join us at Kansas City. We leave Kansas City via the Rock Island System at 11:20 a. m., Tuesday morning and arrive at Belleville, Kan., at 6:40 p. m., Tuesday. At Belleville, we will be joined by Texas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory delegates. Dr. Dogan, Prof. Lovinggood, Presiding Elder Taylor and Presiding Elder Franklin heading the forces from these States. The brethren in Kansas can join us at Topeka and other points en route on the Rock Island, and we reach Denver Wednesday morning at 8:30. In this way we can get to Denver and be in good time for the great Oratorio Elijah at Trinity M. E. Church on Wednesday night and the Convention proper on Thursday. The Convention opens Thursday July 6 at 10 a. m. Delegates who are going and desire to join the party will write us at once, addressing your letter to I. Garland, Penn., South Atlanta, Ga.

SLEEPER AT MEMPHIS.

We are arranging to have a Pullman sleeper at Memphis. The most of our delegates will be traveling in the day time on Monday to reach Memphis, so the sleeper will be in the depot at Memphis to begin the night trip, leaving there at 8:25 Monday night, July 3. The sleeping car rate from Memphis to Denver is $6, double berth, which will be $3 each. Let us know if you desire sleeper and if you will share with another or wish a berth to yourself.

Our Representation on Program

By Secretary Penn.

PROGRAM.

At Denver we are to have as large a representation upon the program as at any other Convention. Our people have been assigned places upon the program which will give them opportunity to be heard at the time and place when circumstances will be most favorable to a good impression. There are two sets of Negro Methodists sharing in the representation which comes to our race in the Convention. There are the people in our race in the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America. As for our thinking, when it comes to a great Convention of this kind, every Negro upon the program is akin to us and we pray for him that he may do credit not only to the branch of the Church he represents, but credit also to the race. Looking at it from a race point of view, there are five Negroes upon the program. Rev. George E. Stevens, A. M., Principal of the Virginia Collegiate and Industrial Institute at Lynchburg, Va., speaks in the First Congregational Church on Sunday night, and Prof. J. A. Bray, of Jackson, Tenn., at the Central Christian Church on the same evening. Prof. J. W. Gilbert, of Augusta, Ga., will represent the race upon the program at Coliseum Hall Friday night. On Sunday afternoon, in the Central Christian Church, at a Junior Epworth League rally, Mrs. Valena C. Jones of New Orleans, La., will speak. At the Coliseum Hall on Friday afternoon Prof R. S. Lovinggood, President of Sam Houston College, Austin, Texas, will preside. It will thus be seen that the assignments to our people are prominent ones, and when it is considered that there are three participating churches in the Convention representing numerically very large numbers, to have five places of so great importance and magnitude means much for us. There are also pulpit assignments for Sunday morning services and the great program for Sunday afternoon, when our people will meet especially Denver's representative Negro population in a great mass meeting. We will also be constantly before the Convention through the Morgan College-Princess Anne quintette, about which you will see in another article. The program from our side will do us credit. Get ready to go.

The Morgan College-Princess Anne Quartette

Among the most agreeable features of our Conventions heretofore has been the singing of Claflin University quintette who delighted us at two Conventions, Indianapolis and Detroit. We will never forget them. Every member of our race who has been to the Conventions felt a thrill of joy and inspiration as we have listened to the boys carry the crowd. We will not have Claflin at Denver, but another as good. Morgan College-Princess Anne Academy will send the quintette this time. They will be under the care of Prof. Frank Trigg, Principal of Princess Anne Academy. What a great treat the quintette will be to the Convention and what a message these young people will bring to the church of their training and uplift.

When we think of these opportunities opening to us, we wonder if we get the full significance of them. Let us hope that Morgan College and Princess Anne will get an advertisement such as it has never gotten in its history. Dr. J. O. Spencer, President, and Prof. Frank Trigg, Principal of Morgan College, and Princess Anne, deserve the greatest success, for they are doing a work for these schools such as has never been done before. Let us help men who are doing things for the cause they represent, and let us rally about them and make them succeed for the sake of what it means to the race. It is certain that the Delaware and Washington Conferences are doing this, for they are paying expenses and sending the quintette to Denver.

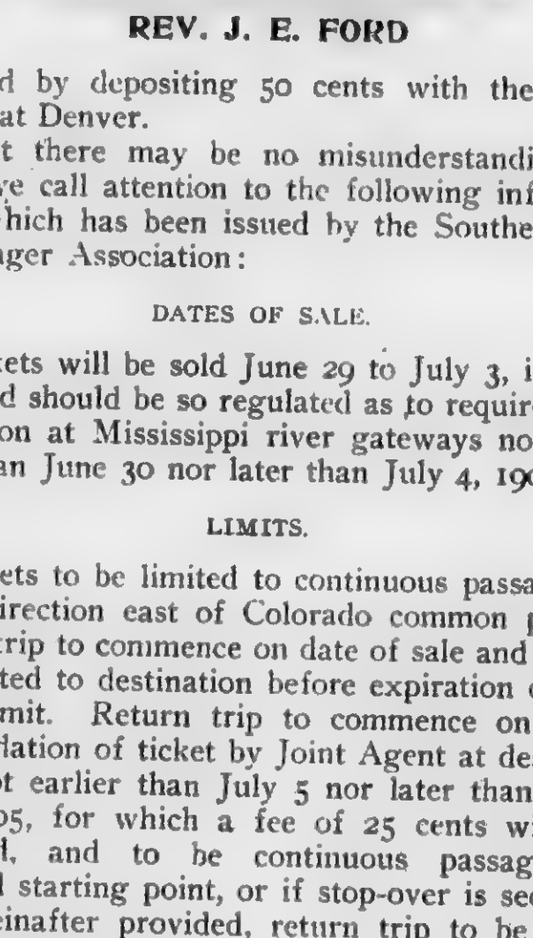
Side Trips

This is the greatest of opportunities for side trips of value and pleasure. It is genuine pleasure and profit to health to take in the Rocky Mountain scenery on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, from Denver to Salt Lake City, and over the Colorado Southern, The Colorado and Cripple Creek Railroad, and the Colorado and Northwestern Railroad. Each line is offering very fine inducements in low rates for these side trips. One may go from Denver to Colorado Springs, Manitou and Pike's Peak for at least $4 round trip, which will give him the trip to the top of Pike's Peak. Abundant opportunity for arranging these side trips may be had after arrival in Denver. The railroad lines will have representatives on the ground and all information can be had. It is the chance of a lifetime which every delegate ought to take. The writer has for three trips revelled in the delight, pleasure and profit of the mountain scenery and he knows whereof he speaks. Take everything in, which your money and time will allow.



Entertainment and Headquarters at Denver

Some will ask, why have a certain place specified as headquarters for the delegates of our race apart from the other delegates? It is easily answered. First: for the convenience of our delegates and for the fact that they will secure better and more satisfactory assignment and without delay.

Second: We desire entertainment for the most part among our people in Denver and our people in Denver desire to do everything possible for our comfort.

Third: It will give us a common meeting ground where we will be able to easily get together.

The headquarters for our delegates will be at the Zion Baptist Church, Rev. J. E. Ford, D. D., pastor. This church is situated on Twenty-eighth and Arapahoe streets within convenient reach of the depot. Our delegates who are going to Denver would do well to write Dr. Ford, 1921 Curtis Ave., Denver, Colo., and he will have your name and assignment ready for you. Dr. Ford is one of the most amiable of men, and we are assured that he will do everything possible for our comfort and entertainment. With him is Dr. Dyett of the Quinn Chapel A. M. E. Church, and Brother Williams of our own church.

Convention Sunday Afternoon in Denver, and the Social Hour

By Secretary Penn.
